miter box. Carp., etc. An apparatus for guiding a handsaw at the proper angle in making a miter joint in wood; esp., a wooden or metal trough with fixed or adjustable vertical kerfs in its upright sides.

Miter Box.

miter cap. Arch. The molded cushion of a newel post, into which the handrail is mitered.
miter clamp or cramp. A cramp to hold together a glued miter joint while the glue sets.—mi'ter (mi'tre)–clamped', mi'ter–cramped', adj.
mi'tered, mi'tred (mī'tĕrd), adj. 1. Entitled to wear, wearing, or adorned with, a miter.
2. Shaped like a miter; having an apex so shaped.
3. Bearing the representation of a miter. Rare.
mitered abbey. An abbey under a mitered abbot.
mitered abbot. R.C.Ch. An abbot whom the Pope has privileged to wear a miter. The mitered abbots were practically of episcopal rank, and in pre-Reformation England sat and voted in the House of Lords.
mi'ter·er (mī'tĕr·ĕr), mi'trer (-trĕr), n. One who or that which miters; esp., a tool or machine for forming miters or bevels. U. S.
mi'ter·flow'er, mi'tre·flow'er (mī'tĕr·flou'ĕr), n. The cyclamen. miter gear. See BEVEL GEAR. miter joint. Carp., etc. A joint formed by pieces matched and united upon a line bisecting the angle of junction, esp. when the pieces form a right angle.
mi'ter–lock', mi'tre–lock', v. t. To join by locked miter joints. miter mushroom. Any mushroom of the genus Helvella, esp. H. crispa; — so called from the shape of the pileus.
miter plane. Carp. A plane for general utility in angle and butt-joint making. miter post. The vertical member at the free or swinging end of a gate in a navigation lock.
miter shell. See MITRA, 3. miter sill. A raised step against which a canal-lock gate shuts.
miter square. Carp. A bevel with an immovable arm at an angle of 45°, for striking miter lines; also, a square with an arm adjustable to any angle, or a rigid square with a 45° bevel on the end of the stock.
miter valve. Mach. A valve consisting of a disk fitting in a conical seat faced at 45° to the valve axis.
miter wheel. Mach. Either of a pair of bevel gears, of equal diameter, adapted for working together.
mi'ter·wort', mi'tre·wort' (mī'tĕr·wûrt'), n. a Any plant of the genus Mitella. The capsule resembles a bishop's miter. b An annual herb (Cynoctonum mitreola), family Loganiaceae, of the southern U. S.
Mith'ra (mĭth'rȧ; mī'thrȧ), n. Mithras.
Mith·ra'ic (mĭth·rā'ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to Mithras or Mithraism. — Mith·ra'i·cism (-ĭ·sĭz'm), Mith·ra'i·cist (-sĭst), n. — Mi·thra'i·cize (-sīz), v. i.
Mith'ra·ism (mĭth'rȧ·ĭz'm), n. Rom. Relig. The religion of the worshipers of Mithras. — Mith'ra·ist (mĭth'rȧ·ĭst), n. & adj. — Mith'ra·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj.
Mith'ras (mĭth'răs; mī'thrăs), n. [L. & Gr. Mithras, fr. OPer. Mithra. Cf. MITRA.] A Persian god of the light of the middle zone, between heaven and hell, defender of truth, and chief helper of Ahura-Mazda in his struggle with the powers of darkness. Mithras was regarded as an earthborn or rockborn hero who captured and slew the divine bull (Mith'ras Tau·roc'to·nus [tôrŏk'tō·nŭs]) from whose body sprang all the plants and animals beneficial to man, who aided man against adverse nature, and was translated to heaven, there to watch over and aid the faithful until the day of his second coming. Cf. TAUROBOLIUM. The Mithras cult was celebrated in grottoes and underground chapels (Mith·rae'a [mĭth·rē'ȧ], sing. Mith·rae'um [-ŭm]). It was introduced into Rome in the time of Trajan, and was a prevailing religion among the Roman legionaries, being in the last days of paganism the most serious rival of Christianity.

Mithras Taurotonus, from an ancient shrine.

Mith'ra·ic (mĭth'rȧ·ĭk), adj. [LL. Mithriacus.] Mithraic. — n. A festival of Mithras. mith'ri·date (mĭth'rĭ·dāt), n. [ML. mithridatum, fr. LL. mithridatium.] Old Pharm. An antidote against poison; an alexipharmic; specif., an electuary, supposed to be a remedy or a protection against poison. See MITHRIDATISM. mithridate mustard. The pennycress.
Mith'ri·dat'ic (mĭth'rĭ·dăt'ĭk), adj. [L. Mithridaticus.] Of, pert. to, or like Mithridates VI (see MITHRIDATISM). mith'ri·da'tism (mĭth'rĭ·dā'tĭz'm), n. Med. Immunity from a poison, produced by administration of gradually increased doses of it. Mithridates VI, king of Pontus (d. 63 B.C.), is said to have produced this condition in himself. — mith'ri·dat'ic (-dăt'ĭk), adj.
mith'ri·dat'ize (-dăt'īz), v. t. To produce mithridatism in.
mit'i·ga·ble (mĭt'ĭ·gȧ·b'l), adj. That can be mitigated.
mit'i·gant (mĭt'ĭ·gȧnt), adj. & n. [L. mitigans, pres. part. of mitigare. See MITIGATE.] Mitigative; lenitive.
mit'i·gate (-gāt), adj. Mitigated. Obs.
mit'i·gate (-gāt), v. t. & i.; -GAT'ED (-gāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -GAT'ING (-gāt'ĭng). [L. mitigatus, past part. of mitigare to soften, mitigate, fr. mitis mild, soft; akin to OIr. mōith, mīn, Lith. mielas dear. Cf. MIGNONETTE.] 1. To render or become mild or milder; to mollify. Now Rare.
2. To moderate; to make or become less severe, violent, fierce, cruel, intense, harsh, rigorous, painful, etc.; to soften; appease; meliorate; diminish; lessen; temper; as, to mitigate heat or cold, grief, a punishment or an offense.
Syn. — See ALLEVIATE.
Ant. — Sharpen, aggravate. See INTENSIFY.
mit'i·ga'tion (-gā'shŭn), n. [ME. mitigacioun, fr. OF. mitigation, fr. L. mitigatio.] 1. Act of mitigating, or state of being mitigated; specif.: a Abatement or diminution of anything painful, harsh, severe, afflictive, or calamitous; alleviation; moderation; palliation; as, the mitigation of pain, grief, rigor, punishment. b Obs. A softening or qualifying, as of words; a qualification. c Obs. Propitiation; of an animal, taming.
2. A mitigating thing or fact.
Syn. — Abatement, diminution, mollification, relief.
Ant. — Intensification; increase.
mit'i·ga'tive (mĭt'ĭ·gā'tĭv), adj. [F. mitigatif, fr. LL. mitigativus.] Tending to mitigate; alleviating; lenitive. — n. That which mitigates; a soothing remedy.
mit'i·ga'tor (-gā'tĕr), n. One who or that which mitigates.
mit'i·ga·to'ry (mĭt'ĭ·gȧ·tō'rĭ; -gā'tō·rĭ), adj. & n. [L. mitigatorius.] Mitigative; palliative. mi'tis cast'ing (mī'tĭs; mē'tĭs). [Perh. fr. L. mitis soft, mild.] A process, invented by P. Ostberg, for producing malleable iron castings (mitis, or mitis metal); also, a casting made by this process; — called also wrought-iron casting.
Mi'tis green (mē'tĭs). [G. Mitisgrün, after the manufacturer, Ignaz Mitis of Kirchberg.] 1. Paris green, used as a pigment.
2. = EMERALD GREEN a.
mi'to- (mī'tō-; mĭt'ō-), mit-. A combining form, Greek mito-, mit-, from mitos, thread, as in mitosome, mitosis.
mi'to·chon'dri·a (mī'tō·kŏn'drĭ·ȧ; mĭt'ō-), n. pl.; sing. MITOCHONDRION (-ŏn); -DRIUM (-drŭm). [NL., fr. mito- + Gr. chondros grits, cartilage.] Biol. Chondriosomes; — used orig. and later specif. for such bodies having the form of granules or globules. — mi'to·chon'dri·al (-ăl), adj.
mi'to·ge·net'ic (-jē·nĕt'ĭk), adj. [mito- + -genetic.] Biol. Produced by mitosis; — said of certain ultraviolet rays thought to be given off by cells in acute physiological activity.
mi'tome (mī'tōm), n. [Gr. mitos a thread.] Biol. The reticulum of the protoplasm of a cell.
mi·to'sis (mī·tō'sĭs; mĭ-), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mitos a thread.] Biol. Cell division in which complex nuclear division, involving differentiation and halving of chromosomes, precedes cytoplasmic fission; indirect cell division; karyokinesis; — opposed to amitosis. Cf. MEIOSIS, 2. Typically, mitosis involves a series of steps: (1) prophase, during which diffuse resting chromosomes become discrete spiremes, split, and gradually condense into typical rod form while the centrioles of the centrosome separate and pass toward opposite poles of the nucleus as aster rays develop about them, the nuclear membrane disappears, a spindle forms between the centrioles, and spindle fibers attach to each chromosome half; (2) metaphase, in which the split condensed chromosomes are oriented in the equatorial plane of the spindle; (3) anaphase, during which the chromosome halves separate and pass to opposite poles of the spindle; and (4) telophase, which involves reorganization of the resting nuclei and centrosomes, disappearance of asters and spindle, and fission of the cytoplasm into two cells. Sometimes mitosis is restricted to nuclear changes and cytoplasmic fission is called cytokinesis. In higher plants centrioles are absent, resulting in modified spindle formation.

Mitosis. Successive stages of typical process. (After Wilson.) 1 Resting nucleus with chromatin forming a reticulum. A centrosome containing two centrioles above the nucleus. 2 Arrangement of the chromatin in elongated chromosomes. Development of asters and spindle. 3 Destruction of membrane enclosing nucleus, and attachment of fibers to the chromosomes. 4 Spindle completed. Chromosomes drawn into equator of spindle. 5 Split chromosomes separate. 6 Passage of halves to spindle poles, and division of centrioles. 7 Grouping of chromosomes at the spindle poles. Disappearance of aster rays and beginning of division of cell body. 8 Completion of the cell division. Resting nuclei formed as in Stage 1.

mi·to'some (mī'tō·sōm; mĭt'ō-), n. [mito- + 3d -some.] Biol. A threadlike cytoplasmic body believed to be derived from the spindle fibers of the preceding mitosis.
mi·tot'ic (mī·tŏt'ĭk; mĭ-), adj. Biol. Of or pertaining to mitosis; karyokinetic. — mi·tot'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.
mitotic figure. Biol. The spindle-shaped figure presented by the chromosomes, asters, etc., during mitosis.
mi'tra (mī'trȧ), n. [L. See MITER.] 1. Antiq. = MITER, 1.
2. Bot. a = GALEA, 3. b The thick rounded pileus of certain mushroom fungi.
3. [cap.] Zool. A genus of marine snails (suborder Stenoglossa). The species, which are especially numerous in the East Indies, are called miter shells. The genus is the type of a family, Mit'ri·dae (mĭt'rĭ·dē).

Mitra, 3 (M. episcopalis). (¼)

Mi'tra (mē'trȧ), n. Vedic Myth. A solar deity, associated with Varuna, and ultimately identical with the Persian Mithras.
‖mi'traille' (mē'trā'y'; mĭ·trāl'), n. [F. See MITRAILLEUSE.] 1. Small missiles, as bits of iron, grape, etc., esp. for loading cannon.
2. Smoked pearl.
‖mi'trail'leur' (mē'trȧ'yûr'), n. [F.] Mil. a An artilleryman who serves a mitrailleuse. b A mitrailleuse.
mi'trail·leuse' (mē'trȧ·ûz'; F. mē'trȧ'yûz'), n. [F., fr. mitrailler to fire grapeshot, fr. mitraille old iron, grapeshot, small coins, change, dim. of OF. mitre, mite, fragment, small coin. See MITE coin.] Mil. A breech-loading machine gun, using small projectiles, consisting of a number of barrels fitted together, so arranged that the barrels can be fired simultaneously or successively and rapidly, first used by the French army in the war of 1870 with Germany.
mi'tral (mī'trăl), adj. [F. See MITER.] Pertaining to, or resembling, a miter or the mitral valve.
mitral cell. Anat. Any of the pyramidal cells of the olfactory bulb about which terminate numerous fibers from the olfactory cells of the nasal mucosa.
mitral insufficiency. Med. The condition of leakage of the mitral valve of the heart.
mitral orifice. Anat. The left auriculo-ventricular orifice. mitral valve. Anat. In the heart, the valve which guards the opening between the left atrium, or auricle, and the left ventricle, and prevents the blood in the ventricle from returning to the atrium, or auricle; — called also bicuspid valve. It consists of two triangular flaps attached at their bases to the fibrous ring which surrounds the opening and connected at their margins with the ventricular walls by the chordae tendineae and papillary muscles.
mi'trate (mī'trāt), adj. [L. mitratus wearing a turban, fr. mitra.] Suggestive of a miter (sense 1) or bonnet in shape.
mi'tri·form (mī'trĭ·fôrm), adj. [NL. mitriformis.] Bot. & Zool. Miter-shaped.
Mit'su·ku·ri'na (mĭt'sōō·kōō·rī'nȧ), n. [NL., after Kakichi Mitsukuri of the University of Tokyo.] Zool. A genus of sharks having the snout prolonged into a flat blade extending far beyond the mouth. A single species, the goblin shark (M. owstoni), is known, from Japan. It constitutes a family, Mit'su·ku·ri'na·dae (-rĭn'ĭ·dē).
mit'su·ma'ta (mĭt'sōō·mā'tȧ), n. [Jap., lit., three-forked.] A low shrub (Edgeworthia papyrifera), family Thymelaeaceae, of temperate Asia, cultivated in Japan for its bark used in paper-making. mits'voth (mĭts'vōth), n., pl. of MITSVAH. See MITZVAH mitt (mĭt), n. [Abbr. fr. mitten.] 1. A kind of glove without fingers or with short fingers, covering the wrist and main part of the hand; specif., Baseball, a kind of glove protected on the palm side by a large mitten-shaped pad.
2. = MITTEN, 1. b Slang. A hand.
Mit'tel–eu·ro'pa (mĭt'ĕl·oi·rō'pȧ), n. [G.] Central Europe, esp. that portion of Europe which the advocates of Pan-Germanism purposed to form into one great empire.
mit'tel·hand' (mĭt'ĕl·hänt'), n. [G., middle hand.] In skat, the second player on the first trick; the one who makes the first bid to vorhand.
Mit'tel·meer' (mĭt'ĕl·mär'), n. [G. See MIDDLE; 4th MERE. Cf. MEDITERRANEAN.] 1. The Mediterranean.
2. Geol. The sea, of which the Mediterranean is a remnant, which connected the Atlantic and Pacific in Eocene time.
mit'ten (mĭt'n), n. [ME. mitaine, meteyn, fr. OF. mitaine, fr. (assumed) VL. medietana, prop., (a mitten) divided in the middle (between thumb and fingers), fr. medietas middle. See MOIETY; cf. MITT.] 1. A covering for the hand, worn to protect it from cold or injury. It differs from a glove in not having a separate sheath for each finger, but has a division for the thumb.
2. A glove, esp. a thick worsted one. Chiefly Scot.
3. pl. Slang. a Rare. The hands. b Boxing gloves.
4. = MITT, 1.
5. A kind of glove extending only to the knuckles; a mitt.
— to get, or give, the mitten. To be refused or jilted, or to refuse or jilt, as a lover. mit'ten, v. t. To jilt. Colloq., U. S. mit'tened (-'nd), adj. Covered with, or wearing, mittens.
mit'ti·mus (mĭt'ĭ·mŭs), n. [L., we send, fr. mittere to send.] Law. 1. a A writ formerly used in England for directing the trial of a cause in a county palatine. b A warrant of commitment to prison. c A writ for removing records from one court to another.
2. Brit. a One's dismissal or discharge. b A magistrate. mit'ti·mus, v. t. To send to jail on a mittimus. Eng.
mit'tle (mĭt'l), v. t. [Cf. F. mutiler.] Mutilate; hurt. Scot.
Mit'tler's green (mĭt'lĕrz). 1. A variety of chrome green.
2. The color Guignet's green.
mit'ty (mĭt'ĭ), n. A stormy petrel. Local, Eng.
Mi'tu (mī'tū), n. [NL., fr. Sp. mitú, fr. Guarani mitú.] Zool. a A genus of South American curassows. b [not cap.] (pron. mī'tū; mĭt'ū). A bird of this genus, esp. M. mitu.
Mi'tu·a (-ȧ), n. Syn. of MITU. mit'y (mĭt'ĭ), adj. [FROM MITE.] Infested with mites. mitz'vah, mits'vah (mĭts'vä), n.; pl. MITZVOTH, MITSVOTH (-vōth). [Heb. mitsvāh commandment.] Jewish Relig. 1. A Biblical or rabbinic commandment.
2. A meritorious performance, as of a religious or civic duty or a humanitarian or charitable act; a good deed.
3. A privilege of assisting in the ritual in a synagogue.

---

mi'ter-joint'ed, mi'tre-joint'ed (66), adj. See -JOINTED. miter shooting board. See SHOOTING BOARD. mith (mĭth). Var. of might, past tense of MAY. Chiefly Scot.
Mith'cah (mĭth'kä). Bib.
mither (mĭ'thĕr). Dial. Eng. var. of MOTHER. mith'er (mĭth'ĕr). Scot. var. of MOTHER.
Mith'garth' (mĭ'th'gär'th'). Var. of MIDGARD.
Mith'gar'thr (-gär'thr'). Vars. of MIDGARD. mith·kal'. Var. of MISKAL.
Mith·nite (-nĭt). Bib.
Mith'ra·it'ic, adj. = MITHRAIC.
Mith'ra·ize, v. i. See -IZE.
Mith·rat'ic, adj. = MITHRAIC.
Mith're·dath (mĭth'rē·dȧth). Bib. mitigal. ✝ MISKAL.
mit'i·gat'ed caus'tic. See SILVER NITRATE. mit'i·gat'ed·ly, adv. of mitigated.
mit'i·ga'tiv. Mitigative. Rare. Sp. mit'ing (mĭt'ĭng), n. [From MITZ.] A little creature. Obs.
mit·kal'. Var. of MISKAL. mi'tre (mī'tĕr), mi'tred (-tĕrd), etc. Vars. of MITER, MITERED, etc. [Eng.] mi'trer (mī'trĕr), n. = MITERER Mit'ri·dae (mĭt'rĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. See MITRA, 3.
Mitsch'er·lich's eu'di·om'eter (mĭch'ĕr·lĭks). See EUDIOMETER.
Mitscherlich's law. [After Eilhard Mitscherlich, Ger. chemist.] = ISOMORPHISM, 2. mits'vah. Var. of MITZVAH.

mi·u'rus (mī-ū'rŭs), n. [LL. miurus versus, fr. Gr. meiouros (sc. stichos), fr. meiōn less + oura tail.] A dactylic hexameter having its last foot an iambus or pyrrhic instead of a spondee or trochee. Cf. DOLICHURUS.

mix (mĭks), v.; MIXED (mĭkst) or MIXT; MIX'ING. [From earlier mixt, past part., fr. F. mixte, fr. L. mixtus, past part. of miscere; akin to Lith. maišyti, Gr. misgein, mignynai, Skr. miśra mixed, OIr. mescaim I mix; also to AS. miscian, G. mischen, which, however, are perh. fr. L., miscere. Cf. ADMIX, COMMIX, 2d MASLIN, MEDDLE, MESTIZO, PROMISCUOUS.] Transitive: 1. To cause a promiscuous interpenetration of the parts of, as of two or more substances with each other, or of one substance with others; to unite or blend into one mass or compound, as by stirring together; hence, to mingle; blend; as, to mix flour and salt.

Fair persuasions mixed with sugared words. Shak.

2. To put in as an ingredient. Obs.

3. To unite with in company; to join; associate; unite.

Ephraim, he hath mixed himself among the people. Hos. vii. 8.

4. To form by mingling; to compound.

I have chosen an argument mixed of religious and civil considerations. Bacon.

—, Intransitive: 1. To be mixed; to become united into a compound; to mingle; to admit of being mixed.

2. To associate; to mingle; to have intercourse (with); to join, as in battle; also, to have sexual intercourse (with).

3. Breeding. To cross.

Syn. — See MINGLE.

mix up. a To mix intimately; intermingle.

That problem, closely as it is mixed up with the one immediately before us. James Ward.

b To join or associate unsuitably or the like; to confuse; as, to mix up facts and illusions. c To associate (with inferior or disreputable persons); to involve (in some discreditable affair); — chiefly in passive. d Pugilism. To come into close quarters; to exchange blows rapidly.

mix (mĭks), n. 1. Act or result of mixing; also, state of being mixed or confused

2. A mixture; as: a Colloq. A muddle or mess. b Slang. A fight. c A commercial preparation of mixed ingredients; as, an ice-cream mix.

3. Civ. Engin. A mixture of materials to form concrete or mortar.

4. Steel Mfg. A formula, often empirical, giving the proportions and constituents of a mixture, as of scrap, charcoal, ferro-alloy, etc., for making steel.

mix'blood' (mĭks'blŭd'), n. Also mix blood. Anthropol. A half-breed. Hrdlička.

Mix'co-a'tl (mēks'kō·ä'tˈl, mēs'-), Mix'co·hua'tl (-wä'tˈl), n. [Nahuatl, fr. mixtli cloud + coatl, cohuatl, serpent.] A star god of the Aztecs, patron of hunters.

Mix'e (mē'hā; 260), n.; pl. MIX'ES (mē'hās). The western branch of the Zoquean linguistic family. See ZOQUEAN.

mixed (mĭkst), adj. [For mixt, fr. F. mixte, fr. L. mixtus. See MIX, v.] 1. Formed by mixing; mingled; blended.

2. Made up of dissimilar parts, qualities, or the like; not pure or simple; also, combining good and bad elements or qualities; as, mixed motives; mixed descent.

3. Consisting of individuals of various kinds as to birth, character, etc.; hence, not select; — said of groups.

4. Characterized by the union of features of two or more of the recognized classes or systems (aristocracy, democracy, monarchy, etc.); — said of governments, etc.

5. Applied; not pure; — said of sciences, esp. mathematics.

6. Made up of, or involving the action of, persons of both sexes; as, a mixed school; mixed doubles in lawn tennis.

7. Confused or muddled, esp. with drink.

8. Bot. Combining racemose and cymose formations, as the thyrsus of the lilac; — said of an inflorescence.

9. Law. Designating property, actions, statutes, or the like that involve relations with two or more classes of property, rights, etc.; as, a mixed action.

10. Med. Mingled; combining features or exhibiting symptoms of varieties of disease; as, mixed infection.

11. Phonet. = CENTRAL, adj., 4.

☞ For many mixed phrases, see the second word.

mixed arch. An arch struck from several centers.

mixed chalice. Eccl. The wine in the Eucharist when water is added to it.

mixed commission. Polit. Science. A commission composed of representatives of both sides of a matter in dispute, often established to determine boundaries, etc.

mixed concomitant. See CONCOMITANT, n., 3.

mixed court. = MIXED TRIBUNAL.

mixed crystal. Chem. A crystal composed of a mixture of substances.

mixed'-cy'cle en'gine. Thermodyn. See INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE.

mixed decimal. See DECIMAL, n.

mixed ether. Chem. See ETHER, 2 b.

mixed foursome. See FOURSOME, n., 1.

mixed fraction. = MIXED NUMBER. Obs.

mixed gland. Anat. & Physiol. A mucoserous gland.

mixed glyceride. Chem. See GLYCERIDE.

mixed grill. Several broiled meats and vegetables, as a lamb chop, kidney, bacon, mushroom, and tomato, served on one plate.

mixed ketone. Chem. See KETONE.

mixed mail and plate armor. See ARMOR, 1 b.

mixed marriage. A marriage between persons of different races or religions.

mixed metaphor. A metaphor combining two or more inconsistent or incongruous figures, as that in:

To take arms against a sea of troubles. Shak.

mixed mode. a Music. See MODE, 7. b Philos. In Locke's use: A mode resulting from the combination of simple ideas of different classes.

mixed motion. Music. See MOTION, n., 15 b.

mixed nerve. Physiol. A nerve containing both sensory and motor fibers.

mixed nuisance. See NUISANCE, 2.

mixed number. Math. Sum of an integer and a fraction.

mixed person. Law. A person who has a twofold or manifold legal status, as the British king or queen, who has both an ecclesiastical and a temporal status, or jurisdiction.

mixed plan or method. Life Insurance. The plan or method of conducting the business of life insurance in which the company has a paid-up capital in addition to its accumulated assets, and a small portion of the profits is awarded to the proprietors or shareholders, the remainder going to the assured, as in the mutual plan.

mixed proportion. Math. Proportion by composition and division.

mixed ratio. Math. = MIXED PROPORTION.

mixed reflection. See REFLECTION.

mixed salt. Chem. A salt derived from more than one base or more than one acid, as sodium potassium carbonate, $NaKCO_3$, or calcium chloronitrate, $Ca(Cl)NO_3$.

mixed time. Music. See TIME, n., 22.

mixed tithes. See TITHE.

mixed treaty. Internat. Law. See TREATY.

mixed tribunal. Law. A court made up of native and foreign judges for administration of justice as between persons of different nationalities. Specif. [usually caps.], such a court established in Egypt in 1876.

mixed vessel. Bot. A vessel exhibiting both spiral and annular thickening.

mix'en (mĭk's'n), n. [AS.; akin to AS. meox dung, filth, G. mist, Goth. maihstus, AS. mīgan to make water, L. mingere, meiere, Gr. omichein, Skr. mehati he urinates, OSlav. mězga sap. Cf. MASH, MICTURATE, MISTLETOE.] A dunghill; a manure heap; a heap of refuse, or the like. Archaic & Dial.

mix'er (mĭk'sĕr), n. One who or that which mixes; specif.: a A person who mixes things; as: (1) A workman who performs such an operation in some manufacturing process. (2) U. S. A bartender. b A machine or contrivance for mixing; as: (1) Mach. A valve in which fuel is mixed with air on its way to the cylinders of an internal-combustion engine. (2) Metal. A storage tank from which molten pig iron drawn from blast furnaces can be transferred to an open-hearth furnace or a converter. c Colloq., U. S. A person viewed as to his casual sociability; as, a good mixer; a bad mixer. d Western U. S. A social gathering to make numbers of people acquainted.

☞ PHRASES are concrete mixer, paint mixer, tea mixer.

mix'er-ess (mĭk'sĕr-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female mixer.

mix'-Hel'lene, n. A person of mixed Hellenic and barbarian blood.

mix'hill (mĭks'hĭl'), n. A mixen, or dunghill. Dial. Eng.

-mix'is (-mĭk'sĭs). Biol. A combining form, from Greek mixis, a mingling, denoting intermingling in reproduction, as in apo*mixis*. Cf. -GAMY.

mix'ite (mĭk'sīt), n. [After A. Mixa, inspector of mines in Bohemia.] Mineral. A green-to-whitish basic copper bismuth arsenate.

mix'o- (mĭk'sō-). A combining form, Greek mixo-, from mixis, a mingling, denoting mixed, as in *mixo*trophic.

mix'o·bar·bar'ic (mĭk'sō·bär·bär'ĭk), adj. [Gr. mixobarbaros half barbarian half Greek.] Semibarbaric.

mix'o·chro'mo·some (-krō'mō·sōm), n. Biol. A chromosome supposed to be formed by the complete fusion of conjugating synaptic mates.

Mix'o·dec'tes (-dĕk'tēz), n. [NL., fr. mixo- + Gr. dēktēs, fr. daknein to bite.] Paleontol. A genus of insectivores having very large incisors, from the lower Eocene of the U. S. It is the type of a family, Mix'o·dec'ti·dae (-dĕk'tĭ·dē).

mix'o·lyd'i·an mode (mĭk'sō·lĭd'ĭ·ăn). [mixo- + Lydian.] Music. See MODE, 7.

Mix'o·sau'rus (mĭk'sō·sô'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. mixo- + -saurus.] Paleontol. A genus of reptiles of Triassic age, similar to Ichthyosaurus, but with less fully developed paddles.

mix'o·troph'ic (mĭk'sō·trŏf'ĭk), adj. [mixo- + -trophic.] Physiol. Deriving nourishment in part from outside sources, as hemiparasitic plants. Cf. AUTOTROPHIC, HETEROTROPHIC.

Mix'tec (mĭks'tĕk), Mix·te'co (mēs·tā'kō), Mix·te'ca (-kä), n. An Indian of a Mexican people of eastern Guerrero and western Oaxaca. Their language is classed as Zapotecan. Cf. NAHUA. — Mix·te'can (mēs·tā'kăn), adj.

mix'ti·form (mĭks'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. mixtus mixed + -form.] Of a mixed form or character. Rare.

mix'ti·lin'e·al (-lĭn'ē·ăl), mix'ti·lin'e·ar (-ēr), adj. [L. mixtus mixed + E. lineal, linear.] Containing, or consisting of, lines of different kinds, as straight, curved, and the like.

mix'tion (mĭks'chăn), n. [F., fr. L. mixtio, mistio. See MISTION, MIX.] 1. = MIXTURE, 1, 2, 3, & 6 c. Obs.

2. A kind of cement made of mastic, amber, etc., used as a mordant for gold leaf.

mix'ture (mĭks'tûr; 249), n. [F., fr. L. mixtura, fr. miscere, mixtum, to mix. See MIX.] 1. Act, process, or instance of mixing; also, state of being mixed; as, made by a mixture of ingredients.

2. Act of adding as an ingredient; presence of a heterogeneous ingredient in a composition; admixture.

3. That which results from mixing different ingredients together; a compound; also, a medley.

There is also a mixture of good and evil wisely distributed by God, to serve the ends of his providence. Atterbury.

4. a A fabric consisting of threads of various colors, mixed. b A preparation consisting of two or more ingredients mixed; as, a freezing mixture. c A combination of several different kinds of some article of consumption, as tea or tobacco; as, a smoking mixture.

5. Interbreeding; crossing.

6. Obs. a Mixed character. b Sexual intercourse. c = 2d MIXT. d Social association.

7. Mach. The explosive charge of inflammable gas or vapor and air, for an internal-combustion engine.

8. Music. = MIXTURE STOP. See STOP, n., 18 b.

9. Pharm. Any aqueous liquid medicine; a potion; technically, a preparation in which insoluble substances are suspended in watery fluids by the addition of a gum, sugar, glycerin, or other viscid matters.

10. Physics & Chem. A complex of two or more ingredients which do not bear a fixed proportion to one another and which, however thoroughly commingled, are conceived as retaining a separate existence; — contrasted with compound. Mechanical mixtures, that is, those whose components are separable by mechanical means, are in general easily distinguishable from chemical compounds, but the class called physical mixtures, or solutions (gaseous, liquid, and solid), occupies an intermediate position.

mix'ty-max'ty (mĭks'tĭ·măks'tĭ), adj. [Reduplication of mixt, mixed.] Jumbled together; confused. — n. A heterogeneous mixture. Both Chiefly Scot.

mix'-up', n. A confusion; also, a conflict or melee. Colloq.

mix'y (mĭk'sĭ), adj. Confusedly mixed; fit to mix.

Mi'zar (mī'zär), n. [Ar. mi'zar veil, cloak.] Astron. A star, Zeta (ζ) Ursæ Majoris, of the second magnitude, the middle star of the handle of the Great Dipper, forming with its smaller star, Alcor, a visual double, while Mizar is itself a telescopic double, and its brighter component is a spectroscopic binary. See URSA MAJOR, Illust.; STAR, Table.

miz'maze' (mĭz'māz'), n. [See MAZE.] 1. A maze. Obs.

2. Confusion; bewilderment. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

Miz'pah (mĭz'pä; -pô), or Miz'peh (-pĕ), n. [Heb. mitspeh.] Literally, watchtower; — name of several towns or regions in ancient Palestine; also, in modern use, after Gen. xxxi. 49, a parting salutation. Sometimes used as a talismanic inscription on rings. Hence, Mizpah ring.

Miz'ra·im (mĭz'rā·ĭm), n. 1. Bib. Egypt.

2. In rabbinic use, figuratively, slavery or oppression.

miz'zen (mĭz'n), adj. [See MIZZEN, n.] Naut. Of or pertaining to the mizzenmast; as, the mizzen shrouds.

miz'zen (mĭz'n), n. [F. misaine foresail, fr. It. mezzana, fr. mezzano middle. See MEZZANINE.] Naut. a A fore-and-aft sail set on the mizzenmast. Cf. 3d DANDY, 5 a; JIGGER, 16 c; SPANKER, 5. b A mizzenmast. c = 3d DANDY, 5 a.

miz'zen·mast' (-măst'; naut. -mŏst), n. Naut. The aftermost mast in a two-masted vessel (yawl or ketch), and in a three-masted vessel (ship, bark, barkentine, and schooner), and the third mast in a vessel having four or more masts.

miz'zen·mast'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One whose duty is at the mizzenmast.

miz'zen·top'man (-tŏp'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One of the division of a crew assigned to the mizzenmast and above.

miz'zle (mĭz'l), v. t. & i.; MIZ'ZLED (-ld); MIZ'ZLING (-lĭng). [Late ME. miselen; cf. D. dial. miezelen, LG. miseln; akin to E. MIST.] Now Dial. To rain in very fine drops; to drizzle. — n. Mist; fine rain; drizzle. — miz'zly (mĭz'lĭ), adj.

miz'zle, v. i. [Cf. Shelta misli to go.] Slang. To take oneself off; to disappear suddenly; slink away; decamp; also, Dial. Eng., to give up. — miz'zler (-lĕr), n.

miz'zle, v. t. [Cf. MIZMAZE.] To confuse; misinform. Now Dial.

miz'zle, v. t. [Cf. MEASLES.] Scot. To make spotted; to speckle. — miz'zly (mĭz'lĭ), adj.

miz'zo·nite (mĭz'ō·nīt), n. [G. mizzonit, fr. Gr. meizōn greater; — the vertical axis being longer than in meionite.] Mineral. A member of the scapolite group intermediate between meionite and marialite, containing 54 to 57 per cent of silica; specif., a volcanic variety occurring in clear crystals.

miz'zy (mĭz'ĭ), n. [Cf. MOSS.] A bog or quagmire. Dial.

Mjöll'nir (myŏl'nĕr), Mjöll'nir (myûl'-), n. [ON.] Norse Myth. Thor's hammer. See THOR.

mlech'chha (mlĕch'chä), n. [Skr. mleccha.] Hinduism. A foreigner; one not a Hindu.

mne'me (nē'mē; 173), n. [Gr. mnēmē memory; akin to E. MIND.] The effect of past experience of the individual or of the race, which persists or is recurrent. — mne'mic (nē'mĭk; nĕm'ĭk), adj.

Mne'mi·op'sis (nē'mĭ·ŏp'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mnēmē memory + -opsis.] Zool. A genus of ctenophores of the family Mnemiidae.

mne·mon'ic (nē·mŏn'ĭk), adj. [Gr. mnēmonikos, fr. mnēmōn mindful, remembering, fr. mnasthai to remember. See MIND.] 1. Assisting, or intended to assist, memory; of or pertaining to mnemonics.

2. Of or pertaining to memory.

mne·mon'ic (nē·mŏn'ĭk), n. 1. A mnemonic device.

2. Mnemonics.

mne·mon'i·cal·ist (-ĭ·kăl·ĭst), n. A mnemonist.

mne·mon'i·cal·ly, adv. of MNEMONIC, MNEMONICAL.

mne·mon'i·con (nē·mŏn'ĭ·kŏn), n. [Gr. mnēmonikon, neut. of mnēmonikos. See MNEMONIC.] A mnemonic device.

mne·mon'ics (-ĭks), n. See -ICS. [Gr. ta mnēmonika.]

1. The art of improving the efficiency of the memory.

2. pl. Mnemonic figures or characters.

mne'mo·nism (nē'mō·nĭz'm), n. Practice of mnemonics. — mne'mo·nist (-nĭst), n.

mne'mo·nize (nē'mō·nīz), v. t.; -NIZED (-nīzd); -NIZ'ING (-nīz'ĭng). To make mnemonic; to express mnemonically — mne'mo·ni·za'tion (-nĭ·zā'shŭn; -nĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

Mne·mos'y·ne (nē·mŏs'ĭ·nē; nē·mŏz'-), n. [L., fr. Gr. mnēmosynē remembrance, memory, and the goddess of memory. See MNEMONIC.] Gr. Myth. A Titaness, goddess of memory. She was mother of the Muses by Zeus.

mne'mo·tech'ny (nē'mō·tĕk'nĭ), n. [Gr. mnēmē memory + technē art.] Mnemonics. — mne'mo·tech'nist (-nĭst), n.

-mnesia. Psychol. A combining form from amnesia, denoting a (specified) type or condition of memory, as in cryptomnesia, panmnesia.

mne'sic (nē'sĭk), adj. [Gr. mnēsios.] Of or relating to memory; as, a mnesic, or memory, image.

-mnesis. A combining form from Greek mnēsis, remembrance, as in hypermnesis.

mnes'tic (nĕs'tĭk), adj. [Gr. mnēstis memory.] Pertaining to memory or mneme.

Mne'vis (nē'vĭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Mneuis, fr. Egypt. Ur-mer.] Egypt. Myth. An incarnation of Ra as a black bull, at Heliopolis.

Mni·a'ce·ae (nĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mnium + -aceae.] Bot. A family of usually rather large, erect mosses (Bryales) widely distributed chiefly in temperate regions. See MNIUM. — mni·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

mni'oid (nī'oid), adj., Bot. Like a moss of the genus Mnium; also, Rare, by extension, resembling any moss.

Mni'um (nī'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mnion moss.] Bot. a A genus of mosses (family Mniaceae) resembling Bryum but larger and with usually horizontal capsules. b [not cap.] Any moss of this genus.

mo (mō), adj., adv., & n. [AS. mā. See MORE.] More; further; other; greater number. Obs. exc. Dial.

-mo (-mō). A suffix added to certain numerals, or to their names, to indicate the number of leaves made by folding a sheet of paper, as in sixteen*mo* or 16*mo*, eighteen*mo* or 18*mo*. It is taken from the Latin forms similarly used, as duodecimo, sextodecimo, etc. A small circle, placed after the number and near its top, is often used for -mo; as, 16°.

mo (mō), n.; pl. MOS (mōz). A book, or volume; — short for DUODECIMO, etc.

mo, n. Short for MOMENT. Slang.

---

mitz'voth, n. pl. of MITZVAH. mix'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE. — mix'a·ble·ness, n. [TURBINE.] mixed'-flow' tur'bine. See mix'ed·ly (mĭk'sĕd·lĭ; mĭkst'lĭ; 119), adv. of MIXED.
mix'ed·ness (mĭk'sĕd·nĕs; mĭkst'nĕs; 119), n. See -NESS. mix'es, n., pl. of MIX. [MAXTY.] mix'ey-max'y. Var. of MIXTY-mix'i·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
mix'ie-max'ie. Var. of MIXTY-MAXTY. mixt, v. t. [L. mixtus, past part. See MIX.] To mix. Obs.
mixt, n. [L. mixtum, neut. past part.; cf. F. mixte.] A compound. Obs.
mixt. Var. of MIXED, past tense & past part. of MIX, v.
mix'ter-max'ter, mix'tie-max'tie. Vars. of MIXTY-MAXTY. mix·til'ion (mĭks·tĭl'yŭn), n. [ML. mixtilio.] = MASLIN, mixed grain. mixt'ly. Var. of MIXEDLY. mixture curve. Colorimetry. = ELEMENTARY EXCITATION CURVE. See COLOR, n., 2. mixture stop. See STOP, n., 18 b. mix'y-max'y. = MIXTY-MAXTY.
Mi'zar (mī'zär), n. [Ar. mi'zar veil, cloak.] Astron. A star, Zeta (ζ) Ursæ Majoris, of the second magnitude, the middle star of the handle of the Great Dipper, forming with its smaller star, Alcor, a visual double, while Mizar is itself a telescopic double, and its brighter component is a spectroscopic binary. See URSA MAJOR, Illust.; STAR, Table.
miz'maze' (mĭz'māz'), n. [See MAZE.] 1. A maze. Obs.
2. Confusion; bewilderment. Chiefly Dial. Eng.
Miz'pah (mĭz'pä; -pô), or Miz'peh (-pĕ), n. [Heb. mitspeh.] Literally, watchtower; — name of several towns or regions in ancient Palestine; also, in modern use, after Gen. xxxi. 49, a parting salutation. Sometimes used as a talismanic inscription on rings. Hence, Mizpah ring.
Miz'ra·im (mĭz'rā·ĭm), n. 1. Bib. Egypt.
2. In rabbinic use, figuratively, slavery or oppression.
miz'zen (mĭz'n), adj. [See MIZZEN, n.] Naut. Of or pertaining to the mizzenmast; as, the mizzen shrouds.
miz'zen (mĭz'n), n. [F. misaine foresail, fr. It. mezzana, fr. mezzano middle. See MEZZANINE.] Naut. a A fore-and-aft sail set on the mizzenmast. Cf. 3d DANDY, 5 a; JIGGER, 16 c; SPANKER, 5. b A mizzenmast. c = 3d DANDY, 5 a. miz'zen·mast' (-măst'; naut. -mŏst), n. Naut. The aftermost mast in a two-masted vessel (yawl or ketch), and in a three-masted vessel (ship, bark, barkentine, and schooner), and the third mast in a vessel having four or more masts.
miz'zen·mast'man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One whose duty is at the mizzenmast.
miz'zen·top'man (-tŏp'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One of the division of a crew assigned to the mizzenmast and above.
miz'zle (mĭz'l), v. t. & i.; MIZ'ZLED (-ld); MIZ'ZLING (-lĭng). [Late ME. miselen; cf. D. dial. miezelen, LG. miseln; akin to E. MIST.] Now Dial. To rain in very fine drops; to drizzle. — n. Mist; fine rain; drizzle. — miz'zly (mĭz'lĭ), adj.
miz'zle, v. i. [Cf. Shelta misli to go.] Slang. To take oneself off; to disappear suddenly; slink away; decamp; also, Dial. Eng., to give up. — miz'zler (-lĕr), n.
miz'zle, v. t. [Cf. MIZMAZE.] To confuse; misinform. Now Dial.
miz'zle, v. t. [Cf. MEASLES.] Scot. To make spotted; to speckle. — miz'zly (mĭz'lĭ), adj.
miz'zo·nite (mĭz'ō·nīt), n. [G. mizzonit, fr. Gr. meizōn greater; — the vertical axis being longer than in meionite.] Mineral. A member of the scapolite group intermediate between meionite and marialite, containing 54 to 57 per cent of silica; specif., a volcanic variety occurring in clear crystals.
miz'zy (mĭz'ĭ), n. [Cf. MOSS.] A bog or quagmire. Dial.
Mjöll'nir (myŏl'nĕr), Mjöll'nir (myûl'-), n. [ON.] Norse Myth. Thor's hammer. See THOR.
mlech'chha (mlĕch'chä), n. [Skr. mleccha.] Hinduism. A foreigner; one not a Hindu.
mne'me (nē'mē; 173), n. [Gr. mnēmē memory; akin to E. MIND.] The effect of past experience of the individual or of the race, which persists or is recurrent. — mne'mic (nē'mĭk; nĕm'ĭk), adj.
Mne'mi·op'sis (nē'mĭ·ŏp'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mnēmē memory + -opsis.] Zool. A genus of ctenophores of the family Mnemiidae.
mne·mon'ic (nē·mŏn'ĭk), adj. [Gr. mnēmonikos, fr. mnēmōn mindful, remembering, fr. mnasthai to remember. See MIND.] 1. Assisting, or intended to assist, memory; of or pertaining to mnemonics.
2. Of or pertaining to memory.
mne·mon'ic (nē·mŏn'ĭk), n. 1. A mnemonic device.
2. Mnemonics.
mne·mon'i·cal·ist (-ĭ·kăl·ĭst), n. A mnemonist.
mne·mon'i·cal·ly, adv. of MNEMONIC, MNEMONICAL.
mne·mon'i·con (nē·mŏn'ĭ·kŏn), n. [Gr. mnēmonikon, neut. of mnēmonikos. See MNEMONIC.] A mnemonic device.
mne·mon'ics (-ĭks), n. See -ICS. [Gr. ta mnēmonika.]
1. The art of improving the efficiency of the memory.
2. pl. Mnemonic figures or characters.
mne'mo·nism (nē'mō·nĭz'm), n. Practice of mnemonics. — mne'mo·nist (-nĭst), n.
mne'mo·nize (nē'mō·nīz), v. t.; -NIZED (-nīzd); -NIZ'ING (-nīz'ĭng). To make mnemonic; to express mnemonically — mne'mo·ni·za'tion (-nĭ·zā'shŭn; -nĭ·zā'shŭn), n.
Mne·mos'y·ne (nē·mŏs'ĭ·nē; nē·mŏz'-), n. [L., fr. Gr. mnēmosynē remembrance, memory, and the goddess of memory. See MNEMONIC.] Gr. Myth. A Titaness, goddess of memory. She was mother of the Muses by Zeus.
mne'mo·tech'ny (nē'mō·tĕk'nĭ), n. [Gr. mnēmē memory + technē art.] Mnemonics. — mne'mo·tech'nist (-nĭst), n.
-mnesia. Psychol. A combining form from amnesia, denoting a (specified) type or condition of memory, as in cryptomnesia, panmnesia.
mne'sic (nē'sĭk), adj. [Gr. mnēsios.] Of or relating to memory; as, a mnesic, or memory, image.
-mnesis. A combining form from Greek mnēsis, remembrance, as in hypermnesis.
mnes'tic (nĕs'tĭk), adj. [Gr. mnēstis memory.] Pertaining to memory or mneme.
Mne'vis (nē'vĭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Mneuis, fr. Egypt. Ur-mer.] Egypt. Myth. An incarnation of Ra as a black bull, at Heliopolis.
Mni·a'ce·ae (nĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mnium + -aceae.] Bot. A family of usually rather large, erect mosses (Bryales) widely distributed chiefly in temperate regions. See MNIUM. — mni·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.
mni'oid (nī'oid), adj., Bot. Like a moss of the genus Mnium; also, Rare, by extension, resembling any moss.
Mni'um (nī'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mnion moss.] Bot. a A genus of mosses (family Mniaceae) resembling Bryum but larger and with usually horizontal capsules. b [not cap.] Any moss of this genus.
mo (mō), adj., adv., & n. [AS. mā. See MORE.] More; further; other; greater number. Obs. exc. Dial.
-mo (-mō). A suffix added to certain numerals, or to their names, to indicate the number of leaves made by folding a sheet of paper, as in sixteen*mo* or 16*mo*, eighteen*mo* or 18*mo*. It is taken from the Latin forms similarly used, as duodecimo, sextodecimo, etc. A small circle, placed after the number and near its top, is often used for -mo; as, 16°.
mo (mō), n.; pl. MOS (mōz). A book, or volume; — short for DUODECIMO, etc.
mo, n. Short for MOMENT. Slang.
m'-mul'ti·ple point. See MULTIPLE POINT a. mna (m'nä; nē), n. [L. & Gr.] = MINA, a weight.
M'-Naght'en's case. Also Mc-Naught'en's, Mc-Naught'en's. See INSANITY, n., 2.
Mna'son (nä'sŏn; m'nä'-). Bib. mne·mon'i·cal, adj. = MNEMONIC, adj., 1. mne'mo·tech'nic (nē'mō·tĕk'nĭk), mne'mo·tech'ni·cal, adj., = MNEMONIC, adj. [MNEMONICS.] mne'mo·tech'nics (-nĭks), n. = Mnes'theus (nĕs'thūs). D. Bib.
Mni'o·til'ti·dae (nĭ'ō·tĭl'tĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mniotilla, earlier Miniotilla, fr. Gr. mnion moss + tillein to pluck, pull.] Zool. Syn. of COMPSOTHLYPIDAE.

Mo (mō), n. = MOLE, the Sudanic language of the Mossi.

mo (mō), n. sing. & pl. [Jap. mō, fr. Chin. (Pek.) mao[2] a hair.] See MEASURE, Table; WEIGHT, Table.

mo'a (mō'ä), n. [Native name.] Any of numerous extinct flightless ratite birds confined to New Zealand and constituting a family, Dinornithidae, and a separate order, Dinornithiformes, of Neornithes. The species are mostly large, the largest (Dinornis robustus) about 12 feet in height and the smallest (Anomolopteryx parva) about the size of a turkey. They are supposed to have been exterminated by the natives (who ate their flesh) about 500 years ago.

Moa (Dinornis novaezealandiae). (1/80) mo'ab (mō'ăb), n. A kind of turban-shaped hat. Archaic.

Mo'ab-ite (mō'ăb-ĭt), n. [LL. Moabites, fr. Gr. Mōabitēs, fr. Heb. Mō'ābī.] a One of an ancient Semitic people closely related to the Hebrews, dwelling east of the Dead Sea. Gen. xix. 37. b The Semitic language of ancient Moab, closely akin to Hebrew. See SEMITIC LANGUAGES, Table.

Mo'ab-ite, adj. Of or pertaining to Moab or the Moabites or their language. See MOABITE, n.

Mo'ab-it'ess (-ĭt'ĕs; 119), n. A female Moabite. Ruth i. 22.

Moabite stone. A block of black basalt, discovered at Dibon in Moab by Rev. F. A. Klein, August 19, 1868, which bears an inscription of thirty-four lines, dating from the 9th century B.C. and written in the Moabite alphabet, an important representative of the Phoenician script. (See ALPHABET; cf. TYRIAN.) It records the victories of Mesha, king of Moab, esp. those over Israel (2 Kings iii. 4, 5, 27).

Characters from the Moabite Stone.

Mo'ab-it'ic (mō'ăb-ĭt'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or like, the Moabites.

Mo'ab-it'ish (mō'ăb-ĭt'ĭsh), adj. Like, or pertaining to, the Moabites. — n. The Moabite language.

moan (mōn), n. [ME. mone, mon, mane, fr. (assumed) AS. mān; cf. AS. mǣnan to complain, prob. same as mǣnan to recite, tell. See 3d MEAN.] 1. a Lamentation; complaint; now, a low prolonged sound, articulate or not, indicative of pain or of grief. b Any similar low mournful or murmuring sound.

Rippling waters made a pleasant moan. Byron.

2. A state of lamentation; sorrow; grief. Obs.

Syn. — See GROAN.

moan, v.; MOANED (mōnd); MOAN'ING. [From MOAN, n.] Transitive: 1. To bewail audibly; to lament; bemoan.

Ye floods, ye woods, ye echoes, moan
My dear Columbo, dead and gone. Prior.

2. To condole with; to pity. Obs.

3. To cause to lament; to distress. Rare. J. Fletcher.

4. To utter with lamentation or wailingly.

—, Intransitive: 1. To lament; to complain; now, to make a low prolonged sound of grief or pain; to groan softly.

Unpitied and unheard, where misery moans. Thomson.

2. To emit a sound like a moan; as, the wind moans.

moan'ful (-fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. 1. Full of moaning; expressing sorrow or grief; of a song, etc., plaintive; sad.

2. Productive or provocative of lamentation. Obs.

— moan'ful-ly, adv.

moan'i-fi-ca'tion (mōn'ĭ-fĭ-kā'shŭn), n. Grieving; moaning; lamentation.

Mo-a'ri-a (mō-ä'rĭ-ä; 79), n. [NL., fr. MOA.] Biogeog. A supposed former continental area now represented only by New Zealand and adjacent parts of Polynesia. — Mo-ar'i-an (-är'ĭ-ăn), adj.

moat (mōt), n. [OF. mote hill, dike, bank (F. motte clod, turf), of obscure, perh. Teut. or Celt., origin. Cf. MOTE a height.] 1. Fort. A deep and wide trench around the rampart of a castle or other fortified place, usually filled with water; a ditch.

2. A lake or pond. Obs. exc. Dial.

moat, v. t. To surround with or as with a moat.

mob (mŏb), n. [See 1st MOP; cf. MOBCAP, 2d MOBLE.] 1. Obs. a A prostitute. b Undress; a dishabille.

2. A mobcap; as, a Brussels lace mob.

mob, v. t. & i.; MOBBED (mŏbd); MOB'BING. [See 1st MOB; cf. MOP to wrap up.] To wrap up the head of, as in a hood; to dress negligently. Obs.

mob, n. [L. mobile vulgus, the movable common people. See MOBILE, n.] 1. The lower classes of a community; the populace, or the lower part of it; the masses.

2. The, or a, disorderly element of the populace; the rabble; hence, a promiscuous collection of people; a crowd.

3. Riotous or low people in a crowd; — without the. Obs.

4. A heterogeneous collection (of objects). Colloq.

5. A flock, drove, or herd, as of ducks, horses, sheep, or cattle; — originally Australian.

6. Slang. a A criminal set, as of pickpockets or gangsters, working together; a gang; also, one of these. b Clique; set; group.

mob (mŏb), v.; MOBBED (mŏbd); MOB'BING. Transitive: 1. To crowd about, as a mob, and attack or annoy; to attack in a mob; as, to mob a house or a person.

Mobbed by all the gossips of the town. C. Kingsley.

2. To mix with a mob. Tennyson.

3. To scold; abuse; taunt; ridicule; jeer at. Dial. Eng.

—, Intransitive: To form, or gather in, a mob.

mob (mŏb), adj. Of, pert. to, or characteristic of, a mob.

mob'ber (mŏb'ĕr), n. One who mobs.

mob'bish (-ĭsh), adj. Characteristic of a mob; lawless; also, Obs., characteristic of, or attractive to, the lower classes; vulgar; as, a mobbish act. — mob'bish-ly, adv. — mob'bish-ness, n.

mob'bism (mŏb'ĭz'm), n. Mobbish conduct. — mob'bist (-ĭst), n.

mob'by, mob'bie (mŏb'ĭ), n. [Perh. of negro origin. Cf. MABBY.] 1. A spirituous liquor distilled from sweet potatoes. West Indies.

2. Fruit juice for distilling brandy; also, the brandy so made.

mob'cap' (mŏb'kăp'), n. [From MOB a mobcap.] A cap or headdress for women; esp., one having a full crown and frills, and fastened under the chin. Chiefly Hist.

Mobcap.

mo'bed (mō'bĕd), n. [Per. maubad, mūbad, mūbid.] A Parsi priest of the second rank. India.

mob'i-le (mŏb'ĭ-lē; mō'bĭ-lē), n. [L. mobile vulgus. See MOBILE, adj.; cf. 3d MOB.] The mob; populace. Now R.

mo'bile (mō'bĭl; -bēl; 155; 277), adj. [F., fr. L. mobilis, fr. movere to move. See MOVE.] 1. Capable of being moved; movable. "Fixed or else mobile." Skelton.

2. Characterized by an extreme degree of fluidity; as, ether and mercury are mobile liquids.

3. Characterized by ease of movement; as: a Changing readily in appearance and expression under the influence of the mind or feelings; as, mobile features. b Easily moved in feeling, purpose, or direction; changeable; also, versatile.

The quick and mobile curiosity of her disposition. Hawthorne.

4. Obs. a Wandering, as vision. b Not fixed, as planets.

5. Mil. Capable of being readily and rapidly moved about.

6. Physiol. Capable of being moved, aroused, or excited.

Syn. — See MOVABLE. Ant. — Rigid, stiff, inflexible.

mo'bile, n. 1. Something that occasions movement or action; — in the phrases first, grand, great, etc., mobile, English adaptations of primum mobile (which see). Obs.

2. An automobile, esp. one propelled by steam. Colloq., U.S.

3. A moving or movable body; esp., Mech., a mobile or movable part, as a running gear or pinion wheel.

mobile militia. Mil. A category of troops in the Italian scheme of national defense. See ARMY ORGANIZATION.

mobile station. Radio. A transmitting station on a ship, aircraft, or other vehicle.

Mo'bile ter'ra-pin (mō'bēl; 66). The mobilianer.

Mo-bil'i-an (mō-bĭl'ĭ-ăn; 159), adj. Relating to Mobile, Ala.; specif., designating an Indian trade jargon, based on Choctaw, formerly a lingua franca in the Gulf States.

mo-bil'i-an'er (mō-bĭl'ĭ-ăn'ĕr), n. [From Mobile, Ala.] A large edible fresh-water turtle (Pseudemys alabamensis) of the southern United States.

mo-bil'i-ar'y (mō-bĭl'ĭ-ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr-ĭ; -yĕr-ĭ), adj. [F. mobiliaire. See MOBILE, adj.] 1. Pertaining or relating to movables. Local, Eng.

2. Mil. Pertaining to mobilization.

mo-bil'i-ar'y, adj. Of or pertaining to furniture.

mo-bil'i-ty (mō-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. mobilité, fr. L. mobilitas.] 1. Quality or state of being mobile; capacity or facility of movement; movableness; as, the mobility of a liquid, of an army, of features, or of labor.

2. The measure of the rate at which a solid is deformed under stress after the yield point has been exceeded.

mo'bi-li-za'tion (mō'bĭ-lĭ-zā'shŭn; mŏb'ĭ-; -lĭ-zā'shŭn; 277), n. [F. mobilisation.] Act of mobilizing, or rendering movable; specif.: a Act of assembling, equipping, and preparing military and naval forces for active hostilities. b Hence, figuratively, the assembly and making ready of various things, as resources, for use. c A putting into movement or circulation, as of wealth or (Physiol.) of sugar in the blood stream. d Law. Conversion of real or immovable property into personal or movable property.

mo'bi-lize (mō'bĭ-līz; 277), v.; -LIZED (-līzd); -LIZ'ING (-līz'ĭng). [F. mobiliser.] Transitive: 1. To render mobile, or movable; to put into movement or circulation.

Goods in this way may be mobilized like money. Dict. of Political Economy.

2. Mil. & Nav. To assemble and put in a state of readiness for active service in war, as an army corps or a fleet.

3. Fig., to assemble and make ready for use, as resources.

—, Intransitive: To undergo mobilization.

mo'bil-om'e-ter (mō'bĭl-ŏm'ĕ-tĕr), n. [See MOBILE; -METER.] An apparatus for determining the consistency of plastic materials such as paint, mayonnaise, etc.

Mō'bi-us's sheet (mū'bĭ-ōōs-ĭz). [After A. F. Möbius, Ger. mathematician.] Math. A one-sided surface formed by holding one end AB of a rectangle ABCD fixed, rotating the opposite end CD through 180° and then applying it to AB (C falling on A and D on B).

mo'ble (mō'b'l), adj. [ME. also moeble, fr. OF mueble, moble, adj. & n. (F. meuble).] Movable; as, moble goods. Obs. — n. Movables; furniture; — chiefly in pl. Obs.

mo'ble (mŏb'l), v. t. [From MOB to wrap up.] To wrap or muffle the head of, as in a hood. Obs. exc. Dial.

mob-oc'ra-cy (mŏb-ŏk'rä-sĭ), n.; pl. -CIES (-sĭz). [mob rabble + -cracy as in democracy.] 1. Rule of the mob.

2. The mob as a ruling class; a ruling or governing mob.

mob'o-crat (mŏb'ō-krăt), n. One who favors mobocracy; a mob leader. — mob'o-crat'ic (-krăt'ĭk), -i-cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj.

mob-ol'a-try (mŏb-ŏl'ä-trĭ), n. [mob rabble + -latry.] Worship of the mob.

mobs'man (mŏbz'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. A member of a mob.

2. A pickpocket; usually, with swell, one of a gang of stylishly dressed pickpockets. Slang, Eng.

Mob'u-la (mŏb'ū-lä), n. [NL., of uncert. origin.] Zool. A genus of large rays, containing imperfectly known species of warm seas. It is closely related to Manta (see DEVILFISH, 1), and is the type of a family, Mo-bu'li-dae (mō-bū'lĭ-dē), in which Manta is also contained.

Mo'by Dick' (mō'bĭ dĭk'). The short title of a story of whaling, Moby Dick, or the White Whale (1851), by Herman Melville.

moc'ca-sin (mŏk'ä-sĭn), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Massachuset mohkisson, Narraganset mocussin.] 1. a A heelless shoe of soft leather, the sole of which is brought up the sides of the foot and over the toes, where it is joined with a puckered seam to a U-shaped piece lying on top of the foot. This type of footwear is worn by aborigines in all cold countries and is the distinctive shoe of the American Indian. b A regular shoe having a lap seam on the forefront of the vamp imitating the seam of the true moccasin.

2. Any venomous snake (pit viper) of the genus Agkistrodon, esp. A. piscivorus (see WATER MOCCASIN). The upland moccasin of the southern United States is probably a dark variety of the copperhead. Certain harmless water snakes of the genus Natrix resemble the moccasins in color, and are commonly mistaken for them.

3. The color argus brown.

moccasin flower. a A well-known North American orchid (Fissipes acaulis) with two large basal leaves and a solitary pink or sometimes white moccasin-shaped flower; — called also pink lady's-slipper (see WILD FLOWERS, Plate). b Any species of the related genus Cypripedium (which see). The moccasin flower Cypripedium reginae is the State flower of Minnesota. See STATE FLOWER, Plate.

Moccasin Flower (Fissipes acaulis).

moccasin plant. = MOCCASIN FLOWER.

moc'ce-ni'go (mŏk'sē-nē'gō), n. [It. (Venetian) mocinego, fr. the name of a doge.] A Venetian coin worth about a franc. Obs.

moch (mŏk; mŏk), n. [Cf. MOTH.] A moth. Scot.

Mo'cha (mō'kä), n. 1. A town of Arabia, on the Red Sea.

2. A variety of coffee. See COFFEE, 2.

3. [not cap.] a A leather made from the skin of an Arabian goat, used esp. for fine gloves. b A soft pliable leather made by frizzing off the grain of a skin.

4. The color bark.

Mo'cha dol'lar (mō'kä). A former Arabian money of account equal to about 82 cents of a Spanish dollar (about 1s. 8d. or $.41).

Mocha stone. Moss agate.

Mo'cha-stone' moth. Any of several species of brown moths (family Notodontidae), of the genus Melalopha, esp. M. inclusa, whose larva feeds on poplars and willows.

Mo-chi'ca (mō-chē'kä), n. The language of the Yuncas.

mo'chras (mō'chrăs), n. [Hind. mocras, fr. Skr. mocarasa.] An exudation from the bark of an East Indian silk-cotton tree (Bombax malabaricum).

moch'y (mŏk'ĭ; mōk'ĭ), adj. [From obs. moch moist. Cf. MOKE fog.] Moist; damp; misty; muggy. Scot.

mock (mŏk; 185), v.; MOCKED (mŏkt); MOCK'ING. [ME. mokken, fr. OF. mocquer (F. moquer), of uncert. origin, prob. not connected with F. se moucher to blow the nose; cf. Sp. mueca grimace.] Transitive: 1. To treat with scorn or contempt; to deride; ridicule.

Elijah mocked them, and said, Cry aloud: for he is a god. 1 Kings xviii. 27.

Let not ambition mock their useful toil. T. Gray.

2. To disappoint the hopes of; to deceive; delude.

Thou hast mocked me, and told me lies. Judg. xvi. 13.

3. To defy; disregard.

Such a headstrong, potent fault it is,
That it but mocks reproof. Shak.

4. To imitate; mimic; counterfeit; esp., to mimic in sport, contempt, or derision; to deride by mimicry.

To see the life as lively mocked as ever Still sleep mocked death. Shak.

5. To pretend; feign; simulate. Obs.

Mocking marriage with a dame of France. Shak.

—, Intrans.: To make sport in contempt or jest; to scoff.

When thou mockest, shall no man make thee ashamed? Job xi. 3.

She had mocked at his proposal. Froude.

Syn. — Taunt, jeer, disappoint. See RIDICULE, IMITATE.

mock (mŏk; 185), n. 1. An act of ridicule or derision; a sneer; a jibe; as, to make a mock at (Now Rare), to mock or deride; to make a mock of, to treat with contempt.

Fools make a mock at sin. Prov. xiv. 9

2. An object of, or worthy of, ridicule, derision, or scorn.

3. Mockery; ridicule; derision; as, in mock.

4. Imitation; mimicry; also an imitation; counterfeit.

mock (mŏk), adj. Imitating reality, but not real; sham.

That superior greatness and mock majesty. Spectator.

☞ The adjective is also frequently applied to a thing thought to resemble a thing denominated by the noun qualified; as, mock turtle soup; the mock nightingale.

mock, n. [Origin uncert.] Dial. Eng. a The stump and root of a tree; a large block or stick. b A tuft of grass or sedge.

mock, mock'ground (mŏk'ground'), n. Anglo-Irish. A piece of land held in conacre. Oxf. E. D.

mock-a'do (mŏ-kä'dō), n. [It. mocaiardo. See MOHAIR.] 1. A textile, probably a woolen pile fabric, worn chiefly by commoners in the 16th and 17th centuries.

2. Inferior or imitative stuff; trumpery; mockery.

mock'age (mŏk'ĭj; 185), n. Mockery; that which is mocked; also, mimicry; an imitation. Obs.

mock apple. The wild balsam apple.

mock auction. A Dutch auction; also, a sham auction.

mock'-beg'gar, n. One who mocks beggars; — applied esp. to a house presenting the appearance of wealth, but vacant or inhabited by poor or miserly persons. Obs.

mock'bird' (mŏk'bûrd'), n. Local, Eng. 1. A bird that mocks, esp. the mockingbird.

2. a The sedge warbler. b The blackcap.

mock bishop's-weed. A slender American marsh herb (Ptilimnium capillaceum).

mock bisque. A soup made of tomato and milk, with butter and flour to resemble a bisque.

mock brawn. = HEADCHEESE.

mock chervil. a Wild chervil. b Lady's-comb.

mock cucumber. The wild balsam apple.

mock cypress. A densely branched Eurasian herb (Kochia scoparia), cultivated in gardens for its foliage.

mock duck. Meat, as pork chops, prepared to resemble duck.

mock'er (mŏk'ĕr; 185), n. One who or that which mocks; as: a A scoffer. b A deceiver. c A mimic. d A mockingbird.

mock'er-nut' (mŏk'ĕr-nŭt'; 185), n. A smooth-barked North American hickory (Carya alba); also, its nut.

mock'er-y (-ĭ), n.; pl. -ERIES (-ĭz). [F. moquerie.] 1. Insulting or contemptuous action or speech; derision.

The laughingstock of fortune's mockeries. Spenser.

2. A subject of laughter, derision, or sport.

3. Mimicry; imitation; a counterfeit appearance; now, an insincere, contemptible, or impertinent imitation.

4. That which is ridiculously or impudently unsuitable.

It is, as the air, invulnerable,
And our vain blows malicious mockery. Shak.

mock gillyflower. The soapwort Saponaria officinalis.

mock'-he-ro'ic, adj. Ridiculing or burlesquing the heroic style, character, or action; as, a mock-heroic poem. — n. A mock-heroic composition or utterance. — mock'-he-ro'i-cal, adj. — mock'-he-ro'i-cal-ly, adv.

Mo'a-di'a (mō'd-dĭ'd). D. Bib.
Mo'a-di'ah (-d). Bib. moan. † MAUND. India.
moand. Moaned. Ref. Sp.
moan'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of MOAN. — moan'ing-ly, adv.
moan'less, adj. See -LESS.
moap. † MOPE.
moar'le. † MOORY.
moat. † MOTE, n. [CHAUT.] Mo'a-tcaht. Var. of MOOA-TOATE. † MOTE, MUTE, n. moat'hill. Var. of MOTE HILL.
Mo-at'ta-lite (mō-ăt'ä-lĭt), n. = MOTAZILITE. mob'ba-ble adj. Also mob'a-ble. See -ABLE.
mob'ble. Var. of MOBBY. mobd. Mobbed. Ref. Sp.
mo'bee (mō'bē). Var. of MOBBY. mob'bil. Mobile. Ref. Sp.
‖mo'bi-le vul'gus. [L. See 3d MOB.] The changeable crowd; the easily led mass of the people.
mo'bi-liz'a-ble (mō'bĭ-lĭz'ä-b'l), adj. See -ABLE.
mob'like', adj. See -LIKE.
mob'-mind'ed (66), adj. See -MINDED. [Bib.] Mo-bou'nai (mō-bōn'nī; -ā). D. mob'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF. mob'ship, n. See -SHIP. mob'ster, n. See -STER. moc'ca-sind. Moccasined. R.S.
mo-cha'cho. † MUSTACHE. moch'el, moch'il. † MICKLE. mo'chi wood. = MOOTCHIE WOOD.
Moch'mur (mŏk'mĕr). Bib.
Moch'o-na (mŏk'ō-nä). D. Bib.
Moch'o-ri (mŏk'ō-rī). D. Bib. mo'chur-rus (mō'chŭ-rŭs). Var. of MOCHRAS. mock'a-ble, adj. See -ABLE.
mock-ad'am. † MOKADDAM. mockadour. † MUCKENDER. mockair. † MOHAIR. mock'a-niste, n. A mocker. Obs.
mock'a-sin. † MOCCASIN. mock'aw. † MACAW mock'er-y-proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.
mock'e-ter. † MUCKENDER. mock'ful (mŏk'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. See -FUL. — mock'ful-ly, adv.

mock'ing·bird' (mŏk'ĭng·bûrd'; 185), n. A common bird (Mimus polyglottos) of the southern United States, remarkable for its exact imitations of the notes of other birds. Its back is gray, the under parts grayish white, and the tail and wings blackish marked with white. Closely related subspecies are found in Mexico, Central America, and the West Indies.

Mockingbird (Mimus polyglottos).

mock'ing·stock' (-stŏk'), n. An object of derision; a butt. mocking thrush. Any bird of the subfamily Miminae, esp. a thrasher. mocking wren. Any American wren of the genus Thryothorus or of Thryomanes. See CAROLINA WREN. mock knees. Veter. Large pedunculate fibrous tumors in front of the knees, seen esp. in cattle.
mock lead (lĕd). Mineral. = SPHALERITE. Hence, mock'-lead'y (-lĕd'ĭ), adj. Both Cornwall, Eng.
mock locust. A fetid Caliiornian shrub (Amorpha californica) with dark-purple racemose flowers.
mock moon. = PARASELENE.
mock nightingale. Local, Eng. a The blackcap. b The sedge warbler.
mock olive a Australia. = AXBREAKER. b = CHERRY LAUREL b. mock orange. a U. S. Any shrub of the genus Philadelphus. b Any of several American shrubs or trees, as the cherry laurel, the southern buckthorn (Bumelia lyciodes), the Osage orange, etc. c Any gourd resembling an orange. d In Australia, the native laurel Pittosporum undulatum.
mock ore. = SPHALERITE.
mock pennyroyal. Any mint of the genus Hedeoma. mock plane. = SYCAMORE b. Eng.
mock plum. = PLUM POCKET.
mock privet. Any Eurasian evergreen shrub of the genus Phillyrea, often cultivated for hedges. mock rainbow. A secondary rainbow. See RAINBOW, 1. mock regent bird. An Australian honey eater (Zanthomiza phrygia).
mock sun. = PARHELION.
mock thrush. = MOCKING THRUSH.
mock title. = BASTARD TITLE.
mock turtle. Calf's head dressed so as to look and taste somewhat like turtle.
mock turtle soup. A soup of calf's head, veal, or other meat, and condiments, in imitation of green turtle soup.
mock velvet. A fabric in imitation of velvet. See MOCKADO. mock willow. = MEADOW SWEET a. moc'main (mŏk'mān), n. [Chin. (Pek.) mu⁴-mien², lit., tree cotton.] A soft fiber of an East Indian silk-cotton tree (Bombax malabaricum), used in stuffing cushions and trusses.
Mo·co'a (mō·kō'ä), n. An Indian of a semicivilized tribe of Colombia and Ecuador; also, their language. — Mo·co'an (-ăn), adj.
mo'co·mo'co (mō'kō·mō'kō), n. [Galibi moucou, moucou-moucou.] A South American aroid (Montrichardia arborescens). mo·cuck' (mō·kŭk'), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Ojibway makak.] A box, usually of birch bark, for keeping food. Northern Ontario.
Mod (mŏd), n. [Gael. mōd, fr. ON. mōt. See MOOT, n.] A literary and musical congress held annually in northern Scotland. It began in 1892 in imitation of the Welsh eisteddfod. Cf. EISTEDDFOD, FEIS. mod'al (mōd'ăl; -'l), adj. [ML. modalis, fr. L. modus. See MODE.] 1. Consisting in or pert. to form as opposed to substance; having the form without the essence or reality. 2. Gram. a Of or pertaining to some particular attitude toward, or concern with, the fulfillment of the action or state predicated in a clause; as, a modal force of downrightness (we are here), noncommittalness (he may be here), wish (would he were here), etc., which may be conveyed either by inflectional mood or otherwise. Also, expressive of such an attitude or concern; as, a modal auxiliary or link verb (if he should come; you may be wrong); a modal adverb (she doubtless smiled; possibly he is late). Since a modal form of the verb is predicative, it is distinguished from the gerund and other nonpredicative forms (called also nonmodal). b Rare. = EXPLETIVE, adj., 2. 3. Law. Containing provisions as to the mode or manner of taking effect; — said of a will, contract, etc. 4. Logic. Indicating, or pertaining to, mode or modality; expressing modality. 5. Music. Of or pertaining to mode; specif., written in one of the old church modes. 6. Statistics. Pertaining to a mode. 7. Theol. Of or pertaining to modalism. mod'al (mōd'ăl; -'l), n. Logic. A modal proposition. See MODAL, adj., 4. mod'al·ist (-ĭst), n. Eccl. Hist. & Theol. One who adheres to the second of the chief forms of monarchianism (which see). — mod'al·ism (-ĭz'm), n. — mod'al·ist, mod'al·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj.
modalistic monarchianism. See MONARCHIANISM.
mo·dal'i·ty (mō·dăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ML. modalitas.] 1. Quality or state of being modal; a modal quality, attribute, or circumstance; a matter of mode or method. 2. Logic. That qualification of propositions according to which they are distinguished as asserting (or denying) the possibility, impossibility, contingency, or necessity, of their content. 3. Med. Any of several agencies used in physical therapy, as diathermy, high-frequency currents, etc.; also, any type of apparatus for applying such agencies. 4. Psychol. One of the main types of sensation, as visual, auditory, olfactory, gustatory, or tactual.
mod'al·ize (mōd'ăl·īz; -'l·īz), v. t. To render modal.
modal syllogism. Logic. A syllogism containing modal propositions. modal value. Statistics. = 1st MODE, 11.
mode (mōd), n. [L. and F.; F. mode, fr. L. modus a measure, due or proper measure, bound, manner, form. See METE, v.; cf. COMMODIOUS, MODULATE, MODUS, MOLD matrix, MOOD in grammar.] 1. Manner of doing or being; method; form; fashion.

The duty of itself being resolved on, the mode of doing it may easily be found. Jer. Taylor.

2. Variety; kind; particular form. 3. Gram. = 1st MOOD, 1. 4. Lacemaking. = FILLING, n., 6. 5. Logic. a The form of the syllogism, as determined by the quantity and quality of the constituent propositions; mood. The four figures of the syllogism with the names of the modes invented by Petrus Hispanus of Lisbon in the 13th century follow, the letter S standing for the subject of the conclusion, P for its predicate, and M for the middle term:

FIRST FIGURE of the syllogism has four valid modes: — 1. Barbara: all M is P; all S is M; hence all S is P (for example, all trees are plants; all elms are trees; hence all elms are plants). 2. Celarent: no M is P; all S is M; hence no S is P. 3. Darii: all M is P; some S is M; hence some S is P. 4. Ferio: no M is P; some S is M; hence some S is not P.

SECOND FIGURE. 1. Cesare: no P is M; all S is M; hence no S is P. 2. Camestres: all P is M; no S is M; hence no S is P. 3. Festino: no P is M; some S is M; hence some S is not P. 4. Baroco (or Fakofo): all P is M; some S is not M; hence some S is not P.

THIRD FIGURE. 1. Darapti: all M is P; all M is S; hence some S is P. 2. Disamis: some M is P; all M is S; hence some S is P. 3. Datisi: all M is P; some M is S; hence some S is P. 4. Felapton: no M is P; all M is S; hence some S is not P. 5. Bocardo (or Dokmarok): some M is not P; all M is S; hence some S is not P. 6. Ferison: no M is P; some M is S; hence some S is not P.

FOURTH FIGURE. 1. Bramantip or Bamalip (Baralipton): all P is M; all M is S; hence some S is P. 2. Camenes, Calemes: all P is M; no M is S; hence no S is P. 3. Dimaris, Dimatis, Dibatis (Dabitis): some P is M; all M is S; hence some S is P. 4. Fesapo (Fapesmo): no P is M; all M is S; hence some S is not P. 5. Fresison (Frisesomorum): no P is M; some M is S; hence some S is not P. b The form in which the proposition connects the predicate and subject, whether by simple, contingent, or necessary assertion. 6. Metaph. Condition or state of being; a manifestation, form, or manner of arrangement; in general use, a particular form or manifestation of some underlying substance, or of some permanent aspect or attribute of such a substance. Spinoza calls particular things modes of the one divine substance, particular ideas or mental states modes of mind or thought, and particular physical phenomena modes of matter or extension. Locke designated as modes such ideas as are distinguished by being attributive. Any given substance must always exist in some mode or other, but no mode need (from its own nature) be permanent. The distinction of mode and substance is analogous to, but not identical with, that of form and matter. Forms may have real independent existence; modes are always dependent. 7. Music. An arrangement of the eight diatonic tones of an octave according to one of certain fixed schemes of their intervals; an octave species. The three historic systems of modes in European music are: (1) The Greek modes, in which the octave species consists of two disjunct tetrachords lying between the extreme notes of the "Greater Perfect" system (see TETRACHORD, Illust.). Seven modes were recognized: four principal ones, the Dorian, Phrygian Lydian and mixolydian; and three subordinate ones, the hypodorian, hypophrygian, and hypolydian, in which the conjunct fourth and fifth composing the octave are in inverse order. The interval schemes of the Greek modes are shown in the accompanying figure, half steps being marked by small slurs. The modes were embodied in scales of about two octaves, which thus became transposable. The actual pitch of these scales, as well as the interval relations of the modes, must doubtless be taken into account to explain the traditional characterization of the Dorian as bold and grave, of the Phrygian as brisk and spirited, and of the Lydian as soft and enervating. The term mode is usually confined to the diatonic octave species, as the only ones now known; but other modes, based on chromatic and enharmonic tetrachords, were used by the Greeks. (2) The ecclesiastical, Gregorian, or medieval modes, though adapted and named from the Greek modes, are ascending scales of an octave, consisting of a pentachord and a tetrachord of which the highest tone of one is the lowest of the other. The lowest tone of the pentachord is the final or keynote. With respect to its position the ecclesiastical modes are of two kinds: (a) authentic, in which the pentachord comes first, and the keynote is the lowest of the octave; (b) plagal, in which the tetrachord comes first, and the keynote is the fourth of the octave. Each plagal mode thus begins a fourth below its corresponding authentic mode, from which it is named by prefixing hypo-, under; as, the hypodorian mode, A to a in the fig., begins a fourth below the Dorian, D to d in the fig., D being their common keynote. The pentachords and tetrachords comprise the intervals of perfect fifth and fourth, respectively, in all the modes except the theoretical Locrian and hypolocrian, which, having their pentachord and their tetrachords respectively of the forbidden diminished fifth and augmented fourth, were in consequence very rarely used. In every mode four tones, called modulations, are of special importance: the final, on which every melody ends, the dominant, mediant, and participant (in authentic modes normally the fifth tone, third tone, and a tone between the mediant and either final or dominant), on which, within certain rules, phrases may begin and end. With respect to the octave compass of its mode, a melody is called perfect if it covers the compass, imperfect if it falls short of it, superfluous if it exceeds it. A melody covering the complete range of an authentic mode and the corresponding plagal is said to be in a mixed mode. Ecclesiastical modes are still used, esp. in the Roman Catholic Church. The relation of the authentic to the plagal modes, and the interval schemes of all the modes, are shown in the figure on the ascending scale of the white keys from G to b'. (3) The modern major and minor modes comprise two of the historic modes, the major mode being equivalent to the Greek Lydian and the "descending" minor being equivalent to the Greek hypodorian. See 6th SCALE, 11 a.

The Greek Modes.

The Ecclesiastical Modes. The slurs mark half steps. The arrow head (↓) in each plagal mode marks the keynote, which is the first of its corresponding authentic mode. Black-faced letters indicate dominants; italics, mediants.

8. Music. A rhythmical scheme. Specif.: a In early mensurable music, one of the five or six metrical patterns, borrowed from the Greek trochee, iambus, dactyl, etc. and expressed in terms of triple musical meter. b In later mensurable music, the proportionate time value of the large in terms of longs, or of the long in terms of breves; also, a rhythm in which these notes are so proportioned. In this sense, a mode admitted of duple as well as triple division. See MENSURABLE MUSIC. 9. Petrog. The actual mineral composition of a rock as distinguished from the norm. 10. Psychol. = MODALITY, 4. 11. Statistics. The item, in a series of statistical data, which occurs oftenest.
mode (mōd), n. [F., fr. L. modus manner. See 1st MODE.] 1. A prevailing popular custom or style; a fashion; conventional style of dress, manners, etc.

The easy, apathetic graces of a man of the mode. Macaulay.

2. = ALAMODE, n., 2. Obs. 3. A color, of variable hue, of low or very low saturation and of medium or high brilliance, produced by dyeing with a mixture of dyes. Rare.
Syn. — Manner. See METHOD, FASHION. mode beige. The color drab. mod'el (mŏd'l), n. [F. modèle, fr. It. modello, fr. (assumed) VL. modellus, for L. modulus a small measure, dim. of modus. See MODE.] 1. A set of plans for a building to be erected, or of drawings to scale for a structure already built; sometimes, a ground plan, as of a garden. Obs. 2. That which exactly resembles something; a copy. Dial.

I had my father's signet in my purse,
Which was the model of that Danish seal. Shak.

3. A miniature representation of a thing; sometimes, a facsimile of the same size. 4. Style of structure; pattern; design; as, perfect in model. 5. An archetype. 6. Anything or any person that serves, or may serve, as an example for imitation; as, a model of virtue. 7. Something intended to serve, or that may serve, as a pattern of something to be made; as, the clay model. 8. A person or thing that serves as an artist's pattern; specif., a person who poses as a pattern to an artist. 9. A woman employed by dealers in costume or millinery to put on articles to show their effect to customers. 10. Short for model dwelling, cottage, etc. Colloq. 11. Obs. a That which enwraps or incases; a mold. b Standard; measure; capacity. c A small portrait. d An abstract, summary, or preliminary outline. 12. Arch. Obs. a = MODULE, 5. b = MODILLION. 13. Biol. A mimetic type, or species mimicked by another. See MIMICRY, 2. 14. Music. Degree of curvature; — said of the belly and back of instruments of the violin class. 15. Plastering. A tool used in molding cornices, etc.
Syn. — See PATTERN.
mod'el (mŏd'l), v.; MOD'ELED (-'ld) or MOD'ELLED; MOD'ELING or MOD'EL·LING. [Cf. F. modeler, It. modellare.] Transitive: 1. To represent as in a model; to describe in detail. Obs.

2. To frame a model of. Milton.
3. To plan or form after a pattern; to form in model; to shape; mold; as, to model a house, an edifice. 4. Now Rare. a To organize, as an army or government. b To mold or train according to a model of life. 5. To plan or plot. Pope. 6. To pose as a model in (a costume, etc.). Cf. MODEL, n., 9.
—, Intransitive: 1. Fine Arts. To make a copy or a pattern; to design or imitate forms; as, to model in wax. 2. To assume the appearance of natural relief; — said of parts of drawing when being drawn. 3. To act, pose, or serve as a model (senses 8 & 9).
— mod'el·er, mod'el·ler (-ĕr), n.
mod'el (mŏd'l), adj. Serving, or suitable, for a model or pattern; as, a model house; a model husband.
mode'less (mōd'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. 1. Unmeasured. Obs. 2. Devoid of mode; — used in mystical writings.
— mode'less·ness, n.
mod'el·ing, mod'el·ling (mŏd'l·ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of MODEL. Specif.: verbal n. Fine Arts. Act or art of making a model from which a work of art is to be executed. Also, in painting, drawing, etc., the indication of solid form.
mod'el·ist (-ĭst), n. A maker of models.
mod'el·ize (-īz), v. t. To model; to form by a model; organize; also, to exemplify as a model. Obs.
mod'el·mak'er (mŏd'l·māk'ĕr), n. One who makes models, as a model of a proposed tool, machine, or structure. — mod'el·mak'ing (-ĭng), n. & adj.
model school. A graded school, usually connected with a normal school, or teachers' training college, serving as a model in organization and methods of teaching.
mod'e·na (mŏd'ē·nä), n. [From Modena, Italy.] A deep purple color.
Mod'e·nese' (mŏd'ē·nēz'; -nēs'; 66), adj. [It.] Of or pertaining to Modena or its inhabitants. — n. sing. & pl. A native or inhabitant of Modena.
mod'er·ant (mŏd'ĕr·ănt), n. [L. moderans, -antis, pres. part.] That which moderates; a moderating factor.
mod'er·ant·ism (-īz'm), n. [F. modérantisme.] Moderateness; specif., Fr. Hist., the principles of the moderate party in politics. — mod'er·ant·ist (-ĭst), n.

---

mock'ing·ly, adv. of mocking, pres. part. [Obs. — -ly, adv. Obs.] mock'ish, adj. Mocking; sham. mo·cock' (mō·kŏk'). Var. of MOCUCK. [VERB.] modal auxiliary. See AUXILIARY mod'al·ly, adv. of MODAL. mod'der (dial. mŏ'dĕr; -thĕr). Var. of MAUTHER. Obs. exc. Dial.
mod'dley·cod'dley (mŏd'lĭ·kŏd'lĭ). Var. of MOLLYCODDLE, v.
mo·del'ion. Var. of MODILLION. mod'er, v. t. [OF. moderer.] To moderate; check. Obs.
moder. † MOTHER, MAUTHER. mod'er·ance, n. [OF., or fr. ML. moderantia.] Moderation. Obs.

mod'er·ate (mŏd'ĕr·ĭt), adj. [L. moderatus, past part. of moderare, moderari, to moderate, regulate, control. See METE, v.] Kept within due bounds; observing reasonable limits; not excessive; restrained; as: a Limited in quantity; sparing; temperate; frugal; as, moderate in drinking; a moderate table. b Limited in degree of activity or excitement; reasonable; calm; as, moderate language; moderate endeavors. c Not extreme in opinion, in partisanship, and the like; — often applied [usually cap.] to a party or its views; as, a Moderate Calvinist; moderate views. d Not violent, intense, or rigorous; temperate; as, a moderate winter; a moderate wind. See WIND SCALE. e Limited as to the degree in which a quality, principle, or faculty appears; fair; hence, mediocre; as, an infusion of moderate strength; a man of moderate abilities. f Limited in scope or effects; as, a reformation of a moderate kind. g Reasonable (of prices).

Syn. — Abstemious; judicious, cool. — MODERATE, TEMPERATE are often interchangeable. MODERATE emphasizes esp. the absence of excess, TEMPERATE, the exercise of restraint; as, "O love, be moderate; allay thy ecstasy" (Shak.); "Peace, lady! Pause, or be more temperate" (id.); moderate counsels or ambitions, a temperate reply; a moderate drinker. Cf. ABSTINENCE.

Ant. — Extreme, extravagant, unrestrained, inordinate, excessive, intemperate.

mod'er·ate (mŏd'ĕr·ĭt), n. A holder of moderate views, as in politics or religion; hence [usually cap.], a member of any party designated "Moderate," as a party of French Revolutionaries, etc., or, Eccl. Hist., one of a party dominant in the Church of Scotland in the 18th century and part of the 19th, which held liberal, or even lax, views on questions of doctrine and conduct, but insisted upon strict observance of ecclesiastical law.

mod'er·ate (-āt), v.; -AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT'ING (-āt'·ĭng). Transitive: 1. To render moderate; to restrain from excess; to reduce from a state of violence, intensity, or excess; to keep within bounds; to make temperate; to temper; qualify; as, to moderate rage, desires, heat, wind.

By its astringent quality, it moderates the relaxing quality of warm water. Arbuthnot.

To moderate stiff minds disposed to strive. Spenser.

2. To regulate; rule; govern; also, to adjust; modify. Obs.

3. To preside over, direct, or regulate, as a public meeting; as, to moderate a synod; hence, formerly, to settle or decide by arbitration or compromise.

—, Intransitive: 1. To act as a moderator; to preside.

2. To act as mediator; to mediate; also, Obs., to take a middle or mediating view.

3. To become less violent, severe, rigorous, or intense; as, the wind has moderated.

Syn. — Lower, lessen, soften, abate; control.

moderate breeze, moderate gale. See BEAUFORT'S SCALE.

moderate speed. Naut. Speed at a reduced rate reasonable under the existing circumstances.

Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, go at a moderate speed, having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions. International Rules of the Road.

moderate tutiorism. See PROBABILISM, 2 a.

mod'er·a'tion (mŏd'ĕr·ā'shŭn), n. [F. modération, fr. L. moderatio.] 1. Act of moderating; specif.: Now Rare. a Limitation; a restriction. b Control; governance. c Settlement by arbitration or agreement. d Diminution of severity or intensity; a keeping within due bounds.

2. State or quality of being moderate; temperateness.

The calm and judicious moderation of Orange. Motley.

3. pl. The second examinations (called officially "first public examinations") for the degree of B. A. in classics or mathematics at Oxford University, Eng.

Syn. — Restraint, diminution; abatement, falling off, slackening. Ant. — Excess; intensification; increase.

mod'er·a'tion·ist (-ĭst), n. An advocate of moderation.

mod'er·at·ism (mŏd'ĕr·ĭt·ĭz'm), n. Moderation in doctrines or opinions; the opinions or policy of any sect or party called "Moderate"; specif., Scot. Eccl. Hist., the attitude of the "Moderate" party in the Church of Scotland (see MODERATE, n.). — mod'er·at·ist, n.

mod'e·ra'to (mŏd'ĕ·rä'tō), adj. [It.] Music. Moderate; — used as a direction indicating tempo.

mod'e·ra'to, n. A halfway person or thing. Sterne.

mod'er·a'tor (mŏd'ĕr·ā'tĕr), n. [F. modérateur, fr. L. moderator.] 1. One who moderates; specif.: a Obs. A controller; ruler; governor. b An arbitrator; umpire; mediator. c The officer who presides over an assembly or meeting; esp., U. S., the nonpartisan presiding officer of a town meeting. d Formerly, in universities and colleges, an official appointed to preside over the exercises prescribed for candidates for degrees; now, at Oxford, an examiner for moderations; at Cambridge, one of two officers who preside over the examination for the mathematical tripos; also, at Dublin, a member of the first (senior) or second (junior) group in an examination for Bachelor of Arts with honors.

2. One who or that which renders moderate.

Angling was . . . a moderator of passions. Walton.

3. Am. Hist. One of a band of opposers of the violent methods of the regulators (so called) in the Carolinas about 1770.

4. Eccl. In Presbyterian churches, the president of any of the courts, from the session upwards. Usually the moderator must be, and nearly always is, a minister. See Forms of Address, in Appendix; PRECEDENCE.

5. Mach. A mechanical arrangement for regulating motion in a machine, or the supply of oil to the wick in a kind of lamp (moderator lamp), or producing equality of effect.

mod'ern (mŏd'ĕrn), adj. [F. moderne, fr. LL. modernus, fr. modo just now, orig. abl. of modus measure, hence, by measure, just now. See MODE.] 1. Existing at the moment; immediate; present. Obs. & Rare.

2. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, the present time, or time not long past; of recent period; hence, newfashioned; as, modern days, authors, fashions; — often in distinction from classical and medieval.

3. Ordinary; common; trite; commonplace. Obs.

We have our philosophical persons, to make modern and familiar, things supernatural and causeless. Shak.

4. [cap.] Philol. Of a language, belonging to the present or most recent period of its development as contrasted with earlier periods, usually termed Old and Middle; as, Modern English, Modern Greek, Modern Icelandic, etc. (see ENGLISH, n., 2; GREEK, n., 7 d; etc.). It is sometimes replaced by New, as in New Latin. See LATIN, n., 1; 3*d* GERMAN, 2 b.

☞ For some modern phrases, see the second word.

Syn. — See NEW. Ant. — Ancient, antique. See OLD.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

modern-bred	modern-looking, adj.	modern-practiced modern-built	modern-made	modern-sounding, adj.

mod'ern (mŏd'ĕrn), n. 1. A person of modern times.

2. A person whose views and tastes are modern; modernist.

3. Print. A style of type which is distinguished from the old style roman faces by greater regularity of shape, more precise curves, delicate, straight hairline serifs, and heavy downstrokes.

☞ This line is printed in 6-point modern.

mod'ern·er (mŏd'ĕr·nĕr), n. A modern. Rare.

mod'ern·ism (-ĕr·nĭz'm), n. 1. Modern practice; a thing of recent date; esp., a modern usage, expression, or characteristic; modern quality, taste, style, or character.

2. [often cap.] A current movement in the Protestant churches arising mainly from the application of modern critical methods to the study of the Bible and the history of dogma, and emphasizing the spiritual and ethical side of Christianity rather than historic dogmas and creeds. Cf. FUNDAMENTALISM.

3. Anglican Church. [cap.] The principle that all knowledge by which religion can be affected necessarily reaffirms the fundamental truths of Christianity, but necessitates their official restatement by the Church in the language of successive stages of civilization. The rejection of beliefs and formularies disproved by new learning is thus held to be incumbent upon true Christians, as such, and to lie historically at the basis of the Anglican Church, whose separate existence is due to the application of this principle.

4. [cap.] R.C.Ch. A body of methods and tendencies in the fields of Scripture, apologetics, dogma, history, and ethics, seeking to adapt the teachings of the Church to the conclusions of modern scientific and critical research; — so called by Pius X, who condemned it as substituting purely subjective criteria in matters of faith and morals for the authority of the Church.

mod'ern·ist (mŏd'ĕr·nĭst), n. 1. A modern. Obs.

2. An admirer of modern ways, fashions, etc.

3. An advocate of the teaching of modern subjects, as of the modern rather than the classical languages.

4. A propounder, advocate, or follower of modernism, in religion, art, or literature; specif.: a Art. A modern artist whose work embodies ideas or tendencies in subject matter or treatment which deviate strikingly from the traditions of the past. Cf. POSTIMPRESSIONISM, FUTURISM. b [cap.] Eccl. One who professes Modernism.

mod'ern·ist, adj. Pertaining to or characteristic of modernism or modernists.

mod'ern·is'tic (-nĭs'tĭk), adj. Modernist.

mo·der'ni·ty (mō·dûr'nĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). Modernness; something modern; — opposed to antiquity.

mod'ern·i·za'tion (mŏd'ĕr·nĭ·zā'shŭn; -nī·zā'shŭn), n. Act of modernizing, or state of being modernized; also, a modernized version, as of a play.

mod'ern·ize (mŏd'ĕr·nīz), v. t.; MOD'ERN·IZED (-nīzd); MOD'ERN·IZ'ING (-nīz'ĭng). [F. moderniser.] To render modern; to adapt to modern persons or things; to cause to conform to recent or present usage, style, form, method, or taste; as, to modernize a text, to change its spelling and language to modern forms and expressions; to modernize a building, to alter and equip according to present taste. — v. i. To adopt modern ways, or the like.

mod'ern·iz'er (-nīz'ĕr), n. One who modernizes.

modern languages. As a department of study or teaching, the living literary languages of Europe, including esp. French and German, often also Spanish and Italian, and sometimes English.

mod'ern·ly (mŏd'ĕrn·lĭ), adv. of MODERN; specif.: a Now Rare. In modern times. b In a modern manner.

modern Mes'sa·li'na (mĕs'ȧ·lī'nȧ). Catherine II of Russia (1729–96), who, like Messalina, was notoriously licentious. See MESSALINA, in Biog.

mod'ern·ness (mŏd'ĕrn·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Quality or state of being modern; novelty; conformity to present taste.

Modern Painters. The title of a study of modern art and artists (1843) by John Ruskin. It is largely a discussion of landscape painting as exemplified by Turner's work.

modern period. See CHEMISTRY.

Modern Woodmen of America. See WOODMAN, 7.

mod'est (mŏd'ĕst; -ĭst; 119), adj. [F. modeste, fr. L. modestus. See METE, v.] 1. Placing a moderate or low estimate on one's own merits; not forward or boastful.

2. Evincing, or arising from, modesty in the actor, author, or speaker; moderate, as in amount; unpretentious; as, a modest request, mansion, income; modest joy.

3. Observing the proprieties; free from undue familiarity, indecency, or lewdness; hence, chaste in thought and conduct; of apparel, decent; seemly.

Mrs. Ford, the honest woman, the modest wife. Shak.

The blushing beauties of a modest maid. Dryden.

4. Well-behaved; orderly; gentle. Obs.

Syn. — Reserved, retiring, diffident; chaste, virtuous. See SHY. Ant. — Conceited, bold; immodest, brazen, lewd.

— mod'est·ly, adv. — mod'est·ness, n.

mod'es·ty (-ĕs·tĭ; -ĭs·tĭ), n. [F. modestie, fr. L. modestia. See MODEST.] 1. Quality or state of being modest; specif.: Now Rare. Freedom from excess or exaggeration; moderation; self-control; as, to govern with modesty.

Modesty is imposed on its extravagance. J. Martineau.

b That temper which accompanies a moderate estimate of one's own worth and importance; absence of self-assertion, arrogance, or presumption; as, to receive praise with modesty. c Obs. A sense of deference or humiliation. d Proper delicacy or purity of thought and manner; due regard for propriety in speech or action.

Her blush is guiltiness, not modesty. Shak.

e Unpretentious character, as of a home or income.

2. a = HARE'S-EAR, 1 a. b The bladder ketmie.

Syn. — Humility, diffidence, shyness; decency, chastity.

Ant. — Boldness, boastfulness; immodesty, lasciviousness.

mod'es·ty, v. t. To lose, neglect, or let go by because of feelings of modesty. Richardson.

mod'i·a'tion (mŏd'ĭ·ā'shŭn), n. [ML. modiatio.] Law. A former duty payable on every tierce of wine. Eng.

mo·dic'i·ty (mō·dĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. modicité, fr. ML. modicitas.] Moderateness. Rare.

mod'i·cum (mŏd'ĭ·kŭm), n.; pl. -CUMS (-kŭmz). [L., neut. of modicus moderate, fr. modus. See MODE.] A little; a small quantity or portion; a limited amount or supply.

mod'i·fi'a·ble (mŏd'ĭ·fī'ȧ·b'l), adj. [From MODIFY.] Capable of being modified. — mod'i·fi'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), mod'i·fi'a·ble·ness, n. — mod'i·fi'a·bly, adv.

mo·dif'i·ca·ble (mō·dĭf'ĭ·kȧ·b'l), adj. Modifiable. — mo·dif'i·ca·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

mod'i·fi·ca'tion (mŏd'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. modification, fr. L. modificatio a measuring. See MODIFY.] 1. Act of modifying, or state of being modified; modified form or condition; specif.: a Limitation or qualification, as of a statement. b Alteration or change of a partial character, as of color, plans, words; state of being so altered, or result of such alteration; a modified form. c Biol. A nonhereditable change in an organism caused by the influence of its environment.

2. Naval Ordnance. See MARK, n., 21 b.

3. Philol. Umlaut.

4. Philos. A mode of being. See MODE, n., 6.

5. Scots Law. The action of awarding or decreeing something done or paid in settlement.

mod'i·fi·ca'tion·ist (mŏd'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn·ĭst), n. One who advocates a modification, as of a law.

mod'i·fi·ca'tive (mŏd'ĭ·fĭ·kā'tĭv), adj. Modifying or qualifying. — n. That which modifies.

mod'i·fi·ca'tor (-kā'tĕr), n. [L.] A modifier.

mod'i·fi·ca'to·ry (-kā'tō·rĭ), adj. Tending or serving to modify; modifying.

mod'i·fied milk (mŏd'ĭ·fīd). Milk altered in composition, as by the addition of lactose; — applied esp. to milk modified for infant feeding.

mod'i·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n. 1. One who or that which modifies.

2. Biol. A gene which affects the degree of expression of another (particular) gene.

3. a Gram. A qualifier. b Phonet. A diacritic sign used with a symbol to indicate modification of the sound expressed by that symbol alone (ĕ + indicating a sound made with the tongue slightly more advanced than for ĕ).

4. Physiol. A substance or agent which modifies, as by acceleration, inhibition, etc., of cell activities.

mod'i·fy (mŏd'ĭ·fī), v.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [OF. modifier, fr. L. modificare, modificari, fr. modus limit + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See MODE; -FY.] Transitive: 1. To limit; also, to mitigate; assuage. Obs.

2. To reduce in extent or degree; to moderate; qualify; lower; as, to modify heat, pain, punishment.

He modifies his first severe decree. Dryden.

3. To differentiate into, or diversify by, different forms, as light, sound, passion; — now merged in sense 4.

4. To change somewhat the form or qualities of; to alter somewhat; as, to modify the terms of a contract.

5. Gram. To limit or restrict the meaning of; to qualify.

6. Philol. To change by umlaut.

7. Philos. To determine the, or a particular, mode of.

8. Scots Law. To award or decree as something to be done or paid.

—, Intrans.: To undergo or make a modification; change.

Syn. — See QUALIFY.

mo·dil'lion (mō·dĭl'yŭn), n. [It. modiglione. Cf. MUTULE.] Arch. The enriched block or horizontal bracket generally found under the corona of the cornice of the Corinthian and Composite entablature, and sometimes, in a plainer form, in other orders. See ORDER, n., Illust.

Mo·di'o·lus (mō·dĭ'ō·lŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. modiolus.] Zool. The genus of sea mussels (Mytilidae) including the horse mussels. Syn. Mo·di'o·la (-lȧ).

mo·di'o·lus (mō·dĭ'ō·lŭs), n.; pl. -OLI (-lī). [L., a small measure, dim. of modius the Roman corn measure.] Anat. The central bony column in the cochlea of the ear. — mo·di'o·lar (-lĕr), adj.

mod'ish (mōd'ĭsh), adj. According to the mode, or prevailing style; fashionable; as, a modish dress. — mod'ish·ly, adv. — mod'ish·ness, n.

mod'ist (mōd'ĭst), n. A follower of the fashion. — mod'ist, adj.

mo·diste' (mō·dēst'), n. [F. See MODE.] A dressmaker or milliner; esp., one who makes, or deals in, fashionable dresses. — mo'dist·ry (mō'dĭst·rĭ), n.

Mo'doc (mō'dŏk), n. One of a small tribe of Indians, formerly of California, but, after a series of wars (Modoc Wars) with the whites, placed part upon a reservation in Oregon, part upon one in Oklahoma.

Mo'dred (mō'drĕd), n. A knight of the Round Table, the rebellious nephew of King Arthur. He was slain in battle.

mod'u·la·bil'i·ty (mŏd'ū·lȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Music. Capability of being modulated; flexibility; — said of musical tones.

mod'u·lant (mŏd'ū·lănt), n. [L. modulans, -antis, pres. part.] That which modulates.

mod'u·lar (-lĕr), adj. [See MODULE.] Of or pert. to a module or modulus.

mod'u·late (mŏd'ū·lāt), v.; -U·LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -U·LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [L. modulatus, past part. of modulari to measure, to modulate, fr. modulus a small measure, meter, melody, dim. of modus. See MODE.] Transitive: 1. To form or adjust to, or regulate by, a certain proportion; temper; soften.

2. To tune to a certain key or pitch; to vary or inflect in tone; to give tune to; as, to modulate the voice in reading.

3. To sing or intone; as, to modulate a prayer.

4. Music. To make transition to (a note). Obs.

5. Elec. To change the frequency of (as electrical oscillations or waves) by imposing upon them others of another, usually a lower, frequency.

—, Intransitive: 1. To play or sing with modulation.

2. To pass gradually from one state to another; to merge.

3. Music. a To pass by regular chord progression from one key or tonality into another, or from one mode to another. b To pass by regular melodic progression from one key to another.

4. Radio. To produce modulation.

mod'u·late, adj. Modulated.

mod'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [F., fr. L. modulatio.] 1. Act of modulating; specif. a A tempering or toning down. b Inflection or varying of the voice musically; a particular intonation or inflection of the voice. c Now Rare. A singing or making of music; hence, a melody.

2. Melodious use of language, esp. in writing.

3. Extent or degree of being modulated; as, percentage modulation.

4. Arch. The determination of proportions in a classic order by means of the module, or unit, of length.

5. Music. a See MODE, 7. b Act or process of changing from one key to another; a shifting of tonality so that the succeeding tones center upon a new keynote; art of transition from one key to another, esp. of transition without a break in the melody or chord succession. A modulation is passing or transient unless carried to a cadence in the new key, when it is called final. The simplest modulations are those to the keys of the dominant or subdominant of the original key, or to the relative minors of these three keys, as from C major to G or F major, or to E, D, or A minor.

6. Radio. Alteration of the amplitude or frequency of a wave in accordance with speech or a signal.

mod'er·ate·ly, adv. of MODERATE. mod'er·ate·ness, n. See -NESS. mod'er·a'tor·ship, n. See -SHIP. mod'er·a'trix, n. [L.] Also mod'er·a'tress, mod'er·a'trice. A female moderator. Obs.
modere. ✝ MODER, MOTHER. mo·der'ni·cide (mō·dûr'nĭ·sīd), n. See -CIDE, 1. Goldsmith. mod'ern·ish, adj. See -ISH. mod'ern·iz'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
‖mo'di, n., pl. of MODUS. mod'i·fi·cate, v. t. [See MODIFY.] To modify; differentiate. Obs.
Mo'din (mō'dĭn). Bib.
mo'di·us (mō'dĭ·ŭs), n.; pl. MODII (-I). [L. See METE, v.] See MEASURE, Table.
mo'di·warp. Var. of MOLDWARP. New Dial.
mods (mŏdz), n. pl. Short for moderations. See MODERATION, 4. Colloq. [See CONTINUOUS WAVES.] modulated continuous waves.

mod′u·la′tive (mŏd′ū·lā′tĭv), adj. Serving to modulate; as, modulative accent, musical accent.

mod′u·la′tor (mŏd′ū·lā′tĕr), n. [L.] 1. One who or that which modulates; specif., Radio, a device, as a form of electron tube (modulator tube), for altering the amplitude or frequency of a wave to conform to the signal.

2. Music. A chart constituting an essential part of the tonic sol-fa system of teaching sight reading. See TONIC SOL-FA.

s	DOH[1]	f
	TE	m
f	ta le
m	LAH	r
	la se se
r	SOH	d
	sa ba fe	t
d	FAH
t	ME	l
	ma re
l	RAY	s
	ra de
s	DOH	f

Modulator, 2, as used in the Tonic Sol-fa System, giving the essential notes (DOH, RAY, ME, etc.), with, at the right, their sharps (de, re, etc.), and, at the left, their flats (ra, ma, etc.), and, outside the lines, the initials of the notes in related scales, at the right those of the dominant — f(ah), s(oh), etc., — at the left those of the subdominant — s(oh), l(ah), etc.

mod′u·la·to′ry (mŏd′ū·lā·tō′rĭ or, esp. Brit., -lā·tĕr·ĭ), adj. Music. Of or pertaining to modulation or that which modulates; as, a modulatory passage.

mod′ule (mŏd′ūl), n. [F. and L.; F. module, fr. L. modulus a small measure. See MODEL; cf. MODULUS.] 1. Measure; compass; capacity. Obs.

2. A standard or unit of measurement; specif., one hundred liters per second, the legal Italian unit of flowing water.

3. a A device used for measuring the flow of water, or for delivering a fixed volume of water, as in irrigation systems. b The volume discharged by such a device.

4. Obs. a A plan or design on a small scale; also, a representation, as a plastic one, usually on a small scale. b An empty representation; a mere image. c A model or exemplar; pattern.

5. Arch. The size of some one part, as the diameter or semidiameter of the base of a shaft, taken as a unit of measure by which the proportions of the other parts of a classical or nonclassical composition are regulated. Generally, for columns, the semidiameter is taken, and divided into a certain number of parts, called minutes (see MINUTE, n., 6), though often the diameter is taken, and any dimension is said to be so many modules and minutes in height, breadth, or projection.

6. Gearing. a In the metric system of gear teeth, the pitch diameter of a gear wheel in millimeters, divided by the number of teeth. b U. S. The pitch diameter, in inches, divided by the number of teeth.

7. Numis. Diameter.

mod′ule, v. t. [See MODULE, n., MODULATE.] To model; also, to modulate, as in singing. Obs.

mod′ul·et (mŏd′ū·lĕt; -lĭt), n. A little model. Obs.

mod′ul·ize (-līz), v. t. To model; also, to regulate or organize. Obs.

mod′u·lo (mŏd′ū·lō), adv. [L.] Math. With respect to a modulus.

mod′u·lus (mŏd′ū·lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [L., a small measure. See MODULE.] 1. A real positive quantity, numerical or physical, that expresses the measure of some function, property, or effect, as of elasticity, strength, efficiency, etc., esp. under unit conditions; — often denoted by μ or M.

2. A standard or norm.

3. Math. a = ABSOLUTE VALUE. b Theory of Numbers. See RESIDUE, n.

4. [cap.] Zool. A genus of marine snails of tropical seas, constituting a family, Mo·du′li·dae (mō·dū′lĭ·dē), of the suborder Taenioglossa.

modulus of a section. Engin. A function of the dimensions of the section proportional to the moment of resistance of the section (W. C. Unwin). It is equal to the moment of inertia (about the neutral axis) of a section subjected to bending, divided by the distance of the farthest stressed fiber from the neutral surface.

modulus of cubic compressibility, modulus of cubic elasticity. Bulk modulus.

modulus of elasticity. Coefficient of elasticity. See ELASTICITY, n., 1. Besides the common Young's modulus, the modulus of rigidity, modulus of cubic compressibility, and Poisson's ratio are also moduli of elasticity.

modulus of resilience. See RESILIENCE, n., 2.

modulus of rigidity. Mech. = COEFFICIENT OF RIGIDITY.

modulus of rupture. Civ. Engin. The value at rupture of the unit stress in the extreme fiber of a beam computed from the flexure formula, $M = SI/c$, where M = the bending moment in inch pounds which causes failure; S = apparent unit stress in pounds per square inch when failure occurs and is called the modulus of rupture; I = moment of inertia of the section about the neutral axis of the beam in inch units; and c = the distance in inches from this neutral axis to the extreme fiber where failure occurs.

modulus of transverse elasticity. = COEFFICIENT OF RIGIDITY.

‖mo′dus (mō′dŭs), n.; pl. MODI (-dī). [L. See MODE.] 1. Mode of procedure; way of doing something.

2. Law. The immediate manner in which property may be acquired, as occupation or prescription. See TITLE. b Rom., Civil, & Early Eng. Law. The manner, mode, restriction, or enlargement of rights under which the instrument making a gift or conveyance expressly directs that the subject of the gift or conveyance shall be enjoyed; hence, the mode, restriction, or the like, so imposed, or the clause in which it is expressed. Specif.: (1) The clause in a will or other instrument making a gift charging some obligation upon the enjoyment of the gift so that acceptance of the gift assumes the obligation. (2) Formerly, in conveyancing, a clause by which the estate granted was qualified from what otherwise would have been granted. c Eccl. Law. A customary mode (modus decimandi) of tithing by composition instead of by payment in kind.

3. Music. = MODE, 8 b.

‖mo′dus de′ci·man′di (dĕs′ĭ·măn′dī) [L.] See MODUS, 2 c.

‖mo′dus o′pe·ran′di (ŏp′ĕ·răn′dī). [L.] Manner or mode of operating or working.

‖mo′dus po′nens (pō′nĕnz). [L.] Logic. A mode of reasoning from a hypothetical or conditional premise, according to which if the antecedent be affirmed the consequent is affirmed; thus, If A is true, B is true; but A is true; therefore, B is true.

‖mo′dus tol′lens (tŏl′ĕnz). [L.] Logic. A mode of reasoning from a conditional proposition, according to which if the consequent be denied the antecedent is denied; thus, If A is true, B is true; but B is false; therefore A is false.

‖mo′dus vi·ven′di (vĭ·vĕn′dī). [L.]* Literally, mode, or manner, of living; hence, a temporary arrangement of affairs until disputed matters can be settled; specif., such an arrangement as to matters in dispute agreed upon by convention or treaty by two or more states pending settlement.

Mo′ed (mō′ĕd), n. [Heb. mō·ēdh established time, holiday.] See MISHNAH.

Moeh·rin′gi·a (mō·rĭn′jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after P. H. G. Moehring (1710–92), Ger. naturalist.] Bot. A genus of low herbs of the chickweed family (Alsinaceae), found in the north temperate regions. M. lateriflora is the sandwort.

mo′el·lon (mō′ĕ·lŏn; F. mwȧ′lôn′), n. [F. See MUTULE.] Rubble masonry.

mo′el·lon, n. [F. moelle marrow, fr. L. medulla.] See DÉGRAS a.

Mo′en·cop′i for·ma′tion (mō′ĕn·kŏp′ĭ). [From Moenkopi Wash, N.E. Ariz.] Geol. The strata representative of the Lower Triassic in northern New Mexico and Arizona and southern Utah. The beds by their varied colors, ranging from chocolate to bright red, contribute notably to the scenery of the Painted Desert and neighboring regions in northeastern Arizona.

Moe′ri·the′ri·um (mē′rĭ·thē′rĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Lake Moeris, Egypt (see Gaz.) + -therium.] Paleontol. A genus including the most primitive known proboscidean mammals. Their remains occur in the Upper Eocene and Oligocene of North Africa. They were about as large as tapirs, had a short proboscis and simple mastodont teeth. The genus typifies a family, Moe′ri·the·ri′i·dae (-thē·rĭ′ĭ·dē). — moe′ri·there (mē′rĭ·thēr), n. — moe′ri·the′ri·an (-thēr′ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

Moe′so·Goth′, or Moe′so·goth′ (mē′sō·gŏth′), n. See GOTH, 1.

Moe′so·Goth′ic, Moe′so·goth′ic (mē′sō·gŏth′ĭk), adj. Of or pert. to the Moeso-Goths or their language — n. The form of Gothic spoken by the Moeso-Goths. See GOTHIC, n.

‖mœurs (mûrs), n. pl. [F.] Mores; customs.

mo·fette′ (mō·fĕt′), n. Also mof·fette′. [F. mofette, ult. fr. G. muff mold, musty smell.] Geol. A vent from which carbon dioxide and some nitrogen and oxygen issue from the earth. A mofette marks the last stage of volcanic activity.

moff (mŏf), n. A thin silk fabric made in Caucasia.

mo·fus′sil·ite (mō·fŭs′ĭl), n. [Hind. mufassal, mufassil, fr. Ar. mufaṣṣal separated.] In India, the provincial or rural districts; the country; — esp., in legal matters, contrasted with sudder, the headquarters.

mo·fus′sil·ite (-īt), n. One who lives in the mofussil.

mog (mŏg), v. i. & t.; MOGGED (mŏgd); MOG′GING (mŏg′ĭng). [Origin unknown.] To move away or on; to go off; to depart; to move slowly and steadily; to jog. Dial.

mog′a·dore′ (mŏg′ȧ·dōr′; 181), n. [From Mogador, seaport in Morocco.] A ribbed silk fabric used esp. for neckties.

mog′gan (mŏg′ăn), n. [Origin uncert.] Scot. 1. A long stocking without a foot; a stocking; also, a closely fitting knit sleeve.

2. A leg; — used in pl.

mog′gio (môd′jō), n.; pl. MOGGI (-jē). [It.] An old Italian dry measure, varying widely. Hence, a land measure (amount of land on which a moggio of seed is sown).

mog′gy (mŏg′ĭ), n.; pl. -GIES (-īz). Dial. Eng. a A cow or calf; sometimes, a cat; — a pet name. b A scarecrow. c A slattern.

mog′i- (mŏj′ĭ-). [Gr. mogis with difficulty, mogos labor; akin to Lith. smagus heavy.] A combining form, Greek mogi-, from mogis, hardly, used for mogos-, from mogos, labor, to signify difficult, painful, as in mog′i·graph′i·a, mog′i·graph′ic, mo·gig′ra·phy, mog′i·la′li·a, mo·gil′alism, mog′i·pho′ni·a, mog′i·to′ci·a.

mo′go (mō′gō), n. [Native name.] An aboriginal stone hatchet. Australia.

Mo·gul′ (mō·gŭl′; mō′gŭl; 66), n. [Per. Mughul a Mongolian, the Great Mogul, fr. source of MONGOL.] 1. A person of the Mongolian race; specif., one of the Mongol conquerors of India or their descendants. The dynasty began with Baber (1526), lost its power at the death of Aurangzeb (1707), and ended in 1857. Under Akbar (1556–1605) the Mogul Empire embraced all of northern and central India and Afghan lands about Kabul and Kandahar.

2. Hence: [not cap.] a A great personage; magnate; autocrat. b A type of locomotive. See LOCOMOTIVE, n. c pl. Playing cards of a superior grade.

— the Mogul. Short for the Great Mogul.

Mo·gul′, adj. Pert. to the Moguls or their empire in India.

mogul locomotive. See LOCOMOTIVE, n., Table.

Mo·gun′tine (mō·gŭn′tĭn), adj. Of or pertaining to Moguntia, now Mainz (Mayence), in Germany.

mo′ha (mō′hȧ), n. [Skr.] Buddhism. Delusion. See NIRVANA, n., 2.

mo′ha (mō′hȧ), n. [Cf. F. moha.] Italian millet.

mo·ha′bat (mō·hä′bȧt), n. [Ar. muḥābāt favor.] Moham. Law. A transaction in the form of a sale, but which, from inadequacy of price, is treated in law as a gift.

mo′hair′ (mō′hâr′), n. [It. moccaiaro, fr. Ar. mukhayyar. Cf. MOCKADO, MOIRE.] 1. A fine camlet made from the hair of the Angora goat, or an imitation of such fabric, now usually a smooth lustrous one of wool and cotton mixed; also, yarn of this hair. Cf. ALPACA, 3.

2. A garment of this fabric.

3. The long silky hair of the Angora goat.

4. A civilian; — a soldier's nickname. Old Slang.

Mo·ham′med·an (mō·hăm′ĕ·dăn; -ĭ·dăn), adj. [From Mohammed, fr. Ar. muḥammad praiseworthy, highly praised.] Of or pertaining to Mohammed, or the religion and institutions founded by Mohammed.

Mo·ham′med·an, n. A follower of Mohammed, the founder of Islamism; one who professes Mohammedanism; a Moslem. See MOSLEM.

Mohammedan blue. A dark-violet cobalt blue used as an underglaze color on certain Chinese porcelain under the Ming dynasty.

Mohammedan calendar. A lunar calendar reckoning from the year of the hegira, A.D. 622. Thirty of its years constitute a cycle, of which the 2d, 5th, 7th, 10th, 13th, 16th, 18th, 21st, 24th, 26th, and 29th are leap years, having 355 days; the others are common, having 354 days. By the following tables any Mohammedan date may be changed into the Christian date, or vice versa, for the years 1934–64.

MONTHS OF THE MOHAMMEDAN YEAR

1	Muharram	30	5	Jumada I.	30
2	Safar	29	6	Jumada II.	29
3	Rabia I.	30	7	Rajab	30
4	Rabia II.	29	8	Shaban	29
9	Ramadan	30
10	Shawwal	29
11	Zu'lkadah	30
12	Zu'lhijjah	29*

* In leap year, 30 days.

A.H.	A.D.	A.H.	A.D.
1353†	begins April 16, 1934	1369	begins Oct. 24, 1949
1354	April 5, 1935	1370	Oct. 13, 1950
1355*	Mar. 24, 1936	1371*	Oct. 2, 1951
1356	Mar. 14, 1937	1372	Sept. 21, 1952
1357*	Mar. 3, 1938	1373	Sept. 10, 1953
1358	Feb. 21, 1939	1374*	Aug. 30, 1954
1359	Feb. 10, 1940	1375	Aug. 20, 1955
1360*	Jan. 29, 1941	1376*	Aug. 8, 1956
1361	Jan. 19 1942	1377	July 29, 1957
1362	Jan. 8, 1943	1378	July 18, 1958
1363*	Dec. 28, 1943	1379*	July 7, 1959
1364	Dec. 17, 1944	1380	June 26, 1960
1365	Dec. 6, 1945	1381‡	June 15, 1961
1366*	Nov. 25, 1946	1382*	June 4, 1962
1367	Nov. 15, 1947	1383	May 25, 1963
1368*	Nov. 3, 1948	1384	May 13, 1964

* Leap Year † Third year of the 46th cycle ‡ First year of the 47th cycle.

The following general rule for finding the date of commencement of any Mohammedan year has a maximum error of a day; Multiply 970,224 by the Mohammedan year, point off six decimal places, and add 621.5774. The whole number will be the year A.D., and the decimal multiplied by 365 will give the day of the year.

Mohammedan Era. The era in use in Mohammedan countries. See ERA, Table; MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR.

Mo·ham′med·an·ism (mō·hăm′ĕ·dăn·ĭz′m; -ĭ·dăn-), n. The religion, doctrines, or precepts, of Mohammed; — called by believers Islam.

Mo·ham′med·an·ize (-īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ′ING (-īz′ĭng). To make Mohammedan. — Mo·ham′med·an·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ĭ·zā′shŭn), n.

Mohammedan year. See MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR.

‖mo′ha′tra′ (mō′ȧ′trȧ′), n. [F., fr. Sp. mohatra, fr. Ar. mukhāṭarah risk.] Medieval Law. A nominal sale of goods on credit and repurchase immediately at a less price for ready money.

Mo·ha′ve (mō·hä′vȧ), n.; pl. MOHAVES (-vȧz). An Indian of a Yuman tribe on the Colorado River, in Arizona, California, and Nevada.

Mo′hawk (mō′hôk), n.; pl. MOHAWK, MOHAWKS (-hôks). [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Algonquin mowawak, Narragansett mohowaŭuck they eat animate objects; — applied by their Algonquian enemies to the Kaniengehaga tribe of the Iroquois. Cf. ESKIMO.] 1. An Indian of a tribe of the Iroquois Confederacy, formerly occupying the Mohawk Valley, New York; also, their language. See IROQUOIS.

2. The color Tuscan brown.

3. In figure skating, a stroke forward on either edge of either skate, followed by a stroke backward on the corresponding edge of the skate on the opposite foot.

Mo·hawk′i·an (mō·hôk′ĭ·ăn), adj. [From the Mohawk River, New York.] Geol. Designating the middle epoch or series of the American Ordovician (Lower Silurian) in New York. — n. The Mohawkian epoch or series. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

mo′hawk·ite (mō′hôk·īt), n. [From the Mohawk mine, Mich.] Mineral. A massive metallic-gray copper arsenide.

mo′hawk weed (mō′hôk). A bellwort (Uvularia perfoliata) of eastern North America.

mo·hel′ (mō·hĕl′; mō′ĕl; moil), n. [Heb. mōhēl.] Jewish Relig. The person who circumcises male infants.

Mo·hi′can (mō·hē′kăn; Brit. usually mō′ĭ·kăn), n. See MAHICAN a.

mohn′seed′ (mōn′sēd′), n. [G. mohn poppy.] Poppy seed.

mo′ho (mō′hō), n.; pl. MOHOS (-hōz). [NL., fr. Hawaiian.] a A Hawaiian honey eater having pectoral tufts of yellow feathers, which were formerly used to ornament the state robes. b [cap.] Zool. The genus consisting of this bird. c A small flightless extinct Hawaiian rail (Pennula ecaudata). d An extinct New Zealand gallinule (Notornis mantelli, syn. Mantellornis hochstetteri). Cf. NOTORNIS.

Mo′hock (mō′hŏk), n. 1. Var. of MOHAWK, 1. Obs.

2. One of certain ruffians, often aristocrats, who in gangs committed outrages in the London streets in the early part of the 18th century.

Mo′hock, v. t. To maltreat or attack in the manner of the Mohawks, or Mohocks. — Mo′hock·ism (-īz′m), n.

mohr (mōr), n. [Ar. muhr.] A gazelle of northern Africa (Gazella dama mhorr) having horns on which are eleven or twelve prominent rings. It is one of the species that produce bezoar.

Mohr′ li′ter (mōr). The volume (about 1.002 true liters) at a standard room temperature (as 17.5°C.) of one kilogram of distilled water weighed in air with brass weights.

Mohr′ pinch′cock′ (mōr). See PINCHCOCK.

Mohr's salt (mōrz). Chem. Ferrous ammonium sulphate.

Mohs′ scale (mōz). Mineral. A scale of hardness introduced by F. Mohs. See HARDNESS.

Mohr, male.

mo′hur (mō′hĕr), n. [Hind. muhur, muhr, a gold coin, a seal, fr. Per. muh(u)r; akin to Skr. mudrā a seal, token, and perh. to OPer. Mudrāya Egyptian. Cf. MUDRA.] a A former gold coin of India and Persia, of varying values. The last issue of the East India Company (1835) contained about $7.10 in fine gold and was equal to 15 rupees. b A recent gold coin of the Calcutta mint, equivalent to 15 rupees.

mo·dum′ite (mō′dŏm·īt), n. [From Modum, Norway.] Mineral. = SKUTTERUDITE.

modur. + MOTHER.

mod′y (mōd′ĭ), adj. [From MODE.] Modish. Obs.

moe. + MO, MOW, grimace.

Moe′ra (mē′rȧ), Moe′rae (-rē). Vars. of MOIRA, MOIRAI.

Moeso-Gothic alphabet. See GOTHIC, n., 1.

Mo′eth (mō′ĕth). Bib.

mof′fle (mŏf′l). Dial. Eng. var. of MAFFLE.

mog′a·dor′, or mog′a·dore′, gum, etc. [See MOGADORE.] = MOROCCO GUM.

Mog·dad′ coff′fee (mŏg·dăd′). [Appar. fr. a tribal or place name in Senegal.] See CASSIA, 1.

mog′et, mogh′et. Vars. of MUGGET. Obs. exc. Dial.

Mo·ghal′ (mō·gŭl′). Rare var. of MOGUL.

Mo·ghan′ (mō·găn′), n. See CAUCASIAN, n., 3.

Mogh′rib. Var. of MAGHRIB.

Mo·ghul′. Var. of MOGUL.

mog′o·graph′i·a (mŏg′ō·grăf′ĭ·ȧ), n. = MOGIGRAPHIA.

Mo′gol·lon′ (mō′gō·lyōn′), n. See GILA APACHE.

Mo′gra·bi, Mo′greb·bin, Mo′gre·bee, etc. Vars. of MAUGRABEE, MAUGHABIN.

mo′guey (mō′gē). = 1st MOKI b.

mogul lamp holder. See LAMP HOLDER.

mo·gul′ship. See -SHIP. [n., 1.]

Mo·ham′med Ali. See ORDER, 1.

Mo·ham′med·ism, n. = MOHAMMEDANISM. — Mo·ham′med·ist, n.

Mo·ham′med·ize, v. t. = MOHAMMEDANIZE. — Mo·ham′med·i·za′tion, n. [COIN, Table.] mo′har, n. [Nepali.] See mo′har (mō′här). Var. of MOHA.

mo·har′ra. Var. of MOJARRA.

Mo·har′ram. Var. of MUHARRAM. See MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR.

Mohave Apache. = YAVAPAI.

Moh′di. Var. of MAHDI.

Mo·he′gan (mō·hē′găn), n. See MAHICAN b. [n. = SERRANO.]

Mo′hi·ne′yam (mō′hē·nā′yŭm),

Moh′ism. Var. of MOISM. [BOX.]

mo·hoe′ (mō·hō′). Var. of MAHOE.

Mo′ho·la (mō′hō·lȧ). D. Bib.

mo·ho′li (mō′hō·lĭ). Var. of MAHOLI.

Mo′ho·li (mō′hō·lĭ). D. Bib.

Mohr′o·den′dron (mōr′ō·dĕn′drŏn), n. [NL., after C. T. Mohr (b. 1824), Am. botanist + Gr. dendron tree.] Syn. of HALESIA a.

Mo·hum′ma·dan. Var. of MOHAMMEDAN.

Mo·hur′rum. Var. of MUHARRAM. [BUA.]

moh′wa (mō′wȧ). Var. of MA-

Mo'i (mō'ĭ), n. sing. & pl. A group of tribes of primitive culture between the Mekong River and the coast of Annam.

moi'der (moi'dĕr), v. t. [Origin uncert.] Dial. a To distract; perplex; bother; worry; make stupid. b To wrap up too much; to smother; crowd; encumber. c To toil; — with away. — v. i. Dial. a To talk incoherently or foolishly; wander. b To toil.

moi'dore (moi'dōr), n. [Pg. moeda d'ouro, lit., coin of gold. Cf. MONEY; AUREATE.] A gold coin of Portugal and Brazil (about 1640 to 1732) containing 4.93 grams of fine gold and having an intrinsic value of $3.27; also, its double.

moi'e-ter (moi'ĕ-tĕr), n. [From moist, var. of MOTE speck.] Dyeing. A roller used to clear fabric of specks; also, its operator.

moi'e-ty (moi'ĕ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. moitié, fr. L. medietas, fr. medius middle, half. See MID; cf. MEDIETY, MITTEN.] 1. One of two equal parts; a half; as, a moiety of an estate, jury, nation.
2. Loosely, about a half; a part.
3. A very small part.
4. One's better half. Humorous.

moil (moil), n. Mining. A steel bar sharpened to a point or a chisel end, for hand use. Cf. 1st GAD, 7.

moil (moil), v.; p. MOILED (moild); MOIL'ING. [ME. moillen to wet, fr. OF. moillier, muiller (F. mouiller), fr. (assumed) VL. mollíare, fr. L. mollis soft; akin to Skr. mṛdu soft, weak, and to L. molere to grind. See MEAL flour; cf. MELT, MILD, MOLLIFY, MULCH, MULLEIN.] Transitive: 1. To moisten or wet; to daub; to make dirty. Archaic & Dial.
2. To tire; weary; worry; torment. Obs.
3. To defile. Obs.
—, Intrans.: 1. To soil oneself in the mire or wet. Obs.
2. To work hard, often in the mire or wet; to toil at a dreary or wearisome task; drudge.
Moiling and delving in the common path. Longfellow.
3. a Obs. To distress oneself. b Dial. Eng. To be fidgety. c Obs. To burrow.

moil (moil), n. 1. Hard work; labor; drudgery; toil.
2. Confusion; turmoil; figuratively, trouble; vexation.
3. Mud; mire. Dial. Eng.
4. A spot; a defilement; a taint.

moil (moil), adj. [See MULLEY.] Hornless. — n. A hornless ox or cow. Both Dial. Eng.

moil (moil). Var. of MULE. Obs. exc. Dial.

moil'er (moil'ĕr), n. One who moils; a toiler; a drudge.

moiles (moilz), n. [Cf. F. meule. Ocf. E. D.] Glass Mfg. a Metallic oxide adhering to the glass knocked from the end of the blowpipe. b A coating of glass on the gathering iron to prevent it from scaling off into the molten glass.

moil'ing, adj. Wetting; daubing; dirtying; toiling at a dreary or wearisome task. — moil'ing-ly, adv.

moil'some (moil'sŭm), adj. Toilsome.

moi'neau (moi'nō; F. mwá'nō'), n. [F.] Fort. A small bastion constructed before a curtain for the purpose of giving protection from fire of small arms. Now Rare.

Mo-ing'we-na (mō-ĭng'wē-nä), n. An Indian of an extinct Algonquian tribe of the Illinois Confederacy. See ILLINOIS.

Moi'ra (moi'rá), n.; pl. MOIRAI (-rī). [Gr. See MERIT.] Gr. Relig. Orig., the allotted portion or fate of a person; later, the divine power determining the individual fate, or one of a group of such powers. See FATE, n., 5.

Moi'ra (moi'rá), n. [Var. of Maura, fr. LL. Mariа, Mariа. See MARY.] Fem. proper name.

moire (mwär; mōr; 277), n. [F., fr. E. MOHAIR.] Orig., a kind of watered mohair; later, any textile fabric, esp. silk, to which a watered appearance is given in calendering.

moi'ré' (mwȧ'rā'; mō'rā; 277), adj. [F., past part. of moirer to water (silk, etc.). See MOIRE.] Watered; having a watered or clouded appearance; — of silk, paper, rocks, or metals.

moi'ré' (mwȧ'rā'; mō'rā), n. 1. A watered, clouded, or frosted appearance on textile fabrics or metallic surfaces.
2. Erroneously, moire, the fabric.

moi-ré' (mwä-rā'; mō'rā), v. t.; MOI-RÉED' (-rād'; -rād); MOI-RÉ'ING (-ĭng). Also moire. [From MOIRÉ, MOIRE.] To give a watered or clouded appearance to (a surface).

moir-ette' (mwär-ĕt'), n. [moire + -ette.] Imitation moire.

moise (moiz), v. i. To thrive; improve; mend. Dial. Eng.

Mo'ism (mō'ĭz'm), n. The teachings of Mo Ti (5th century B.C.), called the Chinese philosopher of love.

mois'an-ite (mois'ăn-īt), n. Mineral. Carborundum identified by H. Moissan in the Diablo Canyon meteoric iron.

moist (moist), adj. [ME. moiste, fr. OF. moiste (F. moite), fr. L. muccidus, for L. mucidus, moldy, musty. See MUCID; cf. MUSTY.] 1. Slightly or moderately wet; damp; of the eyes, tearful; of a climate, season, etc., rainy; wet; as, a moist air.
The lady wiped her moist cold brow. Coleridge.
2. Naturally or constitutionally wet; — in ancient natural philosophy, astrology, etc. See ELEMENT, 1; COMPLEXION, 1.
3. Connected or accompanied with liquid; specif.: a Accompanied with tears. Poetic. "Our moist vows." Milton. b Characterized by the use of liquid, as a process.
4. Obs. a Fresh, or new; not stale; of plants, juicy; not dry or withered. b Watery; liquid. c Productive of moisture or water; bringing rain or wet; containing liquid.
5. Med. a Characterized by the discharge or exudation of liquid; as, moist eczema. b Suggestive of the presence of liquid; — said of sounds heard in auscultation.

Syn. — MOIST, DAMP, DANK, HUMID. MOIST often suggests little more than the negation of dryness; it applies in general to that which is but slightly wet; DAMP frequently connotes unpleasant or disagreeable moisture; DANK, penetrating or unwholesome dampness; HUMID is chiefly poetical or scientific. Cf. HAZE.

Ant. — Dry, arid, burned, scorched, parched, desiccated.

moist (moist), n. Moistness; moisture. Obs.

moist, v. t. = MOISTEN, v. t. Obs. exc. Dial.

moist color. A water-color pigment in the form of paste.

mois'ten (mois''n), v.; MOIS'TENED (-'nd); MOIS'TEN-ING. Transitive: 1. To make moist or damp; to wet slightly.
2. To soften by making moist; to make tender. Rare.
—, Intransitive: 1. To produce a moist condition; to wet.
2. To become moist, as the eyes.

mois'ten-er (mois''n-ĕr), n. One who or that which moistens; specif., a device for moistening stamps, etc.

moist'ful (moist'fŏŏl), adj. Full of moisture. Rare.

moist gangrene. Med. See GANGRENE, n.

moist'i-fy (mois'tĭ-fī), v. t. To moisten.

moist'less (moist'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Without moisture; dry.

moist signs. See SIGN, n., 12.

moist tetter. Med. Eczema.

mois'ture (mois'tûr), n. [OF. moistour (F. moiteur).]
1. = MOISTNESS. Obs.
2. Liquid, usually water, diffused or condensed in relatively small quantity. It may be dispersed through a gas as invisible vapor or as fog, or in or on a solid body in insensible form or as sensible dampness, or condensed on a cool surface as visible dew.
3. Obs. a The liquid part of a body; the humors believed in the Middle Ages to be inherent in living things. b A noxious exudation or flood.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:
moisture-absorbent, moistureproof, moisture-resisting.

mois'ture, v. t. To moisten; dampen. Obs.

moist'y (mois'tĭ), adj. 1. New; not stale. Obs.
2. Moist; wet; as, moisty weather.

moit (moit), n. [Var. of MOTE speck.] Wool-growing. A piece of foreign vegetable matter, as of stick and scrub, found in wool; — usually pl. — moit'y (moit'ĭ), adj. Both Dial. Eng. & Australia.

mo-jar'ra (mō-här'ȧ; 162), n. [Sp.] Any of certain basslike marine fishes (mostly of tropical seas, and having a deep, compressed body, protractile mouth, and large silvery scales) constituting the family Gerridae, as Eugerres plumieri, found from Florida to Brazil and used as food. Also, any of numerous fishes of similar appearance belonging to the Holocentridae, Cichlidae, Chaetodontidae, etc.

mo'jo (mō'hō; 162), n.; pl. MOJOS (-hōz). [Prob. fr. MAJAGUA.] The majagua.

mo'jo, n. A voodoo charm or amulet. Southern U. S.

Mo'jo (mō'hō). Var. of MOXO.

mo-kad'dam (mō-kŭd'ȧm), n. [Ar. muqaddam.] A headman or chief. India.

moke (mōk), n. [Origin uncert.] Chiefly Slang. a A donkey. b A stupid person; a dolt. c Australia. A horse. d U. S. A negro. e Theat. More fully musical moke. A performer, as a minstrel, who plays on several instruments.

moke (mōk), n. [Cf. MOCHY.] Fog or mist. Dial. Eng.

moke (mōk), n. [From mokes, fr. AS. mæx. See MESH.] A mesh of a net or the like. Dial. Eng.

mo'ki (mō'kē), n. [Maori.] a The bastard trumpeter (fish). New Zealand. b A native raft made of bundles of flags, rushes, or dry flower stalks of flax.

Mo'ki (mō'kē). Var. of MOQUI. See 1st HOPI.

mo'ki-ha'na (mō'kē-hä'nä), n. [Hawaiian.] A Hawaiian tree (Pelea anisata), family Rutaceae, with fragrant wood.

mo'ko (mō'kō), n. [Maori.] The kind of tattooing practiced among the higher ranks of the Maoris; also, a pattern of it. Cf. TATTOO, Illust. — v. t. To tattoo in moko.

mo'ko-mo'ko, n. [Maori.] A common small lizard (Lygosoma moco) of New Zealand.

mo'ksha (mō'kshȧ), n. [Skr. mokṣa; akin to Skr. muñcati he releases. See MUCUS.] Hinduism. Salvation; release from transmigration; attainment of nirvana.

mo'kum (mō'kŭm), n. [Jap. mokume.] A kind of alloy, orig. Japanese, used in decorative work on gold and silver.

mok'y (mŏk'ĭ), adj. [See MOKE fog.] Foggy; misty. Dial.

mo'la (mō'lȧ), n. [L.] = 1st MOLE.

Mo'la (mō'lȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. mola millstone. See 2d MOLAR.] The genus consisting of the sunfish (M. mola).

Mo-la'la (mō-lä'lä), n. See WAILATPUAN.

mo'lar (mō'lĕr), adj. [L. moles mass. See 6th MOLE.]
1. Mech. Of or pertaining to a mass of matter, as disting. from the properties or motions of molecules or atoms.
2. Chem. Also mo'lal (-lăl). Of, pertaining to, or containing, a mole, or gram molecule; as, a molar solution (usually one containing one mole of solute to the liter). Cf. CENTIMOLAR, DECIMOLAR.
☞ According to best modern usage regarding solutions, molar refers to moles per liter of solution, while molal refers to moles per 1,000 grams of solvent.

mo'lar (mō'lĕr), adj. [L. molaris, fr. mola mill. See MILL machine; cf. 1st MOLE.] 1. a Having power to grind; grinding. b Of or pertaining to the molar teeth.
2. Med. Pertaining to, of the nature of, or characterized by a uterine mole; as, molar pregnancy. See 1st MOLE.

mo'lar, n. Anat. & Zool. a Also molar tooth. A tooth adapted for grinding by having a broad rounded or flattened (though often ridged or tuberculated) surface; specif., in mammals, one of the cheek teeth behind the incisors and canines, broadly including the premolars (which see), but more exactly restricted to the posterior pairs (three in each jaw on each side in adult man) not preceded by deciduous teeth. See DENTAL FORMULA, TOOTH. b A process, with a grinding surface, on the inner aspect of the mandible of an insect or crustacean.

molar conductance or conductivity. Physical Chem. A value equal to the specific conductivity multiplied by the volume in liters of the solution which contains a gram molecule of the dissolved substance.

mo-lar'i-form (mō-lär'ĭ-fôrm), adj. Like a molar, esp. in shape.

mo'la-rim'e-ter (mō'lȧ-rĭm'ĕ-tĕr), n. [L. molaris millstone + -meter.] A thermometer for measuring the temperature of meal as it flows from the place where it is ground.

mo-lar'i-ty (mō-lär'ĭ-tĭ), n. Chem. Molar concentration.

molar weight. Physical Chem. A gram molecule.

mo'la-ry (mō'lȧ-rĭ), adj. Adapted for grinding; molar.

Mo-lasse' (mō-lăs'), n. [F.] Geol. A series of fossiliferous sedimentary deposits in and near Switzerland, chiefly of Miocene age, but including some Upper Oligocene beds.

mo-las'ses (mō-lăs'ĕz; -lz; 119), n.; pl. MOLASSES. [Pg. melaço, fr. LL. mellaceus honeylike, honey-sweet, fr. mel, mellis, honey; cf. Sp. melaza, (whence) F. mélasse. See MELLIFLUOUS.] 1. The thick, brown or dark-colored, viscid sirup which drains from sugar in the process of manufacture. Ordinarily the first molasses obtained in making raw sugar is boiled down till more sugar can be removed, leaving "second molasses." This, in turn, may yield a third sugar, and "third molasses," an impure sticky product used in making industrial alcohol, stock feeds, etc. The molasses called New Orleans molasses is lighter and has a larger sugar content than that called Puerto Rico molasses, which has a rummy flavor. Cf. TREACLE.
2. A sweet sirup from vegetable juice or sap. Colloq., U. S.

molasses grass. A valuable perennial forage grass (Melinis minutiflora), native to tropical Africa but widely cultivated. The plant is covered with hairs which secrete a sweet substance with the odor of molasses.

mo-las'sied (mō-lăs'ĭd), adj. Impregnated with molasses.

mo-las'sy (-ĭ), adj. Of the nature of, or impregnated with, molasses.

mo-la've (mō-lä'vā), n. [Sp., fr. Tag. molavin.] A large Philippine timber tree (Vitex parviflora); also, its valuable, durable, hard yellow wood.

mold, mould (mōld), n. [ME. moul, prob. confused with mold earth. See MOLD to become moldy.] a A superficial growth, often woolly, produced on various forms of organic matter, esp. when damp or decaying, and on living organisms. It is produced by saprophytic fungi. b Any fungus producing such a growth; often specif., any one of the order Mucorales. Cf. BLACK MOLD, BLUE MOLD, MILDEW.

mold, mould (mōld), v. i. & t.; MOLD'ED or MOULD'ED; MOLD'ING or MOULD'ING. [From the past part. of ME. moulen, of Scand. origin; cf. ON. mygla to grow moldy or musty, Nor. mugla. See MUGGY.] To become, or cause to be, moldy; to be covered or filled, or to cover or fill, in whole or in part, with mold.

mold, mould (mōld), n. [ME. molde, fr. AS. molde; akin to D. mul, G. mull, mulm, OHG. molt, molta, ON. mold, Goth. mulda, and E. MEAL flour.] 1. Crumbling, soft, friable earth; esp., earth containing the remains or constituents of organic matter, and suited to plants; soil; humus.
2. The ground; earth; hence, a grave. Archaic & Dial.
For thee was a mold meant Ere thou of mother camest. Longfellow.
3. Earthy material; the matter of which anything is formed; composing substance; material.
Nature formed me of her softest mold. Addison.
4. The earth on which we dwell; also, the land of a particular country or region. Archaic.

mold, mould (mōld), v. t. To cover with mold, or soil. — v. i. Formerly, to molder.

mold, mould, n. [ME. molde, fr. OF. modle, molle (F. moule), fr. L. modulus. See MODULE.] 1. The matrix, or cavity, in which anything is shaped, and from which it takes its form; also, the body or mass containing the cavity; as, a sand mold for casting metals. See LINOTYPE, Illust.
2. That on or about which, or in accordance with which, anything is modeled or formed; frame; body.
3. Distinctive character or nature; kind; cast.
Helen, whose spirit was of softer mold. Shelley.
4. Form; shape; also, body or corporeal form. "Woman's beauteous mold." Pope.
5. That which is molded; material for molding.
6. A pile of goldbeater's skin, usually about 950 pieces.
7. That which is cast or made in a mold, as a piece of molded copper or a molded candle.
8. Obs. a A model or pattern. b A structural model; type. c Style or fashion; as, a new mold of government.
9. Arch. a A molding. b A group of moldings.
10. Cookery. a A utensil in which a jelly, pudding, or the like is shaped. b A dish made in this utensil.
11. Geol. a An impression made in earth by the outside of a fossil shell or other organic form. b Erron., a cast.
12. Paper Mfg. A frame with a wire-cloth bottom, on which the pulp is drained to form a sheet.
13. Photoengraving. The grained plate of copper with the gelatin image on it, ready for etching.
14. Shipbuilding. A light form of wood made from the mold loft to the outline of some member of a vessel.

mold, mould (mōld), v. [From MOLD matrix.] Transitive: 1. To mix or knead (esp. dough or bread) into a required consistency or shape.
2. To mingle or blend (together or with). Obs.
3. To form in or into a particular shape; to model; fashion; as, his style was molded on Addison.
4. To shape in or as in a mold; as, to mold butter.
5. To ornament by molding or carving the material of.
6. Founding. To form a mold of, as in sand.
—, Intrans.: 1. To assume form or shape; to mold itself.
2. To make a mold or pattern.

mold, mould (mōld), adj. Making molds; made in a mold.

mold, mould (mōld), n. [AS. molda or molde the top of the head.] Anat. The top of the head; in an infant's head, the fontanel.

Mol-da'vi-an (mŏl-dā'vĭ-ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Moldavia, formerly a principality but since the Crimean War a part of Rumania. — n. A native or citizen of Moldavia; also, the Rumanian language of Moldavia.

Moldavian balm. A European mint (Moldavica punctata), family Lamiaceae, with large purple flowers.

mol'da-vite (mŏl'dȧ-vīt), n. Petrog. A clear green glass obsidianite found in the Moldau Valley, Bohemia.

mold'board', mould'board' (mōld'bōrd'; dial. mŭl'bōrd'; 181), n. [From MOLD soil.] 1. A curved iron plate attached to a plowshare which lifts, turns, and pulverizes the soil. See PLOW, Illust.
2. One of the boards forming a mold for concrete.

moldboard, or mouldboard, plow. See PLOW, n., 1.

mold'ed breadth (mōl'dĕd; -dĭd; 119). The greatest breadth of a ship measured horizontally, exclusive of the outside plating.

molded depth. The vertical distance from the top of the keel to the top of the upper deck beams amidships, at the ship's side. Lloyd's depth adds to this measurement a round of beam of one quarter of an inch for each foot of breadth.

molded form. Shipbuilding. The form of a ship, without plating or planking.

molded hammer-head tail. See PIANO, Illust.

mold'er, mould'er (mōl'dĕr), v.; -ERED (-dĕrd); -ER-ING. [From MOLD soil.] Intransitive: 1. To crumble into particles; to turn to dust by natural decay; to crumble away.
The moldering of earth in frosts and sun. Bacon.
2. To dwindle, as an army. Now Rare.
—, Transitive: To cause to molder.

mold'er, mould'er, n. 1. a One who molds, as in breadmaking, brickmaking, or founding. b One whose work is to mold a (specified) thing, or in a (specified) way, as in:
brass molder, candle molder, gelatin molder, hand molder, nail molder, steam molder.
2. That which molds; specif., a molding machine.

mold'er-y, mould'er-y (mōl'dĕr-ĭ), adj. Covered or filled with, consisting of, or like, mold; friable.

mold fungus. = 1st MOLD, 1 b.

mold'ing, mould'ing, n. 1. Act or process of shaping in or on a mold, or of making molds; molder's art or occupation.
2. Anything cast in a mold, or which appears to be so.

---

moild. Moiled. Ref. Sp.

moile. Var. of MOIL, MOYLE.

moil'ey (moil'ĭ), n. [From MOIL.] = MULLEY. Ir. & Scot.

moine. † MINE, n.

Moine series (moin). = CALEDONIAN SERIES.

moi'o (moi'ō; Pg. moi'ŏō), n. [Pg.] See MEASURE, Table.

moi'son (moi'sŭn), n. [OF.] Dimension; size. Obs.

mois'tend. Moistened. Ref. Sp.

moist'ish, adj. See -ISH. — moist'ish-ness, n.

moist'ly, adv. of MOIST.

moist'ness, n. See -NESS.

mois'ture-less, adj. See -LESS.

moi'ther (moi'thĕr). Var. of MOIDER. [MOHAVE.]

Mo-ja've (mō-hä'vē). Var. of MOHAVE.

mo'ka-mo'ka (mō'kä-mō'kä). Var. of MOKO-MOKO.

mo'ki-hi. Var. of MOKI, a raft.

mol (mōl). Chem. Var. of MOLE.

mol. Var. of MOLL.

Mol'a-da (mŏl'ȧ-dȧ). D. Bib.

Mol'a-dah (mŏl'ȧ-dȧ; mō-lä'dȧ). Bib.

mo'lal (mō'lăl), adj. Chem. = 1st MOLAR, 2. — mo-lal'i-ty (mō-lăl'ĭ-tĭ), n.

Mol'a-thi (mŏl'ȧ-thī). D. Bib.

Mol'a-thite (-thīt). D. Bib.

molave. † MOOLVEE. [a mound.

mold. † MOLE, the animal; MOLE.

mold'a-ble, mould'a-ble (mōl'dȧ-b'l), also -ABLE. — mold'a-bil'i-ty, mould'a-bil'i-ty (-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), mold'a-ble-ness, mould'a-ble-ness, n.

mold'i-ness, mould'i-ness, n. See -NESS.

3. Arch. a A plane, or curved, narrow surface, either sunk or projecting, used for decoration, often in groups, by means of the lights and shades upon the surface. b A strip of material having such a surface and prepared for ornamental application, as to a wall.

Moldings, 3. 1 Fillet and Fascia; 2 Sunk Fillet; 3 Quarter Round, sometimes called Ovolo; 4 Torus (when large and combined with other moldings); 5 Bead, or Astragal; 6 Reed, or Reeding; 7 Ovolo, or Thumb; 8 Cavetto; 9 Scotia; 10 Congé; 11 Cyma Recta; 12 Cyma Reversa; 13 Beak; 14 Splay.

4. Shipbuilding. The depth or breadth of a member of a vessel, as distinguished from its siding or thickness. Generally, the siding is the distance between two parallel sides, and the molding is the distance between two sides which are not parallel. Cf. MOLDED BREADTH, MOLDED DEPTH.

molding book. Shipbuilding. A book prepared in the mold loft, with dimensions of the members of a vessel.

molding edge. Shipbuilding. The outline of any member of a vessel as marked from the molding book.

molding knife. See KNIFE, n., 3. Illust.

molding machine. a A planing machine for cutting moldings, and the like. b Founding. A machine to assist in making molds, esp. one for molding wheel teeth, or one to pack the sand.

molding plane. Shipbuilding. In a wooden frame, the plane traversing the middle; in a metal frame, the back of the standing flange of the outer angle bar.

mold loft. Shipbuilding. A large floor on which the lines of a vessel are laid down and molds made. — mold'-loft', adj.

mold'made', mould'made' (mōld'mād'), adj. Made with a mold; handmade; — of paper, now usually of an imitation of handmade paper.

Mol'do- (mŏl'dō-). A combining form from Rumanian Moldova, denoting Moldavian and, as in Mol'do-Wal·la'chi·an (-wō-lā'kĭ·ăn).

mold'warp', mould'warp' (mōld'wôrp'), n. [ME. moldwerp, fr. AS. molde soil + weorpan to throw up; akin to obs. D. molworp, G. maulwurf. See MOLD soil; WARP.] The European mole. Local, Eng.

mold'y, mould'y (mōl'dĭ), adj.; MOLD'I·ER, MOULD'I·ER (-dĭ·ĕr); MOLD'I·EST, MOULD'I·EST. [From 1st MOLD.] 1. Overgrown with, or containing, mold; musty; fusty; stale; as, moldy cheese or bread. "Moldy jokes." Hawthorne. 2. Of or like mold; as, moldy fungi or moss.

mold'y, mould'y, adj. Of the nature of, or like, mold, or earth.

moldy nose. Plant Pathol. A fungous rot of onion bulbs caused by Sclerotium cepivorum.

mole (mōl), n. [F. môle, fr. L. mola mill, grits, cake (after Gr. mylē) mola. See 2d MOLAR.] A mass of fleshy or other more or less solid matter generated in the uterus. A blood mole or carneous mole is a blood clot containing a degenerated fetus and its membranes. A hydatiform mole consists of enlarged, edematous, degenerated placental villi, growing in grapelike clusters after death of the ovum.

mole (mōl), n. [AS. māl; akin to OHG. meil, Goth. mail wrinkle, and prob. to Gr. miainein to pollute. Cf. MIASMA.] 1. Obs. a A spot; a stain, as on cloth. b An imperfection; a fault. c A mark of identification or distinction. 2. A congenital spot, mark, or small permanent protuberance on the human body; now, esp., a pigmentary nevus.

mole, v. t. To spot; stain. Obs.

mole, n. [ME. molle; akin to MLG. mol, mul, D. mol.] 1. Any of numerous burrowing mammals, chiefly of the family Talpidae, order Insectivora, mostly found in temperate parts of Europe, Asia, and North America. They have minute eyes often covered with skin, small concealed ears, very soft and often iridescent fur, and strong fossorial forefeet. They live almost entirely underground, making extensive galleries and feeding on small life, esp. earthworms. The common European mole is Talpa europaea. The common species of the eastern United States is Scalopus aquaticus, which has partly webbed feet. The star-nosed mole (Condylura cristata) of the same region has a long thick tail and a fleshy starlike appendage on the snout. In the western United States are found several species of the genus Scapanus, also the small Gibbs's mole (Neurotrichus gibbsii). The golden moles (see CHRYSOCHLORIS) inhabit South Africa. See also DESMAN, MARSUPIAL MOLE, MOLE RAT. Cf. MOLESKIN.

2. One who works in a dark place or in the dark; also, one whose vision is regarded as imperfect.

3. Mole gray.

4. Moleskin; pl., moleskins; moleskin garments.

5. The borer of a mole plow; also, a mole plow.

6. A mole cricket. Obs.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

mole-blind	mole-catching, adj.	moleheap
mole-blindedly	mole-eyed	mole-sighted mole (mōl), v. t.; MOLED (mōld); MOL'ING (mōl'ĭng). To clear of molehills or moles, also, to form holes in, as a mole; to burrow; to excavate; as, "to mole the earth.

mole, n. [F. môle, fr. MGr. mōlos, fr. L. moles mass, burden, massive structure, mole; akin to Gr. mōlos strain, exertion, AS. mēthe weary, G. müde. Cf. DEMOLISH, 1st MOLAR, MOLECULE, MOLEST.] 1. [L. moles.] A mass or large piece; mass or bulk. Obs.

2. A mound or massive work formed of masonry or large stones, etc., laid in the sea, often as a breakwater; also, sometimes, the harbor itself.

3. Rom. Antiq. A kind of massive tomb or mausoleum.

mole (mōl), n. [L. mola.] A sacrificial cake of salted, coarse-ground spelt used by the Romans. Obs.

mole (mōl), n. [See MOLECULE.] Chem. A gram molecule.

Mo'le (mō'lā), n. The Sudanic language of the Mossi.

mole'cast' (mōl'kăst'; 83), n. A molehill.

mole catcher. a One who makes a business of catching moles. b The brown king snake.

mole cricket. Any of certain insects of the genera Gryllotalpa and Scapteriscus (order Orthoptera), having large fossorial front legs adapted for excavating subterranean galleries. They feed largely on the roots of plants. The common European species (Gryllotalpa vulgaris), the American (G. borealis), and the changa of Puerto Rico are the best-known.

European Mole Cricket (Gryllotalpa vulgaris), male.

mo·lec'u·la (mō·lĕk'ū·lȧ), n. [NL.] A molecule.

mo·lec'u·lar (mō·lĕk'ū·lĕr), adj. [See MOLECULE.] Physics & Chem. Pert. to, connected with, produced by, or consisting of, molecules; as, molecular grouping, etc.

molecular compound. A compound regarded as a union of molecules retaining their identity, as indicated in formulas such as $FeSO_4.(NH_4)_2SO_4.6H_2O$.

molecular conductivity. Molar conductance.

molecular covolume. See COVOLUME.

molecular depression or lowering. Physical Chem. The lowering of the freezing point produced by a gram molecule of the solute in one hundred grams of the solvent.

molecular formula. Chem. See FORMULA, 5.

molecular heat. Physical Chem. The thermal capacity of one gram molecule of any substance; the product of the specific heat by the molecular weight.

mo·lec'u·lar·ist (mō·lĕk'ū·lĕr·ĭst), n. An investigator of molecules. Rare.

mo·lec'u·lar'i·ty (-lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n. Physics & Chem. State or quality of being molecular.

molecular layer. Anat. a The outer layer of the cortex of the cerebellum and cerebrum. b Either of the two reticular layers of the retina.

molecular magnetic friction. = HYSTERESIS b.

molecular rearrangement. Chem. = REARRANGEMENT.

molecular refraction or refractive power. Physical Chem. The product of the molecular weight of a compound by its specific refractive power.

molecular rotation or rotatory power. Physical Chem. A value obtained by multiplying the specific rotation by the molecular weight and (to obtain numbers of convenient size) dividing by 100.

molecular silver. See SILVER.

molecular volume. Chem. The quotient obtained by dividing the molecular weight by the specific gravity.

molecular weight. Chem. The weight of any molecule, being the sum of the weights of its constituent atoms.

mol'e·cule (mŏl'ē·kūl; mō'lē·kūl; 277), n. [F. molécule, fr. L. moles mass. See 6th MOLE.] 1. Any minute particle. 2. Chem. a A unit of matter, the smallest portion of an element or compound that retains chemical identity with the substance in mass. The molecule usually consists of a union of two or more atoms, some organic compounds containing a very large number. According to Avogadro's hypothesis, one cubic centimeter of any gas contains, under standard conditions, the same number of molecules, which number is approximately 27 million million millions (Loschmidt's number). An aggregate of some hundreds of molecules is conceivably visible in an ordinary high-power microscope. See ATOMIC THEORY, ION. b A quantity proportional to the molecular weight; specif., a gram molecule.

3. Physics. The smallest portion of a substance that moves about as a whole; — applied to the particles considered in the kinetic theory of gases.

mole gray. a The color fashion gray. b Taupe.

mole'head' (mōl'hĕd'), n. A pierhead.

mole'hill' (mōl'hĭl'), n. A little hillock or ridge of earth thrown up by moles working under ground; hence, a very small hill, or an insignificant obstacle, difficulty, etc. — mole'hill'ish, adj. — mole'hill'y, adj.

mole'ism (mōl'ĭz'm), n. Molelike character.

mo·len'di·nar (mō·lĕn'dĭ·nĕr), adj. Of or pertaining to a mill or miller, — n. A molar. — mo·len'di·nar'y (-nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nēr·ĭ), adj. & n. Scott.

mo'len·graaf'ite (mō'lĕn·grăf'ĭt), n. [After G. A. F. Molengraaff, of Delft, Holland.] Mineral. A sodium calcium titanosilicate.

mole plant. The caper spurge; — so called because of its supposed efficacy in driving away moles.

mole plow. A plow having a vertical knife and a round, pointed plowing device to make a burrowlike drain.

mole rat. a Any of various Old World molelike rodents of the families Spalacidae and Bathyergidae. The mole rat of southeastern Europe and Egypt (Spalax typhlus) has the eyes covered by skin. The Cape mole rat of South Africa is Bathyergus maritimus. b Any of several rodents of eastern Europe and Asia, related to the voles. c An Indian rodent of the subfamily Murinae and genus Nesokia.

mole salamander. A brownish-black, burrowing salamander (Ambystoma talpoideum) of North America.

mole shrew. a An American short-tailed shrew of the genus Blarina. b An American mole of the genus Scalopus. c The Gibbs's mole. See 4th MOLE, 1.

mole'skin' (mōl'skĭn'), n. 1. The skin of the mole used as fur, or some skin cut to look like it.

2. Any fabric having a thick soft nap or pile, like the fur of a mole; esp., a kind of strong twilled fustian.

3. pl. Garments, esp. trousers, made of this fabric.

4. a Chaetura black. b Taupe.

mole snake. a A harmless colubrid snake (Pseudaspis cana) common in South and East Africa, which feeds on rats and mice. b The brown king snake.

mo·lest' (mō·lĕst'), v.; MO·LEST'ED; MO·LEST'ING. [OF. molester, fr. L. molestare, fr. molestus troublesome, fr. moles a heavy mass, load, burden. See 6th MOLE.] Transitive: 1. To interfere with or meddle with unwarrantably so as to injure or disturb.

2. To afflict or affect; — said of a disease. Obs.

—, Intransitive: To be troublesome or annoying. Rare.

Syn. — Bother, incommode, pester, tease. See HARASS.

mo·lest', n. [OF. moleste.] Molestation; trouble. Archaic.

mo·les·ta'tion (mō'lĕs·tā'shŭn; mŏl'ĕs-), n. [OF.] 1. Act of molesting, or state of being molested.

2. An annoyance, disturbance, or vexation. Now Rare.

3. a Scots Law. Interference with, or troubling one in his possession of land. It is a delict which subjects the molester to a claim of damages. b Eng. & U. S. Law. Willful injury inflicted upon one by interference with his user of rights as to person, character, social position, or property.

mo·lest'er (mō·lĕs'tĕr), n. One who molests.

mo·lest'ful (mō·lĕst'fŏŏl; -fĭ), adj. Troublesome; vexatious; annoying. — mo·lest'ful·ly, adj.

mo'les·ti'e (mō'lĕs·tē'ē), n. [OF.] Molestation. Obs.

mo·les'ti·ous (mō·lĕs'tĭ·ŭs; -chŭs), adj. Molesting; troublesome. Obs.

Mol'gu·la (mŏl'gū·lȧ), n. [NL., dim. fr. Gr. molgos a hide, skin.] Zool. A cosmopolitan genus of almost spherical ascidians with long siphons and a thin somewhat transparent tunic.

mo·lī'men (mō·lī'mĕn), n. [L.] 1. Effort; endeavor.

2. Physiol. Laborious functioning, as that of the female generative organs in bringing on menstruation.

mo·lim'i·nous (mō·lĭm'ĭ·nŭs), adj. [L. molimen a great exertion.] Massive; momentous; also, laborious. Obs.

mol'i·nar'y (mŏl'ĭ·nĕr'ĭ; -nēr·ĭ; mō'lĭ·-), adj. [LL. molinarius, fr. molina mill.] Of or pertaining to a mill or grinding.

mo'line (mō'lĭn; mō·līn'), adj. [LL. molinus pertaining to a mill, molina mill. See MILL.] Her. Resembling a millrynd in shape; as, a cross moline. See CROSS, Illust. — mo'line, n.

mol'i·net (mŏl'ĭ·nĕt), n. [F. moulinet, dim. of moulin mill.] A stick or mill for mixing chocolate. Obs.

Mo·lin'i·a (mō·lĭn'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Juan Ignazio Molina, a Chilean naturalist.] Bot. A small genus of Eurasian grasses having narrow flat leaves, slender panicles, and awnless glumes. M. coerulea is a moor grass.

Mo'li·nism (mō'lĭ·nĭz'm; mŏl'ĭ·-), n. Theol. A theory to explain grace and free will by God's foreknowledge, named after Luis de Molina (1535–1600), a Spanish Jesuit. Cf. THOMISM, 2. — Mo'li·nist (-nĭst), n. — Mo'li·nis'tic (-nĭs'tĭk), adj.

Mo'li·nism (mō'lĭ·nĭz'm; mŏl'ĭ·-), n. Eccl. Quietism of Miguel de Molinos (1640–97).

Mo'lisch re·ac'tion or test (mō'lĭsh). [After Hans Molisch (b. 1856), Austrian chemist.] Biochem. A color test for carbohydrate, resulting from the interaction of a carbohydrate with a color-producing phenol derivative in the presence of concentrated sulphuric acid.

mo·li'tion (mō·lĭsh'ŭn), n. [F., fr. L. molitio, fr. moliri to construct. See DEMOLISH.] An effort; also, a device; contrivance. Obs.

mol'ka (mŏl'kȧ), n. [Russ.] The cloudberry. Alaska.

Moll (mŏl), n. 1. A familiar diminutive of MARY.

2. [often not cap.] Slang & Dial. a A wench; a prostitute. b A female companion of one of the underworld.

Moll'berg (mŏl'bûrg), n. Fancy Diving. = GAINER, 2.

Moll Blood (blŭd). The gallows. Old Slang, Scot.

mol'le (mŏl'ē), adj. [OF. mol (F. mou, fem. molle), fr. L. mollis soft.] Music. Lower by a half step; flat; as, B molle, that is, B-flat. Cf. BĚMOL; GAMUT, Illust.

mol·les'cent (mō·lĕs'ĕnt; -nt), adj. [L. mollescens.] Tending to soften; softening. — mol·les'cence (-ĕns; -ns), n.

mol'le·ton (mŏl'ĕ·tŏn), n. [F.] Canton flannel.

Moll' Flan'ders (mŏl' flăn'dĕrz). The short title and chief character of a novel (1722) by Defoe, The Fortunes and Misfortunes of the Famous Moll Flanders. It portrays the life of an English adventuress and thief, rehabilitated in Virginia.

moll hern. The common European heron. Local, Eng.

mol'li·chop' (mŏl'ĭ·chŏp'), n. [Prob. fr. the proper name Moll, Molly.] Something effeminately delicate. Dial. Eng.

mol'li·crush' (-krŭsh'), v. t. [Cf. dial. mull to crush.] To crush; beat to jelly; pulverize. Dial. Eng.

mol'li·e·nis'i·a (mŏl'ĭ·ē·nĭs'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after François Nicolas Comte de Mollien (1758–1850), French statesman.] a Any of several species of brightly colored cyprinodont fishes, highly valued as aquarium fishes; esp., M. latipinna, of the southern United States. b [cap.] The genus containing these fish.

mol'li·fi·ca'tion (mŏl'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [OF. mollificacion (F. mollification), fr. ML. mollificatio.] Act of mollifying, or state of being mollified; Obs., something that softens or mitigates.

mol'li·fi·ca'tive (mŏl'ĭ·fĭ·kā'tĭv), adj. [F. mollificatif.] Productive of mollification. Obs. — n. A softening application. Obs.

mol'li·fi'er (mŏl'ĭ·fī'ĕr), n. One who or that which mollifies.

mol'li·fy (mŏl'ĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. mollifier, fr. LL. mollificare, fr. mollis soft + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See MOIL, v. t.; -FY. Cf. EMOLLIENT, MOLLUSK.] Transitive: 1. To soften; to make tender or supple; to reduce the hardness, harshness, or asperity of; qualify; also, to make a favorable representation of. Rare.

With sweet science mollified their stubborn hearts. Spenser.

2. To allay, as rage; to appease; pacify; calm.

3. Obs. a To enervate; weaken. b To lessen the intensity or violence of; to lighten or alleviate (care).

—, Intransitive: 1. To become soft or tender. Obs.

2. To become softened, as in temper; to relent.

Syn. and Ant. — See PACIFY.

mol'li·fy'ing (-fī'ĭng), adj. That mollifies. — mol'li·fy'ing·ly, adv. — mol'li·fy'ing·ness, n.

mol'li·grant (mŏl'ĭ·grȧnt), n. [Cf. dial. mully to grumble.] Complaint. Scot.

mol'li·pi'lose (-pī'lōs), adj. [L. mollis soft + pilosus hairy.] Having soft hairs or feathers; downy or fluffy.

Mol·lis'i·a'ce·ae (mō·lĭs'ĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mollisia, type genus (fr. L. mollis soft) + -aceae.] Bot. A family of fungi of the order Pezizales.

mol·lis'i·ose (mō·lĭs'ĭ·ōs), n. [NL. Mollisia (fr. L. mollis soft) + -ose.] Plant Pathol. A leaf scorch of strawberries caused by the sac fungus Diplocarpon (SYN. Mollisia) earliana.

mol·li'ti·es (mō·lĭsh'ĭ·ēz), n. [L., softness.] 1. Softness.

2. Med. Softening; unnatural softness of an organ or part.

mol·li'tious (mō·lĭsh'ŭs), adj. [L. mollities softness.] Softening; luxurious; sensuous.

mol'li·tude (mŏl'ĭ·tūd), n. [L. mollitudo, fr. mollis soft.] Softness. Rare.

Mol·lu'go (mō·lū'gō), n. [NL., fr. L. mollugo a lappaceous plant, fr. mollis soft.] A genus of low, chiefly tropical American herbs (family Aizoaceae). Cf. CARPETWEED.

---

mold'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.
Mo'lech. Var. of MOLOCH. mo·lec'u·lar·ly, adv. of MOLECULAR. mole'hill', Molehill. Ref. Sp. mole'like', adj. See -LIKE.
mole'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF. mol'er (mōl'ĕr), n. = MOLE CATCHER a.
‖mo'le ru'it su'a. [L.] It falls down of its own bigness; — orig. of force devoid of judgment. Horace (Odes, III. iv. 65).
mo·les'tous, adj. Also mo·les'tu·ous. [L. molestus.] = MOLESTIOUS. Obs. mol'et. Var. of MULLET. mo·let'ta. † MULATTO. [WARP.] mole'warp'. Var. of MOLD-Mol'ge (mōl'jē), n. [NL., fr. G. molch salamander.] Syn. of TRITURUS.
Mo'li (mō'lī). Bib.
mo·lib'date. Molybdate. Ref. Sp.
Mo'lid (mō'lĭd). Bib.
Mol'i·dae (mŏl'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mola + idae.] Zool. See SUNFISH, 1. moll. † MOLE, MULL. mol'la, mol'lah. Vars. of MULLAH. mol'land, n. [Cf. MAIL rent.] See MOLMAN. moll'cau'dle (mŏl'kô'd'l), moll'cod'dle (-kŏd'l). Vars. of MOLLYCODDLE. mol'le-mock (mŏl'ē-mŏk), mol'le-moke (-mōk). Vars. of MALLEMUCK. mol'li·col'dle. Mollycoddle. Ref. Sp. mol'lie, Mol'lie (mŏl'ĭ). Vars. of MOLLY, MOLLY. mol'li·ent (mŏl'ĭ·ĕnt; mōl'yĕnt), adj & n. [L. molliens, pres. part. of mollire to soften, fr. mollis soft.] = EMOLLIENT, adj. & n. mol'li·ent·ly, adv. [See -ABLE.] mol'li·fi'a·ble (mŏl'ĭ·fī'ȧ·b'l). mol'li·fi'ed·ly (-fī'ĕd·lĭ; -fīd·lĭ; 119), adv. of MOLLIFIED. mol'li·grubs. Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of MULLIGRUBS. mol'lock (mŏl'ŭk). Var. of MULLOCK. Obs. exc. Dial.
Mol·lu'gi·na'ce·ae (mō·lū'jĭ·nā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of AIZOACEAE (in part). mol'lusc. Var. of MOLLUSK.

Mol·lus'ca (mŏ·lŭs'kȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MOLLUSK.] Zool. A large phylum containing most of the animals popularly called shellfish except the crustaceans. It comprises the slugs, snails, mussels, clams, oysters, whelks, limpets, cuttlefishes, etc. They have a soft unsegmented body without segmented appendages, protected in most cases by a calcareous shell secreted by a modified part of the external body wall called the mantle, because it generally forms an enveloping flap or fold. Part of the ventral surface of the body usually forms a muscular organ, the foot, which in the different groups is variously modified for creeping, digging, swimming, etc. The Mollusca have a well-developed heart and vascular system, and typically one or more pairs of gills (called ctenidia), which may be variously modified or entirely replaced by other breathing organs. The nervous system is composed of several pairs of ganglia with longitudinal and transverse commissures. Eyes (sometimes highly developed) and organs of hearing are often present. The sexes may or may not be distinct. In typical cases the embryos pass through trochophore and veliger stages. The phylum is commonly divided into the classes Scaphopoda, Amphineura, Lamellibranchia (or Pelecypoda), Gastropoda, and Cephalopoda. In old classifications the brachiopods and tunicates, and sometimes certain crustaceans were included. — mol·lus'can (-kăn), adj. & n.

mol'lus·civ'o·rous (mŏl'ŭ·sĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. Feeding upon mollusks.

mol·lus'coid (mŏ·lŭs'koid), adj. Also mol'lus·coi'dal. [Mollusca + -oid.] Zool. a Like a mollusk. b Belonging to the Molluscoida. — n. One of the Molluscoida.

Mol'lus·coi'da (mŏl'ŭs·koi'dȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A phylum of animals having a lophophore, and comprising the Bryozoa, Brachiopoda, and, commonly, Phoronidea. It was formerly included in the mollusks. — mol'lus·coi'dan (-dăn), adj.

mol·lus'cous (mŏ·lŭs'kŭs), adj. 1. Zool. Molluscan. 2. Spineless; flabby. 3. Med. Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of a molluscum. — mol·lus'cous·ness, n.

mol·lus'cum (mŏ·lŭs'kŭm), n. [NL. See MOLLUSK.] Med. Literally, something soft; — used in designating various cutaneous affections, esp. ‖mol·lus'cum con·ta'gi·o'sum (kŏn·tā'jĭ·ō'sŭm) or e'pi·the'lĭ·a'le (ĕp'ĭ·thē'lĭ·ā'lē), a mildly contagious, autoinoculable disease characterized by small rounded nodules on the skin, with a central depression and curdlike content.

mol'lusk (mŏl'ŭsk), n. [F. mollusque, fr. L. molluscus soft, fr. mollis soft. See MOLLIFY.] One of the Mollusca.

mol'lusk, v. i. To behave as a mollusk.

Mol'ly (mŏl'ĭ), n. 1. Pet or colloq. form of MARY. Hence [often not cap.]: a Slang & Dial. A moll. b Orig. Slang. An effeminate man or boy; a mollycoddle; a milksop; — often Miss Molly.

2. [not cap.] A kind of large basket for fruit, etc. Eng.

mol'ly (mŏl'ĭ), n. Short for MALLEMUCK.

mol'ly (mŏl'ĭ). Var. of MALI. Anglo-Indian.

mol'ly·cod'dle (mŏl'ĭ·kŏd'l), n. 1. A person who coddles himself or is coddled; an effeminate man or boy.

2. = BETTY, n., 2. Dial. Eng.

mol'ly·cod'dle, v. t. & i. To coddle; pamper. — mol'ly·cod'dler (-kŏd'lĕr), n. — mol'ly·cod'dling (-lĭng), n.

mol'ly·cos'set (-kŏs'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), v. t. & i. To mollycoddle.

Mol'ly Ma·guire' (mȧ·gwīr'); pl. MOLLY MAGUIRES (-gwīrz'). a A member of a secret association formed among the tenantry in Ireland about 1843, principally to intimidate law officers and prevent the service of legal writs. Its members disguised themselves in the dress of women. b A member of a similar association of Irishmen organized in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania, about 1854, and broken up in 1877. — Mol'ly Ma·guire'ism (-ĭz'm).

Mol'ly Pitch'er (pĭch'ĕr). A possibly legendary heroine of the Revolutionary War, said to have taken her husband's place as an artilleryman at the battle of Monmouth.

mol'ly wash'dish' (wŏsh'dĭsh'). The pied wagtail. Local, Eng.

mol'man (mŏl'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). [Cf. MAIL rent.] Early Eng. Feudal Law. One of a class of tenants who had been released from most of their service on condition of paying certain rents for their land, called mol'land (mŏl'-ănd). They became classed as free.

Mo'loch (mō'lŏk), n. [LL., fr. Gr. Moloch, fr. Heb. Mōlekh; cf. Heb. melekh king.] 1. Bib. A Semitic deity, spoken of in the Old Testament as "the abomination of the Ammonites," but doubtless the same god as Melkarth of the Phoenicians, Milcom of the Ammonites, and various similar Semitic deities. His worship was accompanied by human sacrifice, esp. of firstborn children. The form Molech, modeled after the word for "shame," is an intentional distortion of later Hebrew writers for Melech, "king." Cf. BAAL, 1.

2. [often not cap.] A vicious practice or evil doctrine for which humanity is sacrificed.

3. [not cap.] A very spiny, harmless agamid lizard (Moloch horridus) of western and southern Australia.

Moloch (M. horridus). (¼) Mo'loch·ize (mō'lŏk·īz), v. t. To imbue with the cruelty of Moloch worship; to sacrifice as to Moloch.

mo'loid (mō'loid), adj. [Mola + -oid.] Zool. Like, or pert. to, the family Molidae. — n. A moloid fish.

mol'o·ker (mŏl'ō·kĕr), mol'ock·er (-ŭk·ĕr), n. A renovated hat. — v. t. To renovate (a hat). Both Slang, Eng.

mo·lom'pi (mō·lŏm'pĭ), n. [Cf. Ila mulombe, Bemba umulombe.] African rosewood.

Mo·los'si·an (mō·lŏsh'ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of Molossis, a district of ancient Epirus famous for its breed of large hounds. — n. A native or inhabitant of Molossis; also, a breed of large hound, a variety of mastiff.

mo·los'sic (mō·lŏs'ĭk), adj. Pros. Of or pert. to a molossus.

Mo·los'si·dae (mō·lŏs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See MOLOSSUS.] Zool. A family of tropical and subtropical bats having a short fifth finger and short hind legs. — mo·los'sine (-ĭn; -īn), adj. — mo·los'soid (-oid), adj. & n.

mo·los'sus (mō·lŏs'ŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Molossos Molossian.] 1. Gr. & Lat. Pros. A foot of three long syllables.

2. [cap.] Zool. The type genus of bats of the family Molossidae. Cf. BULLDOG BAT.

Mol'o·thrus (mŏl'ō·thrŭs), n. [NL., by error for Molobrus, fr. Gr. molobros greedy fellow.] Zool. A genus of Icteridae consisting of the cowbirds.

mol'pe (mŏl'pē), n. [Gr. molpē. Cf. MELPOMENE.] Gr. Antiq. In Homeric use, song accompanied by dance.

mol'rook·en (mŏl'rŏŏk·ĕn), n. The crested grebe (Colymbus cristatus). See GREBE. Local, Ireland.

molt, moult (mōlt), v.; MOLT'ED or MOULT'ED; MOLT'ING or MOULT'ING. [ME. mouten, fr. AS. mūtian, in bimūtian to exchange for, fr. L. mutare. See MEW to molt; cf. MUTE to molt.] Intransitive: 1. To be shed or cast; — said of feathers, etc., shed periodically. Obs.

2. To shed or cast off the hair, feathers, outer layer of the skin, horns, or the like, the castoff parts being replaced by new growth.

—, Transitive: To cast off and renew by molting.

molt, moult, n. The act or process of molting; also, the castoff covering. Most mammals shed their hair once a year; birds shed their feathers once, twice, or in some cases three times annually; reptiles slough their skins, crustaceans their entire exoskeleton and even horny parts of internal structures, and insect larvae cast off their outer cuticle several times during their period of growth. Cf. ECDYSIS, EXUVIATE.

mol'ten (mōl'tĕn; -t'n). Archaic past part. of MELT. Hence, adj. 1. Melted; in fusion, esp. from intense heat.

2. Made by melting and casting the substance or metal of which the thing is formed; as, a molten image.

3. Having been previously melted and solidified. Obs.

— mol'ten·ly, adv.

molt'er, moult'er (mōl'tĕr), n. A bird that is molting.

‖mol'to (mŏl'tō), adv. [It.] Music. Much; very; — used in directions. Hence, ‖mol'to a·da'gio (ä·dä'jō), very slowly; — a direction.

Mo·luc'ca (mō·lŭk'ȧ), adj. Of or pertaining to the Moluccas, or Spice Islands. — Mo·luc'can (-ăn), adj.

Molucca balm. See MOLUCCELLA.

Molucca bean. The nicker nut. See GUILANDINA.

Molucca berry. The edible fruit of the wild olive Elaeocarpus serratus, native to India.

Molucca grains. The seeds of Croton tiglium, the source of croton oil (which see).

Mol'uc·cel'la (mŏl'ŭk·sĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. the Moluccas, or Spice Islands, of which the plants were supposed to be natives.] Bot. A small genus of mints (family Lamiaceae) found in the Mediterranean region, having small, white, pink-tipped flowers in whorls. M. laevis, the Molucca balm of gardens, is known also as shellflower, from the enlarged shell-like calyx.

mo'ly (mō'lĭ), n.; pl. MOLIES (-lĭz). [L., fr. Gr. mōly; akin to Skr. mūla a root. Cf. HARMEL.] 1. A fabulous herb, of occult power, having a black root and white blossom, said by Homer to have been given by Hermes to Odysseus to counteract the spells of Circe.

2. A European wild garlic (Allium moly), cultivated for its bright-yellow flowers.

mo·lyb'date (mō·lĭb'dāt), n. A salt of molybdic acid.

mol'yb·de'na (mŏl'ĭb·dē'nȧ), n. [L. molybdaena. See MOLYBDENUM.] a Any of various lead ores or compounds. b Molybdenite. c Molybdenite. Obs.

mol'yb·den'ic (mŏl'ĭb·dĕn'ĭk), adj. Molybdic.

mo·lyb'de·nif'er·ous (mō·lĭb'dē·nĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [molybdenum + -ferous.] Containing molybdenum.

mo·lyb'de·nite (mō·lĭb'dē·nīt; mŏl'ĭb·dē'nīt), n. [See MOLYBDENUM.] Mineral. Molybdenum disulphide, MoS_2, occurring in foliated masses or scales resembling graphite, but differing from the latter in its bluer color, in giving a greenish streak on porcelain, and yielding a sulphurous odor before the blowpipe. H., 1–1.5 Sp. gr., 4.7–4.8. It is valuable as a source of molybdenum and its compounds.

mo·lyb'de·nous (mō·lĭb'dē·nŭs; mŏl'ĭb·dē'nŭs), adj. Molybdous.

mo·lyb'de·num (mō·lĭb'dē·nŭm; mŏl'ĭb·dē'nŭm; 277), n. [NL., fr. L. molybdaena galena, fr. Gr. molybdaina, fr. molybdos lead. See PLUMB.] A metallic element of the chromium group, resembling iron in its white color, malleability, difficult fusibility, and its capacity for forming steellike alloys with carbon. Sp. gr., 10.2. Symbol, Mo; at. no., 42; at. wt., 95.95. Molybdenum occurs only in combination, chiefly in molybdenite, wulfenite, and molybdite. It is obtained by reducing certain of its compounds with hydrogen, carbon, or aluminum. Chemically, molybdenum has the valences two, three, four, five, and six (as in molybdic acid). It is used, in the form of ferromolybdenum, to strengthen steel. Certain compounds of it are used in coloring pottery, fabrics, leather, etc.

molybdenum steel. Steel containing molybdenum, which increases the elastic limit. A high percentage (10–15 per cent) produces a steel similar to tungsten steel.

molybdenum trioxide. A light white solid, MoO_3.

mo·lyb'dic (mō·lĭb'dĭk), adj. [See MOLYBDENUM.] Chem. Of, pert. to, or containing, molybdenum; specif., designating those compounds in which the element has a higher valence as contrasted with molybdous compounds.

mo·lyb'dic ac'id (mō·lĭb'dĭk). a Any of various acids derived from molybdenum trioxide, MoO_3, of which the simplest is H_2MoO_4. Salts of this acid (monomolybdates) are unstable, readily forming complex polymolybdates, as $(NH_4)_8Mo_7O_{24}$. Other complex salts are numerous. b Molybdenum trioxide.

mo·lyb'dite (mō·lĭb'dīt), n. Mineral. A yellow pulverulent hydrous ferric molybdate associated with molybdenite; — called also molybdic ocher.

mo·lyb'do- (mō·lĭb'dō-), molybd-. [See MOLYBDENUM.] A combining form, Greek molybdo-, molybd-, from molybdos, meaning lead, as in mo·lyb'do·man'cy (see -MANCY), used in Chem. for molybdous, and in Med. for lead poisoning, as in the following:

molybdocardialgia	molybdodyspepsia	molybdoparesis
molybdocolic	molybdonosus	molybdosis mo·lyb'do·me'nite (mō·lĭb'dō·mē'nĭt), n. [molybdo- + Gr. mēnē moon + -ite.] Native lead selenite, $PbSeO_3$.

mo·lyb'do·phyl'lite (-fĭl'ĭt), n. [molybdo- + phyll- + -ite.] Mineral. A hydrous lead magnesium silicate.

mo·lyb'dous (mō·lĭb'dŭs), adj. [See MOLYBDENUM.] Of, pertaining to, or containing, molybdenum. See MOLYBDIC.

mol'y·site (mŏl'ĭ·sīt), n. [Cf. Gr. molysma spot, taint, fr. molysmos, molynein, defilement, fr. molynein to stain.] Mineral. Native ferric chloride, $FeCl_3$, found in Vesuvian lava.

mom·bin' (mŏm·bēn'), n. [Sp. mombín, of Cariban origin.] A common tropical American shrub or small tree (Spondias purpurea) with compound leaves and purple paniculate flowers. Also, its edible purplish fruit. Called also jocote. Cf. HOG PLUM.

mom'ble (mŏm'b'l; -l), n. & v. Jumble; tangle. Dial. Eng.

mome (mōm), n. [Origin uncert.; cf. MUM.] A dull, silent person; a blockhead; a fool. Archaic.

mome (mōm), n. [From MOMUS.] 1. A caviling critic. Obs.

2. [Cf. lt. momo.] A buffoon. Nonce Use.

mo'ment (mō'mĕnt), n. [OF., fr. L. momentum, for movimentum, movement, motion, moment, fr. movere to move. See MOVE; cf. MOMENTUM, MOVEMENT.] 1. A minute portion of time; a point of time; an instant.

In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye. 1 Cor. xv. 52.

2. Obs. a In medieval reckoning, the fortieth or fiftieth of an hour. It was the tenth of a "point." b In rabbinical reckoning, 1/1080 of an hour. c Later, a second.

3. Obs. a A minute portion or part; a particle. b That which causes or prompts action; an influential or deciding point, fact, or consideration. c Movement; motion. d Momentum. e Math. An infinitesimal increment or decrement.

4. Importance, as in influence or effect; consequence; weight or value; consideration; — now used after of.

Matters of great moment. Shak.

5. A definite period or point. Specif., Chiefly Philos., a stage in development as in the history of thought, an institution, etc.; esp., a stage in logical development, in cognition, or in the growing adequacy of thought; hence, also, a phase, aspect, or partial apprehension of a subject or thing.

6. An essential or constituent element.

7. Geol. The time unit corresponding to the deposition of the strata of a faunal zone.

8. Mech. Tendency, or measure of tendency, to produce motion, esp. about a point or axis. It is measured in general by the product of a mass, force, velocity, or the like, into a perpendicular distance from or to the point or axis.

9. Statistics. Potency, or the measure of potency, in determining the position of the center or axis of distribution of some subject of statistical investigation.

Syn. — Minute, twinkling; weight, value, signification, avail. See INSTANT, IMPORTANCE.

Ant. — Age, eternity; unimportance, triviality.

mo·men'tal (mō·mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. [F.] 1. Momentary.

2. Mech. Of or pertaining to moment or momentum.

mo·men'tal·ly, adv. For a moment; also, every moment. Obs.

mo·men'ta·ne'i·ty (mō·mĕn'tȧ·nē'ĭ·tĭ), n. [From MOMENTANEOUS.] Pertinence to the moment.

mo'men·ta'ne·ous (mō'mĕn·tā'nē·ŭs; 159), adj. [LL. momentaneus.] 1. Momentary; also, instantaneous. Obs.

2. Gram. Indicating action begun and terminated in an instant; — an aspect or form of the verb.

3. Phonet. Pronounced with oral and nasal closure (p, d, etc.).

— mo'men·ta'ne·ous·ness, n. — -ta'ne·ous·ly, adv.

mo'ment–a're·a meth'od. A calculating method making use of the area and statical moment of the bending moment diagram of a member subjected to flexural stress.

mo'men·tar'y (mō'mĕn·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [L. momentarius. See MOMENT.] 1. Continuing only a moment; lasting a very short time; transitory; short-lived; ephemeral; as, a momentary pang.

2. Occurring, recurring, or acting, at every moment; as, hourly and momentary fears.

3. Rare. a Adapted to the moment. b Instantaneous.

4. Gram. & Phonet. Momentaneous.

Syn. and Ant. — See TRANSIENT.

— mo'men·tar'i·ly (-tĕr'ĭ·lĭ; emphat. also -târ'ĭ·lĭ), adv. — mo'men·tar'i·ness (-ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

mo'ment·ly (mō'mĕnt·lĭ), adj. Momentary.

mo'ment·ly (mō'mĕnt·lĭ), adv. 1. From moment to moment; every moment; as, increasing momently.

2. At any moment; in a moment; instantly.

3. For a, or the, moment; as, momently hidden.

moment of a couple. Mech. The product of either of its forces into the perpendicular distance between them.

moment of a force (or of a linear momentum, or of any vector quantity). Mech. a With respect to a point, the product of the magnitude of the vector and the perpendicular distance from the point to the line of direction. b With respect to a line, the product of the component of the vector in a plane perpendicular to the line by the perpendicular distance from the line to the component.

moment of a magnet. Magnetic moment.

moment of flexure. Bending moment.

moment of inertia (of a body or area about a given axis). Mech. The integral sum of the products of each indefinitely small portion of mass or area into the square of its distance from the given axis.

moment of population. The product of the population of a locality into its distance from an assumed axis.

moment of resistance. Mech. The sum of the moments of all forces in all the layers of a beam, etc., under stress, taken about the neutral axis. Cf. BENDING MOMENT.

mo·men'tous (mō·mĕn'tŭs), adj. [Cf. L. momentosus rapid, momentary.] 1. Having moment; of moment or consequence; very important; weighty; as, a momentous decision; momentous affairs.

2. Rare. a Important; influential; — said of persons. b Of or pertaining to momentum.

— mo·men'tous·ly, adv. — mo·men'tous·ness, n.

mo·men'tum (-tŭm), n.; pl. -TA (-tȧ), -TUMS (-tŭmz). [L. See MOMENT.] 1. Mech. Quantity of motion. It is the property of a moving body which determines the length of time required to bring it to rest when under the action of a constant force or moment. Linear momentum is momentum of translation and equals the product of the mass and the velocity of the center of mass. It is a vector quantity. Angular momentum is momentum of rotation and equals the product of the moment of inertia about the axis of rotation and the angular velocity.

2. Obs. a Math. = MOMENT, n., 3 e. b Impulsive power; force of motion. c Mech. = MOMENT, 8.

3. Popularly, force of motion acquired by a moving body as a result of the continuance of its motion; impetus.

4. = MOMENT, 6.

momentum pump. Any of various intermittent pumps acting on a principle similar to that of the hydraulic ram.

momentum valve. Engin. A valve, formerly used, to prevent concussion in a pipe by the sudden closing of a stop valve.

mo'mi·ol'o·gy (mō'mĭ·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [F. momie mummy + -logy.] The science of mummies. Rare.

mom'ish (mōm'ĭsh), adj. Like a mome; foolish. Obs.

mom'ist (mōm'ĭst), n. A faultfinder. Obs.

Mol·lus·coi'de·a (mŏl'ŭs·koi'dē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MOLLUSK; -OID.] Syn. of MOLLUSCOIDA. — mol'lus·coi'de·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

mol'ly·cot, n. [molly + 7th cot.] = BETTY, n., 2. Dial. Eng.

mol'ly·hawk' (mŏl'ĭ·hôk'), mol'ly·mauk', mol'ly·mawk' (-môk'). Vars. of MALLEMUCK.

Mol'loch·ship, n. See -SHIP.

mo·losse' (mō·lŏs'), n. = MOLOSSUS. Rare.

mo·los'si, n., pl. of MOLOSSUS.

mol'ter. + MULTURE.

Mo·lu'che (mō·lōō'chā), n. = ARAUCANIAN, n. [MAMMA.]

mom (mŏm), n. Corrupt. of Mom·bat'tu, n. = MANGBATTU.

Mom'dis (mŏm'dĭs). Bib.

mo·men'ta (mō·mĕn'tȧ), n., pl. of MOMENTUM.

mo·men'tane, adj. [OF. momentain, fr. LL. momentaneus.] = MOMENTARY. Obs. — mo·men'tane·ly, adv. Obs.

mo'men·ta'ne·all, adj. Also mo'men·ta'ne·an. = MOMENTARY, 1. Obs.

mo'men·ta'ny (mō'mĕn·tā'nĭ), adj. = MOMENTARY. Obs. — mo'men·ta'ni·ness, n. Obs. — mo'men·tar'y-con'tact switch. See SWITCH, n., 5.

mo·men'tine, adj. = MOMENTARY. Obs.

mom'ma. Illit. var. of MAMMA.

mom'me (mŏm'mē), n. sing. & pl. [Jap.] See WEIGHT, Table.

mom'met (mŏm'ĕt). Dial. Eng. & Scot. var. of MAUMET.

mom'mick (mŏm'ĭk). Var. of MAMMOCK. Archaic & Dial. Eng.

mom'my (mŏm'ĭ), n. The old squaw duck. New Jersey.
mom'my (mŏm'ĭ). Dial. var of MAMMY. mo'mo (mō'mō), n. The short-eared owl. Guam.
Mo·mor'di·ca (mō·môr'dĭ·ka), n. [NL., fr. L. mordere, momordisse, to bite; — alluding to the seeds, which look as if bitten.] Bot. A genus of tropical Old World herbaceous vines (family Cucurbitaceae), having a berrylike warty fruit. M. cochinchinensis yields golkakra. See BALSAM APPLE.
Mo·mot'i·dae (mō·mŏt'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See MOTMOT.] A family of tropical American birds (order Coraciiformes) related to the rollers and kingfishers and consisting of the motmots (subfamily Mo'mo·ti'nae [mō'mō·tī'nē]) and, according to some, also the todies. The typical genus is Mo·mo'tus (mō·mō'tŭs).
Mo'mus (mō'mŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. mōmos blame, ridicule, Momus; perh. akin to Gr. mōkos mocker.] 1. Gr. Myth, Ridicule personified as a mocking and censorious god.
2. Hence, a faultfinder; a (carping) critic.
— daughter, disciple or son of Momus. A person who takes pleasure in ridiculing others; a wag.
mon (mŏn), n. [Jap.] Japan. The badge of a family, esp. of a family of the ancient feudal nobility. The most frequent form of the mon is circular, and it commonly consists of conventionalized forms from nature, flowers, birds, insects, the lightning, the waves of the sea, or of geometrical symbolic figures. It appears on lacquer and pottery, and is embroidered on, or woven in, fabrics. Theimperial chrysanthemum, the mon of the reigning family, is used as a national emblem. See KIKUMON.

Mon of the Tokugawa Family.

Mon (mōn), n. 1. One of the dominant native race of Pegu in Burma. They are Buddhists, and one of the most progressive peoples of Farther India. Cf. PEGUAN.
2. The language of the Mons, written in an alphabet derived from the Pali. See AUSTROASIATIC, C; MON-KHMER. mon (mŏn). Var. of MAN; MUN, v Obs. exc. Dial.
mon- (mŏn-). = MONO- (which see), as in *mon*androus. mo'na (mō'nȧ), n. [NL., of Romanic origin. See MONKEY.] A small, handsome West African guenon monkey (Cercopithecus mona).
Mon'a·can (mŏn'ȧ·kăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Monaco. — n. A native or inhabitant of Monaco.
Mon'a·can (mŏn'ȧ·kăn), n. An Indian of a Siouan tribe, or of a confederacy of closely related tribes, now extinct, formerly dwelling in the upper valley of the James River in Virginia.
mon'a·can'thid (mŏn'ȧ·kăn'thĭd), adj. Also mon'a·can'thous (-thŭs). [See MONO-; ACANTHA.] Zool. Having a single row of spines bordering the ambulacra.
Mon'a·can'thi·dae (-kăn'thĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A family of fishes (suborder Scleroderm) including the filefishes. — mon'a·can'thid (-thĭd), n. & adj. — mon'a·can'thine (-thĭn; -thīn), adj. & n. mon'a·chal (mŏn'ȧ·kăl), adj. [ML. monachalis, fr. monachus a monk; cf. F. monacal. See MONK.] Of, pert. to, or characteristic of, monks or monastic life; monastic. mon'a·chate (mŏn'ȧ·kăt), n. [ML. monachatus.] Period or time of being a monk.
mon'a·chism (-kĭz'm), n. 1 Monasticism.
2. A monachal peculiarity. Milton.
mon'a·chist (-kĭst), adj. Monkish.
mon'a·chize (-kīz), v. i. [LL. monachus monk + -ize.] To make monks of. — v. i. To become, or live as, a monk. — mon'a·chi·za'tion (-kĭ·zā'shŭn; -kĭ·zā'-), n.
mon·ac'tin (mŏn·ăk'tĭn), n. [See MONACTINE.] Zool. A monaxon.
mon·ac'tine (mŏn·ăk'tĭn; -tīn), adj. Also mon·ac'ti·nal (mŏn·ăk'tĭ·năl; mŏn'ăk·tī'năl; -n'l). [mono- + Gr. aktis, aktinos, ray.] Zool. Single-rayed.
mon·ac'ti·nel'lid (-tĭ·nĕl'ĭd), n. [See MONACTINE.] Zool. A monaxonial sponge. — mon·ac'ti·nel'lid, adj. — mon·ac'ti·nel'li·dan (-ĭ·dăn), adj.
mon'ad (mŏn'ăd; mō'năd), n. [LL. monas, -adis, a unit, fr. Gr. monas, -ados, fr. monos alone; cf. F. monade. See MONO-.] 1. Philos. a In Greek philosophy, a unit; individual; atom. b With Giordano Bruno, Leibnitz, and others, an individual elementary being, psychical or spiritual in nature, but constituting the underlying reality of the physical as well. Each monad reflects within itself, with some degree of clearness, the whole universe. See LEIBNITZIANISM.
2. Hence, the supreme being; the deity.
3. Biol. Any minute simple organism or organic unit.
4. Bot. A zoospore. Rare.
5. Chem. A univalent element, atom, or radical.
6. Zool. A flagellate protozoan (see MASTIGOPHORA), esp. one of the genus Monas or related genus. mon'ad, adj. Of the nature of a monad.
monad deme. Biol. An aggregate of undifferentiated monads.
mon'a·del'phous (mŏn'ȧ·dĕl'fŭs), adj. [mon- + Gr. adelphos brother.] Bot. a Having the filaments united into a single tube around the gynoecium, as in the flowers of the mallow family (Malvaceae). Cf. DIADELPHOUS, POLYADELPHOUS. b Obs. Pertaining to the Mon'a·del'phi·a (-fĭ·ȧ), a disused Linnaean class of plants having monadelphous flowers. — mon'a·delph (mŏn'ȧ·dĕlf), n. — mon'a·del'phi·an (-dĕl'fĭ·ăn), adj.

Monadelphous Stamens of Lupine.

monadi-, A combining form for monad, as in mo·nad'i·form, mon'a·dig'er·ous. See -FORM, -GEROUS. mo·nad'ic (mō·năd'ĭk), mo·nad'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [Gr. monadikos consisting of units.] Of, pertaining to, or like, a monad. — mo·nad'i·cal·ly, adv.
Mon'a·di'na (mŏn'ȧ·dī'nȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MONAD.] Zool. In older classifications, a group nearly equivalent to Mastigophora. mon'ad·ism (mŏn'ăd·ĭz'm; mō'năd-), n. [monad + -ism.] The theory that the universe is a composite of monads. — mon'ad·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj.
Mo·nad'noc (mō·năd'nŏk), n. A poem (1845) by Emerson. mo·nad'nock (mō·năd'nŏk), n. [From Mt. Monadnock, N. H., fr. its Massachuset name, lit., prominent mountain.] Phys. Geog. A hill or mountain of resistant rock surmounting a peneplain. mon'ad·ol'o·gy (mŏn'ăd·ŏl'ō·jĭ; mō'năd-), n. [F. monadologie. See MONAD; -LOGY.] Philos. Monadism. mo·nal' (mō·nŏl'), n. Also mo·naul', moo·nal'. [Nepali munāl.] Any of several large gorgeous pheasants of the genus Lophophorus, found at high altitudes in northern India. In L. impeyanus the male has the body shining green and blue, the neck gilded purple, the rump white, and the tail rufous. See IMPEYAN PHEASANT. Also loosely applied to some other Indian pheasants, as certain tragopans.
Mo'na Li'sa (mō'nȧ lē'zȧ; mŏn'ȧ). [It. Mona, Monna, madam. Cf. MADONNA.] Leonardo da Vinci's portrait (now in the Louvre) of Lisa, the wife of Francesco del Giocondo, a Florentine gentleman. It is famous for its subtle smile. Called also La Gioconda.
mon·am'ni·ot'ic (mŏn·ăm'nĭ·ŏt'ĭk), adj. [mon- + amniotic.] Having only one amnion, as certain twins.
Mo·nan'dri·a (mō·năn'drĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MONANDROUS.] Bot. A disused Linnaean class of plants embracing those having flowers with a single stamen. — mo·nan'der (-dĕr), n. — mo·nan'dri·an (-drĭ·ăn), adj.
mo·nan'dric (mō·năn'drĭk), adj. Of or pert. to monandry.
mo·nan'drous (mō·năn'drŭs), adj. [mono- + -androus.] 1. Bot. a Pertaining to the class Monandria. Obs. b Having flowers with a single stamen, as many orchids.
2. [Gr. monandros.] Of or pertaining to monandry or its practice.
mo·nan'dry (-drĭ), n. [Gr. monandros having one husband. See MONANDROUS.] 1. The state or custom of having only one husband at a time. Cf. POLYANDRY.
2. Bot. Condition of being monandrous. mo·nan'thous (-thŭs), adj. [mono- + -anthous.] Bot. One-flowered.
mon·ap'sal (mŏn·ăp'săl; -s'l), adj. [See MONO-; APSE.] Having but one apse. mon'arch (mŏn'ĕrk), n. [LL. monarcha, fr. Gr. monarchēs, monarchos, fr. monos alone + archein to be first, rule, govern. See MONO-; -ARCH.] 1. A sole supreme ruler; the sovereign of a monarchy; also, often now, the hereditary chief of a limited or constitutional monarchy. Monarchs bear (or have borne) specific titles varying with the country, as king, queen, emperor, empress, czar (Russia), czarina (Russia), kaiser (Germany and Austria), sultan (Turkey and Morocco), shah (Persia), etc.
2. One likened to a sole ruler in position, or the like, as one first of a kind, a patron or tutelary deity, etc.; as, an oak is called the monarch of the forest.
3. A sovereign (Eng. coin). Slang, Eng.
4. A large butterfly (Danaüs archippus, syn. Anosia plexippus) having orange-brown wings with black veins and borders, whose larva feeds on milkweed.
5. [cap.] Astron. = 1st CEPHEUS, 2. See CONSTELLATION, 2. mon'arch, v. i. To play the monarch; — often with it.
mon'arch, n. [OF. monarche, monarque.] Monarchy. Obs. mon'arch, adj. [mono- + Gr. archē beginning, origin.] Bot. Having only one xylem strand or group, as certain roots.
mo·nar'chal (mō·när'kăl), adj. 1. Of, pert. to, characteristic of, or suiting, a monarch; sovereign; regal; imperial.
2. Under a monarch; vested in a monarch. Now Rare.
3. Of the nature of, having the position of, or acting as, a monarch; as, a monarchal viceroy.
— mo·nar'chal·ly, adv.
mo·nar'chi·al (-kĭ·ăl), adj. [See MONARCHY.] Monarchic. mo·nar'chi·an (-ăn), n. [LL. monarchianus. See MONARCHY.] Eccl. Hist. An adherent of monarchianism. — mo·nar'chi·an, adj.
mo·nar'chi·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Eccl. Hist. & Theol. An anti-Trinitarian doctrine or theory current in the church of the 2d and 3d centuries in several forms, the common principle of which was that God is a single person as well as a single being. The two chief forms or types of the theory are: (1) dynamic, dynamistic, humanitarian, or rationalistic, monarchianism, the adherents of which maintained that Christ was a mere man, and was Son of God by adoption; (2) modalistic monarchianism, or modalism, the adherents of which maintained that Christ was truly divine, but as divine was indistinguishable from God the Father, being one of the three modes or manifestations of the divine being. The adherents of this latter type (called also modalists) were numerous. In the West they were called Patripassians, because the logical consequence of their identification of the Father and the Son was that the Father was born, suffered, and died, while in the East they were usually grouped together under the name of Sabellians (see SABELLIAN, n.). — mo·nar'chi·an·ist (-ĭst), n. — mo·nar'chi·an·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj.
mo·nar'chic (mō·när'kĭk), adj. Also mo·nar'chi·cal (-kĭ·kăl). [F. monarchique, fr. Gr. monarchikos.] Of or pertaining to, or of the nature of, a monarch or monarchy; characteristic of a monarch; adhering to, or favoring the principles of, a monarchy. See GOVERNMENT, 2. — mo·nar'chi·cal·ly, adv.
mo·nar'chi·co- (mō·när'kĭ·kō-). A combining form for monarchic, denoting monarchical and, as in mo·nar'chi·co-a·ris'to·crat'ĭ·cal.
mon'arch·ism (mŏn'ĕr·kĭz'm), n. Monarchic government or principles, or advocacy of them. — mon'arch·is'tic (-kĭs'tĭk), adj.
mon'arch·ist (-kĭst), n. An advocate of, supporter of, or believer in, monarchy or monarchism. — mon'arch·ist, adj.
mon'arch·ize (-kīz), v. [MON'ARCH·IZED (-kīzd); MON'ARCH·IZ'ING (-kīz'ĭng). Intransitive: To play the sovereign; to act or rule as monarch; — sometimes with it.
— Transitive: 1. To subject to a single ruler; to rule as a monarch; to govern. Obs.
2. To convert into, or establish as, a monarchy mon'arch·iz'er (-kīz'ĕr), n. One who monarchizes.
Mo·nar'cho (mō·när'kō), n. The nickname of an Italian who insanely fancied himself an emperor. Obs.
mo·nar'cho·mach'ic (mō·när'kō·măk'ĭk), adj. [Gr. monarchia monarchy + machē battle.] Opposing or fighting monarchy. Rare. — mon'ar·chom'a·chist (mŏn'ĕr·kŏm'ȧ·kĭst), n. Rare.
mon'arch·y (mŏn'ĕr·kĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-kĭz). [OF. monarchie, fr. LL. monarchia, fr. Gr. monarchia. See MONARCH.] 1. Sovereignty of a single person. Now Rare.
2. A state ruled over by a monarch; also, the rule exercised by such a person. A monarchy is called an absolute monarchy when there are no constitutional limitations on the monarch's powers; a limited, or constitutional monarchy, when there are such limitations.
3. Government in which a single person is sovereign.
In those days he had affected zeal for monarchy. Macaulay. mon'arch·y (mŏn'ĕr·kĭ), n. Bot. State of being monarch.
Mo·nar'da (mō·när'dȧ), n. [NL., after N. Monardēs (d. 1578), Sp. physician and botanist.] Bot. A small genus of North American mints (family Lamiaceae), including the wild bergamot (M. fistulosa), horsemint M. punctata, and Oswego tea (M. didyma). See WILD FLOWER, Plate.
Mon'ar·del'la (mŏn'ăr·dĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., dim. See MONARDA.] Bot. A genus of fragrant herbs (family Lamiaceae) of the western United States, similar to Monarda, but with a 10–13-nerved calyx. M. lanceolata is the mustang mint.
mon·ar'tic·u·lar (mŏn'ăr·tĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. [mono- + articular.] Med. Pertaining to or affecting one joint only. mon'as (mŏn'ăs; mō'năs), n.; pl. MONADES (mŏn'ȧ·dēz). [LL.] 1. A monad.
2. Zool. [cap.] A genus of minute flagellate protozoans. -monas. [NL.] Zool. A combining form from Latin monas [see MONAD], meaning unit, used in many generic names, esp. for Protozoa, as in Chlamydomonas.
Mon'a·sa (mŏn'ȧ·sȧ), n. [NL. See MONACHA.] A genus of South American puffbirds. See NUNBIRD.
Mon'as·cid'i·ae (mŏn'ȧ·sĭd'ĭ·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Ascidiae.] The Ascidiae simplices — mon'as·cid'i·an (-ăn), adj. & n.
mon'ase (mŏn'ăs), n. A nunbird.
mon·as'ter (mŏn·ăs'tĕr), n. [mono- + 1st -aster.] Biol. A single aster formed in an aberrant type of mitosis.
mon'as·te'ri·al (mŏn'ăs·tē'rĭ·ăl), adj. [LL. monasterialis, fr. monasterium.] Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a monastery. — mon'as·te'ri·al·ly, adv.
mon'as·ter'y (mŏn'ăs·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -trĭ), n.; pl. -TERIES (-ĭz). [LL. monasterium, fr. Gr. monastērion, fr. monastēs a solitary, a monk, fr. monazein to be alone, live in solitude, fr. monos alone. See MONK; cf. MINSTER.] A house of religious retirement, or of seclusion from the world for persons under religious vows, esp. monks; a convent; — rarely, such a house for women.
Syn. — See CLOISTER.
Monastery of Mt. Sinai. See ORTHODOX CHURCH.
Mon'as·ter'y, The. A historical romance (1820) of the 16th century, by Scott. See GLENDINING, HALBERT. mo·nas'tic (mō·năs'tĭk), adj. [ML. monasticus, fr. Gr monastikos, fr. monazein. See MONASTERY.] Of or pert. to monasteries or their occupants; as, monastic institutions, rules, etc.; also, secluded from temporal concerns and devoted to religion. "A life monastic." Denham Syn. — MONASTIC, MONKISH apply to whatever pertains to monks or monasteries. Of the two, MONKISH is more frequently used in a depreciatory sense; as, "monastic strictness" (Sheridan); "monastic fare" (W. Pater); "the monkish stupidity of the times" (Goldsmith); "a monkish . . . superstition" (Shelley). Cf. MONK.
— mo·nas'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. — mo·nas'ti·cal·ly, adv mo·nas'tic, n. A monk. mo·nas'ti·cism (-tĭ·sĭz'm), n. The monastic life, system, or condition; specif., organized asceticism monastic vows. The vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience taken by a religious mon'a·tom'ic (mŏn'ȧ·tŏm'ĭk), adj [mono- + atomic.] Chem. a Preferably, consisting of one atom; having one atom in the molecule. b Univalent. c Having one replaceable atom or radical. — mon·at'om·ic'i·ty (mŏn·ăt'ŭm·ĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. — mon·at'om·ism (mŏn·ăt'ŭm·ĭz'm), n mon·au'los (mŏn·ô'lŏs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī) [L., fr Gr monaulos.] Music. A Greek single-pipe flute or flageolet Cf. DIAULOS.
mon·au'ral (mŏn·ô'răl), adj [mono- + 1st aural.] Having, or using, but one ear; pertaining to one ear mon·ax'i·al (mŏn·ăk'sĭ·ăl), adj [mono- + axial.] Having a single axis; uniaxial; — specif., Bot., developing inflorescence directly on the primary axis Cf PLURIAXIAL mon·ax'on (-sŏn), adj [mono- + Gr. axōn axis.] Monaxonic. — n. A monaxonic sponge spicule or nerve cell mon'ax·o'ni·al (mŏn'ăks·ō'nĭ·ăl), adj. Monaxial.
mon'ax·on'ic (-ŏn'ĭk), adj Having but one axis or axis cylinder process.
Mon'ax·on'i·da (mŏn'ăks·ŏn'ĭ·dȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool A division of sponges (Demospongiae) having monaxonic spicules only.
mon'a·zite (mŏn'ȧ·zīt), n. [Gr. monazein to be solitary; in allusion to its isolated crystals.] Mineral. A yellow, red, or brown mineral occurring often in sand and gravel deposits, as in the Carolinas and Brazil. It is a phosphate of the cerium metals, essentially $(Ce,La,Nd,Pr)PO_4$ It usually contains thorium.
mon'chi·quite (mŏn'chĭ·kīt), n. [From Monchique Mts. (Serra di Monchique) in southern Portugal.] Petrog A porphyritic rock with phenocrysts of biotite, one or more pyriboles, olivine and magnetite in an isotropic groundmass now considered primary analcite. It occurs in dikes.
Mon'day (mŭn'dĭ), n. [ME. moneday, monenday, fr. AS. mōnandæg, i.e., day of the moon, day sacred to the moon; a translation of L. lunae dies; cf. D. maandag, G. montag, OHG. mānatag, ON. mānadagr. See MOON; DAY.] The second day of the week; the day following Sunday Mon'day·ish, adj. Characteristic of Monday; specif., fagged out after Sunday — Mon'day·ish·ness, n.
Mon'day·land (-lănd), n. Eng. Feudal Hist. Land consisting of the plots held by cotters on condition of working for their lord one day in the week, generally Monday ‖monde (mōnd; E. mŏnd), n. [F. See 1st MOUND.] 1. The world of fashion; society; one's world, coterie, or circle.
2. A mound, or globe, used as an ensign of royalty.
Mond gas (mŏnd; G. mŏnt). [After Ludwig Mond, Ger. chemist in England.] A variety of semiwater gas, having typically a calorific value of about 145 B.T.U. per cu. ft. Ammonia is often recovered as a by-product.
‖mon' Dieu' (mŏN' dyû'). [F.] Literally, my God; — used as a mild interjection.
Mo·nel' (mō·nĕl'), n., Monel metal. [After Ambrose Monell (d. 1921), Am. mfr.] A trade-mark for an alloy of approximately 67 per cent of nickel, 28 of copper, and 5 of other elements, chiefly iron and manganese, made by direct mo'mot (mō'mŏt). Var. of MOTMOT. mon'a·cal. Var. of MONACHAL. mon·ac'e·tin (mŏn·ăs'ē·tĭn; mō·năs'-). Var. of MONOACETIN. mon'ach, n. [LL. monachus. See MONK.] A monk. Obs.

Mon'a·cha (mŏn'ȧ·kȧ), n. [NL., fr. LL. monacha nun; — name proposed as correction of earlier Monasa.] Syn. of MONASA.
Mo·na'chi (mō·nā'chē), n. = MONO. mon·ac'id. Var. of MONOACID. mon'a·delph, -del'phi·a, etc. Incorrect for MONODELPH, etc.
mon'a·des, n., pl. of MONAS. mon'aene (mŏn'ēn; mō'nēn), n. See -AENE, MONO-. mon'a·ker. Var. of MONIKER.
‖mon' a'mi' (mŏn'-nȧ'mē'), fem. ‖mon' a'mie' (-mē'). [F.] My friend, also, my lover.
mon·am'ide, mon·am'ine, etc. Chem. Vars. of MONOAMIDE, MONOAMINE, etc.
Mon'an·day (mŭn'ăn·dē). Var. of MONDAY. Chiefly Scot. mon'arc. Monarch. Ref. Sp.
mon'arch·ess, n. See -ESS.
mon'ar·chis'tic (mŏn'ĕr·kĭs'tĭk), adj. = MONARCHIANISTIC. mon'arch·like', adj. See -LIKE. mon'ar·thri'tis (mŏn'ăr·thrī'tĭs), n. [NL.] See MONO-, 3 a. mo·nas'ti·cize, v. i. See -IZE. mo·naul' (mō·nŏl'). Var. of MONAL. mo'nax. Var. of MOONACK. mon·ax'ile (mŏn·ăk'sĭl; -sīl), adj.
mon'e·chyn. Archaic var. of MINCHEN. mo·ne'cian, mo·ne'cious, mo·ne'ciously, mo·ne'cious·ness, mo·ne'cism. Vars. of MONOECIAN, MONOECIOUS, etc.
Mon'e·gasque' (mŏn'ĕ·găsk'), adj. & n. [F. Monégasque.] = 1st MONACAN, adj. & n.
mon'e·ker. Var. of MONIKER

‖ Foreign Word. † Obsolete Variant of. + combined with. = equals. Abbreviations, Signs, etc., are explained on pages immediately preceding the Vocabulary.

reduction from ore in which the constituent metals occur in these proportions. It resembles nickel. Also [sometimes notcap.], the metal bearing this trade-mark. — mo·nel′, adj.

mon·em′bry·o·ny (mŏn·ĕm′brĭ·ō·nĭ), n. [See MONO-; EMBRYO.] 1. Bot. The condition of having but a single embryo. 2. Embryol. Production of a single embryo from a single egg. — mon·em′bry·on′ic (-ŏn′ĭk), adj.

mon·ep′ic (mŏn·ĕp′ĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. epos word.] Consisting of one word or of sentences of one word.

mon′e·pis′co·pa·cy (mŏn′ē-pĭs′kō·pə·sĭ), n. [mono- + episcopacy.] Monarchical episcopacy; church government by monarchical bishops. — mon′e·pis′co·pal (-pəl), adj.

‖mon′e·pis′co·pus (mŏn′ē-pĭs′kō·pŭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. episkopos bishop.] A monarchical bishop.

mo′ner (mō′nĕr), n. Zool. One of the Monera.

Mo·ne′ra (mō-nē′rə), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. monērēs single.] Zool. A hypothetical class of Protozoa consisting of those like the amoebas but destitute of a nucleus. — mo·ne′ral (-nē′rəl), adj. — mo·ne′ran (-nē′rən), adj. & n.

mo·ner′gic (mō-nûr′jĭk), adj. [Contracted form of monenergidic, fr. mono- + energid.] Bot. Having a single energid; — applied to unicellular plants.

mon′er·gism (mŏn′ĕr·jĭz′m), n. [mon- + Gr. ergos work + -ism.] Theol. a The doctrine or theory that regeneration is exclusively the work of the Holy Spirit. Cf. SYNERGISM. b The doctrine or theory that the two natures of Christ have only one "operation." Rare. — mon′er·gist (mŏn′ĕr·jĭst), n. & adj. — mon′er·gis′tic (-jĭs′tĭk), adj.

mo·ner′ic (mō-nĕr′ĭk), adj. Zool. Moneral.

mo·ne′ron (mō-nē′rŏn), n.; pl. -RA (-rə), -RONS (-rŏnz). [NL.] Zool. One of the Monera.

mo·ner′u·la (mō-nĕr′ū·lə; -ōō-lə), n. [NL., dim. of moner. See MONERA.] Embryol. A supposed nonnucleated stage in the development of an egg immediately following fecundation. Obs.

Mo·ne′ses (mō-nē′sēz), n. [NL., fr. Gr. monos alone + ēsis delight.] Bot. A genus of herbs like Pyrola, but with a single flower. Its only known species M. uniflora, is the one-flowered wintergreen.

mo·ne′sia (mō-nē′shə; -zhə), n. [Origin unknown.] Pharm. An astringent vegetable extract derived from the bark (monesia bark) of the South American tree Pradosia lactescens, family Sapotaceae.

Mo·ne′ta (mō-nē′tə), n. [L. See 2d MINT.] Rom. Relig. An epithet of Juno as a goddess who gives warnings.

mon′e·tar′y (mŏn′ē-tĕr′ĭ; mŭn′-; or, esp. Brit., -tēr-ĭ; 277), adj. [L. monetarius belonging to a mint, fr. moneta mint, money. See MONEY; cf. MINTER, MONEYER.] 1. Of or pertaining to the coinage or currency.
2. Of or having to do with money; pecuniary.
Syn. — See FINANCIAL.
— mon′e·tar′i·ly, adv.

monetary unit. The standard of a national currency, as the dollar, the pound, the franc, and the mark.

mon′e·tite (mŏn′ē-tīt), n. [From Moneta, an island of the West Indies.] Mineral. A yellowish-white crystalline mineral occurring with guano. It is an acid calcium phosphate, $HCaPO_4$.

mon′e·tize (mŏn′ē-tīz; mŭn′-), v. t.; -TIZED (-tīzd); -TIZING (-tīz′ĭng). To convert or coin into money; to adopt as current money; to give a standard value to in a national currency; as, to monetize silver. — mon′e·ti·za′tion (-tĭ-zā′shŭn; -tī-zā′shŭn; 277), n.

mon′ey (mŭn′ĭ), n.; pl. MONEYS (-ĭz). The irregular plural monies occurs, esp. in the sense of "sums of money." [ME. moneie, fr. OF. moneie (F. monnaie), fr. L. moneta. See 2d MINT; cf. MOIDORE, MONETARY.] 1. Metal, as gold, silver, or copper, coined, or stamped, and issued by recognized authority as a medium of exchange; coinage in general.
2. A given (definite or indefinite) amount of money.
3. Wealth reckoned in terms of money; capital considered as a cash asset; specif., such wealth or capital dealt in as a commodity to be loaned, invested, or the like; wealth considered as a cash asset; as, to make money.

The love of money is a root of all kinds of evil.
1 Tim. vi. 10 (R. V.).

4. Any particular form or denomination of coin or paper which is lawfully current as money; — now chiefly pl.
5. Anything customarily used as a medium of exchange and measure of value, as sheep, wampum, copper rings, quills of salt or of gold dust, shovel blades, etc.; hence, Econ., anything having a conventional use either (1) as a medium of exchange or a measure of value, or (2) as a measure of value alone. In the latter case it is often called a money of account, and may be any arbitrary amount of property or wealth of any kind, as a flock of sheep of determinate size, or a lac (100,000) of rupees.
6. Any written or stamped promise or certificate, such as a government note or bank note (often called paper money), which passes currently as a means of payment.
Syn. — MONEY, CASH, CURRENCY, LEGAL TENDER. MONEY is the general term; CASH means money in hand; CURRENCY, money in circulation; LEGAL TENDER, money which a creditor must accept according to law.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

money-bloated	money-getting, adj.	money saver
money-breeding, adj.	money-grasping, adj.	moneysaving money-earning	money-loving, adj.	money-spelled money getter	money-mad	money teller

— for money. For cash; — used on the London stock exchange. — in the money. In the group finishing as prize winners, esp. in a horse race.

mon′ey (mŭn′ĭ), v.; MON′EYED (-ĭd); MON′EY-ING. [Cf. F monnayer to coin.] Transitive: 1. Rare. To coin.
2. To convert into money by sale. Rare.
3. To supply with money. Obs.
——, Intransitive: To yield in money; — with out. Slang.

mon′ey·age (mŭn′ĭ·ĭj), n. [Cf. F. monnayage coinage.] Hist. A payment by the moneyers for the privilege of coining; otherwise explained as a payment by subjects to prevent loss by depreciation or change of coinage. Oxf. E. D.

mon′ey·bag′ (mŭn′ĭ·băg′), n. A bag for containing money; hence, Colloq.: a pl. Wealth. b A rich person.

money bill. Law. A bill for raising revenue; a bill imposing a tax on the people, or transferring money or property from the people to the state. In British usage the term has been held to include a bill imposing a money fine or penalty; in the United States it has been held not to include a bill appropriating money from the treasury to particular uses (126 Mass. 557). Money bills must originate in the lower house in both British and American law, and since 1861 in British practice the House of Lords has not had the right to reject a money bill.

money broker. A money-changer; also, one who loans money or procures loans of money for others.

mon′ey–chang′er, n. One whose occupation is the exchanging of kinds or denominations of currency. — money changing.

money clause. Parl. Law. The clause by which appropriations of funds are made. Chiefly Eng.

money cowrie. A cowrie used as money. See COWRIE.

money dealer. See DEALER, 1 e.

money drop. See DROP, n., 7 g.

money economy. A system or stage of economic life in which money is the standard of value and medium of exchange.

mon′eyed (mŭn′ĭd), adj. 1. Supplied with money; having money; wealthy; as, moneyed men.
2. Consisting in, or composed of, money; derived from, or due to, money; as, moneyed influence.

moneyed capital. Law. Capital that consists in money or represents money that is used or invested and reinvested from time to time for the sake of making a profit on it as money, as in case of a bank, trust company, money-changer, moneylender, etc.; — chiefly used with reference to U. S. Rev. St. § 5219, prohibiting taxation of national bank shares at a greater rate than that assessed on other moneyed capital in the hands of individuals.

moneyed corporation. Law. A corporation authorized to engage in the business of using money for the sake of making a profit upon it as money, as in case of banks, insurance companies, etc. U. S.

moneyed interest. Finance. That interest in commercial or public affairs which consists of money or capital; also, the people who own it.

mon′ey·er (mŭn′ĭ·ĕr), n. [OF. monoier (F. monnayeur), fr. L. monetarius a master of the mint. See MONETARY.]
1. An authorized coiner of money; a minter.
2. A dealer in money; a banker. Rare.

money gentleman. A money merchant. Obs.

money grass. The rattle Rhinanthus crista-galli.

mon′ey·grub′ber (mŭn′ĭ·grŭb′ĕr), mon′ey·grub′ (-grŭb′), n. A person sordidly bent upon accumulating money. — mon′ey·grub′bing (-grŭb′ĭng), n. & adj.

mon′ey·lend′er (-lĕn′dĕr), n. One whose business is lending money; specif., a pawnbroker. — mon′ey·lend′ing (-dĭng), n. & adj.

mon′ey–mak′er (-māk′ĕr), n. 1. One who coins or prints money; a minter; also, a counterfeiter of money. Obs.
2. One who accumulates money or wealth.
3. A plan or thing that produces money or profit.

mon′ey–mak′ing, adj. 1. Affording profitable returns.
2. Engaged in gaining money; as, a money-making man.

mon′ey–mak′ing (-māk′ĭng), n. Act or process of making money; the acquisition and accumulation of wealth.

money market. The market for loanable capital, esp. for short-term loans.

mon′ey·mon′ger (mŭn′ĭ·mŭng′gĕr), n. A dealer in money; esp., a moneylender. — mon′ey·mon′ger·ing, n. & adj.

money of account. A denominator of value, or basis of exchange, used in keeping accounts, for which there may, or may not, be an equivalent coin; thus, the mill is a money of account in the United States, but not a coin.

money of necessity. Money of an abnormal or irregular kind, issued in an emergency, as during a siege.

money order. An order for the payment of money; as, an express money order; specif., a government non-negotiable order for the payment of money, issued at one post office and payable to a designated individual or firm at some specified office; — called also, in the United States, postal money order. In British official use, an order in which the name of the payee does not appear, but is given in a letter of advice, as in case of international money orders; — popularly called a post-office order, that in which the name of the payee appears being called a postal order.

money plant. a = HONESTY, 3 a. b Moneywort.

money Scots. = SCOTS MONEY.

money scrivener. A person who procures the loan of money to others. Obs.

money spider. A spider popularly supposed to indicate that the person upon whom it crawls will gain money.

money spinner. a = MONEY SPIDER. b One who is successful in speculation or usury. — money spinning.

mon′ey's worth (mŭn′ĭz). a Something worth money. b A fair or full equivalent for the money which is paid.

mon′ey·wort′ (mŭn′ĭ·wûrt′), n. A trailing European herb (Lysimachia nummularia) with rounded opposite leaves and solitary yellow flowers in their axils. It has been introduced into North America.

mong (mŭng), n. [From YMONG.] Obs. exc. Dial. a Mixture; mingling; intercourse. b A mixture of meal. c A crowd. — v. t. & i. [See MONGREL.] To mix; mingle. Dial.

mong, v. t. & i. [AS. mangian. See MONGER.] To barter; traffic. Now Rare.

'mong (mŭng). Aphetic form of AMONG.

mon′ger (mŭng′gĕr), n. [AS. mangere, fr. mangian to trade, fr. L. mango a seller of furbished wares, a roguish dealer, slave trader (whence also OHG. & ON. mangari a trader), fr. Gr. manganon means of bewitching or deceiving. See 2d MANGLE.] A trader; a dealer; — since about the 16th century usually implying petty or discreditable dealing or traffic.

-mon′ger (-mŭng′gĕr). A combining form of the noun monger, as in:

airmonger	fleshmonger	pardonmonger
alemonger	hairmonger	partymonger
applemonger	hermonger	peacemonger
balladmonger	horsemonger	pearmonger
beermonger	humanitymonger	peltmonger
bloodmonger	insectmonger	phrasemonger
bookmonger	ironmonger	pikemonger
boroughmonger	jobmonger	placemonger
bribemonger	loanmonger	playmonger
buttermonger	lovemonger	pleasuremonger
carpetmonger	machinemonger	punctiliomonger
cheesemonger	Massmonger	relicmonger
clothesmonger	mealmonger	rulemonger
clubmonger	melonmonger	rumormonger
coalmonger	meritmonger	scandalmonger
cornmonger	miraclemonger	scrapmonger
costermonger	moneymonger	shellmonger
doubtmonger	monkmonger	spoilsmonger
fablemonger	motive-monger	starmonger
fashionmonger	musicmonger	statemonger
fellmonger	muttonmonger	statesmonger
feltmonger	needlemonger	versemonger fictionmonger	nettlemonger	watermonger
fishmonger	newsmonger	wordmonger mon′ger·ing (mŭng′gĕr·ĭng), n. & adj. Dealing; trafficking; trading; — also used contemptuously.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

balladmongering	ironmongering	placemongering
boroughmongering	moneymongering	scandalmongering
cheesemongering	newsmongering	wordmongering fellmongering	phrasemongering

mon′ger·y (mŭng′gĕr·ĭ), n. Mongering.

mon′gler (mŭng′glĕr; mŏng′-), n. [Corrupt. of MONGREL.] The stilt sandpiper. Local, U. S.

Mon′gol (mŏng′gōl), adj. Mongolian.

Mon′gol, n. [Mongolian Mongol. Cf. MOGUL.] 1. One of the native tribes of Mongolia, mostly nomadic tent dwellers, by occupation herdsmen and carriers, physically typical of the Mongolian race. They comprise three great divisions, the true Mongols of eastern Mongolia and the Khalkhas, the Buriat of the Buryat-Mongol republic in Siberia, and the Eleuts or Kalmucks. The southernmost Mongols are more directly under Chinese influence. They have their own sect of Buddhism, the head of which resides at Urga. In the 12th and 13th centuries they conquered the greater part of Asia and eastern Europe, founded several powerful khanates (cf. KIPCHAK) and the Mogul Empire of India, and gave dynasties to China and Persia.
2. = MONGOLIAN, n., 2.
3. A member of the Mongolian race.
4. One affected with Mongolism.

Mon′gol–Gal′chic al′pha·bet (-găl′chĭk). An alphabet the same as the Uigur, but with five letters added from the Tibetan, thus adapting it to the Mongolic speech.

Mon·go′li·an (mŏng·gō′lĭ·ăn; 159), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Mongolia or the Mongols, or their language.
2. Designating, or belonging or relating to, one of the five great divisions of mankind distinguished by Blumenbach (1775) and named the Mongolian race. This race, the most numerous in the world, comprises the peoples of nearly all of Asia excepting Hindustan and the Mohammedan countries of the southwest, and includes also scattered tribes in the latter regions and in eastern and northern Europe. The typical Mongolian is of a yellowish complexion, has coarse straight black hair, scant beard, a broad flat face with small nose and prominent cheek bones, and eyes which often have a narrow and slant appearance owing to the peculiar formation of the lids. They are characteristically short in stature, and almost always brachycephalic. Mentally, the Mongolians rival the Caucasian peoples, two of the oldest civilizations of the world, the Akkadian (which see) and the Chinese, being developed by them. Their languages are mostly comprised in the Indo-Chinese and Ural-Altaic families, together with Japanese and its allied tongues. Buddhism, Confucianism, Shintoism, and shamanism are the chief religions. The American Indians, the Eskimos, and the Malayan peoples are often considered to be Mongolian offshoots.
3. Med. Pertaining to or afflicted with Mongolism.

Mon·go′li·an, n. 1. A member of the Mongolian race; also, one of the Mongols (def. 1).
2. The language of the Mongols (def. 1), which comprises various dialects written in an alphabet derived from the Uigur. See UIGUR, n., 2; URAL-ALTAIC LANGUAGES, Table.
3. Med. One affected with Mongolism.
4. Rugs. = CHINESE TURKESTAN, 2.

Mongolian fold. = EPICANTHIC FOLD.

Mon·go′li·an·ism (mŏng·gō′lĭ·ăn·ĭz′m; 159), n Med. Mongolism.

Mongolian pheasant. A large pheasant (Phasianus colchicus mongolicus) native of the colder part of China. It is similar to the Chinese, or ring-necked, pheasant (P. C. torquatus), to which in the U. S. the name has been erroneously applied, but has the wing coverts almost entirely white.

Mongolian release. See ARROW RELEASE.

Mongolian spots. Temporary patches of dark pigmentation which appear upon young children, usually in the sacrolumbar region, especially among Mongolian peoples.

Mon·gol′ic (mŏng·gŏl′ĭk), adj. = MONGOLOID, adj.; MONGOLIAN, adj. — n. The Mongolian language.

Mon·go′li·oid (mŏng·gō′lĭ·oid), adj. Mongoloid.

Mon·gol′ish (mŏng·gōl′ĭsh), n. The Mongolian language.

Mon′gol·ism (mŏng′gōl·ĭz′m), n. 1. See -ISM.
2. Med. A congenital malformation, probably due to some glandular disturbance, in which the child has slanting eyes like a Mongolian's, a large tongue, and a broad, short skull. Such children are often imbeciles.

Mon′gol·o- (mŏng′gōl·ō-). A combining form for Mongol, meaning Mongolian and, as in Mongolo-Dravidian, Mon′gol·o–Man·chu′ri·an, Mon′gol·o–Ta′tar, Mon′gol·o–Turk′ic.

Mon′gol·o–Dra·vid′i·an, adj. Ethnol. Designating, pert. to, or belonging to a mixed type of Bengal and Orissa, having a broad head, dark complexion, medium stature, somewhat broad nose, and plentiful beard. See INDIAN, n., 1.

Mon′gol·oid (mŏng′gōl·oid), adj. [Mongol + -oid.] a Resembling a Mongol or the Mongols; specif., designating, pert. to, or belonging to, the peoples of the Himalaya regions and Farther India in which the typical Mongolian traits appear in a modified or inconstant form. See INDIAN, n., 1. b Med. = MONGOLIAN, adj., 3. — n. A person exhibiting Mongoloid traits.

Mongoloid eye. An eye having the epicanthic fold (see EPICANTHUS, Illust.), such an eye being characteristic of the Mongolian race.

mon′goose (mŏng′gōōs), n.; pl. MONGOOSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [Marathi mungūs, fr. Skr. aṅgūṣa, with m fr. Skr. mūṣa mouse, rat (which the mongoose kills). Cf. MOUSE, 2d MUNGO.] 1. A viverrine mammal of India (Herpestes nyula syn. griseus) about the size of a ferret. It is grizzled dingy brown and black, and has a sharp snout and long tail. By its quick sight and great agility rather than immunity to poison, it fearlessly attacks and kills the most poisonous snakes. It also eats rats and mice, and is often domesticated. The name is extended to all the species of the genus Herpestes (cf. ICHNEUMON, 1) and closely related genera.

Mongoose (Herpestes nyula). (1/5)

2. A Madagascan lemur (Lemur mongoz).

mon′grel (mŭng′grĕl; mŏng′-; 277), n. [From mong to mix; akin to AS. mengan. See MINGLE.] 1. The progeny resulting from the crossing, originally of two, now of several, mon·em′bry·ar′y (mŏn·ĕm′brĭ·ĕr′ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ēr-ĭ), adj. = MONEMBRYONIC.

Mo·ne′ro·so′a (mō-nē′rō·zō′ə), n. pl. [NL., fr. Moneres + -soa.] Zool. = MONERA. — mo·ne′ro·so′an (-ən), adj. & n. — mo·ne′ro·so′ic (-ĭk), adj.

mon′eth (mŭn′ĭth). Var. of MONTH. New Dial.

mon′ey·bags′, n. sing. & pl. = MONEYWORT.

mon′ey·bawd′, n. A usurer. Obs.

mon′ey·wise′, adv. See 1st -WISE.

mong′corn′ (mŭng′kôrn′), n. [mong, n. + corn.] = MASLIN, mixed grain. Obs. exc. Dial.

Mon′ghol, Mon·gho′li·an. Vars. of MONGOL, MONGOLIAN.

Mon′gi·bel (mŏn′jĭ·bĕl), Mon′gi·bel′lo (-bĕl′ō), n. [It. Mongibello, fr. It. monte mountain + Ar. jabal mountain.] Mount Etna. Obs.

mon′go, mon′goe. Var. of MUNGO.

Mon′go (mŏng′gō), n. = BALOLO.

mon·gol′fi·er. Var. of MONTGOLFIER.

mon′gol·ize (mŏng′gōl·īz), v. t. See -IZE. — Mon′gol·i·za′tion (-ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ī·zā′shŭn), n.

mon′goos. Var. of MONGOOSE.

mongoose plant. = 2d MUNGO, 2.

Mon′go·yo′ (mōn′gō·yō′), n. = CAMACAN.

breeds, as of domestic animals, esp. dogs; anything, as an animal, plant, or person, of mixed breed; — used esp. disparagingly.
2. A person of mixed birth or tendencies or of undefined status; also, a cross between types of persons or things; as, a mongrel between cart and basket.
3. The stilt sandpiper. Local, U. S.

mon'grel (mŭng'grĕl; mŏng'-; 277), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to an impure breed, as a dog or other animal, or a plant.
2. Of or pertaining to a mixed race or nationality; of mixed parentage; — said, usually disparagingly, of persons.
3. Of mixed origin, character, or kinds; assignable to no definite class, kind, or type; specif., of a word, language, or dialect, formed of elements from different languages. — mon'grel-dom (mŭng'grĕl-dŭm; mŏng'grĕl-), n. — mon'grel-ish, adj. — mon'grel-ism (-Iz'm), n. — mon'grel-i-ty (mŭng-grĕl'ĭ-tĭ; mŏng-), n. — mon'grel-ly, adj. — mon'grel-ness, n.

mon'grel, v. t. To mongrelize.

mongrel buffalo. A buffalo fish (Ictiobus urus) of the Mississippi Valley. mon'grel-ize (mŭng'grĕl-Iz; mŏng'-), v. t. & i. To cause to be, or to become, mongrel. — mon'grel-i-za'tion (-I-zā'shŭn; -I-zā'shŭn), n.

mongrel skate. The angelfish (Squatina squatina). Brit.

mongrel whitefish. The tullibee.

mongrel wool. The wool of a mongrel sheep; also, that of any breed having lost its type.

†mongst (mŭngst), prep. Aphetic form of AMONGST; — formerly written mongst.

mon'heim-ite (mŏn'hĭm-It), n. [After J. P. von Monheim, who described it.] Mineral. A variety of smithsonite containing carbonate of iron.

mo'ni-al (mō'nĭ-ăl), n. [OF. moniale.] A nun.

Mon'i-ca (mŏn'I-kȧ), n. [After St. Monica (LL.), mother of St. Augustine.] 1. Fem. proper name.
2. See MISSION, n., 10 a.

mon'i-ker, mon'ick-er (mŏn'I-kĕr), n. Also mon'i-ca (-I-kȧ), mon'ni-ker, etc. a A tramp's identifying sign or mark, which he scratches on watering tanks, etc. b Hence, Slang, a name; a nickname.

mon'i-lat'ed (mŏn'ĭ-lāt'ĕd; -Id; 119), adj. Moniliform.

mo-nil'e-thrix (mō-nĭl'ē-thrĭks), n. [NL., fr. L. monile necklace + -thrix.] Med. A disease of the hair in which each hair appears as if strung with small beads or nodes.

Mo-nil'i-a (mō-nĭl'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL. See MONILIALES.] Bot. a A form genus of parasitic fungi typifying the family Moniliaceae. b [not cap.] Any fungus of this genus.

Mo-nil'i-a'ce-ae (-ā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A large family of imperfect fungi (order Moniliales) including many saprophytes and a lesser number of parasites. — mo-nil'i-a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Mo-nil'i-a'les (-ā'lēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. monile necklace; — so named because the conidia are produced in chains. See MANE.] Bot. The largest of the three orders into which the Fungi Imperfecti are divided, including miscellaneous forms, some of which are probably the conidial stages of ascomycetes, others possibly constitute genera, and still others are fungi of doubtful affinities. Syn. Hyphomycetales.

mo-nil'i-corn (mō-nĭl'ĭ-kôrn), adj. [L. monile necklace + cornu horn.] Zool. Having moniliform antennae. — n. A monilicorn beetle.

mo-nil'i-form (mō-nĭl'ĭ-fôrm), adj. [L. monile necklace + -form; cf. F. moniliforme.] Bot. & Zool. Jointed or constricted at regular intervals, so as to resemble a string of beads; as, a moniliform root; a moniliform antenna. See ANTENNA, Illust. — mo-nil'i-form-ly, adv.

mo-nil'i-oid (-oid), adj. [L. monile necklace + -oid.] Moniliform.

Mo-nim'i-a (mō-nĭm'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. Monima, fr. Gr. Monimē, name of the wife of Mithridates, after whom an allied genus, Mithridatea, had been named.] Bot. A small genus of shrubs, native of the Mascarene Islands, typifying the Mo-nim'i-a'ce-ae (-ā'sē-ē), a family of tropical American trees and shrubs (order Ranales), the boldo family. — mo-nim'i-a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Mo-nim'i-a (mō-nĭm'ĭ-ȧ), n. The heroine of Otway's tragedy of The Orphan, who, privately married to a son of her guardian, Castalio, stabs herself on discovering that he has been impersonated by his brother, Polydore, on the wedding night.

mo-nim'o-lite (-ō-lĭt), n. [Sw. monimolit, fr. Gr. monimos stable; because decomposed with great difficulty.] Mineral. A yellowish or brownish-green mineral, a lead iron antimonate (sometimes also calcium).

mo-nĭ-mo-sty'lic (mŏn'I-mō-stĭ'lĭk), adj. [Gr. monimos stable + stylos pillar.] Zool. Having the quadrate bone united to the skull by a suture, as in certain reptiles.

mon'ish (mŏn'Ish), v. t. [ME. monesten. See ADMONISH, MONITION.] To admonish. Archaic. — mon'ish-er, n. — mon'ish-ment, n.

mon'ism (mŏn'Iz'm; mō'nĭz'm; 277; cf. MONAD), n. [NL. monismus, fr. Gr. monos single. See MONK.] 1. Philos. a The doctrine that there is only one kind of substance or ultimate reality, as mind or matter; — contrasted with dualism and pluralism (sense 5 a). The doctrine has three generic forms: matter and its phenomena are explained as a modification of mind, involving an idealistic monism; or mind is explained by and resolved into matter, giving a materialistic monism; or, thirdly, matter, mind, and their phenomena are held to be manifestations or modifications of some one substance, like the substance of Spinoza, or a supposed unknown something of some evolutionists, which is capable of an objective and subjective aspect. The mind-stuff theory which asserts that matter and mind are identical, that each is an aspect of the other, may be taken as an attempt to reduce dualism to monism. Monism is also called philosophical unitarianism. b The doctrine that reality is one unitary, organic whole, with no independent parts; — contrasted with pluralism (sense 5 b).
2. Biol. = MONOGENESIS, 1.

mon'ist (mŏn'Ist; mō'nĭst), n. A believer in monism.

mo-nis'tic (mō-nĭs'tĭk), adj. Also mo-nis'ti-cal (-tĭ-kăl). Of, pertaining to, or involving, monism. — mo-nis'ti-cal-ly (-tĭ-kăl-ĭ), adv.

mo-ni'tion (mō-nĭsh'ŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. monitio, fr. monere to warn, bring to mind. See MIND; cf. ADMONISH, MONEY, MONITOR, MONUMENT.] 1. Instruction or advice given by way of caution; an admonition; a warning; a caution.
2. An intimation, indication, or notice, as of something (now only something dangerous) present or impending.
3. Law. a In Civil law and in those branches of English law deriving their procedure from it, a process in the nature of a summons or citation to appear and answer, or to appear and answer in default of performing some certain act. b Eccl. Law. An order from an ecclesiastical court, esp. a bishop, to do or forbear something.

mon'i-tor (mŏn'ĭ-tĕr), n. [L., fr. monere. See MONITION; cf. MENTOR.] 1. One who admonishes; one who warns of faults, informs of duty, or gives advice and instruction, esp. in reproof or caution; also, Obs., an inciter; instigator.

> You need not be a monitor to the king. Bacon.

2. A pupil in a school, or (now only in America) a student in a college, selected to perform some special duty or duties, usually connected with discipline, as, in a school, to have charge of a schoolroom in the absence of the instructor, to note absences or breaches of the rules, or to instruct a division or class, or, in a college, to keep a record of attendance. See LANCASTERIAN, BELL SYSTEM.
3. That which warns, reminds, advises, or instructs, as a Masonic manual of instruction; a warning; a reminder.
4. = BACKBOARD, 3. Obs.
5. Any of certain large pleurodont lizards, closely related to the iguanas, constituting the genus Varanus and the family Varanidae, of Africa, southern Asia, and Australia. They have a long tongue, a well-developed neck, strong limbs, a very long, often compressed tail, and are covered with small scales. They are all rapacious and some reach a length of ten feet. The African V. niloticus, which destroys many crocodile eggs, is the best-known species.
6. [So called from the name given by Captain Ericsson, its designer, to the first ship of the kind, Monitor, which was built for the United States.] a [cap.] See SHIP, Table; Hampton Roads, under BATTLE, Table. b A heavily armored war vessel, with very low freeboard, esp. in the earlier models, having one or more heavily armored revolving turrets, carrying heavy guns. Monitors are designed for coast defense, almost exclusively, and hence sacrifice speed and coal capacity to steadiness as gun platforms and to thickness of armor.

Side Elevation and Deck Plan of Ericsson's Monitor. 1 Anchor Well; 2 Pilothouse; 3 Turret (the Canopy was removed during action); 4 Smokestacks; 5 Blower Pipes; 6 Propeller Well.

7. A nozzle capable of turning completely round in a horizontal plane and having a limited play in a vertical plane, used in hydraulic mining, fire-extinguishing apparatus, and the like.
8. Arch. Short for MONITOR ROOF, MONITOR TOP.
9. Logging. = CATAMARAN, 4. Western U. S.
10. Mach. A capstan toolholder, or turret holder.
11. Metal. = IRONCLAD, n., 2.

1 Monitor used in hydraulic engineering: a Lever to turn Swiveling Nozzle b so that the reaction of the jet will turn the whole device in a desired direction. 2 Monitor used in fire apparatus: a Handle for turning Nozzle b in desired direction.

mon'i-tor, v. Transitive: To admonish.

—, Intransitive: 1. To act as a monitor.
2. Radio. To listen to signals by means of receiving apparatus, as a check on the operation of transmitting equipment.

monitor bug. The conenose.

monitor chuck. See 6th CHUCK, 5.

mon'i-to'ri-al (mŏn'ĭ-tō'rĭ-ăl; 181), adj. 1. Monitory.
2. Of, pertaining to, done by, or in charge of, a monitor or monitors; as, monitorial work or instruction. — mon'i-to'ri-al-ly, adv.

monitor lizard. = MONITOR, n., 5.

monitor roof. Arch. A roof with a raised central portion, or clerestory, the monitor top, having low windows along its sides, as in a railroad car.

mon'i-to'ry (mŏn'ĭ-tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr-ĭ), adj. [L. monitorius.] Giving admonition; warning; as, a monitory proverb.

mon'i-to'ry, n. 1. An admonition; a warning. Obs.
2. A letter containing an admonition or warning, as from the Pope; — called also monitory letter.

monk (mŭngk), n. [AS. munuc, fr. VL. monicus, for LL. monachus, fr. Gr. monachos, fr. monos alone, single; akin to Gr. manos thin, rare, Armen. manr small, delicate, Lith. menkas, Skr. manāk a little. Cf. MONACHAL.] 1. Eccl. Orig., a man who retired from the world and devoted himself to asceticism as a solitary or cenobite; now, commonly, a man in religion (sense 2); one who takes the monastic vows. Specif., a member of a religious order, as the Benedictines or Cistercians, devoted primarily to contemplation and solemn liturgical observances. Monks, in this strict sense, differ from hermits or those belonging to hermit orders (which see) as the Carthusians, in that they have community life; from mendicants or friars, as the Franciscans, who originally had no obligation of stability, no community property, no life superior, whereas monks are cloistered and carry on all their activities within the limits of a monastic establishment; from canons regular, as the Premonstratensians, who combine the life of the cloister with the charge of a cathedral or collegiate church; from clerks regular, as the Jesuits, who, though bound by monastic rules, go abroad as ministers of the Gospel; and from members of various congregations, as the Vincentians, who take simple vows, and are engaged in active labors as teachers, hospitalers, missionaries, or the like. See Forms of Address, in Appendix. See PRECEDENCE.
2. a A South American saki (Pithecia monachus). b Local, Eng. The European bullfinch. c = MONKFISH a.
3. Any of various objects arbitrarily so called; as: a Print. Now Eng. A blotch or spot of ink on a printed page. b A bit of punk or touchwood used formerly in firing mines.

Syn. — MONK, FRIAR. Since the Reformation, the term monk has often been extended to include friars. But in strict usage a FRIAR (see monk, 1; friar, 1) is a member of one of the mendicant orders, and the words are not properly interchangeable. Cf. MONASTIC, HERMIT, CLOISTER.

monk (mŭngk), n. a Collog. or Humorous. Short for MONKEY. b Colloq., U. S. & Can. A ferret.

Monk, The. Title of a novel of terror by Matthew Gregory Lewis (Eng. author; 1775–1818), in full The Monk: A Romance (pub. 1796; 4th ed., 1798, titled Ambrosio, or The Monk), whence the author's sobriquet of "Monk" Lewis.

monk bat. Any of several species of bat in which the males live in communities; esp., Molossus tropidorhynchus.

monk'bird' (mŭngk'bûrd'), n. A friarbird.

monk'craft' (-krăft'; 83), n. Monkish policy or practice, in a bad sense.

monk'er-y (mŭngk'ĕr-ĭ), n.; pl. -ERIES (-Iz). 1. State, life, or profession of monks; monastic life; monasticism; pl., monastic usages, customs, practices, etc.
2. A body or community of monks; a monastery.
3. Practice or conduct characteristic of monks; a system of life or conduct characterized by certain abuses or faults attributed to monastic life.
4. Tramps' Slang, Eng. a The country as opposed to the city. b Tramps collectively. c Tramping as a practice.

monk'ess (mŭngk'ĕs; -Is; 119), n. A nun. Rare.

mon'key (mŭng'kĭ), n.; pl. -KEYS (-kĭz). [Prob. fr. MLG. moneke (recorded as name of an ape), appar. dim. in -ke (cf. -KIN), of Romanic origin (cf. F., Sp., Pg., & It. mona, OF. maimon), and ult. fr. Turk. maymūn, whence Ar. & Per. maymūn.] 1. a In the broadest sense, any member of the highest order of mammals (Primates, which see) except man, and usually excepting also the lemurs. In a narrower sense, designating the smaller, longer-tailed forms as contrasted with the larger, nearly or quite tailless forms called apes. The typical monkeys (in the narrow sense) belong to the New World family Cebidae, as the spider monkeys, howling monkeys, capuchins, ouakaris, and sakis, and to certain genera of the Old World family Cercopithecidae, as the mangabeys, guenons, guerezas, langurs, etc. They mostly inhabit tropical forests, and are most numerous in South America, Africa, and southern Asia. Their food consists of fruit, leaves, insects, birds' eggs, and small birds and mammals. b The fur or skin of any of certain long-haired monkeys, used esp. as trimming.
2. a A person resembling a monkey in appearance or behavior, as a mimic or a performer of antics. b A ludicrous figure; a dupe; as, to make a monkey of a person.
3. A term of mild or affected disapproval, ridicule, or playful contempt for a person, esp. a mischievous child.
4. Any of various machines, implements, vessels, etc., so named arbitrarily or from some fancied resemblance; as: a = COOLET. b A tray used for holding splints for making matches.
5. Colloq. or Slang, Eng. a Temper; anger; as, to get one's monkey up. b The sum of £500. c A mortgage; as, to have a monkey on a house.
6. Glass Mfg. a A small pot or crucible used when but small quantities of glass are to be melted. Four monkeys usually occupy the space of one regular pot. b A monkeypot.
7. Ironwork. A heavy weight or tup slung from the roof and used in jumping or upsetting the end of a piece too long to be treated by the steam hammer.
8. Mach. A falling weight used for driving something by percussion, as the falling weight of a pile driver, or of a drop hammer. See PILE DRIVER.
9. Metal. = CINDER NOTCH.
10. Mining. In anthracite mines, an airway.
11. Naut. a A monkey block. b Slang. The vessel in which a mess receives its allowance of grog. See also suck the monkey, under SUCK, v. t.

mon'key (mŭng'kĭ), adj. 1. Of or characteristic of a monkey; resembling a monkey or a monkey's.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:
monkeyface, monkey-faced, monkey-tailed.

2. Mining. Designating something small; as, a monkey block or chute.
3. Naut. Designating something peculiar in location, arrangement, or use; as, a monkey yard; monkey gaff.

mon'key (mŭng'kĭ), v. i.; -KEYED (-kĭd); -KEY-ING. To act as a monkey does; to act in a grotesque, mischievous, or meddlesome manner; also, to fool or trifle. — v. t. To treat as a monkey does; ape; mimic.

monkey with. To meddle with; to tamper with.

monkey apple. a The pond apple. b = WILD FIG c. c A tropical Old World tree (Anisophyllea laurina), family Rhizophoraceae, having an edible plumlike fruit.

monkey bag. Naut. A small bag to hold money, trinkets, etc., worn hung around the neck by sailors.

mon'key-ball', n. The fruit of the plane tree Platanus occidentalis.

monkey bear. The koala. Australia.

monkey block. Naut. A small single block strapped with a swivel.

mon'key-board' (mŭng'kĭ-bôrd'; 181), n. A footboard at the back of a vehicle, as for a footman or, on an omnibus, for the conductor. Eng.

monkey boat. Naut. A small, usually half-decked, boat used in docks and on the River Thames. Eng.

monkey bread. The fruit of the baobab; also, the tree.

monkey coconut. = SEA COCONUT, 1.

monkey cup. A pitcher plant of the genus Nepenthes.

monkey deck or forecastle. Naut. An anchor deck.

monkey engine. Mach. An engine for lifting the monkey of a pile driver.

mon'key-faced' owl. The barn owl.

monkey flower. a A plant of the genus Mimulus; — so called from the appearance of its gaping or ringent corolla. b The toadflax (Linaria vulgaris).

monkey flush. At poker, three cards of the same suit. The odds against making a flush in drawing to them are 23 to 1.

monkey foresail. Naut. A square foresail on a sloop or schooner.

mon'key-fy (mŭng'kĭ-fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). To make like, or like that of, a monkey; to render ridiculous in appearance.

monkey gaff. Naut. A light gaff on the mizzenmast above the spanker gaff for the better display of signals.

mon'key-god', n. A god in the form of a monkey.

monkey grass. A coarse fiber yielded by a Brazilian piassava palm (Attalea funifera), used for brushes and ropes.

monkey hammer or press. Mach. = DROP HAMMER a. monkey jack. A jack for pushing over tree trunks and stumps after the lateral roots have been cut.

---

mon-gu'ba. Var. of MUNGUBA.
Mo'ni-as. See MESOENATIDES. mon'i-de'ism. Var. of MONOIDEISM. mon'ie (mŏn'ĭ). Var. of MANY.
mon'ied, mon'ies. Irregular vars. of MONEYED, MONEYS. mon'i-er. ✝ MONEYER.
mo-nil'i-a dis-ease' (mō-nĭl'ĭ-ȧ). = BROWN ROT a (1). mo-nil'i-thrix (mō-nĭl'ĭ-thrĭks). [NL.] Var. of MONILETHRIX. mon'i-ment. See MONUMENT, n., 9. Obs. exc. Scot. mon'i-o-do-hy'drin, mon'i-o-do-meth'ane. Vars. of MONO-IODOHYDRIN, MONO-IODOMETHANE. mon'i-plies' (mŏn'ĭ-plīz'). Var. of MANYPLIES. Scot. mon'i-tive (mŏn'ĭ-tĭv), adj. & n. Admonitory. Obs.
monitorial system. = BELL SYSTEM.
mon'i-tor-ish, adj. See -ISH. mon'i-tor-ship', n. See -SHIP. monitory lizard. = MONITOR, n., 5. mon'i-tress (mŏn'ĭ-trĕs; 119), mon'i-trix (-trĭks), n. Fems. of MONITOR. monk'dom (mŭngk'dŭm), n. See -DOM. mon'key-hood, n. See -HOOD. mon'key-ish, adj. See -ISH. — mon'key-ish-ly, adv. — mon'key-ish-ness, n.

monkey jacket. A short closely fitting jacket, worn by sailors, etc.

monkey jar or jug. = GOGLET.

monkey link. Automobiles. A repair link for a tire chain, capable of easy insertion.

mon'key·nut' (mŭng'kĭ·nŭt'), n. a The peanut. b The fruit of the basswood Tilia glabra.

mon'key·pod' (-pŏd'), n. The rain tree. Hawaii.

mon'key·pot' (-pŏt'), n. 1. a The curious urn-shaped fruit of various trees of the genus Lecythis, of Brazil and British Guiana. It is a large woody capsule opening by a circular lid, and containing numerous nuts (sapucaia nuts). See LECYTHIS. b The tree which bears this fruit.
2. = GOGLET.
3. Glass Mfg. Any of several (usually 8 to 12) round-topped oval cylinders enclosed in firebrick arches at the base of a chimney, used as melting pots in flint-glassmaking.

monkey puzzle. A tall Chilean evergreen tree (Araucaria imbricata) with intertwined branches; and stiff, sharp-pointed leaves. It bears large edible nuts.

monkey rail. Naut. A second and lighter rail raised a little above the quarter rail of a ship.

mon'key–rigged', adj. [Naut. Having reduced spars. Rare.

mon'key·ry (mŭng'kĭ·rĭ), n. A place where monkeys live.

mon'key's co'co·nut' (mŭng'kĭz). = COQUITO.

mon'key's–hand', n. = ASS'S-FOOT b.

mon'key·shine' (mŭng'kĭ·shīn'), n. A monkeyish trick, antic, or prank. — mon'key·shine', v. i. Both Slang, U.S.

monkey skin. A brown, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

monkey spanner. = MONKEY WRENCH.

monkey spar. Naut. A mast or yard of reduced size, on a vessel on which boys are trained as seamen.

mon'key·tail' (mŭng'kĭ·tāl'), n. 1. Naut. a A short, round iron bar formerly used in training naval guns. b A piece of rope attached to the bend of a hook to aid in handling it without risk of jamming the hand.
2. Carp. A vertical scroll terminating a handrail.
3. A bent strap used to clamp objects down.

mon'key–tail' valve. A kind of starting valve for a marine engine.

monkey vine. A commonly cultivated tropical morning-glory (Ipomoea nil).

monkey way. Mining. = MONKEY, n., 10.

monkey wheel. A gin block.

monkey wrench. A common form of wrench for general use, having a straight handle, one fixed jaw set at right angles to the handle, and one adjustable jaw.

Monkey Wrench.

monk'fish' (mŭngk'-fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. a The angelfish (Squatina). b The angler (Lophius).

monk'flow'er (-flou'ĕr), n. Any of several curious orchids of the genus Catasetum.

Mon'–Khmer' (mŏn'k'mĕr'), adj. Designating a division of the Austroasiatic languages, comprising as its principal members Mon of Pegu, Khmer of Cambodia, and Jakun in the Malay Peninsula. These languages are all monosyllabic, and apparently represent a widespread primitive speech of Farther India, later largely displaced by Indo-Chinese languages.
☞ The term Mon-Khmer is sometimes used to designate the entire Austroasiatic family.

monk'hood (mŭngk'hŏŏd), n. [monk + -hood.] 1. The character, condition, or profession of a monk; monasticism.
2. Monks collectively.

monk'ish (mŭngk'ĭsh), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to monks; monastic.
2. Characteristic of or resembling monks or monasticism; — often derogatory; as, monkish manners or dress.
3. Done or used by monks; as, monkish Latin, chronicles.
Syn. — See MONASTIC.
— monk'ish·ly, adv. — monk'ish·ness, n.

monk'ism (mŭngk'ĭz'ĭm), n. Monasticism.

monk'ly (-lĭ), adj. Of or pertaining to a monk or monks; monastic. — monk'li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

monk'mon'ger (-mŭng'gĕr), n. A favorer of monks or the monastic life.

monk parrot or parakeet. A common South American green-and-gray parrot (Myiopsitta monachus).

monk sail. = 1st MONK, 2 a.

monk's cloth (mŭngks). A coarse, heavy fabric in basket weave, orig. of worsted and used for monk's habits, but now chiefly of cotton or linen and used for draperies, etc.

monk seal. A seal (Monachus albiventer) of the Black Sea, Mediterranean Sea, and adjacent parts of the Atlantic.

monk's gun or harquebus. An old form of wheel-lock gun.

monk's'–head', n. a Monkshood. b The dandelion.

monks'hood' (mŭngks'hŏŏd'), n. A plant of the genus Aconitum, esp. A. napellus (see POISONOUS PLANTS, Plate); — so called from the shape of the flower.

monk's pepper tree. The agnus castus.

monk's, or monk, seam. Naut. An extra middle seam made at the junction of two breadths of canvas, ordinarily joined by only two rows of stitches.

Mon'mouth (mŏn'mŭth), adj. [From Monmouth, New Jersey.] Geol. Designating an epoch or series of the Cretaceous on the Atlantic coast of North America. See GEOLOGY, Chart. — Mon'mouth, n.

Mon'mouth cap (mŏn'mŭth). A flat round cap formerly worn by soldiers and sailors; — from Monmouth, England.

Monmouth cock. A military cock of the hat, fashionable in the latter part of the 17th century; — prob. from the Duke of Monmouth (son of Charles II).

mon'mouth·ite (mŏn'mŭth·ĭt), n. [From Monmouth, Haliburton Co., Ontario.] Petrog. A plutonic rock of the alkali series, consisting predominantly of nephelite.

Mon'na Li'sa (mŏn'ä lē'zä). Var. of MONA LISA.

Mon'na Van'na (mŏn'ä văn'ä; It. mŏn'nä văn'nä). The title and heroine of a drama (1902) by Maeterlinck.

mo'no (mō'nō), n. [Sp. See MONKEY.] A black howling monkey of Central America (Alouatta villosa).

mon'o- (mŏn'ō-), mon-. [See MONK.] 1. A combining form, Greek mono-, mon-, from monos, one, single, meaning of, by, or with but one; single; alone; one-, as in monopoly, monarch, monotony, monody. Specif.: a Consisting of or having but one of a (specified) thing; uni-, as in monocarpellary, monocellular, monochroic, monoplane, monoplast. b By or from one only, as in monodrama, monogenesis, monosperm. c Restricted to but one, as in monogamy, monograph, monologue, monomania. d But one at a time, as in monotocous. e Alone, as in monophobia.
2. (pron. mŏn'ō-; mō'nō-) Chem. Indicating that a compound contains one atom or group of that to the name of which it is united, as in monoxide, an oxide containing one oxygen atom in the molecule; mon'o·bro'mo·ac'e·tone, acetone into which one bromine atom has entered by substitution. Mono- is often omitted as being understood; thus, monobromoacetone is usually called simply bromoacetone. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of the word or element with which mono- is combined:

monoacetate	monocarbonate	mononaphthalene
monoammonium	monochloride	mononitride monocalcium	mono-iodo	monopotassium
monocarbide	mono-iodohydrin	monosodium

3. Med. In pathology, denoting: a Affection of a single part, as in monoblepsia, monopathy. b Due to a single cause, as in monobacillary.

mon'o (mŏn'ō; mō'nō), adj. Chem. = MONO-.

Mo'no (mō'nō), n. An Indian of any Shoshonean tribe of southern California.

mon'o·ac'id (mŏn'ō·ăs'ĭd; mō'nō-), adj. Also mon'o·a·cid'ic (-ä·sĭd'ĭk). [mono- + acid.] a Capable of reacting with but one equivalent of an acid to form a salt or ester; characterized by one hydroxyl group; — said of bases and (less often) alcohols. b Having but one acid hydrogen atom in the molecule. — n. Chem. An acid having but one replaceable hydrogen atom.

mon'o·am'ide (mŏn'ō·ăm'ĭd; -ĭd; 157), n. Also -id. [mono- + amide.] Chem. An amide with only one amido group.

mon'o·a·mine' (-ä·mēn'; -ăm'ĭn; 157), n. Also -am'in. [mono- + amine.] Chem. An amine containing only one amino group. — mon'o·a·mi'no (-ä·mē'nō; -ăm'ĭ·nō), adj.

mon'o·az'o- (-ăz'ō-; -ä'zō-). Chem. A combining form, mono- + azo-, signifying containing one azo group. — mon'o·az'o (-ō), adj.

mon'o·bac'il·lar'y (mŏn'ō·băs'ĭ·lĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -bä·sĭl'-ĕr·ĭ), adj. Med. Containing or caused by a single variety of bacillus.

mon'o·base (mŏn'ō·bās; mō'nō-), n. [mono- + base.] Chem. A base capable of reacting with but one equivalent of an acid.

mon'o·bas'ic (-bās'ĭk), adj. 1. Chem. a Having but one hydrogen atom replaceable by a metal or basic radical; — said of acids. b Having but one basic hydroxyl group; as, sodium hydroxide is monobasic. c Containing a metal or basic radical replacing one acid hydrogen atom; — said of salts; as, the monobasic phosphate H_2KPO_4.
2. Biol. Originally based upon a single species; — said of genera. Cf. MONOTYPIC.
— mon'o·ba·sic'i·ty (-bā·sĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n.

mon'o·blas'tic (mŏn'ō·blăs'tĭk), adj. [mono- + -blastic.] Zool. Having, or derived from, one germ layer.

mon'o·blep'si·a (-blĕp'sĭ·ä), mon'o·blep'sis (-blĕp'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. blepsis vision.] Med. a A condition in which vision is normal when but one eye is used, although confused and indistinct when both eyes are employed. b A form of color blindness in which but one color can be distinguished.

mon'o·bloc (mŏn'ō·blŏk), adj. [mono- + bloc.] In one block or casting; as, a monobloc cylinder casting.

mon'o·bran'chi·ate (-brăng'kĭ·āt), adj. Zool. Having one gill or set of gills.

monobrom-, mon'o·bro'mo- (mŏn'ō·brō'mō-; mō'nō-). A combining form, mono- + brom-, bromo-, signifying containing one atom of bromine, as in mon'o·bro'mide, mon'o·bro'mo·ac'et·an'i·lide. See BROMIDE, etc.

mon'o·bro'mat·ed (-brō'māt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [See MONO-; BROMATE.] Chem. & Pharm. Combined with one bromine atom, either by substitution or addition; as, monobromated camphor, a crystalline sedative compound, $C_{10}H_{15}BrO$.

mon'o·car'box·yl'ic (-kär'bŏk·sĭl'ĭk), adj. Also mon'o·car·bon'ic (-kär·bŏn'ĭk). Chem. Containing one carboxyl group.

mon'o·car'di·an (mŏn'ō·kär'dĭ·ăn), adj. [mono- + Gr. kardia heart.] Zool. Having a single auricle and ventricle to the heart. — n. An animal having such a heart.

mon'o·carp (mŏn'ō·kärp), n. Bot. A monocarpic plant. — mon'o·car'pal (-kär'păl), adj.

mon'o·car'pel·lar'y (mŏn'ō·kär'pĕ·lĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -lĕr·ĭ), adj. Bot. Consisting of a single carpel, as a legume.

monocarpellary ovary. See OVARY, n., 2.

mon'o·car'pi·an (-kär'pĭ·ăn), adj. Bot. Monocarpic.

mon'o·car'pic (-kär'pĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. karpos fruit; cf. F. monocarpe.] Bot. Bearing fruit but once, and dying, as all annuals and biennials and certain other plants, as the century plant.

mon'o·car'pous (-kär'pŭs), adj. [mono- + -carpous.] Bot. Having a gynoecium forming a single ovary.

mon'o·cel'lu·lar (-sĕl'ū·lĕr), adj. Bot. & Zool. Unicellular.

mon'o·cen'tric (-sĕn'trĭk), adj. Having but a single center.

mon'o·ceph'a·lous (-sĕf'ä·lŭs), adj. [mono- + -cephalous.] Bot. Having a solitary head or capitulum.

mon'o·cer'cous (-sûr'kŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. kerkos tail.] Zool. Uniflagellate, as certain protozoans.

mo·noc'er·os (mō·nŏs'ĕr·ŏs), n. [OF., fr. L. monoceros, fr. Gr. monokeros, fr. monos alone, single + keras horn.] 1. a Obs. = UNICORN, 1. b A fish (as the swordfish or sawfish) with one horn.
2. [cap.] gen. MONOCEROTIS (mō·nŏs'ō·rō·tĭs). Astron. A constellation situated on the Milky Way, adjoining Orion and Canis Major; the Unicorn.

Mo·noc'er·o'tid (-ō'tĭd), n. [See 1st -ID.] One of the meteors whose radiants are in the constellation Monoceros.

mo·noc'er·ous (mō·nŏs'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Having only one horn.

mon'o·cha'si·um (mŏn'ō·kā'zhĭ·ŭm; -zĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -SIA (-ä). [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. chasis division.] Bot. A cyme inflorescence which produces only one main axis. Cf. DICHASIUM, POLYCHASIUM. — mon'o·cha'si·al (-ăl), adj.

Mon'o·chla·myd'e·ae (-klä·mĭd'ē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. chlamys, chlamydos, cloak.] Bot. A subdivision of the Archichlamydeae in which the flowers have no petals; — called also Apetalae. — mon'o·chla·myd'e·ous (-ŭs), adj.

mon'o·chlo'ri·nat'ed (mŏn'ō·klō'rĭ·nāt'ĕd; mō'nō-; -ĭd; 119), adj. Chem. Combined with one atom of chlorine, by substitution or addition. — mon'o·chlo'ri·na'tion (-klō'-rĭ·nā'shŭn), n.

mon'o·chlo'ro- (mŏn'ō·klō'rō-; mō'nō-), monochlor-. Chem. A combining form, mono- + chloro-, signifying containing one atom of chlorine, as in mon'o·chlor·an'thracene, mon'o·chlo'ride. — mon'o·chlor (mŏn'ō·klōr; mō'-nō-), mon'o·chlo'ro (-klō'rō), adj.

mon'o·chlo'ro·a·ce'tic (-klō'rō·ä·sē'tĭk), or mon'o·chlor'-a·ce'tic, ac'id (-klōr'ä·sē'tĭk). Chem. A deliquescent crystalline acid, CH_2ClCO_2H, made by action of chlorine on acetic acid, and in other ways. See CHLOROACETIC.

mon'o·chlo'ro·meth'ane (-klō'rō·mĕth'ān), mon'o·chlor'-meth'ane (-klōr'mĕth'ān), n. Chem. Methyl chloride.

mon'o·cho'a·nit'ic (mŏn'ō·kō'ä·nĭt'ĭk), adj. [See MONO-; CHOANA.] Paleontol. Designating cephalopod shells having siphuncular funnels extended inward (toward the apical chamber), without collars on the outer side of the septa.

mon'o·chord (mŏn'ō·kôrd), n. [F. monocorde, fr. LL. monochordon, fr. Gr. monochordon, fr. monochordos with but one string, fr. monos only, single + chordē string. See CHORD; cf. MANICHORD.] 1. Music & Acous. a An instrument of ancient invention for showing and measuring Monochord, or Sonometer.

the mathematical relations of musical sounds. It consists of a single string stretched over a sounding board and a movable bridge set on a graduated scale so that the string can be divided into separate vibrating parts which can be measured. In the modern monochord, or sonometer, the tension of the string is controlled by variable weights at one end. See Illust. b A medieval musical instrument developed from the preceding, having several strings and bridges over one resonance board. c A clavichord. d A trumpet marine.
2. A concord or harmony of sound; figuratively, harmony; concord; agreement. Now Rare.
— mon'o·chord'ist (-kôr'dĭst), n. — -chord'ize (-dīz), v. i.

mon'o·chro'ic (mŏn'ō·krō'ĭk), adj. [Gr. monochroos, fr. monos single + chrōa, chroos, color.] Monochromatic.

mon'o·chro'ma·sy (-krō'mä·sĭ), n. Monochromatic vision.

mon'o·chro'mat (-măt), mon'o·chro'mate (-māt), n. [See MONO-; CHROMATIC.] One whose vision is a function of one variable (brilliance) only; one who sees no colors except grays of varying brilliance.

mon'o·chro·mat'ic (-krō·măt'ĭk), adj. [See MONOCHROME.] a Having, or consisting of, one color or hue. b = HOMOGENEOUS, 4. c Of, pertaining to, or designating a monochromat. — mon'o·chro·mat'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

mon'o·chro'ma·tism (-krō'mä·tĭz'm), n. [See MONOCHROME.] Psychol. Total color blindness, in which all colors appear as shades of gray.

mon'o·chro'ma·tor (mŏn'ō·krō'mä·tĕr), n. [mono- + chromat- + -or.] Physics. A modification of a spectroscope designed to isolate for use a narrow portion of the spectrum, the eyepiece of the spectroscope being replaced by a narrow slit parallel to the original slit of the instrument.

mon'o·chrome (mŏn'ō·krōm), n. [Gr. monochrōmos of one color, fr. monos single + chrōma color; cf. F. monochrome.] A painting or drawing in a single hue; a picture made with a single hue; also, the art or process of producing the same; monochromy. — adj. Monochromic.

mon'o·chro'mic (-krō'mĭk), mon'o·chro'mi·cal (-mĭ·kăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or made with, a single hue or color. — mon'o·chro'mi·cal·ly, adv.

mon'o·chrom'ist (mŏn'ō·krōm'ĭst), n. A painter in monochrome; also, an advocate of its use.

mon'o·chro'mous (-krō'mŭs), adj. Monochromic.

mon'o·chro'my (mŏn'ō·krō'mĭ), n. The art or process of producing monochromes.

mon'o·chron'ic (-krŏn'ĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. chronos time.] Existing at the same time; contemporaneous.

mon'o·cil'i·at'ed (mŏn'ō·sĭl'ĭ·āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Uniflagellate.

mon'o·cle (mŏn'ō·k'l), n. [F., fr. L. monoculus. See MONOCULAR.] An eyeglass for one eye. See EYEGLASS, 1.

mon'o·cled (-k'ld), adj. Wearing a monocle.

mon'o·cleid, mon'o·cleide (mŏn'ō·klīd), n. [mono- + Gr. kleis, kleidos, key.] A cabinet or desk in which all the drawers, etc., are locked simultaneously by one key.

mon'o·cli'nal (-klĭ'năl; -n'l), adj. [See MONOCLINIC.] Geol. Having, or pertaining to, a single oblique inclination; as, a monoclinal fold or flexure. See Citation.

Monoclinal Fold.

A monoclinal flexure is a single, sharp bend connecting strata which lie at different levels and are often horizontal except along the line of flexure. W. B. Scott.
— n. A monoclinal fold. — mon'o·cli'nal·ly, adv.

mon'o·cline (mŏn'ō·klīn), n. Geol. A monoclinal fold.

mon'o·clin'i·an (-klĭn'ĭ·ăn), adj. Monoclinous.

mon'o·clin'ic (-klĭn'ĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. klinein to incline.] Cryst. Having one oblique intersection of the axes; as, the monoclinic system. See CRYSTALLIZATION.

mon'o·cli'no·met'ric (-klĭ'nō·mĕt'rĭk), adj. Monoclinic.

mon'o·cli'nous (mŏn'ō·klī'nŭs; mŏn'ō·klĭ'nŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. klinē couch; cf. F. monocline.] Bot. Having both androecium and gynoecium in the same flower. Cf. DICLINOUS. — mon'o·cli'nism (-klĭ'nĭz'm), n.

Mon'o·clo'ni·us (-klō'nĭ·ŭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. klōnion, dim. of klōn twig.] Paleontol. A genus of ceratopsian dinosaurs with a large nasal horn, found in the Upper Cretaceous of North America.

Mon'o·con'dy·la (-kŏn'dĭ·lä), n. pl. [NL. See MONO-; CONDYLE.] Zool. A division of vertebrates, including the birds and reptiles, or those that have only one occipital condyle; — coextensive with Sauropsida. — mon'o·con'dy-lar (-lĕr), mon'o·con·dyl'i·an (-kŏn·dĭl'ĭ·ăn), mon'o·con-dyl'ic (-ĭk), mon'o·con'dy·lous (-kŏn'dĭ·lŭs), adj.

‖mon'o·coque' (mŏ'nō'kôk'), n. [F., lit., single shell.] Aeronautics. A type of fuselage constructed by wrapping strips of veneer around formers, in which the veneer is primarily depended on to carry stresses arising in the fuselage; also, an airplane having such a fuselage.

mon'o·cor'mic (mŏn'ō·kôr'mĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. kormos tree trunk.] Bot. Monopodial (sense a).

---

mon'key·like', adj. See -LIKE. mon'key·ro'ny, n. Contamination of MACARONI, a dandy, and MONKEY. Obs. Sheridan.
Mon'kir. Var. of MUNKER. monk'like', adj. See -LIKE.
monk seam. = MONK'S SEAM. monk'ship, n. See -SHIP.
monk's'-rhu'barb, n. = PATIENCE, 4 b. mon'ni·ker. Var. of MONIKER. mon'ny (mŏn'ĭ). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of MANY.
mon'ny·plies' (mŏn'ĭ·plīz). Var. of MANYPLIES. mon'o·ac'e·tin, n. See ACETIN. mon'o·am·mo'ni·um phos'-phate. See AMMONIUM PHOSPHATE. [TOMIC. mon'o·a·tom'ic. Var. of MONA-mon'o·brom·ac'e·tone. See MONO-, 2. mon'o·bro'mi·nat'ed, adj. Chem. = MONOBROMATED. — mon'o·bro'mi·na'tion, n.
mon'o·bro'mized (-brō'mīzd), adj. = MONOBROMATED. mon'o·bu'ty·rin, n. Chem. See BUTYRIN.
Mon'o·cen'tri·dae (mŏn'ō·sĕn'-trĭ·dē), n. pl., Mon'o·cen'tris (-trĭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. kentron point, center.] Zool. See FINE-CONE FISH. — mon'o-cen'trid (-trĭd), n. — mon'o-cen'troid (-troid), adj. & n.
mon'o·chlo'ro·ben'zene, n. Also mon'o·chlor'ben'zene. See CHLOROBENZENE. [COLOR, n., 2.] monochromatic analysis. See mo·noch'ro·nous (mō·nŏk'rō-nŭs), adj. [See MONOCHRONIC.] Pros. = MONOSEMIC. [PHOR, 1.] monoclinic sulphur. See SUL-Mon'o·coe'li·a (mŏn'ō·sē'lĭ·ä), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of CEPHALOCHORDA. — mon'o·coe'li·an (-ăn), adj. & n. — mon'o·coe'lic (-lĭk), adj.

mon'o-cot (mŏn'ō-kŏt), mon'o-cot'yl (-kŏt'ĭl), n. Bot. A monocotyledon.

mon'o-cot'y-le'don (-kŏt'ĭ-lē'dŭn), n. [mono- + cotyledon.] Bot. Any seed plant having a single cotyledon; a member of the class Monocotyledones. — mon'o-cot'y-le'don-ous (-lē'dŭn-ŭs; -lĕd'ŭn-ŭs), adj.

Mon'o-cot'y-le'do-nes (-lē'dō-nēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. One of the two subclasses of angiospermous plants (Angiospermae), co-ordinate with the Dicotyledones, and including all that produce a single cotyledon. Monocotyledonous plants are further characterized by the structure of the stem, which rarely exhibits secondary growth in thickness and is without annual rings, the closed collateral vascular bundles being scattered through the ground tissue. The leaves are generally parallel veined; the flowers, trimerous instead of pentamerous. The grasses, sedges, lilies, irises, orchids, palms, etc., are monocotyledons. The palm family includes most of the trees of this type, the other 35 families being chiefly herbaceous. Cf. DICOTYLEDONES.

mo-noc'ra-cy (mō-nŏk'rȧ-sĭ), n. [mono- + -cracy.] Government by a single person; undivided rule; autocracy.

mon'o-crat (mŏn'ō-krăt), n. [Gr. monokratēs ruling alone.] One who governs alone; an autocrat; also, one who favors monocracy; — applied specif. by Jefferson about 1790 to the Federalists who sided with the monarchy of England against France. — mon'o-crat'ic (-krăt'ĭk), adj.

mo-noc'ro-tism (mō-nŏk'rō-tĭz'm), n. [mono- + Gr. krotos a beating.] Physiol. That condition of the pulse in which the curve or sphygmogram shows but a single crest, with no dicrotic elevation. — mon'o-crot'ic (mŏn'ō-krŏt'ĭk), adj.

mo-noc'u-lar (mō-nŏk'ū-lĕr; mŏn-ŏk'-), adj. [L. monoculus, fr. Gr. monos single + L. oculus eye.] a Having only one eye; monoculate; also, Humorous, monocled. b Pertaining, or adapted, to the use of only one eye; as, monocular vision; a monocular microscope. — mo-noc'u-lar, n. — mo-noc'u-lar'i-ty (-lăr'ĭ-tĭ), n. — mo-noc'u-lar-ly, adv.

mon'o-cule (mŏn'ō-kūl), n. [Cf. F. monocule. See MONOCULAR.] Zool. Any small crustacean with one median eye.

mo-noc'u-list (mō-nŏk'ū-lĭst; mŏn-ŏk'-), n. A monocular person.

mo-noc'u-lous (mō-nŏk'ū-lŭs; mŏn-ŏk'-), adj. Monocular.

mo-noc'u-lus (-lŭs), n. [L., a one-eyed man.] a A one-eyed man. b A bandage for holding applications over one eye.

mon'o-cy'clic (mŏn'ō-sī'klĭk), n. [mono- + cycle.] Mach. A kind of velocipede having one wheel only.

mon'o-cy'clic (-sī'klĭk; -sĭk'lĭk), adj. Having a single cycle; specif.: a Bot. & Zool. Arranged in or consisting of one whorl or circle, as the floral organs of many plants. b (pron. mŏn'ō-; mō'nō-). Chem. Containing one ring; as, a monocyclic terpene. Cf. CYCLIC, adj., 5. c Elec. Designating a certain system or arrangement of armature windings and transmission lines for utilizing currents in a combined lighting and power service. d Physics. Designating a dynamical system executing a stable periodic motion in such a way that its generalized velocities depend on a single parameter.

Mon'o-cyc'li-ca (-sĭk'lĭ-kȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MONOCYCLIC.] Zool. A subclass of crinoids in which the cup of the calyx has a single basal series of ossicles.

mon'o-cys'tic (mŏn'ō-sĭs'tĭk), adj. [See MONO-; CYST.] a Consisting of, or having, a single cyst. b Zool. Pertaining or related to the genus Monocystis.

Mon'o-cys'tis (-sĭs'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. kystis bladder, bag.] Zool. A genus of Gregarinida in which the protoplasm is not divided into segments by septa. M. agilis is an internal parasite of earthworms. The genus is the type of a family, Mon'o-cys'ti-dae (-tĭ-dē), or suborder, Mon'o-cys-tid'e-a (-sĭs-tĭd'ē-ȧ).

mon'o-cyte (mŏn'ō-sīt), n. [mono- + leucocyte.] Anat. A large mononuclear leucocyte. — mon'o-cyt'ic (-sĭt'ĭk), adj.

mon'o-cy'to-poi-e'sis (-sī'tō-poi-ē'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. monocyte + -poiesis.] Physiol. & Med. Formation of monocytes.

mon'o-dac'tyl, mon'o-dac'tyle (mŏn'ō-dăk'tĭl), adj. Monodactylous.

mon'o-dac'ty-lous (-dăk'tĭ-lŭs), adj. [Gr. monodaktylos, fr. monos single + daktylos finger.] a Having but one digit or claw. b = SURCHELATE b. — mon'o-dac'ty-lism (-lĭz'm), n. — mon'o-dac'ty-ly (-lĭ), n.

Mon'o-del'phi-a (-dĕl'fĭ-ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. delphys the womb.] Zool. The placental mammals; — so named from their more or less unified uterus. Cf. DIDELPHIA, EUTHERIA. — mon'o-del'phi-an (-ăn), adj. & n. — mon'o-del'phic (-fĭk), mon'o-del'phous (-fŭs), adj.

mon'o-der'mic (-dûr'mĭk), adj. [See MONO-; DERMIC.] Anat. Of or pertaining to a single layer of cells.

mo-nod'ic (mō-nŏd'ĭk), adj. Also mo-nod'i-cal (-ĭ-kăl). [Gr. monōidikos.] Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, monody. — mo-nod'i-cal-ly, adv.

mon'o-di-met'ric (mŏn'ō-dĭ-mĕt'rĭk), adj. [mono- + dimetric.] Cryst. Tetragonal.

mon'o-dist (mŏn'ō-dĭst), n. A writer, singer, or composer of monody. — mon'o-dize (-dīz), v. i. Nonce Word.

mo-nod'o-mous (mō-nŏd'ō-mŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. domos house.] Zool. Inhabiting a single nest, as certain colonies of ants. Cf. POLYDOMOUS.

Mon'o-don (mŏn'ō-dŏn), n. [NL. See MONODONT.] Zool. The genus constituted by the narwhal.

mon'o-dont (-dŏnt), adj. [Gr. monodous, -odontos. See MONO-; -ODONT.] Having only one tooth.

mon'o-don'tal (-dŏn'tăl), adj. a Monodont. b Elec. Designating or pertaining to a winding having one armature tooth per hole per phase.

mon'o-dram (mŏn'ō-drăm), -drame (-drām), n. A monodrama.

mon'o-dra'ma (-drä'mȧ; -drăm'ȧ), n. [mono- + Gr. drama drama.] a A drama acted, or designed as if to be acted, by a single person. b A dramatic representation of what passes in an individual's mind. — mon'o-dra-mat'ic (-drȧ-măt'ĭk), adj. — mon'o-dram'a-tist (-drăm'ȧ-tĭst), n.

mon'o-drom'ic (-drŏm'ĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. dromos course. See -DROME.] Math. Uniform; one-valued. See UNIFORM FUNCTION.

mo-nod'ro-my (mō-nŏd'rō-mĭ), n. a The property of being monodromic. b The property that all paths of points of a body simply rotating about an axis shall return into themselves. Cf. LAW OF MONODROMY.

mon'o-dy (mŏn'ō-dĭ), n.; pl. -DIES (-dĭz). [LL. monodia, fr. Gr. monōidia, fr. monōidos singing alone, fr. monos single + ōidē song. See MONO-; ODE.] 1. Gr. Lit. a An ode sung by one voice, as by one of the actors in a tragedy; hence, a mournful song; a funeral song; a dirge. b A funeral oration.
2. A species of poem in which a single mourner laments.
3. Music. a The style of composition in which but one voice part carries a melody; — applied originally to the solo style of the earliest operas and oratorios, which began about 1600 to supplant the purely contrapuntal music of the Middle Ages. Hence, homophony, as opposed to polyphony. b A monodic composition; a melody. Also, a composition with but a single voice part.

mon'o-dy-nam'ic (mŏn'ō-dĭ-năm'ĭk; -dĭ-năm'ĭk), adj. [mono- + dynamic.] Possessing but one talent or power.

mon'o-dy'na-mism (-dĭ'nȧ-mĭz'm; -dĭn'ȧ-mĭz'm), n. The theory that a single force causes the various forms of activity in nature.

Mo-noe'ci-a (mō-nē'shĭ-ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MONOECIOUS.] Bot. A disused Linnaean class of plants, in which the stamens and pistils are in distinct flowers in the same individual. — mo-noe'cian (-shăn), adj.

mo-noe'cian (mō-nē'shăn), n. Zool. A monoecious animal.

mo-noe'cious (mō-nē'shŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. oikos house.] Biol. Having both male and female reproductive organs in the same individual; specif.: Bot. a Having the archegonia and antheridia on different branches of the same plant, as most ferns and mosses; — in this sense the form monoicous is preferred by bryologists. In Zool., commonly called hermaphrodite. b In seed plants, having staminate and pistillate flowers on the same plant, as in the hazel, oak, walnut, etc. Cf. DIOECIOUS, SYNOECIOUS. — mo-noe'cious-ly, adv. — mo-noe'cious-ness, n.

mo-noe'cism (-sĭz'm), n. Biol. State of being monoecious.

mon'o-ei'dic (mŏn'ō-ī'dĭk), adj. [Gr. monoeidēs.] Of a single form or kind. Rare.

mo-noes'trous (mō-nĕs'trŭs; -nēs'trŭs), adj. Physiol. Characterized by a single oestrual period per year.

mon'o-flag'el-late (mŏn'ō-flăj'ĕ-lāt), adj. Uniflagellate.

mon'o-ga'mi-an (mŏn'ō-gā'mĭ-ăn), adj. [See MONOGAMOUS.] a Of or pertaining to monogamy; monogamous. b Zool. = MONOGAMOUS, 2. Rare.

mon'o-gam'ic (-găm'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or involving, monogamy; loosely, practicing monogamy.

mo-nog'a-mist (mō-nŏg'ȧ-mĭst), n. One who practices or upholds monogamy. — mo-nog'a-mist, adj.

mo-nog'a-mis'tic (mō-nŏg'ȧ-mĭs'tĭk), adj. Pertaining to monogamists or monogamy; upholding monogamy.

mo-nog'a-mous (mō-nŏg'ȧ-mŭs), adj. [LL. monogamus having but one wife, fr. Gr. monogamos, fr. monos single + gamos marriage.] 1. Of or pertaining to monogamy; upholding or practicing monogamy; as, monogamous communities, persons, doctrines.
2. Zool. Mating with but one of the opposite sex.
— mo-nog'a-mous-ly, adv. — mo-nog'a-mous-ness, n.

mo-nog'a-my (-mĭ), n. [F. monogamie, fr. LL. monogamia, fr. Gr. monogamia.] 1. Single marriage; specif.: a One marriage only during life; — opposed to deuterogamy or digamy. b Marriage with but one person at a time; — opposed to bigamy and polygamy. Cf. MONANDRY, MONOGYNY.
2. Zool. State of being paired with a single mate.

mon'o-gan'gli-on'ic (mŏn'ō-găng'glĭ-ŏn'ĭk), adj. Having one ganglion.

mon'o-gas'tric (-găs'trĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. gastēr belly.] a Having but one digestive cavity. b Of muscles, having but one venter.

mon'o-gene (mŏn'ō-jēn), adj. [mono- + -gene.] Geol. Built up by a single eruption or by an uninterrupted succession of eruptions.

mon'o-ge'ne-ous (-jē'nē-ŭs), adj. [Cf. MONOGENOUS; HOMOGENEOUS.] a Math. Monogenic. b Zool. (1) Developing with little change, as the Monogenetica. (2) Monogenous. — mon'o-ge-ne'i-ty (-jē-nē'ĭ-tĭ), n.

mon'o-gen'e-sis (mŏn'ō-jĕn'ē-sĭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + -genesis.] 1. Oneness of origin; specif.: Biol. a The theory of the development of all living things from a single cell; — opposed to polygenesis. b Monogenism.
2. Biol. a Asexual reproduction. b Direct development without metamorphosis.

mon'o-gen'e-sy (-sĭ), n. Monogenism. — -gen'e-sist (-sĭst), n.

mon'o-ge-net'ic (-jē-nĕt'ĭk), adj. [See MONOGENESIS.]
1. Biol. Relating to, or involving, monogenesis.
2. Dyeing. Yielding but one color or shade, whatever the mordant used; — said of dyestuffs.
3. Geol. One in genesis; resulting from one process of formation; — used of a mountain range.
4. Zool. Of or pertaining to the Monogenetica.

Mon'o-ge-net'i-ca (-ĭ-kȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MONOGENESIS.] Zool. One of two main divisions or orders of trematode worms. Its members are mostly external parasites infesting the gills and integuments of fishes, crustaceans, and amphibians, and pass from the embryonic to the adult form with little, if any, metamorphosis. Cf. DIGENETICA.

mon'o-gen'ic (-jĕn'ĭk), adj. 1. Having a single or a common origin; specif.: a Descended from one pair; characterized by monogenism; — opposed to polygenic. b Biol. Of or pertaining to monogenesis; monogenetic. c Math. Having a common origin; — said of a function of a complex variable to denote that it is an analytic function. d Petrog. Relating to an igneous rock composed of but a single mineral species. Cf. MONOMICT.
2. Zool. Reproducing in one way only.

mo-nog'e-nism (mō-nŏj'ē-nĭz'm), n. The theory or doctrine that all human races have descended from a single created pair, or from a common ancestral type; — opposed to polygenism. — mo-nog'e-nist (-nĭst), n. — mon'o-ge-nis'tic (mŏn'ō-jē-nĭs'tĭk), adj.

mo-nog'e-nous (mō-nŏj'ē-nŭs), adj. Biol. Of or pert. to monogenesis; as, monogenous, or asexual, reproduction.

mo-nog'e-ny (-nĭ), n. 1. Monogenesis (sense 2 a).
2. Monogenism; — opposed to polygeny.

mon'o-glot (mŏn'ō-glŏt), adj. [Gr. monoglōttos, fr. monos single + glōtta, glōssa, tongue.] Familiar with, making use of, or written in, a single language. Cf. POLYGLOT.

mon'o-glot, n. A person familiar with but one language.

mon'o-go-neu'tic (mŏn'ō-gō-nū'tĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. goneuein to beget.] Zool. Having but one brood in a year.

mon'o-gon'o-po'ric (-gŏn'ō-pō'rĭk; 181), mon'o-go-nop'o-rous (-gō-nŏp'ō-rŭs), adj. [mono- + gono- + Gr. poros passage.] Zool. Having a single genital opening for both male and female organs.

mo-nog'o-ny (mō-nŏg'ō-nĭ), n. [mono- + -gony.] Biol. Asexual reproduction.

mon'o-gram (mŏn'ō-grăm), n. [L. monogrammus, fr. Gr. monos single + grammē line.] 1 A picture in lines only; a sketch; an outline. Obs.

mon'o-gram (mŏn'ō-grăm), n. [L. monogramma, fr. Gr. monos single + gramma letter. See GRAMMAR.] A character or cipher composed of two or more letters interwoven or combined, commonly so as to represent a name, or a part of it. Monograms are often used on seals, ornamental pins, rings, buttons, and by painters, engravers, etc., to distinguish their works. The monogram above, which combines the letters of the name KAROLVS, was used by Charlemagne. The Christian monogram, or monogram of Christ, is composed of the Greek Ch(i) and R(ho), the first letters of Christos Christ. — mon'o-gram, v. t. — mon'o-grammed (-grămd), adj.

Monogram.

Two forms of the Christian Monogram.

mon'o-gram-mat'ic (-grȧ-măt'ĭk), adj. Also mon'o-gram-mat'i-cal (-ĭ-kăl). Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a monogram.

mon'o-gram'mic (-grăm'ĭk), adj. Monogrammatic.

mon'o-graph (mŏn'ō-grăf; 83), n. [mono- + -graph.]
1. A written account of a single thing, or class; a special treatise on a particular subject, orig. one in natural history; a learned or scientific paper, printed in a journal or as a pamphlet.
2. Erroneous for 2d MONOGRAM.

mon'o-graph, v. t.; -GRAPHED (-grăft); -GRAPH'ING (-grăf'ĭng). To make a monograph on or discuss in a monograph. — mo-nog'ra-pher (mō-nŏg'rȧ-fĕr), n.

mon'o-graph'ic (-grăf'ĭk), adj. 1. a Obs. Drawn in line only. b Monogrammatic.
2. Representing a sphere on a single diagram. Oxf. E. D.
3. Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a monograph.
— mon'o-graph'i-cal (mŏn'ō-grăf'ĭ-kăl), adj. — mon'o-graph'i-cal-ly (-ĭ-kăl-ĭ), adv.

mo-nog'ra-phist (mō-nŏg'rȧ-fĭst), n. A monographer.

mo-nog'ra-phy (-fĭ), n. [mono- + -graphy.] a Now Rare. A monograph. b Preparation or production of monographs.

Mon'o-grap'tus (mŏn'ō-grăp'tŭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. graptos written.] Paleontol. A genus of graptolites with a single row of overlapping thecae. It is the type of the family Mon'o-grap'ti-dae (-tĭ-dē), characteristic of the Silurian. — mon'o-grap'tid (-tĭd), adj. & n.

mon'o-gyn'ic (-jĭn'ĭk), mon'o-gyn'i-ous (-ĭ-ŭs), adj. Bot. Monogynous.

mon'o-gy-noe'cial (-jĭ-nē'shăl), adj. [See MONO-; GYNOECIUM.] Bot. Formed from a single pistil.

mo-nog'y-nous (mō-nŏj'ĭ-nŭs), adj. 1. Bot. Having but one pistil or style.
2. a Having but one wife; of, pertaining to, or living in, monogyny. Hence: b Zool. Mating with but one female.

mo-nog'y-ny (-nĭ), n. [mono- + Gr. gynē woman, female.] State of being monogynous; specif., the state or custom of having only one wife at a time; — contrasted with polygyny; also, the state or custom of having one chief, head or jural wife, together with other inferior consorts. Cf. MONANDRY, MONOGAMY. — mo-nog'y-nist (mō-nŏj'ĭ-nĭst), n.

mon'o-hy'brid (mŏn'ō-hī'brĭd), n. Biol. A hybrid whose parents differ in a single character; an individual or type heterozygous for a single pair of genes.

mon'o-hy'drate (mŏn'ō-hī'drāt; mō'nō-), n. Chem. A hydrate containing one molecule of water. — mon'o-hy'drat-ed (-drāt-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj.

mon'o-hy'dric (-hī'drĭk), adj. Chem. a Containing one hydroxyl group. b Having one replaceable hydrogen atom.

mon'o-hy'dro-gen (-hī'drō-jĕn), adj. Chem. Containing one hydrogen atom, esp. one replaceable hydrogen atom.

mo-noi'cous (mō-noi'kŭs), adj. Bot. Monoecious. Monoicous is preferred by bryologists.

mon'oid (mŏn'oid; mō'noid), adj. [Gr. monoeidēs of one form, fr. monos single + eidos form.] Math. Designating a nondegenerate surface having a multiple point of highest possible order. — n. A surface of order n possessing a multiple point of order n − 1.

mon'o-i-de'ism (mŏn'ō-ĭ-dē'ĭz'm), n. [mono- + idea + -ism.] Psychol. A state of prolonged absorption in a single idea, caused by mental depression, trance, or hypnosis. — mon'o-i-de'ic (-ĭk), adj. — mon'o-i'de-is'tic (-ĭ'dē-ĭs'tĭk), adj.

mon'o-i'on, n. Physical Chem. An ion having only one charge.

mo-nol'a-try (mō-nŏl'ȧ-trĭ), n. [mono- + Gr. latreia worship.] The worship of but one god, although more than one may be recognized as existing. — mo-nol'a-ter (-tĕr), mo-nol'a-trist (-trĭst), n. — mo-nol'a-trous (mō-nŏl'ȧ-trŭs), adj.

mon'o-line (mŏn'ō-lĭn), adj. Having or pertaining to a single line; specif.: a Insurance. Designating a system by which companies are limited to writing only one main branch of insurance. b Railroads. = MONORAIL, adj.

mon'o-line, n. Railroads. = MONORAIL, n.

mon'o-lin'gual (-lĭng'gwăl), adj. Expressed in, or knowing or using, only one language.

mon'o-lin'guist (-gwĭst), n. [mono- + linguist.] A monoglot.

mon'o-lit'er-al (mŏn'ō-lĭt'ĕr-ăl), adj. Consisting of one letter.

mon'o-lith (mŏn'ō-lĭth), n. [F. monolithe, fr. L. monolithus consisting of a single stone, fr. Gr. monolithos, fr. monos single + lithos stone.] 1. A single stone or block of stone, esp. one of large size, shaped into a pillar, statue, or monument.
2. [cap.] A trade-mark for a fireproof and waterproof building material, used esp. for floors, having a sawdust base and applied in a plastic condition; hence [sometimes not cap.], the material bearing this trade-mark.

mon'o-lith, adj. Monolithic.

mon'o-lith'ic (-lĭth'ĭk), adj. 1. a Consisting of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a monolith. b Consisting of two or more monoliths; as, Stonehenge is a monolithic monument.
2. a Consisting of one stone, as the shaft of a column not built up of drums. b By extension, designating a kind of architecture or construction depending upon rock cutting or excavation from the solid rock.
3. Of or pertaining to Monolith.
4. Civ. Engin. Designating a concrete structure cast as a single piece.

mon'o-lob'u-lar (-lŏb'ū-lĕr), adj. [mono- + lobular.] One-lobed.

mon'o-loc'u-lar (-lŏk'ū-lĕr), adj. [mono- + locular.] Unilocular.

---

mon-oc'u-late (mŏn-ŏk'ū-lāt), adj. [mono- + oculate.] = MONOCULAR a. mon'o-cy-an'o-gen (mŏn'ō-sĭ-ăn'ō-jĕn), n. = CYANOGEN a. mon'o-dac'ty-late (-dăk'tĭ-lāt), adj. = MONODACTYLOUS a. mon'o-delph (mŏn'ō-dĕlf), n. = MONODELPHIAN, n.
Mon'o-don't'a (-dŏn'tȧ), n. [NL. See MONODONT.] Zool. See ROSARY SHELL. mon'o-em'bry-o-ny. Var. of MONEMBRYONY. mon'o-eth'yl-a-mine', n. See ETHYLAMINE. mon'o-for'min, n. Chem. See FORMIN a.
Mon'o-ge'ne-a (mŏn'ō-jē'nē-ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. = MONOGENETICA. mon'o-glyc'er-ide, n. Also -id. See GLYCERIDE. mon'o-graph'ics (mŏn'ō-grăf'ĭks), n. pl. Monographs. Obs.
monohydrated sulphuric acid. See SULPHURIC ACID. mon'o-hy-drox'y-. Chem. See MONO-, 2; HYDROXY-. — mon'o-hy-drox'y, adj.
mon'o-i-o'do-meth'ane, n. [mono- + iodomethane.] Chem. = METHYL IODIDE. mon'o-ke'tone, n. See KETONE. mon'o-lith'al (mŏn'ō-lĭth'ăl), adj. = MONOLITHIC, 1 a.

mon'o·lo'gi·an (mŏn'ō·lō'jĭ·ăn), n. A monologist.
mon'o·log'ic (-lŏj'ĭk), mon'o·log'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Of, pert. to, or of the nature of, a monologue. mo·nol'o·gist (mō·nŏl'ō·jĭst); in sense 3, also mŏn'ō·lŏg'ĭst), n. [See MONOLOGUE.] 1. One who soliloquizes. Rare. 2. One who monopolizes conversation. 3. A performer of monologues. mo·nol'o·gize (mō·nŏl'ō·jīz), v. i.; -GIZED (-jīzd); -GIZ'ING (-jĭz'ĭng). To engage in a monologue; to soliloquize.
mon'o·logue (mŏn'ō·lŏg; 185), n. Also mon'o·log. [F. monologue, fr. Gr. monologos speaking alone, fr. monos alone, single, sole + logos speech, discourse. See LEGEND.] 1. One who monopolizes the conversation. Obs. 2. Anciently, a dramatic scene in which one person soliloquized; now, a kind of drama performed by one actor. 3. Literary composition, or a poem, of the nature of, or in the form of, a soliloquy. 4. A long speech uttered by one person; soliloquy; also, talk or discourse in company, in the strain of a soliloquy. mon'o·logue, v. i. To monologize.
mon'o·logu'ist (mŏn'ō·lŏg'ĭst; 185), n. An utterer, performer, or deliverer of monologues. mo·nol'o·gy (mō·nŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [Gr. monologia.] Formerly, a monologue; now, the habit of soliloquizing. mo·nom'a·chy (mō·nŏm'ā·kĭ), n. [F. monomachie, fr. LL. monomachia, fr. Gr. monomachia, fr. monomachos fighting in single combat, fr. monos single, alone + machesthai to fight.] A duel; single combat. — mo·nom'a·chist (mō·nŏm'ā·kĭst), n.
mon'o·ma'ni·a (mŏn'ō·mā'nĭ·ā), n. [NL., fr. mono- + -mania; cf. F. monomanie.] a Mental derangement (orig., insanity) restricted to one idea or group of ideas; paranoia (as formerly understood). b Popularly, such concentration on a single theme as to suggest mental derangement; also, its object.
mon'o·ma'ni·ac (-ăk), n. A person affected by monomania; one who has a monomania or craze.
mon'o·ma'ni·ac (mŏn'ō·mā'nĭ·ăk), adj. Monomaniacal.
mon'o·ma·ni'a·cal (-mā·nī'ā·kăl), adj. Affected with, characterized by, or pertaining to, monomania.
mon'o·mas'ti·gate (-măs'tĭ·gāt), mon'o·mas'ti·gote (-gōt), adj. [mono- + Gr. mastix, -igos, whip.] Zool. Uniflagellate.
mon'o·me·nis'cous (-mē·nĭs'kŭs), n. [See MONO-; MENISCUS.] Zool. Having but one lens, as a simple eye. mon'o·mer (mŏn'ō·mĕr; mō'nō-), n. [mono- + -mer.] Chem. The simple unpolymerized form of a compound, having relatively low molecular weight, as distinguished from dimer, polymer, etc. — mon'o·mer'ic (mŏn'ō·mĕr'ĭk), adj.
mo·nom'er·ous (mō·nŏm'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [Gr. monomerēs single, fr. monos alone + meros part.] 1. Bot. a Having a single member in each whorl; — applied to flowers, and frequently written 1-merous. b = MONOCARPELLARY. 2. Zool. Designating, or having, one-jointed tarsi.
mon'o·me·tal'lic (mŏn'ō·mē·tăl'ĭk), adj. 1. Consisting of, or employing, one metal; of or pertaining to monometallism. 2. (pron. mŏn'ō-; mō'nō-). Chem. Containing one atom of metal.
mon'o·met'al·lism (mŏn'ō·mĕt'ăl·ĭz'm), n. [mono- + metal.] The legalized use of one metal only, as gold or silver, in the standard currency of a country, or as the standard of money values; also, the theory, belief, or practice favoring or employing a single metallic standard. See BIMETALLISM. — mon'o·met'al·list (-ĭst), n. & adj.
mo·nom'e·ter (mō·nŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [Gr. monometros of one meter, fr. monos + metron measure.] A rhythmical series consisting of a single meter, whether a foot or a dipody.
mon'o·meth'yl- (mŏn'ō·mĕth'ĭl-; mō'nō-). [mono- + methyl.] Chem. A combining form denoting the presence of one methyl group (CH_3). — mon'o·meth'yl (-ĭl), adj. — mon'o·meth'yl·at'ed (-mĕth'ĭ·lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj.
mon'o·me·thyl'ic (-mē·thĭl'ĭk), adj. Chem. Monomethyl. mon'o·met'ric (-mĕt'rĭk), adj. 1. Cryst. Isometric. 2. Consisting of, or written in, monometer.
mon'o·met'ri·cal (-rĭ·kăl), adj. Pertaining to, or consisting of, a monometer or monometers.
mo·no'mi·al (mō·nō'mĭ·ăl), adj. [mono- + -nomial as in binomial.] 1. Alg. Consisting of but a single term. 2. Biol. Consisting of a single word or term.
mo·no'mi·al, n. A monomial name or expression.
mon'o·mict (mŏn'ō·mĭkt), adj. Petrog. Relating to a sedimentary rock composed of but a single mineral species. Cf. MONOGENIC d.
mon'o·min'er·al (-mĭn'ĕr·ăl), adj. [mono- + mineral.] Petrog. Composed wholly or almost wholly of a single mineral species, as certain igneous rocks. — mon'o·min'er·al'ic (-ăl'ĭk), adj.
mon'o·mo·lec'u·lar (mŏn'ō·mō·lĕk'ū·lĕr; mō'nō-), adj. Chem. Of or pertaining to a single or simple molecule.
Mon'o·mo'ri·um (mŏn'ō·mō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. morion, dim. of moros portion, piece.] Zool. A large, widely distributed genus of ants of the family Formicidae. The red ant Monomorium pharaonis and a little black ant, M. minimum, are often household pests.
mon'o·mor'phic (-môr'fĭk), adj. [mono- + -morphic.] 1. Biol. Having but a single form; exhibiting the same or an essentially similar type of structure; specif.: Zool. Retaining the same form throughout the various stages of development (as ametabolous insects), or in different individuals of the same colony or species; — opposed to heteromorphic, dimorphic, trimorphic, and polymorphic. 2. Bot. In certain plants, as fungi, producing spores of one form or kind. Cf. PLEOMORPHISM, 2.
— mon'o·mor'phism (-môr'fĭz'm), n.
mon'o·mor'phous (-fŭs), adj. Monomorphic.
Mon'o·my·a'ri·a (mŏn'ō·mī·ā'rĭ·ā), Mon'o·my'a (-mī'ā), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. mys, myos, muscle.] Zool. A division of bivalve mollusks having but one adductor muscle, as the oysters, pearl oysters, and scallops. Cf. DIMYARIA. — mon'o·my·ar'i·an (-ăr'ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.
Mo·non'chus (mō·nŏng'kŭs), n. [NL., fr. mon- + Gr. onkos barb.] Zool. A genus of predatory nematodes living in the soil and in fresh water. They typically possess a single pharyngeal tooth. — mon'onch (mŏn'ŏngk; mō'-nŏngk), n.
mon'o·neu'ral (mŏn'ō·nū'răl), adj. Zool. Receiving branches from but one nerve; — said of muscles.
Mo·non'ga·he'la (mō·nŏng'gā·hē'lā), n. [From the Monongahela River, W. Va., fr. Lenape Menaungehilla, lit. (prob.), crumbling banks.] Geol. A subdivision of the Pennsylvanian or Carboniferous in Pennsylvania, Ohio, etc. — Mo·non'ga·he'la, adj.
mon'o·ni'trate (mŏn'ō·nī'trāt; mō'nō-), n. Chem. A compound containing a single nitrate group (NO_3); as, bismuth mononitrate, $BiONO_3$. mon'o·ni'trat·ed (-trāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Chem. Modified by the introduction of one nitro group (NO_2) or one nitrate group (NO_3). — mon'o·ni·tra'tion (-nī·trā'shŭn), n.
mon'o·ni'tro- (mŏn'ō·nī'trō-; mō'nō-). Chem. A combining form, mono- + nitro-, signifying containing one nitro group, as in mon'o·ni'tro·ben'zene.
mon'o·no'mi·al (mŏn'ō·nō'mĭ·ăl), n. & adj. Monomial. mon'o·no'mi·an (-ăn), adj. [mono- + Gr. nomos law.] Founded on, or recognizing, one law. Rare.
mon'o·nu'cle·ar (-nū'klē·ĕr), adj. Having only one nucleus. — n. A mononuclear leucocyte. See LEUCOCYTE. mon'o·nu'cle·o'sis (-ō'sĭs), n. [NL. See MONONUCLEAR; -OSIS.] Med. A condition of the body, sometimes infectious, characterized by the presence of an excessive number of mononuclears, esp. in the circulating blood.
mon'o·nych'ous (-nĭk'ŭs), adj. [mon- + Gr. onyx, onychos, claw.] Having an uncleft claw, as certain insects.
mon'o·nym (mŏn'ō·nĭm), n., [mon- + Gr. onyma name.] a A monomial term. b Biol. The name of a monotypic genus. Cf. MONOTYPE, 2. — mon'o·nym'ic (-nĭm'ĭk), adj.
mo·non'y·mize (mō·nŏn'ĭ·mīz), v. t. To designate by, or change into, a mononym. — mi·za'tion (-mĭ·zā'shŭn; -mĭ·zā'shŭn), adj.
mo·non'y·my (mō·nŏn'ĭ·mĭ), n. A mononymic system.
mon'o·ou'si·an (mŏn'ō·ōō'sĭ·ăn; -ou'sĭ·ăn), mon'o·ou'si·ous (-ŭs), adj. [mon- + Gr. ousia being, substance, essence.] Theol. Of one substance or essence.
mon'o·pa·ren'tal (-pā·rĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. Having or derived from a single parent.
mon'o·pa·re'sis (-pā·rē'sĭs; -păr'ē·sĭs), n. [NL.] Med. Paresis of a single limb or part.
mon'o·par'es·the'si·a (-păr'ĕs·thē'zhĭ·ā; -zhā; -zĭ·ā), n. [NL.] Med. Paresthesia affecting one single limb or part of the body.
mon'o·pec'ti·nate (-pĕk'tĭ·nāt), adj. Pectinate along one side.
mon'o·per'son·al (-pûr'sŭn·ăl; -'l), adj. Having but one person, or form of existence.
mon'o·pet'al·ous (-pĕt'ăl·ŭs), adj. [mono- + -petalous.] Bot. a Gamopetalous. b Having a solitary petal.
mo·noph'a·gism (mō·nŏf'ā·jĭz'm), mon'o·pha'gi·a (mŏn'ō·fā'jĭ·ā), n. [mono- + -phagism, NL. -phagia.] Med. Habitual appetite for or use of but one kind of food.
mo·noph'a·gous (mō·nŏf'ā·gŭs), adj. [mono- + -phagous.] a Eating or living on but a single kind of food. b Specif., Zool., having only one food plant, as certain vegetarian insects. Cf. POLYPHAGOUS b. mo·noph'a·gy (mō·nŏf'ā·jĭ), n. [Gr. monophagia. See MONO-; -PHAGIA.] 1. Eating by oneself. Now Rare. 2. Monophagous character or condition. mon'o·phase (mŏn'ō·fāz), adj. Elec. Single-phase. — mon'o·phas'ic (-făz'ĭk), adj.
mon'o·pho'bi·a (mŏn'ō·fō'bĭ·ā), n. [NL. See MONO-; -PHOBIA.] Med. Morbid dread of being alone.
mon'o·phone (mŏn'ō·fōn), n. [mono- + -phone.] Rare. a A simple or single sound. b A homophone.
mo·noph'o·nous (mō·nŏf'ō·nŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. phōnē sound.] a Music. Giving its tones singly; — applied to an instrument. b Having or representing the same sound; as, monophonous letters.
mon'o·phote (mŏn'ō·fōt), n. [mono- + Gr. phōs, phōtos, light.] Elec. An arc lamp through whose regulator the entire current passes. — mon'o·pho'tal (-fō'tăl; -t'l), adj.
mon'oph·thal'mic (mŏn'ŏf·thăl'mĭk), adj. One-eyed. mon'oph·thal'mus (-mŭs), n. [NL., fr. mono- + ophthalmos eye.] Terat. Monstrosity marked by absence of one eye.
mon'oph·thong (mŏn'ŏf·thŏng; 185), n. [Gr. monophthongos with one sound, fr. monos alone + phthongos sound, voice.] A single, simple vowel sound, formed with the superglottal speech organs in a fixed position. Cf. PURE, adj., 15. — mon'oph·thon'gal (-thŏng'găl), adj.
mon'oph·thong·ize (-thŏng·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). Phonet. To change into a monophthong; to reduce (a diphthong) to a simple vowel sound. — mon'oph·thong'i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. mon'o·phy·let'ic (mŏn'ō·fĭ·lĕt'ĭk), adj. [See MONO-; PHYLETIC.] Of or pertaining to a single stock; developed from a single common parent form; — opposed to polyphyletic. Cf. MONOGENIC, 1 a. — -phy·let'i·cism (-ĭ·sĭz'm), n.
mo·noph'y·lite (mō·nŏf'ĭ·lĭt), n. [Gr. monophylos of one tribe + -ite.] Anthropol. A believer in the monophyletic theory of man's origin.
mon'o·phyl'lous (mŏn'ō·fĭl'ŭs), adj. [Gr. monophyllos, fr. monos alone + phyllon leaf.] Bot. Composed of a single leaf; as, a monophyllous calyx.
mon'o·phy'o·dont (-fī'ō·dŏnt), adj. [Gr. monophyēs single (fr. monos alone + phyein to produce) + odōn, odontos, a tooth.] Zool. Having but one set of teeth, none of which are replaced at a later stage of growth of the animal; — opposed to diphyodont. — n. A monophyodont animal. — mon'o·phy'o·don'tism (-dŏn'tĭz'm), n.
Mo·noph'y·site (mō·nŏf'ĭ·sīt), n. [Gr. monophysitēs, fr. monos single + physis nature.] Eccl. One of those who, in opposition to the Creed of Chalcedon, maintain that there was but a single nature in Christ or that the human and divine in Jesus Christ constituted but one composite nature. The Monophysites formed a large party in the ancient church, and are now represented by the Armenian, Coptic, Jacobite, and Abyssinian Churches. — Mon'o·phy·sit'ic (mŏn'ō·fĭ·sĭt'ĭk), Mon'o·phy·sit'i·cal (-sĭt'ĭ·kăl), adj. — Mo·noph'y·sit'ism (mō·nŏf'ĭ·sĭt'ĭz'm; mŏn·ŏf'-), n.
mon'o·plac'u·la (mŏn'ō·plăk'ū·lā), n. [NL. See MONO-; PLACULA.] Biol. A placula consisting of a single layer of cells. — mon'o·plac'u·lar (-lĕr), mon'o·plac'u·late (-lāt), adj.
mon'o·plane (mŏn'ō·plān), n. An airplane with only one main supporting surface. — mon'o·plan'ist (-plăn'ĭst), n.
mon'o·plas·mat'ic (-plăz·măt'ĭk), adj. [mono- + plasmatic.] Composed of but one substance.
mon'o·plast (mŏn'ō·plăst), n. [mono- + -plast.] Biol. A monoplastic element.
mon'o·plas'tic (-plăs'tĭk), adj. [mono- + -plastic.] Biol. Having one form; retaining its primary form.
mon'o·ple'gi·a (-plē'jĭ·ā), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. plēgē a stroke.] Med. Paralysis affecting a single limb or part of the body. — mon'o·pleg'ic (-plĕj'ĭk; -plē'jĭk), adj.
Mon'op·neu'mo·na (mŏn'ŏp·nū'mō·nā), n. pl. Also Mon'op·neu'mo·nes (-nēz). [NL. See MONO-; PNEUMONIA.] Zool. In some classifications, an order including Ceratodus. — mon'op·neu·mo'ni·an (-nū·mō'nĭ·ăn), adj. & n. — mon'op·neu'mo·nous (-nū'mō·nŭs), adj.
mon'o·pode (mŏn'ō·pōd), adj. Having only one foot.
mon'o·pode (mŏn'ō·pōd), n. [L. monopodius; cf. F. monopode. See MONOPODY.] 1. A one-footed creature; specif., in medieval use, one of a fabulous tribe or race of Ethiopians having but one foot, used as a sunshade. 2. Bot. A monopodium.
mon'o·po'di·al (-pō'dĭ·ăl), adj. Bot. a Of or pertaining to a monopodium. b Racemose. See INFLORESCENCE, 2 b. — mon'o·po'di·al·ly, adv.
mon'o·pod'ic (-pŏd'ĭk), adj. Being, or consisting of, a monopody. mon'o·po'di·um (-pō'dĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -DIA (-ā). [NL.; cf. L. monopodium a table with one foot. See MONOPODY.] Bot. A main or primary axis that continues its original line of growth, giving off successive axes or lateral branches, as in the excurrent trunks of certain coniferous trees. Cf. SYMPODIUM.
mo·nop'o·dous (mō·nŏp'ō·dŭs), adj. One-footed.
mo·nop'o·dy (mō·nŏp'ō·dĭ), n.; pl. -DIES (-dĭz). [Gr. monopodia, fr. monos single + pous, podos, foot.] Pros. A measure of but a single foot.
mon'o·po'lar (mŏn'ō·pō'lĕr), adj. Unipolar. — mon'o·po·lar'i·ty (-pō·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n.
mon'o·po·lar'ic (-pō·lăr'ĭk), adj. Somewhat monopolar.
mon'o·pole (mŏn'ō·pōl), n. [F., monopoly.] Obs. a Monopoly; an unlawful combination. b An emporium.
mo·nop'o·lism (mō·nŏp'ō·lĭz'm), n. The system, policy, or practices of monopolies or monopolists.
mo·nop'o·list (-lĭst), n. One who monopolizes; one who has a monopoly or favors monopoly. — adj. Monopolistic.
mo·nop'o·lis'tic (-lĭs'tĭk), adj. Of or pert. to a monopolist; tending to, or characteristic of, a monopoly or monopolies. — mo·nop'o·lis'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.
mon'o·po·lit'i·cal (mŏn'ō·pō·lĭt'ĭ·kăl), adj. Of, pertaining to, or concerned with, monopoly.
mo·nop'o·lize (mō·nŏp'ō·līz), v. t.; -LIZED (-līzd); -LIZ'ING (-lĭz'ĭng). [From MONOPOLY.] To acquire a monopoly of; to have or get the exclusive privilege or means of dealing in, or the exclusive possession of; to engross the whole of; as, to monopolize the coffee trade, land, conversation. — mo·nop'o·li·za'tion (-lĭ·zā'shŭn; -lĭ·zā'shŭn), n. — mo·nop'o·liz'er (mō·nŏp'ō·lĭz'ĕr), n.
mo·nop'o·lous (-lŭs), adj. Monopolizing. Rare.
mo·nop'o·ly (-lĭ), n.; pl. -LIES (-lĭz). [L. monopolium, fr. Gr. monopōlia, monopōlion, fr. monos alone + pōlein to sell.] 1. a Exclusive possession of the trade in some article or exercise of some business. b The exclusive right, privilege, or power of selling or purchasing a given commodity or service in a given market; exclusive control of the supply of any commodity or service in a given market; hence, often, in popular use, any such control of a commodity, service, or traffic in a given market as enables the one having such control to raise the price of a commodity or service materially above the price fixed by free competition. At the common law the term monopoly was specifically applied to an exclusive privilege of trade created by state grant or charter, and the term is still sometimes so used. Exclusive control of traffic constitutes a monopoly in the economic sense, whether acquired by state grant (as in case of patents or copyright, which are statutory exceptions to the common-law rule making monopolies illegal), by control of sources of supply (as in case of mines), by engrossing (see ENGROSS, v. t., 2) an article (as in case of cornering the market), by combination or concert of action, or by any other means. See TRUST, n., 11, Note. 2. A grant or charter of a monopoly (in sense 1 b). 3. Exclusive possession of anything, as of learning. 4. The commodity to which the monopoly relates. 5. A company or combination having a monopoly.
mon'o·pol'y·logue (mŏn'ō·pŏl'ĭ·lŏg; 185), n. [mono- + Gr. polys many + logos speech.] An entertainment in which one actor sustains many characters. — -po·lyl'o·gist (-pō·lĭl'ō·jĭst), n. monopoly value. Econ. The value that a thing has for sale under the conditions of monopoly.
mon'o·pri'o·nid (mŏn'ō·prī'ō·nĭd), mon'o·pri'o·nid'i·an (-nĭd'ĭ·ăn), adj. [mono- + Gr. priōn saw.] Paleontol. Designating graptolites having cells on one side of the stem only.
mon'o·psy'chism (mŏn'ō·sī'kĭz'm), n. [mono- + Gr. psychē soul.] The doctrine that there is but one immortal soul, or spirit, of which individual souls are manifestations.
mo·nop'ter·al (mō·nŏp'tĕr·ăl), adj. [Gr. monopteros with a row of pillars only, fr. monos alone, only + pteron feather, wing, also, a row of pillars.] 1. Arch. See COLUMNIATION a. 2. Zool. Having only one wing, fin, or winglike part.
mo·nop'ter·ous (-ŭs), adj. [See MONOPTERAL.] One-winged, as certain seeds.
mon·op'tic (mŏn·ŏp'tĭk), mon·op'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. One-eyed. mon'o·pto·tic (mŏn'ŏp·tŏt), n. [LL. monoptota, pl., fr. Gr. monoptōta, monoptōtos. See MONO-; DIPTOTE. Cf. POLYPTOTE.] Gram. A noun or adjective having only one case or one form for several or all cases. — mon'op·tot'ic (-tŏt'ĭk), adj.
Mon'o·py·lae'a (mŏn'ō·pĭ·lē'ā), Mon'o·py·la'ri·a (-lā'rĭ·ā; 79), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. pylē gate.] Zool. A division of radiolarians having only one pseudopodial aperture in the central capsule. — mon'o·pyl'e·an (-pĭl'ē·ăn), adj. & n.
mon'o·py·re'nous (-pī·rē'nŭs), adj. [mono- + pyrene.] Bot. Having a single stone or kernel.
mon'o·rail' (mŏn'ō·rāl'), n. [mono- + rail.] A single rail serving as a track for a wheeled carriage, truck, etc. Specif., Railroads, a single rail mounted on trestles, constituting the track for cars that usually sit straddlewise over it or hang suspended from it. — mon'o·rail', adj. — mon'o·rail'road (-rōd), n. — mon'o·rail'way (-wā), n.
mon·or'chid (mŏn·ôr'kĭd), adj. [Gr. monorchis. See MONO-; ORCHIS.] Med. Having but one testicle, or but one in the scrotum. — n. A monorchid person or animal. — mon·or'chid·ism (-ĭz'm), mon·or'chism (-ôr'kĭz'm), n.
mon·or'chis (-kĭs), n.; pl. -CHIDES (-kĭ·dēz). [NL. See MONORCHID.] A monorchid.
mon'or·gan'ic (mŏn'ôr·găn'ĭk), adj. [mono- + organic.] Pert. to, or affecting, a single organ, or set of organs.

mon'o·logu·ize (mŏn'ō·lŏg·īz), v. i. Var. of MONOLOGIZE. mon'o·met'al·ism. Monometallism. Ref. Sp.
mon'o·mo·ly'date (-mō·lĭb'dāt), n. See MOLYBDIC ACID a. mon'ont (mŏn'ŏnt), n. [mon- + -ont.] Biol. = SCHIZONT. mon'o·nu'cle·at'ed, adj. = MONONUCLEAR, adj.
mo·nop'a·thy (mō·nŏp'ā·thĭ), n. See MONO-, 3 a; -PATHY. — mon'o·path'ic (mŏn'ō·păth'ĭk), adj.
mon'o·per'sul·phu'ric, or mon'o·per'sul·fu'ric, adj. = PERMONOSULPHURIC ACID.
Mon'o·pet'a·lae (mŏn'ō·pĕt'ā·lē), n. pl. [NL.] = METACHLAMYDEAE. [Music. = MONODIC.] mon'o·phon'ic (-fŏn'ĭk), adj.
mo·noph'o·ny (mō·nŏf'ō·nĭ), n. Music. = MONODY, 3 a. mon'o·phy·lit'ic. Rare var. of MONOPHYLETIC. mo·nop'o·ler, mon'o·po'li·an, n. A monopolist. Obs.
mon'o·pol'i·cal, adj. Monopolistic. Obs. mon'o·pol'i·tan, n. A monopolist. Obs.
mo·nop'o·lite, n. A monopolist. Obs.
mo·nop'o·lis'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
Monopoly Act. = STATUTE OF MONOPOLIES.
Mon'op·ter'i·dae (mŏn'ŏp·tĕr'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See MONOPTERAL.] Zool. See ICHTHYOCEPHALI. — mon'op·ter·oid (mō·nŏp'tĕr·oid), adj. & n. mon'op·ter·on (mō·nŏp'tĕr·ŏn). Also mon'op·ter·os (-ŏs), n.; pl. -TERA (-ā). [NL. See MONOPTERAL.] Arch. See COLUMNIATION d.
Mon'o·py·lo'a. [NL.] Zool. Var. of MONOPYLAEA.

mon′o·rhyme (mŏn′ō·rīm), n. Pros. A strophe or poem in which all the lines have the same end rhyme; also, pl., the lines of such a poem or passage. — mon′o·rhymed (-rīmd), adj.

mon′o·rhyth′mic (-rĭth′mĭk; -rĭth′mĭk), adj. Having, or characterized by, a single rhyme; monorhymed.

mon′o·sac′cha·ride (-săk′ə·rīd; -rĭd; 157), n. [mono- + saccharide.] Also -rid. Chem. A simple sugar, not decomposable by hydrolysis. See SUGAR, n. The monosaccharides are classed as dioses, trioses, tetroses, pentoses, hexoses, etc., according to the number of oxygen atoms in their molecule. They are commonly represented as open-chain compounds containing hydroxyl groups and either an aldehyde group (aldoses) or a ketone group (ketoses), but these easily change into isomeric forms having a ring structure. Cf. GLUCOSE, 1.

mon′o·sche′mic (mŏn′ō·skē′mĭk), adj. [Gr. monoschēmos, fr. monos single + schēma form.] Pros. Consisting throughout of one kind of foot.

mon′ose (mŏn′ōs), n. [mon- + -ose.] Chem. a A monosaccharide. b Formaldehyde, HCHO, considered in relation to sugars.

mon′o·se′mic (mŏn′ō·sē′mĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. sēma sign.] Gr. & Lat. Pros. Consisting of, or equal in duration to, one mora, or time.

mon′o·sep′al·ous (-sĕp′ăl·ŭs), adj. [mono- + -sepalous.] Bot. a Gamosepalous. b Having a single sepal.

mon′o·serv′ice (mŏn′ō·sûr′vĭs), adj. Usable but once. Colloq.

mon′o·si·phon′ic (-sī·fŏn′ĭk), adj. a Bot. Monosiphonous. b Zool. Consisting of a single tube, as the stem of some hydroids.

mon′o·si′pho·nous (-sī′fō·nŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. siphōn siphon, tube.] Bot. Having a single central tube; — said of certain red algae. Cf. POLYSIPHONOUS.

mon′o·sperm (mŏn′ō·spûrm), n. Bot. A monospermous plant.

mon′o·sper′mous (-spûr′mŭs), adj. Also mon′o·sper′mal (-spûr′măl), adj. [mono- + Gr. sperma seed.] Bot. Having only one seed.

mon′o·sper′my (mŏn′ō·spûr′mĭ), n. [See MONOSPERMOUS.] Zool. Fertilization of an egg by the entrance of a single spermatozoon, as in normal fertilization; — opposed to dispermy and polyspermy. — mon′o·sperm′ic (-spûr′mĭk), adj.

mon′o·spher′i·cal (-sfĕr′ĭ·kăl), adj. Having, or consisting of, one sphere only.

mon′o·spon·dyl′ic (-spŏn·dĭl′ĭk), adj. [See MONO-; SPONDYL.] Zool. Having no well-developed intercentra alternating with the true centra of the vertebrae. Cf. DIPLOSPONDYLIC.

mon′o·spo·ran′gi·um (-spō·răn′jĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] Bot. A sporangium which bears monospores.

mon′o·spore (mŏn′ō·spōr; 181), n. [mono- + -spore.] Bot. In certain algae, as of Bangiaceae, a simple nonsexual spore; — contrasted with tetraspore. — mon′o·spo·rif′er·ous (-spō·rĭf′ĕr·ŭs), adj.

mon′o·spored (mŏn′ō·spōrd), adj. Monosporous.

mo·nos′po·rous (mō·nŏs′pō·rŭs; mŏn′ō·spō′rŭs), adj. a Zool. Having a single spore. b Bot. Monosporiferous.

mon′o·stele (mŏn′ō·stēl; -stē′lē), n. [mono- + stele.] Bot. A protostele. — mon′o·ste′ly (-lĭ), n. — mon′o·ste′lic (-stē′lĭk), -ste′lous (-lŭs), adj.

mon′o·stich (mŏn′ō·stĭk), n. [Gr. monostichon, fr. monostichos consisting of one verse, fr. monos single + stichos line, verse.] A single verse, or a poem of one verse.

mo·nos′ti·chous (mō·nŏs′tĭ·kŭs), adj. [See MONOSTICH.] a Bot. Arranged in a single row on one side of an axis. b Zool. Consisting of a single layer or series.

Mon′o·sto′ma·ta (mŏn′ō·stō′mə·tə), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + -stomata.] Zool. A formerly recognized primary division of Metazoa including all above the sponges. — mon′o·stom′a·tous (-stŏm′ə·tŭs; -stō′mə·tŭs), adj.

mon′o·stome (mŏn′ō·stōm), adj. Zool. Monostomous. — n. A monostomous animal; specif., one of the Monostomatidae.

mo·nos′to·mous (mō·nŏs′tō·mŭs), mon′o·stome (mŏn′ō·stōm), adj. [mono- + -stomous, -stome.] Having one mouth or sucker.

Mon′o·sto′mum (mŏn′ō·stō′mŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. monostomos having one mouth.] Zool. A genus of trematode worms having a single sucker. It typifies a family, Mon′o·sto·mat′i·dae (-stō·măt′ĭ·dē), syn. Mon′o·stom′i·dae (-stŏm′ĭ·dē; -stō′mĭ·dē).

mon′o·stro·mat′ic (-strō·măt′ĭk), adj. [mono- + stromatic.] Bot. Having the cells in a single layer, as in the leaves of some mosses and the thalli of certain algae.

mo·nos′tro·phe (mō·nŏs′trō·fē; mŏn′ō·strōf), n. [NL., fr. Gr. monostrophos monostrophic, fr. monos single + strophē strophe.] Pros. A poem in which all the strophes or stanzas are of the same metric form. — mon′o·stroph′ic (mŏn′ō·strŏf′ĭk), adj.

mon′o·stroph′ics (mŏn′ō·strŏf′ĭks), n. pl. Monostrophic verses.

mon′o·sty′lous (-stī′lŭs), adj. [mono- + -stylous.] Bot. Having a single style.

mon′o·sub′sti·tut′ed (-sŭb′stĭ·tūt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Chem. Modified by substitution of one atom or radical in the molecule. — mon′o·sub′sti·tu′tion (-tū′shăn), n.

mon′o·sul′phide (mŏn′ō·sŭl′fīd; mō′nō-; -fĭd; 157), n. Also -sul′fid. [mono- + sulphide.] Chem. A sulphide the molecule of which contains but one atom of sulphur.

mon′o·syl·lab′ic (mŏn′ō·sĭ·lăb′ĭk) adj. 1. Having but one syllable; composed of monosyllables.
2. Using or speaking only monosyllables.
— mon′o·syl·lab′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — -syl·lab′i·cal·ly, adv.

mon′o·syl′la·bize (-sĭl′ə·bīz), v. t. & i. To make, or be, monosyllabic. — mon′o·syl′la·bism (-sĭl′ə·bĭz′m), n.

mon′o·syl′la·ble (mŏn′ō·sĭl′ə·b'l), n. [L. monosyllabus of one syllable, fr. Gr. monosyllabos. See MONO-; SYLLABLE.] A word of one syllable; often, specif., the word "Yes," or "No."

mon′o·syl′la·ble, v. t.; -BLED (-b'ld); -BLING (-blĭng). To reduce to, or express by, a monosyllable.

mon′o·sym·met′ric (mŏn′ō·sĭ·mĕt′rĭk), mon′o·sym·met′ri·cal (-rĭ·kăl), adj. 1. Cryst. Monoclinic.
2. Biol. Symmetrical bilaterally, with reference to a single plane; zygomorphic. Cf. BISYMMETRICAL.
— mon′o·sym·met′ri·cal·ly, adv. — mon′o·sym′me·try (-sĭm′ĕ·trĭ), n.

mon′o·syn·thet′ic (mŏn′ō·sĭn·thĕt′ĭk), adj. Philol. Adding not more than one derivative element to a stem.

mon′o·tel′e·phone (-tĕl′ē·fōn), n. A telephone which produces or transmits sounds of one pitch only. — mon′o·tel′e·phon′ic (-fŏn′ĭk), adj.

mon′o·tel′lu·rite (-tĕl′ŭ·rīt), n. A monomineral tellurite.

Mon′o·thal′a·ma (-thăl′ə·mə), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. thalamos chamber.] A group of Foraminifera having only one chamber. Obs. — mon′o·thal′a·man (-mən), n. — mon′o·tha·la′mi·an (-thə·lā′mĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

mon′o·thal′a·mous (-thăl′ə·mŭs), adj. Bot. & Zool. Unilocular; one-chambered.

mon′o·the′cal (-thē′kăl), adj. [mono- + Gr. thēkē box.] Bot. Unilocular.

mon′o·the·ism (mŏn′ō·thē·ĭz′m), n. [mono- + Gr. theos god.] The doctrine or belief that there is but one God. Cf. THEISM. — mon′o·the·ist (-ĭst), n. & adj. — mon′o·the·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj. — mon′o·the·is′ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. — mon′o·the·is′ti·cal·ly, adv.

Mo·noth′e·lete (mō·nŏth′ē·lēt), or, more commonly, Mo·noth′e·lite (-līt), n. [ML. monothelitae, pl., fr. Gr. monothelētēs, fr. monos alone + thelein, ethelein, to will, be willing.] Eccl. One who holds that Christ had but one will; specif., Eccl. Hist., one of a party or sect in the Eastern Empire in the 7th century. The now orthodox Maronites maintained this opinion till the 12th century. Cf. DYOTHELETE, MONOPHYSITE; see MARONITE. — Mo·noth′e·le·tism, Mo·noth′e·li·tism (mō·nŏth′ē·lē·tĭz′m, -lĭ·tĭz′m), n. — Mon′o·the·le′tian (mŏn′ō·thē·lē′shăn), adj. — Mon′o·the·let′ic, Mon′o·the·lit′ic (-lĕt′ĭk, -lĭt′ĭk), adj.

mon′o·the′li·ous (mŏn′ō·thē′lĭ·ŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. thēlys female.] Zool. Polyandric.

mon′o·thet′ic (mŏn′ō·thĕt′ĭk), adj. [mono- + Gr. thetos, verbal adj. of tithenai to put.] Positing but one essential element.

mon·o′tic (mŏn·ō′tĭk), adj. [mon- + 2d -otic.] Affecting a single ear, as a sound.

mon′o·tint (mŏn′ō·tĭnt), n. A single tint or color; also, a picture wholly or chiefly of a single color; a monochrome.

mo·not′o·cous (mō·nŏt′ō·kŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. tokos birth, offspring.] Zool. Uniparous; laying a single egg.

mo·not′o·mous (mō·nŏt′ō·mŭs), adj. [mono- + Gr. tomos cutting, fr. temnein to cut.] Mineral. Having a distinct cleavage in one direction only.

mon′o·tone (mŏn′ō·tōn), n. [See MONOTONOUS, MONOTONY.] 1. a Succession of syllables, words, or sentences on one unvaried key or pitch. b Any similar sound, as of flowing water.
2. Monotony or sameness of tone or style; also, sameness of color; as, engravings in monotone.
3. Monotonous reiteration or recurrence, as of pain; also, often figuratively; as, his life was a monotone.
4. Music. a A single unvaried tone. b Recitation in such a tone, esp. of liturgy; intoning. c A person not able to produce musical intervals properly with the voice.

mon′o·tone, v. t. & i. To recite or chant in an unvaried tone; to intone.

mon′o·tone (mŏn′ō·tōn), adj. Monotonous.

mon′o·ton′ic (-tŏn′ĭk), adj. a Of, pertaining to, or uttered in, a monotone. b Math. Not decreasing or not increasing as the independent variable increases; — said of a dependent variable. c Music. Producing only one tone. — mon′o·ton′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — mon′o·ton′i·cal·ly, adv.

mo·not′o·nist (mō·nŏt′ō·nĭst), n. One addicted to or preferring monotony.

mo·not′o·nize (-nīz), v. t. To make monotonic or monotonous.

mo·not′o·nous (mō·nŏt′ō·nŭs), adj. [Gr. monotonos, fr. monos single + tonos tone. See TONE.] 1. Uttered in one unvarying tone; varying little in tone; as, a monotonous cry or chant.
2. Marked by monotony; without change or variety; wearisomely uniform; as, monotonous habits, scenery, style.
3. Math. Of or pertaining to a monotonic function.
Syn. — Dull, tedious, wearisome. Ant. — Varied, diversified.
— mo·not′o·nous·ly, adv. — mo·not′o·nous·ness, n.

mo·not′o·ny (-nĭ), n. [Gr. monotonia. See MONOTONOUS.] 1. Sameness or uniformity of tone or sound; utterance, use, or continuity of one unvarying tone or sound; a monotonous sound.
2. Sameness, uniformity, or want of variety, esp. wearisome sameness, as of a desert, of prison life.
3. Math. The property of being monotonic.

mon′o·tre′mal (mŏn′ō·trē′măl), mon′o·tre′mate (-māt), mon′o·tre′mous (-mŭs), adj. Monotrematous.

Mon′o·tre′ma·ta (mŏn′ō·trē′mə·tə; -trĕm′ə·tə), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. trēma hole.] Zool. The lowest order of mammals, consisting of the only existing representatives of the subclass Prototheria, the duckbills and the echidnas, belonging respectively to the families Ornithorhynchidae and Tachyglossidae, restricted to the Australian region. They lay large-yolked, thin-shelled eggs, similar to those of reptiles, and the young are nourished by a mammary gland having no nipple, and enclosed in a shallow pouch developed only during lactation. True teeth occur only in embryonic stages. See DUCKBILL, 1; ECHIDNA, 2. — mon′o·trem′a·tous (mŏn′ō·trĕm′ə·tŭs; -trē′mə·tŭs), adj.

mon′o·treme (mŏn′ō·trēm), n. Zool. One of the Monotremata. — adj. = MONOTREMATOUS.

mo·not′ri·chous (mō·nŏt′rĭ·kŭs), adj. Also mon′o·trich′ic (mŏn′ō·trĭk′ĭk). [mono- + -trichous.] Biol. Having a single flagellum at one pole, as certain bacteria.

mon′o·tri·glyph′ic (mŏn′ō·trī·glĭf′ĭk), adj. [mono- + triglyphic.] Arch. Having only one triglyph over the space between two columns; — said of the usual intercolumniation in a Doric entablature. — mon′o·tri′glyph (-trī′glĭf), n.

Mo·not′ro·cha (mō·nŏt′rō·kə), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. trochos wheel.] Zool. a An obsolete division of rotifers. b In some classifications, a primary division of Hymenoptera including those families in which the trochanter consists of a single joint. — mo·not′ro·chous (-kŭs), adj.

mo·not′ro·chal (-kăl), adj. a Of or pertaining to the Monotrocha. b Having a prototroch only, as certain annelid larvae.

mon′o·tro′chi·an (mŏn′ō·trō′kĭ·ăn), adj. Zool. Of or pertaining to the Monotrocha (sense a); monotrochal. — n. One of that group. Rare.

Mo·not′ro·pa (mō·nŏt′rō·pə), n. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. tropos turn, fr. trepein to turn.] Bot. A genus of two herbs typifying the family Monotropaceae, distinguished by the solitary flower with a polypetalous corolla. M. uniflora is the Indian pipe.

Mon′o·tro·pa′ce·ae (mŏn′ō·trō·pā′sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See MONOTROPA.] Bot. A family of leafless, fleshy, saprophytic herbs (order Ericales); the Indian-pipe family. Monotropa, Hypopitys, and Pterospora are representative genera. — mon′o·tro·pa′ceous (-shŭs), adj.

mon′o·troph′ic (-trŏf′ĭk), adj. Biol. Feeding only on one kind of food.

mon′o·trop′ic (-trŏp′ĭk), adj. [mono- + -tropic.] 1 Physical Chem. Pertaining to or exhibiting monotropy.
2. Math. Uniform; monodromic.
3. Zool. Visiting only a single kind of flower for nectar, as certain insects. Cf. POLYTROPIC.

Mon′o·trop′sis (-trŏp′sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Monotropa + Gr. opsis appearance; — so named from its resemblance to Monotropa.] Bot. A genus of herbs, family Monotropaceae, consisting of two species, natives of the southeastern United States. M. odorata, the sweet pinesap, is one of the rarest of North American plants.

mo·not′ro·py (mō·nŏt′rō·pĭ), n. [mono- + -tropy.] Physical Chem. The relation of two different forms of the same substance which have no definite transition point, since only one is stable. Cf. ENANTIOTROPY.

mon′o·typ′al (mŏn′ō·tīp′ăl), adj. Biol. Monotypic.

mon′o·type (mŏn′ō·tīp), n. [mono- + -type.] 1. A print made by painting on metal and then transferring the painting to paper by pressure.
2. Biol. a The only representative of its group, as a single species constituting a genus. b A holotype, when there are no paratypes. c The type species of a monobasic genus.
3. Printing. [cap.] A trade-mark for either of two machines for setting type. One, the keyboard machine, perforates a roll of paper; the other, the casting machine, casts individual types and sets them into justified lines up to 60 picas wide; hence [sometimes not cap.], either of these machines.

Fig. 1. Monotype Keyboard and Perforating Machine. When a key of the Keyboard (1) is depressed, one or more of the Punches (2) rise and perforate the Controller Ribbon (3) in such a way as to cause the casting of the desired character or space when the ribbon is transferred to the Casting Machine (Fig. 2). The Feed Mechanism (4) automatically advances the ribbon after each perforation, a Counting Mechanism (5) records the width of each character or space to be cast, a Justifying Scale (6) indicates what special keys must be struck to ensure the proper justification of the line, and a Line Counter (7) records the number of lines set. At the completion of a line, a Restoring Mechanism (8) returns the various parts of the machine to their original positions. The measure, or width of line, is determined by setting a special mechanism (9). The motive power of the machine is compressed air.

Fig. 2. Monotype Casting Machine, with inset showing appearance of type as cast. The Controller Ribbon, after perforation (see Fig. 1) is placed on the Casting Machine and feeds through the Paper Tower (1). Compressed air passing through the perforations of the ribbon causes the Mold (2) to open to the width of the character or space to be cast and the Matrix Case (3) to present the proper matrix. The Pump (4) then forces molten metal from the Melting Pot (5) into the mold. The Galley Mechanism (6) receives the type from the Mold and delivers each completed line to the Galley Pan (7). Water circulation cools the mold so that type may be cast at a high rate of speed.

Mon′or·rhi′na (mŏn′ôr·rī′nə), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + Gr. rhis, rhinos, nose.] Syn. of CYCLOSTOMATA, 1. — mon′o·rhi′nal (-năl; -n'l), adj. — mon′o·rhine (mŏn′ō·rīn), adj. & n.

mon′o·rime, -rimed. Vars. of MONORHYME, -RHYMED.

Mon′or·rhi′na, mon′or·rhi′nal, etc. Vars. of MONORHINA, MONORHINAL, etc.

mon′o·sac′cha·rose, n. = MONOSACCHARIDE.

mon′o·sil′ane (mŏn′ō·sĭl′ăn; mō′nō-), n. [mono- + silicon + -ane.] See SILICON HYDRIDE.

mon′o·sil′i·cate, n. See SILICATE, 1. [ACID.]

mon′o·si·lic′ic, adj. See SILICIC mon′o·so·mat′ic (mŏn′ō·sō·măt′ĭk), mon′o·som′a·tous (-sŏm′ə·tŭs; -sō′mə·tŭs), adj. [See MONO-; -SOMATOUS.] = UNICELLULAR.

mon′o·some, n. Biol. See SEX, n., 2.

mon′o·sul′phone, n. Also -sul′fone. See SULPHONE.

mon′o·sul·phon′ic, adj. Also -sul·fon′ic. See SULPHONIC ACID.

monosyllabic language. See ISOLATING LANGUAGES.

mon′o·syl′la·bon, n.; pl. -LABA. [NL.] A monosyllable. Obs.

Mo·noth′e·lism (mō·nŏth′ē·lĭz′m), n. [Cf. F. monothélisme.] = MONOTHELETISM (see MONOTHELETE).

Mo·not′o·car′di·a (mō·nŏt′ō·kär′dĭ·ə), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + oto- + -cardia.] Syn. of PECTINIBRANCHIA. — mo·not′o·car′di·ac (-ăk), adj. — mo·not′o·car′di·an (-ăn), adj. & n.

mon′o·troch, mon′o·trocne, n. [Gr. monotrochos one-wheeled (car).] A one-wheeled vehicle. Obs.

mon'o·typ'ic (mŏn'ō·tĭp'ĭk), adj. 1. Biol. Having a single type or representative, as a genus with only one species. 2. Of the nature of a monotype.

mon'o·typ'i·cal (-tĭp'ĭ·kăl), adj. Monotypic.

mo·not'y·pous (mō·nŏt'ĭ·pŭs), adj. Monotypic. Rare.

mon'o·va'lent (mŏn'ō·vā'lĕnt; mō·nŏv'ā·lĕnt; 66), adj. [mono- + -valent.] a Bacteriol. Containing antibodies specific for, or antigens of, one strain of a given species. b Chem. Univalent. — mon'o·va'lence (-lĕns), mon'o·va'len·cy (mŏn'ō·vā'lĕn·sĭ), n.

mon'o·var'i·ant (mŏn'ō·vâr'ĭ·ănt; mō'nō-; 79), adj. Chem. Univariant.

mon'o·ver·tic'il·late (mŏn'ō·vûr·tĭs'ĭ·lăt), adj. Having a single whorl; as, a monoverticillate shell, leaf.

mon'o·vol'tine (-vōl'tĭn), adj. [mono- + It. volta turn, time.] Zool. Producing one brood in a season; univoltine; — said esp. of certain silkworms.

mon·o'vu·lar (mŏn·ō'vū·lĕr), adj. Bot. Having a single ovule.

mo·nox'e·nous (mō·nŏk'sē·nŭs), adj. [mono- + -xenous.] Biol. Designating a parasite which lives on only one host.

mo·nox'y·lon (mō·nŏk'sĭ·lŏn), n.; pl. -LA (-lä). Also mo·nox'yle (-sĭl). [NL., fr. Gr. monoxylon, fr. monoxylos made from one piece of wood, fr. monos alone + xylon wood.] A canoe or boat made from one piece of timber. — mon'ox·yl'ic (mŏn'ŏks·ĭl'ĭk), adj. — mo·nox'y·lous (mō·nŏk'sĭ·lŭs), adj.

Mon'o·zo'a (mŏn'ō·zō'ä), n. pl. [NL., fr. mono- + -zoa.] A small group of Cestoda, mostly parasites of fishes. Syn. Cestodaria. Cf. MEROZOA. — mon'o·zo'an (-ăn), adj.

mon'o·zo'ic (-ĭk), adj. Zool. a Of or pertaining to the Monozoa. b Designating a spore which produces one sporozoite.

mon'o·zy·got'ic (-zĭ·gŏt'ĭk), adj. Biol. Developed from a single zygote or fertilized egg; — disting. from dizygotic, developed from two zygotes, as fraternal twins.

Mon·roe' Doc'trine (mŭn·rō'). U. S. Hist. The unilateral statement, now generally accepted, made by President Monroe (Dec. 2, 1823), that the United States will regard as an unfriendly act any attempt on the part of European powers to extend their systems in the Western Hemisphere, or any interference to oppress, or in any manner control the destiny of, governments in this hemisphere whose independence has been acknowledged by the United States.

Mon·roe'ism (mŭn·rō'ĭz'm), n. The Monroe Doctrine. — Mon·roe'ist (-ĭst), n.

mon·ro'lite (mŭn·rō'lĭt), n. [From Monroe, Orange Co., N. Y.] A variety of fibrolite (sillimanite).

‖mons (mŏnz), n. [L. See MOUNT.] Mountain; eminence.

Mon'sal·vat' (mŏn'zăl·vät'), n. [For Monserrat, fr. L. mons serrata saw-toothed mountain.] In Wagner's Parsifal, the castle of the Holy Grail.

mon'sei·gneur' (mŏn'sā·nyûr'; F. mōN'sĕ'nyûr'), n.; pl. MESSEIGNEURS (mĕs'ā·nyûrz'; F. mā'sĕ'nyûr'). [F., fr. mon my + seigneur lord, fr. L. senior older. See SENIOR. cf. MONSIEUR.] My lord; — a title [cap.] given in France esp. to princes, prelates, and some other church and court dignitaries and used before titles of office or rank, not before personal names; as, Monseigneur the Prince, or Monseigneur the Archbishop. It was given, specif., before the Revolution of 1789, to the dauphin. Abbr. Mgr.

mon·sieur' (mĕ·syû'), n.; pl. MESSIEURS (mā'syû'). [F., fr. mon my + sieur, abbr. of seigneur lord. See MONSEIGNEUR.] 1. Literally, my lord; sir; — the common title [cap.] of civility in France in speaking to, or of, a man, corresponding to the English Mr. Abbr. M. in the singular, and MM. or Messrs. in the plural. Originally it was applied only to men of superior station.
2. [cap.] The oldest brother of the king of France; — a title. Hist.
3. A Frenchman; — often contemptuous.

Mon·sieur' Beau'caire' (mĕ·syû' bō'kâr'). The title and hero — a typical gallant adventurer — of a romance (1900) by Booth Tarkington.

mon·si'gnor (mŏn·sē'nyôr; It. mōn'sē·nyōr'), ‖mon'si·gno're (mŏn'sē·nyō'rā), n.; pl. MONSIGNORI (mōn'sē·nyō'rē). [It., my lord. Cf. MONSEIGNEUR.] 1. [usually cap.] A title of honor borne by some prelates. See PRELATE, 1 b. Abbrs. Mgr., Mngr., Mon., Monsig. See Forms of Address, in Appendix.
2. A color, blue-red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.
— mon'si·gno'ri·al (mŏn'sē·nyō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj.

Mons Men'sae (mŏnz mĕn'sē). [NL., Table Mountain (near Cape Town, South Africa).] Astron. A constellation near the southern pole, containing no stars brighter than the fifth magnitude; — a former name of MENSA (def. 3).

Mon·so'ni (mŏn·sō'nĭ), n. An Indian of an Algonquian tribe, related to the Cree. See CREE.

mon·soon' (mŏn·sōōn'), n. [Obs. D. monssoen, fr. Pg. monção, fr. Ar. mausim a time, a season.] A wind blowing part of the year from one direction, alternating with a wind from the opposite direction; specif., a periodic wind in certain latitudes in the Indian Ocean and southern Asia generally, which blows from the southwest from the latter part of April to the middle of October, and from the northeast from about the middle of October to April. Also, the season of the southwest monsoon in India and adjacent countries, which is a season of heavy rainfall; the rainy season. — mon·soon'al (-ăl), adj.

‖mons pu'bis (mŏnz pū'bĭs). [L. mons a mountain. See 1st MOUNT.] Anat. The eminence, covered with hair in the adult, on the pubic symphysis.

mon'ster (mŏn'stĕr), n. [ME. monstre, fr. OF. monstre, fr. L. monstrum, orig., a divine omen, indicating misfortune; akin to L. monstrare to show, point out, indicate, and to L. monere to warn. See MONITION; cf. DEMONSTRATE, MUSTER, REMONSTRATE.] 1. A prodigy; a marvel. Obs.
2. An animal or plant departing greatly in form or structure from the usual type of the species, as by having too many limbs, etc.; a monstrosity. Cf. TERATOLOGY.
3. A fabulous or actually existing animal of strange, grotesque, or horrible form, as a combination, often of enormous size, of a human and a brute form or of several brute forms; also, an image of such an animal. Such are the Minotaur, dragon, centaur, chimera, griffin, and mermaid.
4. Any huge or enormous animal or thing.
5. Anything monstrous, esp. a person of unnatural or excessive ugliness, deformity, wickedness, cruelty, or, in certain phrases, of unnatural excellence; as, a monster of inhumanity, or of perfection.
6. a Obs. A show; a sight. b A construction representing an unusual or imaginary monster.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:
monster-bearing monster-eating monster-taming monster-breeding monster-guarded monster-teeming mon'ster, adj. Enormous in size, extent, or numbers.

mon'ster, v. i. 1. To show; exhibit as wonderful.
2. To make monstrous. Obs.

Mon'ster·a (mŏn'stĕr·ä), n. [NL., of unknown origin.] Bot. a A genus of tropical American climbing plants of the arum family (Araceae). M. deliciosa is the ceriman. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

mon'strance (mŏn'străns), n. [OF., fr. ML. monstrantia, fr. L. monstrare to show. See MONSTER.] R.C.Ch. Orig., any receptacle in which sacred relics were exposed to view; now, a vessel in which the consecrated Host is exposed to receive the veneration of the faithful.

Monstrance.

mon'strī-. (mŏn'strĭ-). A combining form, Latin monstri-, denoting monster, as in mon'stri·cide, mon·strif'er·ous, mon'stri·fi·ca'tion, mon'stri·fy. See -CIDE, -FEROUS, -FY.

mon·stros'i·ty (mŏn·strŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [L. monstrositas, fr. monstrosus; cf. F. monstruosité. See MONSTROUS.] Quality or state of being monstrous; also, that which is monstrous; a monster; of plants and animals, a malformation.

mon'strous (mŏn'strŭs), adj. [OF. monstreux, fr. L. monstrosus, fr. monstrum. See MONSTER.] 1. Unnatural; strange. Obs.
2. Extraordinary in a way to excite wonder, esp. because of size; huge; enormous; as, a monstrous ox, story, tale.
3. Having the qualities or appearance of a monster; as, a monstrous figure seen in a dream; a monstrous idol.
4. Deviating greatly from the natural form or character; abnormal; malformed; as, a monstrous birth or fetus.
5. a Extraordinary on account of ugliness or viciousness. b Shockingly wrong or ridiculous.
6. Abounding in monsters. "The monstrous world." Milton.

Syn. — Vast, gigantic, titanic; overwhelming, overpowering. — MONSTROUS, PRODIGIOUS, TREMENDOUS, STUPENDOUS, COLOSSAL. MONSTROUS commonly suggests the abnormal; PRODIGIOUS, the marvelous or unheard of; TREMENDOUS, the astonishing, awe-inspiring, or momentous; STUPENDOUS, the astounding or overpowering; COLOSSAL applies to that which is vast or gigantic, esp. in size. Cf. GREAT, ENORMOUS, OMINOUS. Ant. — Normal, natural.

‖mons Ve'ne·ris (mŏnz vĕn'ē·rĭs). [L., mountain of Venus. See 1st MOUNT.] Anat. A rounded eminence of fatty tissue upon the pubic symphysis of the female.

‖mont (mōN), n. [F. See 1st MOUNT.] Mountain.

Mon'ta'gnac' (mōN'tä'nyäk'), n. [After Elysée de Montagnac, French mfr.] A trade-mark for any of several kinds of cloth, esp. a soft, fleecy, woolen cloth, with curly knap, used for overcoats; hence [sometimes not cap.], cloth bearing this trade-mark.

Mon'ta'gnais' (mōN'tä'nyĕ'), n. sing. & pl. [Can. F., lit., mountaineer.] An Indian of a group of Algonquian tribes of Quebec and Labrador; also, an Indian of the Athapascan tribes of the region between the Churchill River and the Great Slave Lake.

‖Mon'ta'gnard' (-nyär'), n. [F., lit., mountaineer, fr. montagne mountain.] 1. F. Hist. A member of the Mountain (which see).
2. An Indian of a group of Tinne tribes, the Beavers, Nahane, Sarsi, and Sekani, living among, or near, the Rocky Mountains in Canada and Alaska.
3. [not cap.] One who lives among mountains; a highlander.

Mon'ta·gue (mŏn'tä·gū), n. In Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, the father of Romeo and head of a noble house in Verona which is at deadly enmity with the house of Capulet.

mon·ta'ña (mōn·tä'nyä), n. [Sp., mountain.] 1. [cap.] pl. A mountain district of Spain; as, the Montañas of Burgos.
2. A forested region; esp. [cap.], the region including the east slopes of the Andes.

Mon·tan'a (mŏn·tăn'ä; -tä'nä), n. 1. A State of the United States. See Gaz.
2. Geol. A major subdivision of the Cretaceous in the western interior of North America. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

Mon·tan'an (mŏn·tăn'ăn; -tä'năn), adj. Of or pertaining to Montana. — n. A native or inhabitant of Montana.

mon'tane (mŏn'tān), adj. [L. montanus.] Pertaining to, or living in, mountains; — said esp. of flora and fauna.

mon·tan'ic ac'id (mŏn·tăn'ĭk). [From MONTAN WAX.] Chem. A crystalline acid, $C_{29}H_{58}O_2$, found free or as esters in montan wax and beeswax.

Mon'ta·nist (mŏn'tä·nĭst), n. Eccl. Hist. A follower of Montanus, a Phrygian enthusiast of the 2d century, who claimed that the Holy Spirit, the Paraclete, dwelt in him. — Mon'ta·nism (-nĭz'm), n. — Mon'ta·nist (-nĭst), -nis'tic (-nĭs'tĭk), -nis'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj.

mon·tan'ite (mŏn·tăn'ĭt; -tä'nĭt), n. Mineral. A basic bismuth tellurate, $Bi_3(OH)_4TeO_4$.

Mon'ta·nize (mŏn'tä·nīz), v. i. To adhere to Montanism.

mon'tant (mŏn'tănt), adj. [F., pres. part. of monter to rise.] Rising; mounting.

mon'tant (mŏn'tănt), n. [F., prop., mounting, fr. monter to mount. See 2d MOUNT.] 1. Fencing. Apparently, an upward thrust or blow. Obs.
2. Arch. An upright piece in any framework. Rare.

mon·tan'to (mŏn·tăn'tō), n. [Sp. montante a kind of sword, prop., rising.] Fencing. A kind of broadsword; also, a stroke upwards. Obs.

mon'tan wax (mŏn'tăn). [L. montanus of or belonging to a mountain, fr. mons, montis, mountain.] A kind of high-melting wax, of varying composition, but usually containing esters of montanic acid, obtained by extraction of certain lignites, peat, coal, etc. It is used in making candles and phonograph records, as a polish, etc. Montana wax and montanin wax are similar substances.

Mon·tauk' (mŏn·tôk'), n. An Indian of an Algonquian tribe of Long Island. Some joined the Brotherton.

mont·bre'ti·a (mōnt·brē'tĭ·ä), n. [NL., after A. J. Coquebert de Montbret.] a [cap.] Bot. Syn. of TRITONIA. b Hort. A plant of the genus Tritonia; esp., the bulbous plant called by florists Montbretia crocosmaeflora.

‖mont'-de-pié'té' (mōN'dĕ·pyā'tā'), n.; pl. MONTS-DE-PIÉTÉ (mōN'-). [F., fr. It. monte di pietà bank (prop., mount) of pity or piety.] One of certain public pawnbroking establishments which originated in Italy in the 15th century, the object of which was to lend money at a low rate to poor people in need; — called also mount of piety.

mon'te (mŏn'tā: mōn'tā), n. [Sp., lit., mountain, hence, the stock or cards remaining after laying out a certain number, fr. L. mons, montis, mountain. See 1st MOUNT.]
1. = ESPINAL.
2. = MONTE BANK.

monte bank. Cards. A favorite Spanish and Spanish-American gambling game, played with a Spanish pack of cards. See THREE-CARD MONTE.

‖mon'te de pie·dad' (mōn'tā dā pyä·thäth'; 112). [Sp.] A public pawnbroking institution. See MONT-DE-PIÉTÉ.

mon·teith' (mŏn·tēth'), n. 1. An 18th-century kind of large punch bowl, usually of silver; — from the name of the inventor.
2. A kind of cotton handkerchief having a colored ground with a pattern of white spots produced by discharging the color; — from the Glasgow manufacturers.

monte'-jus' (mōnt'zhü'), n. [F., fr. monter to bring up + jus juice.] An apparatus for raising a liquid by pressure of air or steam in a reservoir containing the liquid.

mon'tem (mŏn'tĕm), n. [L. ad montem to the hill. See 1st MOUNT.] A custom practiced by the scholars at Eton College, England, of going every third year, on Whit-Tuesday, to a hillock (Salt Hill) near the Bath road, and exacting "money for salt" from all passers-by and spectators, to assist in supporting at King's College, Cambridge, the senior scholar of the school. Hist.

Mon'te·ne'grin (mŏn'tē·nē'grĭn), adj. Of or pertaining to Montenegro or its inhabitants.

Mon'te·ne'grin, n. Also Mon'te·ne'grine. 1. A resident or a native of Montenegro.
2. [not cap.] A kind of close-fitting outer garment for women, ornamented with braiding and embroidery.

Mon'te·rey' (mŏn'tē·rā'), n. 1. A county, city, and bay of California.
2. A subdivision of the American Miocene. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

Monterey cypress. A tall Californian cypress (Cupressus macrocarpa) endemic on Monterey Bay.

Monterey halibut. The bastard halibut.

Monterey pine. A handsome southern Californian pine (Pinus radiata), often 90 feet high.

Monterey shale. A shale of Middle to Upper Miocene age, occurring in California and considered by many geologists to be the source of petroleum and asphalt accumulations there.

Monterey Spanish mackerel. See SPANISH MACKEREL.

‖mon·te'ro (mŏn·tā'rō), n.; pl. -ROS (E. -rōz). [Sp. montera hunting cap, montero huntsman, fr. monte mountain, forest, fr. L. mons, montis, mountain. See 1st MOUNT.]
1. A huntsman.
2. A round cap with a flap, worn by huntsmen.
3. A forester; a ranger. Phil. I.

Mon·tes' (mŏn·tās'), n.; pl. -TESES (-tā'sās). [Sp. montés living in the mountains.] A Bukidnon; one of a pagan mountaineer tribe of Mindanao; also, their language. See BUKIDNON a; AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table. Phil. I.

Mon·tes'co (mŏn·tĕs'kō), n.; pl. -COS (E. -kōz). A pagan mountaineer; a Montes. Phil. I.

Mon'te·si'nos (mŏn'tē·sē'nōs), n. A legendary Spanish hero. His name has been given to a cavern in the heart of La Mancha, immortalized by Cervantes in his account of the visit of Don Quixote to the Cave of Montesinos.

Mon'tes·so'ri meth'od or sys'tem (mŏn'tĕ·sō'rē). Educ. A system of training and instruction for children from three to six years of age, devised by Dr. Maria Montessori (b. 1870), of Rome, Italy. Leading features are free physical activity, informal and individual instruction, early development of writing and reading, and extended sensory and motor training. — Mon'tes·so'ri·an (-ăn), adj. & n. — Mon'tes·so'ri·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

Mon'te·zu'ma (mŏn'tē·zōō'mä), n. [Sp., the name of two Aztec chiefs or kings, fr. Nahuatl Motecuzoma, abbr. of Motecuzomailhuicamina, lit., chief who when he is angry shoots beyond the horizon.] 1. See in Biog.
2. A hero of folk tales and folk plays among some tribes of Mexico and the southwestern United States.
3. [not cap.] A mound indicating the site of a completely ruined pueblo. Southwestern U. S.

Montezuma cypress. The ahuehuete.

mont·gol'fi·er (mŏnt·gŏl'fĭ·ĕr; F. mōn'gôl'fyā'), n. = FIRE BALLOON a; — so called from Jaques and Joseph Montgolfier, who first made a fire balloon.

month (mŭnth), n. [ME. month, moneth, fr. AS. mōnath; akin to D. maand month, G. monat, OHG. mānōd, ON. mānuthr, mānathr, Goth. menoths, and to AS. mōna moon. See MOON.] 1. A measure of time corresponding to the period of the moon's revolution; specif.: a One of the twelve portions into which the year is divided; the twelfth part of a year, corresponding nearly to the length of a synodical revolution of the moon; — called more explicitly calendar month (see below). In popular use, a period of four weeks or of thirty days is often called a month. b calendar month is: (1) Any of the months as adjusted in the calendar, now the Gregorian. April, June, September, and November now contain 30 days, and the rest 31, except February, which has 28 and, in leap years, 29. (2) The time from any day of such a month to the corresponding day (if any; if not, to the last day of the next month. b Astron. More fully lunar month. The period of a complete revolution of the moon relative to some point, esp. of a synodical revolution, whence synodical month, that is, the period from one new moon to the next, mean length 29 days, 12 hours, 44 minutes, and 2.8 seconds. The other kinds of lunar month are the anomalistic month, the mean time of revolution from perigee to perigee, 27 days, 13 hours, 18 minutes, and 33.1 seconds; the nodical, or dracontic, month, the mean time of revolution from ascending node to ascending node, 27 days, 5 hours, 5 minutes, and 35.8 seconds; the tropical month, the mean time of revolution from any point of the ecliptic back to the same point, 27 days, 7 hours, 43 minutes, and 4.7 seconds; the sidereal month, the mean time of revolution from any star back to the same star, 27 days, 7 hours, 43 minutes, and 11.5 seconds. Another astronomical month is the solar month, the twelfth part of the solar year, or the average time taken by the sun to pass through a sign of the zodiac. c A ninth part of a woman's period of gestation or pregnancy, which commonly lasts ten lunar months, or about 280 days.

☞ In the common law, a month is a lunar month, or 28 days, unless otherwise expressed; but by statute in Great Britain and generally in the United States the rule of the common law is changed, and a month is declared to mean a calendar month unless otherwise expressly stated. The sing. was formerly used for the pl. after a numeral, and still is dialectally. Cf. TWELVEMONTH.

2. pl. = MENSES. Obs.

☞ Month is used reduplicatively in various expressions, as month after month; month by month; month in, month out; from month to month; only from month to month. Cf. DAY, Note.

— today, or this day, month. One month hence. Cf. under WEEK.

month (mŭnth), n. [Gael. monadh.] A mountain. Scot. Obs., exc. in the names of the passes over the eastern Grampians.

month'ly (mŭnth'lĭ), adj. [AS. mōnathlīc.] 1. Continued, or in a month; as, the monthly revolution of the moon. 2. Done, happening, payable, published, etc., once a month, or every month; as, a monthly visit, magazine. 3. Of or pertaining to the menses; menstrual.

month'ly, n.; pl. -LIES (-lĭz). 1. pl. The menses. 2. A publication which appears regularly once a month. 3. A monthly rose.

month'ly, adv. 1. Once a month; in every month. 2. In the manner of a lunatic. Obs.

monthly epact. See EPACT c.

month of consecution. Astron. A month as reckoned from one conjunction of the moon with the sun to another.

mon'thon (mŏn'thŏn), n. Also mon'ton (-tŏn). [Siamese mănthăn, fr. Skr. maṇḍala.] A circle or province, constituting an administrative division of Siam.

month's mind. a R.C.Ch. A requiem Mass for a person a month after his death. b Now Chiefly Dial. Strong desire; inclination.

I see you have a month's mind to them. Shak.

monti-. A combining form, Latin monti-, from mons, montis, mountain, as in mon·tic'o·line, mon'ti·form, mon'·ti·ge'ne·ous.

Mon'ti·a (mŏn'tĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Giuseppe Monti, It. botanist.] Bot. A small genus of densely tufted annual herbs of the purslane family (Portulacaceae). M. fontana is the blinks.

mon'ti·cel'lite (mŏn'tĭ·sĕl'īt), n. [After T. Monticelli, It. mineralogist.] Mineral. A colorless or gray calcium magnesium silicate, $CaMgSiO_4$, of the chrysolite group.

mon'ti·cle (mŏn'tĭ·k'l), n. [F. monticule. See MONTICULE.] A little hill.

mon·tic'u·late (mŏn·tĭk'ū·lāt), adj. Having monticules.

mon'ti·cule (mŏn'tĭ·kūl), n. [F., fr. LL. monticulus, dim. of mons, montis, mountain. See 1st MOUNT.] A little mount; a hillock; a small elevation or prominence; specif., a subordinate cone of a volcano.

Mon'ti·cu·lip'o·ra (mŏn'tĭ·kū·lĭp'ō·rȧ), n. [NL. See MONTICULE; MADREPORE.] Paleontol. A genus of bryozoans forming massive, corallike zoaria composed of polygonal, mostly thin-walled zooecia. It is the type of a family, Mon'ti·cu'li·por'i·dae (-kū'lĭ·pōr'ĭ·dē), represented by numerous species in the Ordovician and extending possibly into the Devonian. — mon'ti·cu·lip'o·rid'e·an (-kū·lĭp'ō·rĭd'ē·ăn), adj. & n. — mon'ti·cu·lip'o·roid (-kū·lĭp'ō·roid), adj.

mon·tic'u·lose (mŏn·tĭk'ū·lōs), adj. Zool. Covered with small eminences. Rare.

mon·tic'u·lous (-lŭs), adj. Monticulate.

mon·tic'u·lus (-lŭs), n. [LL.] A monticule; specif., Anat., the median dorsal projection of the cerebellum.

mon·til'la (mŏn·tēl'yȧ), n. [From Montilla, town in Córdoba province, Spain.] A very pale dry sherry. See SHERRY.

mont'joy', mont'joye' (mŏnt'joi'), n. [F. montjoie, OF. also monjoie.] 1. [cap.] The medieval French battle cry; — also, Montjoye St. Denis. See APOSTLE OF THE FRENCH. 2. A commemoration heap of stones. Obs.

mont·mar'trite (mŏnt·mär'trĭt), n. Gypsum from Montmartre, near Paris.

Mont'mo·ren'cy (mŏnt'mō·rĕn'sĭ), n. Hort. A popular variety of sour cherry in America.

mont'mo·ril'lo·nite (mŏnt'mō·rĭl'ō·nīt), n. [From Montmorillon, France.] A soft, claylike mineral, white, grayish, or pale red, blue, etc. It is a hydrous aluminum silicate.

Mont'pel'lier' green (mŏn'pĕ'lyā'). = VERDIGRIS GREEN.

Montpellier yellow. 1. A pigment. See LEAD OXYCHLORIDE. 2. = LEMON YELLOW, 1 a.

Mon'tra'chet' (mŏn'trȧ'shĕ'), n. [From Montrachet, vineyard in Côte-d'Or, France.] The finest white Burgundy wine.

‖mon'tre (mŏn'tr'), n. [F., show, showcase, organ case.] Organ Building. 1. The open diapason or any other stop having its pipes displayed as a part of the organ case. 2. Ceramics. A pyrometric cone.

mon·troy'dite (mŏn·troi'dīt), n. [After Montroyd Sharpe, one of the owners of the mine in Texas where it was found.] Mineral. Mercuric oxide, HgO. See MERCURY OXIDE.

mon'ture (mŏn'tŭr), n. [F., fr. monter to mount. See MOUNTURE.] 1. A saddle horse; a mount. Obs. 2. (F. pron. mōn'tür') That on which something is mounted; setting; frame; also, manner of mounting or setting.

mon'u·ment (mŏn'ū·mĕnt), n. [OF., fr. L. monumentum, fr. monere to remind, admonish. See MONITION.] 1. A tomb or burial vault; a sepulcher. Obs. Shak. 2. A written memorial, as a treatise; a record. 3. A building, pillar, stone, or the like, erected or maintained in memory of the dead or to preserve the remembrance of a person, event, action, etc.; as, the Washington Monument; Bunker Hill Monument; the monuments in Westminster Abbey.

Our bruised arms hung up for monuments. Shak.

4. A statue; effigy. Shak. 5. Any lasting or notable example or instance; a work, saying, deed, etc., worthy of record or of enduring; as, the work is a monument of scholarship.

6. An evidence; an indication; a proof; hence, a mark or token, material or immaterial. Archaic. 7. Any natural feature, as a mountain, canyon, natural bridge, etc., reserved by a government as public property. 8. A stone or other permanent object serving to indicate a limit or to mark a boundary. In a contested question as to lands, established monuments control, though neither courses, distances, nor computed contents, as stated in deeds or other records, agree.

9. Chiefly in form moniment. A ridiculous thing or person; a spectacle; fool. Scot.

mon'u·ment (mŏn'ū·mĕnt), v. t.; MON'U·MENT'ED; MON'U·MENT'ING. 1. To erect a monument to; to signalize the memory of; commemorate. 2. To place or set up monuments on.

3. Surv. To mark with monuments.

mon'u·men'tal (mŏn'ū·mĕn'tăl; -t'l), adj. [L. monumentalis.] 1. Of, pertaining to, suitable for, or occurring on, a monument; as, a monumental inscription. 2. Of or pertaining to a tomb. Obs. 3. Serving as a monument; that keeps in remembrance; as, a monumental chapel. 4. Of the nature of, or resembling, a monument; hence, massive and lasting; impressive; stupendous; as, Gibbon's history is a monumental work. 5. As conspicuous as a monument; colossal; notable.

monumental brass. = BRASS, n., 4.

Monumental City. Baltimore; — a nickname from the early date of the erection of two of its finest monuments, the Washington Monument and Battle Monument.

mon'u·men·tal'ity (mŏn'ū·mĕn·tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Monumental state or quality.

mon'u·men'tal·ize (mŏn'ū·mĕn'tăl·īz; -t'l·īz), v. t. To record or memorialize lastingly as by a monument; to make monumental. — mon'u·men'tal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'shŭn), n.

mon'u·men'ta·ry (mŏn'ū·mĕn'tȧ·rĭ), adj. Pertaining to, or of the nature of, a monument.

monument plant. The American columbo.

-mony. [F. or L.; F. -monie, -moine, fr. L. -monia, -monium.] A suffix in nouns from Latin, denoting resulting thing or abstract condition; -ment, as in acr*imony,* ali*mony,* ceremony, matrimony, testimony.

mony-. For words beginning mony-, see the forms in MONI-.

mon'y (mŏn'ĭ). Var. of MANY. Now Dial.

mon'zo·di'o·rite (mŏn'zō·dī'ō·rīt), n. [monzonite + diorite.] Petrog. A plutonic rock intermediate in composition between monzonite and diorite.

mon'zo·gab'bro (-găb'rō), n. [monzonite + gabbro.] Petrog. A rock intermediate in mineral composition between monzonite and gabbro.

mon'zo·nite (mŏn'zō·nīt), n. [From Mt. Monzoni, Tirol.] Petrog. A granular igneous rock composed of plagioclase and orthoclase in about equal quantities together with augite and a little biotite; by extension, any of a large group of rocks intermediate between the syenite group and the diorite-gabbro group. — mon'zo·nit'ic (-nĭt'ĭk), adj.

moo (mōō), v. i.; MOOED (mōōd); MOO'ING. [Imitative.] To make the characteristic noise of a cow, or a similar noise; to low.

moo, n. The lowing of a cow; also, any similar sound.

moo (mōō), n. sing. & pl. [Burmese mū.] See WEIGHT.

mooch (mōōch), v. t. & i. To eat greedily. — mooch'er, n. Both Now Dial.

mooch (mōōch), v. i. [Cf. MICHE to skulk.] Now Dial. & Slang. a To play truant; to act or live as a wanderer or vagrant. b To skulk or sneak about; to loaf; loiter. — v. t. To steal; pilfer. Slang. — mooch'er (mōōch'ĕr), n.

moo'cha (mōō'chä), n. [Zulu umutsha.] Loin cloth; girdle. S. Africa.

mood (mōōd), n. [From mode, after mood temper. See MODE.] 1. Gram. Distinction of form in a verb to express the manner in which the action or state it denotes is conceived, whether as fact, or as a matter of assumption, volition, intention, possibility, etc.; a set of forms expressive of one of these modal forces. Also, less appropriately, a modal force so distinguished (see MODAL, adj.). The moods commonly recognized for the English verb are the indicative, subjunctive, and imperative. Certain verb phrases with should, would, etc., are also loosely called moods, taking the names conditional, potential, obligative, permissive, etc., according to the modal force expressed.

2. a Logic. = 1st MODE, 5. b Music. = 1st MODE, 8.

mood (mōōd), n. [ME. mood, mod, fr. AS. mōd mind, feeling, heart, courage; akin to OS. & OFris. mōd, D. moed, OHG. muot, G. mut courage, Dan. & Sw. mod, ON. mōthr wrath, Goth. moths, gen. modis, Gr. maiomai I endeavor, mōsthai to seek after, and prob. to L. mos custom. Cf. MOROSE.] 1. Obs. a Mind; thought; spirit. b Courage; zeal. c Anger; temper. d Violent grief. e Plan.

2. a Temper of mind; humor; esp., the sum of those mental dispositions which give the dominant emotional character or cast of mind; as, a man of somber mood. b A particular state or temper of mind, esp. as affected by emotion; as, to be in the mood to work. c pl A sullen or morose state of mind; bad temper.

Syn. — Disposition, frame of mind, vein; whim, caprice, freak. — MOOD, HUMOR agree in the idea of a more or less shifting or transitory state of mind or feeling. MOOD often suggests a more compelling or pervasive temper of mind than HUMOR, which emphasizes more strongly the element of whim or caprice; as, "absorbing into the intensity of her mood the solemn glory of the afternoon" (G. Eliot); "Any man . . . may find, according as his humors lead, a meaning suited to his mind" (Tennyson). Cf. WIT, DISPOSITION, GOOD NATURE.

mood (mōōd), v. t. Var. of MOLD. Dial. — mood'er (mōōd'ĕr), n.

mood'ish (mōōd'ĭsh), adj. Subject to moods; variable in temper; also, moody. — mood'ish·ly, adv. — mood'ish·ness, n.

mood'y (mōōd'ĭ), adj.; MOOD'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); MOOD'I·EST. [AS. mōdig courageous.] 1. Brave; proud; angry; arrogant. Obs. 2. Affected by a mood; subject or given to moods; specif., out of humor; subject to moods, or fits of depression or bad temper. "Every peevish, moody malcontent." Rowe. 3. Expressing, or characteristic of, a mood; as, moody laughter; a moody face.

Syn. — Gloomy, pensive, sad, sullen, capricious.

Ant. — Placid, even, calm. See EQUABLE.

moo'dy (mōō'dĭ). Var. of MOUDIE.

mool (mōōl), n. [See MOLD earth.] Scot. & Dial. Eng. a Mold; soil; dry earth. b A grave or its earth; — often in pl. — v. t. To crumple; to bury. — v. i. To mingle.

mools (mōōlz), n. pl. [Cf. F. mule.] Chilblains. Dial.

moo'lum (mōō'lŭm), n. [Tamil muṟam cubit.] = HATH. See MEASURE, Table.

moon (mōōn), n. [ME. mone, fr. AS. mōna; akin to D. maan, OS. & OHG. māno, G. mond, ON. māni, Goth. mena, Lith. mėnuo, Olr. mī, L. mensis month, Gr. mēnē moon, mēn month, Skr. mās moon, month, and prob. to Skr. māti it measures (e. g., time). See MEASURE; cf. MENSES, MONDAY, MONTH.] 1. The celestial body next in conspicuousness to the sun; the satellite of the earth, revolving about the latter from west to east in a little less than a calendar month and accompanying it in the annual revolution about the sun. The moon's diameter is 2,160 miles; mean distance from the earth, about 238,857 miles; mass, about one eightieth that of the earth, and volume, about one forty-ninth. The period of the moon's revolution about the earth with reference to the sun is about 29½ days; with reference to the stars, about 27⅓ days. The moon rotates while revolving so that it always presents nearly the same face to us; nearly one half of her surface is therefore never seen from the earth. Shining only by light reflected from the sun, the moon passes through her phases every month, being new when in conjunction with the sun and therefore invisible; at first quarter when half her disk becomes illuminated (90° east of the sun); full when the earth is between her and the sun (disk wholly illuminated); and at third, or last, quarter when half her disk again becomes invisible (90° west of the sun). Popularly, the moon is called new when, after passing the sun, she first becomes visible as a thin crescent. At such a time "the old moon in the arms of the new" may be seen faintly shining by earth light. Strictly speaking, the phases last only for an instant. From first quarter to full, and from full to third quarter, the phase is called gibbous. Various superstitions as to the effect of the moon upon health, crops, etc., have existed in all ages. See ECLIPSE, LIBRATION, MONTH, TIDE, etc.

Diagram showing Phases of the Moon, the sunlight being represented as falling from the right upon the Moon in Eight Positions (1–8) and the Earth at the center. Outside each position of the moon is shown its appearance from the Earth. 1 New Moon; 3 First Quarter; 5 Full Moon; 7 Last Quarter.

Symbols:	●	☽	○	☾
	New	First quarter	Full	Last quarter

2. The time occupied by the moon in making one revolution in her orbit; a month; also, the moon during that period; as, this moon will last three days more.

3. The direct light of the moon; moonlight.

In the moon athwart the place of tombs. Tennyson.

4. Something shaped like the moon, esp. like a crescent moon or half-moon; specif.: a A crescent; esp., the national emblem of Turkey. b See MOONING, n., 2. c A representation of the moon, as on the dial of a clock. d A kind of slice bar with a nearly circular blade perforated in the middle, used in tending a brickkiln fire.

5. Any satellite, or secondary planet; as, the moons of Jupiter or Saturn.

6. [cap.] A moon goddess, esp. Diana or Cynthia.

7. Short for HONEYMOON, MOON KNIFE, MOONSHADE, MOONSHINE WHISKY.

8. The European goldcrest. Local, Eng.

9. Obs. a With the: (1) Alchemy. Silver. (2) Her. Argent. b Lunacy; madness; frenzy.

10. Astrol. A feminine, nocturnal, cold, and moist, phlegmatic planet, the mansion of which is Cancer, the exaltation, 3° Taurus, the depression, 3° Scorpio, the orb, 12°. In elections, the phases of the moon are considered in calculations to determine lucky and unlucky days. See PLANET, n.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

moonbeam	moon-gathered	moon ray moon-blanched	moon-gazing, adj.	moon-taught moon-blasted	moon-glittering,	moontide
moon-blasting, adj.	adj.	moon-tipped moon-bright	moon-led	moon-touched moon-browed	moon-loved	moon-trodden moon-charmed	moon-made	moon-white moon-crowned	moon-raised	moon-whitened moon (mōōn), v.; MOONED (mōōnd); MOON'ING. Trans.: 1. To spend (time) idly like a moonstruck person. Rare.

I moon away all my time by the waterside. T. Hughes.

2. To walk about (an object, as game) so as to bring it into the line of sight between the eyes and the moon. 3. To scrape (skins or hides) with a moon knife.

—, Intrans.: 1. To revolve or emit light as a moon. Rare. 2. To act as if moonstruck; to wander, idle, or gaze, about in an abstracted manner.

Elsley was mooning down the river by himself. C. Kingsley.

moo'nack (mōō'năk), n. [Virginian moonack, monack, lit., digger, fr. muna, mona, to dig.] 1. The woodchuck. Obs. exc. Dial., U. S. 2. In Negro superstition, a mythical animal of baleful portent. Southern U. S.

moon'beam' (mōōn'bēm'), n. 1. A ray of moonlight. 2. The color pearl blue.

moon'bill' (-bĭl'), n. The ring-necked duck (Nyroca collaris). South Carolina.

moon'-blind' (-blīnd'), adj. Afflicted with moon blindness; also, intellectually blind.

moon'-blind', n. Moon blindness.

moon blindness. 1. Vetер. An inflammation of the eye of the horse, recurring at periodic intervals. 2. Med. Nyctalopia, improperly attributed to moonlight.

moon'blink' (mōōn'blĭngk'), n. A temporary blindness, popularly said to be caused by sleeping in the moonlight.

moon'-born' (-bôrn'), adj. Born on, or under the influence of, the moon.

moon'calf' (-kăf'; -kȧf'; 83), n. 1. Med. A uterine mole, formerly believed to be due to the effect of the moon. 2. A monster; a monstrosity. Archaic. 3. A dolt; a born fool; also, one who moons. 4. A fickle person, regarded as a child of the moon.

---

mon'ton, n. = MONTHON.

mon'ton, n. [OF., var. of mouton ram. See MUTTON.] A kind of battering-ram. Obs.

Mon'tu (mŏn'tōō), Mont (mŏnt). = MENTU.

Mo·num'bo (mō·nŭm'bō), n. See PAPUAN LANGUAGES.

mon'u·men'tal·ism, n. See -ISM.

mon'u·men'tal·ly, adv. of MONUMENTAL.

mon'u·ment·less, adj. See -LESS.

mon'u·ment·like', adj. See -LIKE.

mon·u're·ide, n. Also id. Chem. Var. of MONOUREIDE. See UREIDE.

mon'y. Money. Ref. Sp.

Moo'a·chaht (mō'ŏ'ă·chăt'). = NOOTKA, n., a.

moo'cher·us (mōō'kĕr·ŭs). Var. of MOCHERAS.

moo·chul'ka, n. [Hind.] A bond.

moo'chy wood (mōō'chĭ). Var. of MOOTCHIE WOOD.

mooder. † MOTHER.

mood'i·ly, adv. of MOODY.

mood'i·ness, n. See -NESS.

moo·dir'. Var. of MUDIR.

mood'le, v. i. See 1st -LE.

mood phrase. See VERB PHRASE.

mool'tee, mool'ti (mōōl'tē). Vars. of MUFTI.

moo'gha. Var. of MUGA.

moo'ing, n. = MOO.

mookh·tar', mook·tar'. Vars. of MUKTAR.

mool. † MOLE, MULE.

moola. † MULLAH.

moolberry. † MULBERRY.

moolde. † MOLD.

mool'et (mōōl'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), mool'ly, mool'y (-ĭ). Vars. of MULLEY.

mool'ings (mōōl'ĭngz), n. pl. [See MOLD soil.] Crumbs. Scot.

moon. † MOAN.

moo·nal', moo·naul'. Vars. of MONAL.

---

moon'creep'er (mōōn'krēp'ĕr), n. a The moonflower Calonyction aculeatum. b Moonseed.

moon'-cul'mi-nat'ing, adj. Culminating, or coming to the meridian, at or about the same time with the moon; — said of a star or stars.

moon daisy. = DAISY, 2. Eng.

moon dial. Astron. = NIGHT DIAL a.

moon dog. 1. A dog that barks at the moon.
2. In this sense moon'dog' (mōōn'dŏg'; 185). A paraselene.

moon'down' (mōōn'doun'), n. Moonset.

moon'drop' (-drŏp'), n. A liquid of magical potency, supposed to be shed by the moon.

mooned (mōōnd or, esp. poet., mōōn'ĕd), adj. 1. Of or resembling the moon; crescent; symbolized by, or identified with, the moon. "Mooned Ashtaroth." Milton.
2. Furnished or marked with a moon or moons or moon-shaped marks; bearing the crescent, or Turkish emblem.

moon'er (mōōn'ĕr), n. 1. A moon dog.
2. One who acts as if moonstruck.
3. One who moons skins or hides.

moon'er-y (-ĭ), n. Madness.

moon-et' (mōōn-ĕt'), n. A little moon or satellite. Obs.

moon'eye' (mōōn'ī'), n. 1. a An eye affected with moon blindness. b = MOON BLINDNESS.
2. a Any of three American fresh-water fishes constituting the genus Hiodon, esp. H. tergisus of the Great Lakes and Mississippi Valley. They resemble the shad, but are of little food value. b The mooneye cisco.

mooneye cisco. A cisco (Leucichthys hoyi) of the deeper parts of Lake Michigan. It becomes about a foot long.

moon'-eyed' (-īd'), adj. 1. Affected with moon blindness; moon-blind; also, formerly, purblind.
2. Able to see, or to see better, at night. Obs.
3. Round-eyed, as in wonder, terror, or dismay.

moon'face' (mōōn'fās'), n. A round face like a full moon, — regarded by Orientals as beautiful. — moon'faced' (-fāst'), adj.

moon'fall' (-fôl'), n. Moonset. Rare.

moon fern. = MOONWORT a.

moon'fish' (-fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -īz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. 1. Any of a number of compressed, short, deep-bodied, silvery or yellowish marine fishes; as: a Any species of either of the carangoid genera Vomer and Argyreiosus (syn. Selene), esp. V. setapinnis or A. vomer of the southern Atlantic and Pacific coasts of North America. b The opah. c The harvest fish. d The spadefish (Chaetodipterus faber).

Moonfish (Vomer setapinnis).

2. The sunfish (Mola mola).
3. A small Mexican top minnow (Platypoecilus maculatus), family Poeciliidae, often kept as an aquarium fish.

moon'flow'er (-flou'ĕr), n. a Eng. The oxeye daisy. See DAISY, 2. b U. S. A tropical American morning-glory (Calonyction aculeatum); — called also evening-glory. Also, any of several species of the related genera Ipomoea and Quamoclit. c Eng. The wood anemone Anemone nemorosa. d S. Africa. The plant Datura arborea or the related D. suaveolens, natives of tropical South America.

moon'-gaz'ing (-gāz'ĭng), n. Looking at the moon; hence, absent-mindedness. — moon'-gaz'ing, adj.

moon'glade' (mōōn'glād'), n. The bright reflection of the moon's light on an expanse of water. Poetic.

moon'glow' (-glō'), n. Moonlight.

moon'-god' or moon'-god'dess, n. Myth. A god or goddess representing the moon or one of its aspects.

moon'-gray' (mōōn'grā'), adj. Appearing gray in moonlight. Poetic.

moon'head' (-hĕd'), n. A moon-shaped head; also, a moon-struck person.

moon'ing (mōōn'ĭng), n. 1. Vacuous contemplation or imagining.
2. Ceramics. The occurrence of small translucent spots (moons) in the paste of porcelains, as in Chelsea china of about 1758.

moon'ish (-ĭsh), adj. Like or influenced by the moon; flighty; capricious; as, a moonish youth.

moon'ite (-īt), n. One who lives in the moon. Sterne.

moon knife. A crescent-shaped knife with a central handle used to scrape the flesh side of leather.

moon'let (mōōn'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. Astron. A small moon; esp. the small discrete particles constituting the rings of Saturn.

moon'light' (mōōn'līt'), n. 1. The light of the moon.
2. A moonlight scene or a representation of one.
3. = MOONSHINE, n., 5. Slang.
4. The color flesh. See FLESH, n., 9.

moon'light', adj. 1. Of or pertaining to moonlight; occurring during or done by moonlight; moonlit.
2. Simulative of moonlight or done by such simulative light; as, moonlight dancing.

moon'light', v. i. To engage in moonlighting.

moonlight blue. A color, bluish green-blue in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also infantry. Cf. COLOR.

moon'light'ed (-lĭt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Moonlit.

moon'light'er (-lĭt'ĕr), n. 1. One who follows an occupation or pastime by moonlight; as: a U. S. A moonshiner. b In Ireland, one of a band that engaged in agrarian outrages by night. c Local, U. S. A serenader by moonlight.
2. One who practices moonlighting (sense 3).

moon'light'ing, n. 1. Action of the Irish moonlighters.
2. Moonshining. U. S.
3. An expedition, raid, or adventure by night.

moon lily. The moonflower Calonyction aculeatum.

moon'lit' (mōōn'lĭt'), or, Poetic, moon'lit'ten (-lĭt'n), adj. Lighted or illuminated by the moon. "Moonlit dells." Lowell.

moon'-mad' (-măd'), adj. Lunatic. — moon madness.

moon'man (mōōn'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. A gipsy; also, a night robber. Obs.
2. One who lives in the moon; the man in the moon.

moon month. A lunar month. See 1st MONTH, 1 b.

moon'path' (mōōn'păth'; 83), n. A pathlike reflection of moonbeams.

moon pillar. See LIGHT PILLAR.

moon plant. a An East Indian vine (Sarcostemma brevistigma), family Asclepiadaceae, the milky juice of which yields an intoxicating beverage. b The moonflower Calonyction aculeatum.

moon'rak'er (mōōn'rāk'ĕr), n. 1. A native of Wiltshire; — from a story of rustics seeing the moon's reflection in water and attempting to rake it out; hence, a stupid lout. Eng.
2. Naut. = MOONSAIL.

moon'rak'ing (mōōn'rāk'ĭng), n. Woolgathering. Dial.

moon rat. A ratlike whitish Bornean insectivore (Gymnura gymnura), with a long snout and long naked tail.

moon'rise' (-rīz'), n. The rising of the moon above the horizon; also, the time of its rising.

moon'sail' (mōōn'sāl'), n. Naut. A sail sometimes, but rarely, carried in light winds, above a skysail.

moon'seed' (-sēd'), n. Any plant of the genus Menispermum; — so called from the crescent-shaped seeds. See also CAROLINA MOONSEED.

moonseed family. Bot. The Menispermaceae.

moon'set' (mōōn'sĕt'), n. The descent of the moon below the horizon; also, the time of its setting.

moon'shade' (-shād'), n. 1. The plant nightshade. Bacon.
2. A circular lamp shade.
3. Shade cast by moonlight.

moon'shine' (-shīn'), n. 1. The light of the moon.
2. Hence, show without substance or reality; empty show; also, empty imaginings; nonsense.
3. A sauce in which eggs were cooked or served. Now Rare.
4. A month. Rare. Shak.
5. Liquor, esp. whisky, illicitly distilled. Slang.
6. Short for EGGS IN MOONSHINE. Shak.
7. a Pearly everlasting. b The balsamweed Gnaphalium obtusifolium.

moon'shine', adj. 1. Moonlit; also, nocturnal. Now Rare.
2. Empty; trivial; idle.
3. Designating, or pertaining to, illicit liquor. Slang.

moon'shin'er (-shīn'ĕr), n. A person engaged by night in an illicit trade, as illicit distilling. — moon'shin'ing (-shīn'ĭng), n. Both Slang.

moon'shin'y (-ĭ), adj. 1. Moonlit; as, a moonshiny night.
2. Like, or suggestive of, moonlight; hence, visionary; empty; nonsensical; as, moonshiny sentiment.

moon'sick' (mōōn'sĭk'), adj. Lunatic. — moon'sick'ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

moon's man (mōōnz). Astrol. = HOMO SIGNORUM.

moon snake. The queen snake.

moon'stone' (mōōn'stōn'), n. A transparent or translucent stone of pearly or opaline luster, used as a gem. It is a feldspar, some specimens being classed under orthoclase (var. adularia) and others under the triclinic division.

Moon'stone', The. A novel (1868) by Wilkie Collins.

moon'-strick'en, adj. Moon-struck.

moon'-struck' (mōōn'strŭk'), adj. 1. Having a mental or physical affection or derangement, or a deterioration, attributed to an influence of the moon; lunatic; obsessed.
2. Of a fish, unsuitable for food.

moon trefoil. The tree medic.

Moon (mōōn), or Moon's (mōōnz), type. A system of type for the blind, formerly widely used, invented by Dr. William Moon (1818–94) of Brighton, England. Cf. BRAILLE.

moon'wort' (mōōn'wûrt'), n. a Any fern of the genus Botrychium, esp. B. lunaria. b The plant honesty.

moon'y (mōōn'ĭ), adj.; MOON'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); MOON'I-EST.
1. Resembling a moon; esp., crescent-shaped; round.
2. Pertaining to, or resembling, moonlight.
Soft and pale as the moony beam. J. R. Drake.
3. Illuminated by the moon; moonlight.
Encompass'd by this round and moony night. T. L. Beddoes.
4. Given to mooning; abstracted; dreamy. Colloq.
5. Furnished with a crescent moon, as an emblem; bearing a crescent, as the Turkish, or Ottoman, troops. Obs.

moor (mōōr; 199), n. [ME. mor, fr. AS. mōr moor, morass; akin to D. moer moor, G. moor, and to Goth marei sea. See MERE a lake.] 1. An extensive area of waste ground overlaid with peat, and usually more or less wet. In popular usage the word is restricted to the European moors, in which heather is often the prevailing plant; but similar phytogeographical areas occur elsewhere. Sphagnum moss is always characteristic of high moors, and, esp. in North America, various insectivorous plants flourish in them. Cf. HEATH, 1.
2. A game preserve consisting of moorland. Eng.
3. A hill; also, sometimes, moorland soil; peat. Dial. Eng.

moor (mōōr; 199), v.; MOORED (mōōrd); MOOR'ING. [Late ME. moren; akin to MD. mēren, māren, to moor, to fasten, esp. to a stake, D. meren, LG. vermōren, AS. mǣrels mooring rope, MD. mēre stake, boundary stake. See MERE boundary; cf. MARLINE.] Transitive: 1. To fix firmly; to root; secure.
2. Naut. To fix or secure (a vessel) in a particular place by fastening with cables and anchors or with lines.
—, Intransitive: 1. To secure a vessel by mooring; to anchor.
2. To be secured by being moored.
On oozy ground his galleys moor. Dryden.

Moor (mōōr; 199), n. [F. More, Maure, fr. L. Maurus a Moor, a Mauretanian, inhabitant of Mauretania, fr. Gr. Mauros; cf. Gr. mauros black, dark. Cf. MOREL, adj., MORRIS dance.] 1. A native of Morocco, or neighboring North African states, of Arab or Berber blood or of a mixture of the two.
2. A Moslem of one of the native North African races or of the immigrant Arabs settled in North Africa; esp., one of the Saracenic invaders of Spain or their descendants. See MORISCO; cf. MORO.
3. In the Middle East, esp. in southern India and Ceylon, a Moslem. Cf. MOORMAN b.
4. One of a group of people of mixed Indian, white, and negro blood, living in southern Delaware. According to their traditions, they are descended from shipwrecked sailors of the Colonial period. Cf. CROATAN.
5. A highly prized variety of goldfish, similar to the Fringe-tail, but velvety black.

moor (mōōr; 199), n. Naut. Act of mooring, as a ship.

moor (mōōr; 199), v. i. & t. [Cf. MOOR EVIL.] To void bloody urine; to affect with a disease causing this; — said of cattle. Local, Eng.

moor (mōōr). Var. of MORE. Obs. exc. Dial.

moor'age (mōōr'ĭj; 199), n. Act of mooring or a place for mooring; also, a charge for mooring.

moor'ball' (mōōr'bôl'), n. A globular mass often found in lakes and ponds. It consists of filaments of a green alga (Cladophora holsatica).

moor'ber'ry (-bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr-ĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-īz). a Any plant of the genus Vaccinium, esp. the bog bilberry (V. uliginosum). b The European cranberry.

moor besom. The heather Calluna vulgaris.

moor'bird' (mōōr'bûrd'; 199), n. The red grouse.

moor blackbird. The ring ouzel. Local, Eng. & Scot.

moor'burn' (mōōr'bûrn'; Scot. mōōr'-), n. The burning of the heather or grass on a moor; hence, an outbreak of ill temper; a quarrel. — moor'burn'er (-bûr'nĕr), n. — moor'burn'ing, n. All Scot.

moor buzzard. The marsh harrier. Brit.

moor cock. a The male of the moorfowl. b The blackcock.

moor coot. = MOOR HEN b.

moor cultivator. See CULTIVATOR, 2.

Moor dance. = MORISCO, 3 b.

Moore vacuum tube (mōōr; mōr; 181). A commercialized form of Geissler tube for lighting purposes, invented by D. McFarlane Moore. — Moore light, lamp, tube, etc.

moor evil. Dysentery in sheep and cattle. Dial. Eng.

moor'flow'er (mōōr'flou'ĕr; 199), n. Buck bean.

moor'fowl' (-foul'), n. The red grouse (Lagopus scoticus).

moor frog. In England, the edible frog (Rana esculenta).

moor game. The moorfowl.

moor grass. a = HEATH GRASS. b The bog asphodel of Europe. c A coarse perennial mountain grass (Molinia coerulea) of Europe, considered a good forage grass; — sometimes called lavender grass. d The sundew. e A common cotton grass (Eriophorum angustifolium) of the North Temperate Zone. f Any grass growing on a moor.

moor hag. Rough moorland.

moor harrier. The marsh harrier.

moor hawk. The marsh harrier. Local, Eng.

moor hen. a The female of the moorfowl. b A gallinule, esp. the common European species. c An Australian rail (Microtribonyx ventralis). d Md. The American coot.

moor ill. Moor evil. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

moor'ing (mōōr'ĭng), n. 1. That which moors a vessel, as anchors, cables, etc.; — usually pl.
2. pl. The place or position of a moored vessel.

mooring buoy. Naut. An anchored buoy fitted to receive a ship's mooring chain or hawser.

mooring chocks. Naut. Blocks of hardwood or metal with grooves to hold the mooring lines of a vessel.

mooring dog. Naut. Any of a number of heavy iron bars on the side of a vessel near the water line to which to secure fasts when the mooring chocks will not accommodate them; — called also mooring staple.

mooring drag. Aeronautics. A movable weight suspended from the stern or after part of a moored airship so as to restrain vertical and lateral motion of the ship.

mooring mast. A mast on shore or on a ship with a fitting at the top to receive the mooring device of a rigid dirigible airship.

mooring shackle. Naut. = MOORING SWIVEL.

mooring staple. = MOORING DOG.

mooring swivel. Naut. A swivel used to join the two chain cables of a moored ship near the bow, so as to keep the hawse clear.

mooring tower. = MOORING MAST.

moor'ish (mōōr'ĭsh; 199), adj. [From MOOR heath.]
1. Marshy; swampy. "Moorish fens." Thomson.
2. Of or pertaining to a moor or moorlands; abounding in moorland; resembling a moor.
3. Dwelling on a moor; growing on moors.

Moor'ish, adj. [See MOOR; cf. MORRIS dance, MORESQUE.]
1. Of, pertaining to, or in the style of, the Moors.
2. Moslem. Colloq., India.

Moorish arch. The horseshoe arch. See ARCH, Illust. (4.)

Moorish architecture. The style developed by the Moors in the later Middle Ages, as in North Africa and Spain. See SARACENIC ARCHITECTURE; ALCAZAR, ALHAMBRA, Illusts.

Moorish Architecture.
Interior of the Mosque (now a cathedral) of Córdoba. See also ALHAMBRA, ALCAZAR. Illusts.

Moorish idol. A brightly colored fish (Zanclus cornutus) of the middle and eastern Pacific.

Moorish red. A color, red-yellow in hue, of very high saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

moor'land' (mōōr'-lănd'; 199), n. [AS. mōrland.] Formerly, fenland; now, land consisting of a moor or moors, esp. with heather. — moor'land (-lănd), adj. — moor'land-er (-lăn-dĕr), n.

moor macaque. A large gray-legged black macaque (Macus maurus) of Celebes.

moor'man' (mōōr'măn'; -măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn'; -mĕn). A dweller on a moor; specif., an official in charge of a moor.

Moor'man', n.; pl. -MEN. a Now Rare. A Moor. b In Ceylon, a Moslem. c Formerly, in Canton, any native of India trading in China.

Moor monkey. A black macaque of Celebes (Macaca maura).

moor myrtle. Sweet gale.

moor palm. a Any of various sedges (Carex) or their flower heads. b Any of various cotton grasses (Eriophorum) or their flower heads. c The catkin of the willow Salix aurita.

moor pawm. = MOOR PALM.

moor pout or poot. A young grouse. Scot.

---

moond. Mooned. Ref. Sp.

moone. † MOAN, MOON.

moon'ey. Var. of MOONY.

moong (mōōng). Var. of MUNG.

moon'ga. Var. of MUGA.

moon'gus (mōōng'gŭs). Var. of MONGOOSE.

moon'i-ly, adv. of MOONY.

moon'i-ness, n. See -NESS.

moon'ja, moon'jah (mōōn'jä), n. [Hind. munja, fr. Skr. muñja.] = MUNJ.

moon'less, adj. See -LESS.

moon'light'y, adj. See -Y.

moon'like', adj. See -LIKE. — moon'like'ness, n.

moon'ling, n. A simpleton; a lunatic. Obs.

moon'pen'ny, n. = DAISY, 2.

moon'proof', adj. See -PROOF.

moon'scape, n. See -SCAPE.

moon'shee (mōōn'shē). Var. of MUNSHI.

moon'ward, adv. See -WARD.

moon'wards, adv. See -WARDS.

moon'way', n. See -WAY.

moop. Var. of MOUP. Scot.

moor. † MOHUR.

moor'band', n. = HARDPAN.

moor'-bred', adj. See -BRED.

moord. Moored. Ref. Sp.

moor'ga (mōōr'gä). Var. of MUGA.

moor'ish-ly, adv. of MOORISH, marshy. moor'ish-ness, n. See -NESS; MOORISH, marshy.

moor'ism, n. See -ISM. Obs.

Moor'-lipped', adj. See -LIPPED.

moorn (mōōrn). Var. of MOURN. Now Dial.

moor'pan', n. = HARDPAN. [Cf. HARDPAN.]

---

moors (mŏŏrz), adj. [Perh. fr. D. Moorsch Moorish.] Designating the Urdu or Hindustani language. Obs. — moors, n.

moor's, or moor, head (mŏŏrz; 199). Obs. a [usually cap.] A representation of the head of a Moor, in Her. usually depicted in profile. b Any of various things suggestive of, or likened to, a Moor's head.

moor silk. = MOOR PALM b.

moor'stone' (mŏŏr'stōn'; 199), n. Granite. Dial. Eng.

moor'tet'ter (-tĕt'ĕr), n. a The stonechat. b The meadow pipit. See PIPIT.

moor tit, moor titling. a The European stonechat (Saxicola torquata). b The meadow pipit. See PIPIT.

moo-rup', mu-rup' (mōō-rŏŏp'), n.; sing. & pl. [Of imitative origin.] A cassowary (Casuarius bennetti) with rather small, stout legs, found on the island of New Britain.

moor whin. = NEEDLE FURZE.

moor'wort' (mŏŏr'wŭrt'; 199), n. A small bog or moor shrub (Andromeda polifolia) found in the North Temperate Zone.

moor'y (-ĭ), adj.; MOOR'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); MOOR'I-EST. [AS. mōrig.] Of, pert. to, or of the nature of, moors; marshy.

moor'y, adj. Dusky; swarthy.

moo'ry (mōō'rĭ), n. [Malay muri, fr. F. moiré. See MOIRÉ.] A kind of cloth, usually blue, made in India.

moo'sa (mōō'sä), n. sing. & pl. [Pr. fr. colloq. Turk. Mūusa, for Māghuṣa Famagusta, Cyprian city.] See WEIGHT, Table.

moose (mōōs), n. sing. & pl. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Passamaquoddy mus, Massachuset moos, prop., he strips, eats off.] 1. a A large mammal of the deer family (Alces americana), inhabiting forested parts of Canada and the northern United States. It is allied to the European elk, but is slightly larger, standing about seven feet high at the humped shoulders and often weighing over 1,000 pounds. The form is ungainly, the legs long, the tail short, and the head large with a thick overhanging snout and broadly palmated antlers with many points. A small pouch of hairy skin called the "bell" hangs from the neck. A variety found in Alaska (A. gigas) is the largest existing member of the deer family. See ELK. b The European elk.

Moose (Alces americana), 1 a.

2. [cap.] A member of a secret fraternal and beneficiary society (Loyal Order of Moose), founded in 1888 at Louisville, Ky., and now having many lodges in the U. S.

3. [sometimes cap.] = BULL MOOSE a. Polit. Slang.

moose'ber'ry (-bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr.ĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-ĭz). The hobblebush or its fruit. U. S.

moose'bird' (-bûrd'), n. The Canada jay.

moose'bush' (-bŏŏsh'), n. Hobblebush.

moose'call' (-kôl'), n. A piece of birch bark rolled like a horn and used by hunters in calling moose.

moose'-ear' (-ēr'), n. The pickerelweed Pontederia cordata.

moose elm. The slippery elm. U. S.

moose'flow'er (mōōs'flou'ĕr), n. The flower of the Trillium.

moose fly. A rusty-black biting fly (Haematobia alcis) of Canada and the northern United States.

moose maple. The mountain maple Acer spicatum. U. S.

moose tick. A North American tick (Dermacentor albipictus), family Ixodidae, occurring on moose, deer, elk, etc.

moose'tongue' (mōōs'tŭng'), n. The willow herb Chamaenerion angustifolium.

moose'wood' (-wŏŏd'), n. a The striped maple. b = LEATHERWOOD a (1). c The hobblebush.

moot (mōōt), n. [AS. mōt (in comp.), gemōt, a meeting; akin to ON. mōt, MHG. muoz. See MEET to come together; cf. EMPTY, FOLKMOOT, WARDMOTE.] 1. Meeting; encounter. Obs.

2. Eng. Hist. A meeting for discussion and deliberation; esp., such a meeting of the freemen, or their representatives, of a village, town, hundred, shire, or in Anglo-Saxon times the kingdom; a gemot (which see). The term moot was applied to any assembly met to administer justice or for administrative purposes. Cf. HUNDRED, 6; FOLKMOOT; WITENAGEMOT.

3. The place where such a meeting is held.

4. Discussion, debate, or argument; now, a discussion of fictitious causes by way of practice.

5. A plea or an action at law; litigation. Obs.

moot (mōōt), v.; MOOT'ED; MOOT'ING. [ME. moten, motien, fr. AS. mōtian to meet or assemble for conversation, to discuss, dispute, fr. mōt, gemōt, a meeting, an assembly. See MOOT, n.] Intransitive: 1. Obs. a To argue; plead; discuss. b Scot. To tell; speak; also, to complain.

2. To argue or plead in a supposed case. Archaic.

—, Transitive: 1. To speak; utter. Obs.

2. To argue for and against; to debate; to discuss; now, to propose, or bring up, for discussion.

3. To discuss by way of exercise; to argue for practice; to propound and discuss in a mock court. Archaic.

moot (mōōt), adj. Subjected or subject to argument or discussion; disputed; mooted; as, a moot case or question.

moot (mōōt), n. Shipbuilding. Now Rare. a A ring gauge used in shaping treenails. b The diameter to which a treenail is to be gauged. c A piece of hardwood, hooped with iron at the ends, used in blockmaking.

moot, v. t. Shipbuilding. To gauge (a treenail) to the correct size with a moot. Now Rare.

moot (mōōt), v. t. To root, dig, or grub. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

moot (mōōt), n. [Beng. muṭ, perh. fr. Skr. muṣṭi fist.] See MEASURE, Table.

-moot (-mōōt). Eng. Hist. A combining form of the noun moot, as in burghmoot, hallmoot.

moot (mōōt). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of MOLT.

moo'tchie wood (mōō'chĭ). [Cf. Tamil mucciyar cabinetmaker, etc., Telugu mucce of the muchi caste.] The soft light-colored wood of an East Indian coral tree (Erythrina indica).

moot court. A mock court, such as is held by students of law for practicing the conduct of hypothetical law cases.

moot'er (mōōt'ĕr), n. One who moots, argues, or disputes.

moot'er (mōōt'ĕr), n. Shipbuilding. One who moots treenails; also, a treenail, bolt, or spike. Now Rare.

moo'ter (mōō'tĕr). Var. of MULTURE. Obs. exc. Dial.

mooth (mūth), adj. [Cf. ON. mōtha condensed vapor from the breath.] Damp and wet; misty. Scot. & N. of Eng.

mooth (mōōth). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of MOOTH.

moot hall. 1. A council chamber or town hall. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. A hall where a moot (sense 4) is held.

moot hill. A hill where a moot was held. Hist.

moot house. [AS. mōthūs.] = MOOT HALL. Obs.

moot'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of MOOT. Hence: n. 1. A gathering; meeting for discussion; hence, discussion.

2. Law. Participation in a moot court.

moot'man (mōōt'mĕn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who argued moot cases in the Inns of Court. Eng.

moot'stead' (-stĕd'), n. A moot-stow.

moot'-stow' (-stō'), n. [AS. mōtstōw.] The place where a moot was held. Hist.

moot'wor'thy (mōōt'wŭr'thĭ), adj. AS. Law. Competent to attend as a member of a moot; free.

mop (mŏp), n. [ME. mappe, fr. mapple, perh. fr. Mabel, Mab, the prop. name. Cf. MAB, 1st MOB, 1st MOPPET.] 1. An implement for washing floors, or the like, made of a piece of cloth, or a collection of thrums, coarse yarn, or rags, fastened to a handle; also, a smaller similar implement used in washing dishes, etc.

2. Something resembling or likened to a mop, as a kind of dredge for collecting starfish, a tangled mass of hair, etc.; as, a surgical mop of absorbent cotton.

3. [Perh. because servant girls brought their mops with them.] A statute fair held formerly for hiring servants and farm laborers. Dial. Eng.

4. Metalworking. a A tangled boss of fine wire used when soldering with the blow pipe. b A polishing device used in the lathe.

mop (mŏp), v. t.; MOPPED (mŏpt); MOP'PING. 1. To use a mop on; to rub or wipe with or as with a mop; as, to mop a floor, one's face; also, to take up or out of the way, as water, with a mop; as, to mop up water.

2. Hence, to accomplish or dispose of effectively, as food, drink, profits, etc. Slang.

3. To polish with a mop. See MOP, n., 4 b.

4. To apply with or as with a mop.

5. To drink; — usually with up. Colloq. Eng.

mop up. a Mil. In trench warfare, to complete the seizure of (an area just taken) by searching out and capturing or destroying any enemy there found. b Slang. To dispose of completely; to finish utterly.

mop, v. t. [See MOB to wrap up.] To wrap or muffle up (the head), as with a scarf; to wrap up the head of; blindfold; figuratively, to hoodwink. Local, Eng.

mop, v. i. To make a wry mouth.

mop, n. [Cf. D. moppen to pout.] A made-up face; a pout; grimace. "What mops and mowes it makes!" J. Fletcher.

mo-pa'ne (mō-pä'nĕ), n. [Sechuana dial.] A tropical African ironwood (Copaifera mopane) yielding hard durable timber.

mope (mōp), v.; MOPED (mōpt); MOP'ING (mōp'ĭng). [Origin uncert.; cf. Dan. maabe to mope, Sw. dial. mopa to sulk, LG. mopen to gape.] Intransitive: 1. To go or act abstractedly, bewilderedly, or aimlessly. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

2. To be dull and spiritless. "Moping melancholy." Milton.

—, Trans.: 1. To make spiritless or dejected.

You will be getting moped to death. Hughes.

2. To pass in moping; — with away.

mope, n. [See MOPE, v.] 1. [Cf. MD. mop.] A fool. Obs.

2. A dull, spiritless person; a moper.

3. pl. Low spirits; dumps.

mope'-eyed', adj. Shortsighted; purblind; stupid.

mop'er (mōp'ĕr), n. One who mopes.

mop'head' (mŏp'hĕd'), n. 1. The end of a mop, to which the thrums or rags are fastened.

2. Colloq. a A head with a mop of hair on it. b A person with a shaggy, unkempt head of hair.

3. A clamp for holding the thrums or rags of a mop. U. S.

mop'head'ed (mŏp'hĕd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having a shaggy head.

mop'ish (mōp'ĭsh), adj. Foolish; confused. Obs.

mop'ish (mŏp'ĭsh), adj. Given to, or characterized by, moping. — mop'ish-ly, adv. — mop'ish-ness, n.

mop'la, mop'lah (mŏp'lä), n. [Malayalam māppila.] One of a class or caste of Moslems, chiefly of Malabar, believed to be descendants of Arab immigrants of the 9th century A.D.

mop'per (mŏp'ĕr), n. One who mops.

mop'per-up', n. Mil. One engaged in mopping up.

mop'pet (mŏp'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. [Dim. fr. ME. mop, moppe, rag doll, baby. Cf. MOPS, MOPSY.] 1. Baby; darling; — used in endearment or contempt. Archaic.

2. A long-haired pet dog.

mop'pet, n. A mop or sponge, as for cleaning a cannon. Obs.

mop'py (mŏp'ĭ), adj. Like a mop.

mops (mŏps), n. [ME. mop, moppe, rag doll, baby. See 1st MOPPET.] A girl; — used in endearment or playfulness. Obs.

Mop'sa (mŏp'sä), n. 1. A character in Sidney's Arcadia.

2. In Shakespeare's The Winter's Tale, a shepherdess.

mop'stick' (mŏp'stĭk'), n. The long handle of a mop; hence, any of various things resembling or likened to this; as: a Join. A handrail of nearly round section; — called also mopstick rail. b Music. = 1st STICKER, 5 b.

Mop'sus (mŏp'sŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Mopsos.] Gr. Myth. a A seer, one of the Lapithae. He took part in the battle of the Centaurs and Lapithae, the Calydonian boar hunt, and the Argonautic expedition. b A seer, the son of Apollo and Manto, daughter of Tiresias. He defeated Calchas in a prophecy contest.

mop'sy (mŏp'sĭ), n. [See 1st MOPPET.] 1. A young son; a moppet. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

2. A slattern. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

mop'-up', n. Act or instance of mopping up.

mo'pus (mō'pŭs), n.; pl. -PUSES, -PUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). Slang, Eng. 1. A small coin.

2. Money; — usually in pl.

Mo'quel-um'nan (mō'kĕl-ŭm'năn), adj. Designating or pert. to an almost extinct linguistic stock of American Indians in California. See PENUTIAN.

mo-quette' (mō-kĕt'), n. [F.] A kind of carpet or upholstery fabric having a velvety pile. Cf. AXMINSTER b.

mor-. A combining form from Latin morus, or Greek moron, the mulberry tree, as in Morinda.

mo'ra (mō'rä: 181), n.; pl. MORAE (-rē), MORAS (-räz). [L. See MORATORY.] 1. Rom. & Civil Law. Delay; esp., culpable delay; postponement; default.

2. Pros. The unit of quantitative meter, a common short syllable; — represented by ⏑ or by the eighth note (♪).

mo'ra (mō'rä), n. [Pg., the fruit of various forest trees, fr. Tupi moira, mara, a poisonous tree of the Amazon valley.] a A tree (Dimorphandra mora), family Caesalpiniaceae, of Guiana and Trinidad; also, its valuable wood. b Mex. & W. Ind. = RUSTIC, 1.

‖mo'ra (mō'rä), n. [Gr.] Gr. Hist. One of the main divisions of the Spartan army.

mo-ra' (mō-rä'), n. [Hind. morhā.] A stool, esp. a wicker stool; footstool. Anglo-Indian.

Mo-ra'ce-ae (mō-rā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL. See MORUS.] Bot. A family of trees or shrubs (order Urticales). The family includes the important genera Ficus (the fig), Morus (the mulberry), Artocarpus (the breadfruit), Brosimum (the breadnut), etc. — mo-ra'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Mo-rae'a (mō-rē'ä), n. [NL., after Johannes Moraeus, father-in-law of Linnaeus.] Bot. a A genus of South African or Australian plants of the iris family (Iridaceae). b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

mora hair. The long moss, used for stuffing.

mo-raine' (mō-rān'), n. [F., of uncert. origin; cf. Pr mourreno.] Geol. An accumulation of earth, stones, etc., carried and finally deposited by a glacier. A moraine at the end of a glacier is called a terminal moraine; at the side, a lateral moraine; beneath the ice but back from its end or edge, a ground moraine. Medial moraines, or those on the middle of the glacier parallel to its sides, are often formed by the union of the lateral moraines when two glaciers coalesce. A moraine of material pushed into a ridge in front of the glacier, is sometimes called a push moraine. — mo-rain'al (mō-rān'ăl; -ĭ), mo-rain'ic (-ĭk), adj.

mor'al (mŏr'ăl), adj. [OF., fr. L. moralis, fr. mos, moris, manner, custom, habit, way of life, conduct. See 2d MOOD.] 1. Characterized by excellence in what pertains to practice or conduct; springing from, or pertaining to, man's natural sense or reasoned judgment of what is right and proper; — chiefly in the phrase moral virtue. Moral virtue was distinguished from intellectual virtue by Aristotle. See VIRTUE, 4.

2. Dealing with, or concerned with establishing and disseminating, principles of right and wrong in conduct or behavior; ethical; as, moral philosophy; moral theology; hence, of, pertaining to, or derived from, a science or philosophy of morals; as, moral values; moral laws.

3. Expressing that which is moral; as: a Moralizing; specif., Obs., writing allegorically. b Serving to teach or convey a moral; as, a moral lesson; moral tales. See FOUR SENSES.

4. Pertaining to character, conduct, intentions, social relations, etc., viewed ethically; as, moral ideas; moral convictions; within the sphere of what can be viewed as right or wrong; capable of being judged as good or evil; proceeding from good or evil character, conduct, etc.; as, to consider only moral actions; the moral graces of Sidney.

5. a Conforming to a standard of what is good and right; righteous; virtuous; as, moral conduct; a moral life; a moral work of art. b Hegelianism. Relating to virtuous conduct or natural excellence as distinguished from civic or legal righteousness.

6. Pertaining to morals or morale; affecting morality, morals, or morale; as, a moral agency, force.

7. Sanctioned by, or operative upon, one's conscience or ethical judgment; as, to feel a moral obligation; to urge moral considerations; hence, acting upon, or designed to act upon, one's will, character, or the like, or sometimes, one's morale; — often opposed to material or physical; as, to exert moral pressure.

8. Capable of right and wrong action or of being governed by a sense of right; as, a moral agent.

9. Virtual, rather than actual, immediate, or completely demonstrable; as, to have moral certainty of B's guilt.

Syn. — Pure, righteous, upright. — MORAL, ETHICAL. MORAL may refer to either the science or the practice of right conduct; ETHICAL commonly suggests the science only; as applied to persons, MORAL connotes right practice; ETHICAL, the assent to right principles; as ethical (or moral) principles; an ethical system; a moral act; a moral agent.

Ant. — Immoral, vicious, sinful, depraved.

mor'al (mŏr'ăl; 185), n. [From moral, adj.; cf. F. morale. Cf. MORALE.] 1. Formerly, moral principles or conduct.

2. The essential moral import or instruction of or derivable from a fable, a narrative, an occurrence, an experience, etc., or the practical lesson taught.

3. A passage pointing out, usually in conclusion, the lesson or moral significance of a narrative; a maxim.

4. Obs. a A symbolic figure. b Import. c A moralist. d Individual moral practice or principles.

5. (pron. mō-rälʹ) = MORALE.

6. Likeness; counterpart. Slang.

The long chin . . . is the very moral of the governor's. Smollett.

7. A morality play. See MORALITY, 7.

mor'al, v. i. & t. To moralize. Obs.

mo-rale' (mō-räl'; -räl'; 277), n. [F. moral. See MORAL, n. & adj.] 1. Formerly, moral principles or conduct.

2. Prevailing mood and spirit conducive to willing and dependable performance, steady self-control, and courageous, determined conduct despite danger and privations, based upon a conviction of being in the right and on the way to success and upon faith in the cause or program and in the leadership, usually connoting, esp. when qualified by the adjective high, a confident, aggressive, resolute, often buoyant, spirit of wholehearted co-operation in a common effort, often attended particularly by zeal, self-sacrifice, or indomitableness.

mor'al-er, mor'al-ler (mŏr'ăl-ĕr), n. A moralizer. Obs.

moral faculty. The power of moral judgment or feeling.

moral hazard. Insurance. The hazard arising from the uncertainty of the honesty of the insured.

Moor'ship, n. See -SHIP.

moors'man (mŏŏrz'măn; 199), n.; pl. -MEN. = MOORMAN.

moo-ruk' (mōō-rŏŏk'), n. Eron. var. of MOOKUP.

moor'va. Var. of MURVA.

moose'hood, n. See -HOOD.

moose'mise' (mōōs'mīz').

moose'-misse' (-mĭs'), n. = MOUNTAIN ASH b (1). moose'wob' (mōōs'wŏb'). Scot. var. of MOOSEWEB.

moose'y, adj. See -Y.

moos'ey. Var. of MOSEY.

moo-shik'. Var. of MUSHIK.

Mo'o-si'as (mō'ō-sī'ăs), Mo-os'si-as (mō-ŏs'ĭ-ăs). Bib.

moost. Var. of MUST, musk.

Scot.

Moo'sul-mann. Var. of MUSSULMAN.

moot'a-ble, adj. See -ABLE.

mootch. † MOOCH, skulk.

mooto. † MOAT, MOOT, MOTE, particle. [DY.]

moot-sud'dy. Var. of MUTSUDmoot-wal'lee (mōōt-wälʹē). Var. of MUTAWALLI.

moo-zoo'na. Var. of MOUZOUNA. See COIN, Table.

Mo-pan' (mō-pänʹ), n. See 3d MAYA, 2. [U. S.] mop'board', n. = BASEBOARD.

mope'hawk'. Var. of MOREPORK.

moph (mŏf), n. = MORPHIDITE.

moph'ro-dite, n. A corruption of HERMAPHRODITE.

moph'ty. † MUFTI.

mop'ing (mōp'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of MOPE. — mop'ingly, adv. [MOREPORK.]

mo'poke' (mō'pŏkʹ). Var. of mop'sey. Var. of MOSEY.

mopt. Moped. Ref. Sp.

mo-quet'. Moquette. Ref. Sp.

Mo'qui (mō'kē). See 1st HOPI.

Mor. † MOOR.

morabit. † MARABOUT.

mor'a-bot. † MARABOUT.

mo'rae (mō'rē), n. pl. of 1st MORA. [MARAE.]

mo-ra'i (mō-rīʹē; -ēʹ). Var. of mor'a-im. Var. of MORION.

moraine. † MURRAIN.

---

moral insanity. Law. Formerly, such an abnormal condition as is characterized by incapacity to distinguish between right and wrong; in some jurisdictions, formerly, incapacity to resist the doing of immoral acts whether or not known to be wrong. See INSANITY.

moral inspiration. Theol. See INSPIRATION, 2 a. mor'al·ism (môr'ăl·ĭz'm; 185), n. 1. Moral teaching or counsel; inculcation of morality; moralizing.

2. A maxim or saying embodying a moral truth.
3. Practice of morality as distinct from religion; leading of a moral life as distinguished from a religious life.

mor'al·ist (-ĭst), n. 1. One who moralizes; a teacher or student of morals; a writer seeking to inculcate moral duties.
2. One who practices moral duties; a person who conforms to moral rules; esp., one who leads a moral life.

mor'al·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj. Characterized by moralism, or characteristic of moralists. — mor'al·is'ti·cal·ly, adv.

mo·ral'i·ty (mō·răl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. moralité, fr. LL. moralitas.] 1. Knowledge of moral principles; moral wisdom. Obs.
2. Moral quality or character; righteousness; virtue.

Gentillesse and eek moralitee and holinesse. Chaucer.

3. That which conveys or instills moral lessons or expresses moral sentiment; specif.: a Obs. A moral tale or writing; also, its moral. b Moral inference, meaning, or lesson; moral, or moral sense, as of a story. Shak. c Moralizing; sermonizing.
4. The science, or a system, of morals; also, pl., ethical principles or doctrines, as of a man or system.
5. Moral practice or action; rectitude of life; morals; conformity to the mores of a particular time and place. Cf. VIRTUE, 2.
6. The quality of that which conforms to right ideals or principles of human conduct, or of that which is based upon or derived from such principles; as, to admit the expediency of a law but to question its morality.
7. A kind of allegorical play, so termed because it consisted typically of discourses in praise of morality between actors representing such characters as Charity, Faith, Death, Vice, etc.; a dramatization of an allegory.

The morality may even be defined as an attempt to dramatize a sermon, whereas the mystery is simply a dramatization of the text. Brander Matthews.

mor'al·i·za'tion (môr'ăl·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī-zā'shŭn), n. 1. The giving of a moral interpretation or effect to something; explanation or interpretation in a moral sense.
2. The act of, or indulgence in, moralizing; a moral reflection or discourse.
3. A rendering moral or becoming moral; attainment of that stage of culture where the moral sense is awakened.

mor'al·ize (môr'ăl·īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-Iz'Ĭng). [F. moraliser.] Transitive: 1. To explain or interpret in a moral sense; to draw a moral from or furnish with a moral; as, to moralize fables.

Did he not moralize this spectacle? Shak.

2. To furnish with moral lessons, teachings, etc.; to lend a moral to or exemplify the moral of. Archaic.

While chastening thoughts of sweetest use, bestowed
By Wisdom, moralize his pensive road. Wordsworth.

3. To render moral or morally better; to give a moral quality to; to affect the moral quality or state of; as, the modern efforts to moralize business.
4. To bring from one state to another by moralizing.
—, Intransitive: 1. To make moral reflections; to regard or treat acts and events as involving a moral.
2. To have a moral effect or influence. H. Spencer.

mor'al·iz'er (môr'ăl·Iz'ĕr; 185), n. One who moralizes.

moral law. = LAW, n., 11 b.

mor'al·ly (môr'ăl·ĭ), adv. of MORAL; specif.: a Rare. In a moral or ethical sense. b In respect of, or from the point of view of, morality; also, according to moral rules; virtuously. c In respect to the moral nature; as, one who physically and morally endures hardships. d According to the usual course or the normal human judgment; according to reason and probability; virtually.

It is morally impossible for a hypocrite to keep himself long upon his guard. L'Estrange.

moral necessity. See NECESSITY, 6 a.

moral philosophy. Morals; ethics.

moral play. = MORALITY, 7.

mor'als (môr'ălz; 185), n. pl. 1. Science or doctrine of conduct, esp. as to the sense of duty; ethics (which see).
2. Moral principles and practice; conduct with respect to the moral aspect; morality; as, a man of loose morals.

An authoritative code of morals has force and effect when it expresses the settled customs of a stable society. Walter Lippmann.

moral science. Morals.

moral sense. The feeling of the rightness or wrongness of an action or the power of having such feelings.

moral theology. That branch of theology which treats of morals; also, that theology or those theological doctrines developed as inferences from moral grounds or reasons.

moral theory (of atonement). See ATONEMENT, 3.

moral turpitude. Law. The quality of a crime involving grave infringement of the moral sentiment of the community as distinguished from statutory mala prohibita.

moral victory. An actual defeat regarded as a virtual victory, as because of the narrowness of the margin or of some circumstance that gives satisfaction or hope.

moral virtue. See MORAL, adj., 1.

mo·rass' (mō·răs'), n. [D. moeras, fr. OF. marais, fr. ML. mariscus, of Teut. origin. See MARSH; cf. MARISH.] A tract of soft, swampy, or boggy ground; a marsh; swamp; figuratively, an entangling and distressing situation from which it is difficult to emerge. — mo·rass'ic (-Ĭk), adj. — mo·rass'y (-ĭ), adj.

morass ore. Bog iron ore.

mo·rass'weed' (mō·răs'wēd'), n. The hornwort.

mo'rat (mō'răt), n. [ML. moratum.] An ancient drink of honey flavored with mulberries.

mo'rate (mō'răt), adj. [L. moratus, fr. mos manner.] Mannered; esp., of good manners or morals. Obs.

mo·ra'tion (mō·rā'shŭn), n. [LL. moratio.] Delay. Rare.

mor'a·to'ri·um (môr'ă·tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n.; pl. -RIA (-ă), -RIUMS (-ŭmz). [NL. See MORATORY.] A period of permissive or obligatory delay; specif., Law, a period during which an obligor has a legal right to delay meeting an obligation, esp. such a period granted in an emergency, as to a bank or debtors generally, by a moratory law.

mor'a·to'ry (môr'ă·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [LL. moratorius delaying, fr. morari to delay; akin to MIr. marain I remain. See MEMORY; cf. DEMUR.] Of or pertaining to delay; esp., designating a law granting a moratorium.

Mo·ra'vi·an (mō·rā'vĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of or pertaining to Moravia, Moravians, or the Moravian sect.

Mo·ra'vi·an, n. 1. a A native or inhabitant of Moravia, a former Austrian crownland which in 1918 became a part of Czechoslovakia; esp., a descendant of the Slavic people who ruled Moravia in the Middle Ages. b The speech of the Moravians; — a group of dialects transitional between Slovak and Czech.
2. Eccl. One of a denomination of Christians descended from the Bohemian Brethren, who in 1722 at Hernhut in Saxony reconstituted their church, the Renewed Church of the Unity of Brethren; — called also Herrnhuter. Separatist tendencies led to the formation of an independent church recognized as such by the Prussian government in 1742. The Augsburg Confession was accepted in 1748, but subscription to a creed is not required, since Scripture is the sole rule of faith and practice. The church is governed by a general synod meeting every six years, and in the interim by a directing board composed of elders under the presidency of a bishop. The only other officers are the deacons. Orders are episcopal, but the government is Presbyterian. Today there are three provinces, German, English, and American.

Mo·ra'vi·an (mō·rā'vĭ·ăn), n. An inhabitant of Moray, formerly one of the great divisions of Scotland, now the county of Moray or Elgin. Oxf.E.D. — adj. Of or pert. to Moray.

Mo·ra'vi·an·ized (-īzd), adj. Converted to, or influenced by, the doctrines of the Moravians.

mo·ra'vite (mō·rā'vĭt; mō'rā-), n. [From Moravia.] Mineral. A fine scaly black chloritic mineral of the chlorite group of silicates.

mo·ray' (mō·rā'; mō'rā; 181), n. [Prob. fr. Pg. moreia, fr. L. muraena, whence F. murène.] Any of a number of voracious, savage, and often brightly colored, eels, constituting the family Muraenidae. Their gill openings are small and round, the pectoral fins as well as the pelvics are wanting, the back of the head is elevated, the jaws are usually narrow and bear strong knifelike teeth, and in the typical genus, Muraena, both pairs of nostrils are barbellate. They occur in all warm seas and are especially common in crevices about coral reefs. The largest genus is Gymnothorax, of which the hamlet, or spotted moray (G. moringa), of the Atlantic coast and the West Indies is an example. A Mediterranean species, Muraena helena, the Roman muraena, is a valued food fish.

European Moray (Muraena helena).

mor'bid (môr'bĭd), adj. [L. morbidus, fr. morbus disease; akin to L. mori to die. See MORTAL.] 1. Not sound and healthful; induced by, or characteristic of, a diseased or abnormal condition; hence, abnormally susceptible to or characterized by emotional impressions, esp. of a gloomy or unwholesome nature. "Her sick and morbid heart." Hawthorne.
2. Productive of, or subject to, disease. Obs.
3. Relating to disease; as, morbid anatomy.

Syn. — Sick, unwholesome, unhealthy.

Ant. — Healthy, sound, natural.

‖mor'bi·dez'za (môr'bĕ·dĕt'sä), n. [It.] In the fine arts, delicacy or softness, esp., Painting, in the representation of flesh.

mor·bid'i·ty (môr·bĭd'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Morbid state or character; specif., disease; sickness.
2. Amount of disease; sick rate.

morbid psychology. Abnormal psychology. See PSYCHOLOGY.

mor·bif'er·al (môr·bĭf'ĕr·ăl), adj. Med. Morbiferous.

mor·bif'er·ous (môr·bĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [LL. morbifer. See MORBIFIC; -FEROUS.] Med. Carrying or producing disease.

mor·bif'ic (-Ĭk), mor·bif'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [L. morbus disease + -ficus; cf. F. morbifique. See -FIC.] Causing disease; generating a sickly state; also, formerly, diseased. — mor·bif'i·cal·ly, adv.

mor'bi·fy (môr'bĭ·fī), v. t. [morbus + -fy.] To make ill. R.

mor·bil'la·ry (môr·bĭl'ä·rĭ), adj. Resembling measles.

mor·bil'li (-ī), n. pl. [ML. See MORBILLOUS.] Med. Measles; also, Obs., the spots characteristic of this disease.

mor·bil'li·form (-ĭ·fôrm), adj. [morbilli + -form.] Med. Resembling measles.

mor·bil'lous (-bĭl'ŭs), adj. [ML. morbilli measles, dim. of L. morbus disease; cf. F. morbilleux.] Med. Pert. to or of the nature of measles; also, resembling its eruptions.

‖mor'bleu' (môr'blŭ'), interj. [F.] A French expletive or oath, equivalent to 'sdeath, corrupted from mordieu.

‖mor'bus (môr'bŭs), n. [L.] Disease; illness.

‖mor'bus Gal'li·cus (găl'ĭ·kŭs). [NL.] Literally, the Gallic disease; syphilis.

‖mor'bus ma'cu·lo'sus (măk'ū·lō'sŭs). [NL.] = PURPURA HAEMORRHAGICA, 2.

‖mor'ceau' (môr'sō'), n. [F.] A bit; a morsel; — applied esp. to a short literary or musical piece.

mor'cel·late (môr'sĕ·lāt), v. t.; -LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -Ĭd; 119); -LAT'ING (-lāt'Ĭng). To divide into small pieces.

mor'cel·lat'ed (môr'sĕ·lāt'ĕd; -Ĭd; 119), adj. Divided into small pieces; specif., Geol., traversed by numerous closely spaced joints; as, a morcellated sandstone.

mor'cel·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [F. morceler to divide into pieces; cf. F. morcellement. See MORSEL.] Surg. Division and removal in small pieces, as of a morbid growth.

Mor·chel'la (môr·kĕl'ä), n. [NL., fr. G. morchel morel.] Bot. A genus of edible fungi (family Helvellaceae), the morels. M. esculenta is the common morel. See MOREL.

mor·da'cious (môr·dā'shŭs), adj. [L. mordax, -acis, fr. mordere, morsum, to bite. See MORSEL.] Biting or given to biting; acrid; hence, now of language, caustic. — mor·da'cious·ly, adv.

mor·dac'i·ty (-dăs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. mordacité, fr. L. mordacitas. See MORDACIOUS.] Quality of being or tendency to be mordacious.

mor'dan·cy (môr'dăn·sĭ), n. [See MORDANT.] Mordacity.

mor'dant (môr'dănt), adj. [F., pres. part. of mordre to bite, fr. L. mordere. See MORSEL.] 1. Biting; caustic; sarcastic; keen; also, Rare, burning; corrosive; pungent.
2. Dyeing & Calico Printing. Acting as a mordant.
3. Biting, as a dog. Rare.

Syn. — MORDANT, CAUSTIC, CORROSIVE, SCATHING are here compared in their figurative senses. That is MORDANT which is biting or acridly cutting; CAUSTIC suggests esp. stinging sharpness or pungency; that is CORROSIVE which bites or wears deeply or blightingly; SCATHING adds the implication of fierce or withering severity. Cf. SOUR, PUNGENT, SHARP, ACRIMONY.

mor'dant (môr'dănt), n. [OF., orig., biting.] 1. A metal plate or chape, sometimes jeweled, at the end of a belt, etc., opposite the buckle. Obs.
2. Any corroding substance used in etching.
3. Any sticky matter used to cause leaf metal to adhere.
4. Dyeing. Any substance which, by combining with a dyestuff to form an insoluble compound or lake, serves to produce a fixed color in a textile fiber, in leather, etc.
5. Micros. Any substance similar to a dyeing mordant which forms an insoluble compound with stains and causes their fixation in cells, tissues, or bacteria.

mor'dant, v. t.; -DANT·ED; -DANT·ING. To subject to the action of, or imbue with, a mordant.

Mor'de·cai (môr'dē·kĭ; môr'dē·kā'ĭ), n. Bib. In the book of Esther, the cousin of Esther, who saved the Jews from the destruction planned by Haman.

Mor·del'li·dae (môr·dĕl'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mordella, type genus (fr. L. mordere to bite) + -idae.] Zool. A family of small pubescent beetles. The type genus is Mor·del'la (-ä). — mor·del'loid (-oid), adj. — mor·del'lid (-ĭd), n.

mor'den·ite (môr'dĕn·īt), n. [From Morden, N. S.] A zeolite found in minute crystals or fibrous concretions.

mor'dent (môr'dĕnt), n. [G., fr. It. mordente. See MORDANT.] Music. a A melodic grace made by a quick alternation of a principal tone with an auxiliary tone usually a half step lower. It is either single or double (long). See Illust. The name inverted mordent is sometimes applied to the pralltriller (which see). b Rare. The acciaccatura.

Mordents. 1 As written; 2 As performed.

mor'di·cate (môr'dĭ·kāt), v. t. [LL. mordicatus, past part. of mordicare to bite.] To bite; corrode. — mor'di·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n. — mor'di·ca'tive (môr'dĭ·kā'tĭv), adj. All Rare.

‖mor'dieu' (môr'dyû'), interj. A French oath; — a more frequent spelling of mort-Dieu.

mor'di·sheen' (môr'dĭ·shēn'), n. [Pg. mordexim, fr. Marathi modŝ cholera, fr. modnē to break, fail, lose health.] Asiatic cholera. Obs. Anglo-Ind.

mor'do'ré' (môr'dō'rā'), n. [F.] A brown, reddish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance; — called also pencilwood. Cf. COLOR.

Mord·vin'i·an (môrd·vĭn'ĭ·ăn; 159), n. a One of an agricultural people of the middle Volga provinces of Russia. b Their language. See FINNO-UGRIC LANGUAGES, Table.

more (mōr; 181), adj.; now often used as compar. of MUCH, MANY; positive wanting; superl. MOST (mōst). [ME. more, mare, and (orig. neut. and adv.) mo, ma, fr. AS. māra, and (as neut. and adv.) mā; akin to D. meer, OS. mēr, G. mehr, OHG. mēro, mēr, ON. meiri, meirr, Dan. meere, meer, Sw. mera, mer, Goth. maiza, adj., mais, adv., AS. mǣre great, famous, OHG. mari famous, Goth. mers (in comp.), OIr. mōr, mār, Gr. enchesimōros great with the spear (enchos). Cf. MOST.] 1. a Greater, as in size, number, power; — now only in "the more part." b Obs. Elder. c Greater in degree or scope; as, the more 's the pity. "For the more solemnity." Evelyn. d Greater with respect to possession of a quality or characteristic; — now only in "the more fool." "The more trifler." Bacon.
2. Existing in greater quantity, amount, degree, quality, and the like; — with the singular.

If we procure not to ourselves more woe. Milton.

3. Greater or exceeding in numbers; — with the plural.

The children of Israel are more and mightier than we. Ex. i. 9.

4. Additional; other; as, no more worlds to conquer.

more (mōr), n. 1. A greater quantity, amount, or number; that which exceeds or surpasses what it is compared with.

And the children of Israel did so, and gathered, some more, some less. Ex. xvi. 17.

2. That which is in addition; something other and further; an additional or greater amount; as, no more; much more.

O! That pang where more than madness lies. Byron.

3. The greater in rank; — esp. in the more and the less. — and more. Together with an additional, unspecified number or amount; as, forty miles and more. — without more. Without further ado, delay, etc. Obs.

more (mōr; 181), adv. 1. In a greater quantity; in or to a greater extent or degree: a With a verb or participle.

Admiring more The riches of Heaven's pavement. Milton.

b With an adjective or adverb (instead of the suffix -er, and formerly with a comparative in -er) to form the comparative degree; as, more durable; more actively. See COMPARE, v. t., 3. "His more braver daughter." Shak. c With an adjective or prepositional phrase followed by than: With a greater measure of fidelity to fact or truth, by way of statement, esp. in correction; closer to being, in the way of strict accuracy; rather; as more for satisfaction than for profit; more dead than alive.
2. In addition; specif.: a Again or further from this or that time on; as, he returned once more. b Beyond the previous number, amount, distance, etc.; as, to advance three yards more. c Besides; moreover; as, it is foolish and, more, it is wrong.

— more and more. With continual increase. "Among trespassed more and more." 2 Chron. xxxiii. 23. — more by token. a As corroboration or further proof. b Besides; moreover; indeed. — more or less. To a varying or undetermined extent or degree; somewhat; as, sure to fluctuate more or less. — more than. Beyond: a Beyond or in excess of, in respect to number, amount, etc.; as, more than ten years ago. b So as to go beyond, in some evident regard, the significance of the adjective, adverb, or verb qualified; as, he was more than popular; more than level full. — neither, or no, more nor less. Precisely. — the more. To a greater degree; by an added quantity; for a reason already specified. — the more . . . the more. By how much more . . . by so much more. "The more he praised it in himself, the more he seems to suspect that in very deed it was not in him." Milton.

more (mōr; 181), v. t. & i. To increase; also, to exaggerate. Obs.

---

mor'al·is'ing·ly, adv. of moralising, pres. part.
mor'al·less, adj. See -LESS.
mor'al·ness, n. See -NESS.
Mo·rash'tite (mō·răsh'tĭt). Bib.
Mo·ras'thite (mō·răs'thĭt; mō'răs-). Bib.
Mo·raṡ'ta. ✝ MARATHA.
Mo·raṡ'ty. ✝ MARATHI.
Mo·ra'vi·an·ism, n. See -ISM.
Mo'ra·vid, n. & adj. = ALMORAVID. morb, n. [L. morbus; cf. OF. morbe.] Sickness; malady. Obs. mor'bid·ize, v. i. See -IZE. mor'bid·ly, adv. of MORBID. mor'bid·ness, n. See -NESS.
mor·bil'ĭ·ty (môr·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [See MORBILLOUS.] = MORBIDITY, 2. mor·bose', adj. [L. morbosus, fr. morbus disease.] Morbid; diseased. Rare. — mor·bos'i·ty (-bŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Obs.
Mor·co'te (môr·kō'tā), n. See TUNEBO. mor'dant. Var. of MORDENT. mordant dye or dyestuff. See DYE, 2 (4). mor'dant·ly, adv. of MORDANT. mor'dent. ✝ MORDANT. mor'di·cant (môr'dĭ·kănt), adj. [LL. mordicans, pres. part. of mordicare to bite, fr. mordere.] Mordant. — mor'di·can·cy (-kăn·sĭ), n. Obs.
Mor·do'vi·an. Var. of MORDVINIAN. mordre. ✝ MURDER. [Obs.] mor'dre·man, n. A murderer.
Mor'dred (môr'drĕd). Var. of MODRED. mordu. ✝ MORT-DIEU.
Mordv (m ŏ r d v), Mord·vä' (môrd·vä'), Mord·vin' (-vĭn'), n. = MORDVINIAN.
Mord'vi·an (môrd'vĭ·ăn). Var. of MORDVINIAN.

more (mōr; 181), prep. With in addition. Obs.

more, n. [AS. mōrbēam, fr. L. morus. See MULBERRY.] The mulberry tree. Obs.

more (mōr; 181), n. [AS. more, moru; akin to G. möhre carrot, OHG. moraha, morha.] a Obs. exc. Dial. A root; a stump. b Rare. Plant. Spenser.

more, v. t. To root; to uproot. — v. i. To take root. Both Obs. exc. Dial.

more (mōr). Var. of MOOR. Now Dial.

-more (-mōr; 181). A combining form of the adverb more, used with some adverbs to intensify the comparative degree, as in further*more,* outer*more.* Cf. -MOST.

‖mo're (mō′rē; 181), adv. [L., abl. of mos custom, manner.] In the fashion, style, manner, or way; — occurring in Latin phrases occasionally used in English; as, mo're An′gli-co (ăn′ġlĭ-kō), in English fashion; mo're su′o (sū′ō), in his own manner or way.

mo·reen′ (mō-rēn′), n. [Cf. MOIRE.] A coarse, stout woolen or woolen-and-cotton fabric, usually watered or embossed.

more′ish (mōr′ĭsh; 181), adj. Causing desire for more; palatable. Colloq.

mo·rel′ (mō-rĕl′), n. [F. morelle, fr. LL. maurella.] Any of various nightshades, esp. the black nightshade (which see).

mo·rel′ (mō-rĕl′; mŏr′ĕl), n. [F. morille, fr. D. morilje, fr. OHG. morhila (G. morchel), dim. fr. morha carrot. See MORE root.] a Any edible fungus of the genus Morchella, esp. M. esculenta. b Also, any fungus of several closely related genera.

Morel (Morchella esculenta).

mo·rel′la (mō-rĕl′ȧ), n. A 17th-century fabric for dresses and draperies.

mo·rel′lo (mō-rĕl′ō), n. [Flem. marelle, fr. amarelle, fr. It. amarella, dim. fr. amaro bitter, fr. L. amarus.] 1. Hort. Any of a group of cultivated cherries derived from the sour cherry Prunus cerasus, distinguished from the amarelles by their dark-colored skin and juice.

2. The color mulberry.

Mo·re′los or′ange worm (mō-rā′lōs). [From Morelos, State in Mexico.] The Mexican fruit fly.

‖mo·re′na (mō-rā′nä), n. [Sp., fem.] A brunette.

mo·ren′cite (mō-rĕn′sīt), n. [From Morenci, Arizona.] Mineral. A hydrated ferric silicate in yellow fibrous forms.

‖mo·ren′do (mō-rĕn′dō), adj. [It.] Music. Dying; — a direction that the tone become softer and the movement slower until nothing is left.

more′ness (mōr′nĕs; -nĭs; 119; 181), n. Quality of being more; also, Obs., plurality.

mo′re·ni′ta (mō′rā-nē′tä), n. [Sp., fem. dim.] A little brunette.

mo·ren′o·site (mō-rĕn′ō-sīt), n. [After Moreno, a Spaniard.] Mineral. Nickel sulphate, $NiSO_4.7H_2O$, occurring in light-green crystals or fibrous crusts.

More of More Hall (mōr; 181). A ballad hero in Percy's Reliques.

Mo′re·ote (mō′rē-ōt; 181), n. [NGr. Mōreōtēs.] A native or inhabitant of the Morea. — adj. Of or pertaining to the Moreotes.

more·o′ver (mōr-ō′vĕr; 181), adv. [more + over.] Beyond what has been said; further; besides; in addition.

Syn. — See BESIDES.

more′pork′ (mōr′pōrk′; 181), n. [So named from its cry.] a Australia & Tasmania. Any of several species of night-jars, esp. Podargus strigoides cuvieri. b New Zealand. The boobook.

mo′res (mō′rēz), n. pl. [L.] Customs; specif., fixed customs or folkways imbued with an ethical significance; customs or conventions which have the force of law; manners.

Mo·resque′ (mō-rĕsk′), adj. [F., fr. It. moresco, fr. Moro. See MOOR.] Moorish. — n. The Moorish style of architecture or decoration. See SARACENIC ARCHITECTURE.

More′ton Bay (mōr′t'n). A bay of eastern Australia.

Moreton Bay ash. An Australian tree (Eucalyptus tesselaris) with tough durable wood and gum rich in tannin.

Moreton Bay chestnut. = BEAN TREE a.

Moreton Bay fig. An Australian fig tree (Ficus macrophylla) often planted for shade.

Moreton Bay laurel. An Australian tree (Cryptocarya australis). Its bitter bark contains a poison like curare.

Moreton Bay lily. The Brisbane lily.

Moreton Bay pine. The colonial pine.

Moreton Bay tulipwood. See HARPULLIA.

mor·found′ (mōr-found′), v. t. & i. Also mor·found′er (-found′ĕr). [F. morfondre to chill, to cause to have a cold.] To become or make chill or benumbed. Obs.

mor′found (mōr′found), n. Also mor′fond (-fŏnd). A severe cold. Obs.

mor′frey, mor′phrey (mōr′frĭ), n. [From HERMAPHRODITE.] A farmer's cart that can be used as a wagon. Dial. Eng.

Mor′gain, or, commonly, Mor′gan, le Fay (mōr′găn; -găn lē fā). [OF. Morgain la fée Morgan the fairy; Morgain is of Celtic origin.] A fairy, sister of King Arthur. See FATA MORGANA, 1.

Mor′gan (mōr′găn), n. [W.; cf. W. Morgant, and morgant shore of the sea.] 1. Literally, a dweller on the sea; — masc. proper name.

2. One of a celebrated American breed of light horses which originated in Vermont from a stallion Justin Morgan.

mor′gan (mōr′găn), n. a Eng. Any of various species of Anthemis. b = DAISY, 2.

mor′ga·nat′ic (mōr′gȧ-năt′ĭk), adj. [ML. matrimonium ad morganaticum, fr. morganatica a morning gift, fr. OHG. morgan morning, in morgengeba morning gift (G. morgengabe). See MORN.] Of the nature of, or pertaining to, a form of marriage which members of various royal families in Europe and certain nobility formerly belonging to reigning families may contract with persons of inferior rank, and wherein the wife, if inferior, does not acquire the husband's rank, and the children do not succeed to the titles, fiefs, or entailed property of the parent, whether father or mother, of higher rank. It is sometimes called a left-handed marriage, because the left hand is often given in the ceremony. A morganatic marriage is a valid marriage, and while existing precludes any other; the children of it are legitimate. The morganatic marriage is historically connected with an early Germanic form of marriage in which the mund (which see) was not acquired, but the morning gift was made.

mor′ga·nat′i·cal (mōr′gȧ-năt′ĭ-kăl), adj. Morganatic. — mor′ga·nat′i·cal·ly, adv.

mor·gan′ic (mōr-găn′ĭk), adj. = MORGANATIC. Rare.

mor′gan·ite (mōr′găn-īt), n. [After J. P. Morgan, Am. financier.] A rose-colored gem variety of beryl.

mor′gan·ize (mōr′găn-īz), v. t. To make away with secretly, in order to prevent or punish disclosure of secrets; — from Wm. Morgan, alleged to have been so treated in 1826 by Masons.

Mor·gan′te (mōr-găn′tā), n. [It.] The hero of Pulci's (1432–84) romantic poem Morgante Maggiore. He is a ferocious pagan giant, whom Orlando conquers and converts.

mor′gay (mōr′gā), n. [W. morgi dogfish, shark, fr. mor sea + ci dog.] Dogfish. Cornwall.

mor′gen (mōr′gĕn), n.; pl. MORGEN or MORGENS (-gĕnz). [D. & G. See MORNING.] A land measure of various values, now or formerly used in various Germanic countries of Europe, originally the amount plowed or mowed in a morning by one team or man. The old Dutch morgen was equal to about 2.1 acres. See MEASURE, Table.

Mor′gi·a′na (mōr′gĭ-ä′nä), n. In the Arabian Nights, a clever female slave who saves Ali's life by outwitting and killing the thieves. Ali makes her his daughter-in-law.

mor′glay (mōr′glā), n. [Cf. CLAYMORE.] A sword, esp. [cap.] that of Sir Bevis of Hampton. Obs.

morgue (mōrg), n. [F., of obscure origin.] 1. A place where the bodies of persons found dead are exposed, that they may be identified, or claimed by friends; a deadhouse.

2. a Journalism. A department of a newspaper office where miscellaneous material for reference is filed. U. S. b Any filing cabinet or storage place where material only occasionally in use is kept, as in a library.

‖morgue (mōrg), n. [F.] Haughtiness; stolidity; impassivity.

Mo·ri′ah (mō-rī′ȧ), n. Bib. The Temple mount in Jerusalem.

mor′i·bund (mŏr′ĭ-bŭnd), adj. [L. moribundus, fr. moriri to die. See MORTAL.] In a dying state; near death. — mor′i·bun′di·ty (-bŭn′dĭ-tĭ), n. — mor′i·bund·ly, adv.

mor′i·bund (mŏr′ĭ-bŭnd), n. A dying person.

mo′ric ac′id (mō′rĭk; 181). Chem. a An acid found in the bark of the white mulberry. b Morin.

mor′i·form (mōr′ĭ-fôrm), adj. [L. morum mulberry + -form.] Shaped like a mulberry.

mo·rig′er·ate (mō-rĭj′ĕr-āt), adj. [L. morigeratus, past part. of morigerari to comply with.] Morigerous. Rare.

mo·rig′er·a′tion (-ā′shŭn), n. Compliance.

mo·rig′er·ous (mō-rĭj′ĕr-ŭs), adj. [L. morigerus, fr. mos, moris, custom, manner + gerere to bear, conduct.] Obedient; obsequious. — mo·rig′er·ous·ly, adv. — -ous·ness, n.

mo·ril′lon (mō-rĭl′ŭn), n. [F. Cf. MOREL, adj.] 1. Any of several European ducks; esp., a female or immature male goldeneye.

2. A variety of grape.

3. A color, yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

mo′rin (mō′rĭn), n. [See MORUS.] Chem. A crystalline compound, $C_{15}H_{10}O_7$, the chief coloring principle of fustic (sense 1). It is colorless but forms yellow and orange salts.

Mo·rin′da (mō-rĭn′dȧ), n. [NL., contraction of NL. Morus indica.] Bot. A large genus of tropical, chiefly East Indian, trees and shrubs of the madder family (Rubiaceae). Several yield valuable yellow dyes and hard wood.

mo·rin′din (mō-rĭn′dĭn), n. Chem. A yellow crystalline glucoside, $C_{26}H_{28}O_{14}$, extracted from the root bark of various species of Morinda. On hydrolysis it yields a sugar and mo·rin′done (-dōn), $C_{15}H_{10}O_6$, an orange-red crystalline dye.

mor′i·nel (mŏr′ĭ-nĕl), n. [F. morinelle.] The dotterel.

Mo·rin′ga (mō-rĭng′gȧ), n. [NL., fr. Tamil murunġai, or Singhalese murunġā.] Bot. A small genus of East Indian and African trees constituting the Mo′rin·ga′ce·ae (mō′-rĭng-gā′sē-ē), a family of uncertain relationship. M. oleifera is the horse-radish tree. See 5th BEN. — mo′rin·ga′ceous (-shŭs), adj. — mo·rin′gad (mō-rĭng′găd), n.

Mo′rin·gu′i·dae (mō′rĭng-gū′ĭ-dē; 181), n. pl. [NL., fr. Moringua, type genus (said to be fr. Tamil malaṅgu eel) + -idae.] Zool. A family of very slender wormlike eels. The type genus is Mo′rin·gu′a (-ȧ). — mo′rin·gu′id (-ĭd), n. & adj. — mo′rin·gu′oid (-oid), adj. & n.

mo′ri·on (mō′rĭ-ŏn; 181), n. [F., fr. Sp. morrión, fr. morra the upper part of the head.] A foot soldier's visorless high-crested helmet, of Spanish origin, with the edge turned up as in a hat.

mo′ri·on (mō′rĭ-ŏn; 181), n. [G.] Mineral. A dark, nearly black variety of smoky quartz.

Mo′ri·o′ri (mō′rē-ō′rĭ), n.; pl. -RIS (-rĭz). A member of the native race of the Chatham Islands, east of New Zealand. They are now practically extinct.

Mo·ris′can (mō-rĭs′kăn), adj. Moorish.

Mo·ris′co (mō-rĭs′kō), adj. [Sp., fr. Moro Moor. See MOOR.] Moorish.

Mo·ris′co, n.; pl. -COS or -COES (-kōz). [Sp., Moorish.] 1. Hist. A Moor, esp. one of the Moorish people in Spain.

2. The language of the Moriscos. Obs.

3. [not cap.] a A Moorish dance; specif., a grotesque carnival dance in which either sex or both participated. b A morris dance; also, Obs., one who dances it.

4. Moresque decoration or architecture.

5. In Mexico, the offspring of a mulatto and a Spaniard.

Mor′i·so′ni·an (mōr′ĭ-sō′nĭ-ăn), n. Eccl. Hist. A follower of James Morison (1816–93); a member of the Evangelical Union. — Mor′i·so′ni·an, adj. — -so′ni·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n.

mor′kin (mōr′kĭn), n. [AF. mortekine, for OF. mortecine, fr. L. morticina, fr. mors death.] A beast dead by disease or mischance. Obs.

mor′lop (mōr′lŏp), n. A variety of jasper. Local, Australia.

mor·ma′or (mōr-mä′ĕr), n. [Gael. & Ir. mōrmhaor, fr. mōr great + maor steward.] Scot. Hist. A high steward. — mor·ma′or·dom (-dŭm), n. — mor·ma′or·ship, n.

mor′mo (mōr′mō), n. [Gr. mormō. See FORMIDABLE.] Gr. Myth. An imaginary bugbear; esp., a hideous shemonster with which mothers or nurses frighten children.

Mor′mon (mōr′mŭn), n. 1. According to the Book of Mormon, a 4th-century prophet, historian, and warrior who condensed the voluminous Nephite records, added to them, and committed these writings to his son Moroni.

2. A member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; — unofficially but generally called Mormon Church.

Mor′mon, adj. Of or pertaining to the Mormons.

mor′mon (mōr′mŭn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mormōn monster, bugbear.] 1. The mandrill.

2. [cap.] Zool. a Syn. of FRATERCULA. b Syn. of PAPIO.

Mor′mon crick′et (mōr′mŭn). A large black cricketlike grasshopper (Anabrus simplex) of the western U. S.

Mormon gold. Numis. See PRIVATE GOLD COINS.

Mor′mon·ite (mōr′mŭn-īt), n. & adj. Mormon.

Mormon State. Utah; — a nickname.

Mormon tea. Brigham tea.

Mormon tree. = BLACK POPLAR a.

Mor′mon·weed′ (mōr′mŭn-wēd′), n. Velvetleaf.

Mor·mo′ops (mōr-mō′ŏps), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mormō bugbear + ōps, ōpos, face.] Zool. A genus of phyllostome bats of tropical America.

‖mor′mo·ran′do (mōr′mō-răn′dō), adj. [It.] Music. Murmuring.

Mor·myr′i·dae (mōr-mĭr′ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mormyrus, type genus (fr. L. mormyr a sea fish, fr. Gr. mormyros) + -idae.] Zool. A family of African fresh-water soft-finned fishes. Some include also certain eellike forms, as Gymnarchus. The type genus is Mor·my′rus (mōr-mĭ′-rŭs) (see SACRED FISH). — mor′myr (mōr′mĕr), mor′myre (-mīr), n. — mor·myr′i·an (mōr-mĭr′ĭ-ăn), adj. & n. — mor·my′rid (-mĭ′rĭd), n. & adj. — mor·my′roid (-roid), adj. & n.

morn (mōrn), n. [ME. morn, morȝen, morwen, morgen, fr. AS. morgen; akin to D. morgen, OS. morgan, G. morgen, ON. morginn, morgunn, Goth. maurgins, Lith. merkti to wink, and ult. to AS. ǣmerian to purify, examine, Gr. marmairein to flash, sparkle, Skr. marīci ray of light. Cf. MERE pure, MORGANATIC, MORNING, MORROW, MURK.] The first or early part of the day; dawn; morning; hence, the east. Chiefly Poetic.

— the morn. Tomorrow. Archaic & Dial.

morn, adj. Morning; as, morn dew.

morne (mōrn), n. [F., fr. morner to blunt, fr. morne dull, of Teut. origin. See MOURN.] The head of a lance blunted for tilting.

‖mor′né′ (mōr′nā′), adj. [F., lit., blunted.] Her. Without teeth, tongue, or claws; — said of a lion.

morned (mōrnd), adj. Her. Blunt-headed; — of a spear.

mor·nette′ (mōr-nĕt′), n. One of the blunt points of the coronal of a medieval tilting spear. Obs. exc. Hist.

morn′ing (mōr′nĭng), n. [ME. morning, morwening, with -ing after evening. See MORN.] 1. The first or early part of the day, orig. understood as the earliest hours of light, the time near sunrise; now, the time from midnight to noon, from rising to noon, or to the time of the midday meal.

2. The first or early part; as, the morning of life.

3. a The dawn. b [cap.] The goddess Aurora or Eos.

4. A dram or slight meal taken before breakfast. Scot.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are morn′ing-breath′-ing, morn′ing-bright′, morn′ing-col′ored, morn′ing-winged′.

morn′ing, adj. 1. Pertaining to the morning; being, used, occurring, or the like, in the morning.

Morning roses newly washed with dew. Shak.

2. Worn in the morning or afternoon; as, morning dress.

morning campion. The red campion.

morning coat. A cutaway coat.

morning dress. a A woman's dress suitable for wear around the home, esp. in the performance of household duties. b The conventional attire for men for formal daytime wear, as at weddings or receptions. It consists of a cutaway coat (or frock coat), fancy waistcoat, and gray or black-and-white striped trousers.

morning gift. A gift made to the wife the morning after the consummation of marriage, security for it often being given by antenuptial contract. Historical.

morn′ing-glo′ry (mōr′nĭng-glō′rĭ; 181), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). 1. a Any vine of the genus Ipomoea, esp. I. purpurea. See JAPANESE MORNING-GLORY. b Loosely, any plant of certain related genera, as Convolvulus, etc.

2. The hooded merganser. Local, U. S.

morn′ing-glo′ry fam′i·ly. The Convolvulaceae.

morning-glory sphinx. A hawk moth (Herse convolvuli) of Europe, whose larva feeds on the morning-glory and similar plants. A related species (H. cinguiata) feeds on the sweet potato in the southern United States.

morning gown. = MORNING DRESS a.

morning gun. A gun fired at the first note of reveille or of a preceding march at military posts and on naval vessels.

morning land. The Orient or East.

morning loan. A day loan.

morn′ing·ly, adv. In the morning, esp. recurrently.

morning performance. A matinee.

morning planet. = MORNING STAR a.

morning prayer. [often caps.] The morning service of the churches of the Anglican Communion; matins.

morning report. Mil. A daily report of permanent record, made by each company, troop, or battery, and all higher headquarters, giving its daily history (strength, movements, etc.).

morning room. A parlor or subordinate sitting room for the general family use, esp. during the day; — distinguished from a drawing room.

morn′ings (mōr′nĭngz), adv. In the morning. Chiefly Dial.

morning sickness. Med. Nausea and vomiting on rising in the morning; — a common sign of pregnancy.

morning sphinx. Any of several sphinx moths (genus Celerio) which fly in the morning.

morning star. a Any of the planets, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, and Saturn, when it precedes the sun in rising, esp. Venus. Cf. EVENING STAR, 1; LUCIFER. Also figuratively with allusion to earliness and guidance. b A weapon consisting of a heavy ball set with spikes, either attached to more′fold′ (66), adv. See -FOLD.

Mo′reh (mō′rĕ; 181). Bib.
mo·relle′. Var. of MOREL. moren. † MURRAIN.
more′pe·on. Error for MORPION.
Mo·res′co (mō-rĕs′kō), adj. & n. [It.] = MORISCO. Obs. exc. Hist.
Mo′resh-eth-gath′ (mō′rĕsh-ĕth-găth′; mō-rĕsh′-). Bib.
mor′fi·a. Morphia. Ref. Sp.
mor·fol′o·gy. Morphology. Ref. Sp.
mor·fo′sis. Morphosis. Ref. Sp.
morg. Morgue. Ref. Sp.
morg (mōrg), mor′ga (mōr′gȧ), n. [Pol., fr. G. morgen. See MORGEN.] See MEASURE, Table.
Mor·ga′gni's crypt (mōr-gä′-nyĕz). = CRYPT OF MORGAGNI.
Mor·ga′na, n. See FATA MORGANA, 1.
‖Mor′gen·ga′be (mōr′gĕn-gä′-bĕ), n. [G.] = MORNING GIFT. mor′gen·gift′, n. = MORNING GIFT. Pseudo-archaic.
mor′gen-stern′ (mōr′gĕn-stûrn′; G. -shtĕrn′), n. [G.] = MORNING STAR b.
Mo·ri′a (mō-rī′ȧ). D. Bib.
Mo′ri·an (mō′rĭ-ăn; 181), adj. [OF. Morien.] Moorish; swarthy. Obs. — n. A Moor; a blackamoor. Obs.
mor′ice. Var. of MORRIS.
mo·ri′che (mō-rē′chā), n., or moriche palm. [Sp. & Pg. moriche, fr. Tupi moriche. Cf. MURITI PALM.] = MURITI PALM. mo·ri′glio (mō-rē′lyō), n. [It.] = 5th MOREL. Obs.
mor′ill (mŏr′ĭl). Var. of MOREL.
‖mo·rille′ (mō-rē′y′), n. [F.] = 5th MOREL.
Mo′ri·na′ce·ae (mō′rĭ-nā′sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of DIPSACACEAE. morise. † MORRIS.
mor′ish. Var. of MORKISH.
Morish. † MOORISH.
Mo·risk′, adj. [See MORISCO.] Moorish. Obs. [Obs.]
Mo·risk′, adj. & n. = MORISCO.
‖mo′ri·tu′rĭ te sa′lu·ta′mus (mōr′ĭ-tū′rĭ tē sä′lŏ-tä′mŭs). [L.] We (who are) about to die salute thee; — cry of the Roman gladiators to the emperor.
mor′ley. Corrupt. of MAULEY.
mor′ling. † MORTLING. mor·ma′er. Var. of MORMAOR. — mor·ma′er·ship, n.
mor′mo (mōr′mō), n. [Gr. mormō. See FORMIDABLE.] Gr. Myth. An imaginary bugbear; esp., a hideous shemonster with which mothers or nurses frighten children.
Mor′mon (mōr′mŭn), n. 1. According to the Book of Mormon, a 4th-century prophet, historian, and warrior who condensed the voluminous Nephite records, added to them, and committed these writings to his son Moroni.
2. A member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; — unofficially but generally called Mormon Church.
Mor′mon, adj. Of or pertaining to the Mormons.
mor′mon (mōr′mŭn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mormōn monster, bugbear.] 1. The mandrill.
2. [cap.] Zool. a Syn. of FRATERCULA. b Syn. of PAPIO.
Mor′mon crick′et (mōr′mŭn). A large black cricketlike grasshopper (Anabrus simplex) of the western U. S.
Mormon gold. Numis. See PRIVATE GOLD COINS.
Mor′mon·ite (mōr′mŭn-īt), n. & adj. Mormon.
Mormon State. Utah; — a nickname.
Mormon tea. Brigham tea.
Mormon tree. = BLACK POPLAR a.
Mor′mon·weed′ (mōr′mŭn-wēd′), n. Velvetleaf.
Mor·mo′ops (mōr-mō′ŏps), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mormō bugbear + ōps, ōpos, face.] Zool. A genus of phyllostome bats of tropical America.
‖mor′mo·ran′do (mōr′mō-răn′dō), adj. [It.] Music. Murmuring.
Mor·myr′i·dae (mōr-mĭr′ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mormyrus, type genus (fr. L. mormyr a sea fish, fr. Gr. mormyros) + -idae.] Zool. A family of African fresh-water soft-finned fishes. Some include also certain eellike forms, as Gymnarchus. The type genus is Mor·my′rus (mōr-mĭ′-rŭs) (see SACRED FISH). — mor′myr (mōr′mĕr), mor′myre (-mīr), n. — mor·myr′i·an (mōr-mĭr′ĭ-ăn), adj. & n. — mor·my′rid (-mĭ′rĭd), n. & adj. — mor·my′roid (-roid), adj. & n.
morn (mōrn), n. [ME. morn, morȝen, morwen, morgen, fr. AS. morgen; akin to D. morgen, OS. morgan, G. morgen, ON. morginn, morgunn, Goth. maurgins, Lith. merkti to wink, and ult. to AS. ǣmerian to purify, examine, Gr. marmairein to flash, sparkle, Skr. marīci ray of light. Cf. MERE pure, MORGANATIC, MORNING, MORROW, MURK.] The first or early part of the day; dawn; morning; hence, the east. Chiefly Poetic.
— the morn. Tomorrow. Archaic & Dial.
morn, adj. Morning; as, morn dew.
morne (mōrn), n. [F., fr. morner to blunt, fr. morne dull, of Teut. origin. See MOURN.] The head of a lance blunted for tilting.
‖mor′né′ (mōr′nā′), adj. [F., lit., blunted.] Her. Without teeth, tongue, or claws; — said of a lion.
morned (mōrnd), adj. Her. Blunt-headed; — of a spear.
mor·nette′ (mōr-nĕt′), n. One of the blunt points of the coronal of a medieval tilting spear. Obs. exc. Hist.
morn′ing (mōr′nĭng), n. [ME. morning, morwening, with -ing after evening. See MORN.] 1. The first or early part of the day, orig. understood as the earliest hours of light, the time near sunrise; now, the time from midnight to noon, from rising to noon, or to the time of the midday meal.
2. The first or early part; as, the morning of life.
3. a The dawn. b [cap.] The goddess Aurora or Eos.
4. A dram or slight meal taken before breakfast. Scot.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are morn′ing-breath′-ing, morn′ing-bright′, morn′ing-col′ored, morn′ing-winged′.
morn′ing, adj. 1. Pertaining to the morning; being, used, occurring, or the like, in the morning.
Morning roses newly washed with dew. Shak.
2. Worn in the morning or afternoon; as, morning dress.
morning campion. The red campion.
morning coat. A cutaway coat.
morning dress. a A woman's dress suitable for wear around the home, esp. in the performance of household duties. b The conventional attire for men for formal daytime wear, as at weddings or receptions. It consists of a cutaway coat (or frock coat), fancy waistcoat, and gray or black-and-white striped trousers.
morning gift. A gift made to the wife the morning after the consummation of marriage, security for it often being given by antenuptial contract. Historical.
morn′ing-glo′ry (mōr′nĭng-glō′rĭ; 181), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). 1. a Any vine of the genus Ipomoea, esp. I. purpurea. See JAPANESE MORNING-GLORY. b Loosely, any plant of certain related genera, as Convolvulus, etc.
2. The hooded merganser. Local, U. S.
morn′ing-glo′ry fam′i·ly. The Convolvulaceae.
morning-glory sphinx. A hawk moth (Herse convolvuli) of Europe, whose larva feeds on the morning-glory and similar plants. A related species (H. cinguiata) feeds on the sweet potato in the southern United States.
morning gown. = MORNING DRESS a.
morning gun. A gun fired at the first note of reveille or of a preceding march at military posts and on naval vessels.
morning land. The Orient or East.
morning loan. A day loan.
morn′ing·ly, adv. In the morning, esp. recurrently.
morning performance. A matinee.
morning planet. = MORNING STAR a.
morning prayer. [often caps.] The morning service of the churches of the Anglican Communion; matins.
morning report. Mil. A daily report of permanent record, made by each company, troop, or battery, and all higher headquarters, giving its daily history (strength, movements, etc.).
morning room. A parlor or subordinate sitting room for the general family use, esp. during the day; — distinguished from a drawing room.
morn′ings (mōr′nĭngz), adv. In the morning. Chiefly Dial.
morning sickness. Med. Nausea and vomiting on rising in the morning; — a common sign of pregnancy.
morning sphinx. Any of several sphinx moths (genus Celerio) which fly in the morning.
morning star. a Any of the planets, Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, and Saturn, when it precedes the sun in rising, esp. Venus. Cf. EVENING STAR, 1; LUCIFER. Also figuratively with allusion to earliness and guidance. b A weapon consisting of a heavy ball set with spikes, either attached to mor′mal, n. [OF. mormal deadly evil; cf. ML. malum morticum.] A bad sore or ulcer. Obs. mor′me·lu′che, mor′mo·lu′kee, n. [Gr. mormolykē, -keion.] = MORMO. Obs.
Mor′mon·dom (mōr′mŭn-dŭm), n. See -DOM. [MON.]
Mor′mon·ess, n., fem. of MOR-Mor′mon·ism, n. See -ISM. [2.
Mor′mon·ist, n. = MORMON, n., morn′ing·less, adj. See -LESS.

a staff or suspended from one by a chain. c An annual Californian herb (Mentzelia aurea) having handsome yellow flowers. See WILD FLOWERS, Plate.

morn'ing-tide' (môr'nĭng-tīd'), n. Morning time; morning. Poetic.

morning watch. a The last watch of those into which the night was anciently divided. b Naut. The watch between four A.M. and eight A.M. morn'time' (môrn'tīm'), n. Morning.

Mo'ro (mō'rō), n.; pl. MOROS (-rōz). [Sp., Moor.] A member of any of the Moslem tribes of the southern Philippine Islands, chiefly of the Sulu Archipelago and parts of Mindanao. They are of mixed Malayan stock, probably with some Arab blood. Also, the language of the Moros, which embraces a number of dialects. See AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table. — Mo'ro, adj.

mo'ro (mō'rō), n. [Sp. Moro Moorish (sc. sparrow).] A thick-billed Afro-Asian finch (Erythrospiza githaginea).

mo'ro- (mō'rō-). A combining form, Greek mōro-, from mōros, meaning silly, stupid, as in mo'ro-man'cy (see -MANCY), Morosaurus.

mor'oc (mŏr'ŏk), n. [Eth. marēḥ leader, marēḥa to guide, show the way, Tigré marḥa.] A honey guide.

Mo-roc'can (mō-rŏk'ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Morocco or its inhabitants. — n. A native or inhabitant of Morocco; also, Morocco red.

Mo-roc'co (-ō), adj. Pertaining to, from, or made in Morocco (see Gaz.).

mo-roc'co, n. [It. Marocco, Sp. Marruecos, fr. Ar. Marrākish.] 1. [cap.] A city and a country of Africa.
2. More fully morocco leather. A fine kind of leather, prepared commonly from goatskin (imitations are made of sheepskin, etc.) tanned with sumac, or subjected to chrome tanning, and dyed on the grain side; — said to have been first made by the Moors. It is very hard, firm, and flexible. See FRENCH MOROCCO, LEVANT MOROCCO.
3. A local strong ale of Westmorland, Eng.
4. [cap.] Morocco red.
— in one's morocco. Naked; — of a gipsy. Longfellow.

Morocco gum. A variety of gum arabic from Mogador in Morocco.

Mo-roc'co-head', n. The American merganser. Local, U. S.

Mo-roc'co-jaw', n. The surf scoter. Local, U. S.

Morocco millet. Johnson grass.

Morocco red. A brown, reddish red-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. It is redder than henna. Called also caldron, redwood. Cf. COLOR.

mo-rol'o-gy (mō-rŏl'ō-jĭ), n. [Gr. mōrología foolish talk, fr. mōros foolish + logos discourse.] Nonsense; folly. — mo'ro-log'i-cal (mō'rō-lŏj'ĭ-kăl), adj. — -i-cal-ly, adv. — mo-rol'o-gist (mō-rŏl'ō-jĭst), n.

‖mo-rón' (mō-rōn'), n.; pl. -RONES (-rō'nās). [Sp.] Olive Trade. A small, inferior olive from near Morón, Spain.

mo'ron (mō'rŏn), n. [Gr. mōron, neut. of mōros sluggish, dull, stupid (whence L. morus); akin to Skr. mūra.] 1. A moderately feeble-minded person. Most morons can do routine work under supervision, and can be happy with tasks too simple and monotonous to satisfy an intelligent person. See MENTAL DEFICIENCY.
2. Popularly, a very stupid person.
— mo'ron-cy (-sĭ), n. — mo-ron'ic (mō-rŏn'ĭk), adj. — mo'ron-ism (mō'rŏn-īz'm), n. — mo-ron'i-ty (mō-rŏn'ĭ-tĭ), n. — mo'ron-ry (mō'rŏn-rĭ), n.

mo'rong (mō'rŏng), n. [Malay.] A Papuan communal house.

Mo-ro'ni (mō-rō'nĭ), n. According to the Book of Mormon, the last of the Nephite prophets and historians, who buried the gold plates containing their records about 420 A.D., and who, in 1823, as the Angel Moroni, revealed the location of these plates to Joseph Smith. See BOOK OF MORMON.

Mo-ron'i-dae (mō-rŏn'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Morone, type genus + -idae.] Zool. An important family of carnivorous spiny-finned fishes of northeastern North America, Russia, and Siberia, including numerous food and game fishes as the striped bass, yellow bass, white perch, etc.

Mor'o-pus (mŏr'ō-pŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. moron mulberry + opos juice.] Paleontol. A genus of American Miocene perissodactyls of the family Chalicotheriidae.

Mo'ro-sau'rus (mō'rō-sô'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. moro- + -saurus.] Paleontol. A genus of large dinosaurs, of the group Sauropoda, found in Jurassic strata in Colorado and Wyoming. — mo'ro-sau'ri-an (-rĭ-ăn), adj. & n. — mo'ro-sau'roid (-roid), adj. & n.

mo-rose' (mō-rōs'), adj. [LL. morosus, fr. mora delay.]
1. Full of delay; lingering; as, morose delectation. Rare.
2. Civil Law. Chargeable with delay, or mora. Rare.

mo-rose' (mō-rōs'), adj. [L. morosus, prop., excessively addicted to one's own way or habit, fr. mos, moris, manner, habit, way of life. See MORAL.] 1. Of a sour or gloomy temper; sullen; ill-humored.
2. Particular; fastidious; also, difficult to deal with. Obs.
Syn. — Gloomy, crabbed, crusty, surly, moody. See SULLEN. Ant. — Cheerful, contented, gay, blithe.
— mo-rose'ly (mō-rōs'lĭ), adv. — mo-rose'ness, n.

mo-ro'sis (-rō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mōrōsis, fr. mōros silly.] Oriz., idiocy; now, moronity.

mo-ros'i-ty (mō-rŏs'ĭ-tĭ), n. [F. morosité, fr. L. morositas.] Moroseness; surliness; also, an example of it.

mo-rox'ite (mō-rŏk'sĭt), n. [Gr. moroxos a sort of pipe clay.] Mineral. A greenish-blue or bluish variety of apatite.

-morph (-môrf). A combining form, from Greek morphē, form, denoting one characterized by a (specified) form; — in nouns, usually corresponding to adjectives ending in -morphic, or -morphous, as in celeo*morph*, holo*morph*.

-mor'pha (-môr'fä). [NL.] Zool. & Paleontol. A combining form denoting a classification of animals formed like a (specified) type, as in Cetomorpha. Cf. -OIDEA.

-mor'phae (-môr'fē). [NL.] Zool. = -MORPHA; — used to denote a group or division, as in Alectoro*morphae*, Peristero*morphae*. Derivative adjectives are usually formed in -morphic.

mor'phal-lax'is (môr'făl-lăk'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. morph- + Gr. allaxis exchange.] Biol. Regeneration in which a new and smaller individual is modeled from a part of an organism with little or no cell division. Cf. EPIMORPHOSIS.
T. H. Morgan.

mor-phe'a (môr-fē'ä), n. [ML., fr. It. morfea.] Med. An eruption of the skin allied to scleroderma, and characterized by irregular colored patches, of firm texture.

Mor'phe-an (môr'fē-ăn), adj. Of or relating to Morpheus, dreams, or sleep.

mor'pheme (môr'fēm), n. [F. morphème, fr. Gr. morphē.] An element or property of language showing the relations between nouns, verbs, adjectives, and concrete adverbs. It may be a prefix or suffix (John's), a preposition, conjunction, relation adverb, auxiliary or copulative verb, intonation, accentuation, an ablaut variation, or an order of words. Cf. SEMANTEME. — mor-phe'mic (môr-fē'mĭk), adj.

mor-phet'ic (môr-fĕt'ĭk), adj. Of or pert. to sleep.

Mor'pheus (môr'fūs; popularly môr'fē-ŭs; 277), n. [L., as if fr. Gr. Morpheus, prop., the fashioner or molder, because of the shapes he calls up before the sleeper, fr. morphē form, shape.] Gr. Myth. The god of dreams, — a figure of literature rather than of religion. Hence, popularly, the god of sleep.

mor'phew (môr'fū), n. Morphea. — v. t. To cover with a morphea. Both Archaic & Dial.

mor'phi-a (môr'fĭ-ä), n. [NL.] Morphine.

mor'phi-ate (môr'fĭ-āt), v. t. To treat with morphine (morphia) or one of its salts.

-mor'phic (-môr'fĭk). [Gr. morphē form + -ic.] a A combining form meaning characterized by a (specified) type of formation, as in allo*morphic*, xeno*morphic*. Corresponding nouns denoting state are formed in -morphism, -morphy. b See -MORPH. c See -MORPHAE.

mor'phic (môr'fĭk), adj. [Gr. morphē form.] Zool. Pertaining to form; morphological. Rare. — mor'phi-cal-ly (-fĭ-kăl-ĭ), adv. Rare.

mor'phic, adj. Sleepy. Rare.

mor'phine (môr'fēn; -fĭn; 157; 277), n. Also mor'phin. [F. morphine, G. morphin, fr. MORPHEUS.] Chem. A bitter, white, crystalline, narcotic base, $C_{17}H_{19}NO_3$, the principal alkaloid of opium of which it constitutes 7.5 to 15 per cent. Chemically, it is a complex derivative of phenanthrene. In medical properties it resembles opium, but is more powerful and less constipating. Morphine is used as an analgesic, hypnotic, and calmative, chiefly in the form of the sulphate, acetate, and hydrochloride. See OPIUM. — mor-phin'ic (môr-fĭn'ĭk), adj.

mor'phine, v. t. To stupefy with morphine.

morphine meconate. The morphine salt of meconic acid which occurs naturally in opium.

mor'phin-ism (môr'fĭn-īz'm), n. Med. A morbid condition produced by the habitual use of morphine; morphine habit. — mor'phin-ist (-īst), n.

mor'phin-ize (-īz), v. t. To treat with, or subject to the influence of, morphine. — mor'phin-i-za'tion (-ĭ-zā'shŭn; -ĭ-zä'-), n.

mor'phi-no- (môr'fĭ-nō-). A combining form for morphine, as in mor'phi-no-ma'ni-a, mor'phi-no-ma'ni-ac.

mor'phi-o- (môr'fĭ-ō-). A combining form for morphia, as in mor'phi-o-ma'ni-a, mor'phi-o-ma'ni-ac.

-mor'phite (-môr'fĭt). A combining form, -morph + -ite, as in allo*morphite*, pyro*morphite*.

Mor'pho (môr'fō), n. [NL., fr. Gr. Morphō, an epithet of Venus.] Zool. A genus of large, handsome, tropical American butterflies (family Nymphalidae), noted for the very brilliant metallic luster and bright-blue color of the upper surface of the wings.

Morpho (M. helenor).

mor'pho- (môr'fō-), morph-. Comb. form, Greek morpho-, morph-, from morphē, meaning form, used in the senses shape, structure, type, as in morphology, morphometry, morphotropism.

mor'pho-gen'e-sis (môr'fō-jĕn'ē-sĭs), n. [NL., fr. morpho- + -genesis.] Biol. Morphogeny. — mor'pho-ge-net'ic (-jē-nĕt'ĭk), adj.

mor-phog'e-ny (môr-fŏj'ē-nĭ), n. [morpho- + -geny.] Biol. Production or evolution of morphological characters. — mor'pho-gen'ic (môr'fō-jĕn'ĭk), adj.

mor-phog'ra-pher (môr-fŏg'rä-fĕr), n. A portrayer of forms in art; also, a morphographist.

mor-phog'ra-phy (-fĭ), n. [morpho- + -graphy.] Descriptive morphology; also, the phenomena or aspect, as of a region, which it describes. — mor'pho-graph'ic (môr'fō-grăf'ĭk), adj. — mor'pho-graph'i-cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj. — mor-phog'ra-phist (môr-fŏg'rä-fĭst), n.

mor'pho-line (môr'fō-lēn; -lĭn; 157), n. Also -lin. [morphine + 2d -ol.] Chem. An oily, strongly basic liquid, C_4H_9NO, synthetically prepared, and resembling piperidine.

mor'pho-log'i-cal a-nal'o-gy (môr'fō-lŏj'ĭ-kăl). See ANALOGY, 8.

morphological botany. Structural botany.

mor-phol'o-gy (môr-fŏl'ō-jĭ), n. [morpho- + -logy.]
1. a The branch of biology dealing with the form and structure of animals and plants; the science of structural organic types; the study of the forms, relations, metamorphoses, and phylogenetic development of organs apart from their functions. Broadly, morphology includes anatomy, histology, and organography, and also the nonphysiological aspects of cytology and embryology. It is sometimes restricted to external form. The morphology of plants is sometimes called structural botany, their internal morphology being known as plant anatomy (cf. BOTANY, 1). b The features, collectively, comprised in the form and structure of an organism or any of its parts; as, the morphology of an ascus, of a larval instar.
2. The science of structure or form; specif., of language, that branch of linguistic study which deals with the history and functions of inflections and derivational forms.
3. Variation in form considered historically.
4. Geol. The external structure of rocks in relation to the development of erosional forms or topographic features.
5. Phys. Geol. Geomorphology.
— mor'pho-log'ic (môr'fō-lŏj'ĭk), mor'pho-log'i-cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj. — mor'pho-log'i-cal-ly, adv. — mor-phol'o-gist (môr-fŏl'ō-jĭst), n.

mor-phom'e-try (môr-fŏm'ē-trĭ), n. [morpho- + -metry.] Measurement of external form. — mor'pho-met'ri-cal (môr'fō-mĕt'rĭ-kăl), adj.

mor'phon (môr'fŏn), n. [Gr. morphōn, pres. part. of morphoun to form.] Biol. A morphological individual, characterized by definiteness of form. See BION, TECTOLOGY. Haeckel recognized these categories: (1) Plastids or elementary organisms. (2) Organs, antimers, and metamers. (3) Persons (as shoots or buds of plants, and individuals among the higher animals). (4) Corms (stocks or colonies).

mor-phon'o-my (môr-fŏn'ō-mĭ), n. [morpho- + -nomy.] Biol. The laws of morphology. — mor'pho-nom'ic (môr'fō-nŏm'ĭk), adj.

mor-phoph'y-ly (môr-fŏf'ĭ-lĭ), n. [morpho- + Gr. phylē a clan.] That part of phylogeny which deals with form.

mor'pho-plasm (môr'fō-plăz'm), n. [morpho- + -plasm.] Biol. The reticulum as distinguished from the enchylema in protoplasm. — mor'pho-plas'mic (-plăz'mĭk), adj.

mor-pho'sis (môr-fō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. morphōsis form, fr. morphoun to form.] 1. Form; figure. Obs.
2. Biol. Mode of development of an organism or one of its parts.

-mor'pho-sis (-môr'fō-sĭs; -môr-fō'sĭs). A combining form, from Greek morphōsis, a shaping, denoting development or change of form: a Of a (specified) thing, as in cyto*morphosis.* b By a (specified) agency, as in photo*morphosis.* c In a (specified) manner, as in hetero*morphosis.*

mor-phot'ic (môr-fŏt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. morphōtikos fit for forming.] Of or pert. to morphosis; formative; specif., connected with the formation of tissues; as, morphotic proteids.

mor-phot'ro-pism (môr-fŏt'rō-pĭz'm), n. Also mor-phot'ro-py (-pĭ). [morpho- + -tropism, -tropy.] Chem. The modifying influence upon crystal form of change in chemical constitution, esp. of substitution in carbon compounds. — mor'pho-trop'ic (môr'fō-trŏp'ĭk), adj.

-mor'phous (-môr'fŭs). a A combining form, Greek -morphos, from morphē form, meaning formed or shaped of or like, denoting of a (specified) form or shape, as in iso*morphous*, tauto*morphous.* b See -MORPH.

mor'phous (môr'fŭs), adj. Having determinate form.

mor-pun'kee (môr-pŭng'kē), n. [Hind. morpaṅkhī, fr. morpaṅkh peacock feather.] A large, long, ornamental pleasure craft propelled by paddles, formerly used as a state barge in India.

Mor-re'ni-an (mō-rē'nĭ-ăn), or Mor'ren's (mŏr'ĕnz), glands. [After C. F. A. Morren (1807–58), Belgian naturalist.] Zool. The calciferous glands of earthworms.

mor'rhu-ate (mŏr'ū-āt; mōr'ōō-), n. [See MORRHUINE.] Pharm. Any soap obtained by the saponification of cod-liver oil.

mor'rhu-ine (-ēn; -ĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [NL. Morrhua, specific name of the cod (fr. F. morue; cf. ML. morua, moruca) + -ine.] Biochem. A ptomaine, $C_{15}H_{27}N_3$, found in cod-liver oil obtained from putrefied liver.

Mor'rice, Gil (jĭl mŏr'ĭs). The hero of a Scottish ballad.

mor'ric-er (mŏr'ĭ-sĕr), n. A morris dancer. Rare.

Mor'rig-an (mŏr'ē-ăn; g silent), Mor'rig-u (-ōō), n. [MIr. Mor(r)īgain, fr. mor a spirit + rīgain, rīgan, queen. See MARE incubus; RICH.] A war goddess of the ancient Irish. Like Badb, she appears prominently in the epic tales as a demoniac figure, often in the form of a bird or animal and hovering over the battlefield or the slain. Cf. BADB.

mor'ris (mŏr'ĭs), n. More fully morris dance. [From earlier morys, morish, Moorish. See MOOR.] A spectacular, often mumming dance, once commonly performed in England in pageants, processions, and May-day games by men, typically by a group of six men in costume prescribed by tradition, carrying sticks or handkerchiefs, and wearing bunches of bells. Hence, a representation of it; any similar mummery with fantastic dancing.

mor'ris, adj. Pert. to or dancing the morris; dancing.

mor'ris, v. i. To dance; also, Obs., to move off quickly. — v. t. To perform by dancing; to dance.

mor'ris (mŏr'ĭs), n. [From merels, pl., the game. See MEREL.] An old game played with pebbles, disks, or other counters, placed at the angles of a figure which consists of three concentric squares, with lines from the angles of the outer one to those of the inner, and from the middle of each side of the outer square to that of the inner. The game is played by two persons with five, nine, or twelve pieces each (hence called fivepenny morris, nine-men's, or ninepenny, morris, or twelve-men's morris). Each player endeavors to prevent his opponent from making a straight row of three.

Mor'ris, Di'nah (dī'nä mŏr'ĭs). A Methodist field preacher in George Eliot's Adam Bede. She is a young woman of beauty and fine character, and is the real heroine.

Mor'ris, Peter. Pseudonym of J. G. Lockhart in Peter's Letters to his Kinsfolk, published in 1819.

Morris chair. [After William Morris, Eng. artist, but in use before his time.] An easy chair, simple in design, with adjustable back and removable cushions in the seat and back.

morris dance. = 1st MORRIS.

Mor'ri-se'an (mŏr'ĭ-sē'ăn; mŏ-rĭs'ē-ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to William Morris, or the movement toward aestheticism in industrial arts inaugurated by him and his school.

Mor'ri-son for-ma'tion or beds (mŏr'ĭ-sŭn; -s'n). [From Morrison, Colo.] Geol. A series of nonmarine beds, rich in reptilian remains, in and near Colorado. It belongs to the top of the Jurassic, or the base of the Comanchean (Lower Cretaceous) system, and is similar, if not equivalent, to the Como formation or beds of Wyoming, etc.

mor'ris-pike', n. [Cf. MORRIS dance.] Mil. A kind of large pike.

Morris Plan bank. An industrial bank organized to extend character loans in small amounts to wage earners. U. S.

Morris style. Furniture. A simple style developed by Wm. Morris as a protest against overdecoration.

‖mor'ro (mŏr'rō), n. [Sp.] A round hill or point of land; hence, morro castle, a castle on a hill.

mor'row (mŏr'ō), n. [ME. morwe, morwen, fr. AS. morgen. See MORN.] 1. Morning; as, good morrow. Archaic.
2. a The next following day; the day subsequent to any day specified or understood. Lev. vii. 16. b Tomorrow.
3. The time immediately after a specified event.

mor'row, adj. Of or pertaining to the next day.

mor'row, v. i. To become morning; to dawn. Rare.

mor'row-ing (mŏr'ō-ĭng), n. Obs. a Morning. b Putting off till tomorrow.

mor'row-mass' (mŏr'ō-măs'), n. A Mass said early in the morning; daily mass. Obs. exc. Hist.

mor'row-speech' (-spēch'), n. A periodical business meeting of a guild the day after the guild feast. Obs. exc. Hist.

Mors (mōrz), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. Death, as a deity.

mor'sal (môr'săl; -s'l), adj. [L. morsus a biting. See 1st MORSE.] Anat. Designating, or pertaining to, the grinding surface or cutting edge of a tooth.

---

morn'ing-ward, adv. See -WARD. morn'less, adj. See -LESS. morn'like', adj. See -LIKE.
morn'ly, adv. Morningly. Obs. morn'speech', n. = MORROW-SPEECH. Obs.
morn star. = MORNING STAR a. morn'ward (môrn'wĕrd), -wards (-wĕrdz), adv. See -WARD. mo'ro-co'ta (mō'rō-kō'tä), n. [Amer. Sp., fr. Morocoto, a mouth of the Orinoco river, of Amerind origin.] See COIN, Table. [Obs.] mo-ro'so, n. A morose person. mo'ro-soph, n. [F. morosophe, fr. Gr. mōrosophos. Cf. SOPHOMORE.] A learned fool. — mo-ros'o-phist, n. — mo-ros'o-phy, n. All Obs.
morph-. = MORPHO-.
mor-phae'a. Var. of MORPHEA. mor-phe'ous, adj. Pertaining to morphea, a skin disease. Obs.
mor'phi-dite (môr'fĭ-dīt), n. Corrupt. of HERMAPHRODITE. mor'phin-ate (môr'fĭ-nāt), v. t. = MORPHIATE. [-ISM.
-mor'phism. See -MORPHIC, mor'phi-um (môr'fĭ-ŭm), n. [NL.] Morphine. Obs. mor'pho-dite. Corrupt. of HERMAPHRODITE. Colloq.
mor-phoe'a. Var. of MORPHEA.
mor-phot'o-my (môr-fŏt'ō-mĭ), n. = ANATOMY, 1. mor'phrey. Var. of MORFREY.
-morphy. See -MORPHIC.
mor'pi-on, n. [F., fr. mordre to bite + pion foot soldier.] A crab louse. Obs. mor'rey. † MURREY.
Mor'rhu-a (mŏr'ōō-ä), n. [NL. See MORRHUINE.] Zool. Syn. of GADUS. mor'rice. Var. of MORRIS.
Mor'rill Acts (mŏr'ĭl). [After Justin Smith Morrill (1810–98), senator from Vermont.] See LAND-GRANT COLLEGE.
Morrill Tariff. See TARIFF, 1 d. mor'ri-on. † MORION. mor'rot. Var. of MARROT. mor'row-less, adj. See -LESS.
mor'row-tide', n. Morningtide. Obs.

morse (môrs), n. [L. morsus a biting, a clasp. See MORSEL.] A clasp or brooch to fasten a cope in front.

morse (môrs), n. [Lapp morsa.] The walrus.

Morse (môrs), adj. Of or pertaining to a Morse telegraph system or code; — also used loosely of any similar system or code. See RECORDER, TAPPER, TELEGRAPH, etc. — n. The Morse alphabet, Morse telegraph, or the like. Colloq.

morse, v. t. & i. To signal (to) by the Morse alphabet.

Morse alphabet or code. Teleg. The telegraphic alphabet or code, consisting of dots, dashes, and spaces, invented by Samuel F. B. Morse and given below. The duration of one dash is theoretically equal to three dots; the space between the elements of a letter is equal to one dot; the interval in spaced letters, as O - -, is equal to three dots. There are no spaces in any letter composed wholly or in part of dashes. Cf. CONTINENTAL CODE.

A · —	H · · · ·	O - -	V · · · —
B — · · ·	I · ·	P · · · · ·	W · — —
C — · — ·	J · — — —	Q — · — ·	X — · · —
D — · ·	K — · —	R · — ·	Y — · — —
E ·	L · — · ·	S · · ·	Z — — · ·
F · · — ·	M — —	T —	& · — · · ·
G — — ·	N — ·	U · · —
1 · — — —	4 · · · · —	7 — — · · ·
2 · · — — ·	5 · · · · ·	8 — — — · ·
3 · · · — ·	6 — · · · ·	9 — — — ·
0 — — — —	Period · — · — · —	Comma — · · — — mor'sel (môr'sĕl; -sĭl), n. [OF. (F. morceau), fr. mors, fr. L. morsus a biting, bite, fr. mordere to bite. See SMART; cf. MORDANT, REMORSE, SMIRCH.] 1. Orig., a little bite or bit of food; now, a small quantity; a little piece; a fragment; — used also jocularly or contemptuously of a person.

2. a A tasty dish. b A small meal; a bite.

mor'sel, v. t. To divide into or apportion in small parts.

Morse lamp. A flash lamp used for signaling by flashes like the dashes and dots of the Morse code.

mor'sel·ize (môr'sĕl·īz), v. t. To morsel. — mor'sel·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. Both Rare.

Morse taper. Mach. See 1st TAPER, 2.

Morse tapper. See 2d TAPPER d.

mors'ing (môr'sĭng), n. Priming. Scot.

mor'sure (môr'sûr), n. [F., fr. L. mordere, morsum, to bite.] Biting; a bite. Now Rare.

mort (môrt), adj. [F., dead.] Dead; also, fatal; deadly. Obs.

mort, n. [F., death, fr. L. mors, mortis; cf. F. mort dead, fr. L. mortuus.] 1. Death. Obs.

2. Hunting. a The note sounded on the horn at a kill. b A dead stag. c The kill.

3. The skin or fleece of a "morkin." Dial. Eng. & Scot.

4. A dead body or skeleton. Rare.

mort (môrt), n. [Origin uncert.] A salmon in its third year.

mort, n. [Origin uncert.] 1. A woman; female. Cant.

2. A loose woman.

mort, n. Lard; pig's grease. Dial. Eng.

mort (môrt), n. [Perh. fr. MORTAL, adj., 6 a. Cf. MORTAL, adv.] A great quantity or number; a great deal or many; an abundance. Dial.

mort, n. [F., dummy, lit., dead.] A variety of dummy whist for three players; also, the dummy hand in this game.

mor·ta'cious (môr·tā'shŭs), adv. Very; extremely. Dial.

mor'tal (môr'tăl; -tĭl), adj. [OF. mortal, mortel, fr. L. mortalis, fr. mors, mortis, death; akin to L. mori to die. See MURDER; cf. MORBID, MORTGAGE.] 1. Subject to death; destined to die; as, man is mortal; also, Obs., about to die.

2. a Destructive to life; causing or occasioning death; exposing to or deserving death, esp. spiritual death; deadly; fatal; as, a mortal wound, sin (see DEADLY SINS), plague. b So severe as to be thought of as threatening death; as, mortal fear; mortal offense. c Aiming at extermination; fought to the death; as, mortal combat. d Wishing, or involving a wish, to kill; deadly; as, a mortal enemy.

Mortal foes do turn to faithful friends. Spenser.

3. a Human; belonging to man; as, mortal wit, power. b Whatsoever; "earthly"; — an intensive, esp. with negatives. "By no mortal means." B. Jonson.

4. Of or pertaining to death or its occasion; denoting the time or circumstances of death; deathly; relating to, or denoting, deadly agencies, susceptibility to death, etc.; as, the mortal hour; mortal place, a vital spot.

Last of all, against himself he turns his sword, but missing the mortal place, with his poniard finishes the work. Milton.

5. Attended or visited by many deaths; as, a mortal year. Now Rare.

6. a Colloq. Extreme; very great; esp., very tedious; wearisome; as, a sermon lasting two mortal hours. b Chiefly Scot. Mortal, or dead, drunk.

Syn. — See DEADLY, HUMAN. Ant. — Inhuman; immortal.

mor'tal, adv. Mortally; — now rare except, Chiefly Dial., in the sense of "extremely."

Though slight was that grasp so mortal cold. Byron.

mor'tal, n. 1. A being subject to death; a human being.

We mortals cross the ocean of this world. Browning.

2. That which is mortal. 1 Cor. xv. 53, 54.

3. A person; an individual. Humorous.

mor'tal·ist (-ĭst), n. One who holds the soul to be mortal. — mor'tal·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

mor·tal'i·ty (môr·tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. mortalité, fr. L. mortalitas.] 1. Condition or quality of being mortal; subjection to death or to the necessity of dying; as, to put off mortality, to die.

2. The death of large numbers, esp. by war or contagious disease; hence, Obs., a pestilence; also, unusual frequency of death.

3. a The whole sum or number of deaths in a given time or a given community; also, the proportion of deaths to population, or to a specific number of the population; death rate; as, a time of great, or of low, mortality. b Loss, or number lost, in personnel by removal, change of status, etc.

4. Quality of being deadly or, of sin, mortal.

5. Those who are, or that which is, mortal; the human race; humanity; human nature; human life.

Take these tears, mortality's relief. Pope.

6. Mortal part; mortal remains. Rare.

7. Death. Obs. "Here on my knee I beg mortality." Shak.

mortality table. Ins. A table giving the number, l_x, of people out of an arbitrarily selected number of births who have been found to reach the age of x years. It may be constructed from two sources: population statistics and statistics of insured lives. It is called select when the data are for newly medically selected lives; ultimate, when the experience of the first five (or some other number of) years, representing the benefit of medical selection, is eliminated; and aggregate, when the experience of the first five, as well as of subsequent years, is included. The most important mortality tables are as follows:

Name	Basis, Date, Constructor, and Use
actuaries', or combined experience, table*	Experience of 17 British companies; constructed 1838; pub. 1843; in U. S., in connection with insurance written before 1901.
American experience table†	Experience of Mutual Life Ins. Co. of New York; Sheppard Homans; used in U. S.
American men table	Experience of many leading companies during years 1900 to 1915 as ascertained in American-Canadian Mortality Investigation; published 1918; Actuarial Society of America in cooperation with American Institute of Actuaries and National Convention of Insurance Commissioners.
Breslau table	Records kept by the city of Breslau (Silesia) for the five years 1687–91.
British Offices life tables (O^M and O^F tables)‡	Experience of 60 companies for 30 years; 1893; joint commission of the Institute and Faculty of Actuaries; used by many British offices for valuation purposes.
Carlisle table	Statistics of Carlisle, Eng.; 1779–87.
Farr table, No. 3	Observations of entire pop. of Eng.; pub. 1864; Dr. William Farr; no longer used.
Institute of Actuaries' life tables (H^M and H^F tables)§	Experience of 10 English and 10 Scottish companies; pub. 1869, 1872; largely used by British and Canadian companies.
McClintock's tables of mortality among annuitants	Experience of 15 American companies; pub. 1896; E. R. McClintock; adopted as standard of annuity valuation by several States.
National Fraternal Congress table of mortality	Experience of the leading fraternal benefit associations of the United States.
Northampton table	Statistics of Northampton, Eng.; 1735–80.
Thirty American Offices' experience table (Meech table)	Experience of 30 American companies; pub. 1881; L. W. Meech; not used in valuations.

* Assumes that last one of 100,000 persons 10 years of age will die in the 100th year of his age.
† Assumes that last one of 100,000 persons 10 years of age will die in the 96th year of his age.
‡ O^M = Offices Males; O^F = Offices Females.
§ H^M = Healthy Males; H^F = Healthy Females.

mor'tal·ly (môr'tăl·ĭ; -tĭ·lĭ), adv. of MORTAL. Esp.: a In a deadly or fatal manner; so as to cause death; as, mortally wounded. b Very severely; grievously; as, mortally offended. c By way of mortal sin. d In the manner of a mortal. e Collog. Extremely; as, mortally jealous.

mortal mind. Christian Science. Nothing claiming to be something, for Mind is immortal; a belief that life, substance, and intelligence are in and of matter; the opposite of Spirit, and therefore the opposite of God, or good; the belief that man is the offspring of mortals; the belief that there can be more than one creator. Mary Baker Eddy.

mortal sin. R.C.Ch. A serious sin, or a lesser sin aggravated by circumstances, committed deliberately and with full consent of the will. It is called mortal because it involves spiritual death and loss of divine grace; — contrasted with venial sin. Cf. DEADLY SINS.

mor'tar (môr'tĕr), n. [ME. morter, fr. AS. mortere (fr. L.), and fr. OF. mortier, fr. L. mortarium. See 2d MORTAR.] 1. a A strong vessel in which substances are pounded or rubbed with a pestle. b Hence, any similar mechanical device.

Mortars, 1. 1 Porcelain; 2 Iron.

2. A night light, usually either a bowl of oil with a floating wick or a thick candle. Obs. exc. Hist.

3. Obs. a A mortarlike instrument of punishment. b A mortier.

4. [F. mortier, fr. L. mortarium mortar (for triturating).] a Mil. A cannon with a tube short in relation to its caliber, used to throw projectiles with low muzzle velocities at high angles. b A similar cannon used to throw a life line. Cf. LIFESAVING GUN. c Any of various contrivances for throwing pyrotechnic bombs or shells.

5. Ore Dressing. A large cast-iron receptacle in which ore is crushed in a stamp mill; — called also mortar box.

mor'tar, n. [ME. mortier, fr. OF. mortier, fr. L. mortarium mortar, a trough in which mortar is made; akin to Skr. mṛṇāti he grinds, crushes. See SMART; cf. 1st MORTAR.] 1. A plastic building material which hardens, esp. that made by mixing lime, cement, or gypsum plaster with sand, water, and sometimes other materials, used in masonry, plastering, etc.

2. A mixture of fire clay, water, and sand, or other material, used for setting firebrick, etc., in a furnace.

mor'tar (môr'tĕr), v. t.; MOR'TARED (-tĕrd); MOR'TAR·ING. To plaster or make fast with mortar.

mortar bed. Ordn. The support for old smoothbore mortars, consisting of two wrought-iron cheeks to receive the trunnions, connected by transoms, and resting with broad shoes on the platform.

mortar bed. a A shallow box or receptacle in which mortar is mixed. b Geol. A layer of sand or gravel cemented by calcium carbonate and resembling hardened mortar.

mor'tar·board' (môr'tĕr·bōrd'; 181), n. a A small square board with a handle beneath, for holding mortar. b An academic cap with a broad, projecting, square top.

Mortarboard b.

mortar boat or vessel. Naut. A boat adapted to carrying a mortar or mortars for bombarding.

mortar box. = 1st MORTAR, 5.

mor'tar·ware' (môr'tĕr·wâr'), n. A hard stoneware first made by Wedgwood and used in the manufacture of mortars.

mor'tar·y (môr'tĕr·ĭ), adj. Of, full of, or like mortar.

mort'bell' (môrt'bĕl'), n. A funeral bell. Scot.

mort'cloth' (môrt'klôth'; 185), n. A funeral pall; also, a fee for the hire of a pall. Chiefly Scot.

‖mort d'an'ces·tor (môr dăn'sĕs·tĕr). [AF.] Literally, death of the ancestor; — used of an obsolete writ or brieve for the recovery by an heir from an abator of a tenement which his deceased ancestor held in seizin at his death.

mort'-Dieu' (môr'dy'û'), interj. [F.] Literally, God's death; — a French oath.

Morte' d'Ar'thur, Le (lĕ môrt' där'tür'), or Mort Dar'thur (môrt där'thĕr). [From the title in the orig. Caxton edition, Le morte Darthur, 1485, for F. La mort d'Arthur, OF. Le mort Arthure.] The Death of Arthur; — title of a compilation of Arthurian romance in prose made by Sir Thomas Malory about 1470.

mor'ter·sheen (môr'tĕr·shēn), n. [Earlier mortieschein; cf. F. morve glanders, and E. mourning of the chine.] Glanders. Scot.

mort'gage (môr'gĭj), n. [OF., fr. mort dead (fr. L. mortuus) + gage pledge. See MORTAL; GAGE.] 1. Law. At the common law, a conveyance of property, upon condition, as security for the payment of a debt or the performance of a duty, and to become void upon payment or performance according to the stipulated terms. Mortgage was orig. applied, in English real estate law, to a conveyance of land with transfer of possession to the mortgagee, who was entitled to keep the rents and profits without applying them to the debt (whence the name mortgage, Lat. mortuum vadium, dead pledge, as being dead to the mortgagor) and who acquired an indefeasible title to the mortgaged property upon default. Later it became customary for the mortgagor to retain possession, and the mortgagee's defeasible estate in the land was subjected to the equity of redemption and foreclosure rules of the equity courts. Technically, therefore, at common law the mortgagee's interest is an estate in real property; but, without any corresponding changes in the form of conveyance, the estate has long been treated in equity in England and in many States of the United States as personal, the heir or devisee being treated as trustee of the mortgage for the personal representative, and now, by statute, the interest of the mortgagee is made personal property in Great Britain and generally in the United States. Under these conditions, therefore, a mortgage is: a nominally absolute conveyance of property defeasible only upon certain conditions, but actually operating as a lien or charge securing the payment of money or the performance of an obligation so that the mortgagee may, under certain conditions, take possession and may foreclose the property upon default. Cf. EQUITY OF REDEMPTION, PLEDGE, HYPOTHEC, ANTICHRESIS. The following are types of mortgages: construction mortgage, a mortgage the proceeds of which are to be used to finance the construction of a building; installment mortgage, one in which the sum loaned is to be repaid in installments over a period of time; leasehold mortgage, one in which the property pledged is a leasehold interest; participating mortgage, one in which two or more persons have a share; trust mortgage, one made to a trustee, generally to secure an issue of bonds.

2. The instrument by which a mortgage conveyance is made, the state of the property so conveyed, or the interest of the mortgagee therein.

mort'gage, v. t.; MORT'GAGED (-gĭjd); MORT'GAG·ING (-gĭj·ĭng). 1. Law. At common law, to grant or convey by a mortgage; to make a mortgage conveyance of.

2. Hence: To pledge; to subject to a claim or obligation.

Mortgaging their lives to covetise. Spenser.

mortgage bond. See 3d BOND, 14.

mortgage broker. See BROKER.

mortgage debenture. See DEBENTURE c.

mortgage deed. Law. A deed given by way of mortgage.

mort'ga·gee' (môr'gĭ·jē'), n. Law. A person to whom property is mortgaged.

mortgagee clause. Fire Insurance. A clause endorsed on a mortgagor's policy whereby the insurance company agrees to protect the mortgagee's interest regardless of any violation of the policy terms by the mortgagor.

mortgage guaranty insurance. See INSURANCE, n., 1.

mortgage note. A promissory note the payment of which is secured by a mortgage.

mort'ga·gor' (môr'gĭ·jôr'; môr'gĭj·ĕr), n. Also mort'gager (môr'gĭj·ĕr). Law. One who gives a mortgage.

morth (môrth), n. [AS. See MURDER.] Teut. Tribal Law. Any of various unemendable kinds of homicide, apparently originally killing by poison or witchcraft, later by lying in ambush.

morth'wyr'tha (môrth'wĭr'tă), n. [Erroneous for AS. morthwyrhta.] One guilty of morth. Pseudoarchaic.

mor·ti'cian (môr·tĭsh'ăn), n. [L. mors, mortis, death + physician.] A professional undertaker, trained to care for the bodies of the dead.

mor'tier' (môr'tyā'), n. [F., prop., a mortar.] The peculiar headdress, resembling a druggist's mortar, worn by certain high functionaries of the law in France.

mor·tif'er·ous (môr·tĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Deadly; fatal. — mor·tif'er·ous·ly, adv. — mor·tif'er·ous·ness, n. All Rare.

mor·tif'ic (-ĭk), adj. Mortiferous. Rare.

mor'ti·fi·ca'tion (môr'tĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [F., fr. LL. mortificatio a killing. See MORTIFY.] 1. A mortifying, or state of being mortified; as: a Subjection of the passions and appetites, by penance, abstinence, or painful severities inflicted on the body. b Obs. The numbing or deadening of a faculty, sense, quality, or consciousness, as at the approach of death. c Humiliation and chagrin caused esp. by something which wounds one's pride, as a slight.

2. That which mortifies; the cause of humiliation, chagrin, or vexation; as, his blunder was a mortification.

3. Alchemy & Old Chem. Neutralization. Obs.

4. Med. Death and post-mortem change of one part of an animal body, while the rest continues to live; gangrene.

5. Scots Law. A gift corresponding to mortmain.

Syn. — Shame. See VEXATION. Ant. — Pride, self-esteem.

mortification root. Marsh mallow.

mor'ti·fied (môr'tĭ·fīd), part. adj. of MORTIFY. Esp.: a Chastened by mortification (sense 1 a). b Affected by gangrene. c Humiliated; chagrined. d Obs. Dead; deadened. — mor'ti·fied'ly, adv. — mor'ti·fied'ness, n.

mor'ti·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n. One that mortifies.

mor'ti·fy (môr'tĭ·fī), v.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [ME. mortifien, fr. OF. mortifier, fr. LL. mortificare, fr. L. mors, mortis, death + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See MORTAL; -FY.] Transitive: 1. Obs. a To kill; to destroy. b To deaden; to make insensible; to destroy the vigor, strength, vitality, or the like, of.

2. a To deaden by religious or other discipline, as the carnal affections, bodily appetites, or worldly desires; to bring into subjection; to abase; humble. b Now Rare. To render (one) dead to worldliness and sin.

3. To affect with vexation, chagrin, or humiliation; to cause to feel mortification; — chiefly in the passive.

4. To cause (a part of the body) to mortify.

5. Alchemy & Old Chem. To destroy the active powers or essential qualities of; to change by chemical action.

6. Cookery. To subject (meat) to pounding, exposure, aging, etc., in order to make it tender. Obs.

7. Irish Gram. To change by mutation (sense 5 b). Obs.

8. Scots Law. To grant in mortmain.

—, Intransitive: 1. To practice mortification (sense 1 a).

2. To be subdued; to decay, as appetites, desires, etc. R.

3. To lose vitality and organic structure; to gangrene.

Syn. — Humiliate, shame, abash. Cf. ABASE.

‖mors om'ni·bus com·mu'nis. [L.] Death (is) common to all.
Mor'ta, n. [L., fr. Gr. Moirā.] See FATE, 5.
mor'tal·ize, v. t. & i. See -IZE. mor'tal·ness, n. See -NESS. mor'tal·wise', adv. See -WISE. mor'tard. Mortared. Ref. Sp. mor'tar·ize, v. t. See -IZE. mor'tar·less, adj. See -LESS. mor'tar·like', adj. See -LIKE.
mort'blue', Var. of MORBLEU. mor'tel. † MORTAL.
mor'tess. † MORTISE.
mort'gage·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
morther. † MURDER.
mor'tice. Var. of MORTISE. mor'tic·er. Var. of MORTISER.

mor'ti·fy'ing (môr'tĭ·fī'Ĭng), adj. That mortifies. — mor'ti·fy'ing·ly, adv.

Mor'ti·mer (môr'tĭ·mĕr), n. Masc. prop. name.

‖mor'tis cau'sa (môr'tĭs kô'zȧ). [L.] Law. By reason of (impending) death.

mor'tise, mor'tice (môr'tĭs), n. [F. mortaise, fr. OF. mortoise, fr. Ar. murtazz fastened, fixed in.] 1. A cavity, hole, or the like, usually rectangular, into or through which some other part of any arrangement of parts fits or passes; specif., a cavity cut into a piece of timber, or other material, to receive a tenon.

2. Figuratively, that which secures; stable foundation.

3. Her. A square piece of wood with a square hole.

4. Print. A slip, hole, or cavity, made so that an engraving, type, etc., may be inserted for printing.

a Mortise, 1; b Tenon.

mor'tise, mor'tice, v. t.; MOR'TISED, -TICED (-tĭst); MOR'TIS·ING, -TIC·ING (-tĭs·Ĭng). [From MORTISE, n.] 1. To join or fasten securely; specif., to join or fasten by a tenon and mortise.

2. To cut or make a mortise in.

mor'tise (môr'tĭs), v. t. [OF. mortir, fr. mort dead.] Law. To amortize. Obs.

mortise gauge. Carp. A carpenter's tool for scribing parallel lines for mortises.

Mortise Gauge. b Thumbscrew regulating distance between Scribing Points (a); c Sliding Block secured by Screw d.

mortise gear. = MORTISE WHEEL.

mortise joint. A joint made by a mortise and tenon.

mortise lock. A door lock inserted in a mortise.

mor'tis·er, mor'tic·er (môr'tĭ·sĕr), n. a One who mortises. b A woodworking machine for cutting mortises; also, its tender.

mortise wheel. Mach. A cast-iron wheel, with wooden teeth inserted in mortises.

mort'ling (môrt'lĭng), n. [Cf. MORKIN.] Wool taken from a dead sheep. Archaic.

mort'main (môrt'mān), n. [OF. mortemain (F. main-morte), fr. ML. mortua manus. See MORTAL; MANUAL. Cf. AMORTIZE.] Law. a Literally, dead hand; hence, the hand or possession of ecclesiastical corporations, ecclesiastics being in the early law deemed civilly dead; later, the possession of, or tenure by, any corporation which, by reason of the nature of corporations, may be perpetual. See STATUTES OF MORTMAIN. b A license from the sovereign to alienate lands in mortmain.

mort'main (môrt'mān), v. t. To alienate in mortmain. — mort'main·er (môrt'mān·ĕr); môrt·mān'ĕr), n.

mort note. = 2d MORT, 2 a.

‖mor·tor'io (môr·tôr'yō), n. [It.] A group of sculpture in which the dead body of Christ is the principal figure.

mor'tu·ar'y (môr'tū·ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). [ML., mortuarium. See MORTUARY, adj.] 1. A customary gift to the priest of a parish from the personal estate of a person dying in the parish or to a priest's superior from the estate of a priest; a corsepresent. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. Obs. a A funeral; funeral rites. b A sepulcher.

3. A deadhouse; a morgue.

mor'tu·ar'y, adj. [L. mortuarius, fr. mortuus dead. See MORTAL.] Of or pertaining to the burial of the dead; also, of, pertaining to, or connected with, death or mourning for the dead; as, mortuary emblems, monuments.

mor'tu·ous (môr'tū·ŭs), adj. [L. mortuus dead.] Deathlike. Rare.

mor'u·la (môr'ū·lȧ; -ōō·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [NL., dim. of L. morum a mulberry.]

1. Med. Any mulberry-shaped excrescence, as one of the lesions of yaws.

2. Embryol. The globular mass of cells (blastomeres) formed by cleavage of the egg of many animals in its early development. A typical morula has no central cavity. See SEGMENTATION.

Morula of Starfish (Asterias forbesii), much enlarged.

— mor'u·lar (-lĕr), adj. — mor'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. — mor'u·loid (môr'ū·loid; -ōō·loid), adj.

Mo'rus (mō'rŭs; 181), n. [L., mulberry tree. See MULBERRY.] Bot. A genus of trees, the mulberries, typifying the family Moraceae, having mostly dentate or lobed leaves and spicate flowers, forming a multiple fleshy fruit. M. alba, the white mulberry, M. nigra, the black mulberry, and M. rubra, the red mulberry, are planted as shade trees, the first also as food for silkworms. See MULBERRY.

Mor'ven (môr'vĕn), n. In the poems of Ossian, the mythical kingdom which Fingal rules.

mor'vin (môr'vĭn), n. [F. morve glanders.] Mallein.

mor'wong' (môr'wŏng'), n. [Native name.] Any of several Australian spiny-finned marine food fishes, esp. Dactylosparus carponemus and Cheilodactylus fuscus (the latter called red morwong), and the jackass fish. They closely resemble the Serranidae.

Mo·sa'ic (mō·zā'ĭk), adj. [NL. Mosaicus, fr. L. Moses Moses; cf. F. mosaïque.] Of or pertaining to Moses, the leader of the Israelites, or the institutions or writings attributed to him; as, the Mosaic law.

mo·sa'ic, n. [F. mosaïque, fr. It. mosaico, fr. ML. musaicus, adj., fr. Gr. Mouseios belonging to the Muses. See MUSE; cf. MUSEUM.] 1. Fine Arts. A surface decoration made by inlaying in patterns small pieces of variously colored glass, stone, or other material; also, the process of making it. In ancient mosaic, the following kinds have been distinguished: Opus tesselatum, work in cubes, arranged in simple geometric patterns; opus vermiculatum, work in small stones which may be arranged in patterns of curved lines, often forming actual pictures; opus musivum, mosaic decoration of walls, in which glass was often used; opus sectile, a sort of inlaying using larger stones than ordinary mosaic.

One style of Mosaic.

2. A picture or design made in mosaic; an article decorated in mosaic.

3. Something likened to mosaic, as a literary composition.

4. A detail photograph formed by matching a number of photographs of contiguous parts taken from the air.

5. Arch. Drawing. In a plan drawing, anything shown between wall masses, or poché, as floor patterns.

6. a Biol. A mosaic hybrid. b Bot. A leaf mosaic.

7. Also mosaic disease. Plant Pathol. Any of certain virus diseases of plants characterized by the pale-spotting or mottling of the foliage, and transmitted through seeds, tubers, and cuttings, or by means of insect carriers, as aphids. See POTATO MOSAIC.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

mosaic-drawn, mosaic-floored, mosaic-paved.

mo·sa'ic (mō·zā'ĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, mosaic; as: a Tessellated; variegated. b Composed of various materials or ingredients. c Biol. Of or pertaining to mosaic inheritance or to a mosaic hybrid. d Petrog. Having a texture resembling a mosaic; — called also granoblastic. e Plant Pathol. Affected with mosaic.

mo·sa'ic (mō·zā'ĭk), v. t.; -ICKED (-ĭkt); -ICK·ING. To form by or as by inlaying as in mosaic; to inlay or combine as in mosaic work; also, to decorate with mosaic work.

Mo·sa'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Mosaic, or pert. to, or resembling, Mosaic institutions, customs, or the like. Now Rare.

mo·sa'i·cal, adj. = MOSAIC, adj. — mo·sa'i·cal·ly, adv.

mosaic binding. A full-leather bookbinding with inlaid colored designs; — called also inlaid binding.

mosaic dwarf. = CURLY DWARF a.

mosaic gold. a Stannic sulphide, SnS_2, obtained as a yellow scaly crystalline powder, and used as a pigment; — called also aurum musivum, or aurum mosaicum (alchemical names), and bronze powder. b Ormolu.

mosaic hybrid. Biol. A hybrid which exhibits certain alternative (allelomorphic) characters of both parents in juxtaposition unblended, as when a hybrid between a white and a red carnation produces white flowers streaked or mottled with red. See ALLELOMORPH.

mosaic inheritance or heredity. Biol. The inheritance of alternative (allelomorphic) parental characters.

mo·sa'i·cist (mō·zā'ĭ·sĭst), n. A designer of mosaics, or a workman who makes them; also, a dealer in mosaics.

Mo'sa·ic'i·ty (mō'zā·ĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Mosaic origin.

Mosaic law. Bib. The ancient law of the Hebrews, moral and ceremonial, attributed to Moses. See LAW, 8.

mosaic theory. a Zool. The theory that each crystalline cone in the compound eye of an arthropod receives and transmits to the brain but a portion of an image, the portions being combined by the brain into a picture of the whole. Hence, mosaic vision. b Embryol. A theory that each portion of the protoplasm of an egg has its function in forming a special part of the embryo.

mosaic work. = MOSAIC, n., 1. — mosaic worker. — mosaic working.

Mo'sa·ism (mō'zā·Ĭz'ĭm), n. The religious and legal system prescribed by, or attributed to, Moses; attachment to the system or doctrines of Moses; that which is peculiar to the Mosaic system or doctrines.

Mo'sa·ist (-ĭst), n. One who believes the Mosaic history of the Creation.

mo'sa·ist (mō'zā·ĭst), n. A mosaicist.

mo·san'drite (mō·zăn'drĭt), n. [After K. G. Mosander (1797–1858), of Stockholm.] Mineral. A silicate of the cerium metals.

Mo'sa·sau'ri·a (mō'sȧ·sô'rĭ·ȧ; mōs'ȧ-), Mo'sa·sau'ri (-rĭ), n. pl. [NL. See MOSASAURUS.] The Pythonomorpha. — mo'sa·saur (mō'sȧ·sôr; mōs'ȧ-), n. — mo'sa·sau'ri·an (-sô'rĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

Mo'sa·sau'rus (mō'sȧ·sô'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. Mosa the river Meuse (on which Maastricht is situated, near which the first known species was discovered) + -saurus.] Paleontol. The typical genus of Pythonomorpha, known from the upper Cretaceous of Europe and the United States. The genus typifies a family, Mo'sa·sau'ri·dae (-sô'rĭ·dē). — mo'sa·sau'rid (-rĭd), n. — mo'sa·sau'roid (-roid), adj.

Mo'sa·te'nan (mō'sȧ·tē'năn), adj. Pertaining to or designating a minor linguistic family of Indians, comprising two tribes, the Chimanes and the Mosetenas, of Bolivia.

mos'chate (mŏs'kāt), adj. [NL. moschatus, fr. ML. moschus musk. See MUSK.] Having the odor of musk; musky.

mos'cha·tel' (mŏs'kȧ·tĕl'; mŏs'kȧ·tĕl), n. [F. moscatelle, fr. It. moscatella. See MUSCATEL, MUSK.] A small herb (Adoxa moschatellina) of the North Temperate Zone, with greenish-white musk-scented flowers.

moschatel family. The Adoxaceae.

mos'cha·tel'line (mŏs'kȧ·tĕl'ĭn), adj. Designating an oil based on musk and nutmeg; also, moschate. Obs.

Mos'chi (mŏs'kī), n. pl. An ancient people of the Caucasus district, the Meshech of the Scriptures.

mos·chif'er·ous (mŏs·kĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [ML. moschus musk + -ferous.] Producing musk.

Mos'chus (mŏs'kŭs), n. [NL. See MUSK.] Zool. The genus consisting of the musk deer which constitutes a subfamily of Cervidae, the Mos·chi'nae (mŏs·kĭ'nē), sometimes ranked as a family, Mos'chi·dae (mŏs'kĭ·dē). — mos'chine (mŏs'kĭn; -kīn; 156), adj.

Mos'cow (mŏs'kō), n. a Capital of Soviet Russia. b Figuratively, the government of Soviet Russia.

mose in the chine (mōz). In Shakespeare's Taming of the Shrew, III. ii. 51, a corruption of mortersheen, glanders, apparently influenced by the dialect word mose, to mold, rot.

Mo·selle' (mō·zĕl'), n. Wine made in the valley of the Moselle from Trier to Coblenz, and in the valleys of its tributaries, the Saar and the Ruwer. See RHINE WINE.

Mo'ses (mō'zĭz; -zĭs; 119), n. [L. Moses, Moyses, fr. Gr. Mōsēs, Mōysēs, fr. Heb. Mōsheh, perh. fr. Egypt. mesu child.] 1. Masc. proper name. F. Moïse (mō'ēz'); It. Mosè (mō'ē·zā'); Sp. Moisés (-sās'); Pg. Moises (-zāsh'); G. Moses (mō'zĕs). — Dim. Mose (mōz).

2. Bib. The great Hebrew prophet and lawgiver who led the Israelites from Egypt through the wilderness to Canaan.

3. Figuratively, a leader; also, a meek man. Num. xii. 3.

4. A colossal (seated) statue of Moses by Michelangelo, now in the church of San Pietro in Vincoli, at Rome.

5. [not cap.] A broad, flat ship's boat formerly used in the West Indies.

mo'ses·ite (mō'zĭz·Īt; mō'zĭs-), n. [After Alfred J. Moses, of Columbia Univ.] Mineral. A mercury-ammonium compound containing chlorine and sulphur.

Mo'ses' law (mō'zĭz; -zĭs; 119). Thirty-nine lashes; — an old pirates' phrase. See Deut. xxv. 3.

Moses Primrose. See PRIMROSE, MOSES.

mo'sey (mō'zĭ), adj. [ME. mosy, fr. mos moss. See MOSS; cf. MOSSY.] 1. Hairy; esp., having soft hair like down. Obs. exc. Dial.

2. Moldy or rotten, as overripe fruit. Dial.

mo'sey (mō'zĭ), v. i. [Perh. fr. VAMOSE.] To go or move in a strolling, shuffling manner; esp., to depart; — usually with out, off, along, etc. Slang, U. S.

Mos'gu (mŏs'goō), n. sing. & pl. Also Mus'gu (mŭs'-). A numerous family of Negro tribes of the Sudan, south of Lake Chad. They are mostly fetishists.

mos'ke·neer' (mŏs'kē·nēr'), v. t. [Yiddish, fr. NHeb. mashkōn pledge.] To pawn (an article) for more than its worth to a pawnbroker. — n. = MOSKER. Both Slang, Eng.

mosk'er (mŏs'kĕr), n. One who moskeneers. Slang, Eng.

mosk'er, v. i. To decay; to molder. Obs. exc. Dial.

Mos'lem (mŏz'lĕm; -lĕm; mŏs'-; 277), n.; pl. Mos'LEMS (-lĕmz; lĕmz), or collectively MOSLEM. [Ar. muslim a believer in the faith established by Mohammed, fr. aslama to surrender (to God). Cf. ISLAM, MUSSULMAN, SALAAM.] A Mussulman; an orthodox Mohammedan.

Mos'lem, adj. Of or pertaining to the Mohammedans.

Mos'lem·ah (mŏz'lĕ·mä; mŏs'-), n. pl. Moslems. Scott.

Mos·lem'ic (mŏz·lĕm'ĭk; mŏs-), adj. Moslem.

Mos'le·min (mŏz'lĕ·mĕn; mŏz'lĕ·mĕn'), n. pl. [Ar. muslimīn, gen. pl. See MUSSULMAN.] Moslems; — also, erroneously, as a sing., a Moslem.

Mos'lem·ism (mŏz'lĕm·Īz'ĭm; mŏs'-), n. Mohammedanism.

Mos'lem·ite (mŏz'lĕm·Īt; mŏs'-), n. & adj. Moslem.

mos'lings (mŏz'lĭngz), n. pl. Thin shreds of leather shaved off in dressing skins.

mosque (mŏsk), n. Also mosk. [F. mosquée, fr. It. moschea, fr. Ar. masjid, pron. masqid in North Africa, fr. sajada to bow down, adore.] An Islamic place of public religious worship; a masjid. — the mosque. The collective body of worshipers in mosques.

Mosque of Omar, Jerusalem. See also MIHRAB, MINARET, MOORISH ARCHITECTURE, Illustr.

mosque swallow. Any of certain swallows of Asia and northern Africa, which commonly nest about buildings.

mos·qui'tal (mŭs·kē'tăl; -t'l), adj. Pertaining to, or transmitted by, mosquitoes.

mos·qui'to (mŭs·kē'tō), n.; pl. -TOES (-tōz). [Sp., fr. mosca fly, fr. L. musca. See MUSKET.] Any of certain insects (order Diptera) of the family Culicidae, having a rather narrow abdomen, usually a long and slender but firm proboscis, and narrow wings with a fringe of scales on the margin, and commonly on each side of the wing veins. The males have featherlike antennae, and the mouth parts are not fitted for piercing, but the females have slender antennae, and a set of needlelike organs in the proboscis with which they puncture the skin of animals to suck up their blood. In most species the eggs are laid on the surface of stagnant water, often in raftlike masses. The larvae (called wigglers from their peculiar motions in swimming) are aquatic, but come to the surface to breathe, and the pupae float at the surface. Many species pass through several generations in the course of a year and hibernate as adults; others overwinter in the egg stage. Some mosquitoes are the only instruments in the dissemination of certain diseases (see MALARIA, YELLOW FEVER). In most northern temperate regions the common mosquitoes are of the genera Culex and Aëdes. Other important genera are Anopheles, Psorophora, and Mansonia. Cf. GNAT.

Mosquito (Culex pungens). Adult Female, enlarged.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

mosquito-bitten, mosquito-bred, mosquito-free.

Mos·qui'to, n. [Sp., fr. Mosquito Miskito Indian.] An Indian of a group of closely related tribes, constituting a distinct stock, inhabiting the Mosquito Coast in Honduras and Nicaragua. Their languages constitute a linguistic family, the Mos·qui'to·an fam'i·ly (-ăn).

mos·qui'to. Var. of MESQUITA.

mosquito bar. A mosquito net.

mosquito bee. Any of certain small stingless honeybees of the genus Melipona or Trigona. See ANGELITO, KARBI.

mos·qui'to·bill' (mŭs·kē'tō·bĭl'), n. The flower of a Californian shooting star (Dodecatheon hendersonii); also, the plant.

mosquito blight. a A bug of the genus Helopeltis (family Miridae), esp. H. theivora of southern Asia. b A disease of the tea plant caused by its punctures.

mos·qui'to·ey (mŭs·kē'tō·Ĭ), adj. Full of mosquitoes.

mosquito fish. Any of a large number of small fishes used to exterminate mosquito larvae, esp. the gambusia.

---

mor'tis. Mortise. Ref. Sp. mort'lake. n. [From Mortlake, Eng.] A make of tapestry. Obs. mort'pay' (môrt'pā'), n. [OF. mort-paye an old soldier retired from active service, lit., deadpay.] Deadpay. Obs.
mor'tre. ✝ MORTAR.
mort'reux. ✝ MORTREWES. mor'trewes, n. pl. Also mor'tress. [OF. mortreux, mortereus, nom. sing. or acc. pl. of mortreul a kind of broth, porridge. Cf. 1st MORTAR.] A kind of stew or thick soup. Obs.
mortual. ✝ MORTAL. [ARY.]
mor'tu·ar'i·an, adj. = MORTU‖mor'tu·um va'di·um. [ML.] See MORTGAGE. mor'ule, n. = MORULA. morw. MORROW. ✝ MORROW.
morwen, morwene. ✝ MORN. morwenspeche. Var. of MORROWSPEECH. Obs. moryn. ✝ MORION, MORN, MURRAIN. mosch. (mŏs), n., sing. of MORES.
Mo·sa'bab (mō·sā'bĭb). D. Bib. mos'car·di'no (mŏs'kär·dē'nō), n.; pl. -DINI (-nē). [It.] A confection containing musk for the breath. Obs.
mos'ca·tel. Var. of MUSCATEL. mosch. ✝ MOSQUE, MUSK. moschite. ✝ MESQUITA. [VITE.]
Mos'co·vite. Var. of MUSCOVITE.
Moscow International. See INTERNATIONAL, n., 2.
Mose (mōz), n. Dim of MOSES.
mose. ✝ MOOSE, MOSS.
Mo·se'ra, -rah (mō·sē'rȧ; mō'sē·rē). Bib. [-rōth). Bib.
Mo·se'roth (mō·sē'rōth; mō'sē·-)
Mo'ser's im'ag·es (mō'zĕrz Ĭm'ĭj·ĕz; -Ĭz). Physics = IONIC FIGURES. [= OYSTER PLANT c.] Mo'ses-in-the-bul'rush'es, n.
Mo·se·te'na (mō'sē·tē'nȧ), n. See MOSATENAN. [MOSATENAN.] Mo'se·te'nan (-năn). Var. of mo·sette' (mō·zĕt'), n. = MOZ-ZETTA. [of MOSQUE.] moak (mōsk). Var. & Ref. Sp.
Mos·kva' (mŏs·kvä'), n. See Borodino, under BATTLE, Table.
Mos'lem·ize, v. t. See -IZE.
Mo·sol'lam (mō·sŏl'ăm). Bib.
Mo·sol'la·mi'a (-ȧ·mĭ'ȧ). D. Bib.
Mo·sol'la·mon (-ȧ·sŏl'ȧ·mŏn), -mus (-mŭs). Bib.
Mo·sol'la·moth (-mŏth; -mōth). D. Bib. [SAURUS.] Mo'so·sau'rus. Var. of MOSA-mosque'let, n. Dim of MOSQUE. mos'quet. ✝ MUSKET.
mos·quet'to, n. A mosque. Obs.
mosqu'ish, adj. See -ISH.
mos·quit', mos·qui'to. Vars. of MESQUITE. mos·qui'to·cide (mŭs·kē'tō·sīd), n. See -CIDE. — mos·qui'to·cid'al (-sĭd'ăl), adj.

---

mosquito fleet. An aggregation of comparatively small vessels associated in some way, as the smaller coasting vessels of a port, the torpedo boats of a navy or fleet, etc.
mosquito hawk. a A dragonfly; — because it captures and feeds upon mosquitoes. b Local, U. S. A nighthawk. mosquito net. A net, screen, or curtain for excluding mosquitoes. — mosquito netting.
mosquito plant. a An Asiatic vine (Cynanchum acuminatifolium) whose flowers sometimes entrap small insects; — called also mosquito trap. b Any plant of real or supposed efficacy in driving away mosquitoes, as the mint Ocimum viride, pennyroyal, etc.
Mosquito State. New Jersey; — a nickname. moss (mŏs; 185), n. [ME. mos, fr. AS. mos a marshy place; akin to AS. mēos moss, D. mos, G. moos, OHG. mos, mios, ON. mosi, L. muscus, OSlav. mŭchŭ. See 1st MOTHER; cf. LITMUS, MIKE, MUSHROOM.] 1. a Chiefly Scot. & N. of Eng. A bog; a morass; a swamp; esp., a peat bog, as on the Scottish border. b Spongy soil; bog.
2. a Any bryophytic plant of the class Musci, characterized by the small, leafy, often tufted stems bearing sex organs (antheridia and archegonia) at the tips. The fertilized egg cell (oöspore) develops into the sporophyte, a naked stalked capsule usually opening by means of a lid (operculum) and containing asexual spores. The asexual spores, on germination, give rise to the gametophyte which in most mosses consists of a branching filamentous embryonic structure (protonema) on which the leafy moss plant originates by budding. Mosses are found in all parts of the world growing on earth or rocks, the bark of trees, or rarely in streams. b A mat or clump in which the individual plants of a species occur. See MUSCI, BRYOPHYTA, ALTERNATION OF GENERATIONS.

Moss (Mnium hornum). 1 Plant with Theca still covered by Calyptra (c); 2 Plant with ripe Sporogonium. s Seta; th Theca or Capsule; o Operculum; rh Rhizoids. Nat. size.

3. Hence: a Any of numerous mosslike lichens, esp. those of economic importance, as Iceland moss, rock moss, etc. b Any of several pteridophytic plants of a mosslike habit or form, as club mosses (Lycopodium), species of Selaginella, etc. c Any of several flowering plants of the genera Eriophorum, Portulaca, Ranunculus, or Sedum; — usually of low stature or cushionlike habit. d Long moss. e Rare. Seaweed.
4. Money; — in allusion to the proverb, "A rolling stone gathers no moss." Slang.
5. a A mossy outgrowth or covering, as on the moss rose. b A moss rose. c A mosslike incrustation; as, a moss of ashes.
6. The color old moss green.
7. Formerly, a mosslike sweetened confection of paste.
☞ COMBINATIONS (in various senses) are:
moss-begrown moss-clad moss-inwoven moss-bordered moss-covered moss-lined moss-brown, adj. moss-crowned moss-woven
— the mosses. See MOSSTROOPER. moss (mŏs; 185), v. t.; MOSSED (mŏst); MOSS'ING. To cover, overgrow, or fill in, with moss; also, to remove moss from. — v. i. To become mossy; also, to gather moss.
moss agate. Mineral. A variety of agate, containing brown, black, or green mosslike or dendritic markings, due in part to oxide of manganese; — called also Mocha stone.
moss animal or animalcule. A bryozoan. moss'back' (mŏs'băk'), n. 1. An old fish, turtle, or the like, having a mosslike growth, as of seaweed, on the back.
2. [cap.] In the Civil War, a Southerner who hid, esp. in swamps, to avoid conscription. U. S.
3. A person likened to a stone or old tree covered with moss; specif., an extremely conservative partisan in politics. Slang, Chiefly U. S.
moss'–backed', adj. 1. Having a mosslike growth on the back; overgrown with moss.
2. Sluggish in thought or life; behind the times. Slang.
moss'ber'ry (-bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr-ĭ), n. The European cranberry.
moss'–bound', adj. 1. Boggy; — of land.
2. Addicted to old-fashioned ways; hidebound. U. S. moss'bunk'er (mŏs'bŭngk'ĕr), n. [D. marsbanker. Cf. BUNKER mossbunker.] The menhaden. moss bush. = MOSS PLANT b.
moss campion. A mosslike campion (Silene acaulis) with purple flowers, found esp. within the Arctic Circle.
moss capsule. Bot. The theca or spore case of a moss.
moss cheeper. a The meadow pipit. See PIPIT. b The reed bunting (Emberiza schoeniclus). moss coral. A bryozoan.
moss corn. = SILVERWEED a.
moss crop. Cotton grass. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
moss duck. The mallard. Local, Eng.
mossed (mŏst; 185), adj. Overgrown with moss.
moss'er (mŏs'ĕr), n. One who gathers or works with moss.
moss'er-y (mŏs'ĕr-ĭ), n. A place where mosses are grown.
Moss'es from an Old Manse (mŏs'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). A collection of tales (1854) by Hawthorne. moss fern. See FERN, Table.
moss fruit. See SPOROGONIUM.
moss gold. Gold in dendritic forms. moss gray. A color, yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR. — moss'–gray', adj.
moss green. A color, greenish-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance; — called also mousse. Cf. COLOR. — moss'–green' (66), adj.
moss'–grown', adj. Overgrown with moss; antiquated. moss hag. A pit or slough in a marshy place; esp., a place where peat has been cut. Chiefly Scot.
moss hammer. The European bittern. Local, Eng. moss'head' (mŏs'hĕd'), n. The hooded merganser. U. S.
Mos'si (mŏs'ē), n. sing. & pl. A Negro tribe of west central Sudan, largely pagan, and related to the Mandingo; also, their language. See MOLE. moss locust. = ROSE ACACIA a. Local, U. S.
‖mos'so (mŏs'sō), adj. [It., past part. of muovere to move.] Music. Literally, moved; rapid; — used in directions; as, meno mosso, less rapid.
moss owl. The short-eared owl. Local, Eng. & Scot.
moss pink. A low, tufted, mosslike plant (Phlox subulata) of the eastern United States, with pink or white flowers. moss plant. a A moss; — applied esp. to the leafy gametophyte. b A small mosslike heath (Cassiope hypnoides), family Ericaceae, of arctic regions, having delicate bell-shaped white flowers.
moss polyp. A bryozoan. moss rose. 1. a A variety (Rosa centifolia muscosa) of the cabbage rose, having a glandular, mossy calyx and flower stalk. b A false mallow (Malvastrum coccineum) of the western United States, with racemose red flowers.

Moss Rose, 1 a.

2. A color, red in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.
moss rush. A European rush (Juncus squarrosus). moss silver. Silver in dendritic or filiform shapes.
moss'troop'er (mŏs'trōōp'ĕr), n. [moss + trooper.] One of a class of 17th-century marauders or freebooters that infested the border country between England and Scotland, called the mosses from its mossy or boggy character; hence, a freebooter. — moss'troop'er-y (mŏs'trōōp'ĕr-ĭ), n. — -troop'ing, n. & adj.
moss'wort' (mŏs'wŭrt'), n. A moss; also, any bryophyte. moss'y (mŏs'ĭ; 185), adj.; MOSS'I-ER (-Y-ĕr); MOSS'I-EST.
1. Marshy; boggy. Scot. & N. of Eng.
2. Overgrown, covered, abounding, or edged, with moss or something like moss; downy; as, mossy trees or streams.
3. Resembling moss; as, mossy green.
4. Stupid; dull. Old Slang.
moss'y–cup' oak. The bur oak (Quercus macrocarpa). mossy saxifrage. A low, tufted perennial herb (Saxifrage hypnoides) of the mountains of Europe, often cultivated for its white flowers.
mossy stonecrop. The common stonecrop (Sedum acre). mossy zinc. See ZINC, n., 1.
most (mōst), adj.; superl. of MORE. [ME. most, mast, mest, fr. AS. mǣst; akin to D. meest, OS. mēst, G. meist, ON. mestr, Goth. maists; a superl. corresponding to E. more, which has influenced the vowel. See MORE.] 1. Greatest in number, quantity, size, or extent; — often as superlative of many, much; as, he having the most speed.
2. Greatest in degree; as, he has the most need of it.
3. Highest in importance, power, rank, or the like. Obs.
4. The greatest number, amount, or quantity of; nearly all; as, most men; most problems.
— for the most part. In most cases; in the main.
most (mōst), adv. [AS. mǣst. See MOST, adj.] 1. In the greatest or highest degree or to the greatest extent: a With a verb, participle, or phrase; as, those most his favorites. b With an adjective or adverb (equivalent to -est) to form the superlative degree; as, most wicked; most rapidly. See COMPARE, v. t., 3. "The most unkindest cut of all." Shak.
2. For the most part; mostly; chiefly. Obs.
3. [Short for almost.] Almost; nearly. Now Colloq. & Dial.
— most an end. Generally; continually; also, almost at an end. Dial. "She sleeps most an end." Massinger.
-most (-mōst; in familiar words, as foremost, also commonly -mŭst). [AS. -mest, a double superlative ending, = ma (as in AS. forma first, meduma midmost; cf. L. -mus) + -est. Influenced by most, adj.] A suffix forming superlatives chiefly of adjectives and adverbs, as in after*most*, ut*most*, hinder*most*, top*most*. Cf. -MORE.
most (mōst), n. 1. The greatest or most important. Archaic.
2. The greatest or largest quantity, amount, or the like; as, the one who bids most; the most that he effected.
3. a The greatest number or part; preponderating portion; — with of and you usually without the. "The most of my patrons." Stevenson. b Most persons; the general; as, cleverer than most.
4. The utmost; greatest possible amount, value, degree, result, etc.; esp. in the phrases at the most, at most.
A quarter of a year, or some months at the most. Bacon.
most (mōst). Contraction of almost. Dial. & Colloq.
most. Past tense of MOTE. Obs.
Most Catholic Majesty. An epithet formerly bestowed upon the reigning king of Spain.
Most Christian King. An epithet bestowed from early times upon the reigning king of France.
most'–fa'vored–na'tion clause. Diplomacy. A clause, often inserted in treaties, by which a nation binds itself to grant to another nation in certain stipulated matters the same terms as are then, or may be thereafter, granted to any other nation. Such clauses may be reciprocal, requiring that concessions between signatory states be at all times equal, or imperative and unconditional, offering no compensating privileges in return. Cf. RECIPROCITY, 2.
Most High, the. The Supreme Being; God.
Most Honorable. See HONORABLE, 4.
Mös'ting (mûs'tĭng), n. [After Mösting, Ger. astronomer.] Astron. A lunar crater, 3,000 feet deep, very sharply defined.
most'like' (mōst'lĭk'), adv. Very likely. Chiefly Dial. most'lings (-lĭngz), adv. Mostly. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
most'ly (mōst'lĭ), adv. 1. For the greatest part; chiefly.
2. Most; in or to the greatest degree or extent. Obs.
3. Almost. Illit. most'what' (mōst'hwŏt'), adv. & adj. Generally; for the most part. Obs.
Mo'sul' (mō'sōōl'), n. Any of various Kurdish rugs marketed in Mosul. See KURDISTAN. mot (mōt; mō), n. [F. See MOTTO; cf. MOTET.] 1. (pron. mōt) a Obs. A motto; a device. b Obs. A word. c Dial. An opinion.
2. (pron. mō) A pithy or witty saying. A Gallicism.
3. (pron. mōt). [OF.] A note or brief strain of a bugle or horn. Archaic.
mot (mŏt), n. [F. motte hillock, (Cotgrave) a butt to shoot at. See MOTE hill.] A mark, esp. at quoits. Dial. mot (mŏt). Var. of MOAT. Now Dial.
Mo'ta-cil'li-dae (mō'tȧ-sĭl'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. motacilla wagtail.] Zool. A family of oscine birds of which Mo'ta-cil'la (-ȧ) is the type genus. It contains the wagtails, subfamily Mo'ta-cil-li'nae (-sĭ-lĭ'nē), and pipits, subfamily Anthinae. — mo'ta-cil'lid (-sĭl'ĭd), n. & adj. — mo'ta-cil'line (-lĭn; -līn; 156), adj.
mo'ta-to'ri-ous (mō'tȧ-tō'rĭ-ŭs; 181), adj. [L. motare, motatum, to keep moving.] Zool. Keeping in almost constant motion, as certain insects and spiders. Also mo'ta-to'ry (mō'tȧ-tō'rĭ).
mote. ✝ MOIST, MOST, MUST.
moste. Past tense of MOTE. mostick. ✝ MAULSTICK. most'ness, n. See -NESS.
‖mos'tra (mōs'trȧ), n. [It.] Music. = DIRECT, n. mo'sy. Var. of MOSEY.
mot. ✝ MOOT, MOTE, MUST.
mo'ta. Var. of MUTA.
‖mot' à mot' (mō'-tȧ mō'). [F.] Word for word; verbatim.
‖mot' de l'é'nigme' (mō' d' lȧ'nēg'm'). [F.] The word which is the subject of the enigma and is to be guessed.
mote. ✝ MOT, MOTH.
mote hill. = 5th MOTE, 1. Obs exc. Hist.
mote'less, adj. See -LESS.
mo-tet'to. ✝ MOTTETTO.
moth. ✝ MOTE.
moth'en, adj. Full of moths moth-eaten. Obs.
mother. ✝ MAUTHER.

Mo-taz'i-lite (mō-tăz'ĭ-līt), n. [Ar. mu'tazil a seceder. Cf. MUTAZALA.] A Shiite sect of Islam, dating from the 8th century, which denied divine predestination, and affirmed free will. — Mo-taz'i-lite, adj.
mote (mōt), v. i.; past tense MOSTE (mōst). [See MUST, v.] May; might. Archaic.
The fairest face that eye mote see. Spenser.
— so mote it be. So be it; amen; — a phrase in some rituals, as that of the Freemasons, and the modern Rosicrucians.
mote (mōt), n. [ME. mot, fr. AS. mot; akin to D. mot dust.] 1. A small particle, as of floating dust; a speck.
The little motes in the sun do ever stir. Bacon.
2. Obs. a Anything minute; a trifle. b An atom. c A speck.
3. A straw or stalk. Obs. exc. Dial.
4. A kind of match or squib, formerly used in blasting. Eng.
5. Cotton Mfg. A small undeveloped seed, or fragment, not removed in ginning; also, a black spot in yarn or cloth due to such an impurity. mote (mōt), v. i. To form motes, as wool. — v. t. To remove motes from.
mote, n. [L. motus.] Motion. Obs.
mote, n. [OF. (F. motte). See MOAT.] 1. A height; eminence; hill, esp. one used for a fortification. Obs. exc. Hist.
2. A barrow; tumulus. Cf. MOTTE.
mot'ed (mōt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Filled with motes, esp. of dust.
mote nut. A carap nut. mot'er (mōt'ĕr), n. One who or that which removes motes from cotton; an attachment to a cotton gin for this purpose.
mo-tet' (mō-tĕt'), n. [F., dim. of mot word; cf. It. mottetto, dim. of motto word, device. See MOT, MOTTO.] Music. A polyphonic choral composition on a sacred text, usually without instrumental accompaniment. The oldest forms (c. 1300) have a cantus firmus, for which later motets, as those of J. S. Bach, often substitute the Protestant chorale. Also, loosely, the English anthem.
mo-tet'tist (mō-tĕt'ĭst), n. A writer or singer of motets.
‖mo-te'tus (mō-tē'tŭs), n. [ML. motetus, motetum. See MOTET.] a Medieval Music. A middle voice; a mean. b A motet.
mote'y (mōt'ĭ), adj. Full of motes. moth (mŏth; 185), n.; pl. MOTHS (mŏthz; mŏths; 277). [ME. mothe, AS. moththe; akin to D. mot, G. motte, ON. motti, and prob. E. MATHE.] 1. A clothes moth; hence, any insect which feeds on woolens, furs, etc.; also, Obs., vermin. See DERMESTES, CARPET BEETLE.
2. Anything which gradually and silently eats, consumes, or wastes any other thing. Now Rare.
3. Moth gray.
4. Med. Chloasma.
5. Any of certain insects of the order Lepidoptera; — disting. from butterflies (see BUTTERFLY). The moths, which form a division, Heterocera, are usually nocturnal or crepuscular, and the antennae (often featherlike) are rarely distinctly club-shaped, as in the butterflies. The body is usually stouter and the wings proportionately smaller than in that group, and the colors less brilliant. The wings, when at rest, are not kept erect over the body as with many butterflies. In the larval or caterpillar state most moths feed upon plants, many being very destructive (see GYPSY MOTH, BROWNTAIL MOTH, etc.), and very few (see SILKWORM) are of any direct use to man. See BUTTERFLY, Plate.
moth, v. i. To hunt for moths.
Moth (mŏth), n. Don Adriano de Armado's quick-witted page in Shakespeare's Love's Labour's Lost.
moth ball. A ball, formerly of camphor, now of naphthalene, for keeping moths from clothing. — moth'–balled', adj.
moth bean. An East Indian bean (Phaseolus aconitifolius); also, its small seeds, used for food in India.
moth blight. Any of various insects of the Aleyrodidae. moth'–eat'en, part. adj. Eaten into by moths; like moth-eaten cloth. — moth'–eat', v. t.
mothed (mŏtht; 185), adj. Moth-eaten; also, eaten by the larva of a moth. Rept. Div. of Biol. & Hort., U. S. Govt. moth'er (mŭth'ĕr), n. [Prob., after mother parent, fr. MD. modder filth, mud; akin to G. moder mold, mud, MLG. mudde mud, Skr. mūtra urine, MIr. mūn, OSlav. myti to wash, L. mundus neat, clean, prop., washed, G. schmutz dirt, mud, MHG. smuz, L. mustus young, new, fresh, prop., moist, muscus moss. Cf. MOSS, MUD, MUNDIFY, MUSTARD, SMUT.] 1. Lees; dregs. Obs.
2. A slimy membrane which develops on the surface of alcoholic liquids undergoing acetous fermentation. It is composed of yeast cells and bacteria of the genus Acetobacter (chiefly A. acetus, syn. Mycoderma aceti) which produce the acetous fermentation. It is added to wine or cider, as a starter, to produce vinegar, and hence is called also mother of vinegar. See FERMENTATION.
moth'er, v. i. To become like, or full of, mother.
moth'er, n. [ME. moder, fr. AS. mōdor; akin to D. moeder, OS. mōdar, G. mutter, OHG. muotar, ON. mōthir, Dan. & Sw. moder, OSlav. mati, OIr. māthir, L. mater, Gr. mētēr, Skr. mātṛ. Cf. MATERNAL, MATRIMONY, MATRIX, MATRON, MATTER, METROPOLIS.] 1. a A female parent, esp. one of the human race; specif. [often cap.], one's own mother. b Ancestress. c Stepmother; also, mother-in-law.
2. a That which has produced or nurtured anything; source of birth or origin. b The parent stock; physical source.
3. Obs. a The womb. b Hysterical passion; hysteria.
4. a A woman in authority or dignity like a mother's; — used specif. as a title of a woman head of a religious house; as, a mother superior. b An old or elderly woman, esp. of humble station; — in familiar address or as a title; as, Mother Hubbard.
5. The qualities inherited from or characteristic of a mother; maternal tenderness or affection.
All the mother in her soul awakes. Pope.
6. a A vat in which vinegar is made by fermentation. b Usually pl. Mother liquor.
7. A device for sheltering chickens after incubation.
8. A goddess (cf. DEVI, SHAKTI), esp. one of a group called the Seven Mothers, connected with Siva. India.
9. Astrol. A plate which forms the body of an astrolabe.
10. Navy. A mother ship.
11. Phonographs. A mother matrix. See MATRIX, 6.
-moth'er (-mŭth'ĕr). A combining form of the noun mother, used in compounds and phrases, as in:

foremother	godmother	housemother
foster mother	grandmother	stepmother mos-qui'to-ish, adj. See -ISH. mos-qui'to-proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF. moss'bank'er. Var. of MOSSBUNKER. [BARK.] mossed bark. See NATURAL. mos'sel. Var. of MUSSEL. Now Dial. mos'sel. ✝ MUZZLE.

moss'ful, adj. See -FUL. moss'i-ness, n. See -NESS. moss'less, adj. See -LESS.
moss'like', adj. See -LIKE.
mos-soo'. Corrupt of MONSIEUR.
mos-soon'. ✝ MONSOON.
moss'y-back', n. = MOSSBACK. moss'y-backed', adj. = MOSSBACKED. most. Mossed. Ref. Sp.
mos-tac'chi. Obs. pl. of MUSTACHE. mos'tard. ✝ MUSTARD. most'deal', adv. [See MOST; DEAL a share.] Mostly. Obs.

moth'er (mŭth'ĕr), v. t.; MOTH'ERED (-ĕrd); MOTH'ER-ING. 1. To be, or act as, the mother of. Rare.
2. To adopt or care for as a son or daughter.
The queen, to have put lady Elizabeth besides the crown, would have mothered another body's child. Howell.
3. To acknowledge that one is the mother of; as, to mother a foundling, a book of verse; also, to attribute the maternity or origin of to a woman.
4. To find the mother of or a mother for (a lamb or calf).
moth'er, adj. 1. a That is a mother or a mother's; as, mother birds; mother love. b Bearing the relation of a mother; as, a mother church; mother liquor.
2. Derived from or as from one's mother; native; as, one's mother tongue; mother wit.
3. Biol. Denoting parentage without reference to sex. mo'ther (dial. mō'thĕr). Var. of MAUTHER. Now Dial.
Moth'er Car'ey or Car'y (kâr'ĭ; 79). An Anglicization, in sailors' use, of Mater cara, an epithet of the Virgin Mary, regarded as a protector of sailors (cf. MARIS STELLA).
Moth'er Car'ey's chick'en (kâr'ĭz). Any of several species of small petrels, esp., the stormy petrel. See PETREL.
Mother Carey's goose. The giant fulmar (which see).
Mother Carey's hen. Any petrel of medium size.
mother cask. = 3d MOTHER, 6 a. mother cell. A cell from which another is formed.
mother church. a Obs. A parish church. b The principal church of a locality or land; specif., a cathedral or a metropolitan church. c The original church or a church from which other churches have sprung. d [caps.] Specif., the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass., head of all other Christian Science churches.
mother city. A metropolis (sense 1). mother cloves. The dried fruits of the clove tree. They resemble the true cloves, but are less aromatic.
mother country. a The country of one's parents or ancestors. b The country from which the people of a colony derive their origin. c A country as the origin of anything.
mother earth. Earth regarded as the mother of everything animate or inanimate upon it.
moth'ered (mŭth'ĕrd), adj. a Having a mother. b Of or pertaining to one coddled by a mother.
moth'ered (mŭth'ĕrd), adj. Thick, like mother; viscid.
moth'er·er (mŭth'ĕr·ĕr), n. One who mothers; specif., Australia, a man who finds a mother for a motherless lamb.
mother gate, or moth'er·gate' (mŭth'ĕr·gāt'), n. Coal Mining. A bord or tramway used as a central collecting road for the coal from a district of workings in a mine. Eng.
mother goddess. Any goddess personifying the female principle of life and fertility.
Mother Goose. 1. The feigned narrator of a celebrated volume of fairy tales (Contes de ma Mère l'Oye), written by Charles Perrault, and first published under the name of his young son, Perrault d'Armancour, in 1697. Of the ten stories in this work, seven are to be found in the Pentamerone, an earlier Italian collection.
2. The pretended writer or compiler of the collection of ancient nursery rhymes known orig. as Mother Goose's Melodies but usually entitled in modern editions Mother Goose's Nursery Rhymes. The name is probably of French origin, though the rhymes are English. They were published at London about 1760 by John Newbery.
moth'er·hood (mŭth'ĕr·hŏŏd), n. a State of being a mother; character, qualities, or spirit of a mother. b A body of mothers collectively. c Anthropol. A group of individuals in a tribe determined by relationship through the mothers.
mother house. a The monastery or convent in which the superior-general of a religious order resides; also, the one in which a provincial resides. b The original monastery or convent of an order.
Moth'er Hub'bard (hŭb'ĕrd). 1. The subject of an old and well-known nursery rhyme.
2. A kind of loose full gown worn by women.
moth'er·ing (mŭth'ĕr·ĭng), adj. Acting as a mother, esp. in giving tender care.
moth'er·ing, n. A rural custom in England of visiting one's parents on Mid-Lent Sunday and presenting an offering. Hence: Mothering Sunday.
moth'er–in–law', n.; pl. MOTHERS-IN-LAW. a Mother of one's husband or wife. b A stepmother; — now not in standard use.
moth'er·land' (mŭth'ĕr·lănd'), n. a A country regarded as a place of origin. b = FATHERLAND. mother language. = MOTHER TONGUE a & b. moth'er·less, adj. [AS. mōdorlēas.] Destitute of a mother; having lost a mother. — moth'er·less·ness, n.
mother liquor or liquid. The residual solution, often impure or complex, which remains after the substances readily or regularly crystallizing have been removed.
mother lode. Mining. a The principal vein or lode of a region. b [cap.] The principal belt of gold-bearing quartz along the western foothills of the Sierra Nevada, California.
moth'er·ly (mŭth'ĕr·lĭ), adj. [AS. mōdorlīc.] a Now Rare. Of or pertaining to a mother. b Like, suitable for, or characteristic of, a mother; as, motherly authority, love, or care.
Syn. — MOTHERLY, MATERNAL are often interchangeable. MATERNAL, however, more frequently has reference to actual motherhood; MOTHERLY often suggests such tenderness, comprehension, or sympathy as a mother shows; as, the maternal instinct, a motherly woman. Cf. BROTHERLY.
— moth'er·li·ness (mŭth'ĕr·lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.
moth'er·ly, adv. In the manner of a mother.
Mother Maid. The Virgin Mary. mother mark. = MOTHER'S MARK.
mother matrix. See MATRIX, 6. mother of coal. = MINERAL CHARCOAL; — a miner's term.
Mother of God. Eccl. The title of the Virgin Mary, sanctioned by the Council of Ephesus (431), in opposition to the Nestorians. See THEOTOKOS. moth'er–of–mil'lions, n. Kenilworth ivy. mother of parliaments. The British Parliament; also, England.
moth'er–of–pearl', n. The hard pearly internal layer of several kinds of shells, esp. of pearl oysters, river mussels, and the abalone shells; nacre. Because of its iridescence it is extensively used for making buttons, other small articles, and inlays. Also, sometimes, the shell or shellfish itself. See PEARL. — moth'er–of–pearl', adj.
Mother of Presidents. Virginia, which has been the birthplace of eight U. S. Presidents (Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, and Wilson).
Mother of Sorrows. The Virgin Mary. See DOLORS OF MARY.
Mother of States. Virginia, because the first settled of the original States of the United States, or because a number of States have been formed out of its original territory.
Mother of the Believers. Aisha or Ayeshah (A.D. 611–678), the favorite wife of Mohammed.
Mother of the Gods. a = GREAT MOTHER. b [not cap.] Ir. See BRIGANTIA. mother of the months. The moon. Poetic.
moth'er–of–thou'sands, n. a The Kenilworth ivy. b The beefsteak saxifrage. c = DAISY, n., 1. moth'er–of–thyme', n. a The wild thyme. b The basil thyme Clinopodium acinos.
mother of vinegar. See 1st MOTHER, 2. mother queen. A queen mother; also, a queen bee.
mother right. The principle, or the custom, of tracing lineage and kinship through the maternal or female line; also, any right or rights inherited by virtue of such descent.
mothers' aid, allowance, or compensation. = MOTHERS' PENSION.
Mother's Day. A day appointed for the honoring of motherhood and the loving remembrance of one's mother by some act of regard. The second Sunday in May, or in schools the preceding Friday, was designated by the founder (Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia) for the day. U. S. & Can.
mother sense. a = MOTHER WIT. b Sensibility of or as of a mother. moth'er's–heart', n. The shepherd's-purse. U. S. mother ship. Nav. A naval vessel escorting or guarding torpedo boats, submarines, or other small craft; a tender. Chiefly Eng.
Moth'er Ship'ton (shĭp'tŭn). A reputed prophetess first mentioned in a tract of 1641 as foretelling the death of Cardinal Wolsey and others. A so-called Life and Death of Mother Shipton was brought out by Richard Head in 1677; additions were made by Charles Hindley in 1862.
moth'er–sick', adj. a Obs. Hysterical. b Yearning for one's mother. mother's mark. A birthmark. mothers' pension. An allowance from the public treasury to needy, usually widowed, mothers of minor children.
moth'er–spot', n. A birthmark. mother superior. See 3d MOTHER, 4 a. See Forms of Address, in Appendix. mother tongue. 1. The language of one's mother; the language naturally acquired by reason of parentage or nationality.
2. A language from which another language originates.
mother tree. = SEED TREE.
mother tulip. Hort. A seedling tulip before its flowers have "broken," or assumed distinct variegations of color.
mother water. Mother liquor.
mother wit. Natural or native wit or intelligence.
moth'er·wort' (mŭth'ĕr·wûrt'), n. a A bitter Old World mint (Leonurus cardiaca) with dentate, wedge-shaped leaves and axillary whorls of small purple flowers; also, any other species of Leonurus. b The mugwort Artemisia vulgaris. c Feverfew. d The joe-pye weed Eupatorium purpureum. e = MONEYWORT.
moth'er·y (mŭth'ĕr·ĭ), adj. Consisting of, containing, or resembling, mother (in vinegar).
moth fly or gnat. Any small two-winged fly of the family Psychodidae, having hairy or scaly wings.
moth gray. A color, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR. moth hawk, moth hunter. A goatsucker. moth hole. A hole eaten in cloth by a moth.
moth miller. A moth or miller. See MILLER, 2 a. moth mullein. A European mullein (Verbascum blattaria), naturalized as a weed in America. It has smooth leaves and large yellow or purplish flowers frequented by moths.
moth orchid or plant. Any orchid of the genus Phalaenopsis, esp. P. amabilis.
moth patch. Med. = CHLOASMA. moth'worm' (mŏth'wûrm'), n. The larva of a moth. moth'y (mŏth'ĭ; 185), adj.; MOTH'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); -I·EST. Full of moths. mo·tif' (mō·tēf'), n. [F. See MOTIVE.] 1. In literature and the fine arts, a salient feature or element of a composition or work; esp., the theme, or dominant feature.
The design . . . is . . . based on the peacock — a motif favored by decorative artists of all ages. R. D. Benn.
2. Prompting stimulus; — used for motive when volition is not present.
3. Dressmaking. A decorative appliqué design or figure, as of lace or velvet, used in trimming.
4. Music. = MOTIVE, n., 6. mo·tif'ic (mō·tĭf'ĭk), adj. [L. motus motion (fr. movere to move) + -fic.] Producing motion. Rare.
mo'tile (mō'tĭl; 155), adj. [See MOTIVE.] a Biol. Exhibiting, or capable of, spontaneous movement; as, motile cilia, spores. b Producing motion; as, motile powers. mo'tile, n. Psychol. A person whose prevailing mental imagery takes the form of inner feelings of action, as incipient pronunciation of words, muscular movements, etc.
mo·til'i·ty (mō·tĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Physiol. Quality of being motile; contractility.
mo'tion (mō'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. motio, fr. movere, motum, to move. See MOVE.] 1. Act, process, or instance of changing place or position; movement; the passing of a body from one place or position to another, voluntarily or involuntarily; — opp. to rest; as, the motion of a ship.
2. Change in the relative position of the parts of anything; action of a machine with respect to the relative movement of its parts.
The great wheel to which the clock owes its motion. Dr. H. More.
3. Direction of movement; course; tendency; as, the direct motion of the planets is from west to east.
4. a Commotion; agitation; — now only of material things. b Archaic. Movement of the mind, will, or desires; mental act, or impulse to any action; internal activity; inclination; tendency of desire; as, he did it of his own motion.
Motions of thought which elevate the will. Wordsworth.
5. a Act or instance of moving the body or any of its members. b A conventionalized bodily movement, as a step, gesture, gait, pass in fencing, etc. c Style of moving; carriage. d Archaic. Power of, or capacity for, motion.
6. A proposal or suggestion looking to action or progress; esp., a formal proposal made in a deliberative assembly; as a motion to adjourn.
7. pl. Movements; actions; activities; as, to employ a detective to watch a man's motions.
8. Obs. a Instigation; suggestion. b A stirring of the soul, esp. by religious influence; an emotion; agitation. c An impelling cause; reason; motive. d A puppet show or puppet. e Exertion involved in moving; pl., exercises. f Passage from place to place, as in changing one's abode.
9. Fine Arts. The change of attitude, position, or the like, suggested by the posture of a figure as that which is taking place or about to take place.
10. Law. An application made to a court or judge orally in open court or by a petition or other written application to obtain an order, ruling, direction, or the like, in favor of the applicant. It may be made ex parte or on notice.
11. Mach. A mechanism; as, a straight-line motion.
12. Math. A one-to-one correspondence between points of a space possessing a congruence axiom such that any straight line transforms into a straight line, the segment determined by any two points on it being congruent to the segment determined by the points corresponding to them.
13. Med. An evacuation of the bowels; also, often in pl., the matter evacuated.
14. Mil. pl. Each of the stages of an exercise of arms. Brit.
15. Music. Melodic progression: a Change of pitch in the successive tones of a voice part. It is conjunct when the progression is by single degrees, disjunct when by skips. b Melodic progression of two or more voice parts relatively considered. It is similar when their progression is in the same direction, parallel when in the same direction by the same intervals, oblique when one continues stationary while another rises or falls, contrary when they move oppositely, and mixed when in several simultaneous voice parts two of the kinds just described are used.
16. Philos. Change of any kind, — so conceived in ancient philosophy because the Greeks interpreted all changes as motion (kinesis). Chiefly Hist.
Syn. — MOTION, MOVEMENT, MOVE. Motion and movement are often interchangeable. But MOTION may be employed with reference to anything which is not at rest; MOVEMENT more frequently suggests a definite, regulated, or (esp.) progressive motion; as, "the lazy foam, forever in motion, and never moved away" (D. Wordsworth); "No mind so well render Homer's swift-flowing movement as he who has himself something of the swift-moving spirit of Homer" (M. Arnold). A MOVE is a definite change of position or a step in an undertaking, usually in the execution of a purpose; as, the next move in the game. Cf. MOVE, MOVABLE, MOTIVE.
mo'tion (mō'shŭn), v.; mo'tioned (-shŭnd); mo'tion·ing. Intransitive: 1. To make proposal; to offer plans. Obs.
2. To move or make a movement indicating some action; as, he motioned to go or to strike. Now Rare.
3. To make a significant movement or gesture, as with the hand; as, to motion to one to take a seat.
—, Transitive: 1. To propose; move; suggest; request; also, to petition; urge. Obs.
2. To direct or invite by a motion, as of the hand or head; as, to motion one to a seat.
mo'tion·a·ble (-ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of motion. Rare.
mo'tion·al (-ăl; -'l), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characterized by, motion; kinetic.
motional impedance. Elec. In a telephone receiver, the part of the electrical impedance due to the motion of the diaphragm.
motion block. Mach. Any of the blocks in a crosshead, as of a locomotive, that rub against the slide bars.
mo'tion·er (mō'shŭn·ĕr), n. One who motions; specif., Obs., a proposer. mo'tion·ist (-ĭst), n. One dexterous in motion. Obs. Milton.
mo'tion·less, adj. Without motion; unable to move. — mo'tion·less·ly, adv. — mo'tion·less·ness, n.
motion photomicrograph. A motion picture of microscopic objects, taken by a motion-picture camera in conjunction with a microscope. — motion photomicrography.
motion picture. a A series of pictures, usually photographs taken with a special machine, a mo'tion–pic'ture cam'er·a (see CAMERA, n., 2 b), presented to the eye in very rapid succession, with some or all of the objects in the picture represented in successive positions slightly changed, and producing, because of the persistence of vision, the optical effect of a continuous picture in which the objects move. b Specif., a photoplay. A machine for projecting and showing motion pictures on a screen is a mo'tion–pic'ture pro·jec'tor, or cinematograph. Since about 1930, such machines are usually fitted with suitable electrical or mechanical attachments for reproducing sound in synchronism with the picture. Cf. SOUND PROJECTOR. Among early motion-picture machines were: in America, the kinetoscope of Thomas A. Edison (1893); in France, the Cinématographe of Louis and Auguste Lumière (1893); and in England, the animatograph of Robert W. Paul (1896), first called the theatrograph. See FILM, n., 5; 1st FRAME, 20. — mo'tion–pic'ture (66), adj. — mo'tion–pic'ture, v. t. Colloq.

Motion-picture Projector. 1 Lamp House; 2 Shutter; 3 Housing containing Intermittent-Movement Mechanism; 4 Upper, and 5 Lower, Film Magazine; 6 Projection Lens.

motion plate. Mach. A transverse plate, now usually annealed cast steel, situated between the cylinders and driving axle of an inside-cylinder locomotive, to which the slide bars and intermediate valve-rod guides are attached.
motion wheel. Horol. One of the wheels of the motion work. motion work. Horol. The wheelwork controlling the relative motions of the hour and minute hands.
mo'ti·ta'tion (mō'tĭ·tā'shŭn), n. [L. motitare, freq. of movere, motum, to move.] A quivering movement. Rare.
mo'ti·vate (mō'tĭ·vāt), v. t.; -VAT'ED (-vāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -VAT'ING (-vāt'ĭng). [From MOTIVE, n.] a To provide with or base upon a motive; to move; impel; induce; incite. b Educ. To stimulate active interest in (some study) through appeal to associated interests or by special devices. — mo'ti·va'tion (mō'tĭ·vā'shŭn), n. — mo'ti·va'tion·al (-ăl; -'l), adj. mo'tive (mō'tĭv), n. [ME. motif, fr. OF. motif, fr. ML. motivus moving, fr. L. movere, motum, to move. See MOVE.] 1. Obs. a That which is proposed or suggested; a motion; proposal. b Incitement; prompting. c That which moves; a mover; instigator. d A cause.

2. Any consideration or object prompting or exciting to choice, or moving the will.
3. That within the individual, rather than without, which incites him to action; any idea, need, emotion, or organic state that prompts to an action.
4. A part of the body capable of movement. Shak.
5. In literature and the fine arts, the guiding or controlling idea manifested in a work or any part of one; motif.
6. Music. The theme or subject; a leading phrase or passage which is reproduced and varied through the course of a composition or a movement. See also LEITMOTIV.
Syn. — Influence, incitement, instigation, stimulus, spur, consideration. — MOTIVE, INDUCEMENT, INCENTIVE, IMPULSE are here compared in their nontechnical senses; for technical uses see defs. A MOTIVE is in general a consideration which determines choice or induces action; an INDUCEMENT is an attractive consideration held out to persuade, esp. to some action; an INCENTIVE stirs or incites to performance; an IMPULSE is esp. an unpremeditated or involuntary feeling which prompts one to act. See CAUSE; cf. MOVE, v. t.

mo'tive (mō'tĭv), adj. a Now Rare. Moving or tending to move to action; as, a motive argument. b Relating to motion or the causing of motion; as, motive power. c Having or concerned with the function of initiating action, or, Obs., motion. d Pertaining to a motive or motives; — the noun used attributively. — mo'tive·ness, n. Rare.

mo'tive (mō'tĭv), v. t.; -TIVED (-tĭvd); -TIV·ING (-tĭ'vĭng). 1. To prompt or incite by or as a motive or motives; to provide with a motive; as, an act motived by pleasure.
2. To connect with the guiding or controlling idea of a work, as in art, literature, etc.

motive column or head. Mine Ventilation. A column of air of such a height as to equal the difference in weight between the downcast and upcast columns.

mo'tive–mon'ger, n. Dealer in motives. — mo'tive–mon'ger·ing, n.

motive power. a Any power, as water, steam, wind, electricity, etc., used to impart motion to machinery; a motor; a mover; — also used figuratively. b The locomotives of a railroad, collectively.

mo·tiv'i·ty (mō·tĭv'ĭ·tĭ), n. [See MOTIVE, adj. & n.] The power of moving or producing motion; available energy.

‖mot' juste' (mō' zhüst'). [F.] The exactly right word; precisely expressive phrasing.

mot'ley (mŏt'lĭ), adj.; MOT'LEY·ER; MOT'LEY·EST. [ME. motteley, appar. fr. OF., and possibly ult. fr. (assumed) VL. mustelatus, fr. L. mustela weasel. See MUSTELIDAE.]
1. Variegated in color; consisting of different colors; checkered; parti-colored; as, a motley coat.
2. Hence: a Diverse; heterogeneous. "How motley are the qualities that go to make up a human being." Maugham. b Composed of different or various parts; heterogeneously made or mixed up; discordantly composite; as, motley style; a motley crowd. "The motley scene." Byron.
3. Obs. a Changeable. b Made of motley.
4. Wearing motley. "A motley fool." Shak.
Syn. — Variegated, mottled; heterogeneous, mixed.
— mot'ley·ness, n.

mot'ley, n. 1. A woolen fabric of mixed colors, made in England between the 14th and 17th centuries. Fine varieties were used for clothing, coarser varieties for cloak bags or portmanteaus.
2. A garment of such cloth; the characteristic dress of the professional fool. "Motley's the only wear." Shak.
3. Hence: Obs. a Foolery. b A jester; a fool.
4. Any mixture, esp. an incongruous mixture, as of colors.

mot'ley, v. t. To make motley or variegated.

motley color. In the painting of ceramic ware, irregular or sprinkled decoration, in mineral colors, which fuse and give a metallic luster.

mot'ley–mind'ed (66), adj. Having a mind full of whimsically diverse ideas, as a jester.

mot'mot (mŏt'mŏt), n. [Prob. named from its note. Cf. MOMOT.] Any of numerous birds of the subfamily Momotinae, confined to tropical forests from Mexico to Brazil. The form resembles that of the jays; the color is chiefly green with blue, black, and rufous markings; the tail is long and peculiarly shaped. See MOMOTIDAE.

Motmot (Momotus momota). (⅛) motmot blue. [From MOTMOT.] A color, bluish green-blue in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

motmot green. [From MOTMOT.] A color, greenish yellow-green in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

‖mo'to (mō'tō), n. [It.] Music. Movement. See CON MOTO.

mo'to- (mō'tō-). A combining form for motion and motor, as in mo'to·fa'cient, mo'to·neu'ron. Cf. -FACIENT, NEURON.

mo'to·graph (mō'tō·grăf; 83), n. [L. movere, motum, to move + -graph.] Elec. A device utilized in the making of a loud-speaking telephone, depending on the fact that the friction between a metallic point and a moving cylinder of moistened chalk, or a moving slip of paper, on which it rests, is diminished by the passage of a current between the point and the moving surface. — mo'to·graph'ic (-grăf'ĭk), adj.

mo'to·mag·net'ic (-măg·nĕt'ĭk), adj. Elec. Designating a form of motor interrupter in which the motor consists of a star-shaped piece of soft iron the points of which are successively attracted by an electromagnet.

Mo'to Me'ter (mō'tō). Mach. A trade-mark applied to a thermometric device for indicating the temperature of the vapor above the water in the radiator of an internal-combustion engine; hence [sometimes not caps.], the device bearing this trade-mark.

mo'to·phone (mō'tō·fōn), n. [L. movere, motum, to move + -phone.] A device in which a diaphragm, set in vibration by sound waves, is made to turn a ratchet wheel.

mo'tor (mō'tĕr), n. [L., fr. movere, motum, to move.]
1. One who or that which imparts motion; a source of mechanical power.
2. A prime mover, as a steam engine, a windmill, etc.
3. a Short for MOTORCAR. b Any automotive vehicle.
4. Elec. A rotating machine which transforms electrical energy into mechanical energy. It consists of two principal parts: a field-magnet winding or a distributed-stator winding producing a magnetic field, and a rotating armature or rotor in whose conductors flow currents which are acted upon by the magnetic field and cause rotation. Some of these machines can be used as either a motor or a generator. See DYNAMOELECTRIC.
5. Mach. Any internal-combustion engine; orig., a small, compact, powerful engine, esp. a gasoline engine, for an automotive vehicle, motorboat, etc. Cf. OUTBOARD MOTOR.
6. Math. A localized-vector system; specif., the localized-vector system consisting of a translation and an angular velocity from which the linear velocity of every point of a moving rigid body is calculated.
7. Stock Exchange. pl. Securities issued by automobile manufacturing companies.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES in senses 4 & 5 are: motor-borne, motor builder, motor-drawn.

mo'tor (mō'tĕr), adj. [See MOTOR, n.] 1. Causing, setting up, or imparting, motion.
2. a Equipped with or driven by a motor or motors. b Of or pertaining to automotive vehicles.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

motor ambulance	motor road	motor travel
motor corps	motor ship	motor truck motor law	motor tractor	motor van motor lorry	motor traffic	motor vehicle
motor meet	motor transport	motorway

3. Anat. & Physiol. Designating or pertaining to a nerve or nerve fiber which passes from the central nervous system or a ganglion to a muscle and by the impulse (motor impulse) which it transmits causes movement. The term is often loosely applied to any efferent nerve as opposed to a sensory or afferent nerve.
4. Psychol. Involving, or pertaining to, muscular movement; as, motor activity, response, image. See PSYCHOLOGY.

mo'tor, v. Intransitive: 1. To ride in, travel by, or drive, a motor-propelled vehicle, as an automobile or airship.
2. To continue in action, as a motor, without doing useful work. Cf. IDLE, v. i., 2.
— Transitive: 1. To convey or transport by motorcar.
2. To set or keep in motion, as by a motor.

mo'tor·a·ble (mō'tĕr·ȧ·b'l), adj. Usable by motor vehicles.

motor aphasia. See APHASIA.

motor apraxia. See APRAXIA.

motor area. Anat. & Physiol. See AREA, n., 7.

motor automatism. Self-motion, including messages written, or words uttered, without intention.

motor bicycle. a A motorcycle. b A light motorcycle resembling a bicycle in design and structure.

mo'tor·boat' (mō'tĕr·bōt'), n. 1. A boat or small vessel propelled by an internal-combustion engine or an electric motor.
2. According to U. S. statutes, any of certain classes of boats, as a boat not more than 65 feet long propelled by machinery, except steam-propelled tugboats and towboats.

mo'tor·boat', v. i. To ride in or drive a motorboat; also, figuratively, to make sounds like the exhaust of a motorboat. — mo'tor·boat'man (-măn), n.

mo'tor·bus' (-bŭs'), n. An automotive omnibus.

mo'tor·cab' (-kăb'), n. An engine-driven cab; specif., a taxicab.

mo'tor–camp'er, n. A motorist who camps or lodges in a camp. — mo'tor–camp'ing, n.

mo'tor·car' (mō'tĕr·kär'), n. 1. An automobile, locomobile, or locomotive designed to run and be steered on a street or roadway; esp., an automobile specially designed for passengers. See AUTOMOBILE, n. In British statutory classification a motorcar is included under the term light locomotive (which see). In the Motor Car Act (3 Edw. VII, c. 36) the term motorcar includes also motorcycle, except where the contrary intention appears. See MOTORCYCLE.
2. Elec. R. R. Any car containing motors for propulsion. U. S.

motor coach. An automotive omnibus.

motor converter. Elec. A machine consisting of an induction motor and a synchronous converter mounted on a common shaft so that the secondary current of the motor flows directly into the armature of the converter.

motor cushion. Bot. The pulvinus.

mo'tor·cy'cle (mō'tĕr·sī'k'l), n. A two-wheeled automotive vehicle having one or two riding saddles and sometimes having a third wheel for the support of a sidecar. In Great

One form of Motorcycle. 1 Spring Fork; 2 Headlight; 3 Horn; 4 Ammeter; 5 Handle-bar Controls; 6 Valve Release; 7 Gear Lever; 8 Gasoline (Petrol) and Oil Tanks; 9 Magneto; 10 Carburetor; 11 Generator; 12 Kick Starter; 13 Brake Lever; 14 Muffler; 15 Cam Case.

Britain the term motorcycle is treated by statute (3 Edw. VII. c. 36) as limited to motorcars (self-propelled vehicles) designed to travel on not more than three wheels, and weighing unladen (that is, without water, fuel, or accumulators necessary for propulsion) not more than three hundredweight (336 lb.). See MOTORCAR, 1. — mo'tor·cy'cle, adj.

mo'tor·cy'cle, v. i. To ride a motorcycle or go by motorcycle. — mo'tor·cy'clist (-klĭst), n.

motor drive. An electric motor and auxiliaries for driving a machine or group of machines. — mo'tor–driv'en, adj.

mo'tor·drome' (mō'tĕr·drōm'), n. [motor + -drome.] A track or course, usually enclosed and with seats for spectators, for races, tests, etc., of automobile vehicles.

motor dynamo. = DYNAMOTOR.

mo'tored (mō'tĕrd), adj. Equipped with a motor.

motor end plate. Anat. The terminal arborization of a motor axon on a muscle fiber.

motor fiber. Anat. A nerve fiber whose stimulation causes muscular contraction.

motor generator, motor generator set. Elec. One or more motors mechanically coupled to one or more generators for transforming electric currents.

motor horn. a = ELECTRIC HORN. b A warning horn used on a motor vehicle.

motor impulse. See MOTOR, adj., 3.

mo'tor·ing (mō'tĕr·ĭng), n. Act or recreation of riding in or driving a motorcar, or automobile.

mo'tor·ing, adj. Pertaining to motorcars or automobiles, or to the technology of such; addicted to riding in or driving automobiles; as, motoring parlance; my motoring friend.

motor interrupter. Elec. An interrupter in which the contact is made and broken by an electric motor.

mo'tor·ism (mō'tĕr·Iz'm), n. Addiction to motoring.

mo'tor·ist (-Ĭst), n. One who motors, esp. habitually.

mo·to'ri·um (mō·tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n. [LL., the power of motion, prop. neut. of motorius moving, fr. movere, motum, to move.] The part of an organism, esp. of the nervous system, which is concerned in movement, as distinguished from that concerned in sensation.

mo'tor·ize (mō'tĕr·Iz), v. t. [motor + -ize.] a To equip with a motor or motors, specif. in substituting motor-driven vehicles for those which are horse-drawn or propelled by steam or electricity; as, to motorize a fire department or a railroad. b Mach. To design or adapt, as a machine or a tool, for direct operation by a motor, esp. an electric motor. — mo'tor·i·za'tion (-I·zā'shŭn; -I·zā'shŭn), n.

motor launch. A launch propelled by an internal-combustion engine. See 3d LAUNCH.

motor liner. A motor-driven ocean liner.

motor load. Mech. & Elec. Engin. See LOAD, n., 12.

mo'tor·man (mō'tĕr·măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A man who controls or drives a motor; esp., the driver of an electric car on a street railway, or of an electric locomotive.

motor meter. See 3d METER, 2.

mo'tor–mind'ed (66), adj. Inclined to think of things in terms of the muscular movements they involve. — mo'tor–mind'ed·ness, n.

mo'tor·neer' (mō'tĕr·nēr'), n. [motor + engineer.] A motorman, as on a street railway. Local, U. S. & Canada.

motor oculi. Anat. = OCULOMOTOR NERVE.

motor paralysis. Paralysis of the voluntary muscles.

motor pendulum. See PENDULUM, n., 1.

mo'tor·pho'bi·a (mō'tĕr·fō'bĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. motor + -phobia.] Dread or dislike of motor vehicles. — mo'tor·pho'bi·ac (-ăk), n. — mo'tor·phobe (mō'tĕr·fōb), n.

motor point. Physiol. Any of certain points on the skin, at which electrical or other stimulation produces maximum contraction of some muscle, because of nearness to the point of entrance of the nerve into this muscle.

motor pumper. A unit of automotive fire apparatus with fire pump driven by the engine.

motor root. Anat. Any nerve root containing only motor fibers; esp., the ventral root of a spinal nerve.

motor sailer. A motorboat with sailing equipment; specif., U. S. Navy, a type of service launch so equipped.

motor ship. A ship with engines driven by a motor or motors.

motor sledge. An automobile sled.

motor spirit. Any volatile liquid used as a fuel in internal-combustion engines; specif., gasoline or petrol.

motor stage. An automotive omnibus.

motor starter. Elec. A device, as a rheostat, for controlling the current taken by a motor when starting.

motor transportation insurance. See INSURANCE, n., 1.

Mo'to·zin·tle'ca (mō'tō·sĕn·tlā'kä), n. Also Mo'to·zin·tlec' (-sĕn·tlăk'). An Indian of a Mayan tribe of Chiapas, Mexico. See 2d MAYA; MAYAN, adj.

mo·tric'i·ty (mō·trĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Motor function.

motte (mŏt), n. [Cf. F. motte clod, clump, hillock. See MOTE a height.] 1. = MOTE, a height; specif., Archaeol., a type of palisaded mound common in prehistoric Europe.
2. Also mott. A clump of trees in a prairie. Local, U. S.

mot'tle (mŏt'l), v. t.; MOT'TLED (-'ld); MOT'TLING (-lĭng). [From MOTTLED.] To mark with spots or blotches of different color, or shades of color, as if stained; to spot; blotch. — v. i. To become mottled.

mot'tle, n. 1. A colored spot.
2. An appearance like that of a surface having colored spots, blotches, or cloudings; also, the arrangement of such markings on a surface, as in many kinds of marble.
3. A yarn of mottled wool.

mot'tle, adj. Mottled.

mot'tled (-'ld), adj. [From MOTLEY.] Marked with spots of different colors; dappled; spotted; as, mottled wood. — mot'tled·ness, n.

mottled brant or goose. The white-fronted goose.

mottled calf. Bookbinding. = MARBLED CALF.

mottled duck. A Louisiana and Texas variety (Anas fulvigula maculosa) of the Florida duck.

mottled iron. Cast or pig iron intermediate between white and gray iron, showing a mottled surface on fracture.

mottled owl. An American screech owl in the gray phase of plumage.

mottled soap. Eschwege soap.

mot'tle–leaf', n. Also mottled leaf. Plant Pathol. A nutritional disease of citrus plants characterized by a partial chlorosis, reduced size of leaves and fruits, and stunting.

mot'tle·ment (mŏt'l·mĕnt), n. Condition or appearance of being mottled.

mot'tler (mŏt'lĕr), n. a One who mottles, as in dyeing, ceramics. b A brush for producing a mottled surface.

mot'tling (-lĭng), n. a Mottle or its production. b Bot. A mingling of other-colored spots with the normal green in foliage, as in mosaic diseases.

mot'to (mŏt'ō), n.; pl. MOTTOES, MOTTOS (-ōz). [It., word, saying, fr. F. mot, fr. L. muttum a mutter, grunt, fr. mutire, mutire, to mutter, mumble. See MUTE; cf. 1st MOT.]
1. a Obs. = IMPRESA b. b A sentence, phrase, or word inscribed on anything as appropriate to, or indicative of, its character or use. c A short suggestive expression of a guiding principle; a maxim.

It was the motto of a bishop eminent for his piety and good works, . . . "Serve God, and be cheerful." Addison.

2. A short passage, usually quoted, prefixed as to an essay, chapter, or canto, suggestive of its subject matter.
3. a A paper printed with a bit of sentimental poetry or a sentiment wrapped with a sweetmeat in a fancy wrapper, used esp. at children's parties. b The wrapper containing such a motto and sweetmeat together with its contents.
4. Her. A sentence, phrase, or word forming part of a heraldic achievement.
5. Music. A recurring phrase.

mot'toed (mŏt'ōd), adj. Bearing or having a motto.

mot'tram·ite (mŏt'răm·Ĭt), n. [From Mottram St. Andrews, Cheshire, England.] A lead copper vanadate in black crystalline incrustations on sandstone.

---

mo'tive·less, adj. See -LESS. — mo'tive·less·ly, adv. — mo'tive·less·ness, n.

‖mo·ti'vo (mō·tē'vō), n. [It. See MOTIVE, n.] = MOTIVE, n., 5 & 6.

mo'to·car', mo'to·cy'cle, mo'to·cy'clist. Var. of MOTORCAR, etc.

mo'tor·dom, n. See -DOM.

mo·to'ri·al (mō·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. [See MOTORY.] = MOTOR, adj., 3.

mo·tor'ic (mō·tŏr'ĭk) adj. = MOTOR, adj., 4.

mo'tor·less, adj. See -LESS.

mo'to·ry (mō'tō·rĭ), adj. [LL. motorius moving.] = MOTOR, adj., 1 & 3.

motte. † MUTTER.

motte. † MOAT, MOT, MOTE.

‖mot·tet'to (mŏt·tĕt'tō), n. [It. See MOTET.] Music. = MOTET.

mot'tie. Var. of MOTTY.

mot'tled·leaf' mo·sa'ic. = CUCUMBER MOSAIC.

mot'tled·top' dis·ease'. = TOBACCO MOSAIC.

motto kiss. = MOTTO, 3 b.

mot'to·less, adj. See -LESS.

mot'to·like', adj. See -LIKE.

mot'ty (mŏt'ĭ), adj. Full of, or like, motes; dusty. Scot.

mo·tu'ca fly (mō·tōō'kä). [Pg. motuca, fr. Tupi mutuca, mutiqua, fr. cotuca to prick, puncture.] A large Brazilian biting fly (Lepiselaga lepidota) of the family Tabanidae.

‖mo'tu pro'pri·o (mō'tū prō'prĭ·ō). [L.] By one's own motion; of one's own impulse; — often in papal decrees.

mou·ba'ta bug or tick (mōō·bä'tä). [Origin uncert.] An African tick (Ornithodoros moubata) which sometimes bites man. It is the carrier of one form of relapsing fever.

mou·char'a·by (mōō·shär'ä·bĭ), n.; pl. -BIES (-bĭz). [F., fr. Ar. See MESHRABIYEH.] 1. Moham. Arch. A projecting oriel window or enclosed balcony, of which the enclosure is largely made up of open latticework. 2. A machicolated balcony projecting from the wall of a fortified structure, as a castle.

Part of a House Wall showing two Moucharabies.

‖mou'chard' (mōō'shär'), n. [F.] A police spy. — mou'chard'ism (mōō·shärd'ĭz'm), n.

mouche (mōōsh), n. [F., lit., fly.] A patch, usually black, formerly worn as an ornament.

‖mou'choir' (mōō'shwär'), n. [F.] A handkerchief.

mou'die (mou'dĭ; mō'-; mōō'-), n. Also mou'dy. [Short for MOUDIWARP.] Scot. & N. of Eng. a A mole; — often used attributively. b Also mou'dieman (-măn). A mole catcher.

‖moue (mōō), n. [F.] A pout; a grimace expressive of petulance, dissatisfaction, or the like.

mouf'lon, mouf'flon (mōōf'lŏn), n.; pl. -LONS (-lŏnz), sometimes -LON. See PLURAL, Note. [F. mouflon, fr. It. muflolo (dial.), muffione, fr. LL. dial. mufro. Cf. MUSIMON.] A wild sheep (Ovis musimon), inhabiting the mountains of Sardinia and Corsica. Its horns are large, have a triangular base, and curve in a semicircle. It is reddish brown, with a grayish-buff patch on the sides, and white on the legs, belly, and buttocks. The female is hornless. The name is sometimes extended with qualifying terms to various wild sheep having similar horns.

Moufion (Ovis musimon). (⅛s)

Mou'ge·o'ti·a (mōō'jē·ō'tĭ·ä), n. [NL., after J. B. Mougeot (1776–1858), French botanist.] Bot. A genus of delicate filamentous green algae (order Zygnematales) of world-wide occurrence. It is sometimes regarded as typifying a family, Mou'ge·o'ti·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē).

mouil·la'tion (mōō·yā'shŭn), n. [See MOUILLÉ.] Phonet. Act of uttering, or conversion into, a mouillé sound.

mouil'lé' (mōō'yā'), adj. [F., lit., wet.] Phonet. Softened in sound; given a palatal quality; specif.: a Pronounced as, or changed into, any of several palatal consonants, as It. gl (egli), Fr. gn (agneau), or the y-sound of ll in Parisian French (fille). b Palatalized, as l or n modified by a following y-sound (million, minion), or combined ly, ny (million, minion). See PALATAL, adj.; PALATALIZE; Pron., §§ 43 (9), 58.

mouil'lure' (mōō'yōōr'; -yūr'), n. [F.] Mouillation.

mou·jik' (mōō·zhĭk'; mōō'zhĭk), n. A muzhik.

moul (mōōl). Var. of MOOL. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

moul, v. t. & i. [ME. moulen. See 2d MOLD.] To make or become moldy. Obs. exc. Dial.

moul (mōl), n. = MOLD, pattern. — moul, v. t. Both Rare.

‖mou'lage' (mōō'läzh'), n. [F.] Molding; specif., Criminology, the making of plastic molds of objects for future use as evidence; also, a mold of such an object.

mould (mōld), mould'board' (mōld'bōrd'; 181), mould'er (mōl'dĕr), mould'y (-dĭ), etc. Vars. of MOLD, MOLDBOARD, etc.; — the usual forms in British use.

mou'lin' (mōō'lăn'), n. [F., lit., a mill, fr. LL. molinum. See 2d MILL.] A nearly vertical shaft in a glacier into which a stream of water pours. See POTHOLE.

mou'lin·age (mōō'lĭ·nĭj), n. [F.] Act or process of reeling off, twisting, and doubling silk filaments.

mou'li·net' (mōō'lĭ·nĕt'; mōō'lĭ·nĕt), n. [F., dim. of moulin mill. See MOULIN.] 1. Drum of a capstan, crane, etc. 2. A machine formerly used for bending a crossbow by winding it up. 3. In sword, saber, and singlestick exercises, a circular swing of the weapon.

moul·leen' (mōō·lēn'), n. [Ir. maolīn, dim. See MULLEY.] A hornless cow. Cf. MULLEY. Anglo-Irish.

moul'rush' (mōōl'rŭsh'), n. [Ir. mulrus, murlus.] The pollack. Ireland.

moult'er (mōl'tĕr). Var. of MOLTER.

moult'er, v. t. & i. To molt. Obs.

moul'ter (dial. mou'tĕr, mōō'-), v. t. & i. To molder. Now Dial.

moul'ter (dial. mou'tĕr, mōō'-). Var. of MULTURE. Dial.

moul'y (mōl'ĭ), adj. Moldy. Now Dial.

mound (mound), n. [F. monde the world, fr. L. mundus. See MUNDANE.] The globe of a sovereign. See GLOBE, n., 4.

mound, n. [Appar. fr. obs. D. mond protection (akin to AS. mund), confused with mount mound (cf. 1st MOUNT). See MUND.] 1. A boundary hedge or fence. Now Dial. 2. A boundary; bounds. Obs. 3. An artificial hill or elevation of earth; a raised bank; a tumulus; bulwark; rampart; also, a natural elevation appearing as if thrown up artificially; a hill, hillock, or knoll. 4. A dam or embankment. Now Rare. 5. Baseball. The slightly elevated ground on which the pitcher stands when pitching. Cant. 6. Civil Engin. In excavation work, a piece of the original ground left at intervals to show the depth excavated.

mound, v. t.; MOUND'ED; MOUND'ING. a To enclose, fortify, or bound with a fence, hedge, mound, or rampart. b To form into, or heap up like, a mound. — v. i. a To make or repair a fence. b To form into mounds; as, the ice mounded.

mound bird or fowl. A megapode.

mound builder. 1. One who or that which builds a mound; specif. [cap.], usually pl., the builders of the earthworks, known as Indian mounds, in the Mississippi Valley, the Gulf States, and the region of the Great Lakes. They are Serpent Mound (500 ft., or following the convolutions 1330 ft., long) of Mound Builders in Ohio.

now known to have been Indians, some of them belonging to stocks recently inhabiting the region. The mounds, some post-Columbian but many several centuries older, are of several kinds: conical burial mounds, altar mounds, effigy mounds, walls and enclosures in various geometric figures, fortifications truncated pyramids or teocalli, etc. Among the most celebrated are: the Cahokia Mound, Madison Co., Ill.; Elephant Mound, Grant Co., Wis.; Etowah Mound, Bartow Co., Ga.; Fort Ancient, Warren Co., Ohio; the Newark Works, Licking Co., Ohio; and the Serpent Mound, Adams Co., Ohio. 2. A megapode.

— mound'-build'ing, adj.

mound burial. Archaeol. Burial under a mound.

Mound City. St. Louis; — so called from the numerous artificial mounds that occupied the site of the city.

mound layer. Hort. A layer rooting above ground by mounding with soil. — mound layering.

mound lily. The Spanish dagger (Yucca gloriosa) of the southwestern U. S. and Mexico. See YUCCA, Illust.

mound maker. A maker of mounds; specif., a megapode.

mound making. See MAKING, n. — mound'-mak'ing, adj.

mound turkey. Any of several of the larger megapodes; esp., the brush turkey and the so-called jungle fowl (Megapodius reinwardtii tumulus).

mound'work' (mound'wŭrk'), n. An artificial mound, as in gardens.

mount (mount), n. [ME. mount, munt, mont, fr. AS. munt and OF. mont, both fr. L. mons, montis; akin to L. eminere, prominere, to project, imminere to project, to threaten, Av. mati- promontory, framanyente they gain advantage, and prob. L. minari to project, threaten. Cf. EMINENT, IMMINENT, MARMOT, MENACE, MONTE, MOUNT, v., MOUNTAIN, PROMINENT.] 1. A mass of earth, or earth and rock, usually conical, rising considerably above the common surface of the surrounding land; a mountain; a high hill; — used always instead of mountain before a proper name; as, Mount Sinai; otherwise, chiefly in poetry. Abbr., Mt. 2. A mound or raised work, as one for military operations, or a raised place or walk in a garden. Obs. exc. Hist. 3. [See MONT-DE-PIÉTÉ.] A bank; a fund. Obs. 4. Fort. A cavalier. 5. Her. A hill, proper (vert), in the base of the shield. 6. Palmistry. See PALMISTRY.

mount (mount), v.; MOUNT'ED; MOUNT'ING. [ME. mounten, monten, fr. OF. monter, fr. (assumed) VL. montare, fr. L. mons, montis, mountain. See 1st MOUNT.] Intransitive: 1. To rise or ascend to a higher position, status, or plane, esp. by a steep course; — often with up.

Though Babylon should mount up to heaven. Jer. li. 53.
As high as we have mounted in delight. Wordsworth.

Hence, specif.: a Obs. To tower aloft. b Now Rare. To extend or grow upward. c To rise to the cheeks; — of blood. d To go back in time. 2. To get up (on something, as a platform or scaffold); esp. to seat oneself on a horse or other animal for riding. 3. To rise or increase in amount; as, debts mount fast. 4. To attain or equal in total or value; to amount. Obs. 5. To swear falsely for pay. Slang, Eng.

—, Transitive: 1. a To ascend; to climb; to ascend along, into, or through; as, to mount the air.

Shall we mount again the rural throne? Dryden.

b To get upon as for riding; to place or seat oneself on; as, to mount a horse; also, to cover, as animals in copulation. 2. To cause to ascend or rise; to erect; to raise or elevate, literally or figuratively; lift; exalt. Obs.

What power is it which mounts my love so high? Shak.

3 To cause to mount, or get on horseback; to put on horseback; to furnish with animals for riding.

To mount the Trojan troop. Dryden.

4. To put or place upon something elevated; as, to mount a statue on its pedestal. 5. To put or fasten upon anything that sustains and fits for use, as a gun on a carriage, a map or picture on paper, a postage stamp in an album, etc.; to prepare for use by placing in proper position or arrangement, as a diamond by setting, a sword blade by adding the hilt, etc. 6. To prepare or set up (a skin, skeleton, etc.) for view, esp. in a natural position or attitude. 7. To furnish with the necessary appurtenances and appliances, esp. for representation; as, to mount a play or an opera, that is, to furnish the scenery, properties, etc. 8. To put on or show oneself in (an article of clothing); to assume; to take up or on. 9. Obs. a To direct upward. b To ascend to in rivalry. c To soar into. d To estimate as amounting. e To raise in value. 10. Bookbinding. To glue or paste, as a sheet of paper, upon a reinforcing ground. 11. Micros. To place (an object) upon a slide or prepare for microscopic examination or manipulation; to arrange (a slide) for such examination or manipulation. 12. Mil. & Nav. a To place or have in position, as guns or cannon. b To be armed or equipped with. c To post as a means of defense or observation; as, to mount a guard.

Syn. — See ASCEND.

mount guard. Mil. To take post and go on duty as a guard; also, to install a guard, as by guard mounting.

mount the ass. To become bankrupt.

mount, n. [From MOUNT, v.] 1. = AMOUNT, n. Obs. 2. Act or manner of mounting; as, the pedal mount in bicycling. 3. That upon which a thing is mounted; mounting; as: a The space between a picture and its frame. b The cardboard or cloth on which a drawing, photograph, or the like is mounted; a mounting. c Of a fan: (1) The handle or frame. (2) The surface, or the material of the surface, used to agitate the air. 4. a A saddle horse used or provided for one's riding; also, humorously, a bicycle, etc. b Colloq. An opportunity or act of riding horseback; esp., a riding or undertaking to ride in a race. 5. Furniture. Usually pl. One of the ornaments, as of a cabinet, chair, or table, serving as edgings or as guards to angles or projections. 6. Microscopy. The glass slide, with its accessories, on which objects are placed for examination with a microscope. 7. Ordn. The structure supporting a cannon, including the carriage proper. 8. Philately. A hinge.

moun'tain (moun'tĭn; -tĕn; 277), n. [ME. mountaine, montaine, fr. OF. montaigne (F. montagne), fr. (assumed) VL. montanea, montania, fr. L. mons, montis, a mountain; cf. LL. montaniosus mountainous, and L. montanus. See 1st MOUNT.] 1. Any part of a land mass which projects conspicuously above its surroundings; in general, an elevation higher than a hill, with comparatively steep slopes, a base rounded rather than greatly elongated, and relatively small summit area; pl., a row or group of such elevations; as, the White Mountains. Abbr. Mt., pl. Mts. (cf. 1st MOUNT, 1). Most mountains of the earth are the result of the compression and slow folding of the outer part of the crust; but mountains are also formed by faulting, by the piling up of products of volcanic eruptions, by the lifting action of igneous intrusion, and by various combinations of these processes. The present form of most mountains and the features suggested by the word scenery are mainly the work of erosion. Some mountains, indeed, are entirely the result of this process, being mere remnants of former extensive plateaus largely removed by erosion. No sharp distinction can be made between plateaus and flat-topped mountains, such as the famous Table Mountain near Cape Town, South Africa. The most beautifully symmetrical mountains, such as Fujiyama in Japan, are built up of volcanic material. Popularly the term mountain is variously used. In generally flat countries, any small hill, a few hundred feet in height, may be locally termed a mountain, while in a mountainous region elevations a thousand feet or more in height may be called hills. 2. pl. A mountainous region, esp. one remote from civilization. Poetic. 3. A great mass; something of great bulk; a vast amount or quantity. "A mountain of debts." J. A. Froude. 4. A Malaga wine made of white grapes picked when thoroughly ripe. 5. Palmistry. A mount (see PALMISTRY).

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:
mountain-built mountain-girded mountain-loving mountain-dwelling mountain-high mountain-walled

— the Mountain. [F. la Montagne.] Fr. Hist. a In the National Convention during the French Revolution, the benches (the highest) occupied by the deputies of the extreme revolutionary faction; hence, these deputies or their party. Cf. the Plain, under PLAIN, n. b Hence, also, in England about 1800 and in France about 1848, a similar extreme faction in the parliament.

moun'tain (moun'tĭn; -tĕn), adj. [From MOUNTAIN, n.] 1. Like a mountain; mountainous; vast; very great.

The high, the mountain majesty of worth. Byron.

2. Native to or inhabiting a mountainous region. 3. Of, pert. or appropriate to, or situated in, the mountains; also, consisting of mountains.

mountain accentor. A Siberian warbler (Prunella montanella) related to the hedge sparrow.

mountain adder. = BERG ADDER.

mountain alder. a A true alder (Alnus rhombifolia) a native of upland regions in the western United States. b = MOUNTAIN MAPLE a.

mountain andromeda. = MOUNTAIN FETTERBUSH.

mountain and valley winds. Meteorol. Breezes of diurnal period depending on the unevenness of land surfaces. The valley winds blow down valleys at night and are usually stronger than the mountain winds that blow up the slope by day.

mountain antelope. = GOAT ANTELOPE.

mountain artillery. Artillery designed for use in, or serving in, a mountainous country or one inaccessible to field artillery, the guns and carriages being light enough to be carried on pack animals and the guns being often portable in sections.

mountain ash. a A Texan species of ash (Fraxinus texensis). b Any of several trees having ashlike leaves, corymbose white flowers, and bright-red fruits: (1) In the U. S., Sorbus americana and S. decora, the latter often called western mountain ash. (2) In Europe, the rowan tree (S. aucuparia). c In Australia: (1) Any of several eucalypts, esp. Eucalyptus virgata and E. sieberiana. (2) A blueberry ash (Elaeocarpus cyaneus), and a related tree (E. longifolia).

mountain asp. The American aspen.

mountain aster. The whorled aster.

mountain avens. The arctic or alpine plant Dryas octopetala. See DRYAS, 2 a; WILD FLOWERS, Plate.

mountain badger. = HOARY MARMOT.

mountain balm. a Oswego tea. b The yerba santa of California, or the related plant Eriodictyon angustifolium of the Rocky Mountains.

mountain balsam. Any of several American firs, esp. Abies fraseri in the Alleghenies and A. amabilis or A. lasiocarpa in the mountains of the western United States.

mountain banana. The fei (Musa fehi).

‖mo'tus pe·cu'li·a'ris. [L.] Astron. = PECULIAR MOTION.

mo·tyk'a (mō·tĭk'ä), n. sing. & pl. [Slav., hoe, hence, ground hoed in a certain time. See MATTOCK.] See MEASURE, Table.

mou, n. [Chin. (Pek.) mou[3], less commonly written mu[3].] Var. of MU, the measure. [MOUTH.]

mou (mōō), n. Scot. var. of MOUTH.

mou (mōō), n. sing. & pl. See MEASURE, Table.

mouch (mōōch). Var. of MOOCH.

mouchache. † MUSTACHIO.

mouche. † MOOCH, MUCH.

mouch'er. Var. of MOOCHER.

mouch·ra'bi·eh (mōōsh·rä'bĭ·ĕ), n. = MOUCHARABY.

moud (mōd). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of MOLD.

moud'i·warp', mou'die·wort', Vars. of MOLDWARP. Now Dial.

mou·e'dhin (mōō·ĕd'ĭn). Var. of MUEZZIN.

mou·ez'zin. Var. of MUEZZIN.

mouf·fette', n. [F. mouffette, mofette. See MOFFETTE.] A skunk. Obs.

mouf'ti. † MUFTI. [MUCKET.]

mou'gat (mōō'gĕt). Var. of mough. Var. of MOW, n. Obs. exc. Dial. [of MAY. Now Dial.] mought (mŏt: mout), past tense of MOTE, MOUTH.

mouh'tar (mōō'tär). Var. of MUKTAR.

mouk'et. Var. of MUCKET.

mou'ls, mou'lsh. † MULLAR.

mould. † MOLD.

mould, adj. = MOLDY. Now Dial.

mould'ed, adj. = MOLDY.

mould'er, n. Mold; clay. Obs.

mould'y-warp'. Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of MOLDWARP.

moule. † MOLE, animal; MOLD.

moule (mōōl), n. [Swiss F., fr. L. modulus. See MOLD matrix.] See MEASURE, Table.

mouls (mōōlz). Var. of MOOLS. Scot. & N. of Eng.

moult, adj. [F., adv., fr. L. multum.] Many; much. Obs.

moult. Var. of MOLT.

moult. Obs. past part. of MELT.

moult'en, adj. Molted. Obs.

moul'ture. † MULTURE.

moun. † MOAN, v.; MOW, v., may; MUN, v.; MOUNT, n., a mountain.

mound'i·ness, n. See -NESS.

mound'let, n. See -LET.

mound'y, adj. See -Y.

moun·seer', Var. of MONSIEUR; — now only humorous.

mount'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE. — mount'a·bly, adv.

mountain barometer. A portable barometer used in measuring the heights of mountains. Cf. OROMETER. mountain battery. Mil. A battery of mountain artillery. mountain bay. A small tree (Gordonia alatamaha) of the southern United States. mountain beaver. A sewellel.
mountain beech. a Australia. The tree Lomatia longifolia. b Australia & N. Z. Any tree of the genus Nothofagus (which see). mountain bindweed. Any plant of the genus Soldanella.
mountain blackberry. A common prickly bramble (Rubus allegheniensis) of the eastern U. S., with compound leaves, white flowers, and juicy black fruits. mountain blackbird. The ring ouzel. Local, Eng.
mountain black snake. The pilot black snake. mountain blue. = MINERAL BLUE, 1 a. — moun'tain-blue', adj.
mountain bluebird. See BLUEBIRD, 1 a. mountain bluet. A European perennial herb (Centaurea montana), often cultivated for its blue flowers, resembling the related bachelor's-button.
mountain bobcat. = LYNX CAT. mountain boomer. a The collared lizard. b Southeastern U. S. The red squirrel. mountain box. a = BEARBERRY a. b N. Z. A common shrub (Veronica buxifolia) with heathlike leaves and white flowers. mountain bracken. See FERN, Table.
mountain bramble. The cloudberry. mountain bunch grass. A forage grass (Festuca viridula) of the western United States.
mountain cabbage. The cabbage palm Roystonea oleracea.
mountain caribou. A caribou (Rangifer montanus) found from British Columbia to Alaska. It is the largest of the woodland caribou group in America.
mountain cat. a The cougar. b A bobcat. c The cacomistle.
mountain centaury. = MOUNTAIN BLUET. mountain cherry. = CHICKASAW PLUM. mountain chickadee. See CHICKADEE. mountain chicken. Frog meat. West Indies.
mountain cock. The capercaillie. mountain colley. The ring ouzel. Local, Eng.
mountain cork. Mineral. A variety of asbestos, resembling cork in its texture and lightness; rock cork. mountain cowslip. = AURICULA, 1. mountain cranberry. A low evergreen shrub (Vaccinium vitis-idaea) of high north temperate regions, with thick oval leaves, white, nodding, bell-shaped flowers, and dark-red berries; — often called lingonberry.
mountain crystal. Rock crystal.
mountain curassow. See OREOPHASIS. mountain damson. a = PARADISE TREE a. b A related Brazilian tree (Simarouba amara); — called also marupa.
mountain devil. = MOLOCH, 3. mountain dew. Whisky, esp. Scotch whisky, illicitly distilled among the mountains. Colloq.
mountain duck. a Local, U. S. & Can. The harlequin duck. b Australia. The sheldrake Casarca tadornoides.
mountain eagle. The golden eagle (Aquila chrysaëtos). mountain ebony. A small East Indian tree (Bauhinia variegata) having hard dark wood; also, its wood. The bark is used medicinally and in tanning.
moun'tained (moun'tĭnd; -tĕnd), adj. a Rare & Poetic. Placed, stationed, or being on a mountain; elevated. b Obs. Massed or heaped up like a mountain. c Obs. Impeded by mountains. d Having, abounding in, or containing, mountains. moun'tain·eer' (moun'tĭ-nēr'), n. [Cf. OF. montanier, adj., ML. montanarius. See MOUNTAIN.] 1. An inhabitant or native of a mountain region.
2. A mountain climber.
3. Fr. Hist. A member of the Mountain.
moun'tain·eer', v. i.; -EERED (-nēr'd'); -EER'ING. To be a mountaineer; to climb mountains. moun'tain·et (moun'tĭ-nĕt; moun'tĭ-nĕt'), moun'tain·ette', n. [F. montagnette, dim. of montagne mountain.] A small mountain. Rare.
mountain fern. Either of the two common shield ferns (Dryopteris oreopteris and D. phegopteris). mountain fetterbush. An ornamental, evergreen shrub (Pieris floribunda) of the southeastern United States, with small white bell-shaped flowers.
mountain fever. Med. Any febrile disease contracted in the mountains and believed locally to be the result of residence in the mountains.
mountain finch. The brambling.
mountain flax. a The purging flax. b The senega snakeroot. c The centaury Centaurium umbellatum. d = QUAKING GRASS a. e The corn spurry. f A New Zealand herb (Phormium cookianum). g Mineral. Amianthus. mountain flesh. A fleshlike variety of asbestos. mountain flower. A common Eurasian crane's-bill (Geranium sylvaticum). mountain fly honeysuckle. A common erect shrub (Lonicera coerulea) of the North Temperate Zone, with yellow flowers and bluish-black berries. mountain folks. The Cameronians. Obs. mountain foxtail. See GRASS, Table. mountain fringe. a The climbing fumitory. b In Colorado, a wormwood (Artemisia frigida). mountain gentian. A Tasmanian gentian (Gentiana saxosa). mountain geranium. The herb Robert.
mountain goat. a A peculiar goatlike mammal (Oreamnos montanus) of the mountains of the northwestern U. S. and northward to Alaska. The form is thickset, the legs short, the horns (present in both sexes) small, polished black, and slightly curved, the chin tufted, and the thick hairy coat pure white. b A goat antelope.

Mountain Goat a.

mountain grape. The sand grape. mountain green. 1. a Obs. = MINERAL GREEN, 1 a. b Terreverte (glauconite). c Paris green mixed with gypsum or barite.
2. = MOUNTAIN PRIDE.
3. The color malachite green.
mountain groundsel. The wood groundsel.
mountain guide. One who guides travelers in climbing or traversing mountains, especially those difficult of ascent near his home.
mountain gum. The Australian tree Eucalyptus tereticornis. mountain gun. A gun used by mountain artillery.
mountain hare. The American varying hare (Lepus americanus) or one of its varieties. mountain heath. A small shrub (Phyllodoce caerulea) with tiny evergreen leaves and pink or purple flowers. It is found in cool regions of the north.
mountain hemlock. a = BLACK HEMLOCK. b Local, Eng. = LOVAGE a. mountain hickory. A large Australian timber tree (Acacia penninervis) with hard wood similar to blackwood. mountain holly. U. S. a A shrub (Nemopanthus mucronata) of eastern N. A., with smooth obovate leaves and scarlet drupes. b An upland species of holly (Ilex dubia monticola) of the eastern United States.
mountain holly fern. = HOLLY FERN a. mountain howitzer. A howitzer used by mountain artillery.
mountain ivy. = MOUNTAIN LAUREL a. Local, U. S. mountain knapweed. = MOUNTAIN BLUET. mountain larch. A Rocky Mountain larch (Larix lyallii). mountain laurel. a A North American evergreen shrub (Kalmia latifolia) with glossy leaves and umbels of rose-colored or white flowers. The foliage is poisonous if eaten. It is the State flower of Connecticut and of Pennsylvania and has many popular names, as American laurel, ivy, or mountain ivy, calico bush, etc. See STATE FLOWER, Plate; KALMIA. b The California laurel.
mountain leather. Mineral. A variety of asbestos in thin flexible sheets, tough like leather.
mountain leatherwood. The fiannelbush. Calif. mountain licorice. Alpine clover; — from the sweetish root. mountain lilac. Any Californian shrub of the genus Ceanothus, esp. C. divaricatus.
mountain lily. a The garden Turk's-cap lily (Lilium martagon). b A Japanese lily (Lilium auratum) with showy, crimson-spotted, yellow-banded white flowers. Its bulbs once served as food for the Japanese. c N. Z. A showy white-flowered buttercup (Ranunculus lyallii). mountain limestone. Geol. = CARBONIFEROUS LIMESTONE a; — so called because of its occurrence in hills and mountains in England. It is generally equivalent to the Mississippian of the North American section. mountain linnet. The twite. Eng.
mountain lion. The cougar. mountain locomotive. See LOCOMOTIVE, Table.
mountain lover. A small trailing evergreen shrub (Pachystima canbyi) of the southeastern United States; also, the related Oregon box (P. myrsinites). mountain magnolia. Any of several upland American magnolias, as Magnolia acuminata and M. fraseri.
mountain magpie. a The green woodpecker. b Local, Eng. The European butcher bird (Lanius excubitor). mountain mahoe. A West Indian tree (Pariti elatum), related to the majagua, with flowers that change from pale pink in the morning to deep red in the evening.
mountain mahogany. a Any western American shrub or tree of the genus Cercocarpus, family Rosaceae, esp. C. montanus (called also feather tree), and C. ledifolius. They have gray bark and reddish wood. b The sweet birch Betula lenta. c A yew (Taxus brevifolia) of the Pacific coast of the United States. mountain maker, making. See MAKER, MAKING, n. — moun'tain-mak'ing, adj.
mountain manchineel. = POISONWOOD a. mountain mango. = WILD FIG c. mountain maple. Any of various American shrubby maples, found in mountain regions; as: a In the Eastern States, Acer spicatum. b In the Rocky Mountains, A. glabrum. c In Oregon, the vine maple. mountain mint. a Any American mint of the genus Pycnanthemum, esp. the basil mint. b Calamint. c Oswego tea. mountain mint weevil. A Californian undershrub (Chamaebatia foliolosa), which often forms an impenetrable thicket.
Mountain Mother. Gr. Myth. See GREAT MOTHER. mountain oak. The chestnut oak Quercus prinus. U. S. mountain of piety. = MONT-DE-PIÉTÉ. Now Humorous. mountain of Venus. a = MONS VENERIS. b [caps.] = VENUSBERG. moun'tain·ous (moun'tĭ-nŭs), adj. [F. montagneux, fr. LL. montaniosus.] 1. Obs. a Situated or being in the mountains. b Inhabiting mountains; hence, barbarous. c Derived or coming from, or peculiar to, mountains.
2. Containing, or abounding in, mountains; characterized by mountains; as, mountainous country or district.
3. Resembling a mountain, esp. in size; huge.
— moun'tain·ous·ly, adv. — moun'tain·ous·ness, n. mountain ouzel. The ring ouzel. Local, Eng.
mountain panther. a The ounce. b The cougar. mountain paper. Mineral. A form of asbestos similar to mountain leather. mountain parrot. The kea. mountain parsley. a A European herb (Peucedanum oreoselinum). The aromatic seed and root possess aperient properties. b The parsley fern Cryptogramma crispa.
mountain partridge. a In Jamaica, the partridge dove. b The mountain quail. mountain partridgeberry. The creeping snowberry. mountain peach. = YERBA SANTA. Calif.
mountain pear. A South African timber tree (Cathastrum capense), family Celastraceae. mountain pheasant. The ruffed grouse. North Carolina.
mountain phlox. A common mountain herb (Phlox ovata) of the southeastern U. S., with showy pink or red flowers.
mountain pine. a In the United States any of several pines, esp. a tall western timber tree (Pinus monticola) resembling the white pine. b Australia. One of the sandarac trees (Callitris muelleri). c N. Z. (1) Any of various trees of the genus Dacrydium, with cedarlike foliage and tough wood. (2) An evergreen tree (Libocedrus bidwillii) resembling the kawaka. d In Europe, the Swiss mountain pine. mountain pink. a U. S. (1) = ARBUTUS, 2. (2) Moss pink. (3) Pinkster flower. b Eng. The Cheddar pink. mountain plover. A small plover (Eupoda montana) of the plains of the western United States. mountain plum. A tropical tree (Ximenia americana), family Olacaceae, common in Florida and the West Indies, the edible fruit of which resembles a yellow plum. mountain pride. A Jamaican tree (Spathelia simplex), family Simaroubaceae — with pinnate leaves and panicles of red flowers. mountain quail. A partridge (Oreortyx picta palmeri) of California, slightly larger than the California quail.
mountain railroad or railway. A railroad for places so steep that special means, as cables, racks and pinions, central rails, and gripping devices, or the like, have to be used.
mountain range. A series of mountains, or mountain ridges, closely related in position and direction.
mountain raspberry. The cloudberry. mountain rat. A bushy-tailed rat (Neotoma cinerea) of the western United States.
mountain redtop. = RHODE ISLAND BENT.

Mountain Quail (Oreortyx picta palmeri).

mountain rhubarb. The European dock Rumex alpinus. mountain ribbonwood. The ribbonwood Adenostoma sparsifolium.
mountain rice. a Any American grass of the genus Oryzopsis, esp. the Rocky Mountain forage grass O. hymenoides. b Any of several other grasses, as various species of Stipa, Elymus condensatus, Andropogon scoparius, etc.

Mountain Rice (Oryzopsis hymenoides).

moun'tain ri'mu (rē'mōō). A shrub (Dacrydium laxifolium) of New Zealand. mountain ring. Astron. = RING MOUNTAIN. mountain rose. a A European alpine rose (Rosa pendulina) with crimson flowers. b A West Indian plant (Antigonon leptopus). See ANTIGONON. c The great laurel. mountain rush. A common joint fir (Ephedra antisyphilitica) of the central and western United States. mountain sage. a Any of several plants of the genus Artemisia. b Wood germander. mountain sandwort. A boreal or alpine sandwort (Arenaria groenlandica) with pretty white flowers.
mountain sheep. 1. Any of various wild sheep inhabiting high mountains in different parts of the world. In America, applied esp. to the bighorn, or Rocky Mountain sheep (Ovis canadensis), which ranges from northern Mexico to northern British Columbia. It is similar to the Asiatic argali, but smaller, the horns rarely exceeding 16 inches in circumference at the base. Its color is chiefly grayish brown. A paler form (O. nelsoni) inhabits the arid ranges of California. Another species (O. dalli) found in Alaska is smaller and entirely white. O. stonei, found in the Yukon Territory and British Columbia, is iron-gray.
2. Any of several breeds of domestic sheep of the highlands of England and Scotland, as the Cheviot and Dartmoor.
mountain sickness. Med. A feeling of illness experienced by mountain climbers or by those ascending to extreme altitudes, due to the rarefaction of the air. It is marked by difficulty of breathing, fatigue, general debility, and, often, by nausea. — moun'tain-sick', adj.
mountain snow. = SNOW-ON-THE-MOUNTAIN. mountain snuff. = MOUNTAIN TOBACCO. mountain soap. An unctuous variety of halloysite.
mountain sorrel. A low perennial herb (Oxyria digyna), with kidney-form leaves and greenish flowers, found in northern latitudes in both hemispheres.
mountain sparrow. The European tree sparrow.
mountain specter. = BROCKEN SPECTER. mountain spinach. The garden orach. mountain spleenwort. See FERN, Table.
mountain spruce. The Engelmann spruce. mountain starwort. The mountain sandwort.
Mountain State. West Virginia; — a nickname.
Mountain States. The States of the Rocky Mountain region of the United States, according to the United States Census Bureau comprising a geographic division. They are Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, and Nevada. mountain sumac. a The dwarf sumac. b The mountain ash Sorbus americana. mountain sweet. The New Jersey tea. mountain tallow. Hatchettine.
Mountain Tatar. See TAULI. mountain tea. The wintergreen (Gaultheria procumbens); also, an infusion of its leaves. mountain thrush. a Local, Eng. The ring ouzel. b An Australian thrush (Oreocincla lunulata).
Mountain time. See STANDARD TIME. mountain timothy. See GRASS, Table.
mountain tobacco. A species of Arnica (A. montana).
moun'tain·top' (moun'tĭn-tŏp'; moun'tĕn-), n. The summit of a mountain. mountain trout. a Alabama. The smallmouthed black bass. See BLACK BASS. b Eastern U. S. The brook trout. mountain white. A white person dwelling in the mountains, specif. of the southeastern United States.
mountain willow. a A willow (Salix phylicifolia) of Europe and northeastern North America. b A tree willow (Salix scouleriana) of uplands in the western U. S. mountain wine. = MOUNTAIN, n., 4. mountain witch. The quail dove Geotrygon versicolor. Jamaica.
mountain wood. Mineral. Compact fibrous asbestos, in appearance recalling dry wood.
moun'tain·y (moun'tĭ-nĭ), adj. 1. Mountainous.
2. Of, pertaining to, or living in the mountains. Dial.
mountain yellow. = YELLOW OCHER b. mountain zebra. The South African narrow-striped zebra (Equus zebra). moun'tant (moun'tănt), adj. [F. montant, pres. part. See MONTANT.] Mounting; rising; raised. Obs. — n. a Astrol. Obs. Ascendant. b Any adhesive used for mounting photographs, drawings, etc.
Mount Ba'don (bā'dŭn). See BADON. moun'te-bank (moun'tē-băngk), n. [It. montimbanco, montambanco, fr. montare to mount + in in, upon + moun'tain·er, n. = MOUNTAINEER, 2, 1. Obs.	moun'tain·less, adj. See -LESS. moun'tain·like', adj. See -LIKE.	moun'tain·ly, adj. Hilly. Obs. moun'tain·side', n. See -SIDE.	moun'tain·ward (-wĕrd), adj. & adv., -wards (-wĕrdz), adv. See -WARD, -WARDS. mountan. † MUNTIN.	moun'tance, n. [OF. montance.] Amount; sum; value. Obs.

banco bench. See 2d MOUNT; BANK money.] 1. One who mounts a bench or stage in the market or other public place and sells quack medicines; a traveling quack doctor.
2. Any boastful and unscrupulous pretender; a man of trickery and buffoonery; a charlatan.
3. = MOUNTEBANKERY. Obs.
Syn. — See IMPOSTOR.

moun'te·bank (moun'tē·băngk), v. t.; -BANKED (-băngkt); -BANK'ING. Obs. a To cheat by boasting and false pretenses; to gull. b To introduce by mountebankery, or false pretensions. — v. i. To play the mountebank.

moun'te·bank'er·y (moun'tē·băngk'ĕr·ĭ), moun'te·bank·ism (-băngk·ĭz'm), n. The practices of a mountebank; charlatanry.

moun'te·bank'ly, adv. In mountebank fashion. Rare.

mount'ed (moun'tĕd; -tĭd; 119), adj. 1. Raised; elevated; — literally or figuratively. Now Rare.
2. Seated, serving, or performed on horseback or the like; as, mounted police; mounted infantry.
3. Adjusted or prepared for use; placed on a suitable support, fixed in a setting, etc.; furnished; equipped; as, a mounted gun; a mounted map; a mounted gem.
4. Organ Building. Set up; displayed; — said of a stop having its pipes displayed as part of the organ case or otherwise specially set up. Cf. MONTRE.

mounted infantry. Mil. See INFANTRY, 1 a.

Mounted Police. = NORTHWEST MOUNTED POLICE.

mounted work. Silverware with ornaments soldered on.

moun'tee (moun'tē), n. [F. montée a mounting.] Mil. A call or alarm to mount. Obs.

mount'er (moun'tĕr), n. One who or that which mounts

Mount'ie, mount'ie (moun'tĭ), n. A member of the North-West Mounted Police. Colloq.

mount'ing, n. 1. Act of one who mounts; specif., of one who mounts on horseback, or who mounts skins, etc.
2. That which serves as a mount or by which anything is prepared or equipped for use, or set off to advantage; equipment; embellishment; setting; as, the mounting of a sword, diamond, gun, or picture; specif., of a telescope: a The nonoptical parts (pier axes, circles, tubes, etc.). b The standard or support; as, an equatorial mounting.
3. The harness of a loom.

mounting, adj. That mounts. — mount'ing·ly, adv.

mount of Apollo, Jupiter, lower Mars, etc. See PALMISTRY, 1.

mount of piety. See MONT-DE-PIÉTÉ. Obs.

moun'ture (moun'tŭr), n. [F. monture. See 2d MOUNT.] 1. Obs. a A mount, as a horse. b A structure for mounting on; also, a mound, as of earth. c = MOUNTING, 3.
2. Gun. Angle of elevation. Rare.

mount'y (moun'tĭ), n. [F. montée, fr. monter. See 2d MOUNT.] Rise of a hawk after prey. Obs.

moup, moop (mōōp), v. t. & i. To nibble; also, to keep company or associate (with). Scot.

mourn (mōrn; 181), v.; MOURNED (mōrnd); MOURN'ING. [ME. mournen, fr. AS. murnan; akin to OS. mornian, OHG. mornēn, Goth. maurnan, and to L. memor mindful. See MEMORY.] Intransitive: 1. To express or to feel grief or sorrow; to grieve; to be sorrowful; to lament, esp. someone's death.
2. To show the customary tokens of grief for the death of someone; esp., to wear the customary garb of a mourner.

Grieve for an hour, perhaps, then mourn a year. Pope.

3. Obs. a To have longing; to long. b To pine; — of animals. c To address lamentations; — with to. d To droop; — of plants.
4. To make a low continued sound likened to moaning; — said esp. of doves; also, Scot. & Dial. Eng., to moan.
—, Transitive: 1. To grieve or express grief for (a misfortune, fault, bereavement, or person deceased); to lament; deplore; bemoan; bewail. "As if he mourned his rival's ill success." Addison.
2. To utter in a mournful manner or voice.
Syn. — See GRIEVE. Ant. — Exult, rejoice, joy. mourn (Scot. mŭrn), n. 1. Mourning; sorrow. Obs.

2. A murmur. Scot.

mourn (mōrn; 181), v. i. [Prob. (after mourn to lament) fr. the F. source of mortechien. Oxf. E. D.] In phrase to mourn of the chine, to have mourning of the chine. Obs. — mourn'er, n. Obs.

mourn'er (mōr'nĕr; 181), n. 1. One who mourns or is grieved at any misfortune; specif., one especially afflicted by a death, as of a near relative or friend; one present at a funeral out of affection or respect for the dead.
2. One hired to attend a funeral to mourn for the dead.
3. One professing conviction of sin at a revival meeting. Local, U. S.

mourn'ers' bench (-nĕrz). At revival meetings, a seat near the front reserved for "mourners"; anxious seat. Local, U. S.

mourn'ful (mōrn'fŏŏl; -f'l; 181), adj. 1. Full of sorrow or grief; also, denoting or expressing sorrow; sorrowful; sad; doleful; as, a mournful person; mournful looks, tones.
2. Causing sorrow; saddening; as, mournful news.
— mourn'ful·ly, adv. — mourn'ful·ness, n.

mournful widow. Bot. The sweet scabious.

mourn'ing, n. 1. Act of sorrowing or expressing grief, esp. for a person's death; lamentation; sorrow; also, an expression of grief; a lament.
2. The customary exhibition of grief for the death of a person, esp. the wearing of black clothes; an instance of this; also, the period of so doing.
3. Garb, drapery, or emblems indicative of grief; esp., among Western nations, clothing or a badge of black.
— in mourning. 1. Expressing conventionally grief at another's death, as specif. by wearing mourning.
2. Hence, Slang: a Of the eyes, blackened. b Of the fingernails, black-bordered with dirt.

mourn'ing, adj. a That mourns; sorrowing; sad. b Suitable for or indicative of mourning; esp., of or ornamented with black, as indicative of mourning; as, a mourning coach; a mourning band, usually of crape and worn on the sleeve or the hat; a mourning ring; specif., of stationery, black-bordered. — mourn'ing·ly, adv.

mourn'ing, verbal n. of 3d MOURN; — only in mourning of the chine, glanders. Obs.

mourning bride. The sweet scabious.

mourning cloak. a A black cloak formerly worn by mourners at a funeral. b A purplish-brown butterfly (Euvanessa antiopa) with a broad yellow border to the wings, found both in Europe and America.

mourning dove. A wild dove (Zenaidura macroura carolinensis), of the United States, resembling the passenger pigeon in form and plumage, though much smaller; — so named from its plaintive note. An allied race Z. m. marginella occurs in western North America.

Mourning Dove.

mourning warbler. A warbler (Oporornis philadelphia) of eastern North America. The male has the head, neck, and chest deep ash-gray, mixed with black on the throat and chest. The lower parts are pure yellow.

mourning widow. a The sweet scabious. b A European geranium (Geranium phaeum) with dark-colored flowers.

mourning willow. = SAGE WILLOW a.

mour'ni·val (mōr'nĭ·văl; 181), n. [F. mornifle a game at cards.] 1. A set of four aces, kings, queens, or knaves, in one hand. Archaic.
2. Hence, a set or group of four.

mouse (mouz; n.; pl. MICE (mīs). [ME. mous, mus, fr. AS. mūs, pl. mȳs; akin to D. muis, G. maus, OS., OHG. & ON. mūs, L. mus, Gr. myς, Alban. mī, OSlav. myšĭ, Armen. mukn, Skr. mūş. Cf. MARMOT, MUSCLE, MUSK, MUSSEL.] 1. Any of numerous species of small rodents, esp. the house mouse (Mus musculus), orig. a native of Eurasia, but now found in human habitations throughout most of the world. It is about six inches long, including the long tail, with soft fur which is grayish brown above and buffy below. The house mouse is the parent form of numerous variously modified domesticated varieties, as the white mice. The name is applied to all the smaller species of Mus, and is extended with or without qualifying terms to members of various other genera of the family Muridae, and also of other families of rodents, comprising forms differing greatly in habits, appearance, and details of structure, but all of small size. The common native mouse of Europe is Apodemus sylvaticus, which has reddish-brown upper parts and a pure-white belly. The smallest British species is the harvest mouse (Micromys minutus). In America the most common wild mice are those of the genus Peromyscus, containing the white-footed mouse (which see) and its numerous allies, and certain voles of the genus Microtus, commonly known as meadow mice. See VOLE, HARVEST MOUSE, POCKET MOUSE, JUMPING MOUSE, etc.

White-footed Mouse (Peromyscus leucopus).

2. A person, as a woman, so called by way of endearment.
3. A kind of match used in blasting or in firing guns.
4. A small round hair pad. Cf. RAT. U. S.
5. a A small leaden weight fastened to a string, used in pulling the sash cords into place over the pulleys in the jambs of a window-sash frame. b A similar weight used by plumbers to clear a stoppage in a closet pipe. c A conical piece of wood to which a fine wire is attached and so constructed that it may be forced by the pressure of compressed air through underground conduits. It is used to pull cables, attached to the wire, into place in the conduits.
6. Slang. a A dark-colored swelling caused by a blow. b A person of small importance; one without spirit or courage; as, Are you a man or a mouse?
7. [AS. mūs muscle. See MUSCLE.] A muscle; now, Dial. Eng., any of various muscular parts of meat.
8. The color mouse gray.
9. Anthropol. In old European folk belief, the form taken by the soul at death as it escapes through the mouth.
10. Naut. a A knob made on a rope with spun yarn parceling, or the like, as to prevent a running eye from slipping. b = MOUSING a.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

mouse-brown, adj.	mouse-eaten	mouseproof mouse-colored	mouse-killing, adj.	mouse-still mouse (mouz), v.; MOUSED (mouzd); MOUS'ING (mouz'ĭng). Intrans.: 1. To hunt or watch for and catch mice.

2. To watch for or pursue anything in a sly or diligent manner; to pry about, on the lookout for something.
3. To move about softly, like a mouse; to prowl.
—, Trans.: 1. To handle as a cat does a mouse; hence, to pull about roughly in sport; to toy or play with wantonly. Obs. "[Death] mousing the flesh of men." Shak.
2. To hunt as a cat hunts a mouse; also, to search for patiently and carefully, as in odd corners.
3. Naut. To furnish with a mouse; to secure by means of a mousing.

mouse over. To pore over; to study absorbedly. U. S.

mouse'bane' (mous'bān'), n. A common European monkshood (Aconitum napellus) with poisonous foliage.

mouse barley. = WALL BARLEY a. mouse'bird' (mous'bûrd'), n. a A coly (which see). b U. S. The white-rumped shrike.

mouse bloodwort. = MOUSE-EAR a.

mouse bur. The fruit of the unicorn plant.

mouse chop. A South African fig marigold (Mesembryanthemum murinum).

mouse control. A mechanical device which automatically corrects small errors of a driving clock.

mouse deer. A chevrotain.

mouse'–dun', n. Mouse gray. — mouse'–dun' (66), adj.

mouse'–ear', n. a Also mouse'–ear' hawk'weed'. A European hawkweed (Hieracium pilosella); — from its soft hairy leaves. b The forget-me-not (Myosotis). c Mouse-ear chickweed. d Also mouse'–ear' ey'er·last'ing or plan'tain. The cat's-foot Antennaria plantaginifolia. e = LOW CUDWEED.

mouse'–ear', or mouse'–eared', chick'weed'. Either of the two common hairy chickweeds Cerastium vulgatum and C. viscosum.

mouse–ear cress. A Eurasian crucifer (Arabidopsis thaliana), naturalized as a weed in the United States.

mouse'–eared' (mous'ērd'), adj. Having an appendage suggestive of the ear of a mouse.

mouse–ear scorpion grass. The forget-me-not Myosotis palustris.

mouse'fish' (mous'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. The common sargassum fish (Histrio pictus).

mouse galago. A West African galago (Galago demidoffi).

mouse grass. See GRASS, Table.

mouse gray. The color of the house mouse, reddish-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

mouse hare. A pika.

mouse'hawk' (mous'hôk'), n. a Local, Eng. An owl; esp., the short-eared owl or the hawk owl. b Any of several hawks; esp., the marsh hawk or the rough-legged hawk.

mouse'hole' (mous'hōl'), n. A hole made by a mouse, for passage or abode, as in a wall; hence, a very small hole.

mouse'hound' (-hound'), n. A weasel. Local, Eng.

mouse hunt. a Obs. exc. Dial. An animal that hunts mice, esp. a weasel. b Rare. A hunt for or as if for a mouse.

mouse lemur. a A dwarf lemur. b A lemur of the genus Cheirogaleus.

mouse'let (mous'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), mouse'ling (-lĭng), n. A small or young mouse.

mouse milk. The sun spurge.

mouse mill, or mouse'mill' (mous'mĭl'), n. Elec. A small induction machine used for electrifying the needle of a quadrant electrometer, or the ink in a siphon recorder to cause it to fall in drops.

mouse opossum. See OPOSSUM.

mouse owl. The short-eared owl.

mouse pea. The meadow pea.

mous'er (mouz'ĕr), n. A cat or, rarely, other animal that catches mice. Hence: One who pries about looking or searching for something; specif., Slang, a detective.

mous'er·y (mous'ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. MOUSERIES (-ĭz). A place inhabited by a colony of mice or voles.

mouse septicemia. An infectious disease of mice caused by Erysipelothrix murisepticae (syn. Bacillus murisepticus).

mouse'tail' (mous'tāl'), n. a Any plant of the genus Myosurus, esp. M. minimus; — from the taillike torus of the flower. b Any of various other plants with a taillike inflorescence.

mouse thorn. = STAR THISTLE a.

Mouse Tower. In German legend, the tower on an island in the Rhine near Bingen in which Hatto was eaten by mice. See HATTO.

mouse'trap' (mous'trăp'), n. A trap for mice. Hence: a Humorous. A little house. b A lure to destruction. c A fishing tool for removing chopped-up rope and other small objects from a drilled well.

mouse'trap', v. t. To catch or entrap in or as in a mousetrap.

mousetrap switch. Elec. An automatic switch operated by an electromagnet.

mouse'web' (mōōs'wĕb'), n. A cobweb; gossamer; also, phlegm. Scot. & N. of Eng.

mous'ey (mouz'ĭ; mous'ĭ). Var. of MOUSY, adj.

mous'ey (mouz'ĭ), n. A mouse; — a playful diminutive.

mous'ing (mouz'ĭng), n. a Naut. A turn or lashing of spun yarn or small stuff, or a metallic clasp or fastening, uniting the point and shank of a hook to prevent its unhooking or straightening out. b A ratchet movement in a loom.

mousing, adj. That mouses; prowling; prying; hence, inquisitive; also, rapacious. — mous'ing·ly, adv.

mousing hook. A hook with an attachment like a mousing which prevents its unhooking.

mou'sle (mou'z'l), v. t. [Freq. of mouse, v.] To pull about roughly; to rumple. Now Rare.

mous'mee (mōōs'mā), n. Also mous'mé, [Jap. musume daughter, girl.] An unmarried Japanese girl, as a tea girl.

mous'que·taire' (mōōs'kē·târ'), n. [F.] 1. A musketeer esp. [cap.], one of the French royal musketeers of the 17th and 18th centuries conspicuous both for their daring and their dandified dress and carriage. The term is used adjectively of various articles of dress fancied to resemble those worn by them; as, mousquetaire cuff, glove, sleeve, etc.

Mousquetaire, 17th cent.

2. = MOUSQUETAIRE GLOVE.

mousquetaire cuff. A deep flaring cuff.

mousquetaire glove. A glove with long loose wrist and no lengthwise opening, or a short one with few buttons.

mousquetaire sleeve. A long tight sleeve shirred lengthwise to give soft horizontal folds around the arm.

mousse (mōōs), n. [F., froth, foam, fr. L. mulsa hydromel. See MULSE.] 1. Cookery. a A frozen dessert of sweetened and flavored whipped cream or thin cream and gelatin, frozen without stirring; a similar unsweetened product, often containing cheese or vegetables, and used for salad. b A gelatin dish made of a purée of meat or fish lightened with whipped cream.
2. Moss green.

mousse (mōōs), n. [F., fr. It. mozzo, fr. Sp. mozo young man, fr. L. mustеus, mustus young. See 1st MOTHER.] Naut. A boy serving in an officers' mess. Brit.

‖mousse'line' (mōōs'lēn'), n. [F. See MUSLIN.] 1. Muslin.
2. Muslin glass; — called also mousseline glass; also, a wineglass made of it.

‖mousse'line' de laine' (dĕ lĕn'). [F., muslin of wool.] Muslin delaine. See DELAINE.

‖mousse'line' de soie' (swȧ'). [F., muslin of silk.] A soft thin silk fabric with a weave like that of muslin; silk muslin.

‖mous'seux' (mōō'sû'), adj. [F.] Of wine, sparkling.

mous·tache', mous·ta'chio, etc. Vars. of MUSTACHE, etc.

Mous·te'ri·an, Mous·tie'ri·an (mōōs·tē'r'ĭ·ăn), adj. [F. moustérien.] Of, pertaining to, or designating, a period of paleolithic culture named after the type station of Moustier cave, on the bank of the Vézère, in France. This period marks the culmination of the Neanderthal race.

mous'toc (mōōs'tŏk), n. The mustache monkey.

mous'y (mous'ĭ; mouz'ĭ), adj.; MOUS'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); MOUS'I·EST. a Of or resembling a mouse. b Quiet like a mouse. c Infested with mice; smelling of mice. — mous'i·ly, adv. — mous'i·ness, n.

mous'y (mous'ĭ). Var. of MOUSEY, n.

mou'tan' (mōō'tăn'), n. [Chin. (Pek.) mu²·tan¹, lit., tree peony.] The tree peony.

mouth (mouth), n.; pl. MOUTHS (mouthz). [ME. mouth, muth, fr. AS. mūth; akin to D. mond, OS. mūth, G. mund, ON. muthr, munnr, Sw. mun, Dan. mund, Goth. munths, Gr. mastax mouth, morsel, masasthai to chew, mastichan mou'te·bank'ish, adj. See -ISH. moun'te·nance (moun'tē·nănz), n. Amount; quantity; value. Obs.

---

mounting medium. See MEDIUM, n., 7 b. mountjack. ✝ MANJAK. mount'let, n. See -LET. [MOURN. mourne. ✝ MORNE, lance head; mourn'er·ess, n. See -ESS. mourn'some (mōrn'sŭm; 181), adj. See -SOME.
mour'sa. Var. of MURSA. mous, n., pl. of MOW, a jest. Obs. exc. Scot. [COLORED. mouse'-col'or, adj. = MOUSE-Mou·sei'on, n. = MUSEUM, 1. mouse'kin, n. See -KIN. mouse'like', adj. See -LIKE.
mouse'ship, n. See -SHIP.
mousetail grass. a = SLENDER FOXTAIL. b = RATTAIL, n. c. mousick, mousike. ✝ MUZHIK. mous'ie. Var. of MOUSEY, n. mous'ie (mous'ĭ; Scot. mōōs'ĭ).
Var. of MOUSEY, dim. [MONSONI.
Mou'so·ni' (mōō'sō·nē'), n. = mous·sen'a (mōō·sĕn'ȧ). Var. of MESENNA. moust. Var. of MUST, musk. mous'tang, mous'tang·er.
Vars. of MUSTANG, MUSTANGER. mous'tick, n. [F. moustique.] = 1st MOSQUITO. Obs. [MOUGHT. mout (mōt; mout). Var. of mout (Scot. mōōt). Obs. exc. Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of MOLT.

---

to gnash the teeth, L. mandere to chew. Cf. MANGER, MASSETER, MASTIC, MASTICATE.] 1. The opening through which an animal receives food; the aperture between the jaws or between the lips; also, the cavity, containing the tongue and teeth, between the lips and the pharynx; the buccal cavity; also, the structures enclosing this cavity; as, to seize with the mouth.

Section of Human Mouth and adjacent Structures. 1 Interior of Nasal Fossa; 2, 3, 4 Superior, Middle, and Inferior Conchae; 5 Opening of Nasolacrimal Duct; 6 Sphenoid Bone; 7 Interior of Pharynx; 8 Opening of Eustachian Tube; 9 Hard Palate; 10 Soft Palate; 11 Uvula; 12 Tonsil; 13 Tongue; 14 Epiglottis; 15 Interior of Esophagus; 16 Cricoid Cartilage; 17 Interior of Larynx; 18 Thyroid Cartilage; 19 Hyoid Bone.

2. a The mouth as the means of eating, swallowing, tasting, etc.; hence, a person as a consumer of food; as, hungry mouths. b The mouth as the means of speech or voice; as, out of the mouths of fools; hence, speech; utterance.

That in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. Matt. xviii. 16.

3. An opening resembling or likened to a mouth, as one affording entrance or exit; orifice; aperture; as: a The mouth of a jar or pitcher; the mouth of a cave, pit, well, or embrasure in a fortification; the mouth of a volcano. b The opening through which the waters of a river or any stream are discharged. c The entrance into a harbor. d The opening out of a hollow way, as in a tube, burrow, or drain. e The opening between the jaws of a pair of scissors or pincers or of a vise or similar tool. f The space in front of the cutter of a carpenter's plane through which the shavings pass.

4. Of a horse, capability of being guided by the bit.

5. A wry face; a grimace; a mow.

Make mouths upon me when I turn my back. Shak.

6. A mouthpiece, or spokesman. Now Rare.

7. Short for MOUTHPIECE, as of a bit or pipe.

8. Slang. a A noisy fellow. b A dupe. c Impudence.

9. Arch. = SCOTIA.

10. Bot. The summit of the tube of a corolla.

11. Ceramics. Any of several furnaces, each connected by a flue to a central opening in the oven, in a pottery kiln.

12. Metal. The opening in a metallurgical furnace through which it is charged; also, the taphole.

13. Mining. The entrance to a mine shaft or adit.

14. Music. The opening between the lips of an organ pipe (see FLUE PIPE, Illust.); also, an opening in a flute or similar instrument across which the performer blows.

15. Ordnance. The opening of a piece of ordnance, through which it is discharged.

16. Railroads. The space between the toe and throat of a frog.

17. Zool. The opening, or aperture, of any univalve shell.

— by mouth. = BY WORD OF MOUTH. Obs. — *down in the mouth. Dejected; chapfallen. Colloq. — *from mouth to mouth. From one speaker to another, as in repetition or speaking in turn. — *keep one's mouth shut. To maintain silence. Colloq. — *mouth to mouth. In close conference; face to face. A Hebraism. R. — *with one mouth. Unanimously. A Hebraism.

mouth (mouth), v.; MOUTHED (mouthd); MOUTH'ING. Transitive: 1. To utter; now usually, to utter with a voice affectedly big or swelling; to speak in a strained or unnaturally sonorous manner; to declaim; as, mouthing platitudes.

"Mouthing out his hollow oes and aes." Tennyson.

2. To make mouths at. Rare.

3. To take into, or put in, the mouth; to seize with the mouth or teeth; to mumble; lick; also, rarely, to eat with much movement of the jaws and mouth.

4. a To accustom (a horse) to the bit and bridle. b To examine the mouth of (a horse).

5. To swage the top of (a metal can) to receive the cover.

—, Intransitive: 1. To speak; talk; now only, to speak with a full, loud, or affected voice; to declaim; rant.

2. To be, or be capable of being, mouthed, or declaimed.

3. Of a river, to empty; to disembogue.

4. To put mouth to mouth; to kiss. Obs. Shak.

5. To make mouths or grimaces, esp. in contempt.

mouth (mouth), adj. 1. Pert. to or used for the mouth.

2. Merely verbal; lip; as, mouth honor, love.

mouth (mōt; mout). Obs. past tense of MAY (auxiliary verb).

mouth'a·ble (mouth'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of, or fitted for, being mouthed. "Mouthable lines." O. W. Holmes.

mouth breathing. Habitual inhalation through the mouth.

mouth'breed'er (mouth'brēd'ĕr), n. Any of several small fishes, family Cichlidae, which carry their eggs and young in the mouth, esp. Haplochromis multicolor, of Africa.

mouthed (mouthd; moutht; 277), adj. 1. Having a mouth; formed in respect to the mouth; as, mouthed like a cony.

2. Having the mouth open; gaping. Obs.

-mouthed (-mouthd; -mouth). A combining form of mouthed, denoting having (so many) mouths or (such a) mouth or, by extension, voice or manner or kind of speech. Corresponding adverbs are formed in -ly, as weak-mouthedly; corresponding nouns are formed in -ness.

bellmouthed	flat-mouthed	mealymouthed bigmouthed	foulmouthed	narrow-mouthed birdmouthed	free-mouthed	openmouthed black-mouthed	fullmouthed	port-mouthed bloody-mouthed	gentlemouthed	rabbit-mouthed blue-mouthed	gobmouthed	red-mouthed broad-mouthed	golden-mouthed	roundmouthed broken-mouthed	greatmouthed	single-mouthed bull-mouthed	hardmouthed	slowmouthed butter-mouthed	hog-mouthed	smallmouthed closemouthed	honeymouthed	smoothmouthed dainty-mouthed	hotmouthed	splaymouthed deepmouthed	humblemouthed	square-mouthed double-mouthed	largemouthed	sweetmouthed evilmouthed	lightmouthed	three-mouthed fine-mouthed	longmouthed	weakmouthed fire-mouthed	loosemouthed	white-mouthed flannelmouthed	loudmouthed	widemouthed flapmouthed	many-mouthed	wry-mouthed mouth'er (mouth'ĕr), n. a One who mouths; an affected or declamatory speaker. b Slang. A blow on the mouth.

mouth'-fill'ing, adj. Filling the mouth, as a bombastic phrase, title, or the like.

mouth' foot'ed, adj. Having maxillipeds.

mouth'ful (mouth'fo͝ol), n.; pl. MOUTHFULS (-fo͝olz). 1. As much as the mouth will hold. b As much as is usually put into the mouth at one time.

2. Figuratively: a A small quantity. b A mouth-filling word, etc. c Slang. Full measure for one speech; a lot.

mouth harp. Music. A mouth organ, or harmonica.

mouth hole. Music. The hole in the side of a transverse flute across which the player blows.

mouth'ish·ly (mouth'ĭsh·lĭ), adv. Mouthily.

mouth'-made' (mouth'mād'), adj. Spoken insincerely.

mouth mirror or glass. A small, usually long-handled, mirror for inspecting the mouth.

mouth organ. 1. Music. a The Panpipe. See PANDEAN HARMONICA. b A harmonica (sense c).

2. Zool. A mouth part.

mouth part. Also mouth'-part', n. Zool. Any of the structures and appendages composing the mouth, as in insects; — usually in the plural, and technically called trophi.

mouth'piece' (mouth'pēs'), n. 1. Something placed at or forming a mouth; as, the mouthpiece of a reed organ pipe.

2. a Jocular. The mouth. b That which represents the mouth in a model.

3. The part of a horse's bit that passes through the mouth.

4. a The part of a musical instrument, bugle, pipe, or the like, to which the mouth is applied. b A cigar or cigarette holder or tube.

5. A mouth protector; a respirator.

6. An appendage to an inlet or outlet opening of a pipe or vessel, to direct or facilitate the inflow or outflow of a fluid. See BORDA'S MOUTHPIECE.

7. One who delivers the opinion of others or of another; a spokesman; as, the mouthpiece of his party.

8. Specif., a criminal lawyer. Slang.

mouth pipe. Music. a An organ flue pipe. See FLUE PIPE. b Usually mouth'pipe' (mouth'pīp'). The section of a wind instrument into which the mouthpiece is inserted.

mouth'wash' (mouth'wŏsh'), n. A liquid preparation, as an antiseptic solution, for cleansing the mouth and teeth.

mouth'-wa'ter·ing, n. Flow of saliva in the mouth. — adj. Having or causing mouth-watering.

mouth'y (mouth'ĭ; mouth'ĭ), adj.; MOUTH'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); -I·EST. Given to mouthing; wearisomely or emptily loquacious; bombastic. "With many a mouthy speech." Irving. —mouth'i·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — mouth'i·ness (-nĕs; 119), n.

mou'ton (mo͞o'tŏn; mo͞o·tŏn'), n. [OF., prop. sheep. See MUTTON.] a = AGNEL. b [F.] A prison spy.

mou'ton·née' (mo͞o'tŏ·nā'), adj. Also mou'ton·néed' (-nād'). [F. moutonnée.] Phys. Geog. Rounded like a sheep's back. See ROCHE MOUTONNÉE.

mou'zah (mou'zä), n. [Hind. mauzā, fr. Per. mawza, fr. Ar. mawḍa'.] A village, sometimes consisting of separate parcels. India.

mov'a·ble, move'a·ble (mo͞ov'ȧ·b'l), adj. [OF. movable. See MOVE.] 1. Apt or inclined to move; having a tendency to move; moving readily or quickly; figuratively, fickle; inconstant; changeable. Obs.

2. Capable of being moved, lifted, carried, drawn, turned, or conveyed, or in any way made to change place or posture; susceptible of motion; not fixed or stationary; as, a movable steam engine.

3. Changing from one date to another; as, movable feasts, the dates of which vary from year to year.

4. Astrol. Designating the zodiacal signs Aries, Cancer, Libra, and Capricorn, in which the process of renewal in complexion takes place. See SIGN, 8.

5. Gr. Gram. Designating any of certain consonants which may be added or dropped according to euphony. Thus, in Greek, "N (nu) movable" is generally added to words in si and to verbs of the third person in e, when the next word begins with a vowel (didōsi (n) emoi).

6. Semit. Gram. Pronounced, as disting. from "quiescent"; — of certain consonants and syllables, as in Hebrew.

Syn. — MOVABLE, MOBILE. That is MOVABLE which may be moved, esp. from one place to another; that is MOBILE which is characterized by great facility, flexibility, or responsiveness of movement; as, movable type, a movable attachment (to an instrument, etc.); mobile as a fluid; "the gray restless eye, the thin mobile lips" (J. R. Green); "... the mobile mirror of his mind" (Mrs. Humphry Ward). Cf. FLEXIBLE.

Ant. — Fixed, stationary, immovable.

— mov'a·bil'i·ty, move'a·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — mov'a·ble·ness, move'a·ble·ness, n. — mov'a·bly, move'a·bly (mo͞ov'ȧ·blĭ), adv.

mov'a·ble, move'a·ble, n. 1. One capable of being moved.

2. An article of wares or goods; esp., and now only, an article of furniture; — usually in pl.

3. Obs. a Something that can be moved or set in motion, as any part of a watch's works. b A person who moves or changes readily or often.

4. Law. a Rom. & Civil Law. A subject of property which is of such a nature as to admit of being moved from place to place without injury; a subject of property not attached to the soil; — usually in pl. Strictly, movables are limited to tangible objects, but the term is sometimes used to include choses in action. In a general way movables correspond to the personal property of English law; but the two terms are not synonymous, some forms of personal property, such as growing crops, rent, etc., not being movables. b Scots. Law. Any property, corporeal or incorporeal, that does not descend to an heir in heritage. c Scots. & Civil Law. Not heritable.

5. Ptolemaic Astron. Any of the nine spheres. Obs.

movable dam. Hydraulic Engin. A dam at the head of a shoal in a stream, so constructed that it can be raised, lowered, laid prostrate, or removed, at will.

mov'able-do' sys'tem (-dō'). Music. The application of the sol-fa syllables in reading music in such a way that the major tonic or keynote is called do. Do thus moves from one position on the staff to another as different keys are used. Sometimes the minor tonic also is called do, in which case the syllables for the harmonic minor scale are do, re, me, fa, sol, le, ti, do. But more often the minor tonic is called la, the syllables then being la, ti, do, re, mi, fa, si, la. Opposed to fixed-do system.

movable exchange. Finance. = INDIRECT EXCHANGE, 2.

movable fixture. See FIXTURE, 5.

movable kidney, liver, etc. Med. = FLOATING KIDNEY, LIVER, etc. See FLOATING, adj., 6.

mov'ant (mo͞ov'ănt), adj. Moving. —n.* One that is moving.

move (mo͞ov), v.; MOVED (mo͞ovd); MOV'ING (mo͞ov'ĭng). [ME. moven, fr. OF. moveir (3d pl. pres. muevent; cf. ME. meven to move), F. mouvoir, fr. L. movere; akin to Gr. amynein to ward off, Lith. mauti to put on or pull off, Skr. mīvati he moves, pushes, past part. mūta. Cf. EMOTION, 3d MOB, MOMENT, MUNDANE, MUTINY, PROMOTE, REMOTE.] Transitive: 1. a To change the place or position of in any manner; to carry, convey, draw, push, or the like from one place to another; to impel; shift; as, the wind moves a vessel; the horse moves a carriage; to move troops; to move a house. b To remove; displace. c Colloq. To force (one) to betake himself off or away; — with on.

2. To set in motion; to stir; to impart motion to; actuate; as, to move one's head; as, a device is moved by a spring.

3. To excite to action by the presentation of motives; to rouse by appeal to the mind or desires; to influence; prompt; impel; as, nothing could move him to reconsider.

4. To arouse the feelings or passions of; esp., to excite to tenderness or compassion; to touch pathetically; to affect with any emotion; as, the pitiful tale deeply moved them; the outrage moved him to wrath; also, to excite, as an emotion, passion, or a sentiment or its expression. "To move wild laughter." Shak.

5. To propose; recommend; specif., to propose formally for consideration and determination, in a deliberative assembly; to submit, as a resolution; as, I move we adjourn. ☞ In the best parliamentary usage, the expressions "I move you," or "I make a motion," are held to be incorrect.

6. a To apply to, as for relief or aid; — now used only of a formal application, as to a court or legislative body. b Archaic. To urge; incite; solicit.

The Scripture moveth us, in sundry places, to acknowledge and confess our manifold sins and wickedness. Bk. of Com. Prayer.

7. Obs. a To set in motion; to commence; to stir up; as, to move a lawsuit; to move hostilities. b To introduce or plead in a law court. c To apply; administer. d To evoke, as dreams or lies. e To utter, emit (sound). f To cause to be angry.

8. Chess, Checkers, etc. To transfer (a piece or man) from one space or position to another, according to the rules.

9. Com. To cause to move, or be sold.

10. Med. To cause to operate; as, to move the bowels.

—, Intransitive: 1. To change or undergo change of, place, position, or posture; to stir; to go, in any manner, from one place or position to another; to proceed; advance; as, a ship moves rapidly; also, of a door, machine, etc., to turn; work; revolve.

2. a Figuratively, to progress; advance; as, the campaign moves rapidly; the action of the play moves slowly. b Colloq. To move or progress rapidly; to show marked activity. "Things were beginning to move." Masefield.

3. To carry on one's mode of life or one's activities; as, to move in select circles.

4. To act; to take action; to begin to act; as, to move in a matter. "God moves in a mysterious way." Cowper.

5. To depart; betake oneself off; — often with on. Colloq.

6. To make an appeal, application, or the like; — used with for; as, the plaintiff moved for a rehearing.

7. To change residence; to remove, as from one house, town, or state, to another.

8. To bow or salute, as by lifting the hat. Dial. Eng.

9. Of the bowels, to have an evacuation.

10. Obs. a To be stirred or inclined; to tend. b To be stirred up; to commence; also, to originate; proceed; as, a fierce war moved. c To speak; say; argue. d To dance.

11. Chess, Checkers, etc. To make a move.

12. Com. To be sold or exchanged;—said of commodities.

13. Music. To progress melodically, as a voice or part.

Syn. — Induce, cause, animate, stimulate, provoke, rouse, kindle, spur, goad. — MOVE, ACTUATE, IMPEL, PROMPT, INCITE, INSTIGATE. MOVE (cf. MOTIVE) is the general term for rousing one to action or inducing one to act; ACTUATE suggests more definitely the inner springs or motives of conduct; as, "If kingdom move thee not, let move thee zeal and duty" (Milton); "whether such vanity, and nothing else, actuated him therein" (Carlyle). To IMPEL (cf. COMPEL) is to move (esp. to almost involuntary action) as if by a push forward; to PROMPT is to stimulate to act, as by suggestion, as, "A mightier power . . . several men impels to several ends" (Pope). "Here was a world which did not halt in meditation, but prompted one to make actual trial of it" (W. Pater). INCITE and INSTIGATE agree in the idea of stirring or provoking to action; to instigate is commonly (but not always) to incite to evil; as, "Commonly, though not always, we exhort to good actions, we instigate to ill; we animate, incite, and encourage indifferently to good or bad" (Johnson). Cf. EXCITE, KINDLE. See REMOVE.

Ant. — Dissuade; repress, restrain; stop.

move of or by. Law. To be held by; to belong or pertain to; — said of property. Obs. Oxf. E. D.

move the previous question. Parl. Practice. To move that the main question be now considered, — esp. for closing or postponing debate. See PREVIOUS QUESTION.

move (mo͞ov), n. 1. Act of moving; a movement; specif.: a Rare. A motion or proposal. b An act for the attainment of an object; a step in the execution of a purpose; a device; as, a shrewd move. c A moving from a fixed position; a beginning to move or leave. d A change of place or habitation.

2. Chess, Checkers, etc. Act of moving a piece or man; an instance of this; also, a turn to move.

3. Glass Mfg. A nominal period used in determining the pay of workmen when based on the amount of piecework fairly done in that time.

Syn. — See MOTION.

— the move. Checkers. The final move, after men are paired off, which leaves the adversary unable to escape blocking or capture. Possession of the move usually changes with single exchanges of man for man.

move'less (mo͞ov'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Without movement; fixed. — -less·ly, adv. — -less·ness, n.

move'ment (mo͞ov'mĕnt), n. [OF. (F. mouvement). See MOVE; cf. MOMENT.] 1. Act, process, or instance of moving; change of place, position, or posture; a particular act or manner of moving; as, the movement of a wagon, of freight, of heavenly bodies.

2. A mental motion; impulse; emotion. Now Rare.

3. An act of evacuation of the bowels; also, the matter evacuated.

4. A connected and long continued series of acts and events tending toward some more or less definite end; an agitation in favor of some principle, policy, etc.; as, the Tractarian movement; the prohibition movement.

5. An effect as of motion; hence, in literature and other art, action; incident; as, a poem of dramatic movement.

6. pl. Activities of a person or group of persons.

mouth'ing (mouth'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of MOUTH. — mouth'ing·ly, adv.	mouth'less, adj. See -LESS. mouth'like', adj. See -LIKE. mouthly, adj. Done with the mouth. Obs.	mouth'root', n. = GOLDTHREAD 8. mouth'wise', adv. See -WISE.	moux, v. Mouse. Ref. Sp. moux'er. Mouser. Ref. Sp. mouton. † MUTTON.	mou·sou'na (mo͞o·so͞o'nȧ), n. [Ar. mawzūnah of full weight.] See COIN, Table.	mov'al, n. Moving. Obs. move'a·ble, etc. Var. of MOVABLE, etc.

7. Tendency of change; trend; as, the movement of the age.
8. Mech. A system of mechanism for transmitting a definite motion, or for transforming motion; esp., a delicate train of wheelwork, as in a watch. Cf. IMPULSE MOVEMENT.
9. Mil. & Nav. A component part of a maneuver.
10. Music. a = MOTION, n., 15. b Rhythm; as, a dance movement. c = TIME, n., 22. d = TEMPO. e A distinct structural division, complete in its own key, rhythmic structure, themes, etc., forming part of an extended composition; as, a movement of a suite, sonata, symphony.
11. Pros. Particular rhythmical flow, as of a verse or strophe; as, the majestic movement of the Homeric hexameter.
Syn. — See MOTION.

mov'er (mōōv'ĕr), n. 1. A person or thing that moves, stirs, or changes place, or is in action.
2. A person or thing that imparts motion; a motor.
3. One who or that which excites, instigates, or causes movement, a movement, change, etc.; as, movers of sedition.
4. A proposer; one who offers a proposition, or recommends anything; as, the mover of a resolution.
5. One who moves, or works at moving others, from one residence to another.
6. Chess. A problem solvable in a (specified) number of moves; — used in combination; as a three-mover.

mov'ie (mōōv'Ĭ), n. A motion picture. — mov'ie, adj. Both Chiefly U. S. & Canada.
— the mov'ies (-Īz). A motion-picture performance; also, motion pictures, collectively considered. Slang, U. S.

mov'ie-go'er, n. One who goes to see motion pictures.

mov'ie-land' (mōōv'Ĭ-lănd'), n. The land of the imagination, as pictured in the "movies"; also, the region, esp. southern California, where some of the most important American motion pictures are made. Colloq.

mov'ing (mōōv'Ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of MOVE. Specif.: adj. a Changing place or posture; causing motion or action; as, a moving car, power, or cause. b Exciting movement of the mind; adapted to move the sympathies, passions, etc. — mov'ing-ly, adv.

I sang an old and moving story. Coleridge.

Syn. — See AFFECTING.

moving cause. See CAUSE, n., 1.

moving cluster. Astron. See CLUSTER, n., 4. moving coil. Elec. A coil mounted on a rotatable vertical axis, used esp. in galvanometers. — mov'ing-coil', adj.

mov'ing-coil' gal'va·nom'e·ter. Elec. A galvanometer in which the current flows through a coil suspended between the poles of a permanent magnet and is measured by the deflections of the coil. The deflections are indicated by a pointer or a beam of light reflected from a small mirror (see REFLECTING GALVANOMETER). The reflecting moving-coil galvanometer is often known as the d'Arsonval galvanometer, from its inventor. See GALVANOMETER.

moving day. A day when one's residential, store, or office effects are transported to another location.

mov'ing-i'ron me'ter. Elec. An instrument in which a vane or plunger of soft iron is moved by the magnetic field set up by a coil carrying the current to be measured. This principle is used in making both ammeters and voltmeters. Called also iron-vane meter.

moving picture. A motion picture. Colloq.

moving sidewalk. A sidewalk constructed on the principle of an endless belt, or of a series of such, side by side, and moving at different gradated speeds, so that a person stepping on it will be carried along.

moving staircase or stairway. An escalator.

mow (mou), n. [ME. mowe, fr. AS. mūga, mūha, mūwa, mow, heap; akin to ON. mūgi, Gr. mykōn.] 1. A heap or mass of hay, sheaves of grain, etc., esp. one stowed in a barn, also, the place in a barn for such stowing.
2. A cornfield. Obs.

mow (mou), v. t.; MOWED (moud); MOW'ING. To lay, stack, or stow in or as in a mow.

mow (mō; mou), n. Also moe, mowe. [ME. mowe, mouwe, fr. OF. moue, fr. MD. mouwe.] 1. A grimace; a mocking face; a mouth. Archaic.

The mops and mows of the old witch. Stevenson.

2. A jest; mockery. Obs. exc. pl., esp. in not mows, not a jesting matter. Chiefly Scot.

mow v. i. To make grimaces; to mock; also, Obs., to jest.

mow (mō), v.; past tense MOWED (mōd); past part. MOWED or MOWN (mōn); pres. part. & verbal n. MOW'ING. [ME. mowen, mawen, fr. AS. māwan; akin to D. maaijen, G. mähen, OHG. māen, Gr. amaōn, MIr. meithel a party of reapers, L. metere to reap, mow, OHG. mad math. Cf. MATE, MEADOW.] Transitive: 1. To cut down, as grass, with a scythe or machine. b To cut the grass, grain, etc., from; as, to mow a lawn.
2. To cut down; to cause to fall in rows or masses, as in mowing grass; as, the machine guns mowed down the men.
— Intrans.: To cut grass, etc., with a scythe or machine.

mow (mō). Var. of MU, the measure.

mow, mowe (mō), v. i. [AS. magan. See MAY, v.] Obs.
1. May; can.
2. Must; ought; should.

mow'a·ble (mō'ȧ·b'l), adj. That can be mowed.

mo·wa'na (mō·wä'nä), n. [Sechuana dial.] The baobab.

mow'burn' (mou'bûrn'), v. i. To become heated while stacked in the mow, as uncured hay. Obs. — n. Overheating and fermentation from being stacked in the mow. — mow'burnt' (-bûrnt'), adj.

mow'er (mō'ĕr), n. One who or that which mows; specif., a mowing machine.

mow'er (mō'ĕr; mou'ĕr), n. One who makes mows, or grimaces; a mocker. Obs.

Mow'gli (mou'glĭ), n. In Kipling's Jungle Books, a native boy reared by wolves in the jungles of India.

mow'ie (mou'Ĭ), n. A stackyard. Cornwall.

mow'ing (mō'Ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of MOW. Specif.: n. a A quantity mowed. b U. S. Land from which grass or hay is cut; meadowland.

mow'ing (mō'Ĭng; mou'-), n. [From 4th MOW.] A grimacing; derision; mockery. — adj. Grimacing; derisive.

mow'ing grass. Grass grown for mowing.

mowing machine. Agric. Mach. An implement for cutting standing grass, grain, or hay, and consisting of (1) a cast-iron frame supported by two drive wheels in frictional contact with the ground, (2) a cutting mechanism comprising a reciprocating knife or sickle operated through guards or fingers and driven by a pitman from a crank, (3) gearing governing the speed of the crank, and (4) dividers to divide the cut hay or grass from that standing. Cf. VERTICAL-LIFT MOWER.

Mowing Machine.

mow'land' (mō'lănd'), n. Also mow lot. A field where grass is grown for hay; meadowland. Local, U. S.

mow'stead' (mou'stĕd'; mō'-), n. The stand or standing place of the rick; also, the threshing floor. Dial. Eng.

mowth (mōth), n. A mowing.

mox'a (mŏk'sȧ), n. [Corrupt. of Jap. mogusa (pronounced mongsa), an escharotic made from the plant yomogi; cf. F. moxa.] 1. Med. A soft woolly mass prepared from the young leaves of a Chinese wormwood (Artemisia moxa), and used as a cautery by burning it on the skin; hence, any substance used in a like manner as a counterirritant.
2. The plant from which this substance is obtained.
3. The creeping snowberry.

mox'ie·ber'ry (mŏk'sĭ·bĕr'Ĭ), n. Creeping snowberry. U. S.

Mox'o (mŏk'sō; mō'hō), n. An Indian of an Arawakan tribe of northern Bolivia.

moy (moi), adj. [Cf. F. mou, mol, soft, fr. L. mollis.] Gentle; mild; also, demure; affected. Scot. & N. of Eng.

moy (moi), n. [OF. moi (F. muid).] In Henry V., V. iv, Pistol's misunderstanding of French moi, me, as a measure or coin.

moy'en (moi'ĕn), n. [OF. moien, meien, means (F. moyen). See MEAN, n. & adj., intermediate.] 1. Means; agency; influence; course; way. Obs. exc. Scot.
2. Property; substance. Obs.

moy'en, v. t. [Cf. OF. moiener.] To effect by means; to bring about. Scot.

moy'en, adj. [OF. moien (F. moyen).] Medium in position, size, or status. Obs.

‖mo'yen' âge' (mwȧ'yĕ'-näzh'). [F.] The Middle Ages.

moy·enne' (moi·ĕn'), n. Also moy·en'. [F., lit., of middle size.] An early form of cannon about ten feet long.

moy'ite (moi'Ĭt), n. [From Moyie, Brit. Columbia.] Petrog. A granite whose quartz forms over 50 per cent of the light-colored constituents.

moyle (moil), n. [F. mule a slipper; cf. L. mulleus. See MULE slipper.] A kind of shoe or slipper.

Mo·yune' gun'pow'der. See TEA, n., 1 b.

Mo'zam·bi'can (mō'zăm·bē'kăn), adj. Pertaining to Mozambique.

mo'zam·bique' (mō'zăm·bēk'), n. An open dress fabric with a warp of double cotton threads, and a soft woolen filling.

Mo'zam·bique' Cur'rent (mō'zăm·bēk'). A warm ocean current flowing from the Indian Ocean southward through the Mozambique Channel, past Natal (hence called also Natal Current) and along the coast of Cape Province, where it is known as the Agulhas Current. Off Cape Agulhas it is deflected to the left and flows southeastward toward Australia. It is considered to have a decided effect on the climate of Cape Province.

Moz·ar'ab (mōz·ăr'ăb), Muz·ar'ab (mŭz-), n. [Sp. mozárabe, fr. Ar. musta'rib a would-be Arab.] An Arabized person; — a name given to Christians in Moslem Spain, who adopted Arabic speech and customs. — Moz'a·ra'bi·an (mōz'ȧ·rā'bĭ·ăn), adj. & n. — Moz·ar'a·bic (mōz·ăr'ȧ·bĭk), adj.

Moz·ar'a·bic lit'ur·gy (mōz·ăr'ȧ·bĭk). The rite used in the Spanish Church until the 12th century, called Gothic in reference to the Visigothic period, Toledan from the primatial see of Spain, and Isidorian because of a supposed revision by Isidore of Seville. The name Mozarabic does not refer to Arabic elements in the liturgy, but to its use by the Mozarabs. It is closely related to the Gallican rite. See LITURGY, 1.

Mo·zar'te·an (mō·zär'tē·ăn; mō·tsär'-), adj. Of or pert. to Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1756–91); characteristic of his smooth and graceful style.

mo'zing (mō'zĭng), n. The teaseling of cloth with a gig.

‖mo'zo (mō'thō; 267), n. [Sp. See MOUSSE boy.] A manservant or man of all work.

moz·zet'ta (mō·zĕt'ȧ; It. mōt·sĕt'tä), mo·zet'ta (mō·zĕt'ȧ), n. [It. mozzetta. Cf. AMICE a hood.] A short cape with a small ornamental hood, worn, ordinarily, over the rochet by the Pope, cardinals, bishops, abbots and canons. It is a symbol of jurisdiction and may not be worn by bishops outside their diocese.

Mpon'do (ˈmpŏn'dō), n. A Pondo. See 2d M-.

mpret (ˈm·prĕt'), n. [Alban. mbret king, fr. L. imperator. See EMPEROR.] The title of the ruler of Albania (1913–14).

Mr. (mĭs'tĕr). 1. The written form of the title Mister.
2. = MASTER. Obs.

M radiation. Physics. X rays emitted when an electron becomes an M electron.

Mr. Al'fred Jin'gle. See JINGLE, Mr. ALFRED.

Mr. Doo'ley (dōō'lĭ). A humorous Irish-American saloon-keeper, created by Finley Peter Dunne as a vehicle for satiric comment on current events of the late nineties and the early years of the 20th century.

M roof. Arch. A kind of roof formed by the junction of two common gable roofs with a valley between them, so that the section resembles the letter M. When repeated it becomes a saw-tooth roof. See ROOF, Illust.

Mrs. (mĭs'Ĭz; -Ĭs; 277). 1. The form of Mistress when used as a title. See MISTRESS, 7; MADAM, 2 c.
2. = MISTRESS. Obs.

Mrs. Grun'dy. See GRUNDY, MRS.

Mrs. Gum'midge. See GUMMIDGE, MRS.

Mrs. Jewkes. See JEWKES, MRS.

Mr. Sludge, "The Medium" (slŭj). A poem (1864) by Robert Browning, dealing with spiritualism.

Mrs. Sai'rey Gamp'. See GAMP, MRS. SAIREY.

Mru (mrōō), n. A member of an Indo-Chinese people of the hill districts of Chittagong and Arakan; also, their language. See INDO-CHINESE LANGUAGES, Table.

mu (mū; mōō; mü), n. [Gr. my.] 1. The twelfth letter (M, μ) of the Greek alphabet, equivalent to English m. See M.
2. a An instance of the letter M, μ, written, printed, etc. b As a numeral, 40. Cf. GREEK NUMERAL.
3. Used variously, often in the form M, μ, for classifying, as [cap.], Astron., to designate some star, usually the twelfth brightest, of a constellation; as, Mu (μ) Boötis.
4. Elec. The amplification factor in an electron tube; as, high mu; low mu.

mu (mōō), n. sing. & pl. [Chin. *mu*³.] A Chinese unit of area: a Under the old system, 6,000 sq. ch'ih of varying lengths. See CH'IH; MEASURE, Table. b With the adoption of the metric system, an are.

mu·ang' (mü·äng'), n. [Siamese mīaṅ city, country.] The capital of a province. Siam.

Mu'av lime'stone' (mōō'ăv). [From Muav Canyon, which debouches into Grand Canyon.] Geol. The uppermost formation of the Cambrian in the Grand Canyon region of Arizona, consisting of platy, impure, mottled limestone, with thin layers of sandstone and shale, having a total thickness of about 500 feet. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

mu·ba'rat (mōō·bä'rät), n. [Ar. mubārāh mutual discharge.] Moham. Law. A divorce made at the instance of any person other than the wife.

mu·ca'go (mū·kā'gō), n. [ML.] Obs. a Mucus; a coating of mucus. b Mucilage.

mu'ca·ro (mōō'kä·rō), n. A West Indian owl (Gymnasio nudipes). Puerto Rico.

mu'ce·din (mū'sĕ·dĭn; mū·sē'dĭn), n. [L. mucedo mucus.] Biochem. A protein held to be present in wheat, rye, etc., similar to, or identical with, gliadin. Now Rare.

mu·ced'i·na'ceous (mū·sĕd'Ĭ·nā'shŭs), adj. Mucedinous.

mu'ce·dine (mū'sĕ·dĭn), n. [See MUCEDIN.] A mold fungus.

mu·ced'i·nous (mū·sĕd'Ĭ·nŭs), mu'ce·din'e·ous (mū'sĕ·dĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. [L. mucedo, -inis, mucus.] Bot. Of the nature of, or resembling, mold or mildew.

much (mŭch), adj.; compar. MORE (mōr; 181); superl. MOST (mōst); — both from another root. [ME. moche, muche, fr. mochel, muchel, fr. AS. mycel, micel. See MICKLE.] 1. Obs. a Great in size; big; also, of full growth or stature. b Uncommon in degree. c High in rank or position; mighty. Chaucer.
2. Many in number. Archaic.

Edom came out against him with much people. Num. xx. 20.

3. Great in quantity, extent, or duration.
Syn. — Great, abundant.
Ant. — Little, inconsiderable, slight.
— much cry and little wool. See under CRY. — too much for one. More than a match for one. Colloq.

much (mŭch), n. 1. A great quantity; a great deal; also, an indefinite quantity; as, you have as much as I.
2. A thing uncommon, wonderful, or noticeable; something considerable; as, it is much even to be alive.
3. Persons of rank or eminence; — in the phrase much and late, everybody. Obs. Chaucer.

☞ Much can be regarded as an adjective qualifying a word unexpressed, and may often, therefore, be modified by as, so, too, very.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

much-containing	much-enduring	much-pondering
much-devouring	much-loving	much-suffering much, adv. [See MUCH, adj.] 1. To a great degree or extent; greatly; abundantly; far.

Thou art much mightier than we. Gen. xxvi. 16.

2. Nearly; almost.

All left the world much as they found it. Sir W. Temple.

3. Very. Rare. "A much unskillful . . . guide." Dryden.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

much-admired	much-engrossed	much-praised much-advertised	much-honored	much-revered much-branched	much-lauded	much-sought much-coiled	much-loved	much-valued much-discussed	much-mooted	much-worshiped

— much of a muchness. Much the same. Colloq. "Men 's men; gentle or simple, they 're much of a muchness." G. Eliot.

much (mŭch), v. t. To make much of; to put confidence in; also, to caress. Dial.

‖mu·cha'cha (mōō·chä'chä), n. [Sp.] Girl; lass; also, sometimes, a female servant.

‖mu·cha'cho (-chō), n.; pl. -CHOS (Sp. -chōs). [Sp.] Boy; lad; also, a male servant.

Much Ado About Nothing. A comedy by Shakespeare, published 1600. See BENEDICK; BEATRICE, 3.

much'-hun'ger (mŭch'hŭng'gĕr), n. Any plant of the genus Trillium. U. S.

much'ly (mŭch'lĭ), adv. Much. Obs. exc. Slang.

much'ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. 1. Greatness in size. Obs.
2. Greatness in number, amount, or degree; a large amount. "Quantity and muchness of time." W. Whately.

muci-. A combining form from Latin mucus, mucus, as in mu·cif'er·ous, mu'ci·form, mu·cig'e·nous, mu·cip'a·rous.

mu'cic (mū'sĭk), adj. [F. mucique, fr. L. mucus mucus.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a white crystalline diacid, $(CHOH)_4(CO_2H)_2$, obtained by the oxidation of gums, dulcitol, lactose, etc. It has been used as a substitute for cream of tartar in baking powder.

mu'cid (mū'sĭd), adj. [L. mucidus, fr. mucus mucus. See MUCUS; cf. MOIST.] Musty; slimy; mucous. — -cid·ness, n.

mu·cif'ic (mū·sĭf'Ĭk), adj. [mucus + -fic.] 1. Med. Inducing or stimulating the secretion of mucus; blennogenous.
2. Physiol. Secreting mucus, as a gland.

mu'ci·gen (mū'sĭ·jĕn), n. Biochem. Mucinogen.

mu'ci·lage (mū'sĭ·lĭj), n. [F., fr. LL. mucilago a musty juice, fr. L. mucus. See MUCUS.] 1. Bot. Any of certain movement of variation. See ALLASSOTONIC.

---

mov'ent (mōōv'ĕnt). Var. of MOVANT.

mov'er-ess (mōōv'ĕr·ĕs; -Ĭs; 119), n. A female mover or instigator. Obs.

mov'ie-dom, n. See -DOM. [Inc.] mov'ie-ise, n. i. See -ISE, 1 b. Colloq.

mov'ie-mind'ed, adj. See -MINDED. Colloq.

mov'ing-ness, n. See -NESS.

mo'wah (mō'wȧ). Var. of MAHUA.

mowch (mōōch). Scot. var. of [MOOCH, to pilfer.]

mowcht (mōxt; mouxt). Past tense of MAY. New Dial.

mowd. Mowed. Ref. Sp.

mow'die, mow'die-man, mow'die-wort'. Vars. of MOUDIE, MOUDIEMAN, MOLDWARP.

mowe. ✝ MAY, MEW, MOVE, MOW.

mow'ha (mou'hȧ), n. = MAHUA.

mowl (mōl; mōōl). Var. of MOLD. Obs. exc. Dial.

mowle. ✝ MOLE, animal; MOLD.

mowle. Var. of MOOL; 4th MULE.

mow'ly. Var. of MOULY, MOLDY.

mown (mōn), past part. & part. adj. of MOW, to cut.

mowne. Obs. pl. pres. indic. of MAY.

mow'ra, mow'rah (mou'rȧ), n. = MAHUA.

mow'rah-seed' oil, mowrah butter. [See MAHUA TREE.] = MAHUA BUTTER. [a jest.]

mowse (mōōz), Scot. pl. of MOW, mowt (mōt; mout). Past tense of MAY. New Dial.

mow'en-ant, prep. [F. moyeannant.] By means of. Obs.

moy'en-er, n. [OF. moienor, or moienier.] An intermediary. Obs. Scot.

moy'en-less, adj. See -LESS. Scot.

moyle. Var. of MOIL, MULE.

mo'yo (mō'yō), n. [Sp.] See MEASURE, Table.

Moz'za, Mo'zah (mō'zȧ). Bib.

Moz'ca (mōs'kȧ; 267). Var. of MUYSCA.

mozell. ✝ MUZZLE.

mo'ze·mize (mō'zē·mīz; mōz'-mīz), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Nipissing monsomish viburnum, lit., moose bush.] = MOUNTAIN ASH b (1).

Mpang'we (ˈmpăng'wĕ), n. = FAN.

m-ple point. = MULTIPLE POINT a.

M series. Physics. See K SERIES.

M'-shaped', adj. See -SHAPED.

‖m'sieu (m'syū), n. [F.] Short for MONSIEUR.

M star, M'-type' star. Astrophysics. See SPECTRAL TYPE.

M-Swa·hi'li, n. See 2d M-.

M'-to-M' cor're·spond'ence. See CORRESPONDENCE, 5.

M tooth. See SAW, n., Illust.

mu-. See 2d M-.

mu'a·ble, adj. [OF.] Changeable; mutable. Obs.

mu'ance (mū'ăns), n. [OF.] Change; mutation. Obs.

mu·az'zin (mū·ăz'Ĭn). Var. of MUEZZIN.

mub'ble-fub'bles (mŭb'l·fŭb'lz), n. pl. A fit of depression; the blues. Obs.

muc-. = MUCO-.

muccinigo. ✝ MOCCENIGO.

muce (mūs). Var. of MEUSE. Obs. exc. Dial.

muchel. ✝ MICKLE.

much'fold', adj. See -FOLD.

much'what', adv. Nearly; almost; much. Obs.

gelatinous substances found in plants, as in fucoid seaweeds, marsh mallow, flaxseed, and quinces. Chemically, they are mixtures from which have been isolated complex carbohydrates, as araban, and related compounds, as alginic acid.
2. An aqueous solution of gum, or of substances allied to it, used in pharmacy as an excipient, in medicine as a demulcent, and generally as an adhesive.
3. Any soft, moist, sticky mass.

mucilage cell. Bot. Any plant cell that secretes mucilage, as in fucoid seaweeds, in the testa of certain seeds, and in some bulbs, as the onion. Mucilage is generally formed by disorganization of the cell wall, thus often leading to the development of canals called mucilage canals or ducts.

mu'ci·lag'i·nous (mū'sĭ·lăj'ĭ·nŭs), adj. [F. mucilagineux. See MUCILAGE.] 1. Partaking of the nature of, or like, mucilage; moist and viscid, or sticky; as, a mucilaginous liquid.
2. Of, pertaining to, or secreting, mucilage, as a cell.
— mu'ci·lag'i·nous·ly, adv. — -nous·ness, n.

mucilaginous glands. Anat. Fringed folds of synovial membrane containing much fat, present in many joints.

mu'cin (mū'sĭn), n. [From MUCUS.] Biochem. Any of the glycoproteins found in various secretions and tissues of man and animals, as in saliva, lining of the stomach, skin, etc. They are white or yellowish powders when dry, and viscid when moist. Cf. MUCOITIN-SULPHURIC ACID, MUCOPROTEIN. — mu'cin·ous (-sĭ·nŭs), adj.

mu·cin'o·gen (mū·sĭn'ō·jĕn), n. [mucin + -gen.] Biochem. Any of a class of substances easily converted into mucins, as by the action of alkalies.

mu'cin·oid (mū'sĭ·noid), adj. [mucin + -oid.] Chem. Resembling mucin. — n. Chem. = MUCOID.

mu·civ'o·rous (mū·sĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. [L. mucus slime, mucus + -vorous.] Zool. Feeding on juices of plants, as certain flies. — mu'ci·vore (mū'sĭ·vōr), n.

muck (mŭk), n. [ME. muk, of Scand. origin; cf. ON. myki, Dan. mög. See MEEK; cf. MIDDEN.] 1. Dung in a moist state; manure. Bacon.
2. Any kind of impure or decayed peat or black swamp earth, esp. when used as a manure.
3. That which is foul or dirty and readily adheres or befouls; filth; also, formerly, dust.
4. Money; wealth; — in contempt. Spenser.
The fatal muck we quarreled for. Beau. & Fl.
5. An offensively moist or befouled condition; a mess; as, in a muck of sweat. Colloq.
6. Earth (including soft earth, gravel, hardpan, and rock) to be, or being, excavated; in Mining, ore or rock in a loose heap as first broken; also, in hydraulic mining, burden.

muck, v.; MUCKED (mŭkt); MUCK'ING. [Cf. MUCK, n.] Transitive: 1. To manure with muck.
2. To clear of muck or manure.
3. To defile with muck or filth; — often with up. Colloq.
You can't touch pitch and not be mucked, lad. Stevenson.
4. To make a botch of; to bungle. Slang.
5. To excavate or remove muck from. See MUCK, n., 6.
—, Intransitive: 1. To work hard; to toil. Dial. Eng.
2. To play or spend time idly; to potter. Slang.

muck (mŭk), n. A word, manufactured from the adverb amuck. Erron. "Ran a Malayan muck." Tennyson.

muck'en·der (mŭk'ĕn·dĕr; -ĭn·dĕr; mŏŏk'-), n. [Cf. Sp. mocador, F. mouchoir.] A handkerchief. Obs. exc. Dial.

muck'er (mŭk'ĕr), n. 1. One who removes or clears away muck, as from stables. Rare.
2. One who excavates earth, or "muck," as in a mine.
3. A hoarder of money. Rare.

muck'er (mŭk'ĕr; mŏŏk'-), n. [See MUCK, n.] A mess; confusion; disorder. Dial.

muck'er (mŭk'ĕr; mŏŏk'-), v. t. [Perh. fr. 1st MUCK.] To scrape together, as money; to hoard. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

muck'er (mŭk'ĕr; mŏŏk'-), v. i. Dial. Eng. 1. To make a mess of a thing; to muddle.
2. To be very dirty or slovenly.

Muck'er (mŏŏk'ĕr), n.; G. pl. MUCKER. [G.] A follower of Johann Wilhelm Ebel (1784–1861), a Lutheran preacher and teacher at Königsberg, who because of his adherence to the theosophic system of Schönherr, was accused of sectarianism and gross immorality. After a trial of six years (1835–41) he was declared innocent, but was removed from office on the score of "neglect."

muck'er (mŭk'ĕr), n. [From MUCKER.] A coarse, vulgar person, esp. one guilty or capable of offense against standards of courtesy or honor; as, a mucker in football. Slang, U. S.

muck'er, n. A heavy fall; a "cropper"; — esp. in the phrase to come a mucker, to have a heavy fall. — v. i. To fall heavily, as from a horse. Both Slang.

muck'et (mŭk'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. [Origin obscure.] Any of several fresh-water mussels; esp., the common species Actinonaias carinata, which commands a high price for button manufacture.

muck'hill' (mŭk'hĭl'), v. t. To pile (up) like muck. Obs.

muck'ite (mŭk'ĭt; mŏŏk'ĭt), n. [After H. Muck, who discovered it.] Mineral. A yellow resinous hydrocarbon from the Silesian coal beds.

muck'le (mŭk'l), v. t. [From MUCK to toil.] To fret; bother. — v. i. To apply oneself; putter. Both Dial.

muck'le, n. [Prob. fr. muckle-hammer, fr. muckle, var. of mickle. See MICKLE.] A club used for killing fish. Dial., U. S.

muck'le (mŭk'l). Var. of MICKLE.

muckle hammer. An axlike hammer for spalling stone, etc.

muck'ment (mŏŏk'mĕnt), n. Filth; dirt; trash. Dial. Eng.

muck'mid'den (mŭk'mĭd''n; mŏŏk'-), n. A dunghill. Scot.

muck'na (mŭk'nä), n. [Hind. makhnā.] A male elephant without tusks or with only rudimentary ones. Also, a cock without spurs. India.

muck rake. A rake for scraping up muck or dung.

muck'rake' (mŭk'rāk'), v. i.; -RAKED' (-rāk'); -RAK'ING (-rāk'ĭng). [The original allusion was to a character in Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress so intent on raking up muck that he could not see a celestial crown held above him. On April 14, 1906, President Roosevelt delivered a speech in which he used the term muckrake in attacking the practice of making sweeping and unjust charges of corruption against public men and corporations, after which the term obtained wide currency.] To seek for, expose, or charge, esp. habitually, corruption, real or alleged, on the part of public men and corporations. — muck'rak'er (-rāk'ĕr), n.

muck rolls. Ironworking. The first pair of a train of rolls for rolling wrought iron.

muck'sweat' (mŭk'swĕt'), n. A profuse sweat.

muck'sy (mŭk'sĭ; mŏŏk'sĭ), adj. Somewhat mucky. Dial.

muck'thrift' (mŭk'thrĭft'), n. A miser; niggard. Rare.

muck'weed' (mŭk'wēd'), n. a Curly muckweed. b = LAMB'S-QUARTERS a.

muck'worm' (mŭk'wûrm'), n. 1. A larva or grub that lives in muck or manure.
2. One who scrapes together money by mean labor and devices; a miser. "Misers are muckworms." Pope.

muck'y (-ĭ), adj.; MUCK'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); MUCK'I·EST. 1. Filthy with muck; miry; as, a mucky road; also, of or like muck.
2. Vile, in a moral sense; sordid. Now Rare. Spenser.
3. Disgusting; contemptible. Slang, Eng.

muck'y (mŭk'ĭ; mŏŏk'ĭ), v. t. & i. To soil. Dial. Eng.

mu'co- (mū'kō-), muc-. [See MUCUS.] A combining form for mucus, denoting: a Relation to mucus or mucous membrane; — in nouns, as in mucocele, mucoid-. b Mucous and; — in adjectives, as in mucocellulose, mu'co·cu·ta'ne·ous, mu'co·der'mal, mu'co·fi'brous, mu'co·mem'bra·nous, mu'co·pu'ru·lent, mu'co·san·guin'e·ous, mu'co·se'rous.

mu'co·cele (mū'kō·sēl), n. [muco- + -cele.] Med. a Enlargement of the lachrymal sac due to catarrhal inflammation and obstruction with accumulation of mucus. b Any cyst containing mucus. c Any saclike swelling due to distention of a hollow organ with mucus; as, a mucocele of the appendix.

mu'co·cel'lu·lose (-sĕl'ū·lōs), n. Chem. Any of a class of substances consisting of a combination of cellulose and a mucilaginous constituent. They are found chiefly in seeds and fruits. — mu'co·cel'lu·lo'sic (-lō'sĭk), adj.

mu'co·floc'cu·lent (-flŏk'ū·lĕnt), adj. [muco- + flocculent.] Med. & Veter. Consisting of or containing flaky shreds of mucus.

mu'coid (mū'koid), adj. Also mu·coi'dal (mū·koi'dăl). [muc- + -oid.] Resembling mucus.

mu'coid, n. [mucin + -oid.] Biochem. Any of a group of glycoproteins resembling true mucin, but differing in some reactions. They occur in the vitreous humor and the cornea, in cysts, in connective tissues, etc.

mucoid degeneration. Degeneration marked by conversion of cell substance into a glutinous substance like mucin.

mucoid fermentation. = VISCOUS FERMENTATION.

mucoid tissue. Anat. Mucous tissue.

mu·co'i·tin·sul·phu'ric ac'id (mū·kō'ĭ·tĭn). Biochem. An acid found especially in mucin, in ovomucoid, and in the vitreous humor and cornea of the eye.

mu·con'ic ac'id (mū·kŏn'ĭk). [mucic + itaconic.] Chem. A white, crystalline, unsaturated diacid, $(CH{:}CHCO_2H)_2$, obtained indirectly from mucic acid; 1,4-butadiene-dicarboxylic acid.

mu'co·pro'te·in (mū'kō·prō'tē·ĭn), n. [mucoitin + protein.] Biochem. Any of a class of glycoproteins in which protein is combined with chondroitin-sulphuric acid or mucoitin-sulphuric acid.

mu'co·pus' (mū'kō·pŭs'), n. Med. Mucus mingled with pus.

mu'cor (mū'kôr), n. [L. See MUCUS.] 1. Hoariness; moldiness; filthiness. Rare.
2. [cap.] Bot. a A genus of molds typifying the family Mucoraceae. It includes some of the commonest molds, as that on bread, jam, etc. b Any mold of the order Mucorales.
3. Med. Mucus.

Mu'co·ra'ce·ae (mū'kō·rā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of fungi typifying the order Mucorales. — mu'co·ra'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Mu'co·ra'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of fungi (class Phycomycetes) including many of the common molds found as saprophytes on organic substances, or as parasites on other molds. mu'cor·ine (mū'kôr·ĭn; -īn), adj. Bot. a Mucedinous. b Pertaining to the genus Mucor.

mu·co'ri·oid (mū·kō'rĭ·oid; 181), adj. [See -OID.] Bot. Resembling the genus Mucor.

mu'cor·my·co'sis (mū'kôr·mī·kō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Mucor + mycosis.] Med. A disease due to pathogenic molds of the genus Mucor or allied genera.

mu'cor·rhe'a, mu'cor·rhoe'a (mū'kŏ·rē'ä), n. [NL., fr. muco- + -rhea, -rhoea.] Discharge of mucus, esp. excessive.

mu·co'sa (mū·kō'sä), n.; pl. -SAE (-sē). [NL. See MUCOUS.] Anat. A mucous membrane. — mu·co'sal (-săl; -sĭ'), adj.

mu'cose (mū'kōs), adj. Mucous. Rare.

mu·cos'i·ty (mū·kŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality of being mucous.

mu·co'so- (mū·kō'sō-). A combining form from Latin mucosus, mucous, equivalent to MUCO- b (which see), as in mu·co'so·cal·car'e·ous, mu·co'so·gran'u·lar, mu·co'so·pu'ru·lent, mu·co'so·sac'cha·rine.

mu'cous (mū'kŭs), adj. [L. mucosus, fr. mucus mucus. See MUCUS.] 1. Covered with mucus or similar viscous matter; slimy.
2. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, mucus.
3. Secreting or containing mucus.

mucous colitis. Med. A morbid state resulting from nervous derangement, in which large amounts of mucus are passed from the bowels.

mucous fermentation. Viscous fermentation.

mucous gland. Anat. A gland embedded in mucous membrane and secreting mucus.

mucous membrane. Anat. The lining membrane of the passages and cavities of the body which communicate directly or indirectly with the exterior, as the alimentary, respiratory, and genito-urinary tracts. Mucous membranes consist of two chief layers: a deep vascular connective-tissue stroma, or corium, which in many parts of the alimentary canal contains a thin but definite layer (the muscularis mucosae) of nonstriated muscle, and a superficial epithelium varying in kind and thickness, but always soft and smooth and kept lubricated by the secretions of the cells and of numerous glands embedded in the membrane.

mucous patches. Med. Elevated patches, usually syphilitic, found on mucous membranes or moist skin, esp. of the mouth or anus.

mucous tissue. Anat. A gelatinous form of connective tissue containing stellate cells with long processes, in the umbilical cord and in the embryo, and in the tumors called myxomata.

mu'cro (mū'krō), n.; pl. MUCRONES (mū·krō'nēz). [L.; akin to Lith. mušti to strike, beat.] Bot. & Zool. Any abrupt point, tip, or process, as that which terminates some leaves.

mu'cro·nate (mū'krō·nāt), adj. Also mu'cro·nat'ed (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119). [L. mucronatus, fr. mucro a sharp point.] Ending abruptly in a sharp point, or spine. See LEAF, Illust. — mu'cro·nate·ly, adv.

mu'cro·na'tion (-nā'shŭn), n. State or quality of being mucronate; also, a mucronate process.

mu'cro·nif'er·ous (mū'krō·nĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. mucro, -onis, sharp point + -ferous.] Mucronate.

mu·cro'ni·form (mū·krō'nĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. mucro, -onis, sharp point + -form.] Shaped like a mucro.

mu·cron'u·late (mū·krŏn'ū·lāt), adj. [Dim. of mucronate.] Tipped with a very small point, or mucro.

mu·cron'u·la·tous (mū·krŏn'ū·lā·tŭs), adj. Mucronulate.

mu'cu·lent (mū'kū·lĕnt), adj. [LL. muculentus, fr. mucus.] 1. Slimy; moist and viscous; also, full of mucus.
2. Bot. Like mucus; gelatinous.

Mu·cu'na (mū·kū'nä), n. [NL., fr. Pg. mucuna, mucuná, name of some of the species, fr. Tupi mucuná, mucunan.] a Bot. A genus of tropical herbs and woody vines of the pea family (Fabaceae). M. urens of tropical America yields fiber. M. pruriens is the cowhage. Syn. Stizolobium. b [not cap.] The fiber of M. urens, used in Brazil for rope.

mu'cus (mū'kŭs), n. [L.; akin to L. mucor mold, mildew, emungere to blow the nose, Gr. myxa mucus, Lith. mukti to escape, Skr. muñcati he releases; basic idea: to slip. Cf. MOIST, MOKSHA, MUCILAGE, MUGGY, MYCOSIS.] 1. A viscid, slippery secretion produced by mucous membranes, which it serves to moisten and protect. Its character is largely due to mucins (see MUCIN). Also, any of many other viscid animal secretions, as that secreted from the external surface of the body by snails, slugs, etc.
2. Bot. = MUCILAGE, 1.

mucus body. Biochem. Any mucin or mucoid.

mu'cus·in (mū'kŭs·ĭn), n. Biochem. Mucin. Rare.

mud (mŭd), n. [ME. mode, mudde, appar. fr. MLG. mudde or MD. modde. See 1st MOTHER.] 1. A slimy, sticky, fluid-to-plastic mixture of finely divided particles of solid material with water; as, the mud of a wet country road; the mud that collects in a storage battery; etc.
2. The foulest or vilest part; the offscourings.
3. Abusive and malicious remarks or charges; as, to throw mud at a rival.
4. Drill cuttings mixed with water.
5. Geol. Any deposit having the physical character of mud (sense 1); as, the mud erupted by some volcanoes, in which the particles may be volcanic ash.
6. Railroads. Natural soil, esp. as used for ballast.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

mudbank	mud heap	mud-roofed mud-bespattered	mud house	mud-shot
mud-built	mudland	mud-splashed mud-color	mud-lost	mudstain
mud-colored	mud pie	mudtrack mud-exhausted	mud puddle	mud-walled mud, v. Trans.: 1. To bury in mud; to soil or daub. Rare.

2. To make muddy or turbid, as by stirring up sediment.
3. To introduce mud into, esp. artificial muds containing a heavy constituent, such as barite, into oil wells to hold back the natural gas during drilling.
4. To rear as a cade, or pet; to cosset. Dial. Eng.
—, Intransitive: To burrow, or hide, in mud, as an eel.

mud (mŭd), n.; pl. MUDDEN (-ĕn). [D.] See MEASURE, Table.

mu·dar' (mū·där'), n. [Hind. madār.] Either of the two East Indian shrubs Calotropis gigantea and C. procera; also, their fine bast fiber, resembling flax in strength, but too short to be of great commercial value. The bark of the root is used as an emetic and as a substitute for ipecac in dysentery.

mud bass. a A small fresh-water sunfish (Acantharchus pomotis) of the eastern United States. b Indiana. The large-mouthed black bass. See BLACK BASS, 1.

mud bath. An immersion of the body, or a part of it, in mud, esp. as a remedy for rheumatism, gout, etc.

mud boat. 1. A large flatboat used in dredging to carry off the mud and silt to deep water.
2. Logging. A low sled with broad runners, on which logs are hauled in swamps.

mud'cap' (mŭd'kăp'), n. Mining. A kind of shot used in secondary blasting in which the explosive is placed on the surface of a rock fragment and covered with mud or clay; — called also adobe.

mud'cap', v. i. & t.; -CAPPED' (-kăpt'); -CAP'PING. To prepare and blast a mudcap (on).

mud cat. Either of two edible catfishes, Opladelus olivaris of the Mississippi Valley and southern States, and Ameiurus platycephalus of Carolina and Georgia.

Mud Cat State. Mississippi; — so called because of the large number of catfish caught in the Mississippi River.

mud coot. The coot Fulica americana.

mud crab. Any of several American marine crabs of Panopeus and allied genera.

mud crack. One of a system of cracks by which drying mud is divided; specif., Geol. (called also fossil mud crack), one of the same cracks after it has been filled and the mud and filling material changed to rock.

Mud Crab (Panopeus depressus). ½ mud dab. a The winter flounder. b Any of several flounders (family Pleuronectidae) of the genus Limanda, esp. L. limanda of northern Europe, resembling the winter flounder.

mud dabbler. A killifish (Fundulus heteroclitus). Local, U. S.

mud dauber. Any of numerous wasps of Sceliphron and other genera of the family Sphecidae, which construct mud cells attached to stones or to woodwork of buildings, etc. The female places an egg in each cell, with spiders or insects, paralyzed by a sting, to serve as food for the larva.

mud devil. The hellbender.

mud'di·fy (mŭd'ĭ·fī), v. t. To muddy. Rare.

mud dipper. The ruddy duck. Virginia.

mud'dish (mŭd'ĭsh), adj. Somewhat muddy. Rare.

mud'dle (mŭd''l), v.; -DLED (-'ld); -DLING (-lĭng). [From MUD.] Trans.: 1. To make turbid or muddy. Now Rare.
2. To confuse or stupefy; specif.: a To cloud or fog, as one's brain; to render indistinct, as speech. b To render stupid with liquor; to intoxicate partly.
Often drunk, always muddled. Arbuthnot.
c To bewilder or perplex. d To mix confusedly; to jumble or confound; as, to muddle up history with myths. e To make a mess of; to bungle; as, to muddle account books.
3. To potter or squander as one does who is stupid or intoxicated; as, to muddle away a fortune.
4. To stir, as a drink with a spoon. Rare.
—, Intransitive: 1. To dabble or wallow in mud. Obs. "[Unicorns] muddle in the dirt like swine." Topsell.
2. To think, act, or go in a confused, aimless way or in a way that tends to make a mess of the business in hand.
Syn. — Disorder, confound, bewilder.
Ant. — Clear, illuminate, clarify.

muck'el (mŭk''l; mŏŏk''l). Var. of MICKLE. New Dial.

muck'er·er, n. A miser; a niggard. Obs.

muck'er·ish, adj. See -ISH.

muck'er·ism, n. See -ISM.

muck'i·bus, adj. Tipsy; drunk. Obs. Slang.

muck'in·der. Var. of MUCKENDER. Obs. exc. Dial.

muck'i·ness, n. See -NESS, MUCKY.

muck'man, n. Mining. = BARGUARD.

muckt. Mucked. Ref. Sp.

mu'cous·ness, n. See -NESS.

mu·cro'nes (mū·krō'nēz), n., pl. of MUCRO.

mudd (mŏŏd), n. sing & pl. [Ar.] See MEASURE, Table.

mud·dar'. Var. of MUDAR.

mud'de (mŭd'ĕ), n.; pl. -DEN (-ĕn). [MD.] See MEASURE, Table.

mud'den, n. pl. of 3d MUD.

mud'den, adj. Muddied.

mud'did. Muddied. Ref. Sp.

mud'di·ly, adv. of MUDDY.

mud'di·ness, n. See -NESS.

mud'ding, pres. part. & verbal n. of MUD.

mud'dld. Muddled. Ref. Sp.

mud'dle (mŭd''l), n. 1. A state of being confused or bungilingly entangled; as, the business is in a hopeless muddle; hence, intellectual cloudiness or confusion.

We both grub on in a muddle. Dickens.

2. A jumbled mess; as, a muddle of metaphors.

mud'dle-dom (mŭd''l-dŭm), n. [See -DOM.] Muddling, or thinking or acting in an aimless or confused manner, as a prevalent practice; also, a realm of unintelligible confusion mud'dle-head' (-hĕd'), n. A dolt; blockhead. — mud'dle-head'ed (-hĕd'ĕd; -Id; 66; 119), adj. — mud'dle-head'edness, n.

mud'dler (mŭd'lĕr), n. 1. One who or that which muddles; specif., a utensil used in stirring or mixing some liquid.

2. A miller's-thumb.

mud'dle-some (mŭd''l-sŭm), adj. Characterized by muddling.

mud drag. A dredger bucket.

mud'dy (mŭd'ĭ), adj.; MUD'DI-ER (-I-ĕr); MUD'DI-EST. 1. Of or formed from mud or earth; as, a muddy flavor.

This muddy vesture of decay. Shak.

2. Abounding in mud; besmeared, dashed, or turbid with mud; as, a muddy road, boots. Also, turbid with sediment; as, muddy coffee.

3. Living naturally close to or in mud; as, a muddy fish.

4. Not clear or bright; dull or cloudy in color; murky; indistinct; as, a muddy complexion; a muddy voice.

5. Base; sensual; dirty. Now Rare.

6. a Clouded or confused, as if turbid with mud; obscure in meaning; as, muddy thinking; a muddy style. Burke.

Cold hearts and muddy understandings.

b Cloudy in mind; muddled.

Dost think I am so muddy, so unsettled? Shak.

7. Gloomy; dejected. Obs.

8. Music. Run together; not clearly defined;—said of tones.

Syn. — See TURBID. Ant. — Clear, pellucid.

mud'dy (mŭd'ĭ), v.; MUD'DIED (-Id); MUD'DY-ING (-I-Ing). Trans.: 1. To soil with mud; to dirty; to render turbid.

2. To cloud or fog; to make dull or heavy, as wit.

—, Intransitive: To become muddy.

mud'dy-brained' (-brānd'), adj. Dull-witted; stupid.

mud'dy-breast' (-brĕst'), n. The golden plover. Local, U.S.

mud'dy-head'ed (-hĕd'ĕd; -Id; 66; 119), adj. Muddybrained.

mud'dy-met'tled (66), adj. Dull-spirited.

mud eel. See SIREN, n., 7 a.

Mu-de'jar (mōō-thē'här; 112), n.; pl. -JARES (mōō-thē'härās). [Sp. mudéjar a Moslem who has become subject to a Christian ruler, fr. Ar. mudajjan domesticated.] Sp. Hist. A Mohammedan living under a Christian king, esp. during 8th to 11th centuries, but retaining his religion, laws, and customs. Also attrib.; as, Mudejar architecture, style, a Moorish modification of the earlier Renaissance style in Spain.

mud fever. Vet. The scratches.

mud'fish' (mŭd'fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -Iz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. Any of several fishes which frequent muddy water or burrow in the mud; as: a The common European loach (Cobitis barbatula). b The bowfin. c A dipnoan of the genus Lepidosiren or Protopterus. d Any mud minnow. e The killifish (Fundulus heteroclitus). f A West Indian parrot fish (Scarus vetula). g A small goby (Gillichthys mirabilis) of the Pacific coast from San Francisco southward. h A New Zealand fish (Neochanna apoda), of the family Galaxiidae, that lives in burrows like a crayfish.

mud flat. = FLAT, n., 2.

mud'flow' (mŭd'flō'), n. Geol. a A mass of mingled volcanic particles and water which flows, like lava, from a volcano. b A body of rock formed in the above manner. c An eruption of mud from a mud volcano or mud spring. d A moving mass of soil rendered fluid by rain or melting snow; a mud avalanche; mudspate. e A minor structure present in certain fine-grained sedimentary rocks and indicative of local flowage while the material was still soft.

mud frog. A European frog (Pelobates fuscus).

mudge (mŭj), n. [Cf. BUDGE.] A movement; a stir; also, a rumor. — v. i. & t. To move. Both Scot.

mud goose. Hutchins's goose. Long Island, N. Y.

mud'guard' (mŭd'gärd'), n. A guard over a cycle or vehicle wheel to catch or deflect mud.

mud gun. Metal. A device for forcibly applying stiff mud or clay, as to the taphole of a blast furnace for closing it.

mud'head' (mŭd'hĕd'), n. A stupid person; blockhead.

mud hen. A coot, gallinule, or large rail; a marsh hen.

mud'hole' (mŭd'hōl'), n. A hole, or hollow place, containing much mud, as in a road.

mu-dir' (mōō-dēr'), n. [Ar. mudīr.] The governor of a mudiria.

mu-di'ri-a (mōō-dē'rĭ-ä), mu-di'ri-eh (-ē), n. [Ar. mudīriyah.] In Egypt and the Sudan, a province.

mud knotwort. The water persicaria.

mud lark. 1. a Slang. A person who grubs mud, as in search of stray bits of coal, iron, rope, etc. b A street urchin; a gamin. c Slang. A race horse that runs well on a muddy track.

2. a Local, Eng. A pipit. b Any of various birds that live in moist places, as the meadow lark, the shoveler, etc. c The Australian magpie lark (Grallina cyanoleuca), which makes mud nests.

mud'lark' (mŭd'lärk'), v. i. To play, delve, run, race, etc. in mud or on muddy ground. — mud'lark'er (-lär'kĕr), n.

mud lava. Volcanic mud. See MUD, n., 5.

mud mark. = MUDFLOW e.

mud minnow. Any small fish of the genus Umbra, allied to the pickerels, as U. limi of the Mississippi Valley.

mud peep. The least sandpiper.

mud pike. The saury.

mud plantain. A North American marsh or water plant (Heteranthera reniformis), family Pontederiaceae.

mud plover. The black-bellied plover. Local, Eng.

mud puppy. Any of various, mostly large, American salamanders; esp.: a One of the genus Necturus; specif., N. maculosus. See NECTURUS. b The hellbender. c Any of the genus Ambystoma.

mud purslane. Any plant of the genus Elatine (see Elatinaceae).

mu-dra' (mōō-drä'), n. [Skr. mudrā seal, token. See MOHUR.] Symbolic positions of the fingers and hands constituting a language of gesture, employed in iconography, in worship, and in some forms of YOGA. India.

mud ring. Steam Boilers. The ring or frame forming the bottom of a water leg.

mud shad. See GIZZARD SHAD mud shoveler. The spoonbill duck. Local, Eastern U.S.

mud'sill' (mŭd'sĭl'), n. 1. The lowest sill of a structure, as of a house, bridge, or dam, usually embedded in soil or mud; also, Local, U. S., a cabin with a pounded earthen floor.

2. Figuratively, a person of the lowest stratum of society; — a term of opprobrium or contempt. Southern U. S.

mud'skip'per (mŭd'skĭp'ĕr), n. Any of several small Asiatic and Polynesian gobies, of the genera Periophthalmus and Boleophthalmus, which are able to leave the water and skip about actively over wet mud and sand and even to climb the roots of mangroves in pursuit of their prey. See GOBY, Illust.

mud'sling'ing (-slĭng'ĭng), n. The use of offensive epithets or personalities, as in politics. — mud'sling'er (-ĕr), n.

mud snake. The horn snake.

mud snipe. The American woodcock. Florida.

mud socket. A device used on drilling tools to clean mud or sand out of a well.

mud'stone' (mŭd'stōn'), n. Petrog. An indurated shale, produced by the consolidation of mud.

mud'suck'er (-sŭk'ĕr), n. Any bird that thrusts its bill into mud in search of food, as the woodcock and certain ducks.

mud sunfish. a The mud bass Acantharchus pomotis. b The warmouth.

mud swallow. The cliff swallow. Local, United States.

mud teal. The greenwing. Maine.

mud turtle, terrapin, or tortoise. Any of numerous fresh-water tortoises of the United States; esp.: a One of the genus Kinosternon. b The snapping turtle Chelydra serpentina.

mud volcano. Geol. An orifice in the earth from which gas or vapor issues, either through a pool of mud, or with the ejection of mud, which accumulates in a conical mound.

mud wasp. A wasp that builds a nest of mud for its young; esp., a mud dauber.

mud'weed' (mŭd'wēd'), n. Any herb of the genus Limosella, esp. L. aquatica. See LIMOSELLA.

mud'wort' (mŭd'wûrt'), n. Mudweed.

Muen'len-beck'i-a (mū'lĕn-bĕk'ĭ-ä), n. [NL., after H. G. Muehlenbeck, Alsatian physician.] Bot. A genus of plants of the buckwheat family (Polygonaceae). M. complexa of New Zealand is the wire plant.

muer'mo (mwĕr'mō), n. [Sp., of Araucan origin.] A tall Chilean timber tree (Eucryphia cordifolia); also, its hard wood.

muermo family. The Eucryphiaceae.

mu-ez'zin (mū-ĕz'ĭn; mōō-), n. [Ar. mu'adhdhin.] A Mohammedan crier of the hour of prayer.

muff (mŭf), n. [D. mof, fr. Walloon mouffe, fr. F. moufle mitten, fr. ML. muffula fur-lined glove, of uncert., perh. Teut., origin; cf. ML. mulfola, MLG. mol soft and vel skin, hide, E. fell. Cf. MUFFLE.] 1. A soft, thick cover into which both hands may be thrust to protect them from the cold. It is most commonly of fur and is now carried only by women.

2. = MITTEN, n., 5. Obs.

3. A cluster of feathers on the side of the face, found in certain varieties of domestic fowls, as Houdans.

4. A whitethroat. Local, Eng.

5. A bungling performance; a clumsy failure; specif., in games, a failure to hold a ball in attempting to catch it.

6. A stupid or poor-spirited fellow; a duffer. Colloq.

7. Glass Mfg. A blown cylinder of glass which is afterwards flattened out to make a sheet.

8. Mach. A short hollow cylinder surrounding an object, or used to connect two abutting objects, as pipes or shafts.

muff (mŭf), v. t.; MUFFED (mŭft); MUFF'ING. To handle awkwardly; to do awkwardly; to bungle; specif., in games, to fail to hold (a ball) when attempting to catch it. — v. i. To act, or do anything, stupidly or clumsily; to bungle; specif., in games, to muff a ball.

muff, n. A German or Swiss; — used disparagingly. Obs.

muffed (mŭft), adj. Wearing a muff; crested.

muffed, adj. Irritated; vexed. Slang.

muff'et (mŭf'ĕt; -ĭt), n. [muff + -et.] A whitethroat. Eng.

muf'fe-tee' (mŭf'ĕ-tē'; mōōf'-), n. [See MUFF.] Chiefly Scot. & Dial. Eng. 1. A wrister or wristlet.

2. A muffler.

muf'fin (mŭf'ĭn), n. [Cf. OF. mouflet soft bread.] 1. A quick bread made of batter containing egg and baked in a small cup-shaped pan; also, a similarly shaped biscuit made from yeast dough. See ENGLISH MUFFIN.

2. A small earthen plate.

3. The color hazel.

4. Ceramics. A small-sized plate.

muffin cap. A cap shaped something like a muffin; specif.: a A flat woolen cap worn by English charity-school boys. b A fatigue cap worn by some British regiments.

muf'fin-eer' (mŭf'ĭ-nēr'), n. A dish for keeping muffins hot; also, a vessel with a perforated top for sprinkling muffins with sugar, spice, salt, or the like.

muffin pan. A baking pan for muffins, formed of a group of connecting cups.

muffin ring. A metal ring in which English muffins are baked.

muffin stand. A small three-tiered table for holding sandwiches, cakes, etc., at tea.

muffin turner. See TURNER.

muf'fle (mŭf''l), v.; -FLED (-'ld); -FLING (-lĭng). [OF. enmoufler. See MUFFLE, n.] Transitive: 1. To wrap up so as to conceal or protect; to wrap, as the face and neck, in folds; hence, to conceal or cover the face of; to envelop.

Muffled up in darkness and superstition. Arbuthnot.

2. To prevent seeing, or hearing, or speaking, by wraps bound about the head; to blindfold; now esp., to silence.

3. To wrap or pad with something to deaden or dull the sound of; as, to muffle oars or a bell; hence, to deaden the sound of (a cry, a drum) by any means; to mute.

—, Intrans.: [Cf. MAFFLE.] To speak indistinctly. Rare.

Syn. — Wrap, shroud, envelop; deaden, damp, dull.

Ant. — Expose, bare, disclose; amplify.

muf'fle (mŭf''l), n. [F. moufle mitten, also in senses 3 & 4. See MUFF.] 1. Anything with which another thing is muffled; specif.: a Obs. A boxing glove. b A muff. c A muffler for the throat.

2. That which deadens sound or the sound deadened.

3. A compartment or oven used in a muffle furnace in firing certain wares which must be protected from flame, esp. wares decorated over the glaze. See MUFFLE FURNACE.

Muffle, 3 (Metal).

4. A pulley block with several sheaves.

5. In mammals, the flabby thickened end of the muzzle; the rhinarium; also, the large expansive lips of a moose.

muf'fled (mŭf''ld), adj. 1. Wrapped up closely; esp., deadened as to sound; as, a muffled cry; muffled oars.

2. Decorated or painted and treated in a muffle furnace to fix the color, as pottery, glass, or glassware.

3. Wearing boxing gloves. Fielding.

4. With feathered feet, as certain breeds of pigeons.

muffle furnace. A furnace having its charge inside a compartment (muffle) and the source of heat outside, so that the charge has no contact with the flame. Cf. REVERBERATORY, adj., 2.

muffle kiln. Ceramics. = MUFFLE, n., 3.

muf'fle-man (mŭf''l-mĕn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who attends to a muffle furnace.

muf'fler (mŭf'lĕr), n. 1. A scarf for the throat in cold weather; a tippet.

2. Hence: a Obs. A bandage placed over the eyes. b A covering, as a veil or scarf, worn as a protection or as a disguise. c A mitten with a thumb. d A boxing glove.

3. A muffleman. U. S.

4. Mach. Any of various devices to deaden the noise of escaping gases or vapors, as a tube filled with baffles, through which the exhaust gases of an internal-combustion engine are passed (called also silencer).

5. Music. A cushion for terminating or softening the tones made by a stringed instrument, as in the piano.

muf'fler (mŭf'lĕr), adj. Radio. Pertaining to a device, or a stage of amplification, used with a radiating receiving set, to suppress the radiation.

muf'flin (mŭf'lĭn), n. The long-tailed titmouse. Brit.

muff'y (mŭf'ĭ), adj. Mufflike. Rare.

muf'ti (mŭf'tĭ), n.; pl. -TIS (-tĭz). [Ar.] An official expounder of Mohammedan law, often an assessor to a court.

muf'ti, n. [Appar. fr. 1st MUFTI.] Colloq., Chiefly Eng. a Citizen's dress when worn by a naval or military officer; hence, ordinary dress as distinguished from that denoting a calling or station; — a term derived from the British service in India. b One who wears mufti.

muf'ty (mŭf'tĭ), n. [Cf. MUFF.] A whitethroat. Local, Brit.

mug (mŭg), n. [Cf. Sw. mugg, Nor. mugge, mugga, Fris. mukke.] 1. A kind of earthen or metal drinking cup, with a handle, — usually cylindrical, with no lip.

2. The quantity a mug holds; a mugful; as, a mug of beer.

3. [Perh. a different word.] Slang. a The face or mouth. Thackeray. b A grimace; a "face." c Brit. A person easily imposed upon; a dupe; a fool.

mug (mŭg), v. i. & t.; MUGGED (mŭgd); MUG'GING (mŭg'ĭng). 1. To grimace; to make faces (at). Slang.

2. To cram; to study, as for an examination. Slang, Eng.

mug (mŭg), v. t. & i. [From MUG face.] 1. To photograph; — esp. used of photographing criminals.

2. (pron. mŭg; mōōg) To stand treat. Dial. & Slang, Eng.

mug (mŭg), n. A breed of sheep with wool over the face. Dial.

mug (mōōg), n. [Hind. mūg. See 1st MUNGO.] The pulse, or mungo (Phaseolus mungo). India.

mug (mŭg; mōōg), n. & v. i. [See MUGGY.] Drizzle. Dial.

mu'ga (mōō'gä), n. [Assamese mugā, so named from the color (light brown), fr. Skr. mudga a kind of bean.] a Also muga silk. A kind of silk made from the cocoons of an Indian moth (Antheraea assama), the muga moth. b The caterpillar producing this silk. Cf. TUSSAH.

mu-gear'ite (mū-gēr'ĭt; -gā'rĭt), n. [From Mugeary, Isle of Skye, Scotland.] Petrog. A fine-grained, melanocratic, extrusive rock with trachytic or basaltic texture, rarely with small feldspar phenocrysts, composed of oligoclase, orthoclase, olivine, augite, magnetite, and apatite.

mug'ger (mŭg'ĕr), n. Also mug'gar, mug'gur (-ŭr). [Hind. magar, fr. Skr. makara sea monster.] The common crocodile (Crocodilus palustris) of India, the East Indies, etc.

mug'ger (mŏŏg'ĕr), n. [See MUG a cup.] A peddler of earthenware; tinker. Scot. & N. of Eng.

mug'get (mŭg'ĕt), n. [Cf. E. dial. midgen, AS. mycgern kidney fat.] Entrails of a sheep or calf. Obs. exc. Dial.

mug'get (mŭg'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. Also mug'wet' (mŭg'wĕt'). [F. muguet woodruff.] Dial. Eng. a The woodruff. b The lily of the valley.

mug'gins (mŭg'ĭnz), n. [Prob. fr. prop. name.] 1. A simpleton.

2. A game of dominoes in which the object is to make the sum of the two ends of the line some multiple of five; — so called because counts overlooked by a player can be scored by his adversary after announcing "Muggins."

3. Any of several simple card games that depend upon building in suits or matching exposed cards, the object being to get rid of one's cards; also, an exclamation used in exacting a penalty, or the player penalized.

mug'gins, v. i. & t. To exact a penalty at muggins mug'gish (-ĭsh), adj. Muggy.

Mug'gle-to'ni-an (mŭg''l-tō'nĭ-ăn; 159), n. Eccl. Hist. One of a sect, nearly extinct, named after Lodowicke Muggleton (1609–98), an English tailor, who (1651) claimed to be inspired. — Mug'gle-to'ni-an, adj. — Mug'gle-to'ni-an-ism (-Iz'm), n.

mug'gy (mŭg'ĭ), adj.; MUG'GI-ER (-I-ĕr); MUG'GI-EST. [From dial. mug a mist, (ME. mugen) to drizzle, of Scand. origin; cf. ON. mugga fine rain, Nor. mugg mist, mold; akin to ON. mygla to become moldy, W. mign mold, Gr. myxa mucus. See MUCUS; cf. 2d MOLD, MUCK.] 1. Moist; damp; moldy; as, muggy straw. Obs. exc. Dial.

2. Warm, damp, and close; as, muggy air, weather.

mug'gy (mŭg'ĭ), mŏŏg'ĭ), n. A whitethroat. Local, Eng.

mu'gho pine (mū'gō). [Cf. F. mugho, It. mugo.] A pine (Pinus mugo mughus) of southern Europe, a variety of the Swiss mountain pine.

mug'house' (mŭg'hous'), n. Alehouse; pothouse.

mu'gi-ent (mū'jĭ-ĕnt), adj. [L. mugiens, pres. part. of mugire to bellow.] Lowing; bellowing. — mu'gi-ence (-ĕns), n. — mu'gi-en-cy (-ĕn-sĭ), n.

---

mud'dle-brained', adj. See -BRAINED.

mud'dle-ment, n. See -MENT.

mud'dle-mind'ed (66), adj. See -MINDED.

mud'dle-proof', adj. See -PROOF.

mud'dling-ly, adv. of muddling, pres. part. [-BRAINED.]

mud'dy-brained', adj. See mud'dy-com-plex'ioned (66), adj. See -COMPLEXIONED.

mude. † MOOD, MUD.

mud'hop'per, n. = MUDSKIPPER.

mud'l. Muddle. Ref. Sp.

mud'less, adj. See -LESS.

mud'proof', adj. See -PROOF.

mud'sill'. Mudsill. Ref. Sp.

mud'spate (mŭd'spāt'), n. [See SPATE.] Geol. = MUDFLOW d.

mu-ed'din (mū-ĕd'ĭn). Var. of MUEZZIN.

Muel'ler gi'a-gram (mūl'ĕr). = REULEAUX DIAGRAM. See VALVE DIAGRAM. [LERIAN.]

Muel-le'ri-an. Var. of MÜL-Muellerian duct. = MÜLLERIAN DUCT.

Muel'ler's bent grass. See GRASS, Table.

mues. † MEWS. See 3d MEW, 5.

muet. † MUTE.

muf. Muff. Ref. Sp.

mu-fau'al. Var. of MOFUSSIL.

muf'fa-tee (mŭf'ä-tē; mōōf'-). Var. of MUFFETEE. [LING.]

muff coupling. = BOX COUPmuff'ish, adj. See -ISH; MUFF, 6. — muff'ish-ness, n.

muf'fle-jaw' (mŭf''l-jô'), n. = MILLER'S-THUMB a. [-SHAPED.]

muf'fle-shaped', adj. See muf'flon, muf'lon. Vars. of MOUFLON.

muf'l. Muffle. Ref. Sp.

muf'ld. Muffled. Ref. Sp.

muft. Muffed. Ref. Sp.

mugd. Mugged. Ref. Sp.

mug'ful, n. See -FUL.

mug'gi-ly, adv. of MUGGY.

mug'gi-ness, n. See -NESS.

muggs. Var. of MUGS.

mug'gur. Var. of 1st MUGGER.

Mu-ghal', Mu-ghul' (mōō-gŭl'). Vars. of MOGUL.

Mu·gil'i·dae (mū·jĭl'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. mugil a sort of fish.] Zool. The family consisting of the gray mullets. See MULLET. Mu'gil (mū'jĭl) is the type genus. — mu·gil'i·form (mū·jĭl'ĭ·fôrm), adj. — mu'gil·oid (mū'jĭ·loid), adj. & n.

mugs, muggs (mŭgz), n. Teeswater sheep. Chiefly Scot.

mug'weed' (mŭg'wēd'), n. [See MUGWORT.] a The cross-wort Galium cruciatum. b = MUGWORT a.

mug'–wet' (mŭg'wĕt'), n. a Woodruff. b The guelder-rose.

mug'wet (mŭg'wĕt). Var. of 2d MUGGET.

mug'wort' (mŭg'wûrt'), n. [AS. mucgwyrt. See MIDGE; WORT.] a A Eurasian perennial herb (Artemisia vulgaris) related to wormwood, and possessing tonic properties. b Any of several American species of Artemisia resembling the above, as A. ludoviciana. c The bastard feverfew. d The crosswort Galium cruciatum.

mug'wump' (-wŭmp'), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Massachuset muqquomp a chief, Narraganset muckquomp.] 1. A "big" man; chief; a person of importance; — usually with a semi-ironical implication. Colloq.

2. A bolter from the Republican party in the national election of 1884; hence, an independent in politics. Polit. Cant, U. S.

☞ The bolters in 1884 were charged with regarding themselves as superior to their party in character and intelligence, and were called mugwumps and, synonymously, pharisees. They adopted the name quite generally.

3. A chronic objector; — applied by regular members of a party to independent members who are liable to bolt. Polit. Cant, U. S.

—mug'wump'er·y (mŭg'wŭmp'ĕr·ĭ), n.—mug'wump'i·an (mŭg'wŭmp'ĭ·ăn), adj. — mug'wump'ism (mŭg'wŭmp'ĭz'm), n. All Polit. Cant, U. S.

Mu·har'ram (mōō·här'ăm), n. [Ar. muḥarram sacred, forbidden, the first month of the lunar year.] 1. The first month of the Mohammedan year. See MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR.

2. A festival of the Shiite sect of the Mohammedans held during the first ten days of the month Muharram, in commemoration of the martyrdom of Husain, the second son of Fatima, Mohammed's daughter, and Ali.

Muh'len·ber'gi·a (mū'lĕn·bûr'jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after G. H. E. Muhlenberg (1753–1815), Am. botanist.] Bot. A large genus of American and Asiatic grasses. Some of the western species are important forage grasses.

Muh'len·berg's tur'tle (mū'lĕn·bûrgz). [See MUHLENBERGIA.] A small American fresh-water turtle (Clemmys muhlenbergii).

Mu·il'la (mū·ĭl'ȧ), n. [NL., anagram of Allium.] Bot. A small genus of bulbous Californian herbs, family Liliaceae, with onionlike but odorless foliage.

muir (mär; mūr), n. Moor. Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir.

muir'burn' (mär'bŭrn'; mūr'-), n. The burning of the heath and stubble on a moor. Scot.

muir'cock' (-kŏk'), n. Moor cock. Scot.

muir'fowl' (-fōōl'), n. The red grouse. Scot.

muir ill. Var. of MOOR ILL. Scot.

muir poot (pōōt). Var. of MOOR POUT. Scot.

muis'hond' (mûs'hŏnt'), n. [S. Afr. D., lit., mouse dog.] 1. The zoril. S. Africa.

2. Either of two South African striped weasels: a The zoril Ictonyx striata. b A smaller white-naped species (Poecilogale albinucha).

‖mu·jer' (mōō·hĕr'; 162), n.; pl. -JERES (-hā'rās). [Sp.] Woman; wife.

muj·ta'hid (mōōj·tä'hĭd), n. [Ar., one who exerts himself.] Moham. Theology. A Moslem theologian; specif., a religious teacher among the Shiites who has the right to formulate an opinion on matters of theology or law.

Muk'ri (mōōk'rĭ), n. One of an ancient tribe of Kurds of Persia; also, their Kurdish dialect.

muk'tar (mōōk'tär), n. [Hind. (fr. Ar.) mukhtār, lit., chosen.] A native agent or attorney. India.

muk·tat'ma (mōōk·tät'mȧ), n. [Skr. mukta freed + ātman spirit.] Hindu Philos. Emancipated spirit.

muk'ti (mōōk'tĭ), n. [Skr.] Hinduism. Release from conditioned existence; moksha.

mu'la·prak'ri·ti (mōō'lȧ·prŭk'rē·tē), n. [Skr. mūlaprakṛti.] Hindu Philos. Undifferentiated matter; the first emanation of parabrahm.

mu·lat'to (mū·lăt'ō), n.; pl. MULATTOES (-ōz). [Pg. & Sp. mulato, masc., mulata, fem., of mixed breed, fr. mulo mule, fr. L. mulus. See MULE.] The first generation offspring of a pure negro and a white; in popular use, any person of mixed Caucasian and negro blood.

mu·lat'to, adj. Pert. to mulattoes; having the yellowish-brown color of a mulatto.

mulatto jack. Yellow fever.

mu·lat'to–wood', n. The wood of any of several Mexican timber trees, genera Celtis, Bursera, Zanthoxylum, etc.

mul'ber'ry (mŭl'bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-ĭz). [ME. mulberie, murberie (see BERRY), fr. OF. mure, moure, meure, fr. VL. mora, fr. L. morum mulberry, fr. Gr. mōron, moron. Cf. MORE mulberry tree, MURREY, SYCAMORE.] 1. a Any tree of the genus Morus; also, the edible, pleasantly acid, berrylike fruit, usually dark purple. Morus alba, the white mulberry, is grown especially for its leaves, which serve as food for silkworms. See MORUS, PAPER MULBERRY. b Local, U. S. The thimbleberry. c Eng. The blackberry Rubus fruticosus. d Any of several other plants, as the dodder, whitebeam, etc.

Black Mulberry (Morus nigra). Leaves and Fruit. Reduced.

2. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of very low saturation and very low brilliance; — called also murrey, morello. Cf. COLOR.

mulberry bird. The rose-colored starling (which see).

mul'ber'ry–faced' (-fāst'), adj. Having a face of a mulberry color, or blotched as if with mulberry stains.

mulberry family. The Moraceae.

mulberry fig. = SYCAMORE a.

mulberry fruit. A color, bluish-red in hue, of low saturation and very low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

mulberry purple. A color, bluish blue-red in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance; — called also camerier. Cf. COLOR.

mulch (mŭlch; 105), n. [ME. molsh, adj.; akin to G. dial. molsch soft, rotten, AS. melsc mellow, L. mollis. See MOIL, v. t.; cf. MELCH.] Agric. a Any substance, straw, sawdust, leaves, paper, etc., spread upon the ground to protect the roots of plants from heat, cold, or drought, or to keep fruit clean. b A dust mulch (which see).

mulch, v. t.; MULCHED (mŭlcht); MULCH'ING. To cover or dress with mulch. — mulch'er (mŭl'chĕr; 105), n.

Mul'ci·ber (mŭl'sĭ·bĕr), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. An epithet of Vulcan.

Mul'ci·bri'ri·an (-bē'rĭ·ăn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or like Vulcan.

mulct (mŭlkt), n. [MF. mulcte, fr. L. mulcta, multa.] 1. A fine or penalty; an amercement.

All injury or damage . . . was to be paid for by a mulct to the owner, not a compensation to the sufferer. H. H. Milman.

2. A blemish or defect. Rare. Massinger.

mulct, v. t.; past tense MULCT'ED; past part. MULCTED, MULCT; pres. part. & verbal n. MULCT'ING. [F. mulcter, fr. L. mulctare, multare.] 1. To punish for an offense by imposing a fine or forfeiture, esp. a pecuniary fine; to exact a mulct from; fine; hence, to deprive of, as by deceit, trickery, or by way of punishment.

The absorption that mulcted Guthrie's words of half their meaning, and more than half their weight. C. E. Craddock.

2. To impose punishment for. Obs.

— mulc·ta'tion (mŭlk·tā'shăn), n. — mulc'ta·tive (mŭlk'tȧ·tĭv), adj. — mulc'ta·to'ry (-tō'rĭ; -tĕr·ĭ), adj.

mulc'ta·ble (mŭlk'tȧ·b'l), adj. Punishable by a mulct.

mulc'ta·ry (mŭlk'tȧ·rĭ), adj. Consisting of, or paid as, a fine. "Mulctary punishments." Sir W. Temple.

mulct law. Law. A statute which in practical effect licenses a prohibited activity by imposition of a tax, or of a fine to be imposed at stated periods. 119 Iowa Reports, 400.

mulc'tu·ar'y (mŭlk'tū·ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr·ĭ), adj. Imposing a pecuniary penalty; punishable by fine; as, mulctuary crimes.

mule (mūl), n. [OF. mul, masc., mule, fem., fr. L. mulus, mula; akin to Gr. dial. mychlos ass, Alban. mushk mule. Cf. MULATTO.] 1. A hybrid between the horse and the ass; esp., the offspring of a male ass and a mare, that produced by a stallion and a she-ass being usually called a hinny. Mules have the large head, long ears, and small hoofs of the ass with the form and size of the horse. Their endurance and sure-footedness make them particularly valuable as draft and pack animals. They are usually sterile, but the hinny sometimes foals.

2. A very stubborn person. Colloq.

3. A sharp-sterned variety of the coble, used on the northeast coast of England. Local, Eng.

4. A scooplike device which can be lowered vertically from across the bow of a boat so as to catch the current in the water and draw the boat along. Local, U. S.

5. A small locomotive or tractor for hauling canalboats, mine cars, agricultural machinery, etc.

6. Biol. A hybrid, esp. a sterile one; — used of hybrids between the canary and related birds.

7. Numis. The hybrid coin or token resulting from the association of either of the regular dies of an issue with the die of another issue.

8. Spinning. A machine for simultaneously drawing and twisting (spinning) cotton, wool, etc., into yarn or thread and winding it into cops; — called also spinning jenny, jenny, mule-jenny. Cf. THROSTLE.

mule, adj. Hybrid; as, a mule cabbage or lamb.

mule (mūl), n. [F., fr. D. muil, fr. L. mulleus a shoe of red leather. See MULLET fish.] A kind of slipper without quarter.

mule (mūl), n. [F., fr. OFlem. muyl.] Chiblain.

mule (mūl), v. i. Rare var. of MEWL.

mule. Var. of MOOL.

mule armadillo (mūl). A South American armadillo (Dasypus septemcinctus).

mule'back' (mūl'băk'), n. The back of a mule. — adv. By muleback.

mule chair. A cacolet.

mule deer. A long-eared deer of western North America (Odocoileus hemionus, syn. Cariacus macrotis), larger and more heavily built than the Virginia deer. Often called black-tailed deer.

mule fat. A Californian shrub (Baccharis viminea) whose willowlike shoots are browsed upon by horses and mules. California.

mule'foot' (mūl'fŏōt'), mule'foot'ed (-fŏōt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having a solid hoof, as certain hogs. — mule'foot', n.

mule frame. A spinning mule.

mule killer. Any of several arthropods erroneously supposed to kill livestock in the southern United States by stinging or by being swallowed; as: a Fla. A whip scorpion. b Texas. A walking-stick insect. c A mantis. d A wheel bug.

mule'man (mūl'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who tends mules.

mule mark. A dark dorsal stripe, as esp. on mules.

mule pulley. Mach. An adjustable guide pulley for a belt.

mule rabbit. A jack rabbit.

mule skinner. A mule driver. Colloq., U. S.

mu·le'ta (mōō·lā'tä), n. [Sp.] In a bullfight, a matador's staff bearing a red flag.

mu'le·teer' (mū'lĕ·tēr'), n. [F. muletier, fr. mulet a mule, dim. fr. L. mulus.] One who drives mules.

mule twist. Cotton yarn in cops, as spun on a mule.

mule'wort' (mūl'wûrt'), n. A fern of the genus Hemionitis.

mu'ley ax'le (mū'lĭ; mōōl'ĭ; mŏōl'ĭ). [See MULLEY hornless.] Railroads. A car axle without collars at the outer ends of the journals.

muley head. A guide carriage for a muley saw.

muley saw. [See MULLEY hornless.] A stiff, long saw, guided at the ends but not stretched in a gate.

1 Diagram showing Mule Pulleys (A, A) for a belt transmitting motion from one shaft to another at right angles. 2 Stand with two adjustable Mule Pulleys.

mul'ga (mŭl'gȧ), n. [Native name.] 1. An Australian wattle (Acacia aneura); also, loosely, any of several other acacias.

2. A long, narrow wooden shield, used by the Australian aborigines.

mulga grass. Either of the valuable Australian forage grasses Danthonia racemosa and Neurachne mitchelliana, often found among mulga trees.

mu'li·e'bral (mū'lĭ·ē'brăl), adj. [L. muliebris.] Pertaining to womankind. Rare.

mu'li·e'bri·a (mū'lĭ·ē'brĭ·ȧ; -ē'brĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [L.] Anat. The female genitalia.

mu'li·e'brile (-brĭl; 155), adj. [L. muliebris.] Feminine.

mu'li·eb'ri·ty (mū'lĭ·ĕb'rĭ·tĭ), n. [LL. muliebritas, fr. muliebris belonging to a woman, fr. mulier woman.] 1. State of being a woman or of possessing full womanly powers; womanhood; — correlative of virility.

2. Womanliness; femininity; effeminacy.

mu'li·e'brous (mū'lĭ·ē'brŭs), adj. [L. muliebris.] Effeminate.

mu'li·er (mū'lĭ·ĕr), n. [ME. moiller(e) woman, wife, fr. OF. moillier wife, fr. L. mulier woman.] A woman married or single; specif., a wife; a mother; — formerly sometimes used attributively of a child born in lawful wedlock, esp. in mu'li·er puis'ne (pū'nĭ) or younger a younger son born in lawful wedlock, who was preferred at law to a bastard eigne, or elder bastard. — mu'li·er·ine (-ĭn; 156), adj.

Mulga, 2.

mu'li·er·ose (-ōs), adj. [L. mulierosus.] Excessively fond of women. — mu'li·er·os'i·ty (-ŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Both Rare.

mul'ish (mūl'ĭsh), adj. Like a mule; specif.: a Sullen; stubborn. b Hybrid; sterile. — mul'ish·ly, adv. — mul'ish·ness, n.

mu·li'ta (mōō·lē'tȧ), n. [Sp., dim. fr. mula she mule.] The mule armadillo.

mulk (mŭlk), n. [Turk., fr. Ar. mulk property.] Turkey. Land that is the absolute property of its owner; freehold land.

mull (mŭl), n. [ME. mul, mol. See 2d MULLER.] 1. Dry mold; broken or crumbling bits of earth, peat, or the like; dust; rubbish. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

2. Anything muddled; a failure; mess. Colloq., Eng.

mull (mŭl; mōōl), n. [Prob. of Scand. origin; cf. ON. múli a snout, muzzle, projecting crag.] A promontory; as, the Mull of Cantyre. Scot.

mull (mŭl), n. [From MULMUL.] 1. A thin, soft muslin without stiffening.

2. Pharm. An ointment of high melting point intended to be spread on muslin or mull and used like a plaster; as, zinc mull; — called also steatin.

mull (mōōl), n. [Scot. form of MILL machine.] A snuffbox with apparatus for pulverizing tobacco; hence, any snuffbox. Scot.

mull (mŭl), v.; MULLED (mŭld); MULL'ING. [ME. mullen. See 2d MULLER.] Transitive: 1. To powder, pulverize, crush, grind, squeeze, or the like. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

2. To make a mess of; to muddle; to fumble. Dial. Eng.

—, Intransitive: To work mentally; to cogitate; as, to mull over an idea. Colloq.

mull (mŭl), v. t. [Origin uncert.] 1. To heat, sweeten, and spice; as, to mull wine.

2. To dispirit or deaden; to dull or blunt. Obs. Shak.

mull (mōōl; mŏōl), n. [Cf. MULLEY.] A cow. Now Dial.

mull (mōōl; Scot. mōōl). Scot. & Dial. Eng. var. of MILL.

mul'lah (mŭl'ȧ; mŏōl'ȧ), n. Also mul'la. [Turk., Per., & Hind. mulla, fr. Ar. mawla.] In Mohammedan countries, a learned teacher or expounder of the law and dogmas of Islam.

mul'lar (mŭl'ĕr), n. [See 2d MULLER.] A die, cut in intaglio, for stamping an ornament in relief, as upon metal.

mul'lein (mŭl'ĭn), n. Also mul'len (-ĕn; -ĭn). [ME. moleyne, fr. OF. moleine (F. molène), prob., after the woolly leaves, fr. mol soft, fr. L. mollis. See MOIL, v. t.] Any herb of the genus Verbascum. The common, or great, mullein, with woolly leaves, is V. thapsus. The moth mullein is V. blattaria.

mullein dock. The common mullein.

mullein foxglove. An American herb (Seymeria macrophylla) with coarse leaves and yellow tubular flowers.

mullein pink. A European herb (Lychnis coronaria), often cultivated as the rose campion.

mul'len·ize (mŭl'ĕ·nīz; -ĭ·nīz), v. t. To level (land), freeing it of mallee. Australia.

Mul'lens, Pris·cil'la (prĭ·sĭl'ȧ mŭl'ĕnz; -ĭnz). See COURTSHIP OF MILES STANDISH.

mull'er (mŭl'ĕr), n. One who or that which mulls; specif., a vessel in which wine, etc., is mulled over a fire.

mull'er, n. [ME. mullen to pulverize, fr. mul, mol, dust; akin to AS. myl, ON. mylja to crush, OHG. mullen, and to E. MILL. Cf. MULL dirt.] 1. A stone or thick lump of glass or metal used as a pestle for grinding grains, pigments, drugs, or ore.

2. Metal. Any of a number of rotating shoes bearing against the bottom of a cylindrical pan, used for agitating and grinding. Also, the whole of such apparatus.

3. Mining. = BUCKING HAMMER.

muller, n. [F. moulure.] A molding. Obs.

Mül·le'ri·an, Muel·le'ri·an (mü·lē'rĭ·ăn), adj. Discovered by or named after: a Johannes Müller, a German physiologist and comparative anatomist (1801–58). b H. M. Müller, a German anatomist (1820–64). c Fritz Müller, a German zoologist (1821–97).

Müllerian bodies or corpuscles. Bot. The minute nitrogenous glands on the leaves of the myrmecophyte Cecropia adenopus. They serve as food for the symbiotic ants inhabiting the plant.

Müllerian, or Muellerian, duct. Embryol. In vertebrate embryos, either of a pair of ducts parallel to the Wolffian ducts. In the female they give rise to the oviducts.

Müllerian fibers. Anat. = FIBERS OF MÜLLER.

Müllerian mimicry. Mimicry (sense 2) between two noxious species.

Müll'er's fi'bers (mül'ĕrz). = FIBERS OF MÜLLER.

Müller's fluid. See WEIGERT'S METHOD.

Müller's glass. Mineral. Hyalite.

Müller's larva. Zool. See CEPHALOTROCHA.

Müller's muscle. Anat. The circular fibers of the ciliary muscle of the eye.

---

mu·hal'. † MAHAL.

Mu·ham'mad·an (mōō·hăm'ȧ·dăn), Mu·ham'med·an, adj. & n. Vars. of MOHAMMEDAN.

Mu·ham'mad·an·ism (-ĭz'm). Var. of MOHAMMEDANISM.

mu·ham'ma·di, n. = MAHMUDI.

muid (mwē), n. [D. mudde and F. muid, both fr. L. modius.] See MEASURE, Table.

muil. Var. of MOOL; MULE, s.

muir (mūr). Var. of MURE, adj.

Muis'ca. Var. of MUYSCA.

muist (müst). Scot. var. of MUST, musk.

mu·jik' (mōō·zhĭk'; mōō'zhĭk). [Var. of MUZHIK.]

muk. † MEEK, MUCK.

Muk'den' (mōōk'dĕn'), n. See BATTLE, Table.

muke † MUCK.

muk'tar. Var. of MUKTAR.

mul. Var. of MULL.

mul (mōōl). Var. of MIL. See MEASURE, Table. Denmark.

mu·lat'ta, n., fem. of MULATTO.

mu·lat'to·ism, n. See -ISM.

mu·lat'tress, n., fem. of MULATTO.

mu'lay saw. Var. of MULEY SAW.

mulcht. Mulched. Ref. Sp.

mul'der (mōōl'dĕr; mōōl'-). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of MOLDER.

mule'-jen'ny, n. = 1st MULE, 8.

mu'le·tress, n., fem. of MULETEER.

mu'ley (mū'lĭ; mōōl'ĭ; mŏōl'ĭ). Var. of MULLEY.

mu'ley, n. Short for MULEY SAW.

mu'li·er·ly, adv. In wedlock; legitimately. See MULIER.

mulier puisne or younger. Law.

mul'ish·er·ly (mū'lĭ·ĕr·tĭ), n. Legitimate offspring; attributively = MULIER. Obs.

mul'ism, n. See -ISM.

mull. † MOOL, MULE.

mul'la·ga·taw'ny. Var. of MULLIGATAWNY.

mul'len. Var. of MULLEIN.

mul'let (mŭl'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), mol'et (mŏl'-), n. [ME. molet, fr. OF. molette mullet, rowel.] Her. A star, usually five-pointed and pierced. When used as a difference it now indicates the third son. Cf. ESTOILE.

mul'let, n.; pl. MULLETS (-ĕts; -ĭts; 119), often MULLET. See PLURAL, Note. [ME. molet, mulet, fr. OF. mulet, prob. dim. fr. L. mullus red mullet, fr. Gr. myllos; akin to L. mulleus reddish, Gr. melas black, Skr. malina black, filthy. Cf. MELANCHOLY, MULE slipper, SURMULLET.] 1. Any fish of the family Mugilidae; — distinguished as gray mullets. They occur in streams and in most seas, living chiefly near the shores. The largest reach a length of from one to two feet, and all are valued as food. The best-known species are the striped mullet (Mugil cephalus), of the European and American coasts and the Pacific Ocean, and Liza capito, of the Mediterranean.

A Striped Mullet (Mugil cephalus).

2. Any fish of the family Mullidae; — distinguished as red mullets or surmullets. They are fishes of moderate size with a small mouth, large scales, and with two long firm barbels on the chin. Their coloration is generally brilliant, usually red or golden. The best-known species are the common European Mullus barbatus, which was highly esteemed by the Romans, and the striped surmullet (M. surmulletus) of southern Europe. See GOATFISH.

A Red Mullet (Mullus barbatus).

3. In popular usage, any of certain other fishes, esp. certain suckers (Catostomidae) of America.

mul'let (mŭl'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. A puffin. Brit.

mul'let, v. t. To curl, or dress, with the aid of mullets. See MULLETS. Obs.

mullet hawk. The osprey. Local, Eng.

mul'let·ry (mŭl'ĕt·rĭ; -ĭt·rĭ), n. A pond for breeding mullets.

mul'lets (mŭl'ĕts; -ĭts; 119), n. pl. [F. molet, molette, a sort of pincers.] Small pincers for curling the hair. Obs.

mul'ley (mŏol'ĭ; mōol'ĭ), n. [Also muley, mooley, moiley, moil, mul, of Celt. origin, appar. independently fr. Ir., W., and Gael.; cf. MIr. & Ir. maol, maol, bald, blunt, hornless, OW. mail, W. moel, Gael. maol.] 1. A mulley, or polled, animal. U. S.

2. A cow. Dial. Eng.; U. S., a child's word.

mul'ley, adj. [See MULLEY, n.] Hornless; polled; — said of beef cattle.

Mul'li·dae (mŭl'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. mullus red mullet.] Zool. A family of fishes consisting of the red mullets, or surmullets. See MULLET, 2. — mul'lid (-ĭd), n. & adj. — mul'loid (-oid), adj. & n.

mul'li·gan (mŭl'ĭ·găn), n. [Origin obscure.] A stew of vegetables, meat, etc.; — used orig. by tramps. Slang, U.S.

mul'li·ga·taw'ny (mŭl'ĭ·gȧ·tȯ'nĭ), n. [Tamil milagu-tanni, or Malayalam mulagu-tanni, fr. mulagu pepper (cf. Skr. marica) + vulgar tanni water, fr. tanniir, prop., cold water, fr. tan cold + nīr (cf. Skr. nīra) water.] An East Indian curry soup, made of chicken or other meat.

mul'li·grubs (mŭl'ĭ·grŭbz), n. pl. [mull mold, earth + grub worm.] A griping of the intestines; colic; hence, the sulks; the blues. Slang.

mul'lion (mŭl'yŭn), n. [OF. moienel, meienel, medial (F. meneau mullion), fr. L. medianus; cf. OF. moinel sally port (F. moineau small bastion in the middle of the curtain), for moienel. See MEDIAN.] Arch. a A slender bar or pier forming a division between lights of windows, screens, etc. b An upright member of a framing. See STILE.

Mullion a.
a, a Mullions.
b b b Transom.

mul'lion, v. t.; MUL'LIONED (-yŭnd); MUL'LION·ING. To furnish with mullions; to divide by mullions.

mul'lock (mŭl'ŭk), n. [From MULL dirt.] 1. Rubbish; refuse; dirt. Obs. exc. Dial. 2. Mining. Refuse earth or rock from a mine; rubbish; deads; also, earth or rock bearing no gold. Australasia.

mul'lock (mŭl'ŭk), v. i. To work in a hasty slipshod way. — v. t. To mess; waste; spoil. Both Dial. Eng. & Australia. — mul'lock·er (-ĕr), n. Australia.

mul'lock·y (-ĭ), adj. Of or pertaining to mullock; littered with mullock. Australia.

mul'lo·way (-ō·wā), n. The jewfish (Sciaena antarctica) of Australia.

mul'mul (mŭl'mŭl), n. [Hind. & Per. malmal. Cf. MULL muslin.] Mull; muslin.

mulse (mŭls), n. [L. mulsum (sc. vinum), fr. mulsus mixed with honey; akin to L. mel honey. See MELLIFLUOUS; cf. MOUSSE.] Wine boiled and mingled with honey.

mult (mŭlt), v. t. [See MULTURE.] To take multure from.

multi-. = MULTI- (which see), as in:

multangular	multangulous	multocular
multangularly	multanimous	multungulate multangularness	multarticulate mul·tan'gu·lum (mŭl·tăng'gū·lŭm), n. [NL. See MULTANGULE.] Anat. & Zool. Either of two wrist bones: the mul·tan'gu·lum ma'jus (mā'jŭs), or greater multangular, articulating with the first metacarpal, and the mul·tan'gu·lum mi'nus (mī'nŭs), or lesser multangular, articulating with the second metacarpal.

Mul·ta'ni (mŏŏl·tä'nē), n. The Lahnda dialect of Multan. See LAHNDA; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

mul·te'i·ty (mŭl·tē'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. multus much, many.] Multiplicity; also, an aggregate comprising many.

Mul·tek'a (mŏŏl·tĕk'ȧ), n. [Ar. Multaqa, lit., confluence.] A Moslem code compiled from traditional sayings and opinions of Mohammed. It is the standard book in Islam on legal traditions.

mul'ti- (mŭl'tĭ-). [L. multus. See MULTITUDE.] A combining form, Latin multi-, meaning many, much, as in *multi*farious, *multi*potent. Specif.: a Consisting of, containing, or having, many; — chiefly in parasynthetic adjectives, as in *multi*cellular, *multi*polar; also in adjectives of the same force, formed by combination with a noun; multiple, as in *multi*col, *multi*phase. Cf. POLY-. b Many times over; in many respects; — in nouns, as in *multi*fetation, *multi*millionaire, *multi*specialist. c Often restrictedly, more than two, as in *multi*cuspid, *multi*cylinder. d Med. Affecting many parts, as in *multi*familial.

The meaning of the following can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

multiangular	multifoliolate	multiperforate
multiareolate	multifurcate	multiperforated
multiarticular	multiganglionic	multipersonal
multiarticulate	multigranulate	multiphotography multiarticulated	multigranulated	multipinnate
multiaxial	multiguttulate	multipointed
multiblade	multigyrate	multiported
multibladed	multihead	multiradial multibranched	multihearth	multiradiate
multibranchiate	multihued	multiradiated
multicamerate	multijet	multiradicate
multicapitate	multijugate	multiradicular
multicapsular	multijugous	multiramified
multicarinate	multilaciniate	multiramose
multicarinated	multilamellar	multiramous
multicellular	multilamellate	multirate
multicentral	multilamellous	multireflex
multicentric	multilaminar	multirooted
multicharge	multilaminate	multisaccate multichord	multilaminated	multisacculate
multichrome	multilighted	multisacculated
multiciliate	multilineal	multiseated
multiciliated	multilinear	multisegmental
multicipital	multilingual	multisegmentate
multicircuit	multilirate	multisegmented multicoccous	multilobar	multiseptate
multicoil	multilobate	multiserial multicolor	multilobe	multiserially
multicolored	multilobed	multiseriate
multicolorous	multilobular	multishot
multiconductor	multilobulate	multisiliquous
multicore	multilobulated	multispeed
multicorneal	multilocular	multispermous
multicostate	multiloculate	multispicular
multicourse	multiloculated	multispiculate
multicrystalline	multimacular	multispindle
multicuspid	multimammate	multispinous
multicuspidate	multimascular	multispiral
multicylinder	multimedial	multispired
multicylindered	multimetalic	multistage
multidentate	multimillion	multistaminate
multidenticulate	multimolecular	multistoried multidenticulated	multimotor	multistory
multidigitate	multimotored	multistratified
multidimensional	multinational	multistratous
multidirectional	multinervate	multistriate
multiengine	multinervose	multisulcate
multiengined	multinodal	multisulcated
multiexhaust	multinodate	multitentaculate
multifaced	multinodous	multithreaded
multifaceted	multinodular	multititular
multifactorial	multinominal	multitoed
multifamilial	multinominous	multitoned
multifeetation	multinuclear	multituberculate multifibered	multinucleate	multituberculated
multifistular	multinucleated	multitubular
multiflagellate	multinucleolar	multivalved
multiflagellated	multinucleolate	multivalvular
multiflorous	multinucleolated	multivane
multiflue	multiovular	multivoiced
multifoceal!	multiovulate	multivolumed
multifoliate	multipartisan	multivorous mul'ti·break (mŭl'tĭ·brāk), adj. Elec. Designating a switch that breaks the circuit at two or more points at the same time.

mul'ti·com·po'nent (-kŏm·pō'nĕnt), adj. Physical Chem. Denoting or pert. to a system having two or more components.

mul'ti·con'stant (-kŏn'stănt), adj. Assuming a large number of constants, as in the theory of elastic bodies.

mul'ti·cy'cle (mŭl'tĭ·sī'k'l), n. A cycle or velocipede having many wheels; also, a cycle for carrying two or more riders.

mul'ti·far'i·ous (-fâr'ĭ·ŭs; 79), adj. [L. multifarius, fr. multus much, many. Cf. BIFARIOUS.] 1. Having multiplicity; having great diversity or variety; of various kinds.

The multifarious complexities of human character. Hare.

2. Bot. Many-ranked, as leaves. Rare.

3. Law. Of a pleading, improperly uniting distinct and independent matters, and thereby confounding them, whether against one or several defendants.

Syn. — See MANIFOLD. Ant. — Identical, homogeneous. — mul'ti·far'i·ous·ly, adv. — mul'ti·far'i·ous·ness, n.

mul'tif'er·ous (mŭl·tĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. multifer, fr. multus much, many + ferre to bear.] Bearing much or many. R.

mul'ti·fid (mŭl'tĭ·fĭd), adj. [L. multifidus, fr. multus much, many + findere to split.] Cleft into several or many parts; as, a multifid leaf. — mul'ti·fid·ly, adv.

mul·tif'i·dus (mŭl·tĭf'ĭ·dŭs), n. [NL.] Anat. A muscle of the fifth, or deepest, layer of the back, which fills up the groove on either side of the spinous processes of the vertebrae from the sacrum to the skull. It consists of many fasciculi which pass upward and inward to the spinous processes, and help to erect and rotate the spine.

mul'ti·flo'ra rose (mŭl'tĭ·flō'rȧ; 181). Hort. A class or race of garden roses derived from a Japanese shrub (Rosa multiflora), often called Japanese rose. Its vigorous habit has made it a favorite as a stock.

mul'ti·flow' (mŭl'tĭ·flō'), adj. Having more than two conduits or channels for flow; as, a multiflow water heater.

mul'ti·foil' (mŭl'tĭ·foil'), n. A foil of more than five divisions; — applied to foils in windows. — mul'ti·foil', adj. — mul'ti·foiled' (-foild'), adj.

mul'ti·fold (-fōld), adj. [multi- + -fold.] Many times doubled; manifold; numerous.

mul'ti·form (-fôrm), adj. [F. or L.; F. multiforme, fr. L. multiformis, fr. multus many + forma shape.] Having many forms, shapes, or appearances. — mul'ti·for'mi·ty (-fôr'mĭ·tĭ), n.

A plastic and multiform unit. Hare.

mul'ti·form, n. That which is multiform; also, rarely, multiformity.

mul'ti·formed (mŭl'tĭ·fôrmd), adj. Multiform.

mul'ti·gap' (-găp'), adj. Having many gaps, as a kind of lightning arrester. — n. Any of the gaps of a multigap lightning arrester.

Mul'ti·graph (mŭl'tĭ·grȧf; 83), n. A trade-mark for a small printing press, used primarily for printing form letters, circulars, and the like; hence [sometimes not cap.], the press bearing this trade-mark. It has a cylinder with grooves into which movable types or electrotypes may be inserted.

mul'ti·graph, v. t. To print many copies of, by means of a Multigraph. — mul'ti·graph·er (-ĕr), n.

mul'ti·lat'er·al (mŭl'tĭ·lăt'ĕr·ăl), adj. 1. Having many sides; many-sided.

2. Participated in by more than two states; as, a multilateral treaty. Cf. UNILATERAL, BILATERAL.

3. Law. Of a contract, having three or more parties. — mul'ti·lat'er·al·ly, adv.

mul'ti·lin'guist (-lĭng'gwĭst), n. One versed in many languages.

mul'ti·lit'er·al (-lĭt'ĕr·ăl), adj. Having many letters; also, having many unknown quantities.

mul'ti·lo·ca'tion (-lō·kā'shŭn), n. [multi- + location.] Simultaneous presence in many places.

mul·til'o·quent (mŭl·tĭl'ō·kwĕnt), adj. Also mul·til'o·quous (mŭl·tĭl'ō·kwŭs), rarely mul'ti·lo'qui·ous (mŭl'tĭ·lō'kwĭ·ŭs). [L. multiloquus, fr. multus much, many + loqui to speak.] Speaking much; loquacious. — mul·til'o·quence (mŭl·tĭl'ō·kwĕns), n.

mul·til'o·quy (mŭl·tĭl'ō·kwĭ), n. [L. multiloquium.] Use of many words; talkativeness.

mul'ti·mar'ble (mŭl'tĭ·mär'b'l), v. t. To decorate with many marbles.

mul'ti·met'al·lism (-mĕt'ăl·ĭz'm; -'l·ĭz'm), n. A system of using many metals as money. — mul'ti·met'al·list, n.

mul'ti·mil'lion·aire' (mŭl'tĭ·mĭl'yŭn·âr'), n. One having two or more million (dollars, pounds, francs, or the like).

mul'ti·mod'al (-mōd'ăl; -'l), adj. [multi- + modal.] Having several or many modes; specif.: a Statistics. Showing several regions of maximum frequency; as, a multimodal distribution. b Psychol. Composed of several distinct types of activity; as, a multimodal conception of intelligence. — mul'ti·mo·dal'i·ty (-mō·dăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

mul'ti·nu'cle·ate cell (-nū'klē·āt). See NUCLEUS, 7.

mul·tip'a·ra (mŭl·tĭp'ȧ·rȧ), n.; pl. -RAE (-rē). [NL. See MULTIPAROUS.] Med. A woman who has borne more than one child.

mul'ti·par'i·ty (mŭl'tĭ·păr'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Biol. The production of two or more young at a birth.

2. Med. The condition of having borne a number of children.

mul·tip'a·rous (mŭl·tĭp'ȧ·rŭs), adj. [NL. multiparus. See MULTI-; -PAROUS.] a Bot. Producing several lateral axes; as, a multiparous cyme. b Med. Of or pertaining to a multipara. c Zool. Producing many, or more than one, at a birth; of or pertaining to multiparity.

mul'ti·par'tite (mŭl'tĭ·pär'tĭt), adj. [L. multipartitus, fr. multus much, many + partitus divided, past part. See PARTITE.] Divided into many parts; having several parts; esp., Math., indicating a division into many parts. See UNIPARTITE.

mul'ti·ped (mŭl'tĭ·pĕd) or -pede (-pēd), adj. [L. multipes, multipeda, fr. multus many + pes, pedis, foot.] Having many feet; many-footed. — n. A multiped animal. Rare.

mul'ti·phase (-fāz), adj. [multi- + phase.] Having many phases; specif., Elec., polyphase.

mul'ti·phas'er (-fāz'ĕr), n. Elec. A multiphase generator.

mul'ti·plane' (-plān'), n. An airplane with more than two supporting planes.

mul'ti·ple (mŭl'tĭ·p'l), adj. [F., fr. L. multiplex. See MULTIPLY.] 1. Containing more than once, or more than one; consisting of more than one; manifold.

2. Elec. a Designating a circuit having a number of conductors in parallel. b Designating a group of terminals which make a circuit available at a number of points.

3. Gram. Consisting of more than two co-ordinate elements; — said of a sentence or syntactic member of a sentence. Cf. COMPOUND, adj., 4.

4. Math. Repeated, or occurring more than once, or in higher degree than the first; as, multiple roots.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) meaning having, or constructed with, more than one are:

multiple-clutch	multiple-dome	multiple-series multiple-die	multiple-drill	multiple-speed multiple-disk	multiple-line	multiple-toothed mul'ti·ple (mŭl'tĭ·p'l), n. 1. Elec. A type of arrangement of an electrical system. See PARALLEL, n., 7.

2. Math. a The product of a quantity by an integer. b An assemblage with respect to any of its divisions or parts. — in multiple. = in parallel, under PARALLEL, n., 7.

multiple algebra. Math. See ALGEBRA, n., 2.

multiple allelomorph. See ALLELOMORPH.

multiple boiler. A fire-tube boiler. See BOILER, 6.

multiple circuit or connection. = SERIES PARALLEL.

multiple cropping. The taking of two or more crops from the same field in one year.

mul'ti·ple-die' press. See PUNCH PRESS.

mul'ti·ple-disk' clutch. See FRICTION CLUTCH.

multiple drill. Mach. See DRILLING MACHINE.

multiple effect. Sugar Mfg. A system of several vacuum pans arranged so that the vapor from any pan except the last is used to heat the next pan, in which the exhaustion is more complete.

mul'ti·ple-ef·fect' e·vap'o·ra'tor. See EVAPORATOR b mul'ti·ple-ex·pan'sion en'gine. A compound engine.

multiple factor. Biol. a A multiple allelomorph. b One of the nondominant interacting factors required by the multiple-factor hypothesis.

multiple factors. Genetics. In a major theory (the multiple-factor hypothesis) concerning the inheritance of certain quantitative characters, as size or skin pigmentation, the total group of interacting nondominant genes or factors which cumulatively determine the expression of such characters. Cf. BLENDING INHERITANCE.

multiple feeder. See FEEDER, n., 6.

multiple fission. Biol. Division of a cell into more than two parts. Cf. BINARY FISSION.

multiple fruit. Bot. = COLLECTIVE FRUIT. See FRUIT, Table & Illust.

multiple harmonic telegraph. A multiple telegraph employing as transmitters vibrating reeds of different pitch and as receivers reeds of corresponding pitch.

mul'ti·ple-line' sys'tem of in·sur'ance. The plan of writing all or many kinds of insurance. Many countries permit the practice of multiple-line insurance, but in the United States most states permit only the monoline system.

multiple listing. Real Estate. A system adopted by some or all of the real-estate brokers of a given community mul'tiond. Multioned. Ref. Sp.

---

mull muslin. = 3d MULL, 1.
Mul·mu'ti·us (mŭl·mū'shĭ·ŭs), n. Traditional 16th king of the Britons. mul'si·fy (mŭl'sĭ·fī), v. i. Aphetic form of EMULSIFY. mul·tan'gle, n. [NL. multangulum, fr. L. multus much, many + angulus angle.] A polygon. Obs. mul'ter. Var. of MULTURE. mul'ti·cel'lu·lar gem'ma. See GEMMA, 1 b. multicellular voltmeter. See ELECTROSTATIC VOLTMETER. mul'ti·di·rec'tion·al il·lu'mi·na'tion. See ILLUMINATION, n., 2. mul'ti·dis·perse', v. t. Physical Chem. = POLYDISPERSE. mul'ti·fase. Multiphase. R.S. mul·tif'i·dous, adj. Zool. = MULTIFID; — of feet.
mul'ti·for'mous (mŭl'tĭ·fôr'mŭs), adj. Multiform. Obs.
mul'ti·graf. Multigraph. R.S.
mul'ti·no'mi·al, n. & adj. [multi- + -nomial as in binomial.] = POLYNOMIAL. mul'ti·par'i·ent (mŭl'tĭ·pâr'ĭ·ĕnt), adj. = MULTIPAROUS, adj.

whereby all properties listed for sale or rent with each broker are reported to all of the brokers who are parties to the agreement. Any broker may then sell or rent the properties, and the commissions are split in agreed proportions between the brokers listing the properties and the brokers selling them. Sometimes called compulsory listing.

multiple multipole breaker. Elec. See CIRCUIT BREAKER.

multiple myelomatosis. Med. A disease of the bone marrow characterized by the presence of numerous myelomata in various bones of the body.

multiple neuritis. Med. Neuritis affecting several nerves at the same time.

mul'ti·ple-pass', v. t. & i. Steam Boilers. To pass (gases) more than once across the tubes of a boiler.

multiple personality. See PERSONALITY, 10 b.

mul'ti·ple·poind'ing (mŭl'tĭ-p'l-poin'dĭng; see POIND, v.), n. Scots Law. Lit., a manyfold poinding, or distress; hence, a proceeding equivalent to the interpleader of English law for preventing this.

multiple point. a Geom. A point on a curve through which two or more branches of the curve pass; a point on a surface through which three or more nappes of the surface pass; one that appears as a fixed number (m) of points in the total number (n) of intersections of the curve (or surface) with every line through the point; — called an m-multiple, or m-ple, point. b Phys. Chem. Any point representing a set of conditions under which two or more phases can exist together.

multiple press. Mach. See PUNCH PRESS.

multiple rod. See MADDOX ROD.

multiple sclerosis. Med. A diseased condition of the brain, or the spinal cord, or both, in which parts of the nerve tissue degenerate and become replaced by patches of hardened neuroglia tissue. It is associated with partial or complete paralysis, jerking tremor of the muscles, headache, and other symptoms, depending on the location of the lesions, and is often fatal.

multiple seizure. Simultaneous or successive seizures of property in different federal judicial districts by administrative officials in the enforcement of certain federal statutes, thereby compelling the owner to litigate a single question of law in many different parts of the country. U. S.

multiple sentence. = COMPOUND SENTENCE a.

multiple series. a Elec. = SERIES PARALLEL. b Math. A series of terms, $a_{mnp\ldots}$ each of which requires for its specification the values of the integers $m, n, p\ldots$, there being more than one of these.

multiple shop. A chain store. Eng.

mul'ti·ple-speed' trans·mis'sion. Transmission that provides a choice of gear ratios between the engine and the rear axle.

multiple staging. The representation of logically incongruous backgrounds on the same stage side by side, as in French mystery plays.

multiple standard. = TABULAR STANDARD.

multiple star. Astron. Several stars in close proximity, which appear to form a single system.

multiple switch. Elec. A motor-starting switch used to cut out successive sections of a starting resistance.

multiple switchboard. Elec. A telephone switchboard with several sections, one for each operator.

multiple synchronous telegraph. A multiplex telegraph in which at the receiving station apparatus is maintained in exact synchronism with corresponding apparatus at the sending station.

mul'ti·plet (mŭl'tĭ-plĕt; -plĭt; 119), n. [From MULTIPLE.] Physics. A spectrum line having several components.

multiple tangent. Geom. A line tangent to a curve or surface at more than one point, one that appears as a fixed number (m) of lines in the total number (n) of tangents (to the curve) through a fixed point.

multiple telegraph, telegraphy. = MULTIPLEX TELEGRAPH, TELEGRAPHY.

multiple thread. A screw thread composed of two or more distinct parallel intertwined threads or helices. Cf. DOUBLE THREAD, TRIPLE THREAD, QUADRUPLE THREAD. — multiple-threaded, adj.

multiple transformer. Elec. a A transformer connected in multiple, or parallel, with the primary circuit. b A transformer with more than one primary or more than one secondary coil.

mul'ti·ple-tuned' (66), adj. Radio. Grounded through inductors at more than one point; — used of antennas.

multiple unit system. A system of electric traction in which two or more motorcars, under a single control, are used to propel a train.

multiple voting. a Voting by the same individual at the same election in various places in each of which he possesses the legal qualifications, as was possible under the British law governing the franchise prior to the Representation of the People Act of 1918. By that act certain voters can vote in two, but not more than two, constituencies. b U. S. Unauthorized and illegal voting by one person in two or more constituencies, as voting by floaters.

multiple winding. See DRUM WINDING.

mul'ti·plex (mŭl'tĭ-plĕks), adj. [L., multiplex, -plicis. See MULTIPLE.] 1. Manifold; multiple.

2. a Teleg. & Teleph. Pertaining to or designating a system of transmitting simultaneous messages on the same circuit. b Radio & Television. Pertaining to or designating simultaneous transmission of two or more independent signals on the same carrier wave. Cf. DIPLEX.

mul'ti·plex, v. t. & i. a Teleg. & Teleph. To send (several messages) simultaneously over the same circuit. b Radio & Television. To send (several signals) simultaneously on the same carrier wave.

multiplex telegraph. A telegraph system in which several messages are transmitted simultaneously over the same wire line. Hence, multiplex telegraphy.

mul'ti·pli·ca·ble (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kȧ-b'l), adj. [L. multiplicabilis.] Capable of being multiplied; multipliable. — mul'ti·pli·ca·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.

mul'ti·pli·cand' (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kănd'), n. [L. multiplicandus to be multiplied.] Math. The number that is to be multiplied by another number called the multiplier. See MULTIPLICATION, 5.

mul'ti·pli·cate (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kāt), adj. [L. multiplicatus, past part. of multiplicare. See MULTIPLY.] 1. Consisting of many, or of more than one; multiple; multifold.

2. Zool. Having many plicae, or folds, as certain shells.

mul'ti·pli·cate, n. The form or condition of being exactly reproduced in many copies; also, one of such reproductions.

mul'ti·pli·ca'tion (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kā'shŭn), n. [OF., fr. L. multiplicatio. See MULTIPLY.] 1. Act or process of multiplying, or of increasing in number; state of being multiplied; as, the multiplication of the human species.

2. Alchemy. Art of increasing gold or silver by magic. Obs.

3. Bot. = AUGMENTATION, 2.

4. Gambling. A dice game in three throws, first with three dice, then with two, then with one die, in which the dice eliminated are highest or equally high, and the last cast is multiplied with their sum.

5. Math. The process of repeating or adding any given number or quantity a certain number of times; commonly, the process of ascertaining by a briefer computation the result of such repeated additions; also, the rule by which the operation is performed; — the inverse of division. Multiplication is denoted by the sign $\times$. The word multiplication is sometimes used in mathematics, particularly in multiple algebra, to denote any distributive operation expressed by one symbol upon any quantity or anything expressed by another symbol. Corresponding extensions of meaning are given to the words multiply, multiplier, multiplicand, and product. Thus, since $\phi\ (x + y) = \phi x + \phi y$, where $\phi\ (x + y)$, ϕx, and ϕy indicate the results of any distributive operation represented by the symbol ϕ upon $x + y$, x, and y, severally, then because of many very useful analogies $\phi\ (x + y)$ is called the product of ϕ and $x + y$, and the operation indicated by ϕ is called multiplication. Cf. FACIENT, n., 2.

6. Math. In general, the process of affecting an operand by an operator, as the multiplication of versors in quaternions (a turning through one angle followed by a turning through another), which is not in general commutative, or the multiplication of derivations (yielding the derivative of a derivative), which in general is commutative. Generally, multiplication is the conjunction (by some defined law) of each element (or unit) of the one factor with each of the other, the result being the product. So understood, it is possible to multiply assemblages and magnitudes of the most diverse kinds.

7. Symbolic Logic. The logical operation of conjoining two or more terms to signify their logical product, symbolized by $a \times b$ or $a.b$ or $a\ b$. See PRODUCT, 5.

mul'ti·pli·ca'tion·al (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kā'shŭn·ăl; -'l), adj. Of or relating to multiplication.

multiplication table. 1. A table of the products of a set of numbers multiplied in some regular way; commonly, a table of the products of the first ten or twelve numbers multiplied successively by 1, 2, 3, etc., up to 10 or 12.

2. In a multiple algebra with n units $(u_1 \ldots u_n)$, a table of the algebra formed with respect to the units, $(u_1, \ldots u_n)$, by the n^2 equations $u_r u_s = \sum_{t=1}^{n} \gamma_{rst} u_t;\ r, s = 1, 2, \ldots n$. The n^3 numbers, γ_{rst}, are called the constants of multiplication of the algebra with respect to the units $(u_1, \ldots u_n)$. Cf. linear algebra, under ALGEBRA.

mul'ti·pli·ca'tive (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kā'tĭv), adj. Tending or having the power to multiply, or increase, numbers; taken in multiplication. — n. A numeral adjective (single, double, treble, twofold) denoting how many times a thing is taken. — mul'ti·pli·ca'tive·ly, adv.

multiplicative axiom. Logic. The rule for finding compound probabilities in the case of dependent events: "The probability that A and B will both happen (or that they will happen together) is the antecedent probability of A multiplied by the probability that if (or when) A happens B will happen also."

mul'ti·pli·ca'tor (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ-kā'tĕr), n. [LL. Cf. MULTIPLIER.] Math. A multiplier. Rare.

mul'ti·pli'cious (mŭl'tĭ-plĭsh'ŭs), adj. [See MULTIPLEX.] Multiplex; multiply. Obs. — mul'ti·pli'cious·ly, adv. Obs.

mul'ti·plic'i·ty (mŭl'tĭ-plĭs'ĭ-tĭ), n. [LL. multiplicitas, fr. multiplex manifold. See MULTIPLE.] Quality of being multiple, manifold, or various; multiple or multiform character; also, a great number; as, a multiplicity of thoughts.

The amazing multiplicity of creeds (twenty-four religions to one sauce, lamented Talleyrand). Agnes Repplier multiplicity of a curve. Math. The total number of its multiple points, or simple crunodes, acnodes, and cusps, into which each multiple point is supposed to be resolved.

mul'ti·pli'er (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ'ĕr), n. [Cf. F. multiplieur. Cf. MULTIPLICATOR.] 1. One who or that which multiplies or increases in number.

2. Obs. a An alchemist. See MULTIPLICATION, 2. b A money-maker.

3. An arithmometer for multiplying.

4. a A set of gears causing the spool of a fishing reel to revolve faster than the crank, thereby accelerating the speed at which the fishing line is gathered in. b A reel so equipped.

5. Elec. A resistance placed in series with a voltmeter or pressure coil of a wattmeter when measurements are to be made on a circuit of higher voltage than that for which the instrument alone is suited.

6. Hort. One of the small offsets of a bulb, as that of an onion, used for purposes of propagation; a bulbil.

7. Math. The number by which another number is multiplied. See MULTIPLICATION, 5.

8. Physics. An instrument or device for multiplying or intensifying some effect, as of heat (cf. THERMOMULTIPLIER).

9. Skat. An increment of the unit value of the game played, allowed the player for each matador, for winning the game, for winning schneider, etc.

mul'ti·ply (mŭl'tĭ-plī), v.; -PLIED (-plīd); -PLY'ING (-plī'-ĭng). [OF. multiplier, fr. L. multiplicare, fr. multiplex manifold. See MULTITUDE; DUPLEX.] Transitive: 1. To increase in number; to make more numerous; to add quantity to; as, to multiply examples. Specif., Now Rare, to increase in number or to people, by generation of children.

2. Obs. a To increase (gold or silver) in amount by alchemy. b To amplify or magnify, as a sound or image.

3. Math. To take by addition a certain number of times; to find the product of by multiplication; thus, 7 multiplied by 8 produces the number 56. Also, Now Rare, to serve to increase (a number) in the process of multiplication. See MULTIPLICATION, 6.

— Intransitive: 1. To become greater in number.

2. To increase in extent and influence; to spread.

The word of God grew and multiplied. Acts xii. 24.

3. To increase gold or silver in amount by alchemy. Obs.

4. Math. To perform the operation of multiplication.

mul'ti·ply (-plĭ), adv. In the manner of a multiple.

mul'ti·ply' (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ'), adj. See -PLY.

mul'ti·ply·ing (mŭl'tĭ-plĭ'ĭng), adj. That multiplies.

multiplying coil. Elec. A shunt or series coil connected with an ammeter or voltmeter, adjusted so that the indications of the instrument must be multiplied by a fixed number.

multiplying glass or lens. Optics. a A magnifying glass. b A lens one convex surface of which is made up of a number of facets, so as to present a number of separate images.

multiplying reel. Angling. A reel in which one revolution of the handle communicates several revolutions to the spool.

mul'ti·po'lar (mŭl'tĭ-pō'lĕr), adj. [multi- + polar.] Having many poles; specif.: a Anat., having several dendrites; — of nerve cells. b Elec. Having the electrical charge localized at several points.

Multipolar (1) Cell (magnified).

mul'ti·pole (mŭl'tĭ-pōl), adj. Multipolar.

mul·tip'o·tent (mŭl·tĭp'ō-tĕnt), adj. [L. multipotens, fr. multus much + potens powerful. See POTENT.] Having manifold power, or power to do many things.

mul'ti·pres'ence (mŭl'tĭ-prĕz'ĕns; -'ns), n. Presence in many places at once. — mul'ti·pres'ent (-ĕnt; -'nt), adj.

mul'ti·ro·ta'tion (-rō-tā'shŭn), n. Multirotation. — mul'ti·ro'ta·to'ry (-rō'tȧ-tō'rĭ; -tĕr-ĭ), adj.

mul'ti·sci'ence (-sī'ĕns), n. [multi- + science.] Extensive knowledge of many subjects.

mul'ti·sect (mŭl'tĭ-sĕkt), v. t. To divide into a number of parts or segments. — mul'ti·sec'tor (-sĕk'tĕr), n.

mul'ti·sen'su·al (-sĕn'shō-ăl; cf. SENSUAL), adj. Having many senses (meanings).

mul·tis'o·nous (mŭl·tĭs'ō-nŭs), adj. Also mul·tis'o·nant (-nȧnt). [L. multisonus, fr. multus much, many + sonus sound.] Having or producing many sounds; also, sounding much.

mul'ti·syl'la·ble (mŭl'tĭ-sĭl'ȧ-b'l), n. A polysyllable. — mul'ti·syl·lab'ic (-sĭ·lăb'ĭk), adj. — mul'ti·syl'la·bil'i·ty (-sĭl'ȧ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.

mul'ti·tar'i·an (-tȧr'ĭ-ăn), adj. [After Unitarian.] Characterized by manyness as well as being fundamentally one.

mul'ti·the·ism (mŭl'tĭ-thē-ĭz'm), n. [multi- + theism.] Polytheism.

mul'ti·tube' (mŭl'tĭ-tūb'), adj. Radio. Having two or more electron tubes; as, a multitube amplifier.

Mul'ti·tu·ber'cu·la'ta (mŭl'tĭ-tū-bûr'kū-lā'tȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Paleontol. An order of small Mesozoic and Eocene mammals (subclass Allotheria) of rodentlike habits. — mul'ti·tu·ber'cu·late (-tū-bûr'kū-lāt), adj. & n.

mul'ti·tu·ber'cu·ly (-kū-lĭ), n. Also mul'ti·tu·ber'cu·lism (-lĭz'm). [multi- + L. tuberculum tubercle.] State of having many tubercles; — used specif. of a theory of the origin of mammalian teeth. Cf. TRITUBERCULY.

mul'ti·tu'bu·lar boil'er (-tū'bū-lĕr). A fire-tube boiler.

mul'ti·tude (mŭl'tĭ-tūd), n. [OF., fr. L. multitudo, multitudinis, fr. multus much, many. See MELIORATE.] 1. A great number of persons collected together; a crowd.

2. A great number of persons or things, regarded collectively; as, the multitude of stars; a multitude of cares.

3. The state of being many; numerousness.

4. A large amount or quantity. Now Rare.

Syn. — MULTITUDE, CROWD, THRONG. MULTITUDE, now somewhat bookish, implies great numbers; CROWD, the common term, denotes a multitude closely gathered or packed together without order; THRONG often suggests a moving multitude or concourse. Cf. COMPANY, FLOCK.

— the multitude. The populace; the mass of men.

mul'ti·tu'di·nal (-tū'dĭ-năl; -n'l), adj. Also mul'ti·tu'di·nar'y (-nĕr'ĭ; -nĕr-ĭ). Multitudinous.

mul'ti·tu'di·nism (-nĭz'm), n. A doctrine or policy giving primary importance to the interests of the multitude as opposed to the individual. — mul'ti·tu'di·nist (-nĭst), n. & adj. — mul'ti·tu'di·nis'tic (-nĭs'tĭk), adj.

mul'ti·tu'di·nous (-nŭs), adj. 1. Comprising, or existing in, a great multitude; myriad.

2. Issuing from or as from, or resembling, a vast or tumultuous host; comprising innumerable acts, forms, particulars, etc.; as, a multitudinous roar; multitudinous slaughter; also, rarely, thickly peopled.

3. Of or pertaining to the multitude. Rare. Shak.

— mul'ti·tu'di·nos'i·ty (-nŏs'ĭ-tĭ), n. — mul'ti·tu'di·nous·ly, adv. — mul'ti·tu'di·nous·ness, n.

mul'ti·turn' (mŭl'tĭ-tûrn'), adj. [multi- + turn.] Having many turns. Cf. TURN, n., 3.

mul'tiv'a·gant (mŭl·tĭv'ȧ-gănt), adj. [L. multivagus, fr. multus much + vagus wandering; cf. vagans, pres. part. of vagari. See VAGARY.] Wandering much. Rare.

mul'ti·va'lent (mŭl'tĭ-vā'lĕnt; mŭl·tĭv'ȧ-lĕnt), adj. [multi- + L. valens, pres. part. See VALENCE.] 1. Chem. a Having a valence of several units. b Having more than one valence, or degree of combining power, as sulphur.

2. Bacteriol. = POLYVALENT a.

— mul'ti·va'lence (-lĕns), mul'ti·va'len·cy (-lĕn·sĭ), n.

mul'ti·valve' (mŭl'tĭ-vălv'), adj. [Cf. F. multivalve.] Having many valves.

mul'ti·valve' (-vălv'), n. A multivalve shellfish or shell.

mul'ti·var'i·ant (-vâr'ĭ-ănt; 79), adj. Physical Chem. Having more than two degrees of freedom. See PHASE RULE.

mul'ti·var'i·ous (-ŭs), adj. Widely diverse. Now Rare.

mul'ti·ver'sant (-vûr'sănt; -s'nt), adj. [multi- + L. versans, pres. part. See VERSANT.] Assuming many forms; protean. Rare.

mul'ti·verse (mŭl'tĭ-vûrs), n. [multi- + -verse as in universe.] Philos. The totality of things and forces viewed as constituting an aggregate of incoherent and unrelated parts.

mul'ti·vin'cu·lar (-vĭng'kū-lĕr), adj. [multi- + vinculum.] Zool. Having several small separate ligaments; — said of the hinge of certain bivalves.

mul·tiv'i·ous (mŭl·tĭv'ĭ-ŭs), adj. [L. multivius, fr. multus many + via way.] Having many ways or roads. Rare.

mul·tiv'o·cal (mŭl·tĭv'ō-kăl), adj. Signifying many things; of manifold meaning; equivocal. — n. A multivocal word. Rare. — mul·tiv'o·cal·ness, n.

mul·tiv'o·lent (mŭl·tĭv'ō-lĕnt), adj. [multi- + L. volens, -entis, pres. part. of velle to wish; cf. L. multivolus.] Of many minds.

mul'ti·vol'tine (mŭl'tĭ-vōl'tĭn; -tīn; 156), adj. [See MULTI-; VOLTA.] Zool. Having several broods in a season.

mul'tum (mŭl'tŭm), n. [Perh. fr. L. multus, neut. multum, much.] An extract of quassia and licorice, formerly used by brewers as an adulterant; also, a similarly used preparation made from cocculus indicus, etc., and called specif. hard multum.

mul'ture (mŭl'tûr), n. [OF. moulture (F. mouture), fr. ML. molitura a grinding, fr. molere to grind. See MILL machine.] A toll or fee for the grinding of grain at a mill. When land is subject to thirlage, the toll is dry multure. Archaic & Dial.

mul'ture, v. i. To exact multure. Scot. & N. of Eng.

mul'tur·er (mŭl'tûr·ĕr), n. 1. One who has grain ground at a mill. Cf. OUTSUCKEN, INSUCKEN.

2. A miller. N. of Eng.

Mul·va'ney, Ter'ence (tĕr'ĕns mŭl·vā'nĭ). A big, jovial, witty Irish private in the British army in India, who with Ortheris, a nervous little cockney, and Learoyd, a huge, slow Yorkshireman, appears in Soldiers Three and other tales of Indian army life by Rudyard Kipling.

mul'ti·pli'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE. — mul'ti·pli'a·ble·ness, n.

mul'ti·pli'cat·ed, adj. Put in many folds. Obs.

multiply isomorphic. See ISOMORPHIC, adj., 3.

mul'ti·spin'dle mill'ing machine'. See MILLING MACHINE a. mul'ti·tu'dine, n. [OF.] Multitude. Obs.

mul'tum in par'vo. [L.] Much in little.

mul'vel (mŭl'vĕl), n. The cod. Obs.

mum (mŭm), interj. [Of imitative origin. Cf. MUMBLE.] Be silent; hush; — an exclamation enjoining silence. Now esp. in mum's the word, that is, let's, or I'll, keep this matter secret.

mum (mŭm; Scot. mōōm, mŭm), n. 1. A muttered sound. Obs. exc. Scot.

2. Silence; also, Rare, a silent person.

mum (mŭm), adj. Silent; not speaking.

The citizens are mum, and speak not a word. Shak.

mum, v. t. & i. To make or be mum. Obs.

mum, mumm (mŭm), v. i.; MUMMED (mŭmd); MUM'MING. [Cf. OF. momer, mommer, MD. mommen. Cf. MUMMER.] To play in a dumb show, mask, or disguise; specif., Eng., to go about merrymaking in disguise at Christmastide.

With mumming and with masking all around. Spenser.

mum, n. [G. mumme, said to be after Christian Mumme, who first brewed it in 1489.] A strong ale or beer, orig. made in Brunswick, Germany. "Mugs of mum." Pope.

mum (mŭm; mŭm; 'm), n. Dial. corrupt of MADAM.

mum (mŭm), n. Short for CHRYSANTHEMUM.

mum'ble (mŭm'b'l), v.; MUM'BLED (-b'ld); MUM'BLING (-blĭng). [ME. momelen; cf. D. mompelen, mommelen, G. mummeln. Cf. MUM, adj., MUMP.] Intransitive: 1. To speak with the lips partly closed, so as to render the sounds inarticulate and imperfect; to utter words in a low, confused, indistinct manner; to mutter.

2. To chew something gently with closed lips, or with little use of the teeth.

—, Transitive: 1. To utter with a low, inarticulate voice.

2. To chew or bite gently, as one without teeth.

Gums unarmed, to mumble meat in vain. Dryden

3. To press or caress with the lips.

4. Obs. a To treat roughly or abuse; also, to fumble. b To wrap or conceal confusedly; — with up.

mum'ble, n. A mumbling; a low, confused utterance.

mum'ble-bee' (-bē'), n. Naut. A sloop-rigged Devonshire fishing boat with a mast stepped far aft, a huge foresail, and a jib.

mum'ble-ment (-mĕnt), n. Mumbling; a mumble.

mum'bler (mŭm'blĕr), n. 1. One who mumbles.

2. Glass Mfg. A blower. Eng.

mum'ble-the-peg' (mŭm'b'l-thĕ-pĕg'), mum'ble-ty-peg' (-tĭ-), n. A boys' game in which several tricks are performed with a jackknife; — so called because orig. the loser had to pull out with his teeth a peg driven into the ground.

mum'bling (mŭm'blĭng), adj. That mumbles. — mum'bling-ly, adv.

Mum'bo Jum'bo (mŭm'bō jŭm'bō); pl. MUMBO JUMBOS (-bōz). [From mama dyambo, in the language of the Khassonke (a Mandingo tribe) in the district of Kayes, on the Senegal, fr. mama ancestor + dyumbo pompon, wearer of a pompon.] 1. Among the Mandingos of the western Sudan, the tutelary genius of a village, represented by one of the men, who, in masquerade and with a headdress of pompons, wards off occult forces of evil and keeps the women in awe and subjection.

2. [also not cap.] An object of superstitious homage and fear; a fetish; a bugaboo.

3. [not cap.] Meaningless incantation; mummery.

— Mum'bo-Jum'bo, adj. — Mum'bo-Jum'bo-ism, n.

mum'budg'et (mŭm'bŭj'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. & interj. Silence. Obs. — adj. Silent. Obs. — v. i. To be silent. Hardy.

mum'chance' (mŭm'chăns'), n. 1. A game of hazard played in silence. Obs.

2. a Obs. A mummer. b Dial. A silent, stupid person.

3. Mumming; a masking or merrymaking. Obs.

mum'chance', adj. Silent. Archaic & Dial.

mum'chance', v. i. Formerly, to masquerade; now, Dial., to be stupidly silent.

mum'mer (mŭm'ĕr), n. [MF. mommeur; cf. MD. mommer.] a One who mums, as in a merrymaking at Christmastide; a buffoon. b Hence, any theatrical performer.

mum'mer, v. i. = 5th MUM.

mum'mer·y (mŭm'ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. -MERIES (-ĭz). [MF. mommerie; cf. D. mommerij.] 1. Masking; a performance in disguise, as by mummers.

2. Ceremonies, observances, or performances regarded as ridiculous, hypocritical, or pretentious.

mum'mi·chog (mŭm'ĭ·chŏg), n. [Narraganset moamitteatig, pl., lit., they go in great numbers, a name applied to the smelt and other fish moving in schools.] A killifish, esp. Fundulus heteroclitus.

mum'mick (mŭm'ĭk), v. t. & i. [Cf. MAMMOCK, v. & n.] To eat in a slovenly fashion and without relish. Dial.

mum'mied (mŭm'ĭd), adj. Mummified.

mum'mi·form (-ĭ·fôrm), adj. [mummy + -form.] Resembling, or suggestive of, a mummy in appearance, as specif., the pupa obtecta of Lepidoptera.

mum'mi·fy (-ĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. momifier, fr. momie mummy. See -FY.] To embalm and dry as a mummy; to make into, or like, a mummy. — v. i. To dry up and shrivel like a mummy, as an organ or tissue; to undergo dry gangrene (see GANGRENE). — mum'mi·fi·ca'tion (mŭm'ĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

mum'ming (mŭm'ĭng), n. Participation in mummery.

Mum'mu (mōō'mōō), n. The son and messenger of Apsu and Tiamat. See CREATION EPIC.

mum'my (mŭm'ĭ), n.; pl. -MIES (-ĭz). [F. momie, fr. ML. mumia, fr. Ar. mūmiya mummy, bitumen, fr. Per. mūm wax.] 1. Part of a mummy (sense 3 a) or mummies (probably powdered) formerly used as a drug. It was sometimes regarded as an exudation from mummies. Obs. exc Hist.

2. Hence: a Rare. Lifeless flesh. Shak. b Now Dial. A soft, pulpy mass. c Obs. Dried meat.

3. a A body of a human being or other animal embalmed or treated for burial with preservatives after the manner of the ancient Egyptians; hence, any body unusually well preserved, owing to the manner of its burial or to some special preparation for burial; as, a Peruvian mummy. The Egyptians preserved bodies by the use of bitumen, spices, gums, natron, honey, etc. In the more expensive forms of embalmment the body was cut open and filled with preservatives, after the viscera, which were separately preserved (see CANOPIC JARS), had been removed. In the cheaper forms of mummification the body was merely preserved with salt or with salt and bitumen. See USHABTI, Illust. b A carcass fortuitously preserved, as by being sundried.

4. One whose affections and energies are withered.

5. A brown pigment of varying properties prepared from bitumen, bones, etc.

6. a The color Congo. b Mummy brown. c A brown, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

7. Plant Pathol. A dried-up fruit that was first rotted by a fungus; as, the brown-rot mummies of stone fruits.

mum'my (mŭm'ĭ), v. t.; MUM'MIED (-ĭd); MUM'MY-ING. To embalm; to mummify. — v. i. To become mummified.

mummy apple. The papaya.

mummy brown. 1. The pigment mummy.

2. a The color bay. b A color, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

mummy case. A case fitted closely to the swathed mummy (sense 3 a), usually having the face modeled and the body covered with ritualistic emblems.

mummy cloth. a A fabric, probably linen, in which mummies were wrapped. b A cloth like this fabric used as a foundation for embroidery. c A dress goods like crepe, having a cotton or silk warp and a woolen filling.

mummy fruit. = MUMMY, 7.

mummy pot. Egypt. Archaeol. A vase in which mummies of certain small animals were kept. Cf. CANOPIC JAR.

mummy wheat. Poulard wheat.

mump (mŭmp), v.; MUMPED (mŭmpt); MUMP'ING. [Cf. D. mompen to cheat, perh. orig., to mumble like a beggar, D. mompelen to mumble, Nor. dial. mumpa to chew, munch. See MUMBLE, MUMPS.] Now Chiefly Dial. Intransitive: 1. To mumble.

2. To beg mumblingly; to play the beggar; to sponge; hence, to play the impostor; to cheat; also, to be sullen or sulky.

—, Transitive: Now Chiefly Dial. 1. To mumble.

2. To cheat; to impose upon; also, to get by begging.

mump (mŭmp), n. [E. dial. mump to be sulky. Cf. MUMP, v. t.] 1. a Obs. A grimace. b Mumps.

2. pl. Sullenness; silent displeasure; the sulks.

mump'er (mŭmp'ĕr), n. A beggar; a begging impostor; also, a sulker. Obs. exc. Dial.

mump'head' (mŭmp'hĕd'), n. A stupid person. Dial. Eng.

mump'ing day (mŭmp'ĭng). St. Thomas's Day, Dec. 21. Dial. Eng.

mump'ish (mŭmp'ĭsh), adj. Sullen; sulky; dull. — mump'ish-ly, adv. — mump'ish-ness, n.

mumps (mŭmps), n. pl., construed as a sing. [Prob. so called from the patient's appearance; cf. also E. dial. mump a lump.] An infectious disease marked by fever, and by swelling of the parotid gland and sometimes other salivary glands in the lower cheek; parotitis.

mumps, n. Prob., short for mumpsimus; — used in playful familiar address to a woman. Obs.

mump'si·mus (mŭmp'sĭ·mŭs), n. [A blunder for the L. sumpsimus we have received, the story running that an aged priest, when corrected for saying mumpsimus in the service, declared that he had said mumpsimus for thirty years, and would not change his old mumpsimus for the new sumpsimus.] A bigoted adherent to exposed but customary error; also, a custom or tenet so adhered to. Archaic.

Doctors mumpsimuses of divinity. Tyndale.

mum'ruf'fin (mŭm'rŭf'ĭn; mōōm'rōōf'-), n. The long-tailed titmouse. Local, Brit.

mun (mŭn; dial. also mōōn), v. i. or auxiliary. [See MAUN.] Now Dial. Must; also, Rare, may; Obs., shall.

mun (mŭn; dial. also mōōn), n. [ON. munnr. See MOUTH.] The mouth; pl., the face. Chiefly Dial.

mun (mŭn), n. One of a class of London street roisterers of the mid-seventeenth century. Hist.

mun (mŭn), pron. [Prob. fr. him, by adding an ending -en.] Them; also, him; it. Dial., Southwestern Eng.

mun (mŭn). Var. of MAN. Now Dial.

Mun·ce'ri·an (mŭn·sēr'ĭ·ăn), n. A follower of Thomas Münzer (1490–1525), founder of the fanatical Anabaptists.

munch (mŭnch; 105), v. t. & i.; MUNCHED (mŭncht); MUNCH'ING. [ME. monchen, manchen, prob. imitative, but perh. partly fr. F. manger to eat. See MANGER; cf. CRUNCH.] To chew with a crunching sound, as a beast chews provender; to chew deliberately.

munch, n. Act of munching; also, something to munch.

Mun·chau'sen, Baron (mŭn·chō'zĕn; -chou'-). Pretended author of a book of travels (by Rudolph Eric Raspe, 1785) filled with extravagant fictions. The name is corrupted from that of Baron Karl Friedrich Hieronymus von Münchhausen (münk'hou'zĕn), a German officer in the Russian service (d. 1797). — Mun·chau'sen-ism (-ĭz'm), n. — Mun·chau'sen-ize (-ĭz), v. i.

mun·cheel' (mŭn·chēl'), n. [Malayalam manjīl, mañcal, perh. fr. Hind.-Ar. manzil lodging, day's journey.] A kind of litter. India.

munch'er (mŭn'chĕr; 105), n. One who munches.

munch'et (-chĕt; -chĭt; 119), n. [See MUNCH.] A small bite. Rare.

mund (mŭnd; AS. mōōnd), n. [AS., hand, palm, hence, protection. See MANUAL.] Early Eng. Law. Right of protection or guardianship, as over the person and property of a wife, a widow, an orphan, or the members of one's household or dependents. The exact meaning of the term is doubtful. Mund finally came to be used nearly or quite synonymously with grith. See GRITH, 4 b, PEACE.

Mun'da (mōōn'dä), n. A member of any of various tribes occupying parts of eastern Central India, Central Provinces, and Madras, representing an ancient pre-Aryan stock. A few are Hinduized. — Mun'da, adj.

Munda languages. The languages of the Mundas, a division of the Austroasiatic family. The chief group is that of Santali and allied dialects. See KHERWARI.

mun'dane (mŭn'dān), adj. [F. mondain, fr. L. mundanus, fr. mundus the world, universe, heavens, heavenly bodies; prob. akin to L. movere to move. See MOVE; cf. MONDE.] 1. a Of or pertaining to the world; worldly; earthly; as, mundane affairs. b Not concerned with church or spiritual things; as, mundane poetry. c Cosmic.

2. Indigenous in all parts of the earth. Rare.

3. Astrol. Pertaining to the horizon; specif., determined or located with reference to the horizon rather than to the ecliptic or zodiac; as, the mundane aspect, parallel.

Syn. and Ant. — See EARTHLY.

— mun'dane·ly, adv. — mun'dane·ness, n. — mun·dan'i·ty (mŭn·dăn'ĭ·tĭ), n.

mun'dane (mŭn'dān), n. An inhabitant of this world. R.

mun'dan·ism (mŭn'dăn·ĭz'm), n. Pseudo internationalism. Rare.

mun'da·to'ry (mŭn'dä·tō'rĭ or, esp Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [LL. mundatorius.] Cleansing; having power to cleanse. Obs. — n. Eccl. A purificator.

mun'dic (mŭn'dĭk), n. Pyrite. Cornwall.

mun·dif'i·cant (mŭn·dĭf'ĭ·kănt), adj. [LL. mundificans, pres. part. of mundificare to make clean, fr. mundus clean + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See 1st MOTHER; -FY.] Serving to cleanse and heal. — n. A mundificant ointment or plaster.

mun'di·fy (mŭn'dĭ·fī), v. t. & i. [F. or LL.; F. mondifier, fr. LL. mundificare. See MUNDIFICANT.] To cleanse; deterge. — mun'di·fi·ca'tion (mŭn'dĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. — mun'di·fi'er (mŭn'dĭ·fī'ĕr), n.

mun'dil (mŭn'dĭl), n. [See MANDIL.] A turban ornamented with an imitation of gold or silver embroidery.

mun·div'a·gant (mŭn·dĭv'ä·gănt), adj. [L. mundus the world + vagans wandering, pres. part. of vagari. See VAGARY.] Wandering over the world. Rare.

mun'dle (mŭn'd'l), n. A stick for stirring. Obs. exc. Dial.

mun·dun'gus (mŭn·dŭng'gŭs), n. Also mun·dun'go (-gō). [Sp. mondongo paunch, tripe, black pudding.] 1. Refuse; waste; trash. Obs.

2. Tobacco having an offensive smell. Archaic.

mung (mōōng), n. Also mung grass. Munj.

mung (mōōng). Var. of MUNGO.

mun'ga (mŭng'gä), n. [Kanarese mañga, fr. Skr. marka ape, monkey.] The bonnet monkey.

mun'ga (mŭng'gä). Var. of MUGA.

mung bean (mŭng). [See 1st MUNGO.] A bushy annual legume (Phaseolus aureus), 24–40 inches high, bearing the pods near the tips of slender branches. It is valued in Asia for food and forage. Called also mungo bean, gram.

munge (mŭnzh; mōōnzh), v. t. & i. [See MUNCH.] To munch. Dial.

munge, v. i. Also mun'ger (mŭn'jĕr; mōōn'-; mōōn'-). To grumble; to moan. Scot. & N. of Eng.

mun'gey (mŭn'jĭ; mōōn'jĭ; mōōn'-), n. [See MUNGE to munch.] A bit to eat; a snack. Dial.

mun'go (mŭng'gō), n. [Tamil mūṅgu, fr. Hind. mūg, fr. Skr. mudga.] The mung bean.

mun'go (mŭng'gō), n. [Also mungos, var. of MONGOOSE.]

1. A mongoose. Obs.

2. A shrubby herb (Ophiorrhiza mungos), family Rubiaceae, the roots of which are sold, in India, as charms against snakes; — called also mongoose plant.

mun'go, n. [Origin obscure.] A reclaimed wool obtained from felted, milled, or hard-spun woolens. Cf. SHODDY.

mun'go, n. A negro. Obs.

mun'go, n. [Mongol möngö silver.] See COIN, Table.

mun·go'fa (mŭng·gō'fä), n. The gopher tortoise. Local, U.S.

mun·gu'ba (mŭng·gōō'bä), n. [NL., fr. Tupi munguba, monguba.] A Brazilian silk-cotton tree (Bombax munguba).

mung'y (mŭng'ĭ; mōōng'ĭ), adj. [Origin obscure. Cf. MUGGY.] 1. Gloomy. Obs.

2. Warm and damp; muggy. Now Dial.

Mu'ni·a (mū'nĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. Hind. muniyā the female of the birds called amadavats, fr. munī a saint, a monk, fr. Skr. muni (ka).] Zool. a A large genus of weaverbirds including the well-known Java sparrow. b [not cap.] Any bird of this or a closely allied genus.

Mu'nich lake (mū'nĭk). The color carmine.

mu·nic'i·pal (mū·nĭs'ĭ·păl), adj. [L. municipalis, fr. municeps an inhabitant of a municipium, or town possessing the right of Roman citizenship, a free town, fr. munia official duties + the root of capere to take. See MEAN common; HEAVE.] 1. Rom. Hist. Of or pertaining to, or of the nature of, a municipium; as, municipal rights.

2. a Enjoying a local self-government like that of the Roman municipium; — said of a town, city, etc. b Of or pertaining to, or characteristic of, such a corporation.

3. Of or pertaining to the internal or governmental affairs of a state, kingdom, or nation; — used chiefly in the phrase municipal law.

4. Restricted to one locality. Rare.

mu·nic'i·pal, n. 1. An inhabitant of a municipium.

2. A member of the municipal guard of Paris.

3. A municipal magistrate or official.

4. A municipal bond or stock.

municipal bond or stock. A bond or issue of corporate stock by an incorporated municipality or subsidiary governmental body. Cf. CORPORATION STOCK.

municipal corporation. See CORPORATION, 4.

municipal district. A subdivision of a region inhabited chiefly by non-Christians; — called also township. Phil. I.

municipal engineering. See ENGINEERING, 1. — municipal engineer.

mu·nic'i·pal·ism (mū·nĭs'ĭ·păl·ĭz'm), n. 1. Preference for or devotion to one's own municipality.

2. Municipal government; also, a theory that government by municipalities should be extended.

— mu·nic'i·pal·ist (-ĭst), n.

mu·nic'i·pal'i·ty (-păl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [F. municipalité.] 1. A town, city, or other district having powers of local self-government; a municipal corporation; also, the community under the jurisdiction of a municipal government; specif., a municipium. Cf. BOROUGH, 6 a.

2. The administrative area into which provinces are divided, comprising a number of barrios. See POBLACIÓN. Phil. I.

mu·nic'i·pal·ize (mū·nĭs'ĭ·păl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [municipal + -ize.] To make municipal; to bring under municipal oversight, ownership, or control. — mu·nic'i·pal·i·za'tion (-păl·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n. — mu·nic'i·pal·iz'er (mū·nĭs'ĭ·păl·īz'ĕr), n.

municipal savings bank. See SAVINGS BANK.

municipal trading. Econ. The carrying on of trade by a municipality, as in development and management of systems of transportation or public utilities.

mu·ni·cip'i·um (mū'nĭ·sĭp'ĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -CIPIA (-ä). [L. See MUNICIPAL.] 1. Rom. Hist. Orig., any of a privileged mum'bl. Mumble. Ref. Sp.

---

Mul'vi·an Bridge (mŭl'vĭ·ăn). = MILVIAN BRIDGE. See BATTLE, Table.

mum'bid. Mumbled. Ref. Sp.

mum'ble-fub'bles. Var. of MUBBLE-FUBBLES.

mum'ble-mat'ins, n. An illiterate priest. Obs.

mum'ble-news', n. A talebearer. Obs.

mumd. Mummed. Ref. Sp.

mum'house', n. A drinking place selling mum. Obs.

mum'i·a. Var. of MUMMIA.

mum·jum'a (mŭm·jŭm'ä), n. [Per. mūm-jāmah wax stuff.] A wax cloth. Obs.

mumm. Var. of 5th MUM.

mum'ma·chog. Var. of MUMMICHOG.

mum'ma·nize, v. t. To mummify. Obs.

mum'mer·dom, n. See -DOM.

mum'mi·a, n. [NL.] = MUMMY, 1. Obs. — mum'mi·al, adj. Obs.

mum'mi·an·ize, v. t. To mummify. Obs.

mum'mock (mŭm'ŭk; mōōm'-). Dial. Eng. var. of MAMMOCK.

mum'my·chog (mŭm'ĭ·chŏg). Var. of MUMMICHOG.

mum'my·dom. See -DOM.

mum'my·hood. See -HOOD.

mum'my·like', adj. See -LIKE.

mum'ness, n. See -NESS.

Mu·nan'di (mū·năn'dē), n. = NANDI.

mun·chat'to, n. Obs. corruption of MUSTACHE.

mun'chee. + MUNSHI.

muncht. Munched. Ref. Sp.

mun'dal, adj. [L. mundus world.] Worldly. Obs.

mundane astrology. See ASTROLOGY.

Mundane Eras. See ERA, Table.

mundane house. Astrol. = HOUSE, 14 a.

Mun·da'ri (mŭn·dä'rē), n. See KOL, Cit.

mun·da'tion (mŭn·dā'shŭn), n. [LL. mundatio, fr. mundare to make clean.] A cleansing; state of being cleansed. Obs.

mun'di·all, adj. [LL. mundialis.] Worldly. Obs.

mun·dic'a·tive (mŭn·dĭk'ä·tĭv), n. Mundificative. Obs.

mun·dif'i·ca'tive, adj. & n. Med. = DETERGENT. Obs.

mune. Var. of MOON. Now Dial mung'corn'. Var. of MONGCORN.

mun·geet' (mŭn·jēt'). Var. of MUNJEET.

mun'goos, mun'goose (mŭng'gōōs). Vars. of MONGOOSE.

mu·nic'i·pal·ly, adv. of MUNICIPAL.

mu'ni·cip'i·al (mū'nĭ·sĭp'ĭ·ăl), adj. Municipal. Obs.

class of towns in Italy whose citizens had the jus Latii (which see), including many of the private rights of Roman citizenship. Later, any town in the empire.
2. O. Eng. Law. A castle. Rare.

mu·nif'i·cence (mū·nĭf'ĭ·sĕns; -s'ns), n. [F., fr. L. munificentia.] Quality or state of being munificent; a giving or bestowing with extraordinary liberality; lavish generosity.
Syn. — Benevolence, liberality, bounty, generosity.
Ant. — Stinginess, grudgingness.

mu·nif'i·cen·cy (-sĕn·sĭ; -s'n·sĭ), n. Munificence; liberality.

mu·nif'i·cent (-sĕnt; -s'nt), adj. [L. munificus, fr. munus service, gift + -ficus. See MEAN common; -FIC. Cf. REMUNERATE.] Very liberal in giving or bestowing; lavish; also, characterized by great liberality or generosity.
Syn. and Ant. — See LIBERAL.
— mu·nif'i·cent·ly, adv. — mu·nif'i·cent·ness, n.

mu'ni·ment (mū'nĭ·mĕnt), n. [OF., fr. L. munimentum, fr. munire to fortify. See MUNITION.] 1. pl. Law. The evidences or writings whereby one is enabled to defend the title to an estate or maintain a claim to rights or privileges; specif., title deeds and papers.
2. That which supports or defends; a means of defense.
3. pl. Furnishings; valuables. Obs.

mu·ni'tion (mū·nĭsh'ŭn), n. [F., munition of war, fr. L. munitio a fortifying, fortification, fr. munire to fortify, defend with a wall, earlier moenire, fr. moenia walls; akin to L. murus (earlier moerus) a wall, MD. mēre a stake, Lett. maide pole, stake, Skr. minoti he fixes in the earth, establishes, constructs; basic idea: a stake, hence, palisades. Cf. AMMUNITION, IMMURE, MERE boundary.] 1. Fortification; also, a rampart or defense. Obs.
2. Whatever materials are used in war for defense or for offense; ammunition; also, military stores of all kinds; hence, necessary equipment or provision in general; as, munitions for a political campaign; — usually in pl.

mu·ni'tion, (mū·nĭsh'ŭn), v. t. To provide with munitions.

mu·ni'tion·ar'y (-ĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·ĭ), adj. Of or consisting of munitions.

mu·ni'tion·eer' (mū·nĭsh'ŭn·ēr'), n. A munitioner; sometimes, a profiteer in the sale of munitions.

mu·ni'tion·er (mū·nĭsh'ŭn·ĕr), n. Mil. a Obs. A person charged with the storage and issue of military supplies. b One who is engaged in the manufacture of munitions.

mu'ni·ty (mū'nĭ·tĭ), n. [See IMMUNITY.] A privilege. R.

munj (mŏnj), n. [Hind. munja, fr. Skr. mūñja.] A tough Asiatic grass (Saccharum munja) the tenacious culms of which are twisted into ropes, twine, etc.

mun·jeet' (mŭn·jēt'), n. [Hind. manjiṭ, fr. Skr. mañjiṣṭhā, fem., bright red.] = INDIAN MADDER a.

mun·jis'tin (mŭn·jĭs'tĭn), n. Chem. A yellow crystalline compound, $C_{14}H_8O_4$, obtained from the Indian madder; purpuroxanthin-carboxylic acid.

Mun'kar and Na·kir' (mŏŏn'kär, nȧ·kēr'). [Ar. munkar wa-nakīr.] Moslem Relig. "The Unknown" and "the Repudiating," two angels believed to visit the dead in their graves and examine them as to their faith in the Prophet.

mun'nion (mŭn'yŭn), n. A mullion.

Mun·nop'sis (mŭ·nŏp'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Munna, a species of isopods (fr. a proper name) + -opsis.] Zool. A genus of eyeless marine isopod crustaceans, type of a family, Mun·nop'si·dae (-sĭ·dē).

Mun·ro' grass (mŭn·rō'). [After Wm. Munro (1818–80), Eng. general and botanist.] A common North American grass (Panicum agrostoides) furnishing valuable pasturage.

Mun'see (mŭn'sē), n. One of a subtribe of Delaware Indians formerly dwelling along the upper Delaware River, now mostly in Ontario, Wisconsin, and Kansas.

Mun·sell' col'or sys'tem (mŭn·sĕl'). Colorimetry. A system of color specification evolved by A. H. Munsell based upon the statement of hue, saturation, and brilliance in terms of certain arbitrary scales presented in an atlas of charts. The hue scale contains five principal and five intermediate hues, and the brilliance scale ten steps from black to white, all purporting to represent equal visual (not physical) intervals.

mun'shi (mŏŏn'shē), n. [Hind. munshī, fr. Ar. munshī.] A writer or secretary; an interpreter; esp., a native teacher of languages. Anglo-Ind.

Mun'ster plum (mŭn'stĕr). [From Munster province, Ireland.] A potato. Jocular.

Mun·ti'a·cus (mŭn·tī'ȧ·kŭs), n. [NL.] Zool. The genus consisting of the muntjacs.

mun'tin (mŭn'tĭn), mun'ting (-tĭng), n. [From MONTANT mullion.] 1. Arch. A sash bar; sometimes, less correctly, a mullion.
2. Any of a number of transverse cast-iron stays securing the longitudinal beams in a spinning mule.

Mun·tin'gi·a (mŭn·tĭn'jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Abr. Munting, Dutch botanist.] Bot. A genus of tropical American trees (family Elaeocarpaceae), having as its only known species M. calabura, the calabur tree.

munt'jac, munt'jak (mŭnt'jăk), n. [Malay & Jav. mĕnjanjan.] Any of several species of small deer constituting the genus Muntiacus (syn. Cervulus) of southeastern Asia and the East Indies; esp., M. muntjak of Java and adjacent regions. The male has sharp exposed canine tusks, and small antlers. Called barking deer from its peculiar barking cry of alarm.

Muntjac (Muntiacus muntjac).

Muntz, or Muntz's, metal (mŭnts, mŭnt'sĭz). [After the inventor, G. F. Muntz, of Birmingham, Eng.] An alloy of copper and zinc containing 60 per cent of copper. It can be rolled hot, and is used for sheathing, bolts, etc.

Mu·nych'i·a (mū·nĭk'ĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [Gr. ta mounychia, fr. Mounychiōn.] Gr. Antiq. A festival of Artemis held in the month Mu·nych'i·on (-ŏn) to commemorate the defeat of the Persians at Salamis. See GREEK CALENDAR. — Mu·nych'i·an (-ăn), adj.

Muong (mwŏng), n. One of an Indo-Chinese people of Tonkin and northern Anam, probably of Laos origin; also, their language. See INDO-CHINESE LANGUAGES, Table.

Mu'phrid (mōō'frĭd), n. [Ar. al-mufrid al-rāmiḥ the solitary (star) of the lancer.] See STAR, Table.

Mu'ra (mōō'rȧ), n. An Indian of a tribe, constituting a distinct linguistic family, of northwestern Brazil. — adj. Muran.

mu'ra (mōō'rȧ), n. [Jap.] Village; rural community. Japan.

Mu·rae'na (mū·rē'nȧ), n. [L., fr. Gr. myraina.] Zool. a The typical genus of morays. b [not cap.] A moray.

Mu·rae'ni·dae (-rē'nĭ·dē; -rĕn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family consisting of the morays. — mu·rae'noid (-rē'noid), adj. & n.

mu'rage (mū'rĭj), n. [F., fr. murer to wall, fr. mur wall, fr. L. murus. See MURE a wall.] A tax paid for building or repairing the walls of a fortified town.

mu'ral (mū'răl; 199), n. A wall. Obs.

mu'ral (mū'răl), adj. [F., fr. L. muralis, fr. murus wall. See MURE a wall.] 1. Of or pertaining to a wall; on or in a wall; growing on or against a wall; as, mural paintings.
2. Resembling a wall, as in having or being a perpendicular or steep face; as, a mural precipice.
3. Med. Attached to and limited to a wall; as, mural thrombus.

mu'ral, n. 1. A mural painting.
2. Gr. & Rom. Antiq. A crown representing the walls and towers of a city, represented as worn by some deities.

mural arch or arc. Astron. The wall or arch in the plane of the meridian. It was formerly used for the attachment of a mural circle (see CIRCLE, n., 12).

mural crown. Rom. Antiq. A golden crown, or circle of gold, indented so as to resemble a battlement, bestowed on him who first mounted the wall of a besieged place, and there lodged a standard.

Mural Crown.

mu'raled (mū'răld), adj. Made into a mural crown. Rare.

mural gestation or pregnancy. Interstitial gestation.

mu'ral·ist, n. A painter of mural pictures or decorations.

mural quadrant. Astron. The great quadrans muralis of Tycho Brahe, an inverted arc of 90° attached to a meridian wall, used to ascertain the declination of a celestial body. Cf. transit circle, under CIRCLE, n., 12.

Mu'ran (mōō'rȧn), adj. Pertaining to or designating the linguistic family comprising the Muras. See MURA, n.

Mu'ra·nese' (mū'rȧ·nēz'; -nēs'; 66), adj. Of or pertaining to Murano, a town in Italy; as, the Muranese school.

Mu·ra'no glass (mōō·rä'nō). Glassware made at Murano, Italy; esp., the so-called Venetian glass made there.

mu'ra·sa'kite (mōō'rȧ·sä'kĭt), n. [Jap. murasaki purple.] Petrog. A piedmontite-quartz-schist.

Mu'ra·to'ri·an (mū'rȧ·tō'rĭ·ăn; 181), adj. Eccl. Of, pertaining to, or named from, Father Ludovico Antonio Muratori, an Italian archaeologist (1672–1750).

Muratorian fragment. A mutilated fragment containing a list of New Testament Scriptures (Muratorian canon), prob. those recognized as canonical by the Roman Church toward the end of the 2d century; — from its publication by Muratori at Milan in 1740.

murch'y (mûr'chĭ), n. [See MISCHIEF.] Mischief. Dial. Eng.

mur'der (mûr'dĕr), n. [ME. morder (influenced by OF. mordre, of Teut. origin), morther, fr. AS. morthor; akin to Goth. maurthr, AS. morth murder, D. moord, OS. morth, G., Dan., & Sw. mord, ON. morth, OSlav. mrĕti to die, Lith. mirti, W. marw dead, OIr. marb, L. mors, mortis, death, mori, moriri, to die, Gr. brotos, mortos, mortal, Skr. marate, mriyate, he dies, mṛta death. Cf. AMBROSIA, MORTAL, MURRAIN.] 1. Early Eng. Law. The killing of a person secretly or with concealment, as opposed to an open killing. Cf. MORTH; see MURDRUM. Obs. exc. Hist.
2. Slaughter or carnage, esp. in battle. Obs.
3. Law. The offense of unlawfully killing a human being with malice aforethought, express or implied. At common law there were no grades or degrees of murder, but by statute in many States of the United States the offense is divided into two degrees, murder in the first degree being the more severely punished and restricted to those cases where the killing was willful, deliberate, premeditated, or especially cruel, or where it was done in the commission of some heinous felony, as arson, rape, etc. Murder is intentional and unlawful homicide. See HOMICIDE; MALICE, 4; FELONY; cf. MURDRUM.

mur'der (mûr'dĕr), v.; MUR'DERED (-dĕrd); MUR'DER·ING. [ME. mortheren, mutheren, fr. AS. myrthrian; akin to Goth. maurthrjan. See MURDER, n.] Transitive: 1. To kill (a human being) unlawfully and with premeditated malice, or willfully, deliberately, and unlawfully.
2. Hence: a To destroy; to put an end to. b To harass or depress grievously. "Murdered this poor heart of mine." Shak. c To mutilate, spoil, or deform by wretched performance; to mangle; to butcher; as, to murder the king's English; to murder a song. d To kill (time). e Rare. To defeat, as a motion.
3. To slaughter, as in battle. Now Rare.
—, Intransitive: To commit murder.
Syn. — Assassinate, slay. See KILL.

mur'der·er (-ĕr), n. [Cf. OF. mordreor, nom. mordrêre.]
1. One guilty of murder (in sense 3).
2. A cannon, probably firing many slugs or bullets at a discharge, used especially for clearing a ship's decks. Obs.
3. A metal bar carrying several hooks for cod.

mur'der·ing, adj. That murders. — mur'der·ing·ly, adv.

murdering pie. Any of several European shrikes. Eng.

murdering piece or shot. = MURDERER, 2. Obs.

mur'der·ous (mûr'dĕr·ŭs), adj. [Cf. OF. mordreux.] Of or pert. to murder; characterized by, or causing, murder or bloodshed; having the purpose or quality of murder; bloody; as, murderous rapine, intent.
Syn. — Sanguinary, bloodthirsty, fell, savage, cruel.
— mur'der·ous·ly, adv. — mur'der·ous·ness, n.

mur'drum (mûr'drŭm), n. [ML.] a Early Eng. Law. = MURDER, n., 1. b The fine exacted under the Norman kings from the hundred in which a person was slain unless the slayer was produced or proof was given that the slain person was not a Franco-Norman. See ENGLISHRY, MORTH.

Murd'stone' (mûrd'stōn'), Mr. In Dickens's David Copperfield, David's stern stepfather.

mure (mūr), n. [F. mur, fr. L. murus. See MUNITION; cf. MURAL.] A wall. Obs.

mure (mūr), v. t.; MURED (mūrd); MUR'ING (mūr'ĭng). [F. murer, fr. L. murare. See MURE, n.] 1. To immure.
2. To thrust or squeeze, as against a wall.

mure (mūr), adj. [OF. meür, F. mûr. See DEMURE.] Soft; gentle; meek; modest. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.

mure. Var. of MOOR. Now Dial.

mu'ren·ger (mū'rĕn·jĕr; mū'rĭn·jĕr), n. [Cf. MURAGE.] Formerly, one who has charge of the wall of a town and its repairs.

mu'rex (mū'rĕks), n. [L., the purple fish.] 1. The purple fish. Obs.
2. Art. A shell used as a trumpet.
3. Zool. a [cap.] A genus of marine gastropods of the suborder Stenoglossa, having a rough, and often spinose, shell. They abound in tropical seas. b pl. -RICES (mū'rĭ·sēz), -REXES (-rĕk·sēz; -sĭz). A mollusk of this genus, or of the family Muricidae, of which it is the type. A secretion of the animal is used as a purple dye.

Murex (M. erinaceus).

mu·rex'ide (mū·rĕk'sĭd; -sĭd; 157), n. Also -id. [L. murex the purple fish, purple.] Chem. A crystalline dichroic compound, $C_8H_5N_5O_6$, the ammonium salt of purpuric acid, forming purple-red solutions with water. It was formerly much used as a dye.

murexide reaction or test. Chem. A reaction occurring when uric acid is heated with nitric acid and the product treated with ammonia. Murexide is formed.

mur'geon (mûr'jŭn), n. A grimace; a wry mouth or distorted gesture; murmuring; grumbling. — v. t. & i. To mock; make faces; to murmur; grumble. Both Now Scot.

mur'geon (mûr'jŭn; -jĭn), n. Refuse earth; mud. Dial.

mu'ri·ate (mū'rĭ·āt), n. [See MURIATIC.] Chem. A salt of hydrochloric acid; a chloride. Specif., Fertilizers, potassium chloride.

mu'ri·at'ed (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Combined or impregnated chloride; specif.: a Obs. Put in brine; pickled. b Photog. Prepared with silver chloride. c Containing much salt; briny; as, muriated waters.

mu'ri·at'ic (-ăt'ĭk), adj. [L. muriaticus pickled, fr. muria brine.] Chem. Hydrochloric; — now principally a commercial term. Muriatic acid was formerly thought to be an oxide of an unknown element murium.

mu'ri·cate (mū'rĭ·kāt), adj. Also mu'ri·cat'ed (-kāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), [L. muricatus, fr. murex a pointed rock or stone, the purple fish.] Formed with sharp points; prickly.

Mu·ric'i·dae (mū·rĭs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. murex, -icis, the purple fish + -idae.] Zool. A large family comprising Murex and allied genera of the suborder Stenoglossa. — mu'ri·cid (mū'rĭ·sĭd), adj. & n. — mu·ric'i·form (mū·rĭs'ĭ·fôrm), adj. — mu'ri·cine (mū'rĭ·sĭn; -sīn; 156), adj. — mu'ri·coid (-koid), adj.

mu·ric'u·late (mū·rĭk'ū·lăt), adj. Minutely muricate.

mu·rid' (mōō·rĕd'), n. [Ar. murīd.] Islamism. A disciple; esp., a Sufi disciple. — mu·rid'ism (-Iz'ĭm), n.

Mu'ri·dae (mū'rĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. mus, muris, mouse + -idae.] Zool. The largest family of rodents; the true rats and mice and their allies. They are distributed throughout the world and variously modified for terrestrial, arboreal, and aquatic life. The domestic rats and mice belong to the subfamily Mu·ri'nae (mū·rī'nē). — mu'rine (mū'rĭn; -rīn; 156), adj. & n.

Mu'ri·el (mū'rĭ·ĕl), n. [Cf. Gr. myrrha. See MYRRH.] Fem. proper name.

mu'ri·form (mū'rĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. mus, muris, mouse + -form.] Like a mouse or rat in form or appearance. Rare.

mu'ri·form, adj. [L. murus a wall + -form.] Bot. Resembling courses of bricks in arrangement; as, muriform cellular tissue. — mu'ri·form·ly, adv.

Mu·ril'lo (mū·rĭl'ō; Sp. mōō·rēl'yō), n. [After Murillo, Sp. painter.] A color, greenish-blue in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

murillo bark. Quillai bark.

mu'rine o·pos'sum (mū'rĭn; -rīn; 156). Mouse opossum. See OPOSSUM.

mu·ri'nus (mū·rī'nŭs), n. [L.] Mouse gray.

mu'ri·o· (mū'rĭ·ō-). [L. muria brine.] Chem. = CHLORO-, as in mu'ri·o·car'bo·nate, mu'ri·o·ni'tric, mu'ri·o·phos'phate. Obs.

mu·ri'ti palm (mōō·rē'tē). [Pg. muriti, buriti, fr. Tupi muriti, buriti. Cf. BURITI, MIRITI PALM, MORICHE PALM.] A large, Brazilian fan palm (Mauritia vinifera), yielding edible nuts and a useful fiber.

murk, mirk (mûrk), adj. [ME. mirke, merce, fr. AS. mirce, or fr. ON.; akin to ON. myrkr, Dan. & Sw. mörk, Lith. mirgėti to glimmer, and ult. to Lith. merkti to wink. See MORN.] Dark or darkened; of mist, dense; hence, obscure; also, gloomy. Now Poetic & Dial. — murk'ly, mirk'ly, adv. — murk'ness, mirk'ness, n.

murk, mirk, n. Darkness; gloom. Now Chiefly Dial.

murk, mirk, v. t. To make dark, dim, or gloomy; also, to soil. — v. i. To become dark. Obs.

murk'ish, mirk'ish (mûr'kĭsh), adj. Rather murky.

murk'some, mirk'some (mûrk'sŭm), adj. Quite murky. R.

murk'y, mirk'y (mûr'kĭ), adj.; MURK'I·ER (-kĭ·ĕr); MURK'I·EST. [From murk + 3d -y.] Dark; obscure; gloomy or dejected; of mist, etc., thick or impenetrable. — murk'i·ly, mirk'i·ly (mûr'kĭ·lĭ), adv.—murk'i·ness, mirk'i·ness, n.

murk'y, n. Music. A composition for the harpsichord with a bass in broken octaves.

murky bass. A bass in broken octaves.

murl (mûrl), v. t. & i. [Cf. Ir. muirlim I crumble.] To crumble; molder away. — n. Also mur'lack, -lock (-lŭk). A crumb. All Scot. & N. of Eng.

mur'lin, mur'lain (-lĭn), n. [Also murlan, fr. Gael. murluinn, murlan, murlach, murlag.] A round basket with a narrow opening. Scot.

mur'lin (mûr'lĭn), n. [Origin obscure; cf. Ir. muir sea.] Badderlocks. Ireland.

murl'y (mûr'lĭ), adj. [See MURL.] Crumbly; — used esp. of soil. Dial.

Mur'mi (mōōr'mē), n. sing. & pl. a One of a tribe on the border between Nepal and Sikkim, a pastoral division of the Bhutia, Mongolian in features. b Their language. See INDO-CHINESE LANGUAGES, Table.

mur'mur (mûr'mĕr), n. [OF. murmure, fr. murmurer. See MURMUR, v.] 1. A low, confused, and indistinct sound, like that of running water; as, the murmur of bees; a murmur of low conversation.
2. A complaint half suppressed, or uttered in a low, muttering voice; also, complaint or repining; grumbling.
Some discontents there are, some idle murmurs. Dryden.

mu·nif'ic (mū·nĭf'ĭk), adj. Also mu·nif'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). [See MUNIFICENT.] Munificent. Obs. — mu·nif'i·cal·ly, adv. Obs.

mu·ni·fy (mū'nĭ·fī), v. t. & i. [Cf. L. munire to fortify, and -FY.] To fortify. Obs. — mu·nif'i·cence (mū·nĭf'ĭ·sĕns), n. Obs.

mun'ion. Var. of MUNNION.

munishon. † MUNITION.

mu·nite' (mū·nīt'), v. t. [L. munitus, past part. of munire to fortify.] To fortify. Obs. — mu·ni'tor, n. Obs.

mun'ja, mun'jah (mŏŏn'jȧ; -jȧ). Vars. of MUNJ.

munjack. † MANJACK.

munj'ak. Var. of MUNTJAC.

munk, mun'key. Vars. of MONK, MONKEY; — now only as Ref. Sp.

munk'ish. Monkish. Ref. Sp.

mun'sel. † MANZIL.

munt, n. = MUNTIN, 1. [Dial.] munt (mŏnt). Var. of MINT.

mun'sil. † MANZIL.

muph'tie. † MUFTI.

Mup'pim (mŭp'ĭm). Bib.

mur. † MOOR; MURE; MURR, catarrh.

Mu'ra·di'yah (mōō'rȧ·dē'yȧ), n. pl. [Ar. Murādīyah.] See DERVISH, 1.

mu'ral·ly, adv. of MURAL.

muran. † MURRAIN.

Mu·ra'thee. Var. of MARATHI.

mur'derd. Murdered. Ref. Sp.

mur'der·ee', n. See -EE.

mur'der·ess, n., fem. of MURDERER.

Mu'ra·di'yah (mōō'rȧ·dē'yȧ), n. pl. [Ar. Murādīyah.] See DERVISH, 1.

mur'der·ish, adj. = MURDEROUS.

mur'der·ment, n. Murder. Obs.

mur'dress (mûr'drĕs; -drĭs; 119). Var. of MURDERESS.

Mu·re'na. Var. of MURAENA.

mu·rex'an (mū·rĕk'sĭn), n. [From MUREXIDE.] = URAMIL.

mur'ga (mōōr'gȧ), mur·ga'vi (mōōr·gä'vĭ), n. Zool. = MUKVA.

murie. † MERRY.

mu'ri·um (mū'rĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] Chem. See MURIATIC.

mur'le·mewes, n. pl. Riddles; obscurities. Obs.

3. Rumor. Rare. Shak.
4. Med. An abnormal sound, usually of soft, blowing character, heard on auscultation of the heart as in leaking heart valves.
5. Phonet. Also murmur vowel. A neutral vowel.

mur'mur (mûr'mĕr), v.; MUR'MURED (-mĕrd); MUR'MUR-ING. [OF. murmurer, fr. L. murmurare, fr. murmur murmur; akin to Gr. mormyrein to roar and boil, said of water, Skr. marmara a rustling sound; of imitative origin.] Intransitive: 1. To make a low continued noise, like the hum of bees, a stream of water, distant waves, or the wind.
2. To utter complaints in a low, half-articulated voice; to express discontent; to grumble; — often with at or against.
—, Transitive: 1. To utter or give forth in low or indistinct words or sounds; as, to murmur tales. Shak.
2. To murmur against; to accuse. Obs. Scot.
Syn. — Whisper; mutter; complain.

mur'mur-a'tion (mûr'mĕr-ā'shŭn), n. [OF. murmuracion (F. murmuration), fr. L. murmuratio.] A murmuring; murmur. Now Rare.

mur'mur-a'tor (mûr'mĕr-ā'tĕr), n. [L.] A murmurer. Obs.

murmur diphthong. A diphthong ending in the mid-mixed vowel ə (here, there, more, poor, pronounced with silent r); — called also centering diphthong.

mur'mur-er (mûr'mĕr-ĕr), n. One who murmurs.

mur'mur-ing, adj. That murmurs.—mur'mur-ing-ly, adv.

mur'mur-ish, adj. Like, or of the nature of, a murmur.

mur'mur-ous (mûr'mĕr-ŭs), adj. [Cf. OF. murmuros.] 1. Attended or filled with, or making, murmurs; murmuring.
The lime, a summer home of murmurous wings. Tennyson.
2. Of the nature of a murmur; spoken in a murmur or murmurs; low and indistinct.
3. Voicing, or arousing, complaining murmurs.
— mur'mur-ous-ly, adv.

mu'ro-mon'tite (mū'rō-mŏn'tīt), n. [From Muromontia, L. name of Maversberg, Saxony. See MURE; MOUNT.] Mineral. A mineral like allanite but with more of the cerium metals.

mur'phy (mûr'fĭ), n.; pl. MURPHIES (-fĭz). [From proper name.] A potato. Jocose.

Mur'phy, or Mur'phy's, but'ton (mûr'fĭ, -fĭz). Surg. A device for reuniting two parts of an intestine after complete division, consisting of two hollow silver pieces which fit into each other; — so called from its inventor, J. B. Murphy, an American surgeon.

Murphy Button.

murr (mûr), n. [Origin obscure.] A catarrh; a cold with hoarseness. Obs.

murr, v. i. [Imitative.] To purr. Scot.

mur'ra, mur'rha (mûr'ȧ), n. [L.] Rom. Archæol. A material of which costly vessels were made, originally a semiprecious stone, perhaps fluorite; also, porcelain.

mur'rain (mûr'ĭn) n. [ME. moreine, fr. OF. morine, fr. morir to die, fr. L. mori, moriri. See MURDER.] 1. A pestilence or plague, now only one affecting domestic animals; any of a number of different diseases of cattle, as anthrax or Texas fever; — formerly sometimes used in imprecations; as, a murrain take you, plague take you!
2. Obs. a Dead flesh. b Mortality.
3. Leather from a diseased or poor-conditioned animal.

mur'rain, adj. Afflicted with murrain; also, Obs., confounded; plaguy. — mur'rain, adv. Obs.

Mur'ray-a (mûr'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., after Johan A. Murray (1740–91), Swedish botanist.] Bot. A small genus of tropical Asiatic and Australian trees, family Rutaceae, related to Citrus. M. exotica is the orange jessamine.

Mur'ray cod (mûr'ĭ). A large serranoid fish (Oligorus macquariensis), abounding in the Murray River and its tributaries, and much esteemed for food. Australia.

Murray Cod (Oligorus macquariensis). (1/15)

Murray down. The floss from the inflorescence of the cattail Typha angustifolia. Australia.

Murray lily. The Darling lily.

Murray pine. a A pine of the western United States (Pinus murrayana) sometimes considered a subspecies of the lodgepole pine P. contorta. b In Australia, one of the cypress pines (Callitris calcarata).

murre (mûr), n. [Origin obscure. Cf. MARROT.] a Any of several guillemots of the genus Uria; specif., U. aalge, often called foolish guillemot, common in the North Atlantic. U. lomvia is the Brünnich's, or thick-billed, murre or guillemot. b The razor-billed auk.

murre'let (mûr'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. [murre + -let.] Any of several small sea birds (family Alcidae) of the genera Synthliboramphus, Brachyramphus, and Endomychura, found chiefly on islands of the North Pacific. Species occurring in North America are the ancient murrelet (S. antiquus), chiefly dark-slate above with lower parts white, of the North Pacific, the buff-spotted Kittlitz's murrelet (B. brevirostris), ranging from Japan and Kamchatka to Alaska, the marbled murrelet (B. marmoratus), dusky with white under parts mottled with brown, found from Alaska to Vancouver, Xantus's murrelet (E. hypoleucus), slate-colored with under parts and lining of the wings white, found from California to Mexico, and Craveri's murrelet (E. craveri), similar to the last but having the wing lining gray, of Lower California.

mur'rey (mûr'ĭ), n. [OF. mores a dark-red color, fr. ML. morata, fr. L. morum mulberry. See MULBERRY.] 1. a A color, red in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. b Her. Sanguine. c A fabric of this color.
2. The color mulberry.

mur'rey, adj. Of a dark-red color.

mur'rhine (mûr'ĭn; -īn; 156; 245), adj. [L. murr(h)inus, fr. murr(h)a.] a Rom. Antiq. Made of murra. b Like murrhine vases. — n. A murrhine vase.

murrhine glass. Glassware in which the body is transparent and shows embedded pieces of colored glass (fiori).

mur-ri'na (mŭ-rī'nȧ), n. [Sp. morriña. See MURRAIN.] Veter. A disease of horses and mules caused by a protozoan blood parasite (Trypanosoma hippicum) and characterized by emaciation, anemia, oedema, conjunctivitis, fever, and paralysis of the hind legs.

murr'nong' (mûr'nŏng'), n. [Native name.] An Australian herb (Microseris forsteri), family Cichoriaceae; also, its sweet, milky tuber, eaten raw by the natives.

Mur'rum-bidg'ee pine (mûr'ŭm-bĭj'ē). [From Murrumbidgee River, New South Wales.] The camphorwood Callitris robusta. Australia.

mur'shid (mōōr'shĕd), n. [Ar.] A Mohammedan religious teacher; sometimes, the head of an order.

Mu'rut (mōō'rōōt), n. sing. & pl. a One of six prominent divisions of natives in Sarawak. b Their language.

mu-ru'xi bark (mōō-rōō'shĭ). [Pg. murici, murixi, fr. Tupi mureci, murusi.] The astringent bark of a tropical American tree (Byrsonima spicata), used locally for tanning.

mur'va (mōōr'vȧ), n. [Singhalese mūrvā, fr. Skr. mūrvā.] An Asiatic bowstring hemp (Sansevieria roxburghiana) widely cultivated in India for its soft silky leaf fiber; also, the fiber itself.

mur'za (mûr'zȧ), n. [Tatar, fr. Per. mīrza. See MIRZA.] One of the hereditary nobility among the Tatars.

Mur'zim (mōōr'zēm), n. [Ar. mirzam roarer.] See STAR, Table.

Mus (mŭs), n. [L., a mouse.] Zool. A genus of rodents, including the common house mouse and a few related small species. The genus is easily identified by the square-notched, not beveled, tip of the upper incisors as seen in profile. See MOUSE, RAT.

Mu'sa (mū'zȧ), n. [NL., fr. Ar. mawzah banana.] Bot. A genus of perennial herbs typifying the Musaceae. M. sapientum is the common banana. See BANANA, 2d PLANTAIN, MANILA HEMP.

Mu-sa'ce-ae (mū-zā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL. See MUSA.] Bot. A family of trees or treelike herbs typifying the Musales, characterized by clustered flowers subtended by brightly colored spathaceous bracts, a perianth of two series, both petaloid, five anthers with one staminode, and a baccate or capsular fruit. The only genera are Musa, Strelitzia, Ravenala, and Heliconia. — mu-sa'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Mu-sae'us (mū-zē'ŭs), n. [Gr. Mousaios.] A legendary Greek poet, traditionally connected with Orpheus and with the Eleusinian mysteries.

mus'al (mŭz'ăl; -'l), n. Of or pert. to the Muses, or to poetry.

Mu-sa'les (mū-zā'lēz), n. pl. [NL. See MUSA.] Bot. An order of monocotyledonous tropical plants often called Scitamineae, characterized by the cyclic flowers often with irregular perianth and one or more of the stamens suppressed. It includes the four families Musaceae, Zingiberaceae, Cannaceae, and Marantaceae.

mu-sang' (mōō-sȧng'; mū-sȧng'), n. [Malay musaň.] An East Indian palm civet or paradoxure (Paradoxurus hermaphroditus). Also, any of certain related viverrine animals.

Musang (Paradoxurus hermaphroditus).

mu'sar (mū'zär), n. Music. A Provençal ballad singer. Hist.

Mus'ca (mŭs'kȧ), n. [L., a fly. See MIDGE.] 1. Zool. A genus of flies, now restricted to the common housefly (M. domestica) and immediately related species.
2. gen. MUSCAE (mŭs'ē). Astron. a A constellation situated between the Southern Cross and Chameleon; the Fly. b Also Mus'ca Bo're-a'lis (bō'rē-ā'lĭs). The Northern Fly.

mus'cade' (mŭs'kȧd'), n. [F., nutmeg, fr. Pr. muscada, fr. muscat smelling like musk. See MUSCAT.] A brown, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

mus'ca-dine (mŭs'kȧ-dĭn; -dīn), n. [See MUSCATEL.] 1. Muscatel wine. Obs. exc. Hist.
2. a A grape (Muscadinia rotundifolia) of the southern United States. A number of cultivated varieties, as the scuppernong, have been obtained from this species. b Loosely, any of several musky grapes.
3. A late summer variety of pear.

mus'ca-dine, n. [F.] = MOSCARDINO. Obs.

mus'ca-dine (mŭs'kȧ-dĭn; -dēn). Var. of MUSCARDINE.

Mus'ca-din'i-a (mŭs'kȧ-dĭn'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL. See MUSCADINE.] Bot. A small genus of woody vines of the grape family (Vitaceae). M. munsoniana is the everbearing grape. See 1st MUSCADINE, 2.

‖mus'cae vo'li-tan'tes (mŭs'sē vŏl'ĭ-tăn'tēz). [L., flying flies.] Figures or appearances, usually in the form of dots, threads, beads, or circles, in the field of vision, due to cells and cell fragments in the vitreous humor and lens.

mus'car-dine (mŭs'kĕr-dĭn; -dēn), n. [F.] Calcino.

Mus'car-din'i-dae (-dĭn'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Muscardinus, type genus (fr. F. muscardin dormouse, fr. muscat smelling like musk) + -idae. See MUSCAT.] Zool. The family consisting of the dormice, typified by the genus Mus'car-din'us (-dī'nŭs). See DORMOUSE.

Mus-ca'ri (mŭs-kā'rī), n. [NL.; cf. LL. muscus musk.] Bot. A genus of Old World bulbous herbs, family Liliaceae, the grape hyacinths, or grapeflowers. See GRAPE HYACINTH.

mus-car'i-form (mŭs-kăr'ĭ-fôrm), adj. [L. muscarium fly brush + -form.] Having the form of a brush.

mus'ca-rine (mŭs'kȧ-rēn; -rĭn; mŭs-kăr'-; 157), n. Also -rin. [NL. Amanita muscaria fly agaric, fr. L. muscarius pert. to flies.] Chem. A crystalline alkaloid, $C_5H_{15}NO_3$, found in fly agaric (Amanita muscaria) and other fungi. It is tasteless and poisonous.

mus'cat (mŭs'kăt; -kȧt), n. [F., n. & adj., fr. Pr. muscat, prop., smelling like musk, fr. LL. muscus. See MUSK.] 1. Muscatel (sense 1).
2. Any of several cultivated varieties of the European grape.

mus'ca-tel' (mŭs'kȧ-tĕl'; mŭs'kȧ-tĕl), n. [MF. muscatel, muscadel, fr. Pr. muscat. See MUSCAT; cf. MOSCHATEL.] 1. A rich sweet wine produced in France, Italy, and other countries from muscat grapes. Among its varieties are Frontignan, Lunel, Montepulciano, and Orvieto. Sparkling muscatel wines are mostly made from any cheap wine flavored with elder flower essence and sweetened.
2. The muscat grape; also, its vine.
3. A type of raisin produced from muscat grapes.

‖Musch'el-kalk' (mōōsh'ĕl-kälk'; -kälk'), n. [G., fr. muschel shell + kalk limestone.] Geol. The middle division of the German Triassic. See GEOLOGY, Chart. The formation consists mainly of fossil-bearing limestones.

Mus'ci (mŭs'sī), n. pl. [L. muscus moss. See MOSS.] Bot. One of the two classes of Bryophyta, including the mosses, having a well-developed protonema. The class is sometimes subdivided into the Sphagnales, Andreaeales, and Bryales. See MOSS, 2; cf. HEPATICAE.

mus'ci- (mŭs'ĭ-). Bot. A combining form from Latin muscus, moss, as in mus'ci-cole, mus-cic'o-line, mus-cic'o-lous, mus'ci-form.

mus'ci- (mŭs'ĭ-). A combining form from Latin musca fly, as in mus'ci-cide. See -CIDE.

Mus'ci-cap'i-dae (mŭs'ĭ-kăp'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. 2d musci- + L. capere to catch.] Zool. A very large family of oscine passerine birds consisting of the Old World or true flycatchers. The typical genus is Mus-cic'a-pa (mŭ-sĭk'ȧ-pȧ), including the common European spotted flycatcher (M. striata, syn. grisola). Cf. SYLVIIDAE. — mus-cic'a-pine (-sĭk'ȧ-pīn; -pĭn), adj.

Mus'ci-dae (mŭs'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL. See MUSCA.] Zool. A family of insects (order Diptera) of which the housefly Musca domestica) is the type. Formerly coextensive with the superfamily Mus-coi'de-a (mŭs-koi'dē-ȧ), it is now coextensive with a subfamily, Mus-ci'nae (mŭ-sī'nē), including comparatively few species. These are all closely allied to the housefly. — mus'cid (mŭs'ĭd), n. & adj. — mus'ci-form (-ĭ-fôrm), adj.

mus'cle (mŭs''l). Var. of MUSSEL.

mus'cle (mŭs''l), n. [F., fr. L. musculus muscle, little mouse, dim. of mus mouse; akin to AS. mūs muscle, ON. mūs biceps, OHG. mūs, G. maus, mäuschen, Gr. mys, Armen. mukn muscle, OSlav. myšica arm. To many peoples the movement of the muscles, esp. in the upper arm, has seemed to resemble that of a mouse. See MOUSE; cf. MUSSEL.] 1. An organ whose special function is the production of motion; also, the tissue of which such an organ is made, consisting of modified, usually greatly elongated, cells (called muscle fibers), which contract when stimulated. The striated muscles, which in vertebrates constitute the principal part of the flesh, are in typical cases made up of fibers bound together into bundles and enclosed in a sheath of connective tissue (perimysium) continuous with the tendons, or fasciae. Each fiber is enclosed in a delicate membrane (sarcolemma), exhibiting alternate transverse layers or segments of lighter and darker material (whence the name), and contains many protoplasmic nuclei (muscle corpuscles). In higher vertebrates including man, all those muscles partly under the control of the will are striated. Hence, striated muscles are commonly called voluntary muscles, and nonstriated are called involuntary muscles. Nonstriated muscles constitute a large part of the walls of the alimentary canal, blood vessels, uterus, and bladder, and are found also in the iris, skin, etc. They are made up of greatly elongated spindle-shaped cells with a central nucleus. The cells are usually grouped in bundles or sheets. Cardiac muscle, forming the substance of the heart of vertebrates and notable for its rhythmic contractions, is striated, and the cells, or fibers, are extensively branched. In invertebrates the muscle fibers exhibit varying degrees of differentiation, and are, except in the Arthropoda, commonly unstriated.
2. Muscular strength or development; as, to show one's muscle by lifting a heavy weight.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

muscle-building, adj.	muscle-kneading, adj.	muscle making muscle cell	muscle maker	muscle-tired muscle-celled	muscle-making, adj.	muscle tissue mus'cle, v. t. To move by or as by muscular force. Dial. — v. i. To make one's way by brute strength; as, to muscle through a crowd. Colloq.

muscle in. To force one's way in against hostility or opposition, as into a business, a "racket," or the like; as, to muscle in on the territory of a rival agent.

mus'cle-bound', adj. Med. Having some of the muscles tense and enlarged and of impaired elasticity — a condition sometimes produced by excessive athletic exercise.

muscle column. Anat. A sarcostyle.

muscle corpuscle. Anat. See 2d MUSCLE, 1.

muscle curve. A myogram.

mus'cled (mŭs''ld), adj. Furnished with muscles.

muscle fiber. See 2d MUSCLE, 1.

muscle plasma. Physiol. A thick, viscid, protein-rich semifluid muscle substance contained within the sarcolemma. It may be expressed from muscle and on standing yields a coagulum and a liquid called muscle serum.

muscle plate. In vertebrate embryos, a differentiated part of a primitive segment which forms voluntary muscle tissue.

muscle segment. Zool. A myocommma.

muscle sense. Psychol. & Physiol. The sense whose end-organs lie in the muscles. — muscle sensation.

muscle serum. See MUSCLE PLASMA.

muscle spindle. Anat. A sensory end organ in a muscle, consisting of spindle-shaped striated muscle (intrafusal fibers) enclosed in a connective tissue sheath.

muscle sugar. Chem. Inositol.

mus'cling (mŭs'lĭng), n. Distribution or exhibition of muscles; specif., Fine Arts, delineation of the muscles.

mus'cly (-lĭ), adj. Constituted or compact of muscle; muscular.

mus'coid (mŭs'koid), adj. [L. muscus moss + -oid.] Mosslike.

mus-col'o-gy (mŭs-kŏl'ō-jĭ), n. [L. muscus moss + -logy.] Bryology, esp. that part of it which treats of the mosses. Cf. HEPATICOLOGY.—mus'co-log'ic (mŭs'kȯ-lŏj'ĭk), -log'ical (-ĭ-kăl), adj. — mus-col'o-gist (mŭs-kŏl'ō-jĭst), n.

mus'cone (mŭs'kōn), n. [See MUSK; -ONE.] Chem. A colorless, oily, cyclic ketone, $C_{15}H_{28}O$ or $C_{16}H_{30}O$, the chief odoriferous constituent of musk.

mus'cose (mŭs'kōs), adj. [L. muscosus.] Like moss. — mus'cose-ness, n. — mus-cos'i-ty (mŭs-kŏs'ĭ-tĭ), n.

mus'co-va'dite (mŭs'kō-vā'dīt), n. [muscovado brown sugar + -ite.] Petrog. A contact rock found between gabbro and schist containing typically iolite, biotite, and norite.

---

mur'murd. Murmured. Ref. Sp.

mur'mur-less, adj. See -LESS. — mur'mur-less-ly, adv.

murne, murn (mûrn). Vars. of MOURN. New Dial.

mur'ni-val. † MOURNIVAL.

Murphy trusses. See TRUSS, n., Illust.

mur'rain-ly, adv. Much; excceedingly. Obs.

mur'ray. Var. of MORAY.

Mur-ree'. Var. of MARI.

mur'rha. Var. of MURRA.

Murrian. † MORIAN.

mur'ri-an. † MORION.

mur'rine. Var. of MURRHINE.

mur'ri-on. † MORION, MURRAIN.

mur'ry (dial. mŭr'ĭ). Var. of MERRY. New Dial.

mur'ry (mŭr'ĭ). Var. of MORAY.

mur'ry. Murrey. Ref. Sp.

murth. Var. of MIRTH. Dial. murthe. † MIRTH, MURDER.

mur'ther (mûr'thĕr). Var. of MURDER. New Dial.

mu-rub'. Erron. var. of MOORUP.

mu-rup'. Var. of MOORUP.

mur'ses. Obs. pl. of MIRZA.

mus, must. Muss, mussed. Ref. Sp. [Vars. of MUSKOGRAPHY, etc.]

mu'sae-og'ra-phy, -ol'o-gy, etc.

Mus'al-man. Var. of MUSSULMAN. [fem. of MUSALMAN.]

Mus'al-ma'ni (mŭs'ăl-mä'nē), n.

mu'sard, n. [OF., fr. muser to loiter, trifle. See MUSE, v. i.] A dreamer; an absent-minded person; a fool; a dawdler. Obs.

mu'sard-ry, n. [OF. musardrie.] Musing; indolence. Obs.

mus'ca-ba'do, mus'co-ba'do. Vars. of MUSCOVADO.

mus'ca-del', n. = MUSCATEL.

mus'ca-din. Muscadine. Ref. Sp.

mus'cal-longe. Var. of MUSKELLUNGE.

muscat. † MUSKET.

mus-ca'to. † MOSQUITO.

mus'ca-to'ri-um (mŭs'kȧ-tō'rĭ-ŭm; 181), n. [ML.] Eastern Ch. = RIPIDION. [VADO.]

mus'ca-va'do. Var. of MUSCO-muschatoe. † MUSTACHIO.

muscheron. † MUSHROOM.

mus'chite. Var. of MUSKET. Obs.

Mus-ci'nae (mŭ-sī'nē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. See MUSCIDAE.

mus'ci. Muscle. Ref. Sp.

mus'cid. Muscled. Ref. Sp.

mus'cle-less, adj. See -LESS.

mus'cle-like', adj. See -LIKE.

Mus-co'gee. Var. of MUSKOGEE.

Mus-coi'dea (mŭs-koi'dē-ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. See MUSCIDAE. — mus'coid (mŭs'koid), adj. & n.

muscot. † MESQUITA.

---

mus'co·va'do (mŭs'kō·vä'dō), n. [From Sp. mascabado or Pg. mascavado unrefined, for mascabado, past part. of mascabar to depreciate, for menoscabar, fr. menos (fr. L. minus less) + cabo head, end; cf. F. moscouade, moscovade. Cf. MISCHIEF.] Unrefined or raw sugar, obtained from the juice of the sugar cane by evaporation and draining off the molasses. — mus'co·va'do, adj.

Mus'co·vite (mŭs'kō·vīt), n. [Cf. F. Moscovite.] 1. A native or inhabitant of Muscovy, or ancient Russia; hence, a Russian.

2. [not cap.] [See MUSCOVY GLASS.] Mineral. Common, or potash, mica, essentially $(H,K)AlSiO_4$, usually pale brown. See MICA.

3. [not cap.] A color, yellowish-green in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Mus'co·vite (mŭs'kō·vīt), adj. Of or pertaining to Muscovy or, sometimes, Moscow; hence, Russian.

Mus'co·vit'ic (mŭs'kō·vĭt'ĭk), adj. Muscovite.

mus'co·vit·ize (mŭs'kō·vīt·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To convert, wholly or partially, into muscovite. — mus'co·vit'i·za'tion (-vĭt'ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

mus'co·vy (mŭs'kō·vĭ), n. Muskus grass.

Mus'co·vy (mŭs'kō·vĭ), or Rus'sia, Com'pa·ny. A chartered company of London merchants, incorporated in 1553, which carried on commerce with Russia and sent out many polar expeditions.

Mus'co·vy duck (mŭs'kō·vĭ). [A corruption of musk duck.] A duck (Cairina moschata) native from Mexico to southern Brazil, but widely kept in domestication. It is larger than the mallard, has a small crest and red caruncULations about the eyes and forehead.

Mus'co·vy glass. [From Muscovy, old name of Russia, fr. Russ. Moskva Moscow; cf. F. verre de Moscovie.] Mica, esp. muscovite.

mus'cu·lar (mŭs'kū·lĕr), adj. [L. musculus muscle. See MUSCLE.] 1. Of or pertaining to a muscle or a system of muscles; consisting of, or constituting, a muscle or muscles; as, muscular fiber; muscular strength.

2. Performed by, or dependent on, a muscle or the muscles; also, affecting the muscles.

3. Well furnished with muscles; having well-developed muscles; brawny; hence, strong; vigorous.

4. Relating to or concerning the use of muscle.

— mus'cu·lar'i·ty (mŭs'kū·lăr'ĭ·tĭ), n. — mus'cu·lar·ize (mŭs'kū·lĕr·īz), v. t. — mus'cu·lar·ly, adv.

muscular excitability. Physiol. That property by which a muscle shortens when stimulated; irritability.

muscular sense. Muscle sense.

muscular stomach. A gizzard.

mus'cu·la·ture (mŭs'kū·lā·tūr), n. [F.] 1. The muscles of an animal or of any part of it considered with reference to their arrangement of relations or functions.

2. The muscles collectively.

mus'cule (mŭs'kūl), n. [L. musculus.] Mil. A long movable shed used by besiegers in attacking walls. Hist.

mus'cu·lin (mŭs'kū·lĭn), n. [L. musculus a muscle.] Biochem. A globulin in muscle plasma, somewhat like myosin, but having a lower coagulation temperature. Rare.

‖mus'cu·li pa'pil·la'res (mŭs'kū·lī păp'ĭ·lā'rēz). [NL.] The papillary muscles.

‖mus'cu·li pec'ti·na'ti (pĕk'tĭ·nā'tī). [L., pectinated muscles.] Anat. Muscular ridges on the inner wall of the auricles (esp., the right) of the heart.

mus'cu·lo- (mŭs'kū·lō-), muscul-. A combining form from Latin musculus, meaning a muscle, used to denote: a Muscle, as in *musculo*spiral. b Pertaining to the muscles and; containing muscle and; as in *musculo*phrenic and the words below. See ARTERIAL, etc.

musculoarterial	musculofibrous musculocellular	musculointestinal musculocutaneous	musculoligamentous musculodermic	musculomembranous musculoelastic	musculopalpal musculospinal	musculotegumentary musculotendinous

mus'cu·lo·cu·ta'ne·ous nerve (-kū·tā'nē·ŭs). Anat. A mixed nerve giving off motor fibers to muscles and receiving sensory fibers from muscles and skin. Specif.: a A large branch of the brachial plexus supplying flexor muscles of the upper arm, the skin of part of the forearm, etc. b The superficial peroneal nerve.

mus'cu·lo·phren'ic (-frĕn'ĭk), adj. [musculo- + phrenic.] Anat. Supplying the muscles of the body wall and the diaphragm; as, the musculophrenic artery, a branch of the internal mammary artery.

mus'cu·lo·spi'ral (-spī'răl), adj. [musculo- + spiral.] Anat. Of, pertaining to, or designating muscles having a spiral direction, or structures having a spiral arrangement in relation to muscles.

musculospiral groove. Anat. A long, shallow, oblique groove in the shaft of the humerus, lodging the radial nerve (musculospiral nerve).

‖mus'cu·lus (mŭs'kū·lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [L.] Anat. & Zool. A muscle.

muse (mūz), v.; MUSED (mūzd); MUS'ING (mūz'ĭng). [OF. muser to loiter, trifle, to muse, reflect, to rut, prob. orig., to open the mouth, fr. ML. musus muzzle, mouth of an animal. See MUZZLE; cf. AMUSE, MUSETTE.] Intransitive:

1. To think closely; to study in silence; to meditate; ponder.

> He mused upon some dangerous plot. Sir P. Sidney.

2. To be so occupied in study or contemplation as not to observe passing scenes or things present.

3. To wonder or marvel. Now Rare. Spenser.

4. To gaze wonderingly or meditatively; — with on or upon.

5. To murmur; complain. Obs.

—, Transitive: 1. To think or meditate on. Now Rare.

> Come, then, expressive Silence, muse his praise. Thomson.

2. To wonder at. Obs. Shak.

Syn. — Ruminate, cogitate; dream. See CONSIDER.

muse (mūz), n. 1. Contemplation which abstracts the mind from passing scenes; absorbing thought. Obs. Milton.

2. A state of profound meditation or abstraction.

3. Wonder; astonishment. Obs. Spenser.

Muse (mūz), n. [OF., fr. L. Musa, fr. Gr. Mousa; prob. akin to Gr. manthanein to learn. See MATHEMATIC; cf. MOSAIC, n., MUSIC.] 1. Gr. Myth. One of the nine goddesses, daughters of Zeus and Mnemosyne, who preside over song and the different kinds of poetry, and also the arts and sciences; — often in pl. They are Calliope, Clio, Erato, Euterpe, Melpomene, Polymnia or Polyhymnia, Terpsichore, Thalia, and Urania. Cf. APOLLO.

2. [often not cap.] The inspiring goddess, or special genius or style, of a poet.

> My wandering Muse, how thou dost stray! Milton.

3. [not cap.] A poet; also, his or her poetry.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

Muse-descended	Muse-inspired	Muse-loved
Muse-haunted	Muse-led	Muse-ridden

— the Muse. The goddess in whose gift lies inspiration to poetry; hence, poetry; pl., the liberal arts.

muse (mūs; mūz), n. [OF., bagpipe. See MUSETTE.] Music. The mouthpiece of a bagpipe.

muse (mūs; mūz). Var. of MEUSE, a gap. Obs. exc. Dial.

‖mu'sée' (mü'zā'), n. [F.] Museum.

Mu'sée' du Lou'vre (dü lōō'vr'). [F.] = LOUVRE.

muse'ful (mūz'fŏōl; -fĭ), adj. Meditative; thoughtfully silent. — muse'ful·ly, adv.

muse'less (-lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Unregardful of the Muses or the power of poetry; unpoetical. — muse'less·ness, n.

museo-. A combining form for museum, as in mu'se·og'ra·pher, mu'se·og'ra·phist, mu'se·og'ra·phy.

Muse of Greece. = ATTIC MUSE.

mu'se·ol'o·gy (mū'zē·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [museo- + -logy.] The branch of science which treats of the systematic collection of objects for museums, their arrangement, care, etc. — mu'se·ol'o·gist (-jĭst), n.

mus'er (mūz'ĕr), n. One who muses.

mus'er·y (-ĭ), n. Amusement; play. Rare.

mu·sette' (mū·zĕt'), n. [F., fr. OF. muser to play the bagpipe, fr. ML. musus mouth, muzzle. See MUZZLE.]

1. a A small bagpipe formerly popular in France, esp. in the 18th century, having a soft and sweet tone. b A kind of small, simple oboe. c A reed stop of 4-foot or 8-foot pitch and bright and pleasing tone.

2. a A quiet, pastoral air, often with a drone bass, adapted to the musette (sense 1 a). b A gavotte with a drone bass often constituting the middle or trio of a group of three gavottes in a suite, the first and third of which are the same.

3. Also musette bag. A canvas or leather case or wallet suspended from a belt worn over the shoulder, used esp. by soldiers for carrying provisions.

mu·se'um (mū·zē'ŭm), n. [L., a temple of the Muses, hence, a place of study, fr. Gr. mouseion, fr. Mousa a Muse. See MUSE.] 1. Greek Antiq. A place sacred to the Muses; specif. [cap.], the great institution for literary and scientific studies built and equipped by Ptolemy I at Alexandria, which was virtually a university of the Hellenistic world.

2. A house or room devoted to the cultivation of letters or learning. Obs.

3. A building, or part of one, in which are preserved and exhibited objects of permanent interest in one or more of the arts and sciences; as, a historical, or art museum.

museum beetle. Any one of several beetles, esp. of the genera Anthrenus and Dermestes (family Dermestidae), which feed on skins, dried insects, etc.

museum piece. A piece, as of art, furniture, etc., of a rarity or special value which makes it suitable for preservation or exhibition in a museum.

mush (mŭsh), n. [E. dial. mush a mash, crumbled matter; cf. dial. mushmeat food in a pulpy state. Cf. MASH.]

1. Meal (esp. Indian meal) boiled in water; hasty pudding; supawn. U. S.

2. Anything soft and thick, like mush; as, a mush of snow.

3. Sickly sentimentality; mawkish flattery; esp., silly demonstration of affection. Colloq.

4. Radio. A noise, like that of frying, heard when a receiving apparatus is tuned to waves from an arc transmitting station. It is due to irregularities in operation of the arc.

mush, v. t. & i. To reduce to mush; to crumble. Dial.

mush (mŭsh), n. [Prob. short for mush on, a corrupt. of F. marchons, the cry of the voyageurs and coureurs de bois to their dogs.] A march on foot, esp. across the snow with dogs. — interj. A call to urge dog teams on. Both Northwestern America.

mush, v. i.; MUSHED (mŭsht); MUSH'ING. To travel on foot, esp. across the snow with dogs. — v. t. To cause to travel or journey. Northwestern America.

mush, v. t. To notch, cut, or indent with a stamp. Scot.

mush (mŭsh), n. Slang, Eng. a An umbrella. b Also mush'er. An owner and driver of one, two, or three cabs.

mush'a (mŏŏsh'ä), interj. [Ir. māiseadh if so it be, then.] An indefinite expression of asseveration or of surprise; well (introductory); even so. Cf. WISHA. Anglo-Ir.

mus·haa' (mŏŏs·hä'), n. [Ar. mushā' common.] Moham. Law. Undivided common property.

Mus'hab·bi'hite (mŏŏs'hăb·bē'hīt), n. [Ar. mushabbihah, lit., assimilators.] A member of a Sifatite sect holding that God has a localized body.

mushed (mŭsht; mŏŏsht), adj. Crushed; confused. Dial.

mush'er (mŭsh'ĕr), n. One who mushes.

mush'er (mŭsh'ĕr), n. = 6th MUSH b.

Mush'et (mŭsh'ĕt), or Mush'et's (-ĕts), steel. [After Robert F. Mushet (1811–91), Eng. metallurgist.] The first self-hardening steel.

mush'head' (mŭsh'hĕd'), n. A silly fellow. — mush'head'ed (-hĕd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. — mush'head'ed·ness, n.

mush'-ki'nu (mŏŏsh'kē'nōō), n. [Assyr.-Bab. mushkînu pauper.] A person of the second of the three social orders recognized by Babylonian law. Cf. AMELU.

mush'la (mŭsh'lä), n. [Also mishlaw, fr. Mosquito mísla or mišla (when made from maize), mīšla (from cassava), mūsilá (from plantains), mīšila (from sugar cane).] A fermented drink made by the Mosquito Indians, from cassava or plantain.

mush'mel'on (mŭsh'mĕl'ŭn), n. A muskmelon. Dial.

mush'room (mŭsh'rōōm; 200), n. [ME. muscheron, fr. OF. moisseron, mouscheron (F. mousseron), perh. fr.

A Mushroom (Agaricus campestris); a Annulus. B Section of Gill of the same, enlarged. 1 Trama; 2 Hymenium; 3 Basidium; 4 Sterigma; 5 Basidiospore.

mousse moss, of Teut. origin. See MOSS.] 1. Any more or less conspicuous fleshy fungus of the class Basidiomycetes; popularly, any edible fungus of the orders Agaricales or Lycoperdales, esp. the meadow or field mushroom (Agaricus campestris); also, any edible ascomycete, esp. the morel. Many poisonous species closely resemble edible forms. The common mushroom (Agaricus campestris) is extensively cultivated for the market; it is surpassed in flavor, however, by many other species. Botanically the mushroom is a sporophore developed from an underground mycelium; the stalked cap, or pileus, bears spores on the folds or pores of its under surface. See AGARIACACEAE, DEATH CUP, FLY AGARIC FUNGUS, TOADSTOOL.

2. A parvenu; an upstart.

3. Anything like, or likened to, a mushroom in shape. Specif.: a Slang. An umbrella. b Colloq. A round low-crowned hat with sloping brim. c A metal traffic guide, about 18 inches in diameter, fixed in the pavement surface at an intersection.

4. The color beaver brown.

5. Bldg. In one system (mushroom system) of reinforced concrete construction, a mushroomlike extension at the top of each column formed by continuing the reinforcing rods laterally for a few feet radially out into the slab, and supporting ring rods on these to carry the lighter reinforcement for the slab construction.

6. Naut. An iron cup having a shackle on the convex side, and used as an anchor (cf. MUSHROOM ANCHOR).

7. Ordn. In certain systems of obturation for cannon, the steel mushroom-shaped piece the head of which receives the backward pressure of the powder gases and compresses the plastic gas-check pad, forcing it against the wall of the bore, thus sealing the breech end of the chamber.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

mushroom-colored, mushroom-grown, mushroom-shaped.

mush'room (mŭsh'rōōm; 200), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to mushrooms.

2. Mushroomlike in its quick growth and decay; ephemeral; hence, upstart; also, shaped like a mushroom.

mush'room, v.; -ROOMED (-rōōmd; 200); -ROOM·ING. Intransitive: 1. To rise or grow rapidly, like a mushroom.

2. To spread at the end so as to resemble a mushroom; — said chiefly of a bullet on striking an object.

3. To gather mushrooms.

4. To bulge upward like a mushroom; — said esp. of wooden block pavements swollen by moisture.

—, Transitive: 1. To cause to rise or grow very rapidly.

2. To cause (a bullet) to mushroom.

mushroom anchor. An anchor shaped like a mushroom, capable of grasping the ground however it falls, but used chiefly for permanent moorings. See ANCHOR, Illust.

mushroom chair. A turned chair, of the 17th and early 18th centuries, having enlarged and usually flattened balls topping, and made in one piece with, the front posts.

mushroom coral. A coral of the genus Fungia (which see).

mush'room·er (mŭsh'rōōm·ĕr; 200), n. A gatherer of mushrooms.

mush·room'ic (mŭsh·rōōm'ĭk), adj. Upstart. Rare.

mushroom root rot. Plant Pathol. Any root rot caused by an agaric, esp. Armillaria mellea.

mushroom spawn. = SPAWN, n., 4.

mushroom system. See MUSHROOM, n., 5.

mush'room·y (mŭsh'rōōm·ĭ; 200), adj. Resembling a mushroom.

mush rot. = LEAK, n., 4.

mush'ru (mŭsh'rōō), n. [Ar. mashrū' legal, conformable, a stuff of silk and cotton in which it is lawful to pray.] A strong East Indian cotton-backed satin, often figured or striped.

Mush'ta·ri (mŏŏsh'tä·rē; mŏŏsh'tä·rē'), n. [Ar.] The planet Jupiter. Omar Khayyám.

mush'y (mŭsh'ĭ), adj.; MUSH'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); MUSH'I·EST. Soft like mush; figuratively, good-naturedly weak and effusive; weakly sentimental; also, of wool, perished; open.

mu'sic (mū'zĭk), n. [OF. musique, fr. L. musica, fr. Gr. mousikē (sc. technē), any art over which the Muses presided, esp. music, lyric poetry set and sung to music, fr. mouskos belonging to the Muses or fine arts, fr. Mousa Muse.] 1. The science or art of pleasing, expressive, or intelligible combination of tones; the art of making such combinations, esp. into compositions of definite structure and significance, according to the laws of melody, harmony, and rhythm; the art of inventing or writing, or of rendering, such compositions, whether vocal or instrumental. Greek music was generally subordinated to verse, and was further limited in expressiveness by the primitive instruments used, chiefly of the lyre and flute class. It accomplished, however, the establishment of the diatonic scales or modes, based on the tetrachord as unit, and of the rudiments of key relationship. The further growth of the art was in the early church, beginning with the derivation from the Greek of the ecclesiastical modes, followed by the invention of neumes to indicate the pitch of tones, the development of staff notation, and the superseding of the tetrachordal unit by the hexachord, with the device of solmization ascribed to Guido d'Arezzo (c. 990–c. 1050). The practice of descant, or simultaneous melody, gave rise to the system of mensurable music, from which rose the medieval school of counterpoint. This advance in church music was accompanied by the growth of secular song, both popular minstrelsy and the more artificial forms, such as the English round and catch, the settings of madrigals, villanelles, chansons, virelays, etc., throughout western Europe, the productions of the knightly troubadours and minnesingers, and those of the burgher guilds of Meistersinger. Settings of the Mass, psalms, and motets were carried to great contrapuntal elaboration, esp. by Dutch and Italian masters, until, with a reaction against the abuses of secularism and excessive intricacy, the a cappella church music culminated in the work of Palestrina (about 1550). The establishment of the modern major and minor scales with the octave as unit, and of equal temperament, making possible modulation into any key, led to the development of harmony, as in the fugues of Bach (1685–1750), in which it forms the basis of a masterly polyphony. The progress of music since Bach has been rapid and varied. Vocal music has branched out in the great forms of (1) opera, which, beginning in Italy about 1600, was perfected in the work of Gluck, Mozart, Weber, Rossini, Wagner, Moussorgsky, Debussy, and Strauss; (2) oratorio, best represented by Bach's contemporary, Handel; (3) lyric, both secular and sacred, as in the lied and choral. Meanwhile great improvements in the making of instruments marked the growth of purely instrumental music, the modern symphony originating with Haydn and others, about 1770. The classical sonata form, most representative

---

Mus'co·vi, adj. = MASKOI.

Mus·co'vi·an, adj. & n. Muscovite. Obs. [A Muscovite. Obs.]

Mus'co·vit'er (mŭs'kō·vĭt'ĕr), n.

Mus'co·vit'ish (-vĭt'ĭsh), adj. Muscovite. Obs.

‖mus'cu·la'ris mu·co'sæ (mŭs'kū·lā'rĭs mū·kō'sē; 79). [NL.] See MUCOUS MEMBRANE.

mus'cu·la'tion (mŭs'kū·lā'shŭn). = MUSCULATURE.

mus'cule. † MUSCLE, MUSSEL.

mus'cu·los'i·ty (mŭs'kū·lŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Musculous quality. Obs.

mus'cu·lous (mŭs'kū·lŭs), adj. [L. musculosus.] Muscular. Obs.

mused (mūzd), adj. Muddled with liquor; bemused; tipsy.

mu·se'ist (mū·zē'ĭst), n. = MUSEOLOGIST.

muse'like', adj. See -LIKE.

mu·sen'na (mū·sĕn'ä). Var. of MESENNA.

mu'set, n. [OF. mucette, fr. muce. See MEUSE.] = MEUSE, a hole. Obs.

mu·se'um·ist, n. = MUSEOLOGIST.

mu·se'um·ize, v. t. See -IZE.

Mus'gu, n. = MOSGU.

Mu'shi (mū'shĭ). Bib.

mush'i·ly, adv. of MUSHY.

mush'i·ness, n. See -NESS.

Mu'shites (mū'shīts). Bib.

mush'quash (mŭsh'kwŏsh). Var. of MUSQUASH. [RAT.]

mush'rav'. Dial. var. of MUSH.

mush·reb'i·yeh (mŏŏsh·rĕb'ĭ·yĕ), n. = MOUCHARABY.

mush'room·like', adj. See -LIKE.

mush'roon. Dial. var. of MUSHROOM.

mushrump. † MUSHROOM.

musht. Mushed. Ref. Sp.

---

of absolute music, was brought to its highest expressiveness in the sonatas and symphonies of Beethoven (1770–1827). The masters of the succeeding romantic school, Berlioz, Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, etc., have diversified and enriched the expressive resources of music, breaking over too formal restrictions, until both romantic feeling and classical form have been united in the work of Brahms (d 1897). The flavor of folk music has been added by various national composers, notably Moussorgsky; delicate, luxurious harmonic and orchestral shades, the whole step and ancient Greek scales, by Debussy and other French impressionists. More recently, increasingly dissonant linear counterpoint has characterized the Germans and Austrians, especially Schoenberg; polytonality, the French; and barbaric, dynamic rhythm, the influential Russian Stravinsky, while American jazz and the revival of the 18th-century forms have contributed to the animated and antiromantic temper of the time. See INSTRUMENT, MODE, NOTATION, 6, SOLMIZATION, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, HARMONY, etc.

2. a Obs. A composition so made. b Tones arranged into such a composition; as, to set to music. c Such compositions collectively. d Musical composition.

3. The score of such a composition or compositions, or any part thereof; also, scores collectively.

4. Sounds having rhythm, melody, or consonance, whether vocal, instrumental, or made by birds, running water, etc.

5. Figuratively: a Obs. exc. Mil. A band of musical performers; as, the music of a regiment. b Now Rare. Musical instruments. c Responsiveness to music.

The man that hath no music in his soul. Shak.

d Anything giving the effect of music.

The still, sad music of humanity. Wordsworth.

6. Instrumental music (in churches). Scot.

7. Colloq., U.S. a Fracas. b Fun; sense of humor.

8. Hunting. The cry of hounds at sight of the game.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

music-copying, adj. music-drawing, adj. music-flowing, adj. music-footed music-mad musicmonger music-panting, adj. music-stirring, adj. music-tongued mu'sic (mū'zĭk), adj. 1. Musical.

2. Pertaining to, used in, or concerned with music.

mu'sic, v. t. To affect (in a specified way) by music; also, to set to music. — v. i. To produce, practice, or listen to music.

‖mu'si·ca (mū'zĭ·kȧ), n. [L.] Music.

‖mu'si·ca fic'ta (fĭk'tȧ). [L.] Literally, feigned or artificial music; contrapuntal music in which accidentals or notes foreign to the mode were introduced.

‖mu'si·ca frac'ta (frăk'tȧ). [L.] Music. See BREAK, v. t., 16

mu'si·cal (mū'zĭ·kăl), adj. [F., fr. ML. musicalis.] 1. Of or pertaining to music or the notation or performance of music; as, musical proportion; musical instruments.

2. Having the pleasing qualities of music; producing music; melodious; harmonious; as, a musical voice.

3. Fond of, or intelligently appreciative of, music; as, a musical coterie; having a natural aptitude for music.

4. Of or pert. to musicians; as, a musical assembly

5. Set to music; accompanied by music.

— mu'si·cal·ly, adv. — mu'si·cal·ness, n.

mu'si·cal, n. Formerly, music; now, Colloq., a musicale.

musical accent. Phonet. Pitch accent; pitch of a sound; intonation.

musical chairs. A game in which the players march, to music, in single file around a row of chairs numbering one less than the players, and halt and seat themselves hastily as the music stops. The player left without a chair is "out," and one chair is removed, the game ending when one of the last two marchers claims the only seat. Called also going to Jerusalem.

musical comedy. A type of theatrical performance, typically whimsical or picturesque, consisting of musical numbers and of dialogue, with a slender plot.

mu'si·cale' (mū'zĭ·kăl'), n. [F. soirée musicale.] A social entertainment, usually private, of which music is the leading feature; a private concert.

musical flame. A flame that produces a musical note by setting in vibration the air in an open tube held over it.

musical glasses. a = HARMONICA a & b. b A set of drinking glasses tuned to the scale and played by rubbing their brims with moistened fingers.

mu'si·cal'i·ty (mū'zĭ·kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Musicalness.

mu'si·cal·ize (mū'zĭ·kăl·īz), v. t. To render musical; to provide with, or adapt to, music. — mu'si·cal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zȧ'-), n.

musical moke. See 1st MOKE, e.

musical proportion. Harmonic proportion. See PROPORTION.

musical sand. Sand, such as is found on certain beaches, that emits a musical note when trodden on.

mu'si·ca men'su·ra'ta (mū'zĭ·kȧ mĕn'shōō·rā'tȧ). Mensurable music.

mu'si·cate (mū'zĭ·kāt), v. t. To set to music. Rare.

music box. A box or case containing apparatus moved by clockwork so as to play certain tunes automatically.

music case. 1. A case for holding or carrying music.

2. A printer's case with compartments for music type.

mu'sic de-my' (dĕ·mī'). A size of paper. See PAPER, Table.

music director. One in charge of musical activities in a church, school, operatic company, etc.

music drama. An opera in which the text and action are not interrupted by set arias, duets, etc., the music being determined throughout by dramatic appropriateness; musical drama of this character, in general. It involves the use of a kind of melodious declamation.

music education. The scientific and practical study of physical, psychological, and sociological facts pertaining to teaching and learning music. — music educator.

music hall. A place for public musical entertainments; specif., esp. Eng., a public hall for vaudeville performances.

music house. a Obs. A music room (sense a). b Obs. A music hall. c A commercial establishment dealing in printed music, musical instruments, etc.

mu·si'cian (mū·zĭsh'ăn), n. [F. musicien.] One skilled in the art or science of music; esp.: a A composer or a professional performer. b An enlisted man assigned to play a musical instrument in a military or naval band.

mu·si'cian·er (mū·zĭsh'ăn·ĕr), n. A musician. Now Colloq.

mu·si'cian·ly (-lĭ), adj. Having or exhibiting the taste or skill appropriate to a musician; as, a musicianly rendering.

mu·si'cian·ship (-shĭp), n. Mastery of music.

mu'sick·er (mū'zĭk·ĕr), n. A musician. Chiefly Dial.

mu'sic·less (mū'zĭk·lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Without music; unmusical. Rare.

music lyre. A detachable device for holding music, used on a wind instrument during a march.

mu'si·co (mū'zĭ·kō), n. [It.] A musician. Byron.

mu'si·co- (mū'zĭ·kō-). A combining form for musical and music, denoting: a Musical and; — in adjectives, as in:

musicoartistic musicodramatic musicomechanical musicophilosophical musicophysical musicopoetic

b Music; — in nouns, as in:

musicofanatic musicographer musicography musicomania musicophobia musicotherapy music of the spheres. An ethereal harmony supposed by Pythagoras and his school to be produced by the planetary motions. See HARMONY OF THE SPHERES.

mu'si·col'o·gy (mū'zĭ·kŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [See -OLOGY.] Music. Music as a branch of knowledge or field of investigation; esp., historical study of musical documents, investigation of sources, gathering and organization of neglected data, etc. — mu'si·co·log'i·cal (-kō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — mu'si·col'o·gist (-kŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

music paper. Paper ruled with the musical staff.

music rack. An inclined shelf to hold performer's music.

music roll. a See ROLL, n., 7. b A roll of perforated paper on which music for piano players is recorded.

music room. a A room for musicians, esp., one near the stage in a theater. b A room or small auditorium for musical performance or practice.

music shell. A marine univalve shell (esp. Voluta musica of the East Indies or a related species) having color markings suggesting printed music.

music speech. An oration formerly delivered at the Encaenia at Oxford.

music supervisor. One who has general oversight of the musical instruction in a school system or in some division of it, with underteachers doing a large part of the actual instructing.

music teacher. One who gives instruction in any branch of music, particularly in playing or singing.

music wire. Wire for the strings of musical instruments; hence, specif., piano wire or the like.

Mu'si·do'ra (mū'zĭ·dō'rȧ; 181), n. A beautiful young woman, subject of an episode in Thomson's Seasons.

Mu'si·do'rus (-rŭs), n. A character in Sidney's Arcadia.

Mu'si'gny' (mü'zē'nyē'), n. [From Musigny vineyard in Côte-d'Or, France.] One of the finest red Burgundies.

mus'i·mon (mŭs'ĭ·mŏn), n. [LL. musmo, musimo; cf. L. mufro. Cf. MOUFLON.] 1. The mouflon.

2. Her. A beast said to be a cross between a goat and a ram mus'ing (mūz'ĭng), adj. Meditative; thoughtfully abstracted. — mus'ing·ly, adv.

mus'ing, verbal n. of MUSE. Specif.: n. Meditation.

musk (mŭsk), n. [ME., fr. OF. musc, fr. LL. muscus, ML. moschus, fr. Gr. moskos, moschos, fr. Per. mushk castoreum, musk (whence Ar. misk), fr. Skr. muṣka testicle, scrotum, vulva, dim. of mūṣ mouse. The word for mouse is often transferred to the musk sac, the scrotum, vulva, and other bodily parts. See MOUSE, MUSCLE; cf. ABELMOSK, MUSCATEL, MUSCOVY DUCK, NUTMEG.] 1. A substance obtained from a sac (musk bag), about the size of an egg, situated under the skin of the abdomen of the male musk deer; — known also as Chinese musk. When fresh it is chocolate-colored and viscid, but it dries to a powder having a slightly bitter taste and a powerful odor. Musk is usually imported in the form of a coarse powder (grain musk), which is the dried sac, or pod, with the musk inside. It varies in quality according to the season and age of the animal. It is used as the basis for many perfumes. The name is extended to strong-smelling secretions of various other animals, also to an artificial product of musklike odor.

2. The musk deer; also, any similar animal.

3. a The musk plant. b The musk mallow. c Muskus grass. d The grape hyacinth. e In Australia, any of several shrubs of the genus Olearia.

4. A brown, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

5. The perfume emitted by musk, or any like perfume.

musk, v. t. To perfume with musk. Rare.

musk ambrette. See AMBRETTE, 2.

mus'kat nut (mŭs'kăt). Any of several nuts yielded by trees of the genus Myristica, resembling nutmegs, but used for oil.

musk bag. See MUSK, n., 1.

musk ball. A ball containing musk; — orig., a trinket, later a soap. Obs.

musk beaver. The muskrat.

musk beetle. A European longicorn beetle (Aromia moschata) having an odor suggesting that of attar of roses.

musk buffalo. The musk ox.

musk carnation. Clove pink.

musk cat. An animal, as the musk deer, supplying musk; — applied also to fops and courtesans. Obs.

musk cattle. Musk oxen.

musk cavy. A hutia.

musk cod. A scented exquisite; a fop. Obs.

musk cow. A female musk ox.

musk crane's-bill. Muskus grass.

musk crowfoot. The moschatel.

musk cucumber. The cassabanana.

musk deer. a A small ungulate (Moschus moschiferus) inhabiting high altitudes of central Asia. It is about three feet long and 20 inches high and hornless in both sexes. b A chevrotain.

Musk deer a (Moschus moschiferus).

musk duck. a The Muscovy duck. b An Australian duck (Biziura lobata); — so called from its odor during the breeding season. It has a peculiar disklike leathery chin lobe.

mus'keg (mŭs'kĕg), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Cree maskek, Ojibway mashkig.] a Northern U.S. & Canada. A sphagnum bog, esp. one with tussocks in it. b Muskeg moss. — mus'keg·gy (-ĭ), adj.

muskeg moss. Any of various mosses of the genera Sphagnum, Hypnum, etc., sometimes used in surgical dressings. Local, U.S.

mus'kel·lunge (mŭs'kĕ·lŭnj), n. sing. & pl. [Ojibway mashkinoje, lit., great pike. Cf. LUNGE a fish.] A large North American pike (Esox masquinongy), which reaches a length of six feet with a weight of 60 to 80 pounds, highly prized as a game fish. The typical form, golden-olive spotted with black, occurs in the Great Lakes. A second form (E. masquinongy ohiensis), sometimes distinguished as the Chautauqua muskellunge, with dark crossbars and few spots, occurs in Chautauqua Lake and tributaries of the Ohio River. A third form (E. masquinongy immaculatus), called the great northern pike, with neither bars nor spots, occurs in the lakes of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Muskellunge. 1/23

mus'ket (mŭs'kĕt; -kĭt; 119), n. [F. mousquet, fr. It. moschetto, formerly, a kind of hawk, fr. L. musca a fly; in sense 1, fr. OF. mousket, moschet, a kind of hawk or falcon (F. mouchet, émouchet), prop., a little fly (the hawk prob. being named from its small size), fr. L. musca. See MIDGE.] 1. The male of the sparrow hawk.

2. A hand firearm formerly carried by soldiers, esp. infantry. It was originally fired by means of a match, or matchlock, for which several mechanical appliances (including the wheel lock, the flintlock, and finally the percussion lock) were successively substituted. The earliest muskets were heavy and clumsy, smoothbore, and of large caliber. Loosely, any piece carried by infantry.

mus'ket·ade' (-ād'), n. A fusillade of muskets.

musket arrow. A feathered wooden arrow fired from a musket or other firearm of the 16th century.

mus'ket·eer' (mŭs'kĕ·tēr'; -kĭ·tēr'), n. [F. mousquetaire; cf. It. moschettiere.] A soldier armed with a musket.

mus'ket·oon' (-tōōn'), n. [F. mousqueton, fr. It. moschettone.] 1. A former short musket with large bore.

2. One armed with such a musket. Rare.

mus'ket·ry (mŭs'kĕt·rĭ; -kĭt·rĭ), n. [F. mousqueterie; cf. It. moschetteria.] 1. Muskets; also, musketeers

2. a The fire of muskets, or the art of firing muskets. b Mil. The application to targets and control of the collective fire of rifle and automatic rifle-fire units.

musk'flow'er (mŭsk'flou'ĕr), n. The musk plant.

musk geranium. Muskus grass.

musk gillyflower. The clove pink.

musk gland. An odoriferous gland, esp. that of the musk deer.

musk hog. A peccary.

Mus·kho'ge·an (mŭs·kō'gē·ăn), adj. Pertaining to or designating one of the chief linguistic families of North American Indians, formerly occupying a large area in the southeastern United States. The Muskhogean languages are classified in five groups; the Muskogee (spoken by most of the Creeks and Seminoles), Hitchiti, Koasati, Choctaw (which includes the Chickasaw), and Natchez. From the numerous Muskhogean tribes about 30,000 Indians still survive, a few scattered in their ancient territory, but most of them, Creeks, Choctaws, Chickasaws, and Seminoles (four of the so-called Five Civilized Tribes) citizens of Oklahoma.

musk hyacinth. The grape hyacinth.

musk'i·fied (mŭs'kĭ·fīd), adj. Saturated or scented with musk. Obs.

musk'ish (mŭs'kĭsh), adj. Somewhat like musk.

musk kangaroo. A peculiar kangaroo (Hypsiprymnodon moschatus) allied to the potoroos and having the feet intermediate in structure between those of the true kangaroos and the phalangers. It is the only species of its genus.

musk ketone. A synthetic compound (chemically tertiary-butyl-dinitro-xylyl methyl ketone) used in the perfume industry as a substitute for musk.

musk lorikeet or parakeet. An Australian lorikeet (Glossopsitta concinna) having a peculiar odor.

musk mallow. a A European mallow (Malva moschata), with faintly musk-scented foliage. b The abelmosk.

musk'mel'on (mŭsk'mĕl'ŭn), n. [musk + melon.] The fruit of the plant Cucumis melo or restrictedly that of the variety C. m. reticulatus; also, the plant itself. See MELON, Illust. Broadly, Muskmelons are of three general types specified as muskmelons, cantaloupes, and winter melons. In the United States, there is no clear distinction between the first two types, although the netted varieties, as Rocky Ford, are generally known as cantaloupes. In Europe, the term cantaloupe is definitely applied to the rough-skinned, deep-ribbed rock melons with usually reddish orange flesh, not grown in the United States. See NUTMEG MELON.

musk milfoil. A European yarrow (Achillea moschata) cultivated for forage in Switzerland.

musk mole. A mole of Tibet (Scaptochirus moschatus).

Mus·ko'gee (mŭs·kō'gē), n. The Muskogean language spoken by the dominant element among the Creeks; also, Creek.

musk okra. The abelmosk.

musk orchis. A European musk-scented orchid (Herminium monorchis).

musk ox. A hollow-horned ungulate (Ovibos moschatus), circumpolar in distribution during the Pleistocene period, but now confined to Greenland and the barren grounds of North America. It is between the sheep and the oxen in size and in many characters. The thick, long, shaggy pelage is dark grayish brown or blackish with a light saddle marking.

Musk Ox.

musk parakeet. The musk lorikeet.

musk plant. A yellow-flowered North American herb (Mimulus moschatus) with hairy foliage of musky odor.

mu·si'ci·a'na (mū·zĭsh'ĭ·ā'nȧ; -ĭ'nȧ), n. pl. See -ANA.

mu'sic-like', adj. See -LIKE.

mu'si·co-logue', n. See -LOGUE.

mu'sic-proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.

mu'sic·ry, n. Music. Obs.

mus'ie, n. Dim. of MUSE, goddess. Scot.

mu'si·lage. Var. of MUCILAGE.

mus'i·ly, adv. Musingly. [Obs.] mu'si·on (mū'zĭ·ŏn), n. A cat.

mu'sive (mū'sĭv), adj. & n. [LL. musivus of a Muse, musivum mosaic. See MOSAIC, n.] Mosaic. Obs.

mu'sit. † MUSET. [JD.]

mus'jid (mŭs'jĭd). Var. of MASJID.

mus'ka·del'. Var. of MUSCADEL.

mus'kal·longe (mŭs'kă·lŏnj), mus'kal·lunge. Vars. of MUSKELLUNGE.

mus'kat. Var. of MUSCAT.

mus'keg'. Var. of MUSKEG.

mus'kel. † MUSCLE, MUSSEL.

mus'ket-like', adj. See -LIKE.

mus'ket-proof', adj. See -PROOF.

Mus·kho'gee, Mus·ko'gi. Vars. of MUSKOGEE. [LUNGE. U. S.] mus'kie, n. Short for MUSKELLUNGE.

musk'i·ness, n. See -NESS.

mus·kit' (mŭs·kēt'). Var. of MESQUITE.

musk'like', adj. See -LIKE.

Mus·ko'gi·an. Var. of MUSKHOGEAN.

mus'kone. Var. of MUSCONE.

musk poulp or polyp. A Mediterranean octopus (Eledone moschata) having an odor of musk.

musk'rat' (mŭsk'răt'), n.; pl. -RATS (-răts'), sometimes -RAT. See PLURAL, Note. [Cf. MUSQUASH.] 1. An abundant aquatic rodent (Ondatra, syn. Fiber, zibethicus) found throughout the United States and Canada. It is as large as a small cat and has the tail long, scaly, and laterally compressed, the hind feet webbed, and the fur dark glossy brown. Muskrats live in holes in banks or in dome-shaped houses which they make of rushes and mud. They have small glands emitting a musky odor. See also ROUND-TAILED MUSKRAT.
2. The fur or pelt of this animal.
3. a A musk shrew. b A desman.

muskrat weed. The fall meadow rue. U. S.

musk'root' (mŭsk'rōōt'), n. 1. Any of several plants having strong-scented roots, as the moschatel, the nard, etc.
2. Pharm. = SUMBUL a.

musk rose. a A rose (Rosa moschata) of the Mediterranean region, with fragrant flowers. b = MUSK MALLOW a.

musk seed. The seed of the abelmosk.

musk sheep. The musk ox.

musk shrew. a Any of several (East) Indian shrews of the genera Crocidura and Suncus, syn. Pachyura, having a powerful odor; esp., S. myosurus, syn. Crocidura murina. b A desman.

musk thistle. A Eurasian thistle (Carduus nutans) with nodding, musky flower heads.

musk tree. Any of several Australasian musk-scented trees, as Olearia argophylla. See MUSKWOOD b.

musk turtle, terrapin, or tortoise. Any of several small American fresh-water turtles of the genera Sternotherus and Kinosternon, esp. S. odoratus, which have a strong musky odor.

mus'kus grass (mŭs'kŭs). [D. muskus musk.] A low, European annual herb (Erodium moschatum) resembling alfilaria.

musk weasel. A civet or other viverrine animal.

musk'wood' (mŭsk'wŏŏd'), n. [So called from its fragrance.] a Either of the two tropical American trees Guarea trichilioides and Trichilia moschata; also, their mahoganylike wood. b The musk tree Olearia argophylla; also, its hard white wood, used for cabinetwork.

musk'y (mŭs'kĭ), adj. Having an odor of musk or like musk.

mus'ky (mŭs'kĭ), n. Short for MUSKELLUNGE.

musky heron's-bill. Muskus grass.

musky squash. The cushaw.

mus'lin (mŭz'lĭn), n. [F. mousseline, fr. It. mussolino, fr. colloq. Ar. mūṣilī, lit., of or from Mosul (Ar. al-Mawṣil), city of Mesopotamia, where it was first made.] 1. Any of various cotton cloths; as: a More fully India, or Indian, muslin. A very thin, fine, and soft plain cloth made in India, or an imitation of it. b A stouter fabric, of varying fineness, plain, printed, dyed, or dotted, used for women's garments. c U. S. Any of various coarser and heavier cotton goods.
2. Slang. a Obs. Femininity; womankind. b Naut. = CANVAS, n., 2 c.

muslin clipper. See 2d CLIPPER.

muslin delaine. = DELAINE, 1.

mus'lined (mŭz'lĭnd), adj. Clothed in, or draped with, muslin.

mus'lin-et', mus'lin-ette' (-ĭ-nĕt'), n. [F. mousselinette.] A sort of thick muslin or light cotton cloth.

muslin glass. a Glass of extreme thinness, as in wineglasses, etc. b Glass decorated in imitation of muslin.

mus'lin kail (mŭz'lĭn kāl). Broth of barley and greens. Scot.

mus'nud (mŭs'nŭd), n. [Hind. masnad, fr. Ar. masnad.] In India, Persia, etc., a large cushion or draped seat.

Mu'so-phag'i-dae (mū'sō-făj'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Musa + Gr. phagein to eat.] Zool. A family of birds (suborder Mu-soph'a-gi [mū-sŏf'ȧ-jī]) related to the cuckoos, consisting of the touracos. The typical genus is Mu-soph'a-ga (mū-sŏf'ȧ-gȧ). — mu-soph'a-gine (mū-sŏf'ȧ-jĭn; -jīn; 156), adj.

Mus'pells-heim' (mōōs'pĕls-hām'), n. Also Mus'pel-heim' (mōōs'pĕl-). [ON. Mūspells-heimr.] Norse Myth. One of the Nine Worlds, generally viewed as in the south. Its forces are against the gods at Ragnarok.

mus'quash-root' (mŭs'kwŏsh-rōōt'), n. Also musquash poison. The water hemlock Cicuta maculata. U. S. mus'quash-weed' (-wēd'), n. The fall meadow rue. U. S.

mus'quas-pen (mŭs'kwäs-pĕn), n. [Cf. MUSQUASH.] A root used by Indians of Virginia in making a red dye. Obs.

mus'quaw (mŭs'kwô), n. [Cree maskwa.] The American black bear.

mus'rol (mŭz'rōl), n. [F. muserolle, fr. It. museruola, fr. muso muzzle. See MUZZLE.] The noseband of a horse's bridle. Obs.

muss (mŭs), n. [Prob. var. of mess; in sense 1, cf. MF. mousche, lit., a fly (F. mouche), fr. L. musca (cf. MIDGE). See MESS.] 1. Obs. a A scramble, as when small objects are thrown down for those who can seize them. b That which is scrambled for.
2. Chiefly Dial. or Colloq. a A state of confusion or disorder; a state of dirty disorder or a jumble of things. b That which makes a disorder or confusion, as rubbish.
3. A confused conflict; a row; squabble. Slang, U. S.

muss, v. t.; MUSSED (mŭst); MUSS'ING. Chiefly Dial. or Colloq. a To disarrange, as clothing; to rumple; also, to throw into disorder; to confuse; — often with up. b To soil or dirty; to mess.

muss, n. Mouth. Now Dial. Skelton.

Mus-saen'da (mŭ-sĕn'dȧ), n. [NL., fr. Singhalese mussænda.] Bot. A large genus of herbs or shrubs of the madder family (Rubiaceae) found in the Old World tropics. The ornamental calyx has one sepal which is much enlarged and showy. M. philippica of the Philippines yields many local remedies.

mus-saen'da cof'fee. See WILD ORANGE f.

mus-sal' (mŭ-säl'), n. [Hind. colloq. mussāl, mashāl, fr. Ar. mish'āl.] A torch, usually of oil-soaked rags. India.

mus-sal'chee (mŭ-säl'chē), n. [Hind. colloq. mashālchī (through Per. fr. Turk.), fr. Ar. mish'āl torch + Turk. suff. -chi, denoting agent.] A servant who takes care of lamps, washes dishes, etc.; a scullion. India.

mus'sel, mus'cle (mŭs'l), n. [ME. muscle, muscule, musselle, fr. AS. muscle, fr. L. musculus mussel, muscle, little mouse. See MUSCLE.] 1. Any of certain marine bivalve mollusks of the genus Mytilus and related genera. The common mussel (Mytilus edulis; see BYSSUS, Illust.) inhabits the shores of both Europe and America, and is much used as food. See HORSE MUSSEL.
2. Any of numerous fresh-water bivalve mollusks of Unio, Anodonta, and related genera, abundant esp. in rivers of the central United States. Their shells are used in making buttons, etc.

mussel bill. The surf scoter.

mussel crab. A small American commensal crab (Pinnotheres maculatus) sometimes found in the mantle cavity of the mussel and other bivalves. The term is often extended to other crabs of the family Pinnotheridae.

mussel digger. The gray whale.

mussel duck. A scaup duck or scoter.

mus'seled (mŭs'ld), adj. Affected with poison from mussels.

mus'sel-er (mŭs'l-ĕr), n. One who gathers mussels mussel picker. The oyster catcher. Local, Eng.

mussel scale. Any of numerous scale insects, as those of the genus Lepidosaphes, shaped like a mussel shell.

mus'si-tate (mŭs'ĭ-tāt), v. i. [L. mussitatus, past part. of mussitare to be silent, murmur.] To mutter. — mus'si-ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n.

mus'suk, mus'suck (mŭs'ŭk), n. [Hind. masak, fr. Skr. maśaka.] A leather bag for water. India.

Mus'sul-man (mŭs'ŭl-mȧn), n.; pl. -MANS (-mȧnz), sometimes -MEN (-mĕn). [Per. & Turk. musulmān, fr. Ar. muslim, pl. muslimūn; cf. F. musulman, Sp. musulmán. See MOSLEM.] A Mohammedan; a Moslem. — Mus'sul-man'ic (-mȧn'ĭk), adj. — Mus'sul-man-ish (mŭs'ŭl-mȧn-ĭsh), adj. — Mus'sul-man-ism (-ĭz'm), n.

Mus'sul-wom'an (-wŏŏm'ăn), n. A female Mussulman. Facetious.

mus-su-ra'na (mōōs'sōō-rä'nȧ), n. [Pg., fr. Tupi mussurana, lit., cord.] A large, harmless, colubrid snake (Cloelia, syn. Pseudoboa, cloelia) of the West Indies and tropical America, which constricts and swallows poisonous snakes.

muss'y (mŭs'ĭ), adj.; MUSS'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); MUSS'I-EST. [From MUSS.] Of the nature of, or characterized by, a muss; disordered; smeared or soiled; rumpled. Colloq., U. S.

mus'sy (mŭs'ĭ). Dial. var. of MERCY.

must (mŭst), n. [AS., fr. L. mustum (sc. vinum), fr. mustus young, new, fresh. See 1st MOTHER.] 1. The expressed juice of the grape, or other fruit, before fermentation; new wine.
2. Obs. a The new or unfermented state; — said of wine. b Any juice in process of fermentation.
3. The refuse of apples or pears from making cider or perry, — used as food for cattle and pigs. Dial. Eng.

must (mŭst), v. i. & t.; MUST'ED; MUST'ING. [See MUSTY.] To become or make musty or moldy. Obs. exc. Dial.

must (mŭst), n. Mustiness; mold.

must (mŭst; 71), v. i. Used, without inflection, as pres., and (sometimes) past, tense. Infinitive and participles lacking. [ME. moste, a pret., could, was free to, was obliged, had to, pres. mot, moot, fr. AS. mōste, pret., mōt, pres.; akin to D. moeten to be obliged, OS. mōtan to be free, to be obliged, OHG. muozan, G. müssen to be obliged, Goth. gamotan to have place, have room, be able, and to E. mete; basic idea, prob.: I have allotted. See METE, v.] An auxiliary of predication used before the infinitive without to, denoting am (or is, are, etc.): a Obliged by physical or logical necessity; as, a man must eat for nourishment; he must be insane. b Necessary to a character or result; as, he must use care. c Morally required; as, we must obey the laws. d Compelled by resolve or perverse desire; must needs; as, if you must laugh; then the fool must come calling. e Dial. May; shall; — chiefly in questions.
☞ The principal verb (usually go or an equivalent), if easily supplied by the context, was formerly often omitted after must; as, I must away. "I must to Coventry." Shak.
☞ A past conditional with must has been supplied by putting the following infinitive in the perfect tense; as, he must have seen, or done, it.
Syn. — See OUGHT.

must (mŭst), n. 1. Obligation; that which one must do.
2. U. S. a In newspaper use, an item marked by the person in chief authority as to be published at a specified time without fail. b An item, story, or book of such value as news or literature as obviously to demand publication.

must (mŭst), n. Musk; also, hair powder. Scot. — v. t. To powder (the hair). Scot.

must (mŭst), adj. Also musth. [Hind. mast ruttish, intoxicated, fr. Per. mast; akin to Skr. matta, past part. of madati he rejoices, is drunk. See MEAT.] Being in a condition of dangerous frenzy, usually connected with sexual excitement; — said of adult male elephants. Cf. ICHOR, n., 3. — n. a The condition of frenzy. b An elephant in must.

mus-tache', mous-tache' (mŭs-tȧsh'; mŭs'tȧsh; or, esp. in Brit. usage, mōōs-tȧsh'; 83; 277), n. [F. moustache, fr. It. mostaccio, mostacchio, fr. ML. mustacia, fr. Gr. mystax mustache, upper lip (cf. bystax mustache), fr. or akin to mastax mouth. See MOUTH.] 1. The hair growing on man's (or, rarely, woman's) upper lip or that on either side of the upper lip; as, a pair of mustaches.
2. Short for MUSTACHE MONKEY.
3. A soldier; — in phrase old mustache. A Gallicism.
4. Zool. a Hair or bristles, like or likened to a human mustache, growing round the mouth of an animal. b Any conspicuous stripe of color on the side of the head, beneath the eye of a bird.

mustache cup. A cup having a guard to keep the mustache out of the liquid while one is drinking.

mus-tached', mous-tached' (mŭs-tȧsht'; mŭs'tȧsht; mōōs-; 83), adj. Wearing, or having, a mustache.

mustache, or moustache, monkey. A guenon of West Africa (Ceropithecus cephus) having a bluish face with a white stripe on the upper lip.

mus-tach'i-al, mous-tach'i-al (mŭs-tȧsh'ĭ-ăl; mōōs-), adj. Zool. Designating a color marking on a bird suggesting a mustache.

mus-ta'chio (mŭs-tä'shō), n.; pl. MUSTACHIOS (-shōz). A mustache. — mus-ta'chioed (-shōd), adj.

mus'ta-fi'na (mŭs'tȧ-fē'nȧ), n. [See MUSTEE, MESTIZO; cf. Sp. fino fine.] The offspring of a white person and a mustee. West Indies.

Mus-tah'fiz (mōōs-tä'fēz), n. Also mus-ta'fuz (-fūz). [Turk. & Ar. mustaḥfiẓ who trusts to another's keeping, a soldier of a garrison.] Prior to 1924, a part of the military organization of the Turkish Empire corresponding generally to the Landsturm of the former German Empire. Conscripts served in it two years (but not beyond the age limit of 40 years).

mus'tang (mŭs'tăng), n. [Sp. mesteño belonging to the graziers, strayed, wild.] 1. The small, hardy, half-wild horse of Texas, New Mexico, etc. Cf. BRONCO.
2. U. S. Navy. A commissioned officer who has risen from the ranks.
3. The color sphinx.

mus'tang-er (mŭs'tăng-ĕr), n. One who catches and trains mustangs. Western U. S.

mustang grape. A woody vine (Vitis candicans) of the southwestern United States, having light-colored berries with a disagreeably pungent pulp.

mustang mint. A fragrant, Californian annual herb (Monardella lanceolata) with rose-purple flowers.

mus'tard (mŭs'tĕrd), n. [OF. moustarde (F. moutarde), fr. L. mustum must; — mustard was prepared for use by being mixed with must. See 1st MUST.] 1. A yellow powder of mustard seed mixed with water for use as a condiment and as a rubefacient or counterirritant. It is called French mustard when prepared by the addition of salt, vinegar, etc., and German mustard when made with Rhine wine or tarragon vinegar, spices, etc. Mustard is a stimulant and diuretic, and in large doses an emetic.
2. The sharp pungent flour of mustard seed from which often some of the fixed oil has been removed, sometimes adulterated with other substances, as tumeric.
3. Any of several plants of the genus Brassica, with lyrately lobed leaves, yellow flowers, and linear beaked pods. The white mustard (B. alba) and the black mustard (B. nigra) are cultivated, esp. in Europe, for their seeds.
b Any of several plants of the mustard family (Brassicaceae). c See TOOTHBRUSH TREE.
4. A color, reddish-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance; — called also mustard yellow. Cf. COLOR.

mustard beetle. A small black European leaf beetle (Phaedon armoraciae) destructive to cruciferous plants.

mus'tard-er (mŭs'tĕr-dĕr), n. One making or selling mustard.

mustard family. The Brassicaceae.

mustard gas. Chem. An oily liquid, $(ClCH_2CH_2)_2S$, used extensively as a shell filling in World War I because of its violent irritant and blistering properties; — so named by the British troops from its odor. Called also dichloroethyl sulphide, yperite, and, from the German shell marking, yellow-cross liquid. It is made by the reaction of ethylene with sulphur monochloride.

mustard oil. 1. An oil from mustard. Specif.: a A fixed semidrying oil of unpleasant odor, obtained from the seeds of black mustard and used in soapmaking and as an illuminant, lubricant, etc. b A fixed oil from Indian-mustard seeds, used as a food. c A colorless or pale yellow essential oil of pungent odor, from the seeds of black mustard, consisting largely of allylisothiocyanate; also, a similar oil from Indian mustard. Under the name oleum sinapis volatile these oils are used in medicine.
2. Chem. a Allyl isothiocyanate, C_3H_5NCS; — called specif. allyl mustard oil. b Hence, any of the isothiocyanates, which as a class are pungent, oily liquids.

mustard plaster. a A plaster prepared by spreading a paste made of mustard, flour, and cold water on cloth. b Pharm. A counterirritant and rubefacient plaster prepared by spreading a mixture of powdered black mustard and a rubber solution on some fabric; — called also mustard paper.

mustard seed. 1. The seed of mustard. Matt. xiii. 31.
2. Dust shot, chiefly used in shooting birds, to minimize injury to the plumage; — also mus'tard-seed' shot.
3. Also mus'tard-seed' coal. See COAL, n., 3 a. U. S.

mustard shrub. A West Indian caper (Capparis ferruginea). Its berries have a flavor suggestive of mustard.

mustard yellow. The color mustard.

mus-tee' (mŭs-tē'; mŭs'tē), n. [From MESTIZO.] Strictly, an octoroon; loosely, any half-breed. West Indies and India.

Mus-te'la (mŭs-tē'lȧ), n. [NL.] A genus (family Mustelidae) consisting of the weasels.

Mus-tel'i-dae (mŭs-tĕl'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. mustela weasel, of uncert. origin. Cf. MOTTLED.] Zool. A large and widely distributed family of carnivorous mammals, including many important fur-bearers, mostly of relatively small size but among the most bloodthirsty of mammals. Important subfamilies are the Melinae, badgers; Mephitinae, skunks; Lutrinae, otters; and Mus'te-li'nae (mŭs'tē-lī'nē), martens, weasels, minks, etc. — mus'te-lid (mŭs'tē-lĭd), n. & adj. — mus'te-line (-lĭn; -līn; 156), adj. & n. — mus'te-li'nous (-lī'nŭs), adj. — mus'te-loid (mŭs'tē-loid), adj. & n.

Mus-te'lus (mŭs-tē'lŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. mustela weasel, also a kind of fish.] Zool. A genus of dogfishes of the family Carchariidae, including the smooth hound.

mus'ter (mŭs'tĕr), v.; -TERED (-tĕrd); -TER-ING. [ME. mustren, prop., to show, fr. OF. mostrer, mustrer, moustrer, monstrer (F. montrer), fr. L. monstrare to show. See MONSTER.] Transitive: 1. To show; display; point out; tell; report. Obs.
2. To assemble, as troops, for a muster.
3. Obs. a To enroll. b To take a census of.
4. Hence: To summon together; to collect and display

All the gay feathers he could muster. L'Estrange.

—, Intransitive: 1. To show; make a show; parade. Obs.
2. To be gathered together for a muster; to come together as parts of a force or body; collect.

Why does my blood thus muster to my heart? Shak.

3. To pass muster. Rare. Lamb.
4. To amount to in numbers; comprise.
Syn. — Gather, marshal. Ant. — Disperse, scatter.

mus'ter (mŭs'tĕr), n. [ME. moustre, fr. OF. mostre, moustre, monstre (F. montre), fr. the v. See MUSTER, v.]
1. A sample; a pattern. Now Rare, except in trade.
2. A show; a display; array. Obs.
3. An assembling or review of troops or a ship's company, as for parade, inspection, exercise, etc.; specif., in the army and navy, such an assembling for roll call.
4. The sum total of a body of troops or ship's company assembled for muster; also, the register or roll of the men.
5. An assemblage; a collection of animals for enumeration; also, the number of persons or things collected.
6. Of peacocks, a flock. Archaic.

mus'ter, n. Short for MUSTERDEVILLERS. Obs.

mus'ter-de-vil'lers (mŭs'tĕr-dē-vĭl'ĕrz), n. [OF. mostier de Villars monastery of Villiers or Villars.] A gray woolen cloth, made at Montivilliers, France, used for clothing (13th to 16th centuries).

mus'ter-er (mŭs'tĕr-ĕr), n. One who musters; specif., Australia, one who rounds up live stock.

---

muskt. Musked. Ref. Sp.
Mus-kwa'ki (mŭs-kwä'kĭ), n. = FOX, n., 5.
Mus'lem (mŭz'lĕm; mŭs'-), -lim (-lĭm). Vars. of MOSLEM. mus'lidge. † MUCILAGE. mus'mon (mŭs'mŏn). Var. of MUSIMON.
Mu'so (mōō'sō). Var. of MUZO.
Mus'pel (mōōs'pĕl), n. Short for MUSPELLSHEIM. mus'quash (mŭs'kwosh), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Virginian musquassus muskrat, Abnaki muskwessu it is red. Cf. MUSKRAT.] = MUSKRAT, 1. [KELLUNGE. mus'quel-lunge. Var. of MUSKELLUNGE. mus'quet, mus'quet-eer', etc. Vars. of MUSKET, MUSKETEER, etc. mus-qui'to (mŭs-kē'tō). Var. of MOSQUITO. muss'a-ble, adj. See -ABLE. — muss'a-bly, mus'sack. Var. of MUSSUK. musse, n. = MOUSE, n., 2. Obs. mus'sick. Var. of MUSSUK. muss'i-ly, adv. of MUSSY. muss'i-ness, n. See -NESS.
mus-soo'la, mus-soo'lah. Vars. of MASOOLA. mustard yellow. = MUSTARD, n., 4. mus'tee-fi'no. Var. of MUSTAFINA. mus'te-lin. Musteline. Ref. Sp. mus'ter-a-ble, adj. See -ABLE.

---

mus'ter-mas'ter (mŭs'tĕr-măs'tĕr; 83), n. An officer or official charged with keeping a muster roll. Obs. exc. Hist.

mus'ter-out', n. Act of mustering out. U. S.

muster roll. Mil. A register of all the officers and men in a military body or ship's company present, or accounted for, on the day of muster; hence, any similar list.

mus'ti-fy (mŭs'tĭ-fī), v. t. To make musty. Rare.

must'n't (mŭs'nt). Contraction of must not. Colloq.

mus'tu-lent (mŭs'tū-lĕnt), adj. [L. mustulentus.] Abounding in, or like, must; fresh and sweet. Obs.

must'y (mŭs'tĭ), adj. Of or pert. to must; made with must.

mus'ty (mŭs'tĭ), adj.; MUS'TI-ER (-tĭ-ĕr); MUS'TI-EST. [Perh. for earlier moisty. See MOIST.] 1. Damp; moist. Obs. 2. Affected with moldiness, or having the rank, pungent, offensive odor and taste which substances of organic origin acquire during warm, moist weather; foul or sour and fetid; moldy; flat; as, musty corn, wine, books. 3. Spoiled by age; stale; trite.

The proverb is somewhat musty. Shak.

4. Dull and spiritless; fogyish. 5. Irritable; testy; gloomy. Obs. exc. Dial.

Syn. — Fusty. Ant. — Fresh, airy; bright, new. — mus'ti-ly (mŭs'tĭ-lĭ), adv. — mus'ti-ness, n.

mus'ty (mŭs'tĭ), v. i. & t. To become or make musty. Rare.

mus'ty, n. A former cheap kind of snuff, of a musty flavor.

‖mu'ta (mōō'tä), n. [It.] Music. Change; — a direction to change tuning or crooks before a change of key.

mu'ta (mōō'tä), n. [Ar. mut'ah enjoyment.] A form of Moslem usufruct marriage for a specified period.

Mu'ta-bil'i-a (mū'tȧ-bĭl'ĭ-ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. mutabilis changeable.] Zool. A suborder of tailed amphibians (order Caudata) comprising the true salamanders, and characterized by the loss of gills in the adult stage.

mu'ta-bil'i-ty (mū'tȧ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n. [F. mutabilité, fr. L. mutabilitas.] Quality, state, or instance of being mutable.

mu'ta-ble (mū'tȧ-b'l), adj. [L. mutabilis, fr. mutare to change; akin to Goth. maidjan to change, corrupt, Skr. methati he alternates, meets, OSlav. mitě alternately, and ult. to Skr. mayate he exchanges. See MEAN common; cf. MEW to molt, MISS to fail of, MUTUAL.] 1. Capable of change or being changed in form, qualities, or nature; subject or liable to change, esp. fortuitous change; also, Gram., capable of mutation.

2. Given to constant or frequent change, as of mood or purpose; fickle. "Most mutable in wishes." Byron.

Syn. — Changeful, alterable, vacillating, variable.

Ant. — Resolute, firm, unyielding, steadfast, unchanging. — mu'ta-ble-ness, n. — mu'ta-bly, adv.

mu'ta-ble, n. Gram. A mutable consonant.

mu'tage (mū'tĭj, F. mü'tȧzh'), n. [F.] The checking of fermentation in the must of grapes, as by adding alcohol.

mu'tant (mū'tȧnt), adj. & n. [L. mutans, -antis, pres. part. of mutare to change.] (One) that undergoes mutation.

mu'ta-ro-ta'tion (mū'tȧ-rō-tā'shŭn), n. [L. mutare to change + rotation.] Physics & Chem. A change in optical rotation, shown by certain solutions (as of dextrose, fructose, lactose) on standing. — mu'ta-ro'tate (-rō'tāt; -rō-tāt'), v. i.

mu'tase (mū'tās), n. [L. mutare to change + -ase.] Biochem. Any enzyme that accelerates oxidation-reduction reactions through the activation of hydrogen and oxygen.

mu'tate (mū'tāt or, esp. Brit., mū-tāt'), v. t. & i. [L. mutatus, past part. of mutare to change.] To alter; to undergo mutation. See MUTATION, 5.

mu'tate (mū'tāt), n. 1. Biol. A mutant.

2. Gram. A word form with mutated vowel.

mu-ta'tion (mū-tā'shŭn), n. [F., fr. L. mutatio, fr. mutare to change. See MUTABLE.] 1. Change; alteration in form or qualities; vicissitude; succession; also, an instance of such change. "Thy strange mutations." Shak.

2. Obs. a Revolution; revolt. b A posthouse.

3. Biol. a Gradual definitely tending variation, such as may be observed in a group of organisms in the fossils of successive geological levels. b As now employed (first by De Vries), a sudden variation, the offspring differing from its parents in some well-marked character or characters, as distinguished from a gradual variation in which the new characters become highly developed only in the course of many generations. The occurrence of mutations, and the hereditary transmission, under some conditions, of the characters so appearing, are well-established facts; whether the process has played an important part in the evolution of the existing species and other groups of organisms is a disputed question. c The result of the above process; a suddenly produced variation.

4. Music. a The change from one hexachord to another in medieval solmization, involving a change of syllable for a given tone. b The shifting of the hand in violin playing. c The change in a boy's voice at puberty. d A mutation stop. See STOP, n.

5. Philol. a Umlaut. b In the Celtic languages, the change, in historic times, of an initial consonant, determined by the final sound of a preceding word; as the change, after a final vowel, of original initial c (pron. k) to Irish ch (pron. K), Welsh g.

Syn. — See CHANGE.

mu-ta'tion-al (mū-tā'shŭn-ȧl; -'l), adj. Of or pertaining to mutation. — mu-ta'tion-al-ly, adv.

mu-ta'tion-ist (-ĭst), n. Biol. A believer in mutation as an important factor in evolution. — mu-ta'tion-ism (-ĭz'm), n.

mutation stop. Organ Building. Any stop sounding pitches other than those indicated by the notes or one of their octaves, as a fifth, a twelfth, a seventeenth, etc.; — opposed to foundation stop.

‖mu-ta'tis mu-tan'dis (mū-tā'tĭs mū-tăn'dĭs). [L.] Necessary changes having been made.

mu'ta-tive (mū'tȧ-tĭv), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, or characterized by, mutation, or sudden variation.

2. Gram. Expressive of change or passing from one place or state into another; — of such verbs as fall, rise, melt.

mu'ta-to'ry (mū'tȧ-tō'rĭ; -tĕr-ĭ), adj. [LL. mutatorius.] Mutable.

mu'ta-wal'li (mōōt'ȧ-wŭl'lē), n.; pl. -LIS (-lēz). [Ar.] The trustee of a wakf, esp. that of a religious building.

Mu-ta'za-la (mōō-tȧ'zȧ-lȧ), n. Also Mu-ta'zi-lite (-zĭ-lĭt). [Ar. mu'tazilah a body of seceders. Cf. MOTAZILITE.] Moham. Law. A member of a Shiite sect founded by Wasil ibn Ata in the 8th century A.D.

mutch (mŭch), n. [MD. mutse, almutse. See 2d AMICE.] A woman's cap; esp., the close linen or muslin cap of an old woman; also, an infant's cap or a man's head covering. Chiefly Dial. Eng. & Scot.

mute (mūt), adj. [L. mutus; akin to Gr. mykos, Skr. mūka, L. mutire to mutter, Gr. my a groan. ME. muet is fr. OF. muet, dim. of mu, fr. L. mutus. Cf. MOTTO, MUTTER, 1st MYSTERY.] 1. Not speaking; uttering no sound; silent. 2. Incapable of speaking; dumb; also, unaccompanied by speech or sound; as, a mute boy; a mute entreaty.

3. Hunting. Not giving tongue; silent; — said of the hounds.

4. Law. Of a prisoner, making no answer, or refusing to plead directly or to put himself on trial, when arraigned. He is then said to stand mute.

5. Mineral. Not giving a ringing sound when struck.

6. Numis. Destitute of inscription or means of identification other than heraldic or symbolical devices.

7. Phonet. a Not uttered; unpronounced. b Produced with a complete momentary closure of the breath passage.

Syn. — Speechless. See DUMB. Ant. — Vocal, oral; noisy.

mute, n. 1. One who does not speak, whether from physical inability, unwillingness, or other cause. Specif.: a A deaf-mute. b Now Rare. A person whose part in a play does not require him to speak. c Among the Turks, an officer or attendant who is selected for his place because he cannot speak. d A person employed by undertakers to attend a funeral as a hired mourner.

Mute, 3 a.

Mute, 3 b.

2. Law. A prisoner who stands mute. See MUTE, adj., 4.

3. Music. Any device on a musical instrument serving to deaden, soften, or muffle its tone; esp.: a A metal, ivory, or wood clamp that can be attached to the bridge of a violin or similar instrument. b A pear-shaped pipe or pad inserted in the bell of a wind instrument. Cf. SORDINE. c One of the dampers of a piano action.

4. Phonet. a A letter representing no sound; a silent letter. b A consonant formed with complete momentary stoppage of the breath, as p, b, t, d, k, g. See STOP, n.

mute (mūt), v. t.; MUT'ED (mūt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); MUT'ING (mūt'ĭng). To muffle or deaden the sound of, as by a mute; to attach the mute of.

mute (dial. mōōt), v. t. & i. [L. mutare to change.] To molt. Obs. exc. Dial.

mute, v. i. = MOOT, to complain. Obs. Scot.

mute (mūt), v. t. & i. [MF. mutir, fr. OF. esmeutir (F. émeutir), esmeltir, of Teut. origin; cf. ODan. smeite to digest, ON. melta. See MELT.] To void (excrement); to dung. Obs. — n. Dung. Obs.

mute, n. [OF. muete a riot, pack of hounds (F. meute). See MUTINY.] A pack of hounds; also, a cry of the hounds. Obs.

mute, n. A mule. Dial. Eng.

mute, v. t. To subject to mutage.

mute e. In English, a silent letter e, used esp. to show a preceding vowel long, as in note; in French, "e muet," or "e féminin," the neutral vowel sound of e, as in petit; also, an unstressed e at the end of a syllable, bearing no written accent, formerly sounded like e in Fr. dě, but now regularly omitted unless its omission would result in bringing together two or more consonants in a combination difficult to pronounce, as in Mer de Glace (mâr' dē glȧs'). In singing, the mute e is still a full vowel, as in belle dame (bĕ'lē dȧ'mē) unless another vowel immediately precedes or follows, as in aimaient (ē'mâ'), quatre amis (kȧ'tr' ȧ'mē'). In poetry the same rule obtains; or the mute e may be omitted and a slight pause, or a lengthening of the preceding syllable, may represent its metrical value.

Mu-ter' (mōō-tĕr'), n. sing. & pl. One of a Bedouin nomadic tribe in Arabia. Other tribes are the Ateba, Harb, and Shammar.

mu'ter (mōō'tĕr). Var. of MULTURE. Scot. & N. of Eng.

mu-tes'cence (mū-tĕs'ĕns; -'ns), n. [LL. mutescere, v.] A becoming or growing mute, or silent, as of a final letter.

mu'tes-sar'if (mōō'tĕ-sär'ĭf), n. [Turk. muteṣarif, fr. Ar. muṭaṣarrif one in charge of, master.] In the Ottoman Empire, an administrative authority of any of certain sanjaks; also, in modern Iraq, the head of a sanjak.

mu'tes-sar'i-fat (-ĭ-făt), n. [Ar. muṭaṣarrifīyah.] A sanjak whose head was a muttessarif.

mute swan. The common white swan (Cygnus olor), of Europe and western Asia, which produces no loud notes.

muth'-lab'ben (mŭth'lăb'ĕn), n. [Heb. mūth-labbēn.] Bib. A term perhaps meant to indicate the opening words of a song to the melody of which the psalm was to be sung.

muth'mann-ite (mōōt'män-ĭt), n. [After W. Muthmann, Ger. chemist.] Mineral. A silver gold monotelluride, (Ag,Au)Te.

mu'tic (mū'tĭk), adj. [L. muticus. See MUTILATE.] 1. Zool. Lacking the usual defensive parts; — said of toothless jaws, clawless digits, etc.

2. Also mu'ti-cous (mū'tĭ-kŭs). Bot. Without an awn or point.

mu'ti-late (mū'tĭ-lāt), adj. 1. Mutilated.

2. Zool. a Rare. Having no hind limbs, as a cetacean. b Abbreviated; — said of the elytra of certain insects.

mu'ti-late, n. Zool. A cetacean or sirenian. Obs.

mu'ti-late (mū'tĭ-lāt), v. t.; -LAT'ED (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -LAT'ING (-lāt'ĭng). [L. mutilatus, past part. of mutilare to mutilate, fr. mutilus maimed; akin to L. muticus docked, OIr. mut short.] 1. To cut off or remove a limb or essential part of; to maim; cripple; hack; as, to mutilate the body, a statue, etc.; often, reflexively, to castrate.

2. To destroy or remove a material part of, so as to render imperfect; as, to mutilate the orations of Cicero.

Syn. — Mangle, injure, dismember.

— mu'ti-la'tive (-lā'tĭv), adj. — mu'ti-la'tor (-lā'tĕr), n. — mu'ti-la-to'ry (-lȧ-tō'rĭ; -tĕr-ĭ), adj.

mu'ti-la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [LL. mutilatio.] Act or instance of mutilating, or state of being mutilated; deprivation of a limb or of an essential part, esp. by excision.

Mu-til'la (mū-tĭl'ȧ), n. [NL., perh. fr. L. mutilus mutilated.] Zool. A genus of parasitic wasps having wingless females. See VELVET ANT. It is the type of a large family, Mu-til'li-dae (-ĭ-dē). — mu-til'lid (-ĭd), n. & adj.

mu'ti-neer' (mū'tĭ-nēr'), n. [F. mutinier. See MUTINY.] One guilty of mutiny. — v. i. To mutiny.

mu'ti-nous (mū'tĭ-nŭs), adj. [See MUTINY.] 1. Disposed to mutiny; in a state of mutiny; seditious; rebellious; hence, turbulent; unruly; as, mutinous passions.

The city was becoming mutinous. Macaulay.

2. Constituting or characterized by mutiny; as, mutinous acts; expressive of an inclination or readiness to, or tending to incite to, mutiny; as, a mutinous speech.

Syn. — Intractable, unruly, refractory.

Ant. — Docile, complaisant.

—mu'ti-nous-ly, adv. — mu'ti-nous-ness, n.

mu'ti-nus (mū'tĭ-nŭs), n. [L.] The Priapean Mutunus.

mu'ti-ny (mū'tĭ-nĭ), n.; pl. -NIES (-nĭz). [From mutine to mutiny, fr. F. se mutiner, fr. mutin stubborn, mutinous, fr. OF. muete riot, fr. (assumed) VL. movita, fr. L. movere to move. See MOVE.] 1. Violent commotion; tumult; strife. Obs.

2. Insurrection against, or refusal to obey, constituted authority, particularly military or naval authority; concerted revolt against the rules of discipline or the lawful commands of a superior officer; hence, generally, forcible resistance to rightful authority; insubordination.

Syn. — See REBELLION.

— the Mutiny. The Sepoy Mutiny of 1857–58.

mu'ti-ny, v. i.; MU'TI-NIED (-nĭd); MU'TI-NY-ING (-nĭ-ĭng). To rise against, or refuse to obey, lawful authority in military or naval service; to excite, or to be guilty of, mutiny or mutinous conduct; also, Obs., to fall into strife; to quarrel. — v. t. To incite to mutiny or revolt. Rare.

Mutiny Act. Law. An English statute re-enacted annually from 1689 to 1879 to regulate the discipline of military forces. It was repealed and succeeded in 1881 by the Army Act which is also re-enacted annually.

Mu-ti'si-a (mū-tĭsh'ĭ-ȧ; -tĭs'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., after José Celestino Mutis, Sp. botanist.] Bot. A large genus of South American shrubs, often climbing, of the thistle family.

mut'ism (mūt'ĭz'm), n. Condition or state of being mute, or without power of speech; specif.: a Deaf-mutism. b Persistence in not speaking on occasions calling for speech, characteristic of dementia praecox. — mut'ist (-ĭst), n. & adj. — mu-tis'tic (mū-tĭs'tĭk), adj.

mu'tism (mū'tĭz'm), n. Mutage.

mu'tive (mū'tĭv), adj. Tending to change. — mu-tiv'i-ty (mū-tĭv'ĭ-tĭ), n.

mu'to-scope (mū'tō-skōp), n. [L. mutare to change + -scope.] A simple form of animated-picture viewing device in which the series of views is printed on paper and mounted around the periphery of a wheel. — mu'to-scop'ic (mū'tō-skŏp'ĭk), adj.

Mutoscope. 1 Pictures mounted around Wheel; 2 Catch for opening out the Pictures successively in front of Binocular Eyepiece (3).

mut-sud'dy, moot-sud'dy (mōōt-sŭd'ĭ), n. [Hind. & Ar. muṭaṣaddi.] A native accountant or clerk. Anglo-Ind.

mutt (mŭt), n. Also mut. [From muttonhead.] Slang, a An insignificant, commonplace, or stupid person. b A mongrel dog; cur.

mut'ter (mŭt'ĕr), v.; MUT'TERED (-ĕrd); MUT'TER-ING. [ME. muteren, moteren, prob. of imitative origin; cf. L. mutire, mutire. Cf. MUTE.] Intransitive: 1. To utter words indistinctly or with a low voice and lips partly closed, esp. in expressing complaint or anger; to grumble; growl; as, to mutter to oneself.

2. To sound with a low, rumbling noise.

The muttering thunder rolls. Pope.

—, Transitive: To utter with imperfect articulations, or with a low voice.

mut'ter, n. Repressed or obscure utterance; murmur.

mut'ter-er (-ĕr), n. One who mutters.

mut'ter-ing, adj. That mutters. — mut'ter-ing-ly, adv.

mutter, or mattar, pea. The field pea.

‖Mut'ter-recht' (mōōt'ĕr-rĕkt'), n. [G.] = MATRIARCHY.

mut'ton (mŭt'n), n. [ME. motoun, fr. OF. moton, molton, a ram (F. mouton sheep), fr. ML. multo, of Celt. origin; cf. OIr. molt ram, W. mollt.] 1. The flesh of a sheep nearly one year of age or older.

2. A sheep; also, a carcass of a sheep. Now Rare.

3. Flesh for lust; a prostitute. Obs. Slang.

4. A candle made of mutton tallow. Archaic.

mut'ton. Var. of MOUTON.

mut'ton-bird' (mŭt'n-bûrd'), n. Any of several large petrels and shearwaters of the genera Pterodroma and Puffinus found in the South Seas; esp., Puffinus tenuirostris, destroyed in numbers for its oil and feathers.

mutton cane. A slender panic grass (Panicum dichotomum) of the eastern United States, used for sheep forage.

mut'ton-chop', adj. Having a form suggestive of a mutton chop, or roundish at one end and narrow and prolonged at the other; — said esp. of side whiskers (mutton chops).

mutton chops. The cleavers Galium aparine.

mut'ton-fish' (mŭt'n-fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. a A mojarra (Diapterus, syn. Gerres, olisthostomus) of southern Florida and the West Indies. b A pargo (Lutianus analis). c See EELPOUT, 1. d An ear shell, or abalone, esp. Haliotis naevosa in Sydney, and H. iris (called also pauá) in New Zealand. The edible contents of the shell are said to resemble mutton in flavor.

1/10

Muttonfish (Diapterus olisthostomus). (1/8) mutton fist. Slang. a A big brawny fist or hand. b Print. An index or "fist."

---

musth. Var. of MUST, adj.

mus'ti, mus'ty. Vars. of MUSTEE.

mus-ti'zo. Var. of MESTIZO.

mustours. ✝ MUSTER.

Mus'ul-man. Var. of MUSSULMAN.

mu'su-mee. Var. of MOUSMEE.

mut (mŭt). Var. of MUTT.

Mut (mōōt), n. [Egypt., mother.] See AMEN.

mu'ta-bl. Mutable. Ref. Sp.

mu'ta-cism (mū'tȧ-sĭz'm). Var. of MYTACISM.

mu'ta-gal'la (mōō'tȧ-găl'ȧ), n. sing. & pl. [Origin uncert.] See WEIGHT, Table.

mu'ta-sar'if. Var. of MUTESSARIF.

mu'ta-scope. Var. of MUTOSCOPE.

‖mu-ta'to no'mi-ne, de te fa'bu-la nar-ra'tur (nōm'ĭ-nē, fȧb'ū-lȧ). [L.] The name being changed, the story is told of you, i. e., it fits you.

Horace (Satires, I. i. 69–70).

mutch'kin (mŭch'kĭn), n. [Obs. D. mudsken. Cf. MUDDLE.] See MEASURE, Table.

mute. ✝ MOOT; MOTE, may.

mut'ed-ly (mūt'ĕd-lĭ; -ĭd-lĭ; 119), adv. of MUTED.

mute'ly, adv. of MUTE.

mute'ness, n. See -NESS.

muth (mōōt), n.; pl. -EN (-ĕn). [G. dial., fr. L. modius, or modus, measure.] See MEASURE, Table.

muth (mūth). Var. of MATH. India.

muthe. ✝ MOOD, MOUTH.

Muth'mann's liq'uid (mōōt'mănz). See TETRABROMOETHANE.

muth'mas'sel (mōōt'măs'zĕl), n. sing. & pl. [G. dial.] See MEASURE, Table.

mu'thos. Var. of MYTHOS.

mu'ti-lous, adj. [L. mutilus. See MUTILATE.] Mutilated; defective; imperfect. Obs.

mu'ti-na'do, n. [Pseudo-Sp.] = MUTINEER. Obs.

mu'tine (mū'tĭn), n. [F. mutin.] A mutiny; a mutineer. Obs. — v. i. & t. [F. mutiner.] To mutiny; to urge to rebel. Obs.

mu'ti-ner, n. = MUTINEER. Obs.

mu'ti-nid. Mutinied. Ref. Sp.

mu-tin'i-ty, n. = MUTINY. Obs.

mu'ti-nize, v. i. To mutiny. Obs.

Mu-tis'i-a'ce-ae (mū-tĭsh'ĭ-ā'sē-ē; -tĭs'-), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mutisia + -aceae.] Syn. of CARDUACEAE (in part).

muts'je (mōōts'yĭ; mōōt'sĕ), n. [D. See MUTCHKIN.] See MEASURE, Table.

mut'terd. Muttered. Ref. Sp.

mutton grass. A bluegrass (Poa fendleriana) of drier parts of the western U. S., valuable as forage.

mutton ham. a Chiefly Scot. A leg of mutton cured like a ham. b Local, U. S. A large sail on certain fishing boats.

mut'ton-head' (mŭt''n·hĕd'), n. A dull-witted person. Colloq. — mut'ton·head'ed (-hĕd'ĕd; -Id; 66; 119), adj. Both Colloq.

mut'ton-leg'ger (-lĕg'ĕr), n. Naut. A leg-of-mutton sail or a boat using such sails.

mut'ton·mon'ger (-mŭng'gĕr), n. Obs. a A pimp. b A gluttonous eater of mutton.

mutton quad. Print. An em quad. Slang.

mutton snapper. = MUTTONFISH b.

mutton tallow. See TALLOW, 2 a. mutton tops. a The cleavers Galium aparine. b The goosefoot Chenopodium album.

mut'ton·wood' (mŭt''n·wŏŏd'), n. A New Zealand shrub or small tree (Olearia colensoi). It grows on islands frequented by muttonbirds.

mu'tu·al (mū'tū·ăl), adj. [F. mutuel, fr. L. mutuus, orig., exchanged, borrowed, lent; akin to L. mutare to change. See MUTABLE.] 1. Entertained, proffered, or exerted by each with respect to the other of two, or each of the others of a group; reciprocally given and received; as, mutual love, advantage, aversion, etc.; a mutual promise. Also, having the same relation to each other; as, mutual foes. 2. Possessed, experienced, or done by two or more persons or things at the same time; joint; as, mutual effort. This use is now avoided by careful writers. 3. Belonging to each, respectively, of two or more associates; respective; as, their mutual arms. 4. Marked by intimacy or familiarity. Obs. 5. Responsive. "Those mutual eyes." Byron. 6. Pertaining to a plan of operation whereby the members of an organization share in the profits and expenses. See BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION. 7. Insurance. Designating, or pertaining to, the method or plan (mutual plan) in which the policyholders constitute the members of the insuring company or association, electing their own managers or directors and sharing the profits. The principal forms are: assessment, when the insured may be assessed as needed; nonassessable, when no such assessments may be imposed; deposit premium, when policies are issued at a fixed premium; local, town, or county mutual, when insurance operations are limited locally to a small and restricted area; state, when operations extend over one or more states; farmers', when operations are practically confined to farm properties; factory, when the insurer specializes in the insurance of factory properties.

Syn. — MUTUAL, COMMON. That is COMMON in which two or more persons or things share (esp.) equally or alike; MUTUAL properly implies reciprocal action; as, "They had all things common" (Acts iv. 32); "grounds common to both sides" (Coleridge); "the common enemy of man" (Shak.); "The English and French have . . . reasons to induce them to mutual hatred" (Goldsmith); "the bond of . . . mutual admiration" (Stevenson). See RECIPROCAL.

mutual aid. Reciprocal aid among men in social groups, insects in swarms, or animals in flocks, herds, or packs. — mu'tu·al·aid', adj.

mutual benefit society. = BENEFIT SOCIETY b.

mutual conductance. Elec. In an electron tube, the quotient of the change in plate current by the change in grid voltage producing it, the plate voltage remaining unchanged.

mutual exchange. = DOUBLE DECOMPOSITION.

mutual gable. Scots Law. A party wall.

mutual inductance. See INDUCTANCE, n., 1 b.

mutual induction. See INDUCTION, n., 6.

mutual inductor. Elec. A device providing mutual inductance, usually consisting of two inductance coils not connected by conductors.

mu'tu·al·ism (mū'tū·ăl·Iz'm), n. 1. Ethics. The doctrine or practice of mutual dependence as the condition of individual and social welfare. F. Harrison. H. Spencer. 2. Biol. Symbiosis beneficial to both symbionts. 3. Sociol. A socialistic theory advocating a social organization based on common ownership, effort, and control, and regulated by sentiments of mutual help and brotherhood. — mu'tu·al·ist, n. & adj. — mu'tu·al·is'tic (-Is'tĭk), adj.

mu'tu·al'i·ty (-ăl'I·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). 1. State or quality of being mutual; quality of reciprocity; interchange; interaction; interdependence. 2. An interchange of kind acts or expressions.

mu'tu·al·ize (mū'tū·ăl·Iz), v. t. & i.; -IZED (-Izd); -IZ'ING (-Iz'Ĭng). 1. To make or become mutual. 2. Finance. To organize or reorganize (a corporation) so as to place a substantial amount of the common stock in the hands of its employees or customers. Colloq. — mu'tu·al·i·za'tion (-I·zā'shŭn; -I·zĭ'-), n.

mutual loan association. See BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

mutual parasitism. Biol. Mutualism.

mutual plan. See MUTUAL, adj., 7.

mutual savings bank. A savings bank without capital, the depositors of which share in the profits.

mutual wall. Scots Law. A party wall.

mutual wills. Law. Wills made by two or more persons containing similar or identical testamentary provisions in favor of each other or of the same beneficiary.

mu'tu·ar'y (mū'tū·ĕr'I or, esp. Brit., -ĕr·I), n.; pl. -IES (-Iz). [L. mutuarius, fr. mutuus borrowed.] Rom. & Civil Law. The borrower in a contract of mutuum.

mu'tu·a·ti'tious (mū'tū·ā·tĭsh'ŭs), adj. [L. mutuaticius.] Borrowed. Obs.

mu'tule (mū'tūl), n. [F., fr. L. mutulus. Cf. MODILLION.] Arch. A flat block projecting under the corona of the Doric cornice, in the same situation as the modillion of other orders. See GUTTA, Illust.; ORDER, n., Illust. — mu'tu·lar'y (-tū·lĕr'I; -lĕr·I), adj.

Mu'tu·nus (mū'tŭ·nŭs), n. [L.] Rom. Relig. An ancient Italic god of marriage, in late times equated with Priapus.

mu'tu·um (mū'tū·ŭm), n.; pl. MUTUA (-ä). [L., prop. neut. of mutuus borrowed, lent. See MUTUAL.] Rom. & Civil Law. A loan of fungible things to be restored in kind and of the same quantity and quality; a contract in which movables are so loaned.

mux (mŭks; dial. also mŏŏks), n. & v. t. Mess; botch. Dial.

‖muy (mōō'ē), adv. [Sp.] Very; greatly.

mu·zhik', mu·zjik' (mōō·zhĭk'; mōō'zhĭk), n. [Russ. muzhik.] A Russian peasant.

Mu'zo (mōō'sō; 267), n. An Indian of an extinct Chibchan tribe, related to the Colimas, formerly dwelling in Colombia.

muzz (mŭz), v. i. Slang, Eng. a To study; "grind." b To idle. — v. t. To make muzzy. Slang, Eng.

muzz, n. Slang, Eng. a One who muzzes, or studies hard. b A muddle.

muz'zle (mŭz'l), n. [ME. mosel, fr. OF. musel (F. museau) muzzle or snout, fr. ML. musellum, dim. of musus, of uncert. origin. Cf. CAMUS, 1st MUSE.] 1. The projecting jaws and nose of an animal, as a horse or ape; a snout; hence, jocosely, the human mouth or face. 2. A fastening or covering (as a band or cage) for the mouth of an animal, to prevent eating, vicious biting, etc. 3. The mouth of a thing; the end for entrance or discharge; as, the muzzle of a gun. 4. The clevis of a plow. 5. A contrivance worn over mouth and nose for filtering dust or noxious gases; a respirator; a gas mask.

muz'zle (mŭz'l), v.; MUZ'ZLED (-ld); MUZ'ZLING (-lĭng). [F. museler.] Transitive: 1. To mask; to muffle up. Obs. 2. To bind the muzzle of; to fasten the mouth of, so as to prevent biting or eating; hence, figuratively, to bind; to sheathe; to restrain from speech or action; gag.

My dagger muzzled, lest it should bite its master. Shak.

3. To fondle with the closed mouth; to press or rub with the muzzle or snout. Obs. 4. Dial. Eng. a To root or grub with the muzzle, or snout; — said esp. of pigs. b To muffle, esp. church bells. c To make muzzy. d To handle roughly; maul; thrash. 5. Naut. a To render (a ship) inactive. b To take in (a sail).

——, Intransitive: To push or root about with the muzzle.

muz'zle-load'er, n. A gun that is loaded through the muzzle. Cf. BREECHLOADER. — muz'zle-load'ing (66), adj.

muz'zler (mŭz'lĕr), n. One who or that which muzzles or restrains. Specif.: a A muzzle-loader. b Boxing. A hit on the mouth. c Naut. A head-on breeze.

muzzle ring. Mil. A ring or ringlike projection near the muzzle of a piece.

muzzle velocity. Ballistics. The velocity of a projectile at the moment of leaving the muzzle of a gun.

muz'zle·wood' (mŭz''l·wŏŏd'), n. The black sally (Eucalyptus stellulata); also, its wood, used for muzzles. Australia.

muz'zy (mŭz'I), adj. 1. Dull-spirited; muddled or confused in mind; stupid with drink. 2. Dull; depressing; as, a muzzy day; also, blurred; fuzzy.

my (mī; 71), pron. [ME. mi, fr. min. See MINE; cf., for loss of n, A, adj., AN, adj.] Possessive case of I. See MINE.

my, adj. 1. Of or belonging to me or myself as possessor; due to me; inherent in me; associated or connected with me; as, my head; defending my rights; my relatives. 2. Of or relating to me as author, doer, giver, agent, etc.; effected by me; experienced by me as subject; as, my son; before my downfall; an accident prevented my going on. 3. Of or relating to me as object of an action; experienced by me as object; as, my promotion; my disparagers.

Who will bear my hateful sight in heaven? M. Arnold.

4. That I have to do with or am supposed to possess or to have knowledge or a share of or some special interest in; as, I brought down my redskin every time I shot. 5. Preceding ceremonial titles of address; as, my lord; my lady; — often used between the noun and an attributive adjective; as, "Good my mother," "dear my liege." 6. Expressing a relation of kinship, endearment, or familiarity, and used vocatively; as, come here, my son; my dear; my good man.

my (mĭ), interj. An exclamation expressing surprise, shortened from ejaculatory phrases, as "my word!"

my-. = MYO- (which see), as in:

myalgia	myatonia	myectomize
myalgic	myatonic	myectomy
myasthenia	myatony	myesthesia
myasthenic	myatrophy	myitis

-mya. [NL.] A combining form from Greek mys, meaning muscle, used in conchology, as in Dimya, Isomya.

My'a (mī'ä), n. [L., a kind of mussel. Cf. MYARIAN.] Zool. The genus of bivalves including the common long clam, type of a suborder My·a'ce·a (mĭ·ā'shē·ä) of the Eulamellibranchia, containing other allied forms that have well-developed siphons, gaping valves, and a pallial sinus.

my'al·ism (mī'ăl·Iz'm), n. [often cap.] A cult among West Indian negroes, akin to obeah, and probably of West African origin. — my'al (mī'ăl), adj.

my'all (mī'ôl), n. [Native name of the tree in Victoria.] Bot. a Any of various Australian acacias having hard fragrant wood; as: Acacia pendula, the true myall (called also bastard gidgee, weeping myall, and boree); A. aneura, the mulga; A. homalophylla, the gidgee A. glaucescens, the bastard myall; A. acuminata, sometimes also called bastard myall, etc. b The fragrant wood (myall wood) of any of these trees, often used by the natives for spears.

my'all (mī'ôl), n. [Native name.] An uncivilized native. — adj. Wild; uncivilized. Both Australia.

My·a'ri·a (mĭ·ā'rĭ·ä), n. pl. [NL. See MYA.] Zool. A group of marine bivalves; — nearly equivalent to Myacea.

-my·a'ri·a (-mĭ·ā'rĭ·ä). [NL.] Zool. A combining form, -mya + -aria, as in Cyclomyaria, Heteromyaria. Derivative adjectives are formed in -myarian.

my·ar'i·an (mĭ·ăr'I·ăn; 79), adj. [Gr. mys, myos, muscle, also a shellfish. See MUSCLE, MUSSEL.] Zool. Pertaining to or designating classification of bivalves according to the number and position of adductors.

my bird sings. Card Playing. A variety of commerce.

my·cele' (mī·sēl'), n. Bot. Mycelium.

My·ce'li·a–Ste·ril'i·a (mĭ·sē'lĭ·ä·stē·rĭl'I·ä), n. pl. [NL. See MYCELIUM; STERILE.] Bot. A group of certain form genera of imperfect fungi which have no known spore stage. See RHIZOCTONIA, SCLEROTIUM C, OZONIUM.

my·ce'li·um (mī·sē'lĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -LIA (-ä). [NL., fr. Gr. mykēs mushroom; lit., slimy, and akin to L. mucus. See MUCUS.] Bot. The mass of interwoven hyphae forming the vegetative portion of the thallus in fungi; also, the similar mass or web of filaments formed by certain of the higher bacteria. In the larger forms, as the mushrooms, it forms cobwebby filaments (mushroom "spawn") penetrating the soil. The mycelium of the smaller parasitic fungi is invisible to the naked eye, but ramifies through the tissues of the host, sending its spore fruits to the surface. See HYPHA. — my·ce'li·al (-ăl), adj. — my·ce'li·an (-ăn), adj. — my·ce'li·oid (-oid), adj. — my'ce·loid (mī'sē·loid), adj.

Mu·ys'ca (mw·ēs'kä), n. = CHIBCHA, n., a.

mu·yu'sa, n. See BORZICACTUS.

Muz·ar'ab, Muz·ar'a·bic, etc. Vars. of MOZARAB, MOZARABIC, etc.

Mu'zio gam'bit (mōōt'syō). See 1st CHESS.

muz'l. Muzzle. Ref. Sp.

muz'ld. Muzzled. Ref. Sp.

mu·zoo'na. Var. of MOUZOUNA. See COIN, Table.

muz'zi·ly, adv. of MUZZY.

muz'zi·ness (mŭz'I·nĕs; 119), n. See -NESS.

my-. Mi-. Ref. Sp.

my·a'sis (mĭ·ā'sĭs). Var. of myc-. = MYCO-.

my·ce'li·a (mĭ·sē'lĭ·ä), n., pl. of MYCELIUM.

My·ce'tes (mĭ·sē'tēz), n. [NL.] Syn. of ALOGATTA.

My·ce'to·phil'i·das (mĭ·sē'tō·fĭl'I·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. mycēto- + -phil + -idae.] Zool. See FUNGUS GNAT. — my·ce'to·phil'id (-fĭl'Id), adj. & n.

My'co·bac·te'ri·a (mī'kō·băk·tē'rĭ·ä'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of ACTINOMYCETALES.

my'co·des'moid (-dĕs'moid), n. [myco- + desmoid.] = SCIRRHOUS CORD.

Of or pertaining to the ancient city of Mycenae in Argolis; also, formerly, AEGEAN (sense 2). Mycenaean is properly used of objects in the Mediterranean area of the time of Mycenae's political ascendancy (about 1400–1100 B.C.) and related in style to those found at Mycenae.

Mycenaean Vase.

Mycenaean marble. A cheap variety of marble, with artificially colored veins, generally of yellow or brown tones.

-my'ces (-mī'sēz). [NL. See MYCO-.] Bot. A combining form from Greek mykēs, meaning fungus, as in Actinomyces, Phycomyces.

-my·ce'tes (-mĭ·sē'tēz). [NL. See -myces.] Bot. A combining form from Greek mycētes, pl. of mykēs, fungus, used in names of large classes, as in Ascomycetes, Schizomycetes. For a member of the class the singular -my·cete' (-mĭ·sēt') is used. Derivative adjectives are formed in -my·ce'tous (-mĭ·sē'tŭs) and -my·ce'tic (-tĭk).

my'ce·tism (mī'sē·tĭz'm), n. [myceti- + -ism.] Med. Mushroom poisoning.

my·ce'to- (mĭ·sē'tō-), mycet-. Bot. & Med. A combining form, mykēs, mykētos, meaning fungus, as in Mycetozoa, mycetoma, and the following (see GENESIS, etc.).

mycetogenesis	mycetogenic	mycetological
mycetogenetic	mycetogenous	mycetology

my·ce'to·cyte (-sĭt), n. [myceto- + -cyte.] Zool. In certain insects, a type of cell containing unicellular fungi believed to be symbiotic.

my·ce'toid (mĭ·sē'toid), adj. [mycet- + -oid.] Bot. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, a fungus.

my'ce·to'ma (mī'sē·tō'mä), n.; pl. -TOMATA (-mä·tä), -TOMAS (-mäz). [NL., fr. mycet- + -oma.] Med. A disease of the skin and underlying tissue, generally of the foot, caused by funguslike bacteria of the genus Actinomyces (as A. madurae and A. freeri) and characterized by nodules, suppurating and discharging sinuses, and destruction of the underlying bones. Cf. MADURA FOOT. — my'ce·tom'a·tous (-tŏm'ä·tŭs; -tō'mä·tŭs), adj.

My·ce'to·phag'i·dae (mĭ·sē'tō·făj'I·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mycetophagus, type genus (see MYCETOPHAGOUS) + -idae.] Zool. A family of small, oval, usually hairy beetles with five-jointed tarsi, which generally feed on fungi.

my'ce·toph'a·gous (mī'sē·tŏf'ä·gŭs), adj. [myceto- + -phagous.] Fungivorous.

my·ce'tous (mĭ·sē'tŭs), adj. Mycetoid.

My·ce'to·zo'a (mĭ·sē'tō·zō'ä), n. pl. [NL., fr. myceto- + -zoa.] Zool. The Myxomycetes; — when regarded as an order or class of animals. — my·ce'to·zo'an (-ăn), adj. & n. — my·ce'to·zo'on (-ŏn), n.

my'co- (mī'kō-), myc-. [See MYCELIUM.] A combining form from Greek mykēs, meaning fungus, as in mycology, mycosis; — used also in Med. for mucus, mucous membrane, as in my'co·cyte, my'co·der·mi'tis, my'co·gas·tri'tis, my'co·myr'in·gi'tis, and bacteria, as in my'co·hae'mi·a, my'co·he'mi·a, my'co·pro'te·in. See -CYTE, etc.

My'co·bac·te'ri·a'ce·ae (-băk·tē'rĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mycobacterium, type genus + -aceae.] Bacteriol. A family of rod-shaped bacteria (order Actinomycetales), rarely filamentous and with only occasional slight branching.

My'co·bac·te'ri·um (-tē'rĭ·ŭm; 116), n. [NL., fr. myco- + bacterium.] Bacteriol. a A genus of nonmotile, acid-fast, aerobic bacteria of the family Mycobacteriaceae, usually slender. They are difficult to stain. M. (syn. Bacillus) tuberculosis hominis causes tuberculosis in man; M. t. bovis, in cattle and also in man. M. (syn. Bacillus) leprae causes leprosy. Some strains are saprophytic. b [not cap.; pl. -TERIA (-ä).] Any organism of this genus, or, broadly, of allied genera.

my'co·ce·cid'i·um (mĭ'kō·sē·sĭd'I·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. myco- + Gr. kēkis, -idos, gallnut.] Bot. A gall produced by the attacks of a parasitic fungus.

my'co·der'ma (mī'kō·dûr'mä), n. [NL., fr. myco- + derma.] 1. The membrane, or "mother," which forms on wine or other liquors during fermentation. An organism forming it is called my'co·derm (mī'kō·dûrm). 2. [cap.] Bot. A form genus of yeastlike fungi of uncertain relationships, which do not form ascospores but vegetate in contact with the air forming a scum without causing alcoholic fermentation, as at the surface of wine and beer. 3. [cap.] Bacteriol. Syn. of ACETOBACTER. — my'co·der'ma·toid (-dûr'mä·toid), adj. — my'co·der'ma·tous (-mä·tŭs), adj. — my'co·der'mic (-mĭk), adj.

my'co·do·ma'ti·um (-dō·mā'shĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. myco- + Gr. dōmation chamber.] Bot. = MYCOCECIDIUM.

My'co·gone (mī'kō·gōn), n. [myco- + -gone.] Bot. A form genus of imperfect fungi (family Moniliaceae). M. perniciosa causes a disease of cultivated mushrooms.

my'coid (mī'koid), adj. [myc- + -oid.] Fungoid.

my·col'o·gy (mĭ·kŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [myco- + -logy.] The branch of botany dealing with fungi. Hence, fungal life, as of a region; as, the mycology of Michigan; the properties and life phenomena exhibited by a fungus, fungus type, or group; as, the mycology of a mold, of a swamp. — my'co·log'ic (mĭ'kō·lŏj'Ik), adj. — my'co·log'i·cal (-I·kăl), adj — my'co·log'i·cal·ly, adv. — my·col'o·gist (mĭ·kŏl'ō·jĭst), n. — my·col'o·gize (-jīz), v. i.

My'co·my·ce'tes (mĭ'kō·mĭ·sē'tēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. myco- + mycetes.] Bot. In Brefeld's classification, a class of fungi including the Ascomycetes and Basidiomycetes. Cf. PHYCOMYCETES. — my'co·my·cete' (-mĭ·sēt'), n. — my'co·my·ce'tous (-tŭs), adj.

my·coph'a·gy (mĭ·kŏf'ä·jĭ), n. [myco- + -phagy.] The eating of fungi or mushrooms. — my·coph'a·gist (mĭ·kŏf'ä·jĭst), n. — my·coph'a·gous (-gŭs), adj.

My'co·pla'na (mĭ'kō·plā'nä), n. [NL., fr. myco- + L. planus, plana, flat.] Bacteriol. A genus of Gram-negative bacteria of the family Mycobacteriaceae, occurring in the soil and capable of deriving energy from aromatic compounds, as phenol.

my'co·plasm (mī'kō·plăz'm), n. Also my'co·plas'ma (-plăz'mä). [NL. mycoplasma, fr. myco- + -plasm, plasma.] Bot. A form of a fungous body, which may be merged with the protoplasm of the host in the seeds or other dormant structures, and later give rise to a typical mycelium. Eriksson. — my'co·plas'mic (-mĭk), adj.

my·co·rhi'za, my·cor·rhi'za (mī'kō·rī'zȧ), n. [NL., fr. myco- + -rhiza.] Bot. The symbiotic association of the mycelium of certain fungi (class Basidiomycetes) with the roots of a seed plant, as those of the beech and other Fagaceae, those of many heaths (Ericaceae), orchids (Orchidaceae), and most saprophytes. The hyphae may form an interwoven mass investing the root tips (ectotrophic mycorhiza), or they may penetrate the parenchyma of the root (endotrophic mycorhiza). See ECTOTROPHIC, ENDOTROPHIC.— my·co·rhi'zal, my·cor·rhi'zal (-zăl), adj.

my·cose (mī'kōs), n. [Gr. mykēs mushroom + -ose.] Chem. Trehalose.

my·co·sin (-kō·sĭn), n. Biochem. Chitosan.

my·co'sis (mī·kō'sĭs), n.; pl. -COSES (-sēz). [NL., fr. myco- + -osis.] Med. a The infesting of any part of the body by fungi. b Any disease due to such infestation. — my·cot'ic (-kŏt'ĭk), adj.

-my·co'sis (-mī·kō'sĭs). [NL.] Med. A combining form for mycosis, denoting affection of a (specified) part by fungi, as in bronch*omycosis*, gastrom*ycosis*; — to be distinguished from the combination of -osis with nouns ending in -myces, as in actinom*ycosis*.

My·co·sphae·rel'la (mī'kō·sfē·rĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. myco- + Sphaerella.] Bot. A genus of over 500 species of fungi (order Sphaeriales) typifying the family My·co·sphae'rel·la'ce·as (-sfē'rĕ·lā'sē·ă) and including many important parasites. M. grossulariae causes a leaf spot of currants, M. tabifica beet heart rot, and M. pinodes a spot of garden peas.

my·cos'ter·ol (mī·kŏs'tĕr·ōl; -ōl), n. [myco- + sterol.] Any of a class of sterols resembling ergosterol in chemical constitution, obtained from fungi.

my·co·sym'bi·o'sis (mī'kō·sĭm'bĭ·ō'sĭs; -bī·ō'sĭs), n. [NL. fr. myco- + symbiosis.] Symbiosis in which a fungus participates.

my·co·troph'ic (-trŏf'ĭk), adj. [myco- + -trophic.] Bot. Obtaining food by association with a fungus.

Myc·te'ri·a (mĭk·tē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myktēr nose, snout.] Zool. A genus of storklike birds, now consisting only of the American wood ibis M. americana.

myc·ter'ic (mĭk·tĕr'ĭk), adj. [Gr. myktēr nose + -ic.] Anat. Of or pertaining to the nasal cavities.

myc'ter·ism (mĭk'tĕr·Iz'm), n. [Gr. myktērismos turning up the nose.] Rhet. Sneering derision.

Myc·toph'i·dae (mĭk·tŏf'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A family constituted by the true lantern fishes. Myc·to'phum (mĭk·tō'fŭm) is the type genus. — myc'to·phid (mĭk'tō·fĭd), n. & adj.

my·da'le·ine (mī·dā'lē·ēn; -ĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [Gr. mydaleos dripping, moldy.] Biochem. A poisonous ptomaine obtained from putrid flesh and from herring brines.

my'das fly (mī'dăs). Any fly of the small family My·da'i·dae (mĭ·dā'ĭ·dē), which contains the largest known flies.

myd'a·tox'ine (mĭd'ȧ·tŏk'sēn; -sĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [Gr. mydan to be clammy (from decay) + toxic.] Biochem. A poisonous ptomaine, $C_6H_{13}NO_2$, in putrefied animal matter.

Myd'a·us (mĭd'ȧ·ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mydan to be clammy or damp.] Zool. The genus consisting of the teledu.

my'dine (mī'dēn; -dĭn; 157), n. Also -din. [Gr. mydan to be clammy from decay.] Biochem. A nonpoisonous base, $C_5H_{11}NO$, from putrefied animal matter.

my·dri'a·sine (mĭ·drī'ȧ·sēn; mī-; -sĭn; 157), n. [See MYDRIASIS.] Pharm. A white crystalline compound (atropine methobromide, $C_{17}H_{23}NO_3.CH_3Br$) used like atropine.

my·dri'a·sis (mĭ·drī'ȧ·sĭs; mī-), n. [L., fr. Gr. mydriasis.] Physiol. & Med. A long-continued or excessive dilatation of the pupil of the eye.

myd'ri·at'ic (mĭd'rĭ·ăt'ĭk), adj. Causing dilatation of the pupil. — n. A mydriatic medicine or agent, as belladonna.

myd'ri·at'ine (mĭd'rĭ·ăt'ĭn; -ēn), n. [mydriatic + -ine.] Pharm. An ethyl-benzoyl derivative of ephedrine, used as a local anesthetic.

my·ec'to·py (mī·ĕk'tō·pĭ), my'ec·to'pi·a (mī'ĕk·tō'pĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. myectopia. See MYO-; ECTOPIA.] Displacement of a muscle.

myel-. = MYELO- (which see), as in:

myelalgia	myelasthenia	myelauxs
myelapoplexy	myelatrophy	myelemia my'e·len·ceph'a·lon (mī'ē·lĕn·sĕf'ȧ·lŏn), n. [NL., fr. myel- + encephalon.] Anat. a Now Rare. The brain and spinal cord; the cerebrospinal axis. b Anat. & Embryol. The posterior subdivision of the rhombencephalon; the medulla oblongata. See BRAIN, 1 a. — my'e·len'ce·phal'ic (-lĕn'sē·făl'ĭk), adj.

my'e·len·ceph'a·lous (-lĕn·sĕf'ȧ·lŭs), adj. Zool. Having a brain and spinal cord.

-my·e'li·a (-mī·ē'lĭ·ȧ). [NL.] Med. A combining form Greek -myelos, from myelos, marrow (see -IA), denoting a (specified) condition of the spinal cord, as in micro*myelia.*

my·el'ic (mī·ĕl'ĭk), adj. [See MYELO-.] Of or pertaining to the spinal cord.

my'e·lin (mī'ē·lĭn), n. Also my'e·line (-lĭn; -lēn; 157). [G. myelin, fr. Gr. myelos marrow, of uncert. origin.] Anat. & Biochem. A soft, white, somewhat fatty material which, in medullated nerve fibers, forms a thick sheath (the myelin, or medullary sheath) about the axis cylinder. Lecithin, cholesterol, cerebrin, and some protein matter and fats can be extracted from it. — my'e·lin'ic (-lĭn'ĭk), adj.

my'e·li·na'tion (mī'ē·lĭ·nā'shŭn), n. Physiol. The process of acquiring a medullary sheath. — my'e·li·nate (mī'ē·lĭ·nāt), adj. — my'e·li·nat'ed (-nāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj.

my'e·lin'o- (mī'ē·lĭn'ō-). Med. A combining form for myelin, as in my'e·lin'o·gen'e·sis, my'e·lin'o·ge·net'ic, my'e·lin·og'e·ny.

my'e·li'tis (mī'ē·lī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. myel- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of the spinal cord or of the bone marrow. — my'e·lit'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj.

-my'e·li'tis (-mī'ē·lī'tĭs). [NL.] A combining form of the myelitis, denoting: a Inflammation of bone marrow of a (specified) part, as in osteo*myelitis.* b Inflammation of the spinal cord.

my'e·lo- (mī'ē·lō-), myel-. [See MYELIN.] Med. A combining form, Greek myelo-, myel-, from myelos, meaning marrow, as in myelocyte, myelin; specif., bone marrow; the spinal cord; as in *myel*encephalon, *myel*itis, and the following (see -BLAST, -CELE, etc.).

myeloblast	myeloganglitis	myelomenia
myeloblastic	myelogenesis	myelomeningitis
myelocele	myelogenetic	myelomeningocele
myelocyst	myelogenous	myeloneuritis
myelocystic	myelogonium	myeloparalysis
myelocystocele	myelolymphangioma	myelopathic
myelodiastasis	myelolymphocyte	myelopathy
myeloencephalitis	myelomalacia	myelopetal
myelophthisis	myelorrhaphy	myelosyphilis myeloplegia	myelosclerosis	myelosyphilosis
myelorrhagia	myelospasm	myelotherapy

my'e·lo·bra'chi·um (mī'ē·lō·brā'kĭ·ŭm; -brăk'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. myelo- + brachium.] Anat. A restiform body.

my'e·lo·cer'e·bel'lar (-sĕr'ē·bĕl'ēr), adj. Pertaining to the spinal cord and cerebellum.

my'e·lo·coele', my'e·lo·cele' (mī'ē·lō·sēl'), n. [myelo- + -coele.] Anat. The central canal of the spinal cord.

my'e·lo·cyte' (-sīt'), n. [myelo- + -cyte.] Anat. a A marrow cell, esp. a large-nucleated cell of the red marrow ancestral to blood granulocytes. Myelocytes may enter the blood in certain diseases. b A nerve cell of the spinal cord or brain. — my'e·lo·cy·the'mi·a, or -the'mi·a (-sī·thē'mĭ·ȧ), n. — my'e·lo·cyt'ic (-sĭt'ĭk), adj.

my'e·lo·cy·to'sis (-sī·tō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. myelocyte + -osis.] Med. A condition in which myelocytes are increased in the body or any of its parts.

my'e·lo'ic (mī'ē·lō'ĭk), adj. Of, pert. to, or designating the type of cell from which is derived the neutrophilic leucocyte.

my'e·loid (mī'ē·loid), adj. [myel- + -oid.] Anat. a Of or pertaining to the spinal cord. b Of, pertaining to, arising from, or like the bone marrow. c Resembling a myelocyte.

my'e·lo'ma (-lō'mȧ), n.; pl. -LOMATA (-tȧ), -LOMAS (-mȧz). [NL. See MYELO-; -OMA.] Med. A primary tumor of the bone marrow, formed of any one of several types of bone-marrow cells, as myelocytes, plasma cell, etc. Myelomas are usually multiple, involving several different bones at the same time. — my'e·lo'ma·toid (-toid), adj. — my'e·lo'ma·to'sis (-tō'sĭs), n.

my'e·lo·mere' (mī'ē·lō·mēr'), n. [myelo- + -mere.] Embryol. Any one of the segments of the developing central nervous system, corresponding with a mesoblastic somite on either side.

my'e·lon (mī'ē·lŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myelos marrow.] Anat. The spinal cord. — my·el'o·nal (mĭ·ĕl'ō·năl), adj. — my'e·lon'ic (mī'ē·lŏn'ĭk), adj.

my'e·lo·plast' (mī'ē·lō·plăst'), n. [myelo- + -plast.] Physiol. A leucocyte occurring in the bone marrow. — my'e·lo·plas'tic (-plăs'tĭk), adj.

my·el'o·plax (mĭ·ĕl'ō·plăks), n.; pl. -PLAXES (-plăk'sēz; -sĭz), MYELOPLACES (mī'ē·lōp'lȧ·sēz). [NL., fr. myelo- + Gr. plax anything flat and broad.] Anat. One of the large multinucleated cells in bone marrow. They are identical with, or very like, the osteoclasts of developing bone.

my'e·lo·poi·e'sis (mī'ē·lō·poi·ē'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. myelo- + -poiesis.] Physiol. Formation of cells characteristic of marrow, specif., of blood cells, esp. granulocytes. — my'e·lo·poi·et'ic (-ĕt'ĭk), adj.

my'e·lo·sar·co'ma (mī'ē·lō·sär·kō'mȧ), n.; pl. -COMATA (-tȧ). [NL., fr. myelo- + sarcoma.] Med. A rapidly growing, destructive myeloma.

my'e·lo·spon'gi·um (-spŏn'jĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. myelo- + -spongium.] Embryol. A network in the embryonic central nervous system, derived from the spongioblasts and giving rise to the neuroglia.

my·en'ta·sis (mī·ĕn'tȧ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. my- + entasis.] Surg. Forcible stretching of a muscle.

my·en'ter·on (-ĕn'tĕr·ŏn), n. [NL., fr. my- + enteron.] Anat. The muscular coat of the intestine. — my'en·ter'ic (mī'ĕn·tĕr'ĭk), adj.

myg'a·le (mĭg'ȧ·lē), n. [L., a field mouse, fr. Gr. mygalē.] 1. The shrew mouse.
2. [cap.] Zool. Formerly, a genus of spiders of the family Aviculariidae. Among them are the bird spider (Avicularia avicularia) of South America, and the common tarantula (Eurypelma hentzii) of the southwestern United States. — myg'a·lid (-lĭd), n. — myg'a·loid (-loid), adj.

-my'ia (-mī'yȧ). [NL.] Zool. A combining form from Greek myia, a fly, as in Anth*omyia.*

My·iar'chus (mī·yär'kŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myia a fly + archos leader, chief.] Zool. A genus of large, plainly colored tyrant flycatchers widely distributed in America.

my'ia·sis (mī'yȧ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myia fly.] Med. Any disease due to presence of larvae of flies in or on the body.

my'lo- (mī'yō-), myl-. A combining form, Greek myio-, myi-, from myia, meaning a fly, as in *My*iarchus.

my'io·des·op'si·a (mī'yō·dēs·ŏp'sĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myiōdēs like flies + -opsia.] Med. Abnormal vision characterized by the seeing of floating spots.

my'kiss (mī'kĭs; mĭ'kĭs'), n. [Russ. mykiz, prob. fr. a native name.] a A salmon (Salmo mykiss) of Kamchatka. b By extension, the cutthroat trout.

My·lit'ta (mĭ·lĭt'ȧ), n. A Babylonian goddess identified by Herodotus with Aphrodite.

my'lo- (mī'lō-), myl-. A combining form, Greek mylo-, myl-, from mylē, a mill or millstone, used for molar, as in *my*lohyoid.

My'lo·don (mī'lō·dŏn), n. [NL., fr. myl- + -odon.] Paleontol. a A genus of large slothlike edentates of the Pleistocene of North and South America. It is the type of a family, My'lo·don'ti·dae (-dŏn'tĭ·dē). b [not cap.] An animal of this genus.— my'lo·dont (mī'lō·dŏnt), adj. & n.

my'lo·hy'oid (mī'lō·hī'oid), adj. [Gr. mylai molar teeth + hyoid.] Anat. Designating, or pert. to, a muscle extending from the inner surface of the mandible to the hyoid, forming the floor of the mouth. — n. Mylohyoid muscle.

my'lo·hy·oi'de·an (-hī·oi'dē·ăn), adj. Mylohyoid.

my'lo·nite (mī'lō·nīt; mĭl'ō-), n. [Gr. mylē mill.] Petrog. A siliceous schist produced by intense crushing of rocks.

my'lo·nit'ic (-nĭt'ĭk), adj. Cataclastic.

My·mar'i·dae (mī·mär'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Mymar, type genus (fr. Gr. mymar blame) + -idae.] Zool. A family of minute chalcid flies, parasitic in the larval state, living principally in the eggs of other insects. The type genus is My'mar (mī'mär). — My·mar'id (mĭ·mär'ĭd), n. & adj. (2).

Common Myna (Acridotheres tristis). (⅛) my'na, my'nah (mī'nȧ), n. [Hind. mainā.] A common bird (Acridotheres tristis) allied to the starlings, of southeastern Asia. It is dark brown with a blackish white-tipped tail and white wing markings. Also, any of certain other species of the same and many allied genera. Some are taught to talk. They are sometimes called grackles. See HILL MYNA.

My·n·heer' (mĭ·när'; mĭn·hēr'), n. [D. mijnheer.] Dutch equivalent of Mr. or Sir; [not cap.], a Dutchman.

myn'pacht' (mĭn'păkt'), n. [D. mijnpacht, fr. mijn mine + pacht lease.] S. African Mining. a A mining concession, esp. one by the government to the owner of the surface concerned and expressed in a myn'pacht'brief' (-brēf'), or official grant of mining rights. b The landowner's mining location, covering one tenth of the surface leased.

my·o- (mī'ō-), my-. A combining form, Greek myo-, my-, from mys, myos, meaning: a Zool. A mouse, as in *My*omorpha. b Med. A muscle (and), as in *my*ology, *myo*idema; also, myoma and; — with words ending in -oma, as in *my*ofibroma. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of the elements.

myoalbumin	myogenesis	myoparalysis
myoalbumose	myogenetic	myoparesis
myoatrophy	myogenic	myopathia
myoblast	myogenous	myopathic
myoblastic	myokinesis	myopathy
myocele	myolemma	myoperitonitis
myocellulitis	myolipoma	myoprotein
myoclonic	myoliposis	myorrhaphy
myoclonus	myolysis	myorrhexis
myocolpitis	myomalacia	myosalpingitis
myodegeneration	myomelanosis	myosclerosis
myodiastasis	myometritis	myoscope
myodynamia	myoneural	myospasm
myodynamic	myoneuralgia	myospasmia
myoedema	myoneurasthenia	myosuture
myoelectric	myoneuroma	myosynizesis
myoendocarditis	myoneurosis	myotasis
myoepicardial	myonosus	myotomy
myoepithelial	myopachynsis	myotrophy

my'o·car'di·o·graph' (-kär'dĭ·ō·grăf'; 83), n. [myo- + cardiograph.] Physiol. A recording instrument for making a tracing (my'o·car'di·o·gram' [-grăm']) of the action of the heart.

my'o·car·di'tis (-kär·dī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. myocardium + -itis.] Inflammation of the myocardium. — my'o·car·dit'ic (-dĭt'ĭk), adj.

my'o·car'di·um (-kär'dĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. myo- + -cardium.] Anat. The muscular part of the wall of the heart. — my'o·car'di·ac (-ăk), adj. — my'o·car'di·al (-ăl), adj.

my'o·coele, myocoel (mī'ō·sēl), n. Also my'o·coe'lom (-sē'lŏm). [myo- + -coele.] Embryol. The cavity of a myotome.

my'o·com'ma (-kŏm'ȧ), n.; pl. -MATA (-ȧ·tȧ). [NL. See MYO-; COMMA.] Zool. a One of the segments (conspicuous in the lower forms, as fishes) into which the muscles of the body or trunk of vertebrates are separated by connective-tissue septa; a myotome. b A septum between myotomes.

my'o·cyte (mī'ō·sīt), n. [myo- + -cyte.] 1. Anat. A muscle cell.
2. Zool. a A contractile cell of a sponge. b The innermost layer of ectoplasm containing the myonemes in gregarines. See SARCOCYTE.

My·o'des (mī·ō'dēz), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myōdēs, fr. mys mouse + eidos form.] Syn. of LEMMUS.

my'o·dy·nam'ics (mī'ō·dĭ·năm'ĭks; -dĭ-), n. [myo- + dynamics.] The physiology of muscular contraction.

my'o·dy·na'mi·om'e·ter (-dĭ·nā'mĭ·ŏm'ē·tĕr; -dĭ-), my'o·dy'na·mom'e·ter (-dĭ'nȧ·mŏm'ē·tĕr; -dĭn'ȧ-), n. [myo- + dynamometer.] A dynamometer.

my'o·ep'i·car'di·al lay'er (-ĕp'ĭ·kär'dĭ·ăl). Embryol. The layer of mesocardium which enters into the formation of the muscular and epicardial walls of the heart.

my'o·fi'bril (-fī'brĭl), n. Also my'o·fi·bril'la (-fī·brĭl'ȧ). [myo- + fibril.] Anat. & Zool. A fibril of the muscle cell, supposed to be the contractile element.

my'o·fi·bro'ma (-fī·brō'mȧ), n.; pl. -BROMATA (-tȧ). [NL., fr. myo- + fibroma.] Med. A tumor composed of fibrous and muscular tissue.

my'o·gen (mī'ō·jĕn), n. [myo- + -gen.] Biochem. A water-soluble protein present in muscle, held to be the antecedent of myogen fibrin; — called also myosinogen.

myogen fibrin. A coagulated protein formed from myogen and held to be present in dead muscle.

my'o·gen'ic (mī'ō·jĕn'ĭk), adj. Of or pert. to muscular origin, or to the theory (myogenic theory) that the rhythmic contractions of the heart muscle arise without stimulus from a nerve.

my'o·glo'bin (-glō'bĭn), n. [myo- + globin.] Myohematin.

my'o·glob'u·lin (-glŏb'ū·lĭn), n. Biochem. A globulin, precipitated at 63° C., present in muscle serum.

my'o·graph (mī'ō·grăf; 83), n. [myo- + -graph.] Physiol. An instrument for making a record (my'o·gram [-grăm]) of intensity, velocity, etc., of a muscular contraction.

my·og'ra·phy (mī·ŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [myo- + -graphy.] a Anat. Description of muscles. b Physiol. Use of the myograph. — my'o·graph'ic (mī'ō·grăf'ĭk), -i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — my·og'ra·pher (mī·ŏg'rȧ·fĕr), n. — my·og'ra·phist (-fĭst), n.

my'o·he'ma·tin, my'o·hae'ma·tin (mī'ō·hē'mȧ·tĭn; -hĕm'ȧ-), n. Biochem. A pigment said to occur in muscles. It is held to be cytochrome.

my'oid (mī'oid), adj. [my- + -oid.] Like muscle.

my·ol'o·gy (mī·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [myo- + -logy.] The branch of science that treats of muscles. — my'o·log'ic (mī'ō·lŏj'ĭk), -i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — my·ol'o·gist (mī·ŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

my·o'ma (mī·ō'mȧ), n.; pl. -MATA (-tȧ). [NL., fr. my- + -oma.] Med. A tumor consisting of muscular tissue. — my·om'a·tous (-ŏm'ȧ·tŭs; -ō'mȧ·tŭs), adj.

my'o·man'cy (mī'ō·măn'sĭ), n. [myo- + -mancy.] Divination by movements of mice. — my'o·man'tic (-măn'tĭk), adj.

my'o·mere (mī'ō·mēr), n. [myo- + -mere.] Embryol. & Zool. A muscular segment. Cf. MYOCOMMA, METAMERE.

my'o·me'tri·um (mī'ō·mē'trĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. myo- + Gr. mētra womb.] The muscular substance of the uterus.

my·o'mo- (mī·ō'mō-), myom-. A combining form for myoma, as in my'o·mec'to·my, my·o'mo·hys'ter·ec'to·my, my'o·mot'o·my. See -ECTOMY, etc.

My'o·mor'pha (mī'ō·môr'fȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. myo- + -morpha.] Zool. The largest suborder of rodents, a remarkably uniform assemblage, comprising the rats and mice and their allies. Cf. HYSTRICOMORPHA, SCIUROMORPHA. — my'o·morph (mī'ō·môrf), n. — my'o·mor'phic (-môr'fĭk), adj.

my'o·neme (mī'ō·nēm), n. Also my'o·ne'ma (-nē'mȧ). [myo- + Gr. nēma thread.] Zool. In many protozoans, a specialized musclelike fibril.

my'o·neure (mī'ō·nūr), n. [myo- + Gr. neuron nerve.] Physiol. A nerve cell which supplies a muscle.

my'ope (mī'ōp), n. [F., fr. LL. myops, fr. Gr. myōps, myōpos, fr. myein to close, shut the eyes + ōps, ōpos, the eye.] A myopic person.

my'o·so'zin (mī'ō·sō'zĭn), n. See SOZIN.

My·o'to·de'ra (mĭ·ō·tō·dē'rȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MUTABILIA.

my·daz'. ✝ MAIDAN.

my'e·li·ni·za'tion (mī'ē·lĭ·nĭ·zā'-shăn; -nĭ·zā'-), n. = MYELINATION.

my'e·lo·plaque' (mī'ē·lō·plăk'), Var. of MYELOPLAX.

my'e·lo·syr'in·go'sis (-sĭr'ĭng·gō'sĭs), n. [NL.] Med. = SYRINGOMYELIA.

My'e·lo·zo'a (-zō'ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. Syn. of LEPTOCARDII. — my'e·lo·zo'an (-ăn), adj. & n.

myenteric plexus. = AUERBACH'S PLEXUS.

my·if'er·ous (mī·lĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. = MYOPHOROUS.

my·io'sis (mī·y·ō'sĭs), n. [NL.] Med. = MYIASIS. [of MYCENAEAN.

My'ko·ne'an (mī'kē·nē'ăn). Var.

my'kose. Var. of MYCOSE.

Myles (mīlz). Var. of MILES.

My·lī'o·bat'i·dae (mĭ·lī'ō·băt'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. myliasi (sc. lithoi) millstone + batis, batidos, a skate, thornback.] Syn. of ATOBATIDAE. — my·lī'o·ba·tid (-ō·bă'tĭd), n. & adj. — my·lī'o·ba'tine (-tĭn; -tīn; 156), adj. — my·lī'o·ob'a·toid (-toid), adj. & n.

my'o·ol·de'ma (mī'ō·ol·dē'mȧ), n. [NL.] = MYXOEDEMA.

my'o·lem'ma (mī'ō·lĕm'ȧ), n. [NL.] Anat. = SARCOLEMMA.

my'o·phan (mī'ō·făn), n. [myo- + Gr. phainein to show.] Zool. A contractile myoneme.

my'o·phore (-fōr; 181), n. [myo- + -phore.] Zool. A part or process of a shell adapted for the attachment of a muscle. — my·oph'o·rous (mī-ŏf'ō-rŭs), adj.

my'o·phys'ics (mī'ō-fĭz'ĭks), n. [myo- + physics.] The physics of muscular action. — -phys'i·cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj.

my·o'pi·a (mī-ō'pĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See MYOPE.] Med. Nearsightedness; a condition of the eye in which the rays from distant objects are brought to a focus before they reach the retina and form an indistinct image. It is corrected by the use of a concave lens. Hence, figuratively, shortsightedness. — my·op'ic (-ŏp'ĭk), adj. — my·op'i·cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj. — my·op'i·cal·ly, adv.

myopic astigmatism. Astigmatism combined with myopia, simple when it is in one meridian only, compound when in both.

my'o·plasm (mī'ō-plăz'm), n. [myo- + -plasm.] Physiol. & Anat. The contractile substance of muscle.

my'o·plas'ty (mī'ō-plăs'tĭ), n. [myo- + -plasty.] Plastic surgery in which partially detached muscle flaps are used. — my'o·plas'tic (-plăs'tĭk), adj.

my'o·po'lar (mī'ō-pō'lẽr), adj. [myo- + polar.] Physiol. Of or pertaining to muscular polarity.

My·op'o·ra'ce·ae (mī-ŏp'ō-rā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL. See MYOPORUM.] Bot. A family of chiefly Australian shrubs and trees (order Polemoniales) related to the Acanthaceae. It includes some valuable timber trees. — my·op'o·ra'ceous (-shŭs), adj. — my·op'o·rad (mī-ŏp'ō-răd), n.

My·op'o·rum (mī-ŏp'ō-rŭm; mī'ō-pō'rŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myein to close + poros pore; — from the resinous dots on the leaves.] Bot. A genus of mostly Australasian shrubs or trees typifying the family Myoporaceae. M. tenuifolium is the bastard sandalwood.

my'o·pro'te·id (mī'ō-prō'tē-ĭd), n. [myo- + proteid.] Biochem. A globulinlike substance, not coagulable by heat, held to be in the muscle plasma of fishes and crabs.

my'o·pro'te·ose (-ōs), n. [myo- + proteose.] Biochem. Any of a group of proteoses contained in muscle or obtained from muscle protein.

my'ops (mī'ŏps), n. [NL.] A myope.

my'o·py (mī'ō-pĭ), n. [F. myopie.] Med. Myopia.

my'o·sar·co'ma (mī'ō-sär·kō'mȧ), n.; pl. -COMATA (-tȧ). [NL.] Med. Sarcomatous myoma. — my'o·sar·com'atous (-kŏm'ȧ·tŭs; -kō'mȧ·tŭs), adj.

my'o·sep'tum (-sĕp'tŭm), n. [NL., fr. myo- + septum.] Zool. The septum between myotomes, as in fishes.

my'o·sin (mī'ō-sĭn), n. [Gr. mys, myos, a muscle.] Biochem. a A globulin of muscle, soluble in salt solutions but not in water; — called also paramyosinogen. It is held to be the protein concerned in the phenomenon of rigor mortis and to give upon standing a clot of insoluble protein (myosin fibrin). b Now Rare. Myosin fibrin.

my·o'sis (mī-ō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myein to close the eyes or lips. See 1st MYSTERY.] Med. Abnormal smallness or contraction of the pupil.

my·o·si'tis (mī'ō-sī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mys, myos, muscle + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of a muscle or muscles. — my'o·sit'ic (mī'ō-sĭt'ĭk), adj.

My'o·so'tis (-sō'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myosōtis, lit., mouse ear.] Bot. a A large genus of herbs (family Boraginaceae). M. palustris is the common forget-me-not; M. alpestris is the floral emblem of Alaska. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus; — called also my'o·sote (mī'ō-sōt).

My'o·su'rus (-sū'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mys, myos, mouse + -urus.] Bot. A small genus of herbs of the crowfoot family (Ranunculaceae) found in temperate regions. They are commonly called mousetails (which see).

My·o·tal·pi'nae (mī'ō-tăl·pī'nē), n. pl. [NL., fr. myo- + L. talpa mole.] Zool. A subfamily of rodents of northern Asia, related to the voles but molelike. In the typical genus, My'o·tal'pa (-tăl'pȧ), the front claws are large.

my'o·te·not'o·my (-tē-nŏt'ō-mĭ), n. [myo- + teno- + -tomy.] Surgical separation of a muscle from its tendons of origin or insertion.

my'o·ther'mic (-thûr'mĭk), adj. [myo- + thermic.] Physiol. Of or pert. to heat produced by contraction of muscle.

my·ot'ic (mī-ŏt'ĭk), adj. [See MYOSIS.] Med. Of or pert. to myosis; producing myosis, as opium, pilocarpine, etc.; affected with myosis. — n. A drug that produces myosis.

my'o·tome (mī'ō-tōm), n. [myo- + -tome.] 1. Anat. & Zool. a In vertebrates: (1) The muscle plate of a primitive segment. (2) A myocomma. b In segmented invertebrates, the muscles of a metamere.
2. Surg. An instrument for myotomy.
— my'o·tom'ic (-tŏm'ĭk), adj.

my'o·to'ni·a (-tō'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. myo- + Gr. tonos tension, tone.] a Physiol. Muscular tonicity or tonus. b Med. Tonic muscular spasm. — -ton'ic (-tŏn'ĭk), adj.

My·ox'i·dae (mĭ-ŏk'sĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. myōxos dormouse.] Syn. of MUSCARDINIDAE. See DORMOUSE.

my·ox'ine (-sĭn; -sīn; 156), adj. [Gr. myōxos dormouse.] Zool. Of or pertaining to the dormice.

myr'cene (mûr'sēn), n. Chem. A liquid hydrocarbon, $C_{10}H_{16}$, occurring in oil of bay (Pimenta acris), hop oil, etc.

Myr'ci·a (mûr'shĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. myrtus. See MYRTLE.] Bot. A large genus of tropical American trees and shrubs, related to the tree myrtles (Myrtus). The so-called oil of myrcia is from a different plant. See BAY BERRY b.

myr'i·a- (mĭr'ĭ·ȧ-), myri-. [See MYRIAD.] Comb. form from Greek myrias, meaning myriad, denoting: a Ten thousand (times); — used esp. in the metric system, as in:

myriacoulomb	myrialiter	myriametre
myriagram	myrialitre	myriare
myriagramme	myriameter

See MEASURE, Table, WEIGHT, Table; METRIC SYSTEM. b = MYRIO-, as in Myriapoda.

myr'i·a·can'thous (mĭr'ĭ·ȧ·kăn'thŭs), adj. [myri- + Gr. akantha a spine.] Zool. Having numerous spines, or prickles.

myr'i·ad (mĭr'ĭ·ăd), n. [Gr. myrias, myriados, fr. myrios numberless, pl. myrioi ten thousand; akin to OIr. mūr abundance.] 1. The number of ten thousand; ten thousand persons or things.
2. An immense number; an indefinitely large number.

myr'i·ad, adj. Consisting of a very great, but indefinite, number; innumerable; multitudinous. — myr'i·ad·ly, adv.

myr'i·ad·ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Formed in or of myriads.

myr'i·ad-mind'ed (66), adj. Having a myriad of minds; also, gifted with a mind of extreme versatility and power.

Myr'i·an'i·da (mĭr'ĭ·ăn'ĭ·dȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myrios numberless.] Zool. A genus of worms related to Autolytus (which see) and similarly reproducing.

Myr'i·ap'o·da (mĭr'ĭ·ăp'ō·dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. myria- + -poda.] Zool. A group of arthropods formerly regarded as a class, related to the hexapod insects, but having the body made up of numerous similar segments, nearly all of which bear true jointed legs. They have one pair of antennae, three pairs of mouth organs, and numerous tracheae, similar to those of true insects. With the exception of a few forms, the Myriapoda form two divisions now ranked as classes, Diplopoda (syn. Chilognatha), the millepedes, and Chilopoda, the centipedes. — myr'i·a·pod' (mĭr'ĭ·ȧ·pŏd'), n. & adj. — myr'i·ap'o·dan (-ăp'ō·dăn), adj. & n. — myr'i·ap'o·dous (-dŭs), adj.

myr'i·arch (mĭr'ĭ·ärk), n. [Gr. myriarchēs, myriarchos, fr. myrioi ten thousand + archos chief.] Gr. Antiq. A commander of ten thousand men. — myr'i·arch'y (-är'kĭ), n.

My·ri'ca (mĭ·rī'kȧ), n. [L., tamarisk, fr. Gr. myrikē.] Bot. A large, widely distributed genus of aromatic shrubs and trees, wax myrtles or bayberries, typifying the Myricaceae, distinguished from Comptonia by exstipulate leaves and the 2–4 bractlets of the ovary. Many fossil species occur in the Cretaceous and Tertiary. See WAX MYRTLE.

Myr'i·ca'ce·ae (mĭr'ĭ·kā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of shrubs constituting the order Myr'i·ca'les (-kā'lēz), and including two genera, Myrica and Comptonia. They have simple, alternate, mostly coriaceous leaves with small diclinous flowers borne in aments in the axils of bracts. The fruit is a small drupe or nut. The family is usually called the bayberry family, though not related to the true bayberry. — myr'i·ca'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

my·ri'ca tal'low (mĭ·rī'kȧ). Bayberry wax.

my·ric'e·tin (mĭ·rĭs'ē·tĭn), n. Chem. A yellow crystalline dye, $C_{15}H_{10}O_8$, occurring in the bark of the box Myrtle, in the leaves of certain sumacs, and elsewhere.

myr'i·cin (mĭr'ĭ·sĭn), n. [Cf. F. myricine. Prob. so called from a fancied resemblance to the wax of the bayberry (Myrica).] Chem. A silky, crystalline, waxy substance, forming the less soluble part of beeswax, and regarded as essentially myricyl palmitate, $C_{15}H_{31}CO_2C_{31}H_{63}$, or $C_{15}H_{31}\cdot CO_2C_{30}H_{61}$.

myr'i·cyl (-sĭl), n. [myricin + -yl.] Chem. The univalent radical, $C_{31}H_{63}$, or $C_{30}H_{61}$, of which myricyl alcohol is the hydroxide. — myr'i·cyl'ic (-sĭl'ĭk), adj.

myricyl alcohol. Chem. A white crystalline alcohol, $C_{31}H_{63}OH$ or $C_{30}H_{61}OH$, occurring as an ester in beeswax.

Myr'i·en·to'ma·ta (mĭr'ĭ·ĕn·tō'mȧ·tȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. Myriapoda + Gr. entomon insect.] Zool. A group, sometimes regarded as a distinct class, of Arthropoda, coextensive with the order Protura.

my·rin'ga (mĭ·rĭng'gȧ), n. [NL., fr. ML. miringa, fr. LL. meninga, fr. Gr. mēninx, mēningos. See MENINGITIS.] The tympanic membrane.

myr'in·gi'tis (mĭr'ĭn·jī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. myring- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of the drum membrane of the ear.

my·rin'go- (mĭ·rĭng'gō-), myring-. A combining form for miringa, as in my·rin'go·der'ma·ti'tis, my·rin'go·myco'sis, my·rin'go·plas'ty, my·rin'go·tome, myr'in·got'o·my. See DERMATITIS, etc.

my·rin'go·dec'to·my (mĭ·rĭng'gō·dĕk'tō·mĭ), n. Also myr'in·gec'to·my (mĭr'ĭn·jĕk'tō·mĭ). [See MYRINGO-; -ECTOMY.] Surgical removal of the tympanic membrane.

myr'i·o- (mĭr'ĭ·ō-), myri-. [See MYRIAD.] A combining form, Greek myrio-, myri-, from myrios, meaning countless, indefinitely numerous, as in *Myrio*phyllum, *myri*orama, myr'i·o·phyl'lous, myr'i·os'po·rous.

myr'i·o·logue' (mĭr'ĭ·ō·lŏg'; 185), n. [F. myriologue, myriologe, fr. NGr. myriologi, moirologi, fr. Gr. Moira the goddess of fate or death + logos speech, discourse.] In modern Greece, an extemporaneous funeral song composed and sung by a woman on the death of a friend. — myr'i·o·log'i·cal (-lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — myr'i·ol'o·gist (-ŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

myr'i·o·phyl'lite (-fĭl'īt), n. [myrio- + phyll- + -ite.] Paleontol. A fossil root or rhizome of Carboniferous age, with numerous rootlets or rootlike organs attached.

Myr'i·o·phyl'lum (-fĭl'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myriophyllon spiked water milfoil, fr. myrios numberless + phyllon leaf.] Bot. A widely distributed genus of submerged aquatic plants (family Haloragidaceae) having much-divided whorled leaves and emersed, wind-pollinated flowers. See WATER MILFOIL.

myr'i·o·ra'ma (-rā'mȧ; -răm'ȧ), n. [myri- + Gr. horama a sight, fr. horan to see.] A picture made up of several smaller pictures combinable in many different ways.

myr'i·o·scope' (mĭr'ĭ·ō·skōp'), n. [myrio- + -scope.] A form of kaleidoscope for repeating a pattern, as of lace or carpet, to show the effect of a large piece.

myr'i·o·the·ism (-thē·ĭz'm), n. [myrio- + -theism.] Belief in a countless number of gods. Rare. Coleridge.

Myr'i·o·trich'i·a (-trĭk'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. myrio- + -trichia.] Bot. A genus of small marine brown algae (order Ectocarpales), forming epiphytic tufts or cushions. It is sometimes classed as a family, Myr'i·o·trich'i·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē-ē). — myr'i·o·trich'i·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

my·ris'tate (mĭ·rĭs'tāt), n. A salt or ester of myristic acid.

my·ris'tic (mĭ·rĭs'tĭk; mī-), adj. [See MYRISTICA.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a crystalline fatty acid, $C_{13}H_{27}CO_2H$, occurring (chiefly as the glyceryl ester) in nutmeg butter, spermaceti, oil of coconut, bile, lanolin, etc.; — called also tetradecanoic.

My·ris'ti·ca (-tĭ·kȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myristikos good for anointing, fr. myrizein to anoint.] Bot. A large genus of tropical trees, typifying the family Myristicaceae, with entire leaves and small white or yellow flowers succeeded by fleshy fruits. M. fragrans yields nutmegs and mace.

My·ris'ti·ca'ce·ae (-kā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of trees (order Ranales), the nutmeg family. See BECUIBA, NUTMEG, 3d MACE. — my·ris'ti·ca'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

My·ris'ti·civ'o·ra (-sĭv'ō-rȧ), n. [NL.] Zool. The genus consisting of the nutmeg pigeons. Cf. IMPERIAL PIGEON.

my·ris'ti·civ'o·rous (-rŭs), adj. [Myristica + -vorous.] Feeding on nutmegs; — said of birds.

my·ris'tin (mĭ·rĭs'tĭn; mī-), n. Chem. Any glyceryl ester of myristic acid, esp. the trimyristate (trimyristin).

my·ris'tone (-tōn), n. [myristic + -one.] Chem. A white crystalline ketone, $(C_{13}H_{27})_2CO$, found in alfalfa and also made from myristic acid.

Myr·me'ci·a (mûr·mē'shĭ·ȧ; -sĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myrmēx, myrmēkos, ant.] Zool. The genus containing the bulldog ant (which see).

myr'me·co- (mûr'mē·kō-). [See PISMIRE.] A combining form, Greek myrmēko-, from myrmēx, myrmēkos, meaning an ant, as in *myrmeco*phyte, *myrmecology, myrmecophilous, myrmeco*phobic, *myrmeco*phagous.

Myr'me·co'bi·us (mûr'mē·kō'bĭ·ŭs), n. [NL., fr. myrmeco- + Gr. bios life.] Zool. A genus of insectivorous marsupials consisting of one species (M. fasciatus), the banded anteater of Australia. It is of a rufous-gray color banded with white on the back. The tongue is long and extensile, and the small teeth number 50 to 56. It is the type of a subfamily, Myr'me·co'bi·i'nae (-ĭ'nē). — myr'me·co'bine (-kō'bĭ·ĭn; -īn; 156), adj.

myr'me·coch'o·rous (-kŏk'ō·rŭs), adj. [myrmeco- + Gr. chōrein to give way, retire, go on.] Dispersed by ants, as seeds or fruits. — myr'me·coch'o·ry (-rĭ), n.

myr'me·coid (mûr'mē·koid), adj. [Gr. myrmēkoeidēs.] Like an ant. — n. An antlike insect or spider.

myr'me·coid'y (-koid'ĭ), n. [From myrmecoid.] Zool. The mimicking of ants by other insects.

myr'me·col'o·gy (-kŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [myrmeco- + -logy.] Zool. The scientific study of ants. — myr'me·co·log'i·cal (-kō-lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — myr'me·col'o·gist (-kŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

Myr'me·coph'a·ga (-kŏf'ȧ·gȧ), n. [NL., fr. myrmeco- + -phaga.] Zool. The genus constituted by the ant bear.

Myr'me·co·phag'i·dae (-kō-făj'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A family of edentate mammals consisting of the American anteaters (see ANTEATER, 1 a); the ant bears, cyclothures, and tamanduas. — myr'me·coph'a·gine (-kŏf'ȧ·jĭn; -jīn; 156), adj. & n. — myr'me·coph'a·goid (-goid), adj. & n.

myr'me·coph'a·gous (-kŏf'ȧ·gŭs), adj. [myrmeco- + -phagous.] Feeding on ants.

myr'me·coph'i·lous (-ĭ·lŭs), adj. [myrmeco- + -philous.] Biol. Fond of, or benefited by, ants, as an insect (myr'me·co·phile' [mûr'mē·kō·fīl'; -fĭl']) that lives in anthills or a myrmecophyte. — myr'me·coph'i·lism (-kŏf'ĭ·lĭz'm), n. — myr'me·coph'i·ly (-lĭ), n.

myr'me·co·pho'bic (-kō·fō'bĭk; -fŏb'ĭk), adj. [myrmeco- + Gr. phobos fear.] Bot. Having a repulsion for ants; — said of certain plants which repel ants by hairs, glands, etc.

myr'me·co·phyte' (mûr'mē·kō·fīt'), n. [myrmeco- + -phyte.] Bot. A plant that affords shelter or food or both to ants which live in symbiotic relations with it. Special adaptations for this purpose exist; thus Acacia spadicigera has large hollow thorns, species of Cecropia have stem cavities, and Cordia nodosa has enlarged internodes. Special food substances are elaborated which are utilized by the ants. Cf. BELTIAN BODY, MÜLLERIAN BODIES. — myr'me·co·phyt'ic (-fĭt'ĭk), adj.

myr'me·kite (mûr'mē·kīt), n. [Gr. myrmēkia wart, anthill + -ite.] Petrog. Wartlike intergrowths of vermicular quartz and feldspar, generally oligoclase, and resembling micropegmatite.

Myr·me'le·on·i·dae (mûr·mē'lē·ŏn'ĭ·dē), n. pl. Also -on'ti·dae (-tĭ·dē). [NL., fr. Myrmeleon, type genus, fr. Gr. myrmēkoleōn ant lion, fr. Gr. myrmēx, -ēkos, ant + leōn lion.] Zool. A family of insects of the order Neuroptera, consisting of the ant lions.

-myr'mex (-mûr'mĕks). [NL.] Zool. A comb. form from Greek myrmēx, meaning an ant, used in generic names.

Myr·mic'i·dae (mûr·mĭs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. myrmēx, -ēkos, ant + -idae. See PISMIRE.] Zool. A family of ants having the pedicel of the abdomen in two well-marked segments. It includes many of the commonest species, as the little red ant, pavement ant, etc. (see HOUSE ANT). The type genus is Myr·mi'ca (-mĭ'kȧ), — myr·mi'cid (-sĭd), n. & adj. — myr'mi·cine (mûr'mĭ·sĭn; -sīn; 156), adj. — myr·mi'coid (mûr·mĭ'koid), adj. & n.

Myr'mi·don (mûr'mĭ·dŏn; -dăn), n.; pl. -DONS (-dŏnz; -dănz), -DONES (mûr·mĭd'ō-nēz). [L. Myrmidones, pl., fr. Gr. Myrmidones.] 1. Gr. Myth. a One of a Thessalian tribe or troop who accompanied Achilles, their king, to the Trojan war. b A son of Zeus, and eponymous ancestor of this tribe.
2. [not cap.] Formerly, a loyal retainer or attendant; now chiefly, a personal follower or hireling or a subordinate civil officer who executes orders without protest or pity; — sometimes applied to bailiffs, constables, etc.
— Myr'mi·do'ni·an (-dō'nĭ·ăn), adj.

myr'mo·the'rine (mûr'mō·thē'rĭn; -rīn; 156), adj. [Gr. myrmos an ant + thēran to hunt.] Feeding on ants, as certain birds.

my·rob'a·lan (mī·rŏb'ȧ·lăn; mĭ-), n. [F. or L.; F. myrobolan, fr. L. myrobalanum fruit of a palm tree from which a balsam was made, fr. Gr. myrobalanos, fr. myron any sweet juice distilling from plants, any prepared unguent or sweet oil + balanos an acorn or any similar fruit. See SMEAR; GLAND.] 1. a A dried astringent fruit much resembling a prune. It contains tannin, and was once used in medicine, but is now chiefly used in tanning and dyeing. Myrobalans are produced by various East Indian species of Terminalia (which see). b Any tree producing myrobalans.
2. a = CHERRY PLUM a. b The emblic. myrobalan family. Bot. The Terminaliaceae.

my'ron (mī'rŏn), n. [Gr., ointment.] Eastern Ch. Chrism.

my·ron'ic ac'id (mī·rŏn'ĭk; mĭ-), adj. [F. myronique, fr. Gr. myron a sweet-smelling unguent.] Chem. An acid, $C_{10}H_{19}NO_2S_2$, occurring in the form of its potassium salt, sinigrin, in black mustard seed, horse-radish, etc. — my'ronate (mī'rō-nāt), n.

my·rop'o·list (mī·rŏp'ō·lĭst), n. Also myr'o·pol'i·tan (mĭr'ō·pŏl'ĭ·tăn; mī'rō-). [Gr. myropōlēs, fr. myron unguent + pōlein to sell.] = UNGUENTARY. Obs.

myr'o·sin (mĭr'ō·sĭn; mī'rō-), n. [F. myrosyne, fr. Gr. myron an unguent.] Biochem. An enzyme occurring in various brassicaceous plants, as mustard; — called also sinigrinase. It decomposes the glucoside sinigrin into allyl mustard oil, glucose, and acid potassium sulphate.

My'ro·tham'nus (mī'rō·thăm'nŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myron a sweet juice distilling from a plant + thamnos shrub.] Bot. A small genus of xerophytic, South African shrubs having small dioecious apetalous spicate flowers. They constitute the family My'ro·tham·na'ce·ae (-thăm·nā'sē-ē) (order Rosales). — my'ro·tham·na'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

My·rox'y·lon (mī·rŏk'sĭ·lŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myron a sweet juice distilling from a plant + xylon wood.] Bot. A small genus of tropical American trees (family Fabaceae), distinguished by the one-seeded winged pod. Syn. Toluifera.

myrrh (mûr), n. [ME. myrre, mirre, fr. AS. myrra, myrre (fr. L.), and fr. OF. mirre (F. myrrhe), fr. L. myrrha, murra, fr. Gr. myrrha, of Sem. origin; cf. Ar. murr bitter, also myrrh, Heb. mar bitter, mōr myrrh. Cf. MARAH.] 1. A yellowish-brown to reddish-brown aromatic gum resin with a bitter, slightly pungent taste. True myrrh (called also herabol myrrh) is obtained from the tree Commiphora abyssinica (see COMMIPHORA) of East my'o·sin'o·gen (mī'ō·sĭn'ō·jĕn), n. [myosin + -gen.] = MYOGEN.

---

my'o·sin·ose' (mī'ō·sĭn·ōs'), n. [myosin + -ose.] = MYOPROTEOSE.

myosotis blue. = FORGET-ME-NOT BLUE.

my·o'ta·cis'mus (mī·ō'tȧ·sĭz'mŭs), n. [L. See MYTACISM.] = METACISM b.

my·ot'o·ny (mī·ŏt'ō·nĭ). my·o'o·nus (-nŭs), n. = MYOTONIA a.

my'o·wun, n. See 1st WOON.

My·ox'us (-ŏk'sŭs), n. [NL. See MYOXIDAE.] See DORMOUSE.

My'ra (mī'rȧ), n. Fem. proper name.

myr'a·bal'a·nus (mĭr'ĭ·ă·băl'ȧ·nŭs), my·rab'o·lan (-lăn). Vars. of MYROBALAN.

myr'bane. Var. of MIRBANE. See NITROBENZENE. [OIL 3] myr'ci·a oil (mûr'shĭ·ȧ). = BAY[1] myr·is'chit. Var. of MIRYACHIT.

myr'i·ad·fold' (66), adv., adj., & n. See -FOLD.

myr'i·adth, n. See 2d -TH.

Myr'i·op'o·da (mĭr'ĭ·ŏp'ō·dȧ). Rare var. of MYRIAPODA. — myr'i·op'o·dous (-dŭs), adj.

myr'i·os'po·rous (-ŏs'pō·rŭs), adj. [myrio- + Gr. sporos seed.] Bot. Having many spores.

myr'i·os'se, n. = MYROSIN.

myr'i·os'tu·ous (-ŏs'tū·ŭs), adj. [myrio- + L. ostium door + -ous.] Zool. Having many openings.

myr'i·ot'o·my (-ŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [myrio- + -tomy.] Surg. Operation for entropion.

myr'i·ra·di'an (-rȧ·dī'ăn), n. [myri- + radian.] Phys. A unit of angular measure, equal to 10,000 radians.

myr'i·ra·di'ant (-rȧ·dī'ănt), n. [myri- + radiant.] Phys. A unit of radiation, equal to 10,000 radiants.

myr'i·ra·di'um (-rȧ·dī'ŭm), n. [myri- + radium.] Phys. A unit of radium, equal to 10,000 radiums.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter (-rȧ·mā'tẽr), n. [myri- + ramater.] Phys. A unit of ramater, equal to 10,000 ramaters.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl), n. [myri- + ramaterial.] Phys. A unit of ramaterial, equal to 10,000 ramaterials.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·ism (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·ĭz'm), n. [myri- + ramaterialism.] Phys. A unit of ramaterialism, equal to 10,000 ramaterialisms.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·ist (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·ĭst), n. [myri- + ramaterialist.] Phys. A unit of ramaterialist, equal to 10,000 ramaterialists.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·is'tic (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·ĭs'tĭk), adj. [myri- + ramaterialistic.] Phys. A unit of ramaterialistic, equal to 10,000 ramaterialistics.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·ize (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz), v. [myri- + ramaterialize.] Phys. A unit of ramaterialize, equal to 10,000 ramaterializes.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng), adj. [myri- + ramaterializing.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializing, equal to 10,000 ramaterializings.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ly (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·lĭ), adv. [myri- + ramaterializingly.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingly, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingly.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs), n. [myri- + ramaterializingness.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingness, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of ramaterializingnesses, equal to 10,000 ramaterializingnesses.

myr'i·ra·ma'ter·i·al·iz'ing·ness·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es·es (-rȧ·mā'tẽr·ĭ·ăl·īz'ĭng·nĕs·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz·ĕz), n. [myri- + ramaterializingnesses.] Phys. A unit of Africa and Arabia, but other species of this genus yield similar products. The myrrh of the Bible is supposed to have been a mixture of myrrh and labdanum, the latter being derived from species of Cistus. It was used by the ancients as an ingredient of incense and perfumes, and as a remedy for local application. Its principal use today is in the manufacture of dentifrices and perfumes and as a stimulating tonic.

2. The sweet cicely of Europe.

Myrrh (mûr), n. Also Myr'rha (mĭr'ȧ). [Gr. Myrrha.] Gr. Myth. See ADONIS.

myrrhed (mûrd), adj. Containing myrrh.

myrrh'ic (mûr'ĭk; mĭr'-), adj. Of or pert. to myrrh.

myr'rhine (mĭr'ĭn; mûr'-), adj. Murrhine.

Myr'rhis (mĭr'ĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myrrhis name of the plant.] Bot. A genus of European herbs, family Ammiaceae. See SWEET CICELY.

myr'rhol (mĭr'ôl; -ōl; mûr'-), n. [L. myrrha myrrh + 2d -ol.] Chem. A volatile oil, $C_{10}H_{14}O$, contained in myrrh.

myr'rho·phore (mĭr'ō-fōr; 181), n. [myrrh + -phore.] Eastern Ch. & Fine Arts. Any of the women, esp. the Marys, who bore spices to the sepulcher of Christ.

myrrh'y (mûr'ĭ), adj. Abounding in, or perfumed with, myrrh.

Myr'si·na'ce·ae (mûr'sĭ·nā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. myrsinē myrtle. Cf. MYRTLE.] Bot. A family of tropical trees and shrubs (order Primulales), having alternate glandular leaves, white or pink tetramerous flowers, and one-celled indehiscent fruit. A few genera occur in southern Florida. See ARDISIA. — myr'si·na'ceous (-shŭs), adj. — myr'si·nad (mûr'sĭ·năd), n.

Myr'si·phyl'lum (mûr'sĭ·fĭl'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myrsinē myrtle + -phyllum.] Bot. A section of the genus Asparagus, comprising the "smilax" of the florists. See SMILAX, 2.

Myr·ta'ce·ae (mûr·tā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL. See MYRTUS.] Bot. A family of trees and shrubs, the myrtle family, typifying the Myrtales, and characterized by numerous stamens, cymose flowers with inferior ovary, and opposite exstipulate leaves, which yield a fragrant oil. There are about 60 genera and more than 1,700 species, of wide distribution, including numerous important gum-producing and timber trees, as Eucalyptus and Metrosideros. Some genera, as Pimenta and Eugenia, yield spices (cloves, pimento, allspice, etc.). The fruits of others, as Psidium (the guava) and Eugenia, are edible. — myr·ta'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Myr·ta'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. a Obs. A Lindleyan alliance comprising the myrtles and allies. Hence myr'tal (mûr'tăl; -t'l), adj. & n. Obs. b An order of herbs, shrubs, or trees, including among others the Myrtaceae, Melastomaceae, Lythraceae, Rhizophoraceae, and Onagraceae. They have simple leaves, flowers with inferior compound ovary and numerous ovules, and capsular or baccate fruit.

myr'ti·form (mûr'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. myrtus myrtle + -form.] Resembling myrtle or myrtle berries.

Myr'ti·lus (mûr'tĭ·lŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Myrtilos.] Gr. Myth. The charioteer of Oenomaus (see HIPPODAMIA). He was slain by Pelops, laying a curse upon the latter's house.

myr'tle (mûr't'l), n. [F. myrtille, mirtille, bilberry, OF., myrtleberry, fr. ML. myrtillus, fr. L. myrtus myrtle, fr. Gr. myrtos, of uncert. origin.] 1. a Any shrub of the genus Myrtus, esp. the European M. communis, which has ovate or lanceolate evergreen leaves and solitary, axillary, white or rosy flowers, followed by black berries. The ancients considered it sacred to Venus. The flowers, leaves, and berries are used in perfumery and as a condiment, and the beautifully mottled wood is valued in turnery. b Any of various Myrtaceae or similar plants.
2. In the United States: a The common trailing periwinkle (Vinca minor). b California laurel. c Rare. Moneywort.
3. a [cap.] Used as fem. proper name. b Myrtle green.

Myrtle (Myrtus communis).

myrtle berry. The fruit of the common myrtle.

myr'tle·ber'ry (mûr't'l·bĕr'ĭ), n.; pl. -BERRIES (-ĭz). The farkleberry; also, its fruit. U. S.

myrtle bilberry. = WHORTLEBERRY a.

myrtle bird. The myrtle warbler.

myrtle family. The Myrtaceae.

myrtle flag or grass. The sweet flag.

myrtle green. A color, greenish green-blue in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

myrtle oil. See OIL, Table I.

myrtle sedge. The sweet flag.

myrtle spurge. The caper spurge.

myrtle tree. a = MYRTLE, 1 & 2. b The wax myrtle, esp. Myrica carolinensis and M. cerifera.

myrtle warbler. A North American warbler (Dendroica coronata). In full plumage the male is bluish gray streaked with black above and largely white below, with a yellow patch on the crown, rump, and each side of the breast.

myrtle wax. Bayberry wax.

myr'tol (mûr'tōl; -tŏl), n. [Myrtus + 2d -ol.] The fraction of the oil obtained from the leaves of the common myrtle (Myrtus communis) distilling between 160° and 170°C. and used as an internal antiseptic.

Myr'tus (-tŭs), n. [L., myrtle. See MYRTLE.] Bot. A genus of chiefly South American shrubs, the myrtles, typifying the family Myrtaceae. The common European myrtle (M. communis) occurs throughout Asia and southern Europe.

-mys. Zool. A combining form from Greek mys, meaning a mouse, as in Cyno*mys,* Phascolo*mys.*

my·self' (mĭ·sĕlf'; 71), pron.; pl. OURSELVES (our-sĕlvz'). An emphasized form of the pronoun for the 1st person singular. Its uses are: 1. For emphasis: a In apposition with I or me; as, I myself was there. b As a subject nominative; — now usually as part of a compound subject. "Myself will decide it." Webster. c As a simple objective; — now usually governed by a preposition; as, he brought one for myself. d As a predicate nominative, often with the force of by myself, alone; as, I have done it myself (that is, unaided).
2. Specif., my true, normal self; hence, my normal or sane condition of mind. Cf. HIMSELF, 2.
3. As a reflexive; as, I will defend myself.
4. As a substantive. "Another myself." B. Jonson.
☞ Myself is often divided, as in "my own self," being treated as possessive and noun.

Mys'i·an (mĭsh'ĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Mysia or its inhabitants. — n. A citizen or inhabitant of ancient Mysia; also, the language of Mysia. Cf. LYCIAN, LYDIAN.

Mys'i·da'ce·a (mĭs'ĭ·dā'shē-ȧ), n. [NL. See Mysidae.] Zool. An order of Crustacea including the Mysidae and allied families, and formerly with the Euphausiacea constituting the Schizopoda.

Mys'i·dae (mĭs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. mysis a closing of the lips or eyes.] Zool. A family of small shrimplike crustaceans of the order Mysidacea; the opossum shrimps. The eyes are stalked and there are six pairs of leglike appendages, each of which bears an exopodite. They occur in both fresh and salt water, and form an important food supply of certain valuable fishes and whales. The type genus is My'sis (mĭ'sĭs). — my'sid (mĭ'sĭd), n. & adj. — my·sid'e·an (mĭ·sĭd'ē·ăn), adj. — my'soid (mĭ'soid), adj. & n.

One of the Mysidacea (Mysis mixta). (× 2)

my'so·pho'bi·a (mĭ'sō-fō'bĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mysos uncleanness + -phobia.] Med. Morbid dread of dirt.

my'sost (mĭ'sōst), n. [Nor.] A hard brown cheese made from whey, esp. of goat's milk.

mys·ta'ci·al (mĭs·tā'shĭ·ăl; -shăl), adj. Also mys'ta·cal (mĭs'tȧ·kăl), mys'ta·cine (mĭs'tȧ·sĭn; -sīn), mys'ta·ci'nous (-sĭ'nŭs). [Gr. mystax mustache.] Having a stripe or fringe of hairs suggestive of a mustache.

mys'ta·gog'ic (mĭs'tȧ·gŏj'ĭk), adj. Of or pert. to mystagogue or mystagogy. — mys'ta·gog'i·cal (-gŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — mys'ta·gog'i·cal·ly, adv.

mys'ta·gogue (mĭs'tȧ·gŏg; 185), n. [L. mystagogus, fr. Gr. mystagōgos, fr. mystēs one initiated in mysteries + agōgos leading, n., a leader, fr. agein to lead. See 1st MYSTERY.] 1. One who initiates into or interprets mysteries, orig. the Eleusinian mysteries.
2. One who keeps and shows church relics. Obs.

mys'ta·go'gy (-gō'jĭ), n. 1. The doctrines, principles, or practice of a mystagogue; interpretation of mysteries.
2. Eastern Ch. a The liturgy. b Instruction before baptism.

mys'tax (mĭs'tăks), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mystax mustache.] A cluster of hairs above the mouth of certain insects.

mys·te'ri·al (mĭs·tēr'ĭ·ăl), adj. Mystic; mysterious. Rare.

mys·te'ri·arch (-ärk), n. [LL. mysteriarches, fr. Gr. mystēriarchēs, fr. mystērion mystery + archos chief.] One presiding over mysteries.

Mys'ter·ies of U·dol'pho (mĭs'tĕr·ĭz ŏv ū·dŏl'fō), n. A novel (1794) by Mrs. Ann Radcliffe. Udolpho is a medieval castle in the Apennines, where strange horrors occur.

mys·te'ri·os'o·phy (mĭs·tēr'ĭ·ŏs'ō·fĭ), n. [Gr. mystērion mystery + sophia wisdom.] Esoteric doctrine concerning the ancient mysteries. — mys·te'ri·o·soph'ic (-ō-sŏf'ĭk), adj.

mys·te'ri·ous (mĭs·tēr'ĭ·ŭs), adj. [L. mysterium mystery; cf. F. mystérieux. See 1st MYSTERY.] 1. Of or pertaining to mystery; containing, conveying, intimating, or implying, a mystery; difficult or impossible to understand; obscure; enigmatical; as, a mysterious event, or person.
2. Rare. a Proper to a mystery or solemn rite. b Stirred by something inexplicable.
Syn. — Secret, occult, dark, abstruse, recondite, cabalistic, esoteric, unfathomable, impenetrable, inexplicable. — MYSTERIOUS, MYSTIC, INSCRUTABLE. That is MYSTERIOUS which excites, and at the same time baffles, wonder or curiosity; MYSTIC (see etym.) is frequently a poetical synonym for mysterious; it also suggests that which has secret or esoteric significance; as, "How dark the veil that intercepts the blaze of Heaven's mysterious purposes and ways!" (Cowper); a mysterious stranger; "an arm, clothed in white samite, mystic, wonderful" (Tennyson); "the ceremonial law, with all its mystic rites" (Boyle). That is INSCRUTABLE which is unfathomably obscure or enigmatical, or so mysterious as to defy interpretation; as, "The plaything of an inscrutable power, called Fortune" (A. C. Bradley). Cf. SECRET, RECONDITE, SUPERNATURAL, WEIRD.
Ant. — Explainable, understandable, comprehensible.
— mys·te'ri·ous·ly, adv. — mys·te'ri·ous·ness, n.

mys'ter·ize (mĭs'tĕr·īz), v. t. To make mysterious; to interpret mystically. — v. i. To cultivate mystery or a mysterious air.

mys'ter·y (mĭs'tĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. MYSTERIES (-ĭz). [L. mysterium, fr. Gr. mystērion; akin to Gr. mystēs one initiated in mysteries (prop., closemouthed), fr. myein to close, be shut (orig. of the lips), Lett. musinât to murmur, and to Gr. my a groan. See MUTE.] 1. Something that has not been, or cannot be, explained; hence, something beyond human comprehension; a mysterious sacred thing.

We speak the wisdom of God in a mystery. 1 Cor. ii. 7.

2. A profound secret; something unknown to all, or concealed from some, and therefore exciting curiosity or wonder; an enigma; something that has not been, or cannot be, explained; — often used retrospectively of what has been but is no longer unexplained or unrevealed.

The sweet mysteries of maiden thought. G. W. Cable.

3. a Chiefly pl. The secret operations requisite or peculiar to an occupation or accomplishment; as, the mysteries of the trade. Now Chiefly Satirical. b pl. Rites, practices, or doctrine revealed only to initiates; as, the sacred mysteries of savage tribes.
4. Profound and inexplicable quality or character; incomprehensibility; as, the mystery of nature; inexplicable features or circumstances; as, wrapped in mystery; also, disposition to surround things with puzzling circumstances or secrecy; as, to despise mystery in a ruler.
5. Obs. a Miraculous or divine power; also, a purely spiritual form or interpretation; as, God present in a mystery. b A mystical or recondite significance. c A personal secret.
6. Class. Relig. a A secret religious rite to which none but duly initiated worshipers were admitted. Sacred objects were shown, formulas pronounced, and ritual acts (washing, eating and drinking, sacrificing) performed with a view to bettering the worshipers in this life and assuring them of life after death, through union with the god thus worshiped. b [often cap.] A cult characterized by such rites; — often called mystery religion. The chief Greek Mysteries were Orphic, Eleusinian, and Samothracian. In the Roman world, Mysteries from Egypt (Isis, Serapis), Asia Minor (the Great Mother, Attis, Sabazios), Syria (Adonis, Atargatis), and Persia (Mithras) also attracted large followings. Their members formed guilds or brotherhoods, of one sex or of both, which were of great importance in the life of the Empire and the development of Western religion.
7. Drama. [After F. mystère.] One of a class of medieval religious dramas based on Scriptural incidents, and usually centering in the life, death, and resurrection of Christ; also, this type of drama. These plays often grew into cycles, or series of single pageants (see PAGEANT, 1); as, the Chester Mysteries. Cf. MIRACLE PLAY, MORALITY, 7.
8. Politics. A state secret. Obs. exc. Hist.
9. R.C. & Eastern Churches. a The Mass or Divine Liturgy; — in the Eastern churches called the Holy Mysteries. b The Eucharist; more generally, in the Eastern churches, a sacrament. c An event in the life of Christ or his mother which serves as a subject for meditation during the recital of a decade of the rosary. There are fifteen mysteries, one for each decade and five for each chaplet.
10. Theol. A supposed truth or fact, of great religious import, which is beyond human comprehension, and expressible only in a dogma held to rest ultimately on supernatural revelation. Such, esp. in R.C. Theol., are the doctrines of the Trinity, the Incarnation, and transubstantiation.

mys'ter·y (mĭs'tĕr·ĭ), n. [ML. misterium (after mysterium; cf. 1st MYSTERY), fr. ministerium. See MISTER a trade.] 1. Assigned service; office; also, skill. Obs.
2. A trade; handicraft; art; craft; one's occupation or calling; also, a body of persons engaged in a particular trade, handicraft, or the like; a guild. Archaic.

Fie upon him, he will discredit our mystery. Shak.

mystery grass. The death camass.

Mystery of Edwin Drood, The (drōōd). A novel by Dickens, unfinished at his death (1870), on the disappearance and presumed murder of Edwin Drood.

mystery religion. See MYSTERY, 6.

mystery ship or boat. One of a class of vessels built in England during the World War to represent unprotected merchantmen, but having concealed heavy armament. They were intended to decoy submarines. Called also hush boat, Q-ship, etc.

mys'tes (mĭs'tēz), n.; pl. MYSTAI (-tī). [L., fr. Gr. mystēs.] Gr. Relig. An initiate in mysteries, esp. the mysteries of Demeter at Eleusis.

mys'tic (mĭs'tĭk), adj. [L. mysticus, fr. Gr. mystikos belonging to secret rites, fr. mystēs one initiated. See 1st MYSTERY.] 1. = MYSTICAL, 1. Now Rare.
2. Of or pertaining to ancient mysteries as the Eleusinian; hence, designating or pertaining to any occult or esoteric rite, observance, religion, etc.

As from the Pythian's mystic cave of yore. Byron.

3. Of or pertaining to mysticism, mystics, the mystical experience, or the like; as, mystic state; the mystic way.
4. In various loose or weakened senses: a Baffling or incomprehensible to the understanding; mysterious. "The mystic gulf from God to man." Emerson. b Enigmatic; obscure; mystifying; also, vague; as, the mystic words of the stranger. c Inducing a feeling of awe, wonder, or the like; as, the mystic beauty of the night. d Having magical properties or associations; as, mystic numbers.
5. Secret; hidden; covert; disguised. Obs.
Syn. — Esoteric, occult, cabalistic. See MYSTERIOUS.

mys'tic, n. 1. One having frequent mystical experiences; a follower, often an expounder, of a mystical way of life.
2. One initiated into a mystery. Rare.
3. One who holds or is dominated by a theory of mysticism.

mys'ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj. [See MYSTIC.] 1. Having a spiritual meaning, existence, reality, or the like, neither apparent to the senses nor obvious to the intelligence, esp. of the unspiritual, unbelieving, uninitiated; pertaining to such a meaning, etc.; symbolical; anagogical; as, the church is the mystical body of Christ; the mystical interpretation of Scriptures; the mystical style of Blake.
2. a Of, resulting from, or manifesting an individual's direct or intimate knowledge of or communion with God through contemplation, vision, an inner light, or the like; as, mystical rapture; the mystical experience; also, concerned with or pertaining to such experiences; as, mystical theology. b Derived immediately rather than mediately; based upon intuition, insight, or similar subjective experience; — said of knowledge, religion, philosophy, etc.; as, the mystical character of Neoplatonism; the mystical religions of the East.
3. Now Rare. a Remote from ordinary human knowledge or comprehension; unintelligible; cryptic; enigmatic; obscure; also, furtive; secret. b = MYSTIC, adj., 2.

mys'ti·cal'i·ty (mĭs'tĭ·kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Mystical quality.

mys'ti·cal·ly (mĭs'tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. of MYSTIC, MYSTICAL.

Mys'ti·ce'te (mĭs'tĭ·sē'tē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MYSTICETI.

mys'ti·cete (mĭs'tĭ·sēt), n. [NL.] a The right whale of the Arctic. b One of the Mysticeti.

Mys'ti·ce'ti (mĭs'tĭ·sē'tī), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. mystikētos, an obscure word in old editions of Aristotle, prob. for mystakokētos whale with a mustache. See MYSTACOCETE.] Zool. A suborder of Cetacea consisting of the whalebone whales. — mys'ti·ce'tous (-tŭs), adj.

mystic hexagram. Geom. See HEXAGRAM, 2.

mys'ti·cism (mĭs'tĭ·sĭz'm), n. [Cf. F. mysticisme.]
1. The theory, practice, or spirit of mystics. Cf. ECSTASY.
2. A theory of mystical knowledge; the doctrine or belief that direct knowledge of God, of spiritual truth, of ultimate reality, etc., is attainable through immediate intuition, insight, or illumination, and in a way differing from ordinary sense perception or ratiocination; as, nature mysticism.
3. Any type of theory asserting the possibility of attaining knowledge or power through faith or spiritual insight.
4. Hence, vague speculation; also, a vagary; a belief without foundation.

mys·tic'i·ty (mĭs·tĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Mystic quality.

mys'ti·co- (mĭs'tĭ·kō-). A combining form from Greek mystikos, mystic, denoting mystical and, as in mys'ti·co-al'o·gor'ic, mys'ti·co-re·li'gious.

mystic, or sealed, will. Civil Law. A will prepared by, or at the instance of, the testator, sealed up in an envelope, and acknowledged on the outside of the envelope.

mys·tif'i·cal·ly (mĭs·tĭf'ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. In a way intended to mystify.

mys'ti·fi·ca'tion (mĭs'tĭ·fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [F.] Act of mystifying; state or act of being mystified; also, something designed to, or that does, mystify.

mys'ti·fi·ca'tor (mĭs'tĭ·fĭ·kā'tĕr), n. One who mystifies.

mys'ti·fi·ca'to·ry (-kă'tō-rĭ), adj. Mystifying.

mys'ti·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n. One who or that which mystifies.

mys'ti·fy (mĭs'tĭ·fī), v. t.; MYS'TI·FIED (-fīd); MYS'TI·FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. mystifier. See MYSTIC; -FY.] 1. To myrt, n. [F. myrte.] Myrtle. Obs.

---

myrtiform fossa. Anat. = INCISIVE FOSSA. myr'tle-leaved, adj. See [-LEAVED.] myr'tle-like', adj. See -LIKE.
myscheant. + MESCHANT.
my·self', n. [F. mysteriarch.] Dial. vars. of MYSELF.
my sirs. See SIRS.
myso-. Erron. var. of MISO-, as in my·sog'y·nism, my·sos'o·phist.
Mys'ta·co·ce'te (mĭs'tȧ·kō·sē'tē), Mys'ta·co·ce'ti (-sē'tĭ), n. pl. [NL. (rationalized forms of MYSTICETE), fr. Gr. mystax mustache + kētos whale.] Zool. = MYSTICETI. myst, n. = MYSTIC.
mys'tae (mĭs'tē), mys'tai (-tī), n. pl. of MYSTES.
[mys'ta·go'gus (mĭs'tȧ·gō'gŭs), n. [L.] = MYSTAGOGUE. mys'ti·cal·ness, n. See -NESS.
mys'ti·cize (mĭs'tĭ·sīz), v. i. & t. See -IZE. mys'tic·ly, adv. of MYSTIC.
Mystic Shrine, Order of the. See SHRINE, n., 8. mys·tif'ic, n. = MYSTIFICATOR. mys'ti·fied'ly, adv. of MYSTIFIED.

involve in mystery; to make obscure or difficult to understand; as, to mystify a passage of Scripture; also, to embellish mystically or fancifully, as fact.
2. To perplex the mind of: to puzzle; to bewilder; to impose upon the credulity of; as, to mystify an opponent.
Syn. — See PUZZLE.
— mys'ti·fy'ing·ly, adv.

my'ta·cism (mĭ'tȧ·sĭz'm), n. [Gr. mytakismos. Cf. METACISM.] Excessive or wrong use of the letter m, or of the sound it represents, as in writing or in defective speech.

myth (mĭth; Brit. also mīth), n. Also mythe. [Gr. mythos myth, fable, tale, talk, speech, of uncert. origin; cf. F. mythe.] 1. A story, the origin of which is forgotten, that ostensibly relates historical events, which are usually of such character as to serve to explain some practice, belief, institution, or natural phenomenon. Myths are especially associated with religious rites and beliefs, so that mythology is generally reckoned a part of religion; a nonreligious story of mythical character is generally called a fable or a folk tale. Among the classes of myths commonly distinguished are: culture myths, comprising stories in which some hero (man, god, or animal) is said to have imparted the arts of life to man; nature myths, in which phenomena of nature are fictively described, esp. as to their origin; theogonic myths, narrating the origins of gods; etiological myths, stories of fictive events given as causes of given rites or customs. Cf. EUHEMERISM.
2. a A similar story invented as a veiled explanation of a truth; a parable or allegory; esp., one of Plato's philosophical allegories. b The theme or plot of a mythical tale occurring in forms differing only in detail.
3. A person or thing existing only in imagination, or whose actual existence is not verifiable.
4. Myths collectively; mythical matter.
Syn. — MYTH, LEGEND cannot always be sharply distinguished. In general, a MYTH deals with the actions of gods or of beings conceived as divine or possessed of divine attributes; a LEGEND, though it may include supernatural incidents, concerns human beings, and often some definite locality. See FABLE, FABULOUS, TRADITIONAL.

myth'i·cal (mĭth'ĭ·kăl), adj. Also myth'ic (-ĭk). [L. mythicus, fr. Gr. mythikos. See MYTH.] 1. Based on, or described in, a myth or myths; of the nature of a myth; having or having had no existence except in myths or imaginative traditional stories; also, arbitrarily invented; imaginary; as, a mythical championship team.
The mythic turf where danced the nymphs. Mrs. Browning.
2. Characterized by or using myths or invention; characterizing narratives, esp. of supernatural events, as myths.
Syn. — See FABULOUS. Ant. — Actual, real.
— myth'i·cal'i·ty (-kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — myth'i·cal·ly, adv.
— myth'i·cal·ness, n.

myth'i·cal·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Belief in myths.

myth'i·cism (mĭth'ĭ·sĭz'm), n. The theory that accounts of supernatural or miraculous events are mythical.

myth'i·cist (mĭth'ĭ·sĭst), n. A student or interpreter of myths; also, an adherent of mythicism. — myth'i·cist, adj.

myth'i·cize (-sīz), v. t. To turn into myth or envelop in myths; also, to represent as mythical or fabricated as a myth. — myth'i·ciz'er (-sīz'ĕr), n.

myth'i·co- (mĭth'ĭ·kō-). A combining form for mythic, denoting mythical and, as in myth'i·co–his·tor'i·cal, myth'i·co–phil'o·soph'i·cal, myth'i·co–ro·man'tic.

myth'i·fy (mĭth'ĭ·fī), v. t. [See MYTH; -FY.] To make myth of. — myth'i·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

myth'ist (mĭth'ĭst), n. A mythmaker; a mythicist.

myth'o- (mĭth'ō-). A combining form, Greek mytho-, from mythos, meaning fable, legend, denoting: a Myth, myths, as in mythology, mythogenesis. b Mythical and, as in myth'o·his·tor'ic, myth'o·pas'to·ral.

myth'o·clast (mĭth'ŏ·klăst), n. [mytho- + -clast.] One who decries myths. — myth'o·clas'tic (-klăs'tĭk), adj.

myth'o·gen'e·sis (mĭth'ŏ·jĕn'ē·sĭs), n. Also my·thog'e·ny (mĭ·thŏj'ē·nĭ). [NL., fr. mytho- + -genesis.] The formation or production of myths; also, the tendency to make myths.

my·thog'o·ny (mĭ·thŏg'ŏ·nĭ; mĭ-), n. [mytho- + -gony.] The science or study of the origin of myths. — myth'o·gon'ic (mĭth'ŏ·gŏn'ĭk), adj.

my·thog'ra·pher (-thŏg'rȧ·fĕr), n. Also myth'o·graph (-mĭth'ŏ·grăf; 83). [Gr. mythographos, fr. mythos myth + graphein to write.] A mythmaker; also, a writer about myths.

my·thog'ra·phy (-fĭ), n. The graphic expression of myth, as in art; also, descriptive mythology. — -ra·phist (-fĭst), n.

myth'o·green' (mĭth'ŏ·grēn'), n. A color, yellowish yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

myth'o·he·ro'ic (mĭth'ŏ·hē·rō'ĭk), adj. Celebrating the deeds of heroes of myths. Rare.

myth'o·lo·ge'ma (mĭth'ŏ·lō·jē'mȧ), n. [Gr. mythologēma.] Writing preserving a myth.

my·thol'o·ger (mĭ·thŏl'ŏ·jĕr), n. Also myth'o·lo'gi·an (mĭth'ŏ·lō'jĭ·ăn). A mythologist.

myth'o·log'ic (mĭth'ŏ·lŏj'ĭk), n. A character or tale of mythology. Obs.

myth'o·log'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Also myth'o·log'ic (-ĭk). [LL. mythologicus, fr. Gr. mythologikos.] Of or pertaining to mythology or myths; treated of in mythology; mythical; fabulous. — myth'o·log'i·cal·ly, adv.

my·thol'o·gist (mĭ·thŏl'ŏ·jĭst; mĭ-), n. [Cf. F. mythologiste.] One versed in mythology or myths; a mythmaker.

my·thol'o·gize (-jīz), v.; -GIZED (-jīzd); -GIZ'ING (-jīz'ĭng). Intransitive: 1. To relate, classify, and explain, or attempt to explain, myths; to write about myths.
2. To construct and propagate myths.
—, Transitive: 1. To explain the mythological references or the symbolical significance of. Obs.
2. To build a myth round; to make the subject of mythical treatment; also to represent mythologically or as mythological; to mythicize.
— my·thol'o·giz'er (-jīz'ĕr), n.

myth'o·logue (mĭth'ŏ·lŏg; 185), n. [See MYTHOLOGY.] A myth. Rare.

my·thol'o·gy (mĭ·thŏl'ŏ·jĭ), n.; pl. -GIES (-jĭz). [F. or LL.; F. mythologie, fr. LL. mythologia, fr. Gr. mythologia, fr. mythos fable, myth + logos speech, discourse.]
1. a Obs. The symbolical significance or explanation, as of a myth. b Now Rare. An allegorical narrative; a myth.
2. A body of myths; esp., the collective myths describing the gods of a people, esp. demigods and legendary human beings in stories which involve supernatural elements.
3. The science which treats of myths; a treatise on myths.

myth'o·ma'ni·a (mĭth'ŏ·mā'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. mytho- + -mania.] Psychopathol. An abnormal propensity for lying and exaggerating. — -ma'ni·ac (-ăk), n. & adj.

my·thom'e·ter (mĭ·thŏm'ē·tĕr; mĭ-), n. [mytho- + -meter.] A measure for judging myths. Rare.

my·thon'o·my (mĭ·thŏn'ŏ·mĭ; mĭ-), n. [mytho- + -nomy.] The science of the laws of myth development.

myth'o·poe'ic, myth'o·pe'ic (mĭth'ŏ·pē'ĭk), adj. [Gr. mythopoios making myths, fr. mythos myth + poiein to make.] Making or producing myths; giving rise to myths. — myth'o·poe'ism (-ĭz'm), n. — myth'o·poe'ist, -pe'ist (-pē'ĭst), n.

myth'o·po'em (-pō'ĕm; -ĭm; 119), n. A mythological poem.

myth'o·po·e'sis (-pō·ē'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. mytho- + -poiesis.] Mythmaking.

myth'o·po'et (-pō'ĕt; -ĭt; 119), n. A mythmaker.

myth'o·po·et'ic (-pō·ĕt'ĭk), adj. [mytho- + Gr. poiētikos able to make.] Mythopoeic.

myth'o·po'et·ize (-pō'ĕt·īz; -pō'ĭt·īz), v. i. To make myths.

myth'o·po'et·ry (-pō'ĕt·rĭ; -pō'ĭt-), n. Also myth'o·po'e·sy (-pō'ē·sĭ). Mythological poetry.

Myt'i·la'ce·a (mĭt'ĭ·lā'shē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MYTILUS.] Zool. A suborder of bivalve mollusks of the order Filibranchia, nearly coextensive with the family Mytilidae.—myt'i·la'cean (-shăn), adj. & n. — myt'i·la'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

myt'i·lo·tox'ine (-lō·tŏk'sēn; -sĭn; 157), n. Also -in. [Mytilus + -toxic.] Biochem. A poisonous base, $C_5H_{14}NO_3$, found in the common mussel.

Myt'i·lus (mĭt'ĭ·lŭs), n. [L., a sea mussel, fr. Gr. mytilos.] Zool. A cosmopolitan genus of usually smooth-shelled marine mussels which live attached to rocks, wharves, etc., including the common edible species M. edulis. It is the type of a family, My·til'i·dae (mĭ·tĭl'ĭ·dē), of the suborder Mytilacea. — myt'i·lid (mĭt'ĭ·lĭd), n. & adj. — my·til'i·form (mĭ·tĭl'ĭ·fôrm), adj. — myt'i·loid (mĭt'ĭ·loid), adj. & n.

myx-. = MYXO- (which see), as in:

myxadenitis	myxaemia	myxasthenia
myxadenoma	myxangitis	myxemia myx'a (mĭk'sȧ), n. [L., a lamp nozzle, fr. Gr. myxa.]

1. Zool. The fused distal end of the lower mandible of a bird. Rare.
2. = SEBESTEN, 1 a.

-myx'a (-mĭk'sȧ). [NL.] Zool. Comb. form from Greek myxa, mucus, slime, used in generic names of protozoa.

myx'a·moe'ba (mĭk'sȧ·mē'bȧ), n. [NL. See MYXO-; AMOEBA.] Bot. & Zool. A uninucleate, naked, individual myxomycete which lacks flagella or cilia but creeps like an amoeba.

myx'e·de'ma, myx'oe·de'ma (mĭk'sĕ·dē'mȧ), n. [NL. See MYXO-; EDEMA.] Med. A diseased condition of the skin, characterized by dryness and esp. a firm, inelastic swelling produced by a mucoid change in the connective tissue. It is due to insufficiency of thyroid function from any cause, and is commonly associated with other signs of hypothyroidism. Also, the morbid state of hypothyroidism characterized by this condition of the skin. — -dem'a·toid (-dĕm'ȧ·toid), -dem'a·tous (-dĕm'ȧ·tŭs; -dē'mȧ·tŭs), -dem'ic (-dĕm'ĭk), adj.

Myx·i'ne (mĭks·ī'nē), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myxinos slime fish, fr. myxa slime.] Zool. The genus containing the typical hagfishes, distinguished by having on each side only a single external gill opening. It constitutes a family, Myx·in'i·dae (-ĭn'ĭ·dē). — myx'i·noid (mĭk'sĭ·noid), adj. & n.

myx'o (mĭk'sō), n. Bot. A myxomycete. Collog.

myx'o- (mĭk'sō-), myx-. [See MUCUS.] A combining form, Greek myxo-, myx-, from myxa, meaning mucus, slime, as in *Myxo*mycetes, *myx*oma; specif., Med.: a A mucous gland, as in *myx*adenitis. b Mucous tissue, as in *myxo*cyte. c Myxoma blended with another (specified) tumor, as in the following, which can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

myxoblastoma	myxofibroma	myxomyoma
myxochondroma	myxofibrosarcoma	myxoneuroma
myxochondrosarcoma	myxoglioma	myxopapilloma
myxocystoma	myxoinoma	myxorrhea
myxoenchondroma	myxolipoma	myxosarcoma

Myx'o·bac·te'ri·a'ce·ae (mĭk'sō·băk·tē'rĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. myxo- + bacteria + -aceae.] Bot. A family of rod-shaped, vegetable microorganisms, commonly classed as bacteria, but in many respects intermediate between them and the slime molds. By a gelatinous secretion they form motile, plasmodiumlike aggregations, before passing into a cyst-producing or resting stage. The family is coextensive with an order, Myx'o·bac·te'ri·a'les (-ā'lēz). — myx'o·bac·te'ri·a'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Myx'o·coc'cus (-kŏk'ŭs), n. [NL., fr. myxo- + -coccus.] Bacteriol. A genus of bacteria of the family Myxobacteriaceae, in which the rodlike cells are transformed into cocciform spores. The species, as M. rubescens, occur on manure or decaying matter.

myx'o·cyte (mĭk'sō·sīt), n. [myxo- + -cyte.] Anat. A stellate cell characterizing mucous tissue.

myx'o·flag'el·late (-flăj'ĕ·lāt), n. Bot. & Zool. A uninucleate individual myxomycete possessing a flagellum.

myx'o·gas'ter (-găs'tĕr), n. [NL., fr. myxo- + Gr. gastēr stomach.] A slime mold or myxomycete.

Myx'o·gas·tra'les (mĭk'sō·găs·trā'lēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. myxo- + Gr. gastēr, gastros, stomach.] Bot. The largest order of slime molds (class Myxomycetes), including species that form a true plasmodium from which walled spores are developed in aethalia or sporangia.

myx'oid (mĭk'soid), adj. [myx- + -oid.] Like mucus.

myx·o'ma (mĭks·ō'mȧ), n.; pl. -OMATA (-tȧ), -OMAS (-mȧz). [NL., fr. myx- + -oma.] Med. A soft, gelatinous tumor made up of a mucinous type of connective tissue resembling that found in the umbilical cord. — myx·om'a·tous (mĭks·ŏm'ȧ·tŭs; -ō'mȧ·tŭs), adj.

myx·o'ma·to'sis (mĭks·ō'mȧ·tō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. myxoma + -osis.] Med. a A condition characterized by the presence of myxomata in the body. b Mucoid degeneration.

Myx'o·my·ce'tes (mĭk'sō·mĭ·sē'tēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. myxo- + -mycetes.] Bot. A class of peculiar organisms, the slime molds, sometimes considered to be animals (Mycetozoa), but commonly regarded as plants and included by some botanists in the phylum Thallophyta, by others separated as a distinct phylum (Myxophyta). Except for a few parasitic species, they are found on damp earth and decaying vegetable matter, and consist of naked masses of protoplasm, which creep very slowly over the surface and ingest solid food. Ultimately these masses (plasmodia) come to rest and organize spores which give rise to peculiar bodies known as myxamoebae, which again form plasmodia. The class is usually held to contain the orders Acrasiales and Myxogastrales, and, formerly, also Plasmodiophorales. — myx'o·my·cete' (mĭk'sō·mĭ·sēt'), n. — myx'o·my·ce'tous (-sē'tŭs), adj.

Myx'o·phyc'e·ae (-fĭs'ē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. The Cyanophyceae.

Myx·oph'y·ta (mĭks·ŏf'ĭ·tȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. myxo- + -phyta.] Bot. A phylum of the plant kingdom consisting of the single class Myxomycetes (which see).

myx'o·po'di·um (mĭk'sō·pō'dĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -PODIA (-ȧ). [NL.] Zool. A pseudopodium which tends to branch or anastomose, characteristic of the Foraminifera, Radiolaria, and Mycetozoa.

Myx'o·spon'gi·da (-spŏn'jĭ·dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. myxo- + Gr. spongia sponge.] Zool. A division of sponges (Demospongiae) without either spicules or horny fibers.

myx'o·spore (mĭk'sō·spōr; 181), n. Bot. A spore formed in the sporangium of a myxomycete. — myx·os'po·rous (mĭks·ŏs'pō·rŭs), adj.

Myx'o·spo·rid'i·a (mĭk'sō·spō·rĭd'ĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MYXO-; -SPORE.] Zool. An order of Sporozoa in which the trophic, or growing, phase is amoeboid and multinuclear. They are typically parasites of cold-blooded vertebrates. — myx'o·spo·rid'i·an (-ĭ·ăn), adj. & n.

Myx'o·spo'ri·um (mĭk'sō·spō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n. [NL., fr. myxo- + -sporium.] Bot. A form genus of imperfect fungi (order Melanconiales), similar to those of the genus Gloeosporium and growing on bark. M. corticolum causes a superficial canker of the apple and pear.

myx'o·the'ca (-thē'kȧ), n. [NL., fr. myxo- + -theca.] Zool. The horny sheath of the end of a bird's lower mandible.

-myza, -myzon. [NL.] Zool. Combining forms from Greek myzein, to suck, in generic names, -myza, esp. in entomology.

My'zo·den'dron (mĭ'zō·dĕn'drŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myzein to suck + -dendron.] Bot. A small genus of Chilean and Patagonian plants constituting the family My'zo·den·dra'ce·ae (-dĕn·drā'sē·ē) (order Santalales). They resemble the mistletoe. — my'zo·den·dra'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

My·zos'to·ma (mĭ·zŏs'tō·mȧ; mĭ'-), n. [NL., fr. Gr. myzein to suck + -stoma.] Zool. A genus of curious parasitic animals found on crinoids and starfishes, by some considered related to the chaetopod worms, by others to the arachnids. Their body is short, unsegmented, and disk-shaped, with ten or more pairs of cirri around the margin and four pairs of suckers and five pairs of hook-bearing parapodia on the under side. With the related genus Stelechopus it constitutes a family, My'zo·stom'i·dae (mĭ'zō·stŏm'ĭ·dē), and usually a group of higher rank, My'zo·sto'ma·ta (-stō'mȧ·tȧ; -stŏm'ȧ-), or My'zo·stom'i·da (-stŏm'ĭ·dȧ). — my·zos'to·mid (mĭ·zŏs'tō·mĭd; mĭ'-), adj. & n. — my'zo·stom'i·dan (mĭ'zō·stŏm'ĭ·dăn), adj. — my'zo·stom'a·tous (-stŏm'ȧ·tŭs; -stō'mȧ-), adj. — my·zos'tome (mĭ·zŏs'tōm; mĭ'-), n. — my·zos'to·mous (mĭ·zŏs'tō·mŭs; mĭ'-), adj.

---

myth'ism (mĭth'ĭz'm), n. = MYTHICISM. myth'ize, v. t. = MYTHICIZE. myth'land', n. See -LAND. myth'mak'er, n. See MAKER. — myth'mak'ing, n. & adj.
my'thos (mī'thŏs), n. [Gr.] Also my'thus (mī'thŭs), n. [NL.] = MYTH.
my·thought'. [Written also as two words.] Obs. past tense of METHINKS.
Myt'i·li·as'pis (mĭt'ĭ·lĭ·ăs'pĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. mytilos mussel + aspis shield.] Syn. of LEPIDOSAPHES.
Myx'i·noi'de·i (mĭk'sĭ·noi'dē·ī), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. myxinos a smooth sea fish + eidos form.] Zool. Syn. of HYPEROTRETA.
Myx'o·bac·te'ri·a, n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MYXOBACTERIALES. myx'oe·de'ma. Var. of MYXEDEMA.
Myx'o·gas'ter·es (mĭk'sō·găs'tĕr·ēz), Myx'o·gas'tres (-trēz), n. pl. [NL.] Syns. of MYXOGASTRALES.
— myx'o·gas'tric (-trĭk), myx'o·gas'trous (-trŭs), adj.
Myx'o·my·ce·ta'les (-mĭ'sē·tā'lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MYXOBACTERIALES.
Myx·op'o·da (mĭks·ŏp'ō·dȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. myxo- + -poda.] Zool. Syn. of RHIZOPODA. — myx'o·pod (mĭk'sō·pŏd), adj. & n. — myx·op'o·dan (mĭks·ŏp'ō·dăn), myx·op'o·dous (-dŭs), adj.
myx'o·poi·e'sis, n. See MYXO- b.
Myx'o·spon'gi·ae (-sō·spŏn'jĭ·ē), n. pl. [NL.] = MYXOSPONGIDA. — myx'o·spon'gi·an (-ăn), adj. & n.
Myx'o·spo'ri·di'i·da (-spō'rĭ·dĭ'ĭ·dȧ; 181), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of MYXOSPORIDIA.
Myx'o·thal·loph'y·ta (-thăl·lŏf'ĭ·tȧ), n. pl. [NL. See MYXO-; THALLOPHYTE.] Syn. of MYXOPHYTA.
My'xo·my'ia (mĭ'zō·mĭ'yȧ), n. [NL.] See ANOPHELINAE.
My·zon'tes (mĭ·zŏn'tēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. myzein to suck.] Zool. Syn. of CYCLOSTOMATA. — my'zont (mĭ'zŏnt), adj. & n.

N

N, n (ĕn), n.; pl. N's, n's, Ns, ns (ĕnz). 1. The fourteenth letter of the English alphabet. It comes through the Latin from the Greek nu (ny), which took it from the Phoenician (Hebrew nūn). It represents either of two voiced nasal continuants: one, as in new, ran, commonly classed as a dental, though usually formed in English with the oral passage closed by bringing the tip of the tongue against the gums back of the upper front teeth; the other, before the sound of k or g, as in sink, conquer, single, formed with the oral closure between the back of the tongue and the velum, and hence commonly classed as a velar. The latter sound is the same as that of ng in sing. N sometimes has syllabic value, as in risen (rĭz'n), ridden (rĭd'n). It is silent in some words after m, as in hymn, autumn. See Pron., §§ 174–178. In cognate words English n corresponds to German n, Latin n, Greek n, Sanskrit n, as in night, G. nacht, L. nox, Gr. nyx, Skr. nakta, nakti. See ALPHABET.

2. a An instance of the letter N, n, printed, written, painted, etc. b A printer's type, a stamp, etc., for the letter N, n. c The sound, or any sound, of the letter N. d [cap.] In medieval Roman numerals, 90 or, in the form $\overline{N}$, 90,000. e See L, 2 d.

3. Anything having the shape of the letter N.

4. Chem. a [cap.] Nitrogen. b [often not cap.; ital.] Normal: as, n-hexyl; — used esp. with reference to solutions; as, $\frac{N}{10}$, $\frac{n}{10}$ or 0.1*N* (denoting a solution of one-tenth normal strength), etc. c [cap. and usually ital.] Distinguishing certain derivatives of nitrogenous organic compounds in which the hydrogen directly united to the nitrogen is replaced; as, N-methylpyrrole. d Physics & Chem. [not cap.] Refractive index.

5. Math. [not cap.] An indefinite number; esp., a constant integer denoting degree, order, class, or power, as of an equation, curve, or any algebraic expression. See NTH.

6. Print. = 2d EN, 3.

7. As a symbol, used to denote or indicate anyone or anything arbitrarily or conveniently so designated, esp. as the thirteenth or (see K, n., 4) fourteenth in order or class.

8. As an abbreviation: see Abbreviations, in Appendix.

N, n, adj. 1. Thirteenth or (see K, adj., 1) fourteenth in order or class; as, Battery N.

2. [cap.] Having the form of capital N.

n-. = NE, not; — used initially in combinations, as nam, nad, nas (ne am, ne had, ne was). Obs.

-n. The past-participle ending of some strong verbs, as blown, known. Cf. 2d -EN.

na (nä; nȧ), adv. [See NO, adv.] No; by no means. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. — conj. Obs. exc. Scot. & Dial. a That . . . not; nor. b Than.

naam (nām), n. [AS. nām, fr. ON. nām a taking. Cf. NIMBLE.] Early Eng. Law. Distraint of chattels, or things distrained. — v. t. & i. To make naam; to distrain.

Na'a·man (nā'ȧ·mȧn), n. [Heb. Na'ămān.] 1. Literally, pleasantness; — masc. proper name.

2. A Syrian captain cured of leprosy by Elisha. 2 Kings v.

Na·as'senes (nȧ·ăs'ēnz), n. One of the Ophite group of Gnostic sects.

nab (năb), n. [ON. nabbr.] 1. Any projecting part of an eminence, as a peak, promontory, etc. Scot.

2. a The shoulder of the bolt of a lock on which the key acts to shoot the bolt. b The keeper of a door lock.

3. Firearms. The cock of a gunlock. Rare.

nab, n. [Cf. NOB, KNOB.] The head; also, a hat. Obs. Slang.

nab (năb), v. t.; NABBED (năbd); NAB'BING. [Cf. NAP to seize.] Slang. a To catch or seize in arrest, as a criminal. b To seize or catch suddenly; to snatch away, grab.

nab (năb), v. t. & i. [Var. of KNAB.] Scot. & Dial. Eng. a To nibble. b To speak mincingly.

nab (năb). Scot. var. of NOB, a notable person.

Na'bal (nā'bȧl), n. [Heb. nābāl ignoble, churlish.] a Bib. A churlish, evil-doing, wealthy sheep owner, who refused to pay tribute to David for protecting his flocks, and was saved from David's vengeance by the wisdom of his wife, Abigail, whom David later married. 1 Sam. XXV. b Hence, a churlish or niggardly man; a miser. — Na'bal·ism (-ĭz'm), n. — Na'bal·ite (-īt), n. — Na'bal·it'ic (-ĭt'ĭk), adj.

Na'ba·loi (nä'bä·loi), n. sing. & pl. One of a pagan people of northern Luzon. See IGOROT, n.

Nab'a·tae'an, Nab'a·te'an (năb'ȧ·tē'ăn), n. a An Arab of an ancient kingdom to the east and southeast of Palestine, which lasted from about 312 B.C. to 106 A.D., when it was made a Roman province. b The dialect of Aramaic spoken by the Nabataeans as shown in their inscriptions. See SEMITIC LANGUAGES. — Nab'a·tae'an, Nab'a·te'an, adj.

nab'ber (năb'ẽr), n. One who nabs.

nabk (năbk; nŭbk), n. A Christ's-thorn (Z. jujuba).

nab'la (năb'lȧ), n. [Gr., of Sem. origin. See NEBEL.] 1. An ancient stringed instrument, either a Hebrew harp of ten or twelve strings, or an Egyptian lute.

2. Math. The Hamiltonian operator ∇, or $i\frac{\partial}{\partial x}+j\frac{\partial}{\partial y}+k\frac{\partial}{\partial z}$, which applied to any scalar-point function gives the gradient vector which furnishes the rate and direction of its most rapid change at each point in space.

na'bob (nā'bŏb), n. [Hind. navvāb, navāb, colloq. nabāb, fr. Ar. nuwwāb, pl. of nā'ib viceregent, governor. Cf. NAWAB.] 1. A native deputy or viceroy in India; a governor of a province of the Mogul empire.

2. One who returns to Europe from the East with great riches; hence, any man of great wealth.

3. A woman in opulent garment. Obs. exc. Hist.

na'bob'er·y (nā'bŏb'ẽr·ĭ; nä·bŏb'ẽr·ĭ), n. Also na'bob·ry (nā'bŏb·rĭ). Nabobs collectively; the characteristics of nabobs; also, a region in which nabobs abound.

na'bob·ess (nā'bŏb·ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female nabob or a woman of a nabob's family.

na·bob'i·cal (nȧ·bŏb'ĭ·kȧl), na'bob·ish (nā'bŏb·ĭsh), adj. Like, or pertaining to, a nabob. — na'bob·ish·ly, adv.

na'bob·ism (nā'bŏb·ĭz'm), n. State or fact of being a nabob; the traits, collectively, of a nabob.

Nab'o·ni'dus (năb'ō·nī'dŭs), n. The last Semitic king (556–539 B.C.) of Babylon and, according to inscriptions, the father of Belshazzar.

Na'both (nā'bŏth; -bōth), n. Bib. Owner of a vineyard which Ahab coveted and seized at the instigation of Jezebel, who caused Naboth to be stoned to death. 1 Kings XXI. Hence, Na'both's vine'yard' (-bŏths; -bōths), any greatly coveted thing.

Na·bo'thi·an (nȧ·bō'thĭ·ăn), adj. [After M. Naboth (1675–1721), Ger. anatomist.] Of, pert. to, or designating the mucous glands of the cervix uteri, esp. when occluded and dilated; as, Nabothian cysts.

nabs (năbz), n. [Cf. 2d & 5th NAB, NIBS.] A person; — in such phrases as my nabs, that is, my good fellow, my friend, or the like. Slang.

nac'a·rat (năk'ȧ·rȧt), n. [F., fr. Sp. nacarado, fr. nácar mother-of-pearl. See NACRE.] a The color geranium lake. b Fine linen or crepe dyed of this color.

nac'a·rine (năk'ȧ·rĭn; -rēn), n. [See NACARAT.] The color geranium lake.

nace (nās), adj. [ON. neiss.] Ashamed; destitute; — used in connection with naked. Obs. exc. Scot.

na·celle' (nȧ·sĕl'), n. [F., fr. LL. navicella, dim. fr. L. navis ship. See NAVY.] 1. A small boat. Obs.

2. An enclosed shelter on an aircraft for passengers or for a power plant.

Nach'i·toch (năk'ĭ·tŏsh), Natch'i·toches (năk'ĭ·tŏsh), n. An Indian of one of the chief tribes of the Caddo Confederacy. See CADDO.

Nach'schlag' (näk'shläk'), n. [G.] Music. a A grace note occurring in the unaccented parts of the measure and beating its time from the preceding note. b The auxiliary note or notes at the close of a trill.

Nachschlag a.

‖nacht'maal' (näkt'mäl'), n. [D.] Literally, evening meal; hence, the Lord's Supper, or an observance of it. S. Africa.

Na'cio·na·lis'ta (nä'syō·nȧ·lĕs'tȧ; 103), adj. [PhillippineSp.] In the Philippines, designating the Nationalist party or principles. See NATIONALIST, n., a. — Na'cio·na·lis'ta, n.

nack'et (năk'ĕt), n. [F. naquet.] A caddie at tennis; hence, a saucy boy. Scot.

nack'et, n. A light lunch; a small cake or the like. Scot.

na'cre (nā'kẽr), n. [F., fr. It. nacchera, fr. ML. nacchara, fr. Ar. naqqārah drum; cf. Ar. naqīr hollowed. Cf. NAKER.] 1. A shellfish that yields mother-of-pearl.

2. In various shells, the iridescent inner layer consisting chiefly of calcium carbonate deposited in thin overlapping sheets with some organic matter, esp. conchiolin; mother-of-pearl.

3. = ESSENCE D'ORIENT.

‖na'cré' (nȧ'krā'), adj. [F. See NACRE.] Art. Having the peculiar iridescence of nacre, or mother-of-pearl.

na'cred (nā'kẽrd), adj. Lined with nacre; like nacre.

na'cre·ous (nā'krē·ŭs), adj. Also na'crous (-krŭs), na'cry (-krĭ). [See NACRE.] Consisting of or resembling nacre; pearly.

na'crine (nā'krĭn; -krīn), adj. Like, or pertaining to, nacre. — n. The iridescent hue of nacre.

Na'dab (nā'dăb). Bib. A King of Israel. 1 Kings XV. 25.

na'dir (nā'dẽr; also, Brit., nā'dẽr), n. [OF., fr. Ar. naẓīr (al-samt; cf. ZENITH) opposite (the zenith).] 1. That point of the celestial sphere directly under the place where one stands, and directly opposite to the zenith; the inferior pole of the horizon.

2. The lowest point; the time of greatest depression.

3. Short for nadir of temperature. The lowest attainable temperature, about 7° absolute.

na'dir·al (nā'dẽr·ȧl), adj. Pertaining to the nadir.

nad'or·ite (năd'ẽr·īt), n. [From Jebel Nador, department of Constantine, Algeria.] Mineral. A brownish-yellow lead chloride and stibnite, $PbClSbO_4$.

nae'gate (nā'gāt), nae'gait, nae'gates (-gāts). [See NAE, adj.; GATE a way.] Scot. & N. of Eng. a Nowhere. b In no way.

Naem'ō·rhe'dus (nĕm'ō·rē'dŭs), n. [NL., fr. L. nemus, nemoris, grove + haedus kid.] Zool. A genus of goat antelopes consisting of the serows. See SEROW. It is the type of a subfamily, Naem'o·rhe·di'nae (-rē·dī'nē), which includes the Rocky Mountain goat. — naem'o·rhe'dine (-rē'dĭn; -dīn), adj.

nag (năg), n. [ME. nagge; cf. D. negge.] 1. A small horse; a pony; hence, any horse; — now derogatory.

2. A wanton; — in contempt. Obs.

3. See HARVEST HOME.

nag, v. t. & i.; NAGGED (năgd); NAG'GING (năg'ĭng). [Of Scand. origin; cf. Sw. & Nor. nagga; akin to LG. naggen, and ult. to E. GNAW.] 1. To gnaw; to ache as if from gnawing. Dial. Eng.

2. To annoy by petty faultfinding; to irritate by persistent scolding or urging; to fret pertinaciously.

nag (năg), n. Act of nagging; nagging conduct or speech.

nag. Var. of KNAG, a projection.

nag (năg), na'ga (nä'gȧ), n. [Hind. nāg, Skr. nāga. Cf. NAGA.] A snake; esp. the cobra.

Na'ga (nä'gȧ), n. [Skr. nāga serpent.] 1. Hindu Myth. A member of a race of semihuman serpents, genii of the waters and rain, inhabiting a magnificent subaqueous kingdom, under the rule of Shesha, the sacred serpent of Vishnu.

2. a One of a group of tribes in the Naga Hills, Assam. b Their language. See INDO-CHINESE LANGUAGES, Table.

3. (pron. nä'gä) [Hind. nāgā.] A Hindu mendicant of one of various sects, some of whom formerly carried arms.

na'ga (nä'gä), n. Narra.

na'gaed wood (nä'gȧd). Honduras rosewood. Trade Term.

na·gai'ka (nȧ·gī'kȧ), n. [Russ. nagaĭka.] A thick, tightly twisted whip, used by Cossacks.

na·ga'na (nȧ·gä'nȧ), n. [Zulu u(lu)-nakane.] Veter. A disease of live stock caused by trypanosomes (Trypanosoma brucei) transmitted by the tsetse fly. See TSETSE. S. Africa.

na·ga'ra (nȧ·gä'rȧ), n. [Ar. naqqārah. See NACRE.] 1. A city; — esp. in Indian place names, as in Ahmad*nagar.*

2. A native kettledrum. India.

Na'ga·ri (nä'gȧ·rē), n. [Skr. nāgarī, fr. nāgara of the city.] a Devanagari. b Any of the alphabets derived from Devanagari, as Bengali, or such modified forms collectively.

nag'a·tel'ite (năg'ȧ·tĕl'īt), n. [From Nagatejima, small headland on the Noto Peninsula, Japan + -lite.] Mineral. A rare phosphosilicate of aluminum, the rare earths, calcium, and iron, occurring in black tabular masses.

‖Nag'el·fluh' (näg'ĕl·flōō'), n. [G.] Geol. A massive variegated conglomerate forming a prominent member of the Miocene series in the Alps.

nag'ger (năg'ẽr), n. One who nags.

nag'ging (năg'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of NAG. Specif.: adj. a Persistently annoying, faultfinding, or teasing. b Characterized by nagging. — nag'ging·ly, adv. — nag'ging·ness, n.

nag'gish (năg'ĭsh), adj. Nagging.

nag'gle (năg'l), v. i.; -GLED (-'ld); -GLING (-lĭng). [Freq. of nag to tease, fret.] To haggle or dispute pettily.

nag'gle (năg'l), n. Petty haggling; pettiness. Rare.

nag'gly (năg'lĭ), adj. Of a naggling nature.

nag'gy (năg'ĭ), adj.; -GI·ER (-ĭ·ẽr); -GI·EST. a Given to, or characterized by, nagging. b Dial. Irritable; ill-natured.

nag'gy (năg'ĭ), n. A little nag.

nag·kas'sar (năg·kăs'ȧr), n. [Marathi nāgkesar, fr. Skr. nāgakesara, fr. nāga snake + kesara hair, Mesua.] Either of the two East Indian trees Mesua ferrea and Ochrocarpus longifolius (family Clusiaceae), from flower buds of which the natives get a red or orange dye. See MESUA.

Na'gl·far' (nä'gĭ·fär'), n. [ON.] Norse Myth. The ship, built from the nails of the dead, in which the forces of Hel advance on the Aesir at Ragnarok.

na'gor (nā'gôr), n. [F., coined by Buffon after nanguer an antelope, said to be native name in Senegal.] A reddish-brown West African reedbuck (Redunca redunca).

nags'man (năgz'mȧn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A man employed to ride horses to show them off in a sales ring, etc.

nag'ster (năg'stẽr), n. A nagging woman or man. Rare.

nag'-tailed' (năg'tȧld'), adj. Having the tail docked.

na·gual' (nä·gwäl'; nä·wäl'), n. [Sp., fr. Nahuatl nahualli witch, sorcerer, or fr. Quiche naual, prob. ult. of Zapotecan origin; cf. Zapotec ghnaoghel wise man.] Among Mexican and Central American Indians, a personal guardian spirit or tutelary genius, often supposed to reside in an animal or bird; also, a fetish or medicine (sense 4). — na·gual'ism (-ĭz'm), n. — na·gual'ist (-ĭst), n.

na'gyag·ite (nŏd'yȧ·gīt), n. [From Nagyag, in Transylvania.] Mineral. A mineral of lead color and metallic luster.

Na·ha'ne, Na·ha'ni (nȧ·hä'nē), n. An Indian of a group of thirteen Athapascan tribes, in three divisions, the Kaska, Tahltan, and Taku, living in British Columbia and the Yukon Territory. See MONTAGNARD, 2.

‖na'hi·e (nä'hĭ·ā), n. Also na'hi·ye (nä'hĭ·yā). [Turk. nāḥiye, fr. Ar. nāḥiyah district.] See CAZA.

na·hoor' (nȧ·hōōr'), n. [Said to be fr. Nepali nahur. Cf. NAYAUR.] The bharal.

Na'hor (nā'hôr), n. Bib. a Father of Terah, grandfather of Abraham. b Brother of Abraham.

Na'hua (nä'wä), n. pl. NAHUAS (-wäz); also NAHUA. a An Indian of the closely related Nahuatlan peoples, comprising the Aztecs and other civilized peoples of western and central Mexico and parts of Central America, who migrated from the north in prehistoric times. Their contact with, and conquest of, the Mayas enabled them to develop, by the time of the Spanish conquest, the highest civilization in North America. Their religion included human sacrifice and ritualistic cannibalism. Some of the more important Nahua peoples were the Aztecs, Nicaraos, Pipils, Tepanecs, Tezcucans, Tlascalans, and Toltecs. See AZTEC, NAHUATLAN. b Nahuatl. — Na'hua, adj.

Na'hua·tl (nä'wä·tl), n. The language of the Aztecs, and closely related dialects, constituting the Nahuatlan branch of the Uto-Aztecan linguistic family. It was one of the most finished languages of America prior to the Spanish invasion. — adj. Nahuatlan.

N

naa (nĭ). Dial. var. of NO.

Na'a·loi (nä'ȧ·lōi). D. Bib.

Na'am (nä'ĭm). Bib.

Na'a·ma (nä'ȧ·mȧ). D. Bib.

Na'a·mah (·mȧ). Bib.

Na'a·ma·thite (nä'ȧ·mȧ·thīt; nā·ăm'ȧ·thīt). Bib. [pl. Bib.]

Na'a·mites (nä'ȧ·mīts; nā·ăm'-), n. [Bib.]

Na'a·ra (nä'ȧ·rȧ). D. Bib.

Na'a·rah (·rȧ). Bib.

Na'a·rai (·rī). Bib.

Na'a·ran (·răn). Bib.

Na'a·rath (·răth). Bib. [Bib.]

Na·ar'a·tha (nā·är'ȧ·thȧ). D.

Na'a·ri'a (nā'ȧ·rĭ'ȧ). D. Bib.

Na·ash'on (nā·ăsh'ŏn; nā'ȧ·shŏn). Bib.

Na·as'son (nā·ăs'ŏn). Bib.

‖naas'ting (nās'tĭng), n. [D.] Rom. Dukh Law. = JUS RETRACTUS a.

Na'a·thus (nā'ȧ·thŭs). Bib.

Na·ba'loth (nȧ·bā'lŏth). D. Bib.

nab'ak (nĭb'ăk; năb'-). Var. of NABK.

Nab'a·lus (năb'ȧ·lŭs), n. [NL., prob. fr. Gr. nabla harp. See NABLA.] Bot. Syn. of PRENANTHES.

Nab'a·ri'as (năb'ȧ·rĭ'ăs). Bib.

Nab'a·thae'an (·thē'ăn), Nab'a·the'an, Nab'a·thite (năb'ȧ·thīt), n. = NABATAEAN.

nab'buk (năb'ŭk). Var. of NABK.

Nab'by. Dim. of ABIGAIL.

nab'cheat', n. [nab a hat + 2d cheat, n., 3.] A hat. Obs. Slang.

Na'be·shi'ma ware (nä'bā·shē'-mä). [After the Nabeshima, former feudal lords of Hizen, Japan, and patrons of ceramic art.] See HIZEN PORCELAIN.

na'ble (nā'bl), n. [L. nablum, nablium, = NABLA, 1. Obs.

na'ble (nā'bl). Var. of NAVEL. Now Dial.

na·bo' (nȧ·bō'). Var. of ANABO.

na'bob·ship, n. See -SHIP.

Nab'o·nas'sar, E'ra of (năb'ō·năs'ẽr). See ERA, Table.

Na'bu (nā'bŭ), n. See NEBO.

Nab'u·cho·don'o·sor (năb'ū·kō·dŏn'ō·sôr). Bib.

Nab'u·the'an (nȧ·bū'·thē'ăn). Var. of NABATAEAN. D. Bib.

nach (năch; nŏch). Var. of NAUTCH.

naches. Var. of NATCH.

Na'chor (nā'kŏn). Bib.

nack, nack'er, nack'y. Vars. of KNACK, etc. Dial.

na·co'da, na·co'dah. Vars. of NAKHODA.

nad, nadde. Contr. of ne had, hadde, had not. Obs. [Bib.]

Na·dab'a·tha (nȧ·dăb'ȧ·thȧ).

Nad'a·bi'a (năd'ȧ·bī'ȧ). D. Bib. nad'der (dial. nȧd'ẽr). Var. of ADDER. Now Dial.

nae (nĕ), adj. & adv. Scot., N. of Eng. & Ir. var. of NO, NOT.

nae'bod·y (nā'bŏd·ĭ), nae'thing (nā'thĭng). Scot. vars. of NOBODY, NOTHING. [WEIGHT, Table.] na'el (nā'ĕl), n. [Estonian.] See nae'ther (nā'thẽr). Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of NEITHER.

naeve, n. [L. naevus.] A naevus; a blemish. Obs. Dryden.

nae'void, nae'vus. Vars. of NEVOID, NEVUS.

naf'tha. Naphtha. Ref. Sp.

Na·ge'uk·tor·miut' (nä·gā'ŏok·tôr·mūt'), n. sing. & pl. See ESKIMO, 1.

Nag'ge (năg'ē). Bib.

nag'gin (năg'ĭn). Var. of NOGGIN.

naght (dial. nȧt). Var. of NAUGHT. Now Dial.

nag'maal'. = NACHTMAAL.

nag'man (năg'mȧn), n. = HOSTLER, 2. Eng. [annoy.]

nag'nag', v. i. & t. = NAG, to nagn'all'. Var. of AGNAIL.

nah. Illit. var. of NO.

Na'ha·bi (nā'hȧ·bĭ). D. Bib.

Na·ha'lal (·lăl). Bib. [Bib.]

Na·ha'li·el (nȧ·hā'lĭ·ĕl; -hăl'ĭ·ĕl).

Na·hal'lal (nȧ·hăl'ăl). Bib.

Na'ha·lol (nā'hȧ·lŏl). Bib.

Na'ham (nā'hăm). Bib.

Na·ha·ma'ni (nā'hȧ·mā'nĭ; nȧ·hăm'ȧ·nĭ). Bib.

Na'ha·rai (nā'hȧ·rī), Na'ha·ra'im (·rā'ĭm), Na'ha·ri (nā'hȧ·rĭ), Na'hash (nā'hăsh), Na'hath (nā'hăth), Nah'bi (nä'bī). Bib.

Na'har·ya'ïl (nā'här·yā'ĭl; nā'·här·wā'ĭl). n. pl. Also Na·ha'·nar·ya'ïl (nȧ·hā'när·yā'ĭl; nȧ·hā'·när·wā'ĭl). [L.] See ALCIS.

Nah'shon (nä'shŏn). Bib.

nahte. Contr. of ne ahte, owned or had not. Obs.

Na'huan (nä'wȧn), Na'hua·tlac (·wä·tlăk), adj. = NAHUATLAN.

N

Na'hua·tlan (nä'wä·tlăn), adj. Pertaining to or designating the branch of the Uto-Aztecan linguistic family of American Indians comprising the Nahuas. See NAHUATL. — n. Nahuatl.

Na'hum (nā'hŭm; -hŭm), n. [Heb. Naḥūm.] 1. Literally, comforter; — masc. proper name.
2. Bib. a A Hebrew prophet who flourished before the fall of Nineveh (about 606 B.C.), which he predicted. b The Book of Nahum. See OLD TESTAMENT.

nai'ad (nā'ăd; nī'ăd; 277), n.; pl. NAIADS (-ădz), NAIADES (nā'ă·dēz; nī'ă-). [L. naias, -adis, nais, -idis, a water nymph, fr. Gr. naias, nais; akin to Gr. naein to flow. See NOURISH; cf. NAID.] 1. Gr. & Rom. Myth. One of the nymphs believed to live in, and give life and perpetuity to, lakes, rivers, springs, and fountains.
2. Bot. Any plant of the genus Naias or family Naiadaceae.
3. Zool. Any species of the tribe Naiades; a fresh-water mussel. See MUSSEL, 2.

Nai'a·da'ce·ae (nā'ā·dā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL. See NAIAD.] Bot. A family of aquatic plants (order Naiadales) comprising only the genus Naias. — nai'a·da'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Nai'a·da'les (-lēz), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. An order of aquatic or marsh herbs typified by the Naiadaceae and comprising six other families. It has flowers with or without perianth, apocarpous ovaries, and seeds without endosperm.

Nai'a·des (nā'ā·dēz), n. pl. [NL. See NAIAD.] Zool. In older classifications, a tribe of mollusks practically equiv. to the family Unionidae. It is still used as a common collective name for the fresh-water mussels.

nai'ant (nā'ănt), adj. [OF. noiant, pres. part. of noier to swim, fr. L. natare. See NATANT.] Her. Swimming; — applied to a fish depicted horizontally.

Naiant.

Nai'as (nā'ăs), n. [L., a naiad.] Bot. A genus of submerged aquatic plants constituting the family Naiadaceae. They have filiform stems, sheathing leaves, and minute diclinous flowers with a double perianth.

na'id (nā'ĭd), n. [See NAIAD.] 1. A naiad. Obs.
2. Zool. Any of numerous species of small freshwater annelids, of the order Oligochaeta, constituting Nais and allied genera.

na·ïf (nä·ēf'), adj. [F. See NAÏVE.] 1. = NAÏVE, adj.
☞ Naïf, being masculine, should strictly be used with masculine nouns, but in English naïve also is so used.
2. Having a true luster when uncut; — of precious stones. — na·ïf'ly (nä·ēf'lĭ), adv.

na·ïf', n.; pl. NAÏFS (-ēfs'). A naïf, or naïve, person.

na'ik (nā'ĭk), n. Also na'ig (-ĭg), na'igue (-ēg), na'ique (-ēk). [Hind. nāyak, fr. Skr. nāyaka, lit., leader.] a A leader, chief, or governor in India; — a title of authority. b A native subordinate officer in the British India army; specif., a corporal. c [cap.] = NAYAK.

nail (nāl), n. [AS. nægel; akin to D. nagel, OS. & OHG. nagal, G. nagel, ON. nagli nail (in sense 1), nagli nail (in sense 2), Sw. nagel nail (in senses 1 and 2), Dan. nagle, Goth. ganagljan to nail, Lith. nagas nail (in sense 1), OIr. ingen, Russ. nogot', L. unguis, Gr. onyx, Skr. nakha. Cf. AGNAIL, ONYX.] 1. The horny scale or plate on the upper surface of the end of the fingers and toes of man, apes, and other animals. The nails represent a greatly thickened part of the stratum lucidum of the epidermis, the stratum corneum being here wanting. They are nourished during growth by the underlying cutis, which is very vascular and known as the matrix. Nails are strictly homologous with hoofs and claws, and differ from them only in shape and size.
2. A more or less slender, usually pointed piece of metal (rarely of wood — cf. TREE-NAIL), generally with a head intended to be struck by a hammer, used for driving into or through wood or other material to hold two or more pieces together, or as a support from which pictures, etc., may be hung, and occasionally for ornamental purposes. Cf. BRAD, SPIKE, TACK, WIRE NAIL. Nails are variously named from their use, shape, size, etc., as barbed, basket, boat, box, chair, floor, roofing, shingle, diamond, fourpenny (see -PENNY), wrought, wire, cut, finishing, galvanized, tinned, upholsterer's, etc.

Nails, 2. 1 Common Wire; 2 Flooring; 3 Finishing (wire); 4, 5 Boat; 6 Hinge, with Countersunk Head; 7 Horseshoe; 8 Chair; 9 Finishing (cut); 10, 11 Upholsterer's; 12 Clout; 13 Headless Wire.

3. Anything naillike in shape or color.
4. An old weight. = 1st CLOVE.
5. One sixteenth of a yard, or 2¼ inches (5.715 cm.).
6. A stamping device, as a dating nail, a broad-headed nail driven into a railroad tie and bearing note of the date of laying of the tie.
7. Zool. The terminal horny plate on the beak of ducks and other allied birds.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

nail-bearing, adj.	nail filer	nail-pierced nailbin	nail filing	nailprint nail-biting, adj.	nail hole	nail-shaped nailbrush	nail maker	nailshop
nail caster	nail-making, adj.	nailsmith nail-clipping, adj.	nail molder	nail-studded nail-cutting, adj.	nail-paring, adj.	nail-tailed

— a nail in one's coffin. Something regarded as likely to shorten one's life; as, a fit of anger is a nail in your coffin. — off at the nail. Crazy. Scot. — on the nail. a On the spot; immediately; without delay. b Of immediate interest; under present discussion. — to the nail. To the last degree; to perfection.

nail, adj. Of, pert. to, or concerned with nails.

nail (nāl), v.; NAILED (nāld); NAIL'ING. [AS. nægelian. See NAIL, n.] Transitive: 1. To fasten with a nail or nails; to close up or secure by means of nails.
2. To stud or boss with nails, or as with nails.
3. To fasten as with a nail; to secure; to bind, pin, or hold, as to a bargain or to acquiescence in an argument or assertion; hence, to catch; to trap.
4. To fix in steady attention, as the eyes or mind.
5. To clench, as an argument. Rare.
6. To detect and expose (a lie, assertion, or the like) so as to put a stop to its currency.
7. Slang. a To get hold of; secure; steal. b To seize; arrest. c Obs. To cheat. d To strike; hit.
8. Mil. To spike (a cannon). Obs.
—, Intransitive: 1. To work at carpentering.
2. To bind oneself to something.

nail one's colors to the mast. To assume and manifest an inflexible attitude, a determination not to acknowledge defeat, or the like.

-nail (-nāl). A combining form of nail, n., used in combinations, as in doornail, hobnail, toenail, treenail.

nail bed. Anat. The matrix of the nails (see NAIL, n., 1).

nail bit. A wood-boring tool used for cutting across the grain.

nail bone. Anat. a The lachrymal bone. b The terminal phalanx of a digit.

nail'er (nāl'ĕr), n. 1. A nail maker.
2. One who fastens with, or drives, nails.
3. One extremely good; a "crackajack." Slang.

— to work like a nailer. To work fast and energetically. Colloq.

nail'er·y (nāl'ĕr·ĭ), n.; pl. NAILERIES (-ĭz). A place where nails are made.

nail fold. Anat. The fold of the cutis at the margin of a nail.

nail'head' (nāl'hĕd'), n. a The head of a nail, or an ornament of that shape. b Arch. = NAIL-HEADED MOLDING. — nail'head', adj.

nail'–head'ed (66), adj. Having a head like that of a nail; formed so as to resemble the head of a nail.

nail–headed characters. Cuneiform characters.

nail–headed, or nailhead, molding. Arch. An ornament consisting of a series of low four-sided pyramids suggestive of nailheads. It is the same as the simplest form of dogtooth.

nailhead rust. Plant Pathol. = LEPROSIS.

nailhead spar. Mineral. Calcite crystallizing in nail-headed forms.

nailhead spot. Plant Pathol. A destructive rot of the tomato caused by Macrosporium tomato, characterized by small sunken black spots like the head of a nail.

nail'ing (nāl'ĭng), adj. Very good; "crackajack." Slang.

nail'less (nāl'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Having no nails; also, requiring no nails for fastening together.

Nail of Crucifixion. Astron. The constellation Sagitta.

nail puller. See PULLER, n., 2.

nail'rod' (nāl'rŏd'), n. 1. Iron in rods or strips for cutting into nails; a rod or strip of this.
2. Hard-pressed tobacco, usually very dark, made up in short rods or sticks. Eng. & Australia.
3. A North American herb (Aster hirsuticaulis) with lanceolate leaves and white or pale-purple flowers.
4. The blue herring.

nail set. = 7th PUNCH, 1 c.

nail'sick' (nāl'sĭk'), adj. Naut. Leaking at the nail or rivet holes.

nail'–tailed' kan'ga·roo or wal'la·by. A kangaroo of the genus Onychogale, in which the end of the tail ends in a horny spur.

nail water. Jewish Ritual. Water used for washing the hands before prayers.

nail'wort' (nāl'wŭrt'), n. a The whitlow grasses Draba verna and Saxifraga tridactylites. b Any plant of the genus Paronychia.

nail'y (nāl'ĭ), adj. Abounding in nails.

nain·sel', nain·sell' (nān·sĕl'), pron. [See NAIN own; SELF.] Own self; as, his nainsel. Highland Scot.

nain'sook (nān'sŏŏk; nān'-), n. [Hind. nainsukh, fr. nain, nayan, eye (fr. Skr. nayana, lit., leading, sc. organ) + sukh delight (fr. Skr. sukha).] A sort of jaconet, plain or striped, originally made in India.

Na'ir (nä'ĭr), n. One of a people of the Malabar coast of India, probably Dravidians with Aryan admixture, noted for the type of polyandry in vogue among them. In the Nair family the women are free to contract alliances as they please outside their own clan with men of equal or better rank; the children belong to the mother's clan; and property descends through the female line.

nair'y, adj. [n-+ary.] Not any; not the least. See ARY. Dial.

na'is (nā'ĭs), n. [L., a naiad.] 1. A naiad; river nymph.
2. Zool. See NAID, 2.

nais'sance (nās'ăns; -'ns), n. [F., birth.] 1. Origin; birth. Rare.
2. An original issue or growth; — dist. from renaissance.

nais'sant (nā'sănt; -s'nt), adj. [F., pres. part of naître to be born, fr. (assumed) VL. nascere, for L. nasci. See NASCENT.] 1. Her. Rising or issuing from the middle of an ordinary, esp. a fess. Cf. ISSUANT, JESSANT.
2. Nascent; newly born or about to come into being.

na·ïve' (nä·ēv'), adj. Also na·ïve', [F. naïf, fem. naïve, fr. L. nativus innate, natural, native. See NATIVE; cf. NAIF.] 1. Having native or unaffected simplicity; ingenuous; artless; as, naïve manners; a naïve person.
2. Untaught; esp., philosophically or scientifically uninstructed; unphilosophic; unsophisticated; as, nature seen from the naïve point of view.
— na·ïve'ly, adv. — na·ïve'ness, n.
Syn. — See FRANK, SIMPLE. Ant. — Artful. See DECEIT.

na·ïve', n. A naïve person.

na·ïve'té' (nä·ēv'tā'), n. Also na·ïve'te'. [F. See NAÏVE; cf. NATIVITY.] The quality or an instance of being naïve; native simplicity or unaffected naturalness; ingenuousness; artlessness.

na·ïve'ty (nä·ēv'tĭ), n. Naïveté.

Na'ja (nā'jä), n. [NL., fr. Hind. nāg snake, fr. Skr. nāga.] Zool. A genus of elapine serpents containing the cobras. See 1st COBRA a.

nak (năk), n. [Perh. fr. Hind. nāk nose.] Bot. The stigmatic point of the fruit of the mango Mangifera indica.

na'ked (nā'kĕd; -kĭd; 119), adj. [AS. nacod, orig. past part. of a lost verb; akin to D. naakt, G. nackt, OHG. nackut, ON. nökkvithr, Goth. nagaths, OIr. nochi, L. nudus, Skr. nagna, Lith. nuogas, OSlav. nagŭ. Cf. GYMNASIUM, NUDE.] 1. Having on no clothes or covering; nude; bare; uncovered; specif.: a Of a person, the human body or one of its parts, not wearing, covered by, or protected with, clothing of any sort; stripped to the skin; nude; as, naked savages; — also, Obs., clothed with only one scanty garment. "Their naked limbs." Milton. b Now Rare. Of an animal used for saddle, pack, or draft purposes, without saddle, pack, or harness. c Of a weapon or implement, esp. a sword, and so of a fire, light, candle, etc., out of, or not provided with, a sheath or case; as, naked steel; a naked dagger; a naked light.
2. Unprovided with needful or desirable clothing or, by extension, other accessories, means of sustenance, etc.; destitute; poverty-stricken; bare; as, naked of comforts.
3. Without some covering, decoration, or appurtenance customary or natural, so as to seem bare; barren; stripped; as, naked hills and fields, that is, without trees, grass, etc.; naked trees; naked rooms, that is, without furnishings.
4. a Without increase or addition; without added power, strength, or authority; unsupported; mere; simple; plain; as, a naked command; a naked belief. b Now Rare. Without qualities of power, worth, dignity, or the like; meager; bald; as, a naked history.
5. Without concealment or disguise; as: a Straightforward or outspoken; without reserve; as, a naked confession. b Open to view; manifest; clear; obvious; plain; as, his naked character; naked facts.
6. Having no means of defense or protection; defenseless; unprotected. "Behold my bosom naked to your swords." Addison.
7. a Rare. Undiluted: of full strength; as, naked spirits. b Without admixture; pure; as, naked water.
8. Bot. a Without pubescence; as, a naked leaf or stem b Destitute of enveloping parts or subtending leaves, as achlamydeous flowers, buds without scales, leafless stems, etc.
9. Law. Having nothing to validate, confirm, or support it; nude; as, a naked title, contract, or bailment.
10. Music. Not having the full complement of tones; — said of a chord of only two tones, which requires a third tone to make the combination pleasing to the ear.
11. Prosody. Beginning or ending a word; — of a vowel.
12. Zool. Of animals or parts of animals, destitute of the customary external structures, as hair, feathers, shell, etc.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

naked-armed	naked-flowered	naked-seeded
naked-bladed	naked-footed	naked-stalked naked-eared	naked-fruited	naked-tailed na'ked (nā'kĕd; -kĭd; 119), n. 1. A, or the, nude. Obs.

2. Arch. The uniform surface of a wall, either vertical or having a batter, from which decorative features project and in which are doors, windows, and niches; also, the face or surface of the shaft or body of a column or pilaster, from which the moldings or projections may be supposed to rise.

naked barley. See BARLEY, n.

naked bat. A large Indo-Malayan bat (Cheiromeles torquatus), naked except for a thin half collar.

naked bulb. Bot. A bulb consisting of scales, as that of the lily; — opposed to a coated, or tunicated, bulb.

naked debenture. See DEBENTURE c.

naked eye. The unaided eye; as, visible to the naked eye. — nak'ed–eye', adj.

na'ked–eyed' (66), adj. See -EYED; specif., Zool., having the sense organs exposed, as medusae of the order Leptolinae.

naked floor. Carp. a The timberwork supporting a floor. b A floor in which the joists extend from wall to wall.

na'ked·ize (nā'kĕd·īz; nā'kĭd-), v. t. & i. To make, be, or go, naked.

naked lady. The meadow saffron Colchicum autumnale.

na'ked·ly, adv. In a naked manner; specif.: a Without covering, disguise, or addition; manifestly; openly; simply; barely. b As standing by, or considered by, itself alone; as, a question discussed nakedly. c In an unclothed, exposed, defenseless, or unprotected manner. d In a deficient or imperfect manner; barely; poorly.

naked mollusk. Zool. One of the Nudibranchia.

na'ked·ness (nā'kĕd·nĕs; -kĭd·nĭs; 119), n. a State of being naked; one that is naked. b Chiefly Bib. That which should be covered, esp. the privates.

naked oat. An oat (Avena nuda) having multiple-flowered spikelets with naked or hull-less kernels, long grown in China.

naked possessor. Law. A possessor of land without title or color of title. See POSSESSOR, n., 2.

naked power. See POWER, n., 12.

naked seed. See ACHENE.

naked smut. See SMUT, n., 2.

na'ked·wood' (nā'kĕd·wŏŏd'; nā'kĭd-), n. The snakebark Colubrina ferruginosa and the related C. reclinata, with hard, heavy heartwood.

na'ker (-kĕr), n. [ME. nakere, fr. OF. nacre, nacaire, fr. It. nacchera, ML. nacara, fr. Ar. naqqārah. See NACRE; cf. NAGARA.] Music. A kettledrum.

nakh'lite (năk'lĭt), n. [From Al-Nakhlah al-Baḥrīyah, near Alexandria, Egypt.] A meteoritic stone composed of diopside, olivine, and accessory augite, oligoclase, and magnetite, and without chondrules.

na'kho·da (nā'kō·dä), n. [Per. nākhuda, fr. nāw ship + khuda master.] A master of a native vessel. India.

na·kong' (nä·kŏng'), n. [Sechuana.] The sitatunga Limnotragus spekei gratus of West Africa.

na'koo (nä'kōō), -ko (-kō), n. [Singhalese naku, or Hind. nākū, fr. Skr. nakra.] The gavial.

Nak'sha·tra (nŭk'shä·trä), n. [Skr. nakṣatra.] Hindu Astrol. One of the asterisms in the moon's path or one of its celestial houses. Mythologically, the Nakshatras were wives of the moon.

Na'la (nŭl'ä), n. The hero of a romance, Nala and Damayanti, which forms an episode of the Mahabharata, recounting the love story of Nala and the lady Damayanti. Cf. MAHABHARATA.

Na'lī·ta (nŭl'ē·tä), n. [Beng. nolita, written as nalitā.] = AMBARY HEMP.

Na'ma (nä'mä), n. a One of a semi-independent Hottentot tribe of Namaqualand. b Their language, the most important Hottentot dialect. See HOTTENTOT.

Na'ma (nä'mä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nama stream.] Bot. Syn. of HYDROLEA.

nam'a·ble, name'a·ble (nām'ä·b'l), adj. a Capable of being named. b Worthy of being named or recalled; memorable.—nam'a·bil'ĭ·ty, name'a·bil'ĭ·ty (nām'ä·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

na·ma'qua (nä·mä'kwä), n. [Because chiefly found in Great Namaqualand.] A long-tailed African dove (Oena capensis).

Na·ma'qua (nä·mä'kwä), Na·ma'quan (-kwăn), n. = NAMA.

Na'hua·tle'ca (nä'wä·tlā'kä), n. = NAHUA, n., a. [NAHUATLAN.]
Na'hua·tle'can (-kăn), adj. = Na'ja. Var. of NAJA. naic, naick. Vars. of NAIK.
Na'ĭ·dus (nā'ĭ·dŭs). Bib. naig (nāg). Var. of NAG, a horse. Chiefly Scot. naig'ie (-ĭ). Dim. of NAIG, nag. nail'er·ess, n. See -ESS. nail'like', adj. See -LIKE.

nail'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF. nain (nān), adj. [For ain = OWN; mine ain taken as my nain.] = OWN. Scot.
Na'in (nä'ĭn). Bib.
‖nain' jaune' (năn' zhōn'). [F., yellow dwarf.] Card Games. = POPE JOAN, 2. na'ĭ·o (nä'ē·ō), n. [Hawaiian.] a = NGAIO. b = BASTARD SANDALWOOD b.
Nai'oth (nā'ŏth; -ŏth). Bib.
Nai·pa'lī (nī·pä'lē), n. Var. of NEPALI. naip'kin (nāp'kĭn). Scot. var. [of NAPKIN.] na'ique. Var. of NAIK.
Na'ir or Zau'rak (nä'ĭr or zou'răk). [Ar. nayyir al-zawraq the bright star of the boat.] See STAR, Table.
naish (nāsh; nĕsh). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of NESH, adj.

nait, n. [ON. neyti; akin to E. NEAT cattle.] Usc. Obs. — v. t. To use. Obs. nait, v. i. [ON. neita.] To say no to; to deny; refuse. Obs. nai'ther (dial. nā'thĕr). Var. of NEITHER. Now Dial. nait'ly, adv. Effectively. Obs.
Naj'dĭ. Var. of NEJDI nake, adj. [See NAKED.] Naked. Obs. — v. t. To make naked; to lay bare; strip. Obs. exc. Scot. na'ked·ish, adj. See -ISH. na'ked·wood', n. = GUM SUCCORY b. na'khod (nä'kŏd), n. [Per. nukhūd grain, pulse.] See WEIGHT, Table.
Na·kir' (nä·kĭr'), n. See MUN-[KAR.]
Na·kom'gi·lĭ'sa·la (nä·kŏm'gyē·lĭ'sä·lä), n. See NAWITI.
Na'ku·la, n. See MAHABHARATA.

nalde. Obs. past tense of NILL, v. nale. Corrupt. of ALE, from the phrase "at then ale," at the ale, or alehouse. Obs. exc. Dial.
nall (nôl), nalle. Var. of AWL. Now Dial.
nal'lah. Var. of NULLAH.
nam. Var. of NAAM, a distraint.
nam. Obs. past tense of NIM.
nam. Contr. of ne am or em not. Obs.

nam'ay·cush (năm'ā·kŭsh), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Cree namekus, Ojibway namégoss.] A large trout of the lakes of North America from New Brunswick to Alaska. It is grayish with many round paler spots on the body and darker reticulations on the caudal and dorsal fins, and reaches a weight of 20 pounds or occasionally much more.

(Cristivomer namaycush) Namaycush.

na'maz' (nä'măz'), n. [Turk. namāz.] The chief prayer of the Mohammedans, recited five times daily.

nam'by-pam'by (năm'bĭ·păm'bĭ), adj. [From Ambrose Philips, in ridicule of the extreme simplicity of some of his verses.] Affectedly pretty; weakly sentimental; insipid; inane. "Namby-pamby madrigals of love." W. Gifford. — nam'by-pam'bi·cal (-păm'bĭ·kăl), adj. — nam'by-pam'bics (-bĭks), n. — nam'by-pam'bi·ness, n. — nam'by-pam'by·ish, adj. — nam'by-pam'by·ism (-lz'm), n.

nam'by-pam'by, n. That which is weakly sentimental or affectedly pretty, as talk, or writing, or a person.

nam'da (nŭm'dä), n. Also num'da. [Hind. namdā, fr. Per. namad felt. Cf. NAMMAD.] A felt rug or saddlecloth, esp. the embroidered felt rugs of Kashmir. India (Punjab) & Tibet.

name (nām), n. [AS. nama; akin to D. naam, OS. & OHG. namo, G. name, ON. nafn, for namn, Dan. navn, Sw. namn, Goth. namō, OIr. ainm, L. nomen, Gr. onoma, Skr. nāman. Cf. ANONYMOUS, COGNOMEN, IGNOMINY, MISNOMER, NOMINAL, NOUN.] 1. The title by which any person or thing is known or designated; a distinctive specific appellation, whether of an individual or a class. A singular name designates the character of the single individual thing which it denotes; as, "the center of the earth" is a singular name; a proper name, such as "Milton," "Boston," denotes any individual, esp. a person or place, without necessarily saying anything of character; a general name, such as "man," "metal," designates a character or connotation applicable to more than one individual, but without reference to this plurality; a collective name such as "army," "audience," denotes a plurality of individuals. Common or class name is used for any type of name other than proper.

The grand old name of gentleman. Tennyson.

2. A descriptive or qualifying appellation given to a person or thing, on account of character or acts; epithet.

His name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor. Is. ix. 6.

3. Reputed character; reputation, good or bad; estimation; fame; esp., illustrious fame; honorable reputation; as, a name for bravery; he has the name of a miser.

4. The designation of a person or, rarely, a thing, regarded as representing his or its individuality and character; as, the most detested names in history.

5. The mere appellation or designation of a thing, in distinction from the reality; seeming only; as, there was only the name of friendship between them.

6. Those of a certain name; a race; family; clan.

7. Anthropol. The appellation of a person as a magic entity,—sometimes confused with the soul or spirit. Many peoples believe that the name of a person contains in itself some essence, a part of the life of the owner, and must not be given or taken away.

8. Grammar. A noun. Obs.

9. Logic. A term; any word or combination of words designating a logical concept.

10. Math. a Obs. Denomination. b Sign.

Syn. — NAME, DESIGNATION, DENOMINATION, APPELLATION, TITLE, STYLE. NAME is the general term; a DESIGNATION is a distinctive name; DENOMINATION (somewhat antiquated as a mere synonym for name) applies esp. to a class or category; as, "Whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof" (Gen. ii. 19); He modestly disclaimed the designation of philosopher; "All these came under the denomination of Anabaptists" (Strype). APPELLATION (now somewhat bookish) suggests a more or less descriptive or characterizing name; a TITLE is an appellation which designates rank, office, distinction, and the like; STYLE is more formal or ceremonious than title; the verb style, however, is not so formal as the noun; as, "This ridiculous name . . . struck the fancy of the people; and they commonly affixed to this assembly the appellation of Barebone's Parliament" (Hume); "'Thane of Cawdor,' by which title . . . these weird sisters saluted me" (Shak.); "Am I a queen in title and in style?" (Shak.); cf. "Shall I say Jacobites? or, as they were pleased to style themselves, the country gentlemen?" (Gibbon).

— by name. a With, or according to, individual mention; with specific personal designation; as, he addressed his soldiers by name. b With phrases of knowing, recognizing, etc.: (1) As individuals; individually; as, he knew them all by name. (2) By reputation, as distinguished from acquaintance or appearance; as, he knew the general by name, but not personally. — by, or of, the name of. Having, or known by, the name of; called; as, a man by the name of Smith. Now Colloq. — in the name of. a In invocation, adjuration, etc., originally of divine or holy persons or things; as, In the name of God, amen; in the name of common sense, consider. b In behalf of; by the authority of; as, in the name of the law. c In the represented or assumed character of. "I'll to him again in name of Brook." Shak. d As owned by; as, a bank account in the name of Smith. — over one's signature, name, etc. See over one's signature, name, etc., under OVER. — to one's name. Belonging to one.

name (nām), v. t.; NAMED (nāmd); NAM'ING (nām'ĭng). [AS. namian. See NAME, n.] 1. To give a distinctive name or appellation to; to entitle; denominate; style; call.

She named the child Ichabod. 1 Sam. iv. 21.

2. To mention by name; to utter or publish the name of; to refer to by distinctive title.

None named thee but to praise. Halleck.

3. To designate by name or specifically for any purpose; to nominate; appoint; as, to name a day for a wedding.

4. To call by name; to identify as by mentioning the name of; as, to be able to name the flowers or birds; to name in order the States bordering on the Gulf of Mexico.

5. To speak about or mention; cite; state; as, to name a price; to name the source of your information.

6. Of the Speaker of the House of Commons, to designate (a member) by name by way of reprimand. Brit.

7. Billiards, etc. To call (a shot); = CALL, v. t., 19. Brit.

name in, or on, the same day. To admit to, or recognize in, comparison; — with a negative or interrogatively; as, no admiral of his time can be named in the same day with Nelson.

name (nām), adj. a Bearing or intended for a name or names; as, a name book. b Designating a person named for, or in honor or remembrance of, another, or the person for whom another is named; as, a name son or father.

name'board' (nām'bōrd'; 181), n. a A shopkeeper's signboard. b Naut. The board, or place on the hull, where a ship's name is displayed.

-named (-nāmd). Named, part. adj., used in combinations:

above-named	first-named	oft-named before-named	last-named	self-named name day. 1. The day of the saint whose name one bears; also, the day on which a child is named.

2. London Stock Exchange. The day, called officially ticket day, on which a ticket giving the name of the buyer of securities and the consideration is issued by the purchasing broker to the seller (jobber), which is passed through the hands of all the parties to the transaction to the original seller, so that the middlemen (if any) may settle differences and the actual transfer be made between the final holder of the ticket and the issuing broker.

name'less, adj. 1. Undistinguished; not noted; obscure.

A nameless dwelling and an unknown name. Harte.

2. Not known, specified, or mentioned by name; anonymous; as, he shall be nameless; a nameless book.

3. Having no legal right to a name; illegitimate; bastard.

4. Without a name; not having been given a name.

5. Not marked with any name; as, a nameless grave.

6. Unnamable; indescribable; inexpressible. "Battling . . . with a legion of nameless terrors." Conrad.

7. Not to be named, because too horrible or repulsive; as, nameless idolatries.

— name'less·ly, adv. — name'less·ness, n.

Nameless City. Ancient Rome; — so called because its real name was supposed to be kept secret to prevent an enemy from using it in incantations against its protecting gods.

name'ling (nām'lĭng), n. One of a name or clan. Obs.

name'ly (nām'lĭ), adv. 1. By name; by particular mention; specifically; especially; expressly. Obs. Chaucer.

2. That is to say; to wit; videlicet. "The excellency of the soul, namely, its power of divining dreams." Addison.

name'ly (-lĭ), adj. Famous; noted. Obs. exc. Scot.

name part. Theat. The title role in a play.

name plate. A plate or plaque bearing or designed to bear a name, as that of the owner, proprietor, or manufacturer.

nam'er (nām'ĕr), n. One who names, or calls by name.

name'sake' (nām'sāk'), n. [For name's sake; i. e., one named for the sake of another's name.] One that has the same name as another; esp., one named after another. — v. i. To give the name of another to. Rare.

nam'ing (nām'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of NAME. Specif.: verbal n. Act, process, or result of giving a name or names, or of devising a nomenclature.

nam'mad (nŭm'ŭd), n. [Per. namad felt. Cf. NAMDA.] A kind of thick felted Persian rug or carpet with embroidered or inlaid pattern.

nam'ma hole (năm'ä). [Aboriginal namma breast.] A cup-shaped hole in the ground forming a natural reservoir for rain water. Australia.

Nam·ta'ru (näm·tä'rō), n. [Assyr.-Bab. namtāru fate, pestilence.] Babylon. Relig. Messenger of the underworld goddess Eresh-Kigal-(Allatu), bringing death to mankind with the aid of sixty diseases which he has in charge.

Na'nai (nä'nī), n. [Assyr.-Bab. Nanâ.] Babylon. Relig. An early goddess of Ur and Uruk, daughter of Anu, identified with the planet Venus and later merged in the goddess Ishtar.

Na·nai'mo (nä·nī'mō), n. An Indian of a Cowichan tribe. See COWICHAN, n., 2.

Na·nai'mo se'ries (nä·nī'mō). [From Nanaimo, Vancouver I., B.C.] Geol. The partly marine, partly estuarine, coal-bearing Cretaceous beds of Vancouver Island, British Columbia. They have a total thickness of about 10,000 feet.

nan'cy (năn'sĭ), n. A small Australian grasslike herb (Wurmbea dioica), family Liliaceae, with white flowers. Tasmania.

Nan'cy (năn'sĭ), n.; pl. NANCIES (-sĭz). [ME. Annis Agnes, with n prefixed (prob. due to a preceding mine, thine). The name Annis, Agnes, was somewhat confused with Anne. See AGNES.] 1. A familiar form of ANN or ANNE. — Dim. Nan, Nance. See ANN.

2. A girl of dissolute life, but good impulses, in Dickens's Oliver Twist. She was the mistress of Bill Sikes.

3. = MISS NANCY.

4. See SWEET NANCY.

Nan'cy (năn'sĭ), n. [Ashanti ananse spider, personification of spider, ananse-sem a tale, story.] a A folk tale of the Gold Coast Negroes or their West Indian descendants. b See ANANSI.

Nancy Lee. The title and heroine of a popular song by Frederic Edward Weatherly.

Nan'di (nän'dē), n. sing. & pl. One of a Negro tribe in the British East Africa Protectorate.

Nan·di'na (năn·dĭ'nä), n. [NL., fr. Jap. nandin.] Bot. A genus of Chinese and Japanese evergreen shrubs (family Berberidaceae), having as its only known species N. domestica, the nandin, or sacred bamboo. It has decompound leaves and small white paniculate flowers.

nan'dine (năn'dĭn), n. [Of African origin.] An African, spotted, ring-tailed palm civet, of the genus Nandinia, of which there are two species, N. binotata and N. gerrardi.

nand pearl (nănd) [Origin uncert.] A pearly excrescence, formed similarly to a pearl, inside the shell of a bivalve.

nan'du (năn'dōō), n. [Pg. or Sp.; Pg. nandu, nhandu, fr. Tupi nandú, ñhandu; Sp. ñandú, nandu, fr. Guarani ñandu, nando.] A rhea; esp., Rhea americana.

nan'ga (năng'gä), n. [Luganda enanga.] A small Nubian harp.

nang·ca', nang·ka' (năng·kä'), n. [Tag.] a Phil. I. The jack tree; also, its fruit. See 1st JACK. b In Guam, the breadfruit tree (Artocarpus communis).

na'nism (nā'nĭz'm; năn'ĭz'm), n. [F. nanisme, fr. L. nanus a dwarf, fr. Gr. nanos, of obscure origin.] The condition of being abnormally small in stature; dwarfishness; — opposed to gigantism.

na'ni·za'tion (nā'nĭ·zā'shŭn; năn'ĭ-; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. [F. naniser to dwarf.] Artificial dwarfing, such as that produced in trees by horticulturists.

nan·keen' (năn·kēn'), n. Also nan·kin'. [From Nanking, or Nankin, China, Chin. (Pek.) nan²-ching¹ southern capital, where orig. made.] 1. Cloth, of firm texture and great durability, originally brought from China, made of a species of cotton (Gossypium religiosum) that is naturally brownish yellow.

2. An imitation of this cloth, with artificial coloring.

3. pl. Trousers made of nankeen. Ld. Lytton.

4. Also Nankeen yellow. = NAPLES YELLOW, 2.

5. [cap.] = NANKEEN PORCELAIN.

nankeen bird. An Australian night heron (Nycticorax caledonicus).

nankeen hawk or kestrel. The Australian kestrel (Falco, syn. Cerchneis, cenchroides).

nankeen lily. A Japanese garden lily (Lilium testaceum), with fragrant nankeen-yellow flowers.

Nankeen porcelain. Chinese porcelain painted in blue on white, — a dealer's term, including all except the roughest sorts both ancient and modern.

Nan'king' (năn'kĭng'), Nan'kin' (-kĭn'), n. 1. A Capital of China. b Figuratively, the government of China.

2. See TREATY, Table.

3. The color Naples yellow.

Nan'king·ese' (năn'kĭng·ēz'; -ēs'; 66), n. The southern variety of the Mandarin dialect. See MANDARIN, n., 2.

Nanking, or Nankin, porcelain or china. = NANKEEN PORCELAIN.

Nanking, or Nankin, yellow. A yellow dye consisting (like iron buff) essentially of ferric hydroxide, formed on the fabric; also, the color it produces.

Nan'na (nän'nä), n. [ON.] Teut. Myth. The wife of Balder.

nan·nan'der (nän·ăn'dĕr), n. [nanno- + -ander.] Bot. A dwarf male (which see). — nan·nan'drous (-drŭs), adj.

nan'no·plank'ton (năn'ō·plăngk'tŏn), n. [NL., fr. nanno- + plankton.] Biol. The smallest plankton, comprising those organisms, as flagellates, algae, bacteria, etc., which pass through nets of the finest mesh.

nan'ny (năn'ĭ), n.; pl. NANNIES (-lz). Short for NANNY GOAT.

nan'ny, n. A nurse; — a child's word.

Nan'ny (năn'ĭ), n. [From Nan, due to mistaking mine Ann, thine Ann, for my Nan, thy Nan.] Dim. of ANN or ANNE. See ANN.

nanny goat. A female goat. Colloq.

nanny plum. = SHEEPBERRY a.

na'no- (nā'nō-; năn'ō-), nan-. [See NANISM.] A combining form, Greek nano-, from nanos, meaning dwarf, as in nanism. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

nanocephalia	nanocephalus	nanomelus nanocephalic	nanocephaly	nanosoma nanocephalism	nanomelia	nanosomia nanocephalous	nanomelous	nanosomus na'noid (nā'noid; năn'oid), adj. [nan- + -oid.] Having an abnormally small body; dwarfish.

na·nom'e·lus (nā·nŏm'ē·lŭs), n. [NL., fr. nano- + Gr. melos limb.] Terat. A monstrosity having abnormally short limbs.

na'no·so'mus (nā'nō·sō'mŭs; năn'ō-), n. [NL., fr. nano- + -somus.] A person exhibiting microsomia (nanosomia).

nan'pie (năn'pī), n. [Cf. NANNY; PIE magpie.] The magpie. Local, Eng.

Nan'ti·coke (năn'tĭ·kōk), n. An Indian of an important Algonquian tribe of Maryland, who ultimately united with the Conoy.

nan'to·kite (năn'tō·kīt), n. [From Nantoco, in Chile.] Mineral. Native cuprous chloride, CuCl.

na·ol'o·gy (nā·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [Gr. naos temple + -logy.] Study of, or learning in regard to, sacred edifices. — na'o·log'i·cal (nā'ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj.

na·om'e·try (nā·ŏm'ē·trĭ), n. [Gr. naos temple + -metry.] Measurement of a sacred edifice. Rare.

Na'o·mi (nā'ō·mī; nä·ō'mĭ; -mĭ), n. [Heb. Nā'omī.] Lit., my sweetness; — fem. proper name; in the Bible, the mother-in-law of Ruth. Ruth i.

na'os (nā'ŏs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. naos a temple, the cella.] Class Antiq. a A temple or shrine. b Arch. = CELLA. See PARTHENON, Illust.

Na'os (nā'ŏs), n. [Gr. naus ship.] See STAR, Table.

nap (năp), v. i.; NAPPED (năpt); NAP'PING. [ME. nappen, fr. AS. hnæppian; cf. OHG. hnaffezen, and Nor. nap, n.] To have a short sleep; to doze; hence, figuratively, to be in a careless, unguarded state.

I took thee napping, unprepared. Hudibras.

nap, n. A short sleep; a doze; a siesta. Cowper.

nap (năp), n. [ME. noppe, fr. MD. noppe (D. nop); akin to AS. āhnēopan to pluck off.] 1. Textiles. a A villous, hairy, or downy surface found on some woven fabrics, esp. those made from wool; now, such a surface raised on certain fabrics by teaseling, brushing, etc.; — disting. from pile. b pl. Fabrics which are napped, as canton flannel, broadcloth, etc.; — used in the trade.

2. Lithography. The slight projections or granulations on a roller to reach the bottom of the grain of a stone.

nap, v. t. & i. a Obs. To cut the nap from. b To raise a nap (on); to put a nap on.

nap (năp), v. t. & i. [Prob. of Scand. origin; cf. Sw. nappa to catch, to snatch, Dan. nappe to pinch, to twitch, to pull. Cf. KIDNAP, NAB, v.] To seize; grasp; steal. Chiefly Dial. Eng.

nap, v. Var. of 2d KNAP. — n. Var. of 3d KNAP.

nap, n. a = 2d NAPOLEON, 1. b Cards. = 2d NAPOLEON, 2.

Na·pae'a (nä·pē'ä), n. [L. Napaea the nymph, fr. Gr. Napaia, fr. napaios sylvan, fr. napē a woodland vale.] 1. Also Na·pe'a. Gr. Myth. A wood nymph.

2. Bot. A genus of American herbs of the mallow family (Malvaceae). N. dioica is the glade mallow.

— Na·pae'an, Na·pe'an (-ăn), adj.

nap'al (nāp'ăl; -l), adj. Anat. Relating to the nape of the neck.

nap'a leath'er (năp'ä), or nap'a, n. a [cap.] Orig., a glove leather made in Napa, California, by tawing sheepskins with a soap-and-oil mixture. b Now, usually, any of a type of leathers resembling the original product in softness. — nap'a, adj.

---

na'mas'lik (nä'mĕz'lĭk), n. [Turk. namāslıq, fr. Per. namāz prayers.] = PRAYER RUG.

Nam·bē' (nām·bā'), n. See TEWA.

name. Obs. past tense of NIM.

name'a·ble, name'a·bil'i·ty. Vars. of NAMABLE, NAMABILITY.

namore. ✝ NO MORE.

Na·mu'el (nā·mū'ĕl). D. Bib.

Na·mu'el·ites (-īts). D. Bib.

nan (năn), interj. [For anan.] = ANAN, ANON. Obs. exc. Dial.

nan (nän), nane (nän). Vers. of NONE. Obs. exc. Dial.

nan-. = NANO-.

na'na (nā'nd; nā'nd'ä), n. [Nursery word.] = NURSE, n., 1.

Na'na (nā'nä), n. See NATA.

na·nan'der, na·nan'drous. Vars. of NANNANDER, etc.

na'na·wood', n. [Marathi nānā.] = BEN-TEAK.

nan-ca', Var. of NANGCA.

nan'di, n. [Telugu.] = BEN-TEAK.

nan'dow. Var. of NANDU.

nane (nän). Var. of NAIN, OWN; NAM, NONE.

Na·ne'a (nā·nē'ä). Bib.

nanes (nänz). Var. of NONCE. Obs. exc. Scot.

nang'nail'. Var. of AGNAIL.

nan·nan'dri·um (năn·ăn'drĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] = NANNANDER.

Nan'nar (năn'nĕr), n. [Bab.] Babylon Relig. See SIN.

Nan·nette' (năn·ĕt'), n. See ANN; — fem. proper name.

nan'ni·nose (năn'ĭ·nōs). Var. of MANINOSE.

nan'no- (năn'ō-). [Gr. nannos dwarf.] = NANO-.

nan'ny-ber'ry, nan'ny-bush', n. = SHEEPBERRY a.

nant, nan'tle. Vars. of NAUNT, NAUNTLE.

Nantz (nănts), n. Also Nants. [From Nantes, France.] = BRANDY. Archaic.

Na'o·sau'rus (nā'ō·sô'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. naos temple, taken in the sense of nave (from the transverse processes on its neural spines) + -saurus.] Syn. of EDAPHOSAURUS.

N

nape (nāp; see note below), n [ME., of uncert. origin.] The back part of the neck.

☞ The colloq. pron. nǎp, very common in the United States, is regarded by many as dialectal.

nape, v. t. To strike on the nape; to cut at the nape. Obs.

nape (nāp), n. [L. napus. Cf. NEEP.] The yellow turnip. Obs.

na·pe′ad (nā·pē′ăd), n. [Also cap.] Gr. Myth. A Napaea. R.

nape′crest′ (nāp′krĕst′), n. An African bird of the genus Crinifer, related to the plantain eaters.

na·pel′lus (nā·pĕl′ŭs), n. [ML., fr. L. napus turnip; — from the shape of the root.] The common monkshood (Aconitum napellus).

na′per·er (nā′pĕr·ĕr), n. [napery + -er.] An officer in a royal household having charge of the table linen.

na′per·y (-ĭ), n. [OF. naperie, fr. nape (F. nappe), fr. L. mappa. See MAP; cf. APRON, NAPKIN.] 1. Household linen; esp., table linen.

2. Making or keeping of napery; office of naperer. Obs.

nap hand. Cards. A hand to bid nap (a napoleon) on; figuratively, favorable chances that invite taking risks.

Naph′ta·li (năf′tȧ·lī), n. Bib. a One of the twelve sons of Jacob. b The tribe named for him. c A region in Palestine.

naph′tha (năf′thȧ; 277), n. [L., fr. Gr. naphtha; cf. Av. napta moist, Per. naft naphtha, Assyr.-Bab. naptu.] 1. Petroleum, esp. the more volatile varieties.

2. Old Chem. Any of various volatile, strong-smelling, inflammable liquids, as ordinary ether, ethyl acetate, etc.

3. Any of several volatile inflammable liquids obtained by distilling certain carbonaceous materials and used as solvents in dry cleaning, varnish making, etc., and as fuels; as, petroleum naphtha or mineral naphtha from petroleum; crude naphtha, or light oil, from coal tar; shale naphtha or photogen, from shale; wood naphtha (chiefly methanol or wood alcohol) from wood, etc. Naphtha from petroleum may be either a crude distillate (crude naphtha) comprising petroleum ether, gasoline, benzine, etc., or a refined fraction distinct from gasoline and benzine. Solvent naphtha, used esp. to dissolve rubber, is usually a coal-tar distillate boiling higher than the benzols.

naph′tha·cene (-sēn), n. Chem. An orange-yellow, crystalline, cyclic hydrocarbon, $C_{18}H_{12}$, artificially made.

naph′tha·late (năf′thȧ·lāt), n. Chem. A salt or ester of naphthalic acid.

naph′tha·lene (năf′thȧ·lēn), n. [From NAPHTHA.] Chem. A hydrocarbon, $C_{10}H_8$, one of the principal constituents of coal tar, forming brilliant white platelike crystals of peculiar odor. It is obtained esp. from the middle oil from coal tar, and is used extensively in the manufacture of dyes and explosives, as a defense against moths (as in moth balls), etc. It contains a double benzene nucleus and is the parent substance of a large number of derivatives. For convenience in distinguishing isomers, the carbon atoms are designated by numbers, as shown in the formula. There are two kinds of mono derivatives, 1- (or α-) and 2- (or β-) (see NAPHTHOL, 1). Diderivatives are sometimes distinguished by prefixes; as, 1,2-, ortho-; 1,3-, meta-; 1,4-, para-; 1,5-, ana-; 1,6-, epi-; 1,7-, kata-; 1,8-, peri-; 2,6-, amphi-; 2,7-, pros-.

Naphthalene.

naph′tha·lene·sul·phon′ic (-sŭl·fŏn′ĭk), adj. [naphthalene + sulphonic.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating any of several acids derived from naphthalene, specif. either of the mono derivatives, $C_{10}H_7SO_3H$. See NAPHTHALENE. Some of these acids are used in dye manufacture.

naph′tha·len′ic (năf′thȧ·lĕn′ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to, or derived from, naphthalene.

naphthalenic acid. A yellow crystalline compound, $C_{10}H_6(OH)O_2$.

naph′tha·len′oid (năf′thȧ·lĕn′oid), adj. [See -OID.] Chem. Resembling naphthalene, esp. in structure.

naph·thal′ic (năf·thăl′ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to, or derived from, naphthalene.

naphthalic acid. a A crystalline diacid, $C_{10}H_6(CO_2H)_2$, formed by oxidation of acenaphthene. b Naphthalenic acid. c Obs. Phthalic acid.

naph·thal′i·dine (năf·thăl′ĭ·dēn; -dĭn; 157), n. Also -din. (naphthalene + toluidine.] Chem. Naphthylamine.

naph′tha·lize (năf′thȧ·līz), v. t.; -LIZED (-līzd); -LIZ′ING (-līz′ĭng). To mingle, saturate, or impregnate, with naphtha. — naph′tha·li·za′tion (-lĭ·zā′shŭn; -lī·zā′-), n.

naph′tha·mine (năf′thȧ·mēn; -mĭn), adj. [naphth- + -amine.] Designating any of a series of direct azo dyes; as, naphthamine blue 2 B.

naph′thene (năf′thēn), n. Chem. Any of a series of saturated cyclic hydrocarbons of the general formula C_nH_{2n}; a cycloalkane or cycloparaffin; — applied esp. to those members (chiefly cyclopentane and cyclohexane and alkyl derivatives of them) occurring in certain kinds of petroleum, in shale tar oil, etc. The naphthenes are distinguished as hexanaphthene (C_6H_{12}), heptanaphthene (C_7H_{14}), octanaphthene (C_8H_{16}), nonanaphthene (C_9H_{18}), etc., according to the number of their carbon atoms.

☞ The ending -ene in these words is objectionable since it customarily denotes unsaturation.

naph·the′nic (năf·thē′nĭk; -thĕn′ĭk), adj. Chem. Of, pertaining to, or derived from, a naphthene.

naphthenic acid. Any of a large number of carboxylic (esp. monocarboxylic) acids derived from naphthenes and obtained from naphthene-containing petroleum. Salts of these acids have been used as soaps (naphthenic soaps), wood preservatives, etc.

naph′thi·o·nate (năf′thĭ·ō·nāt), n. A salt of naphthionic acid.

naph′tho- (năf′thō-), naphth-. Chem. A combining form for naphtha, denoting relation to naphthalene or the presence of the naphthalene nucleus, as in naphthoquinone (or naphthaquinone). The use of these forms to denote the replacement of a benzene nucleus by a naphthalene nucleus, as in naph·than′thra·cene, $C_{18}H_{12}$, naph′tho·res·or′cin·ol, $C_{10}H_6(OH)_2$, has been criticized. — naph′tho (-thō), adj.

naph·tho′ic (năf·thō′ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or designating either of two crystalline acids, $C_{10}H_7CO_2H$, derived from naphthalene.

naph′thol (năf′thōl; năf·thōl′; năf′thŏl), n. Also naph′tol (-tōl; -tŏl). [naphthalene + -ol.] 1. Chem. a Either of two white, crystalline hydroxyl derivatives of naphthalene, $C_{10}H_7OH$, distinguished as alpha- (α-) or 1- and beta- (β-) or 2-; specif., in the United States Pharmacopoeia, beta-naphthol. They occur in coal tar, but are usually prepared artificially from naphthalene. Both are used as antiseptics and in the manufacture of dyes and other substances. b Any of various hydroxy derivatives containing the naphthalene nucleus.

2. Any of several compounds used to produce dyes on the fiber by coupling with diazo compounds.

naph′thol·ate (năf′thōl·āt; năf·thōl′-; năf′thŏl-), n. [See 1st -ATE, 3.] Chem. A salt of naphthol.

naph′thol·sul′phon·ate (-sŭl′fō·nāt), n. [See 1st -ATE, 3.] A salt or ester of a naphtholsulphonic acid.

naph′thol·sul·phon′ic (-sŭl·fŏn′ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or designating any of a large number of sulphonic acids derived from the naphthols. Many of them are used in the manufacture of dyes. Important monoacids, $C_{10}H_6(OH)SO_3H$, are the 1,4 (Neville and Winther's or NW acid), the 1,5 (L acid), the 2,6 (Schäffer's acid), and the 2,8 (croceic acid, crocein acid, or Bayer's acid). The 2,3,6 diacid is called R acid; the 2,6,8 diacid, G acid, etc. See NAPHTHALENE.

naph′tho·qui·none′ (năf′thō·kwĭ·nōn′; -kwĭn′ōn), n. [naphthalene + quinone.] Chem. Either of two compounds, $C_{10}H_6O_2$, derived from naphthalene, of which one (1,4- or α-naphthoquinone) is a yellow crystalline paraquinone, and the other (1,2- or β-naphthoquinone) is an orthoquinone forming red needles. See QUINONE.

naph′thous (năf′thŭs), adj. Pertaining to, or of the nature of naphtha.

naph′thyl (năf′thĭl), n. [naphthalene + -yl.] Chem. A univalent hydrocarbon radical, $C_{10}H_7$, of which naphthalene is the hydride.

naph′thyl·a·mine′ (năf′thĭl·ȧ·mēn′; -ăm′ĭn), n. Also -am′in. Chem. Either of two colorless crystalline bases $C_{10}H_7NH_2$, amino derivatives of naphthalene, distinguished as α- (or 1-) and β- (or 2-), and obtained by action of ammonia on α- and β-naphthol respectively. Both are used in dye manufacture.

naph′thyl·a·mine′sul·phon′ic (-sŭl·fŏn′ĭk), adj. Designating or pertaining to any of several commercially important acids, sulphonic acid derivatives of naphthylamine, used esp. in the manufacture of dyes. Brönner's acid is 2-naphthylamine-6-sulphonic acid. Laurent's acid is 1-naphthylamine-5-sulphonic acid. Naphthionic acid is 1-naphthylamine-4-sulphonic acid.

naph′thyl·ene (năf′thĭl·lēn), n. Chem. a The bivalent radical $C_{10}H_6$, of which naphthalene is the hydride. Cf. PHENYLENE. b Cyclohexene; also, any of a series of hydrocarbons derived from cyclohexene.

naph·thyl′ic (năf·thĭl′ĭk), adj. Of or pert. to naphthyl.

Na·pier′i·an, Na·pe′ri·an (nā·pēr′ĭ·ăn), adj. Also Napier′e·an (-ē·ăn). Of, pertaining to, or discovered by, Napier, or Neper (John, Laird of Merchiston, 1550–1617).

Na′pi·er′s a·nal′o·gies (nā′pĭ·ērz). Math. Four formulas, demonstrated by Napier, giving the tangent of half the sum or difference of two of the angles or sides of a spherical triangle in terms of the others.

Napier's circular parts. Math. Five parts of a right spherical triangle; that is, the legs and the complements of their opposite angles and of the hypotenuse. Any part is called adjacent to the two next to it and opposite the other two. Napier's rules for these parts solve all cases of right triangles; viz., the sine of any part equals the product of the cosines of the opposite parts and also the product of the tangents of the adjacent parts.

Napier's compass. See 1st COMPASS, 7.

Napier's stove. A form of room-heating stove in which the products of combustion are forced downwards through an annular space surrounding the combustion chamber while en route to the chimney.

na′pi·form (nā′pĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. napus turnip + -form. Cf. NAPE turnip.] Bot. Turnip-shaped; large and round above, and tapering abruptly below; — of roots.

nap′kin (năp′kĭn), n. [Dim. of OF. nape, nappe, fr. L. mappa. See NAPERY.] 1. A small cloth, usually square, used at table for wiping the lips or fingers; a serviette; also, a similar cloth used in serving hot dishes.

2. Hence, any little cloth or towel; specif.: a Now Dial. A handkerchief. b Chiefly Scot. A kerchief or neckerchief. c An infant's diaper.

nap′kin, v. t.; NAP′KINED (-kĭnd); NAP′KIN·ING. 1. To hide or stow away in a napkin.

2. To cover, provide, serve, or the like, with a napkin; — rarely used except in past part.; as, a napkined tray.

nap′kin·ing (-ĭng), n. Material for napkins. Cf. TOWELING.

napkin pattern. = LINEN FOLD.

napkin ring. A ring used to enclose a table napkin.

Na′ples (nā′p'lz), n. A city of Italy.

Naples biscuit. = LADYFINGER c.

Naples red. a = RED OCHER. b = INDIAN RED, 3.

nap′less (năp′lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. Without nap; threadbare. — nap′less·ness, n.

Naples yellow. 1. a A basic lead antimonate, used as an enamel color and in oil painting; also, the color it gives. It is not affected by light. b Any of several yellow pigments substituted for the above, as a mixture of chrome yellow and zinc white.

2. A color, reddish-yellow in hue, of medium saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Na·po′le·on (nȧ·pō′lē·ŭn; 129), n. [F. Napoléon, It. Napoleone.] Masc. proper name. F. Napoléon (nȧ′pō′lā′ôn′); It. Napoleone (nȧ′pō·lā·ō′nȧ).

na·po′le·on, n. [After the Emperor Napoleon I.] 1. A former French gold coin of 20 francs. See COIN, Table.

2. Usually shortened to nap. a A card game in which each player holds five cards, and each in turn to the left of the dealer names the number of tricks he will undertake to win. The highest bidder must lead a trump. If he makes good his bid, each player pays him a chip for each trick. If he fails, he pays each a chip for each trick bid. b A bid to win all five tricks. Any player bidding nap wins 10 chips from each player if he succeeds, or pays 5 to each if he fails. See WELLINGTON.

3. A kind of top boot of the middle of the 19th century.

4. A form of French pastry consisting of several oblong layers of puff paste filled with cream.

5. a Crimson clover. b Cypress spurge.

6. [cap.] Hort. An important variety of sweet cherry.

Na·po′le·on·a′na (nȧ·pō′lē·ŭn·ā′nȧ; -ä′nȧ; -ăn′ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. Napoleon + -ana.] Papers, books, relics, etc., relating to Napoleon.

Napoleon blue. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Na·po′le·on′ic (nȧ·pō′lē·ŏn′ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to Napoleon I, or his family; resembling Napoleon I; as, the Napoleonic Wars. — Na·po′le·on′i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

Na·po′le·on·ism (nȧ·pō′lē·ŭn·ĭz′m), n. The principles, policy, etc., of the Napoleons, esp. of Napoleon I; attachment to, or advocacy of, the Napoleonic dynasty; Bonapartism. — Na·po′le·on·ist, n.

Na·po′le·on·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj. Napoleonic.

Na·po′le·on·ize (nȧ·pō′lē·ŭn·īz), v. t. To subject to, or govern in accordance with, Napoleonic theories.

Na·po′le·on′s—bell′, n. The plant Lapageria rosea.

Na·po′le·on′s—wil′low, n. The weeping willow.

na·poo′, na·pooh′ (nȧ·pōō′), interj. [Corrupt. of F. il n'y a plus there is no more, it is finished.] No more; all gone; all over; "nothing doing"; finished; dead. — adj. No; no good; dead. — v. i. To be done for; die. — v. t. To do for; put an end to; kill. All Brit. Soldiers' Slang.

nappe (năp), n. [F., cloth, sheet. See NAPERY.] 1. Civ. Engin. The sheet of water above the crest of a weir.

2. Geol. A mass thrust over other rocks by a recumbent anticlinal fold, by thrust faulting, or by a combination of both.

3. Geom. a = 1st SHEET, 16. b One of the two sheets or half cones which together make up a complete cone.

napped (năpt), adj. Having a nap; as, napped cloth.

nap′per (năp′ĕr), n. One, esp. a machine, that puts a nap on cloth; a nap raiser or setter; also, a ruffer.

nap′per (năp′ĕr), n. One who naps, or sleeps lightly.

nap′per (năp′ĕr; năp′-), n. The head. Dial. Eng. & Slang.

nap′per (năp′ĕr). Var. of KNAPPER.

nap′pi·ness (năp′ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. [From 1st NAPPY.] Quality of having a nap; abundance of nap, as on cloth.

nap′ping (năp′ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of NAP. Specif.: n. a Act or process of raising a nap, as on cloth. b Hat Mfg. The fine nap (as of beaver, hare's fur, musquash, or nutria) on a hat the body of which is of an inferior substance, often of wool.

nap′pish·ness (năp′ĭsh·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Tendency to nap; drowsiness. Rare.

nap′py (năp′ĭ), adj.; NAP′PI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); -PI·EST. [From 3d NAP.] Having a nap, or pile; downy; shaggy.

nap′py, adj. [Prob. fr. NAPPY downy, shaggy.] 1. Strong; heady; foaming; — said of liquors.

2. Somewhat intoxicated, as by nappy ale.

nap′py (năp′ĭ; nȧp′ĭ), n. Liquor; esp., ale. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

nap′py (năp′ĭ), n.; pl. -PIES (-ĭz). [Appar. dim. fr. ME. nap, fr. AS. hnæp cup, bowl. See HANAPER.] A round or oval dish, with a flat bottom and sloping sides, used as a baking or serving dish.

Nappy.

na·prap′a·thy (nȧ·prăp′ȧ·thĭ), n. [Czech naprava correction + -pathy.] A therapeutic system of drugless treatment by manipulation, depending on the theory that disease symptoms result from strained or contracted ligaments in pelvis, spine, or thorax. — nap′ra·path (năp′rȧ·pȧth), n.

nap′ron (dial. năp′rŭn, năp′ĕrn), n. [See APRON.] An apron. Now Dial.

na′pu (nä′pōō), n. [Malay.] Any of numerous chevrotains of the Indo-Malayan region; esp., Tragulus napu of Sumatra or T. javanicus of Java. They are similar to the kanchils, but slightly larger. See CHEVROTAIN.

Napu (Tragulus javanicus). 1/12 nar (när), adj. [ME., nerre, fr. AS. nēarra & ON. nærri. See NEAR.] Nearer; also, nearest. — adv. [ME. nerre, fr. ON. nærri.] Nearer; near; also, nearly. Both now Scot. & Dial.

Nar′a·ka (nŭr′ȧ·kȧ), n. [Skr.] Hinduism & Buddhism. The place of punishment after death; hell.

Nar·ca′ci·on′tes (när·kā′shĭ·ŏn′tēz), n. pl. [ML., fr. Gr. narkan to grow stiff or numb + akē a point.] Zool. In some classifications, a suborder of rays including the electric rays (see ELECTRIC RAY a) as distinguished from other thick-tailed rays. Cf. SARCURA.

nar′ce·ine (när′sē·ēn; -ĭn; 157), n. Also nar′ce·in (-ĭn). [L. narce numbness, torpor, fr. Gr. narkē; cf. F. narcéïne. See NARCOTIC.] Chem. A bitter, white, crystalline alkaloid, $C_{23}H_{27}NO_8$, found in small quantities in opium, and closely related to narcotine. It is a narcotic.

nar′cism (när′sĭz′m), n. Narcissism. — nar′cist (-sĭst), n. — nar·cis′tic (när·sĭs′tĭk), adj.

Nar·cis′san (när·sĭs′ăn), Nar·cis′sine (-ĭn; -īn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, Narcissus.

nar·cis′sism (när·sĭs′ĭz′m), n. [See NARCISSUS, 1; -ISM.] Psychoanalysis. Erotic feeling aroused by one's own body and personality, regarded by Freud as a normal stage in sexual development; pathologically, fixation at, or regression to, this stage. — nar·cis′sist, n. — nar′cis·sis′tic (när′sĭ·sĭs′tĭk), adj.

Nar·cis′sus (när·sĭs′ŭs), n.; pl. -CISSUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119), -CISSI (-sĭs′ī). [L., fr. Gr. Narkissos.] 1. Gr. Myth. A beautiful youth for vain love of whom Echo died. Nemesis punished his indifference by causing him to fall in love with his own reflection which he saw in the water of a fountain. He pined away in desire for it and was changed into the flower which bears his name.

2. Masculine proper name.

3. Bot. a A genus of Old World bulbous herbs, family Amaryllidaceae, having erect linear leaves and showy yellow or white or bicolored flowers with a large cup-shaped corona. Most species are well known in cultivation. There are several types chiefly distinguished by the shape of the corona. This in the true daffodils is greatly elongated or trumpet-shaped; in the jonquils and polyanthus narcissus it is very short; in the poet's narcissus, it has an indurated rim or border. See DAFFODIL, 1 b; JONQUIL, 1. b [not cap.] A plant, flower, or bulb of this genus.

Flower of Narcissus (N. pseudo-narcissus).

Na·pe′ri·an. Var. of NAPIERIAN. na′phew (nă′fū). Var. of NAVEW.
Na′phish (nā′fĭsh). Bib.
Naph′i·si (năf′ĭ·sī). Bib. naphth-. Chem. = NAPHTHO-. naphtha distiller. See DISTILLER, 2. naph′tha·lin (năf′thȧ·lĭn), naph′tha·line (-lĭn; -lēn; 157), n. Chem. = NAPHTHALENE. naph′tha·lol (-lōl; -lŏl), n. Pharm. = BETA-NAPHTHYL SALICYLATE. naph′tha·qui·none′. Var. of NAPHTHOQUINONE. naph·thin′du·line (năf·thĭn′dū·lēn; -lĭn; 157), n. Also -lin. See INDULINE, n., a. naph′thi·on′ic ac′id (năf′thĭ·ŏn′ĭk). See NAPHTHYLAMINESULPHONIC. naphthol black, blue black, yellow. See DYE, Table.
naph′thol·ize, v. t. See -IZE. naph′tho·sal′ol (năf′thō·săl′ŏl; -ōl), n. Pharm. = BETA-NAPHTHYL SALICYLATE. naph·thox′ide (năf·thŏk′sīd; -sĭd: 157), n. Also -id (-sĭd). [naphth- + oxide.] Chem. = NAPHTHOLATE. naphthylamine black D. See DYE, Table.
naphthyl methyl ketone. = ACETONAPHTHONE. naph′tol (năf′tōl; -tŏl). Var. of NAPHTHOL.
Naph·tu′him (năf·tū′hĭm; năf′tū-). Bib.
Napier grass. = ELEPHANT GRASS b. [See LOGARITHM.] Napierian logarithms. Math.
Napoleonic Wars. See WAR, Table.
na·po′le·on·ite, n. [Napoleon + -ite.] Petrog. = CORSITE. nap′pa. Erron. var. of NAPA. nap′pie. Var. of NAPPY, adj. & n. napt. Napped. Ref. Sp.
nap′ta, nap′tha. Var. of NAPHTHA. naquaire. + NAKER.
nar′as. Var. of NARRAS.
Nar′ca·ci·on′ti·dae (när′kȧ·sĭ·ŏn′tĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of TORPEDINIDAE.
Nar·cisu′, n. = NARCISSUS.

narcissus fly. The bulb fly.

nar'co- (när'kō-). [See NARCOTIC.] A combining form from Greek narkē, meaning numbness, stupor, torpor, as in narcolepsy.

nar'co·an'es·the'si·a, -aes·the'si·a (-ăn'ĕs·thē'zhĭ·ȧ; -zhȧ; -zĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. narco- + anesthesia.] Anesthesia produced by narcotic drugs, as morphine.

Nar·coḃ'a·tus (när·kōb'ȧ·tŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. narkē electric ray (fish) + batos a ray.] Syn. of TORPEDO (genus of rays).

nar'co·hyp'ni·a (när'kō·hĭp'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. narco- + Gr. hypnos sleep.] Med. Numbness felt on awaking from sleep.

nar'co·lep'sy (när'kō·lĕp'sĭ), n. [narco- + -lepsy.] Med. A condition characterized by brief attacks of deep sleep. — nar'co·lep'tic (-lĕp'tĭk), adj.

nar·co'ma (när·kō'mȧ), n.; pl. -MAS (-mȧz), -MATA (-mȧ·tȧ). [NL., fr. Gr. narkoun to benumb.] Med. The state of stupor produced by narcotics. — nar·co'ma·tous (-kō'mȧ·tŭs; -kōm'ȧ·tŭs), adj.

nar'co·ma'ni·a (när'kō·mā'nĭ·ȧ; 159), n. [NL., fr. narco- + -mania.] Uncontrollable desire for narcotics. — nar'co·ma'ni·ac (-ăk), n. — -ma·ni'a·cal (-mȧ·nī'ȧ·kăl), adj.

Nar'co·me·du'sae (-mē·dū'sē), n. pl. [NL. See NARCO-; MEDUSA.] Zool. An order of trachyline Hydrozoa. — nar'co·me·du'san (-săn), adj. & n.

nar'cose (när'kōs), nar'cous (när'kŭs), adj. Med. In a condition of stupor.

nar·co'sis (när·kō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. narkōsis. See NARCOTIC.] A state of stupor, insensibility, unconsciousness, or arrested activity from which recovery is possible, produced by the influence of narcotics, as by drugs or, in animal or plant tissues or cells, by concentrations of alcohols, ethers, carbon dioxide, magnesium salts, etc.; also, narcotization.

nar'co·stim'u·lant (när'kō·stĭm'ū·lănt), n. A substance possessing both narcotic and stimulant properties.

nar·co'ti·a (när·kō'shĭ·ȧ), n. Narcotine.

nar·cot'ic (-kŏt'ĭk), adj. [F. narcotique, or ML. narcoticus, fr. Gr. narkōtikos, fr. narkoun to benumb, fr. narkē numbness, torpor; prop., a cramp, contraction, and akin to ON. marа a snare, noose. See SNARE.] 1. Having the properties of a narcotic; yielding a narcotic; of or inducing narcosis; hence, inducing mental lethargy; soporiferous; as, a narcotic speech.

2. Of, induced by, or concerned with, narcotics.

3. Of, involving, or for, narcotic addicts or their care.

nar·cot'ic (när·kŏt'ĭk), n. 1. A drug which in moderate doses allays sensibility, relieves pain, and produces profound sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, or convulsions. Among the chief narcotics are opium (with morphine), belladonna (with atropine), Indian hemp, stramonium, and hyoscyamus.

2. Figuratively, something that soothes, relieves, or lulls.

3. One who is addicted to the use of a narcotic.

nar·cot'i·cal (när·kŏt'ĭ·kăl), adj. Narcotic. — nar·cot'i·cal·ly, adv. — nar·cot'i·cal·ness, n.

nar·cot'i·cism (när·kŏt'ĭ·sĭz'm), n. Narcotism.

nar·cot'i·co- (när·kŏt'ĭ·kō-). A combining form for narcotic, denoting narcotic and, as in nar·cot'i·co·ac'rid, nar·cot'i·co·ir'ri·tant.

nar'co·tine (när'kō·tēn; -tĭn; 157), n. Also nar'co·tin (-tĭn), nar'co·ti'na (-tē'nȧ). [Cf. F. narcotine. Cf. COTARNINE.] Chem. A tasteless, colorless, crystalline alkaloid, $C_{22}H_{23}NO_7$, found in opium. Pure narcotine is not a narcotic.

nar'co·tin'ic (-tĭn'ĭk), adj. Pertaining to narcotine.

nar'co·tism (när'kō·tĭz'm), n. [Cf. F. narcotisme.] a Narcosis. b A tendency or influence tending to narcosis or a similar state. c Addiction to narcotics.

nar'co·tist (-tĭst), n. One addicted to narcotics.

nar'co·tize (-tīz), v. t.; NAR'CO·TIZED (-tīzd); NAR'CO·TIZ'ING (-tīz'ĭng). To imbue with, or subject to the influence of, a narcotic; to put into a state of narcosis; also, figuratively, to soothe to unconsciousness. — nar'co·ti·za'tion (-tĭ·zā'shŭn; -tī·zā'shŭn), n.

nard (närd), n. [ME. narde, fr. OF. or L.; OF. narde (F. nard), fr. L. nardus, fr. Gr. nardos, ult., prob. through Sem. (cf. Heb. nērēḏ), fr. Skr. nalada Indian spikenard.]

1. a SEE SPIKENARD. b The matgrass Nardus stricta.

2. An ointment made partly from nard. See SPIKENARD.

3. Pharm. The rhizomes of any one of several plants of the genus Valeriana, as V. celtica, V. tuberosa, or the related Nardostachys jatamansi.

nard, v. t. To anoint with nard.

nar'dine (när'dĭn; -dīn), adj. [L. nardinus, fr. Gr. nardinos.] Of or pertaining to nard; having the qualities of nard.

nar·doo', nar·du' (när·dōō'), n. [Native name of Sesbania aculeata in Queensland.] a An Australian clover fern (Marsilea drummondii). Its spores are made into bread or porridge by the natives. b India. The plant Sesbania aculeata, whose seeds are ground into meal. See DAINCHA.

Nar'dus (när'dŭs), n. [NL. See NARD.] Bot. A genus of grasses. N. stricta, the matgrass, is the only species.

na'res (nā'rēz; 79), n. pl.; sing. NARIS (-rĭs). [L., pl. of naris nostril. See NOSE.] The openings of the nose. See NOSE.

nar'ghi·le, nar'gi·le (när'gĭ·lē; 277), n. Also nar'gi·leh. [Per. nārgīleh, fr. nārgīl coconut (of which orig. made), of Indian origin; cf. Skr. nārikela.] An Oriental apparatus for smoking tobacco. It has a long flexible tube, and the smoke is drawn through water. Cf. HOOKAH.

Narghile.

nar'gil (när'gĭl), n. [See NARGHILE.] The coconut. India.

nar'i·al (nâr'ĭ·ăl; 79), nar'ic (nâr'ĭk), adj. Anat. Of or pertaining to the nares; as, the narial septum.

nar'i·ca (nâr'ĭ·kȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. nares nostrils, nose.] The brown coati. SEE COATI.

nar'i·corn (nâr'ĭ·kôrn), n. [L. naris nostril + cornu horn.] Zool. The horny segment of the rhinotheca covering the nostrils of albatrosses and some other birds.

nar'i·form (nâr'ĭ·fôrm), adj. [L. naris nostril + -form. See NOSE.] Like a nostril in form.

nar'ine (nâr'ĭn; -īn), adj. Of or pertaining to the nostrils.

na·rin'gin (nȧ·rĭng'gĭn), n. [Marathi nāriṅgī orange, fr. Skr. nāraṅgī, var. of nāraṅga. See ORANGE.] Chem. A bitter white crystalline glucoside found in the blossoms, fruit, etc., of the grapefruit. On hydrolysis it yields rhamnose and nar'in·gen'in (nâr'ĭn·gĕn'ĭn), $C_{15}H_{12}O_5$.

nark (närk), n. [Romany nāk nose.] A spy employed by the police; an informer; a stool pigeon. Slang. — v. t. & i. To spy, or inform on, for the police; to act as a nark. Slang.

nark, v. t. [Origin obscure. Cf. NAG.] To annoy; irritate; tease. Dial. Eng. & Australia.

nark, n. [From NARK, v.] A tease; a spoilsport. Slang, Australia.

nark'y (när'kĭ), adj. Vexed. Chiefly Dial.

Na'rod·na Skup'shti·na (nä'rŏd·nȧ skōōp'shtĭ·nȧ). [Serbo-Croatian narodna, fem., of the people + skupština assembly.] See SKUPSHTINA c.

narr (när), v. i. [Imitative.] To growl or snarl, as a dog. Obs. exc. Dial.

narr, n. [Short for L. narratio.] Law. A declaration in pleading. Obs. exc. Local, U. S.

nar'ra (nâr'ȧ), n. [Sp., fr. Tag. & Visayan narra.] Any of several timber trees of the genus Lingoum; also, their hard wood, which takes a fine polish. The nar'ra blan'ca (blăng'kȧ), or nar'ra a'ma·ril'la (ä'mȧ·rēl'yȧ), with yellow wood, is distinguished by the natives from the nar'ra en'car·na'da (ĕn'kär·nä'thȧ), with dark reddish wood; both varieties come from the species L. indicum. Phil. I.

Nar'ra·gan'set (năr'ȧ·găn'sĕt; -sĭt), n. sing. & pl.; pl. also -SETS (-sĕts; -sĭts). [Formerly Nahiganset, fr. a Narragansett place name meaning at the small point, fr. naiag point + -ans, dim. suff. + -et locative suff.] 1. One of a tribe of Algonquian Indians formerly dwelling about Narragansett Bay in Rhode Island.

2. A small, hardy, sure-footed horse of an American breed formerly much used as saddle horses.

3. A dark steel-gray variety of domestic turkey which originated in Rhode Island.

‖nar·ran'te (när·răn'tē), adj. [It.] Music. Narrating; well enunciated; — a direction.

nar'ras (nâr'ȧs), n. [From fem. (in -s) of Nama gnárab.] A South African desert shrub (Acanthosicyos horrida), family Cucurbitaceae, with melonlike fruits of a pleasant flavor, and oily, edible seeds.

nar·rat'a·ble (nă·rāt'ȧ·b'l), adj. Capable of being narrated.

nar·rate' (nă·rāt'), v. t. & i.; -RAT'ED (-rāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -RAT'ING (-rāt'ĭng). [L. narratus, past part. of narrare to narrate, prob. for gnarare, fr. gnarus knowing. See IGNORE.] To tell, rehearse, or recite, as a story; to relate the particulars (of); to give an account (of). — nar·rat'er (-rāt'ẽr), n.

Syn. — Relate, recount, detail, describe.

nar·ra'tion (nă·rā'shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. narration, fr. L. narratio.] 1. Act of telling or relating the particulars of an act, occurrence, or course of events; rehearsal; recital.

2. That which is related; a narrative; a story.

3. A part of a discourse which recites the particulars of an action, or simply states the facts of the subject.

4. Discourse, or an example of it, designed to represent a connected succession of happenings, usually with description of personages and their environment. SEE STORY, PLOT.

Syn. — Account, relation, detail, tale. SEE NARRATIVE.

— nar·ra'tion·al (nă·rā'shŭn·ăl; -'l), adj. Rare.

nar'ra·tive (nâr'ȧ·tĭv), n. 1. That which is narrated; an account of the particulars of an event or transaction; a story; history; recital.

2. Act, art, or practice of narrating.

3. Scots Law. The part of a document containing the recitals; specif., the part of a deed, immediately following the name and designation of the grantor, reciting the inducement for making it.

Syn. — NARRATIVE, NARRATION, ACCOUNT, RECITAL. Narrative and narration are sometimes interchanged. But NARRATIVE is now commonly applied to that which is narrated, NARRATION, to the act or process of narrating; as, a well-constructed narrative, the narrative of one's adventures; the art of narration, great powers of narration. ACCOUNT is less formal than narrative; RECITAL commonly implies a somewhat detailed relation. Cf. STORY.

nar'ra·tive, adj. [Cf. F. narratif.] 1. Of or pert. to, or of the nature of, narration; relating to the recital of an event.

2. Apt or inclined to relate stories, or to tell particulars of events; story-telling; garrulous. Now Rare.

nar'ra·tive·ly, adv. a In the style or manner of narration. b Regarded as narrative; in respect to narrative character; as, a book amusing narratively, but shallow.

narrative past or preterit. Gram. The past absolute. See PAST TENSE.

nar·ra'tor (nă·rā'tẽr), n. [L.] One who narrates.

nar'ra·to'ry (nâr'ȧ·tō'rĭ; -tẽr·ĭ), adj. Giving an account of events; narrative; as, narratory letters.

nar·ra'tress (nă·rā'trĕs; -trĭs; 119), -trix (-trĭks), n. A female narrator.

nar'ra·wood' (nâr'rȧ·wŏŏd'), n. Narra.

narrow (nâr'ō), adj.; NAR'ROW·ER (-ẽr); NAR'ROW·EST. [ME. narwe, naru, fr. AS. nearu; akin to OS. naru, naro, OHG. narwa a scar, prop., drawn together edges of a wound, G. narbe, G. schnuren to shrink, shrivel, schnur cord, OHG. snuor, Goth. snorjo (meshed) basket, Lith. narys loop, knot, link, joint. Cf. SNARE.] 1. Of little breadth, esp. in comparison with the length; not wide or broad; as, a narrow board. "A deep but narrow stream." Shelley.

2. Of little extent; limited in size or scope; restricted; circumscribed. "So vast is art, so narrow human wit." Pope.

3. Close around; confining; as, in narrow bounds.

4. Close; accurate; exact; scrutinizing; careful; as, to make a narrow search.

5. Parsimonious; niggardly; mean. Now Chiefly Dial.

6. Having but a little margin; having barely sufficient space, time, or number, etc.; close; near; — with special reference to some peril or misfortune; as, a narrow escape; a narrow majority.

7. Limited in amount; small; meager; straitened; as, narrow circumstances or fortune.

8. Not broad in mind or disposition; illiberal; bigoted; exclusive; as, a narrow mind; narrow views.

9. Agric. Containing a relatively large amount of protein as compared with the carbohydrates and fats; — said of feed rations. Cf. WIDE.

10. Phonet. a = TENSE, 3. b Of phonetic notation, using copious symbols and diacritics to represent many shades and varieties of sounds; also, using different symbols "to represent subsidiary members of phonemes" (Daniel Jones).

11. Textiles. Woven in widths suitable for ribbons, neckties, and the like; as, narrow cloth, goods. Cf. BROAD, 15.

Syn. — NARROW, STRAIT. STRAIT adds to NARROW the implication of closeness or restriction; as, "The sea is set in a wide place, that it might be deep and great. But put the case the entrance were narrow, and like a river" (2 Esdras vii. 3–5); "Behold now the place where we dwell with thee is too strait for us" (2 Kings vi. 1). Cf. STRICT, RIGID.

Ant. — Wide. See BROAD.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

narrow-backed	narrow-faced	narrow-petaled narrow-billed	narrow-headed	narrow-rimmed narrow-bladed	narrow-hipped	narrow-shouldered narrow-brained	narrow-jointed	narrow-skulled narrow-breasted	narrow-laced	narrow-streeted narrow-celled	narrow-meshed	narrow-throated narrow-chested	narrow-mouthed	narrow-toed narrow-ended	narrow-necked	narrow-visioned narrow-eyed	narrow-nosed	narrow-waisted nar'row (nâr'ō), adv. 1. Closely; strictly; carefully. Obs.

2. In a narrow manner; narrowly. Now Rare.

nar'row (nâr'ō), v.; -ROWED (-ōd); -ROW·ING. [Cf. AS. nearwian.] Trans.: 1. To lessen the breadth or extent of; to contract; to draw into a smaller compass.

2. To contract the reach or sphere of; to make less liberal or broad; to limit; to restrict; as, to narrow one's views.

3. Knitting. To contract the size of, as a stocking, by taking two stitches into one.

—, Intransitive: 1. To become less broad; to contract; lessen; as, the sea narrows into a strait.

2. Knitting. To contract the size of a stocking or other knit article, by taking two stitches into one.

3. Manège. Not to step out enough to the one hand or the other; as, a horse narrows; — said also of the rider.

nar'row (nâr'ō), n. 1. The narrow part of anything; a narrow place or thing; specif., Mining, a narrow gallery.

2. A narrow passage, as in a mountain pass or street; esp., a contracted part of a stream, lake, or sea; a strait connecting two bodies of water; — usually in pl.; as, the Narrows of New York harbor.

nar'row (nâr'ŭ; nâr'-), adj. Ne'er a; nary. Dial. Eng.

nar'row blue flag (nâr'ō). A slender, blue-flowered iris (Iris prismatica).

narrow breeding. Breeding involving a restricted number of ancestors; — opp. to broad breeding.

narrow dock. = CURLED DOCK.

nar'row·er (nâr'ō·ẽr), n. One who or that which narrows or contracts.

nar'row–fist'ed (66), adj. a SEE -FISTED. b Closefisted.

narrow gauge. SEE GAUGE, n., 15 a.

nar'row–gauge' (66), adj. Also -gauged'. Having a narrow gauge; hence, narrow-minded.

nar'row·heart'ed (nâr'ō·här'tĕd; -tĭd; 66; 119), adj. Mean; parsimonious; ungenerous. — nar'row·heart'ed·ness, n.

nar'row·ing·ness, n. Tendency to make narrow. Rare.

nar'row–leaved' (-lēvd'), adj. Bot. Having narrow or linear leaves; — a common epithet in vernacular plant names.

nar'row·ly (nâr'ō·lĭ), adv. [Cf. AS. nearulīce.] In a narrow manner; as: a With minute scrutiny; closely; carefully; as, to search narrowly; also, closely, as if pressed upon; as, narrowly pursued. b With little breadth or extent. c With a little margin or space; hence, closely; hardly; barely; only just; as, he narrowly escaped. d Not broadly; illiberally; as, interpreted narrowly.

nar'row–mind'ed (-mīn'dĕd; -dĭd; 66; 119), adj. Of narrow mental scope; illiberal; bigoted. — nar'row–mind'ed·ly, adv. — nar'row–mind'ed·ness, n.

nar'row·ness (nâr'ō·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Condition or quality of being narrow (in any sense).

narrow pennant. SEE PENNANT, 2 a. narrow seas. The straits or arms of the sea between Great Britain and Ireland and between England and France.

nar'row–souled' (-sōld'), adj. Not broad in sentiment or inclination; ungenerous.

nar'row–spir'it·ed (66), adj. Not broad in spirit; illiberal; intolerant; mean. — nar'row–spir'it·ed·ness, n.

narrow trade. Trade in narrow (sense 11) goods.

narrow weaver. One who makes narrow cloth or goods.

nar'row·y (nâr'ō·ĭ), adj. Rather narrow; narrowish.

nar'sar·suk'ite (när'sär·sŭk'ĭt), n. [From Narsarsuk, Greenland.] Mineral. An acidic sodium iron titanosilicate forming honey-yellow tetragonal tabular crystals. H., 7–7.3. Sp. gr., 2.8.

nar'sin·ga (nŭr'sĭng·gȧ), n. [Hind. narsiṅgā, fr. Skr. nala reed + śṛṅga horn.] A curved metal trumpet used throughout India.

nar·the'cal (när·thē'kăl), adj. Of the nature of, or pertaining to, a narthex of a church.

Nar·the'ci·um (när·thē'shĭ·ŭm; -sĭ·ŭm), n. [NL. See NARTHEX.] Bot. A genus of four species of bog herbs of the bunchflower family. N. americanum is the bog asphodel of New Jersey. Syn. Abama.

nar'thex (nâr'thĕks), n. [L., giant fennel, fr. Gr. narthēx.] 1. a [cap.] Bot. Syn. of FERULA, 1. b A plant (Ferula narthex) of Afghanistan. It is a source of asafetida.

2. Arch. The portico of ancient churches; one side or member of the atrium or outer court surrounded by ambulatories; — used, generally, for any vestibule, lobby, or outer porch, leading to the nave of a church.

nar'whal (nâr'hwăl), n. Also nar'wal (-wăl), nar'whale (-hwāl). [Sw. or Dan. narhval, fr. ON. nāhvalr, appar. fr. nār corpse, dead body, in allusion to the whitish color of its skin. See WHALE.] An arctic cetacean (Monodon monoceros), of the family Delphinidae, which becomes about twenty feet long. The male has a long, twisted, pointed tusk, projecting forward from the upper jaw like a horn. Sometimes two tusks are developed, side by side. There is no dorsal fin. The color is marbled gray and white. The tusk furnishes ivory of commercial value. — nar·whal'i·an (när·hwāl'ĭ·ăn; -hwāl'ĭ·ăn; 159), adj.

Narwhal. (1/60)

nar'y (nâr'ĭ; nâr'rĭ), adj. [SEE NAIRY.] Not one; never a; ne'er a. Dial.

nas'ab (nŭs'ŭb), n. [Ar., pedigree.] Moham. Law. Consanguinity; kinship.

na'sal (nā'zăl; -z'l), adj. [L. nasus the nose; cf. F. nasal. See NOSE.] 1. Of or pertaining to the nose; — applied, specif., Anat. & Zool., to one of the plates through or between which the nostril opens, in certain reptiles.

2. Phonet. a Uttered through the nose only, the mouth being closed at the lips (m), the tongue point (n), the tongue front (Fr. gn), or the tongue back (ng). b Uttered normally through both nose and mouth, with velum fully lowered, as the French nasal vowels. c Nasalized; — of sounds uttered through both nose and mouth with velum partly lowered, whose normal utterance is oral only. d Characterized by such utterance or by the resulting nasal resonance. See Pron., §§ 43, 44.

N

na'sal (nā'zăl; -z'l), n. 1. [OF. nasel, nasal.] = NOSE-PIECE a.
2. Anat. & Zool. A nasal bone, plate, or scale.
3. [From NASAL, adj.] Phonet. A nasal sound, as m, n, ng.

nasal bones. Anat. & Zool. In vertebrates higher than fishes, two bones of the skull, in front of the frontals. In man they are oblong in shape, and form by their junction the bridge of the nose, partly covering in the nasal cavity.

nasal capsule. Zool. The structures enclosing the nasal fossae or olfactory organ of a vertebrate.

nasal cartilages. Anat. Cartilages forming the anterior part of the nose.

nasal concha. Anat. See TURBINATED BONE.

nasal duct. = NASOLACHRYMAL DUCT.

nasal eminence. Anat. The glabella.

nasal fossa. a Anat. The nasal passage or cavity. See NOSE. b Zool. One of the depressions or grooves on the bill in which the nostrils of most birds are situated.

nasal height. Craniom. The height of the nose from the nasion to the middle of the lower margin of the anterior nares.

nasal index. Craniom. The ratio of the greatest breadth of the pyriform aperture to the height from the anterior nasal spine to the nasion, usually expressed in hundredths of the latter. Skulls with a nasal index of 58 to 53 (Negroes and Mongols) are platyrrhinian; with an index of 52 to 48 (American Indians), mesorrhinian; with an index of 47 to 42 (Caucasians), leptorrhinian.

na·sa'lis (nā·sā'lĭs), n. [NL. See NASAL.] Anat. A muscle acting on the aperture of the nose. The pars transversa draws the lateral part of the aperture upward; the pars alaris draws it downward; the two parts acting together constrict the nasal aperture.

Na·sa'lis (nā·sā'lĭs), n. [NL.] Zool. The genus constituted by the proboscis monkey.

na'sal·ism (nā'zăl·ĭz'm; nā'z'l-), n. Nasal quality or sound; nasality.

na·sal'i·ty (nā·zăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [Cf. F. nasalité.] Quality or instance of being nasal, esp. in utterance.

nasal·ize (nā'zăl·īz; nā'z'l-), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To change to a nasal sound, as b to m; to pronounce as a nasal; to utter with nasal resonance. See Pron., § 29. — v. i. To speak in a nasal manner. — na'sal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

na'sal·ly, adv. of NASAL.

nasal nerve. A nasociliary nerve.

nasal notch. Anat. The rough surface on the anterior lower border of the frontal bone between the orbits, which articulates with the nasal bones and superior maxillaries.

nasal point. Craniol. = NASION.

nasal process (of the maxillary bone). Anat. The upwardly extending part which forms part of the sides of the nose.

nasal scale. Zool. In birds, the naricorn.

nasal septum. Anat. The bony and cartilaginous partition between the nasal passages.

nasal spine. Anat. Any of three median bony processes adjacent to the nasal passages: a The superior or frontal, projecting downward from the frontal bone and articulating with both nasal bones. b The anterior, formed by the union of processes of the two premaxillaries and projecting upward between the anterior nares. c The posterior or palatine, formed by the union of processes of the two palatine bones and projecting between the posterior nares.

nasal twang. See TWANG, n., 2.

na'ard (nă'zĕrd), n. [F.] A mutation organ stop of 2⅔-foot pitch, with metal pipes.

Nas'can (năs'kăn), n. An Indian of a pre-Incan people of advanced culture, of the coastlands of Peru. — Nas'can, adj.

Nas'ca·pi, Nas'ca·pee (năs'kȧ·pē), n. One of an Algonquian tribe of the peninsula of Labrador.

nas'cen·cy (năs'ĕn·sĭ; -'n·sĭ; nā'sĕn·sĭ; -s'n·sĭ), n. [L. nascentia. See NASCENT.] Condition of being nascent; birth; beginning; origin.

nas'cent (năs'ĕnt; -'nt; nā'sĕnt; -s'nt; 277), adj. [L. nascens, -entis, pres. part. of nasci to be born. See NATION; cf. NAISSANT.] Being born; coming into existence; beginning to exist, grow, or develop. "Nascent passions and anxieties." Berkeley.

nascent state or condition. Chem. The condition of an element at the moment of liberation from a compound, marked, as in the case of hydrogen or oxygen, by a chemical activity greater than the ordinary.

nase'ber'ry (nāz'bĕr'ĭ; -bĕr·ĭ), n. [Sp. níspero medlar, naseberry tree, or néspera, fr. L. mespilus. See MEDLAR.] = SAPODILLA.

na·seth'moid (nă·zĕth'moid), adj. Anat. Pertaining to the nasal and ethmoid bones.

nash (năsh; năsh), Var. of NESH, soft.

nash (năsh), v. i. To go away; to quit. Slang, Eng.

nash'gab' (năsh'gŏb'), nash'gab' (-găb'), n. [E. dial. nash, gnash, insolent talk + gab.] Impertinent chatter; an impudent gossip. Scot. & N. of Eng.

Na·shim' (nȧ·shēm'), n. pl. [Heb. nashīm women.] See MISHNAH.

Nash'ville beds (năsh'vĭl). [From Nashville, Tenn.] Geol. A series of the Ordovician system in the central Appalachians.

Nashville warbler. A common greenish-backed, yellow-breasted swamp warbler (Vermivora ruficapilla) of eastern North America. A subspecies, the Calaveras warbler (V. r. ridgwayi), is found on the Pacific coast.

na'si (nā'sē), n. [Heb. nāsī exalted one.] a Literally, prince; specif. [cap.], the chief presiding officer of the Sanhedrin. b Hence, patriarch. Cf. GAMALIEL, n., 2.

na'si- (-sĭ-). = NASO-, as in na'si·form, na'si·la'bi·al.

na'si (nā'sĭ), n. pl. of NASUS.

na'si·al (nā'zĭ·ăl), adj. [nasion + -al.] Pert. to the nasion.

na'si·corn (nā'zĭ·kôrn), adj. [L. nasus nose + -corn.] a Bearing a horn or horns on the nose. b Pertaining to the Na'si·cor'ni·a (-kôr'nĭ·ȧ), an abandoned group consisting of the rhinoceroses. — n. A rhinoceros.

na'si·cor'nous (-kôr'nŭs), adj. Nasicorn.

na'sil·late (nā'zĭ·lāt), v. i. [F. nasiller.] To speak or sing through the nose. — na'sil·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n.

na'si·o- (nā'zĭ·ō-). Anat. A combining form for nasion, denoting nasial and, as in na'si·o·al·ve'o·lar, na'si·o·bregmat'ic, na'si·o·in'i·al, na'si·o·men'tal.

na'si·on (nā'zĭ·ŏn), n. [NL., fr. L. nasus nose.] The middle point of the nasofrontal suture. See CRANIOMETRY, Illust. — na'si·al (-ăl), adj.

na·si'tis (nȧ·sī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. nas- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of the nose.

Na'smyth ham'mer (nā'smĭth). See STEAM HAMMER.

Na'smyth's mem'brane or cu'ti·cle (nā'smĭths). [After Alexander Nasmyth, Eng. dentist.] Anat. The epithelium which surrounds the enamel of a tooth during its fetal development and for a brief period after birth.

na'so- (nā'zō-). [See NOSE.] Anat. A combining form for Latin nasus, nose, denoting: a The nose; — in nouns, as in nasology. b Nasal and; — in adjectives, as in nasoantral. The meanings of the following may be inferred from the definitions of the second element:

nasoantral	nasolabial	nasopharyngeal nasobronchial	nasomalar	nasorostral nasobuccal	nasomaxillary	nasoseptal nasoethmoidal	nasooccipital	nasoturbinal nasofrontal	nasoorbital na'so·bas'i·lar (nā'zō·băs'ĭ·lĕr), adj. Craniom. Of or pertaining to the nasion and the basion.

na'so·cil'i·ar'y (-sĭl'ĭ·ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr·ĭ), adj. Anat. Designating a branch of the ophthalmic division of the trigeminal nerve, distributed in part to the ciliary ganglion, in part to the mucous membrane and skin of the nose.

na'so·lach'ry·mal, na'so·lac'ri·mal (-lăk'rĭ·măl), adj. [naso- + lachrymal.] Anat. Pertaining to the lachrymal apparatus and nose. The nasolachrymal duct transmits tears from the lachrymal sac to the inferior meatus of the nose.

na·sol'o·gy (nā·zŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [naso- + -logy.] Science or study of noses. — na'so·log'i·cal (nā'zō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — na·sol'o·gist (nā·zŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

na'son·ite (nā'sŭn·īt; -s'n·īt), n. [After F. L. Nason (b. 1856), Am. geologist.] Mineral. A lead calcium silicate with chloride, occurring as granular white masses.

na'so·pal'a·tal (nā'zō·păl'ȧ·tăl; -t'l), adj. Nasopalatine.

na'so·pal'a·tine (-păl'ȧ·tĭn), adj. [naso- + palatine.] Anat. Pertaining to, or connecting, the nose and the palate; as, the nasopalatine nerve, which arises from the sphenopalatine ganglion and supplies the front part of the roof of the mouth, giving a few fibers to the nasal septum.

na'so·phar'ynx (-fär'ĭngks), n. [NL.] Anat. The upper part of the pharynx, continuous with the nasal passages. — na'so·phar'yn·gi'tis (-fär'ĭn·jī'tĭs), n.

na'so·prog'na·thism (-prŏg'nȧ·thĭz'm), n. [naso- + prognathism.] Craniol. Projection limited to the bony parts of the face that support the base of the nose. — na'so·prog·nath'ic (-prŏg·năth'ĭk), adj.

na'so·scope (nā'zō·skōp), n. [naso- + -scope.] Med. An instrument for inspecting the nasal passages.

na'so·si'nus·i'tis (-sĭ'nŭs·ī'tĭs; -sī'n·ĭ-), na'so·sin'u·i'tis (-sĭn'ū·ī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. naso- + sinusitis.] Med. Inflammation of the nasal sinuses.

na'so·sub·na'sal (-sŭb·nā'zăl; -z'l), adj. Pertaining to, or connecting, the nasion and the acanthion. nas'rol (năz'rōl; -rŏl), n. Pharm. Sodium caffeine sulphonate, $C_8H_9N_4O_2SO_3Na$. It is used as a diuretic.

Nas'sau (năs'ô), n. A golf match in which winning the first nine holes counts one point, winning the second nine one point, and winning eighteen one point.

Nas'sau group'er (năs'ô). [After Nassau, Bahamas.] The hamlet. See 2d HAMLET.

nast (năst; năst), n. [See NASTY.] Filth; dirt. Dial. Eng.

nas'ta·liq (năs'tȧ·lĭk), n. [Per. nasta'līq, contr. fr. Ar. naskhi (see NESKHI) + ta'līq, a form of script.] An Arabic script developed about the 15th century, characterized by a tendency to slope downward from right to left, used mainly for Persian poetical writings, and in Urdu and Malay manuscript. — nas'ta·liq, adj.

nas'tic (năs'tĭk), adj. [Gr. nastos pressed close.] Plant Physiol. Exhibiting or pertaining to such inequality of cellular pressure or growth on either side of an axis as produces change of position or shape; as, nastic movements of leaves. -nas'tic (-năs'tĭk). Plant Physiol. A combining form, from Greek nastos, pressed close, denoting nastic in a (specified) direction or by a (specified) agency, as in epinastic, nyctinastic, thermonastic. Corresponding nouns denoting state are formed in -nas'ty (-tĭ).

na'sti·ka (nā'stĭ·kȧ), n. [Skr. nāstika, fr. na not + asti is, exists.] Hinduism. One who denies the authority of the Vedas; an atheist.

nas'ti·ly (năs'tĭ·lĭ), adv. In a nasty manner or condition.

nas'ti·ness, n. 1. Quality or state of being nasty.
2. That which is nasty, as anything dirty, foul, or obscene.

Na'strond (nä'strŏnd), Na'strönd (-strûnd), n. [ON. nāströnd, fr. nār corpse + strönd (gen. strandar) strand, shore.] Norse Myth. A dank, venom-dripping hall, in Niflheim, the place of future punishment of murderers and perjurers.

nas·tur'tium (năs·tûr'shŭm), n. [L., a cress, prop., nose-twist, in allusion to its pungency, fr. nasus nose + torquere, tortum, to twist. See NOSE; TORTURE.] 1. (pron. năs·tûr'shĭ·ŭm) [cap.] Bot. Syn. of RORIPA.
2. Hort. Any plant of the genus Tropaeolum, esp. T. majus and T. minus. They are smooth herbs having peltate leaves, and showy spurred flowers in widely varying shades of red and yellow. The plants contain a pungent juice, and the seeds and flower buds are used in salads and pickles. See TROPAEOLUM.

Nasturtium (Tropaeolum majus).

3. a Nasturtium red. b The color cadmium yellow.

nasturtium family. The Tropaeolaceae.

nasturtium red. A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

nasturtium yellow. The color cadmium yellow.

nas'ty (năs'tĭ; see Pron., § 83), adj.; NAS'TI·ER (-tĭ·ĕr); NAS'TI·EST. [Perh. for nasky; cf. dial. Sw. naskug, nasket; or cf. D. nestig dirty, ugly.] 1. Having filth which excites disgust; very dirty or foul; as, a nasty cesspool.
2. Morally filthy; obscene; indecent; as, nasty language.
3. a Nauseous to taste or smell; disgusting; as, nasty medicine. b Hence, Colloq., offensive; disagreeable; very unpleasant or objectionable; as, a nasty rain; a nasty bore.
4. Seriously harmful or dangerous; as, a nasty fall.
5. Mean; dishonorable; ungenerous; ill-natured; as, a nasty trick; to be nasty to a person. Colloq.
Syn. and Ant. — See DIRTY.

nas'ty, v. t. To make filthy or dirty. Obs. exc. Dial.

-nas'ty (-năs'tĭ). See -NASTIC.

Na'su·a (nā'shū·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. nasus nose.] a Zool. The genus consisting of the coatis. b [not cap.] A coati.

na'sus (nā'sŭs), n.; pl. NASI (-sī). [L., nose.] Zool. The clypeus.

na'sute (nā'sūt; nȧ·sūt'), adj. [L. nasutus, fr. nasus the nose.] 1. Having a nice sense of smell; also, astute. Obs.
2. Zool. a Having prominent, sheathed nostrils. b Having a long or large nose. — na'sute·ness, n.

na'sute, n. [See NASUTE, adj.] Zool. In certain species of termites, or white ants, an individual having the head elongated into a noselike process from the tip of which exudes a fluid, used in making and mending the walls of the nest.

na·su'ti·form (nȧ·sū'tĭ·fôrm), adj. Noselike.

nat (năt), adv. Not. Obs. exc. Dial.

nat (năt), n. [Burmese.] A nature spirit. Burma & Siam.

Na'ta (nä'tä), n. The hero of an Aztec deluge myth. His wife was Nana. Cf. COXCOX.

na'ta (nä'tä). Var. of NIATA.

na'ta·bil'i·ty (nā'tȧ·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [LL. natabilis capable of floating.] Ability to float or capability of floating.

na'ta·ka (nä'tȧ·kȧ), n. [Skr. nāṭaka. Cf. NAUTCH.] India. The drama in general; specif., the heroic comedy, the chief of the ten main types of the drama in India.

na'tal (nā'tăl; -t'l), adj. [L. natalis, fr. natus, past part. of nasci to be born. See NATION; cf. NOEL.] 1. Presiding over nativity. Obs. "Natal Jove." Chaucer.
2. Native; as, names from their natal places.
3. Of or pertaining to one's birth; accompanying or dating from one's birth; as, one's natal day or hour.

na'tal (nā'tăl; -t'l), adj. Anat. & Zool. Of or pertaining to the nates, or buttocks; gluteal.

Na·tal' (nȧ·tăl'; -tăl'), n. 1. A province of South Africa.
2. (pron. nȧ·tăl'). A seaport of Brazil.

Natal aloes (nȧ·tăl'; -tăl'). Pharm. A commercial variety of aloes. See ALOIN.

Natal boil. Med. = ORIENTAL SORE.

Natal brown. A color, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Natal cotton. A cottony substance, the coma from the seeds of a South African morning-glory (Ipomoea gerrardi).

Natal Current. Phys. Geog. = MOZAMBIQUE CURRENT.

Natal grass. An ornamental South African forage grass (Tricholaena rosea).

Na·tal'i·an (nȧ·tăl'ĭ·ăn; nȧ·tăl'-; -yăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Natal. — n. A native or inhabitant of Natal.

Nat'a·lie (năt'ȧ·lĭ; F. nȧ'tȧ'lē'), n. Also Na·ta'li·a (nȧ·tā'lĭ·ȧ; -yȧ). [F.; cf. L. natalis natal.] Fem. proper name.

Na·ta'lis In·vic'ti (nȧ·tā'lĭs In·vĭk'tī). [L., birthday of the unconquered (sun).] Rom. Relig. A festival of the birthday of the sun (Sol Invictus), held on the 25th of December, when the sun had passed the winter solstice. na'ta·li'tial (nā'tȧ·lĭsh'ăl), adj. [L. natalitius, fr. natalis. See NATAL, adj.] Of or pertaining to one's birth or birthday. Obs.

na·tal'i·ty (nȧ·tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [natal pertaining to birth + -ity as in mortal*ity.*] a Birth. b Birth rate.

Na·tal'-Ja'va in'di·go (nȧ·tăl'; -tăl'). An African herb (Indigofera arrecta) cultivated chiefly in Java as a source of dye; also, the dye itself.

Natal plum. The plumlike fruit of either of the two South African shrubs Carissa bispinosa and C. grandiflora; also, either of these plants.

Natal redtop. = NATAL GRASS.

Natal slangkop. Any of several South African herbs of the genus Urginea, esp. U. macrocentra, poisonous to cattle.

na'tant (nā'tănt; -t'nt), adj. [L. natans, -antis, fr. natare to swim, float; akin to L. nare, MIr. snām I swim, Skr. snāti he bathes, and to Skr. snauti drips. See NOURISH.] Swimming; floating; specif., Bot., floating in water, as lily pads. — na'tant·ly, adv.

na·ta'tion (nȧ·tā'shŭn), n. [L. natatio, fr. natare to swim.] Act or art of swimming or floating. — na·ta'tion·al (-ăl; -'l), adj.

na'ta·tor (nā'tȧ·tĕr), n. [L.] A swimmer.

na·ta·to'ri·al (nā'tȧ·tō'rĭ·ăl; 181), adj. [See NATATORY.]
1. Of or pertaining to swimming; as, natatorial skill.
2. Adapted to swim; swimming; as, natatorial birds.

na·ta·to'ri·ous (-rĭ·ŭs), adj. Zool. Natatory. Rare.

na·ta·to'ri·um (nā'tȧ·tō'rĭ·ŭm; 181), n.; pl. -TORIUMS (-ŭmz), -TORIA (-ȧ). Also, formerly, natatory. [LL.] A place for swimming; esp., an indoor swimming pool.

na'ta·to'ry (nā'tȧ·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. [LL. natatorius. See NATANT.] 1. Of, pert. to, or characterized by, swimming; as, natatory feats.
2. Adapted for, or used in, swimming; as, natatory organs.

natch (dial. năch, nĕch). Var. of NOTCH. Now Dial.

natch (nĕch), n. [OF. nache buttock. See AITCHBONE.] The rump, esp. of cattle.

natch'bone' (nĕch'bōn'), n. The aitchbone.

Natch'ez (nĕch'ĕz; -ĭz), n. sing. & pl. An Indian of a Muskhogean tribe formerly living on the lower Mississippi River near the present city of Natchez. Conquered by the French in 1730, they scattered among the Chickasaw, Choctaw, and Creek. — Natch'ez·an (-ĕz·ăn; -ĭz·ăn), adj.

natch'nee (nĕch'nē), n. [Hind. nachanī.] = RAGGEE.

na'tes (nā'tēz), n. pl. [L., pl., the buttocks; akin to Gr. nōton the back. Cf. NATCH.] Anat. & Zool. a The buttocks. b See CORPORA QUADRIGEMINA. c The umbones of a bivalve shell.

Na'than (nā'thăn), n. [Heb. Nāthān.] a Literally, given; a gift; — masc. proper name. b Bib. A prophet who reproved David for causing Uriah's death. See BATH-SHEBA. 2 Sam. xii. 1-9.

Na·than'iel (nȧ·thăn'yĕl; -ĭ·ĕl), Na·than'a·el (-ȧ·ĕl), n. [LL. Nathanael, fr. Gr. Nathanaēl, fr. Heb. Nĕthan'ēl.] Literally, gift of God; — masc. proper name. F. Nathaniel (nȧ'tȧ'nyĕl').

---

na'sal·ward, -wards, adv. See -WARD, -WARDS.

Nas'bas (năs'bȧs). Bib. [CENCY.]

nas'cence (năs'ĕns), n. = NASCENCY.

nasch (năsh), n. sing. & pl. [Ar. nashsh.] See WEIGHT, Table.

Nas'co·pi (năs'kō·pē). Var. of NASCAPI.

nase (nāz), n. [OS. nasa.] Nose.

nase, adj. Drunk, or making drunk. Obs.

nase. Var. of NAZE.

Nase'by (nāz'bĭ), n. See BATTLE, Table.

Nash'i·ra (năsh'ĭ·rȧ), n. [Ar. al-nāshirah the announcer.] See STAR, Table.

Na'shon (nā'shŏn). Bib.

Nash'u·a (năsh'ū·ȧ), n. See PENNACOOK. [BATTLE, Table.]

Nash'ville (năsh'vĭl), n. See Na·si'a (nȧ·sī'ȧ). D. Bib.

Na'si·o'i (nā'sē·ō'ī), n. See PAPUAN LANGUAGES.

Na'sith (nā'sĭth). Bib.

Nas'khi (năs'kē), n. & adj. [Ar.] = NESKHI.

na'so·al·ve'o·lar, etc. Var. of NASIOALVEOLAR, etc.

Na'sor (nā'sôr). Bib.

Nas'sa (năs'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. nassa a kind of basket. See 1st NET.] Syn. of ALECTRION.

Nas'sel·la'ri·a (năs'ĭ·lā'rĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. Syn. of MONOPYLAEA. — nas'sel·la'ri·an (-lā'rĭ·ăn; 79), adj. & n.

Nas'si·dae (năs'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of ALECTRIONIDAE.

nas·sol'o·gy (nȧ·sŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [Gr. nassein to stuff + -logy.] = TAXIDERMY. Rare.

nas·tur'tion (năs·tûr'shŭn). Var. of NASTURTIUM, 2.

na·su'tus (nȧ·sū'tŭs), n.; pl. NASUTI (-tī). [L. See NASUTE.] = NASUTE, n.

nat. † NOT, v., wot not.

nat. † NOT, adj., horless.

na'ta·li'tious (nā'tȧ·lĭsh'ŭs), adj. Natalitial. Obs.

na·tal'o·in (nȧ·tăl'ō·ĭn), n. Chem. See ALOIN.

na'tals (nā'tăls; -t'lz), n. pl. [L. natales, pl.] Birthday festivities.

Na'ta·ra'ja, n. See 1st SIVA.

Natch'i·toches (năk'ĭ·tŏsh), n. = NACHITOCH.

nate, adj. Also nat'ed. Born; framed. Obs.

nath. Contr. of ne hath, hath not. Obs.

Nath, n. Astron. = EL NATH. See STAR, Table. [Bib.]

Nath'a·ni'a (nĭth'ȧ·nī'ȧ). D.

Nath'a·ni'as (-ăs). Bib.

TYPES OF NAVAL VESSELS

Official U.S. Navy Photographs

1. U. S. S. Missouri, Battleship
2. U. S. S. Chicago, Heavy Cruiser
3. U. S. S. Dayton, Light Cruiser
4. U. S. S. Orleck, Destroyer
5. U. S. S. Cates, Destroyer Escort
6. U. S. S. Arcadia, Destroyer Tender
7. U. S. S. Sangay, Ammunition Ship
8. U. S. S. Soubarissen, Fuel Oil Tanker
9. U. S. S. Botetourt, Attack Transport
10. U. S. S. Rescue, Hospital Ship

COPYRIGHT, G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

TYPES OF NAVAL VESSELS

Official U. S. Navy Photographs

1. U. S. S. Midway, Large Aircraft Carrier
2. U. S. S. Langley, Small Aircraft Carrier
3. U. S. S. Weehawken, Mine Layer
4. Advance Base Sectional Dry Dock
5. U. S. S. LSD14, Landing Ship, Dock
6. U. S. S. Archer Fish, Submarine
7. U. S. S. LST265, Landing Ship, Tank
8. U. S. S. PC1230, Submarine Chaser
9. U. S. S. Proteus, Submarine Tender
10. U. S. S. PT117, Torpedo Boat
11. U. S. S. YMS449, Motor Mine Sweeper

COPYRIGHT, G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

nathe (nāth), n. [Var. of 1st NAVE.] The nave of a wheel. Obs. exc. Dial.

nathe'less (nāth'lĕs; nāth'-; 119), adv. [ME. natheles, na the lee, not the less, fr. AS. nā never. See NA; THE. Cf. NEVERTHELESS.] Nevertheless; notwithstanding. Archaic.

nath'less (nāth'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adv. Natheless. Archaic. — prep. Notwithstanding. Rare.

Nat'i·ca (năt'ĭ·kȧ), n. [NL., prob. fr. ML. natica buttock. See AITCHBONE.] Zool. An extensive genus of active carnivorous marine snails, having a thick, globose, nearly smooth shell and a large foot which has a fold reflected over the head. They burrow beneath sand or mud along the seashore, and drill other shells. Their peculiar collarlike egg masses are known as sand collars. The genus is the type of a family, Na·tic'i·dae (nȧ·tĭs'ĭ·dē), of the suborder Taenioglossa. — na·tic'i·form (nȧ·tĭs'ĭ·fôrm), nat'i·cine (năt'ĭ·sīn; -sĭn), adj. — nat'i·coid (-koid), adj. & n.

Natica (N. clausa).

Na'tick (nā'tĭk), n. An Indian of the group of "praying Indians" gathered together by John Eliot in 1651, and by whom the town of Natick (Mass.) was founded. Cf. MASHPEE.

na'ti·form (nā'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [See NATES; -FORM.] Resembling the nates, or buttocks.

na'ti·mor·tal'i·ty (nā'tĭ·môr·tăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. natus child, one born, born + mortality.] Statistics. Stillbirth rate.

na'tion (nā'shŭn), n. [ME. nacioun, fr. OF. nacion (F. nation), fr. L. natio nation, race, orig., a being born, fr. natus, past part. of nasci to be born, for gnatus, gnasci, from the same root as E. KIN. Cf. COGNATE, INNATE, NATAL, NATIVE, NATURE, PREGNANT, PUNY, RENASCENT.] 1. Obs. a Kindred; race; lineage. b Nationality. c A community or an aggregation of men or animals; esp., a caste or class formed by the common profession or interests of its members. d A country.

2. A people connected by supposed ties of blood generally manifested by community of language, religion, and customs, and by a sense of common interest and interrelation; thus, the Jews and the Gypsies are often called nations. See PEOPLE, 1.

3. Popularly, any group of people having like institutions and customs and a sense of social homogeneity and mutual interest. Most nations are formed of agglomerations of tribes or peoples either of a common ethnic stock or of different stocks fused by long intercourse. A single language or closely related dialects, a common religion, a common tradition and history, and a common sense of right and wrong, and a more or less compact territory, are typically characteristic; but one or more of these elements may be lacking and yet leave a group that from its community of interest and desire to lead a common life is called a nation.

4. Loosely, the body of inhabitants of a country united under a single independent government; a state.

5. A division of students, determined by district or country of their birth, esp. in medieval universities. Archaic.

6. A multitude; a host.

7. One tribe of a group of Indian tribes; as, the Six Nations.

Syn. — See PEOPLE.

na'tion (nā'shŭn), n. Short for DAMNATION. — adv. Extremely; very; as, a nation long time. — adj. Great; very large. All Chiefly Dial.

na'tion·al (năsh'ŭn·ăl; -'l), adj. [F.] 1. Of or pertaining to a (or the) nation; common to a (or the) whole nation; specif.: a Of or pertaining to a race or people united by ties of blood, etc. (a nation in sense 2 or 3); as, national language, dress, custom, calamity, etc. b Of or pert. to a politically united people or state (a nation in sense 4); public; state; as, national debt, troops.

2. Attached to one's own country, or devoted to its interests; patriotic.

3. Hist. Of or pertaining to the government of France during the First Republic.

— na'tion·al·ly, adv. — na'tion·al·ness, n.

na'tion·al (năsh'ŭn·ăl; -'l), n. 1. A member or subject of a nation; also, loosely, a citizen; esp., a fellow countryman.

2. The color national blue.

national anthem. a A patriotic song or hymn, esp. one adopted officially, played or sung esp. on certain formal occasions as a mark of loyalty to the nation. b Also national air. The air or the musical setting of this anthem. The Star-Spangled Banner was made the official national anthem of the United States by Act of Congress in 1931.

National Army. Mil., U. S. In the World War, the group of units (divisions 76 on) made up of men obtained by the Selective Service Act, after Regular and National Guard quotas had been designated.

national assembly. 1. An assembly of the representatives of a nation or of some national institution.

2. a Obs. Ch. of Scot. The General Assembly. See ASSEMBLY, 1 b. b A synod of the Church in a nation.

3. [caps.] [F. Assemblée nationale.] Fr. Govt. The assembly composed of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies in joint session, which meets at Versailles for two purposes, revision of the constitution and the election of a president. See LEGISLATURE, Table.

4. Fr. Hist. [caps.] [F. Assemblée nationale constituante.] a The first of the Revolutionary assemblies, formed by the Third Estate, which seceded from the States-General of 1789 and later absorbed the two other estates. It framed a constitution and lasted until 1791. b An assembly elected after the Revolution of 1848. It established the Second Republic. c An assembly elected at the end of the Franco-Prussian War in 1871. It established the Third Republic.

5. Ger. Hist. [caps.] [G. Nationalversammlung.] a The assembly which met in May, 1848, at Frankfort to form a new constitution for a liberal Germany. It was in session about a year and was unsuccessful. b The assembly meeting at Weimar, Feb.–Aug., 1919, which drafted the constitution of the German Republic (Reich).

6. [caps.] Govt. The assembly of any one of various countries of Europe meeting to draft a new constitution, as of Czechoslovakia at Prague (1918–20).

national bank. a A bank having association with the finances of a nation, as the Reichsbank of Germany. b In the United States, a commercial bank organized under the provisions of the National Bank Act, and chartered by the Federal government. It is a member of the Federal Reserve System and operates under the supervision of the comptroller of the currency. It may issue currency (na'tion·al·bank' notes) secured by a 100 per cent reserve of specified government bonds, plus a redemption fund of five per cent in gold or lawful money.

National Baptist Convention. See BAPTIST.

national blue. A color, reddish-blue in hue, of high saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

National Charter. People's Charter. See CHARTISM.

national church. a A church consisting of a nation, as the ancient Jewish church. b A church established by law in a particular nation; specif. [caps., with the], with reference to England, the Church of England.

national committee. In the United States, the chief executive agency of a political party, consisting usually of two members from each State, chosen by the national convention. Under its head, the national chairman, it determines the date, place, and number of delegates of the next national convention, decides contests, and in general plans and controls the campaign.

National Congress. See LEGISLATURE, Table.

National Convention. 1. Fr. Hist. [F. Convention nationale.] The elected assembly which governed France from Sept. 20, 1792, to Oct. 26, 1795. It abolished royalty and established a republic.

2. [not caps.] U. S. Politics. A convention of delegates of a political party elected by State primaries or conventions to nominate candidates for President and Vice President and to issue a "platform," or declaration of policy. In recent years the Democratic convention has had twice as many delegates from each State as the State had representatives and senators in Congress, with additional representation from the territories; the Republican has had about the same total, but apportioned approximately to the Republican votes in the States cast at the previous election. Cf. NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

national council. See COUNCIL, n., 2 a, 3; specif. [caps.], among Congregationalists in the U. S., the most widely inclusive representative body, meeting triennially with advisory and executive but not legislative functions.

National Covenant, the. Scot. Hist. A covenant subscribed to by great numbers of the Scottish people in 1638, pledging themselves before God to the defense of Presbyterianism, against the attempt of Charles I to force episcopacy upon them.

national debt. The debt owing by a state for moneys loaned, esp. that which is funded, as distinguished from the floating debt, constituted by its miscellaneous and demand debts.

National Defense Act. U. S. An act (called also Army Reorganization Act), passed June 3, 1916, providing, among other things, for a regular army on a peace footing, a reserve officers' training corps, and the federalization of the National Guard. The act was thoroughly revised and amended in 1920.

national dividend. Econ. The amount of enjoyment made available for a nation during a given period, usually a year, comprising the economic value of the goods consumed, personal services received from labor or capital, and net increase of natural wealth, during the period in question.

National Economic Council. See REICHSWIRTSCHAFTSRAT.

national economy. See ECONOMICS, 1.

National Education Association. U. S. A national organization of teachers and school supervisors, with headquarters in Washington, D.C. Abbr. N.E.A. national flag. The flag or ensign used as the symbol of the nation; — often distinguished from merchant flag (which see). See Plates I, V, VI, & VII.

national forest. U. S. A forested area, usually about a watershed or the sources of a river, reserved by the Federal Government from private exploitation. In 1930 there were 149 national forests, embracing more than 160 million acres.

National Formulary. See FORMULARY, 3.

National Fraternal Congress table of mortality. See MORTALITY TABLE.

National Guard. 1. [F. garde nationale.] Fr. Hist. A body of militia composed of armed citizens, formed in Paris during the French Revolution and existing in France (except from 1827 to 1830) until 1871, when it was abolished, largely because of its misbehavior during the Commune.

2. In the United States, a militia force recruited, controlled, and partly maintained by the several States, and armed, equipped, and partly maintained by the Federal government. It may be employed by the State or may be called by the United States to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrection, and repel invasion, then becoming a component of the Army of the United States.

National Heroes' Day. See HOLIDAY, n., 3. Phil. I.

national hymn. = NATIONAL ANTHEM.

National Industrial Recovery Act. An Act of Congress, passed June 13, 1933, declaring that "a national emergency productive of widespread unemployment and disorganization of industry" was in existence, and vesting in the President of the United States authority to approve or establish codes of fair competition for the various trades and industries, providing esp. for minimum wages and for maximum hours of labor and the operation of machinery; to regulate output if necessary; to regulate, or, if necessary, to bar any imports which might harmfully affect the operation of these codes; to prevent destructive wage or price cutting by licensing business enterprises if necessary; to create a Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, whose head or administrator was charged with preparing a comprehensive program of public works, including highway construction, conservation and development of natural resources, State and local aid, as for housing and slum-clearance projects, etc. The National Recovery Administration (abbr. NRA), consisting of various agencies or officials of the national government, was created for the purpose of administering the Act. On May 27, 1935, the National Industrial Recovery Act was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Abbr. NIRA.

na'tion·al·ism (năsh'ŭn·ăl·ĭz'm; -'l·ĭz'm; 59), n. 1. National character, or tendency to it; nationality.

2. An idiom, trait, or character peculiar to any nation.

3. Devotion to, or advocacy of, national interests or national unity and independence; as, the nationalism of Ireland or China. Cf. INTERNATIONALISM, 2; NEW NATIONALISM.

4. Zealous adherence to one's own nation or to its principles; patriotism.

5. A phase of socialism advocating the nationalizing of industries; — essentially the same as collectivism. Chiefly U. S.

6. Theol. The doctrine that the people of a certain nation or nations are God's chosen people.

na'tion·al·ist (-Ĭst), n. An advocate of, or believer in, nationalism; esp.: a [often cap. as a party name] An advocate of national unity and independence, as in Ireland, Turkey, India, or China. b One who favors the nationalizing of industries; a collectivist. — na'tion·al·ist, adj. — na'tion·al·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj. — is'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

Syn. — See SOCIALIST.

na'tion·al'i·ty (năsh'ŭn·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz), 1. State or quality of being a nation; racial, political, or institutional solidarity constituting a nation; national character; often, specif., existence as a sovereign nation; political independence as a nation; statehood; as, the nationality won by Greece.

2. State, quality, or fact of belonging to, or being connected with, a (or a particular) nation or state as by nativity or allegiance; as, nationality acquired by birth may be lost through naturalization in another country; state or quality of being generally characteristic of a nation; as, nationality of art usually springs from nationality of character.

3. National feeling or attachment; the feeling or sense of being one of a people bound together by common customs, language, religion, or the like (see NATION, 3); nationalism.

4. A nation; a people united by common institutions, language, etc. (see NATION, 3).

na'tion·al·i·za'tion (năsh'ŭn·ăl·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. 1. Act of nationalizing, or state of being nationalized.

2. The taking over by the state of private property, industrial organizations, or the control of any class of labor, etc., in the interests of the state. See NATIONALIZE, 2.

na'tion·al·ize (năsh'ŭn·ăl·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-Iz'ĭng). [Cf. F. nationaliser.] 1. To make national; to make a nation of; to endow with the character of a nation, or the peculiar sentiments and attachments of citizens of a nation.

2. To vest in the national government the control, ownership, or the like, of. Cf. COLLECTIVISM; NATIONALIZATION, 2.

3. To admit to the rights and privileges of citizenship in a nation or state; to naturalize; also, to incorporate a province or district as an integral part of a nation.

4. To give the status of domestic products to (goods), as by payment of import duty.

na'tion·al·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n. a One who nationalizes. b One who advocates nationalization of land, public utilities, etc.

National Labor party. See LABOR PARTY b.

National Lutheran Council. See LUTHERAN, n.

national meridian. A meridian chosen in a particular nation as the zero point in measuring longitude for that nation. Cf. PRIME MERIDIAN.

national monument. In the United States, a monument (see MONUMENT, 7) reserved by the government as public property. Several national monuments, as the Grand Canyon of Arizona, have become national parks through acts of Congress.

national park. In the United States and Canada, an area of special scenic, historic, or forest value, owned by the Federal or Dominion Government and managed, mostly for recreational purposes, by the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior. No natural resource may be sold from a national park.

National party. See GREENBACK PARTY.

National Prohibition Act. See VOLSTEAD ACT.

National Recovery Administration. See NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT.

National Republicans. U. S. Politics. A short-lived political party, composed of the Adams and Clay Republicans, which participated in the election of 1832, when its candidate, Henry Clay, was decisively defeated by Jackson. In 1834 it fused with other elements to form the Whig party.

National round. Archery. See ROUND.

national salute. U. S. a A salute of twenty-one guns, granted to the President of the United States and to the flag of a foreign independent nation. b A salute of one gun for each State in the U. S., fired only on Independence Day (July 4) at noon; — more properly called salute to the nation.

national school. In Great Britain, one of the parish or church schools built under the auspices of, or receiving grants from, the National Society for the Education of the Poor in the Principles of the Established Church, founded in 1811. See VOLUNTARY SCHOOL.

National screw thread. American National screw thread.

National Socialist German Workers' party. Polit. A German Fascist party, formerly the National Socialist party, having an extremely nationalistic program of dictatorship. Abbr. NSDAP na'tion·al·ty (năsh'ŭn·ăl·tĭ; -'l·tĭ), n. National property.

nation of shopkeepers. England; — often contemptuously so called by Napoleon.

na'tion-state', n. Polit. Science. In European history, any one of several countries, as England, France, or Spain, that between 1500 and 1900 developed a compact, centralized, independent government out of the small or weak feudal units of the medieval period.

na'tive (nā'tĭv), adj. [F. natif, fr. L. nativus, fr. nasci, past part. natus. See NATION; cf. NAÏVE, NEIF a serf.] 1. Conferred by birth; derived from origin; born with one; inherent; inborn; not acquired; as, native genius, cheerfulness.

2. Closely related, as by birth or race. Archaic.

> The head is not more native to the heart, . . .
> Than is the throne of Denmark to thy father. Shak.

3. Born in a particular place, region, or country; — now used chiefly of non-Caucasian peoples; as, the native troops of the British Indian army. Cf. NATIVE, n., 4 a.

4. Of, pertaining to, or belonging to, one as the place of one's birth, or because of the place or the circumstances in which one is born; as, native land, language, color, liberty, etc.

5. Natural; normal; according to nature; as, a native result of an act; one's native life. Now Rare.

6. Natural; without embellishment or artificial change; simple; unaffected. "So native a simplicity." B. Jonson.

7. Inherent in the text or term; as, the native sense of a word.

8. Grown, produced, or originating in a particular place, region, or country; not exotic; as, native bread; also, grown or produced in the vicinity; not transported from a distant region; as, native strawberries; specif., Biol., indigenous; living or growing naturally in a given region; as, a native species. In various countries, esp. the Australasian English colonies, native is applied by colonists to indigenous plants and animals related to, or often only superficially like, those of the mother country.

9. Original; constituting the original substance or source of anything; as, native dust.

10. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, natives; as, the native houses or customs.

11. Unbranded; free from branding marks; — said of hides and cattle.

12. Obs. a Having a right or title by birth or inheritance; rightful; as, the native heir. b Arising by birth; having an origin; born.

13. Geol. Occurring naturally uncombined with other elements; as, native gold, sulphur.

14. Mineral. Natural; not artificially prepared; as, native gypsum; salt in the native state.

Syn. — NATIVE, NATURAL, INDIGENOUS, ABORIGINAL, ORIGINAL. That is NATURAL, as here compared, which belongs to something by nature, or which is formed by nature; NATIVE commonly heightens the implied contrast with what is acquired or artificial, and frequently denotes, esp. in the case of qualities, that which is inborn or inherent; as, "a wretch whose natural gifts were poor to those of mine" (Shak.); "If . . . sweetest Shakespeare, Fancy's child, warble his

---

Na'than·me'lech (nā'thăn·mē'lĕk). Bib.

nathe'more (nāth'mōr; nāth'-), adv. [ME. na the more.] Never the more. Obs. [Dial.] na'ther. Var. of NEITHER. Now

Nath'i·ne'ans (nāth'ĭ·nē'ănz), n. pl. D. Bib.

na'thing. † NOTHING.

Na'thi·nites (nā'thĭ·nīts), n. pl. D. Bib.

‖Na'ti·o·nal'rat' (nă'tsĭ·ō·năl'-rät'), n. [G.] Austria & Switzerland. See LEGISLATURE, Table.

na'tion·hood, n. See -HOOD.

na'tion·less, adj. See -LESS.

na'tion·wide', adj. See -WIDE.

na'tiv. Native. Ref. Sp.

native wood-notes wild" (Milton). But natural and native are often used with little distinction. That is INDIGENOUS which is native esp. to a soil, country, or climate; the word is occasionally used, like native, in the sense of inborn; as, "mankind, indigenous to so many climates" (Arbuthnot). That is ABORIGINAL which, so far as is known, has no predecessor; the word is esp. applied to the earliest ascertainable inhabitants of a country (cf. AUTOCHTHONOUS); that is ORIGINAL which precedes all others of its class; as, the aboriginal inhabitants of America, the aboriginal forests, rocks; a book in its original binding, a modification of the original wording. Cf. PRIMARY, INNATE.

Ant. — Strange, foreign, alien, extraneous, acquired, artificial.

— to go native. To take up the uncivilized life of savages, barbarians, etc.

na'tive (nā'tĭv), n. 1. One born a serf or thrall. Now Hist. 2. One that is born in a place or country referred to; a denizen by birth; an animal, a fruit, or vegetable, produced in a certain region; as, a native of France. 3. One of a race inhabiting a region or country at the time it was discovered or became familiar to those using the expression; — chiefly used of non-Caucasian peoples of inferior civilization, but often semihumorously of the inhabitants of any region spoken of as if strange or newly discovered; as, the natives received Columbus kindly; a cosmopolite can mingle easily with the natives wherever he may go. 4. a In Australia, a British subject, not an aborigine, born in the country. b In New Zealand, sometimes, a native-born Maori British subject. 5. a A person who has lived all his life in a place, esp. a small town or village, as disting. from a visitor or temporary resident. b A local product, as an oyster from near by rather than distant regions. 6. See SNAPPER, 5 c. 7. One's native country or locality. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. 8. pl. Natives of the same country or region. Obs. 9. Astrol. a One born under a particular sign or planet. b The subject of a nativity, or horoscope.

Native American party. U. S. Politics. A short-lived party similar in principles to the Know-Nothings. It arose about 1843.

native apple. An Australian tree (Kunzea pomifera), family Myrtaceae; also, its fleshy, somewhat insipid, fruit.

native arrowroot. An Australian orchid (Cymbidium canaliculatum); also, the starchy substance obtained from its grated and boiled pseudobulbs.

native banyan. An Australian fig (Ficus rubiginosa).

native bear. The koala. Australia.

native beech. a The flindosa. b An Australian tree (Callicoma serratifolia), family Cunoniaceae, the wood of which contains saponin.

native birch. See NOTHOFAGUS.

na'tive-born' (66), adj. Indigenous; native.

native box or boxthorn. An Australian prickly shrub or small tree (Bursaria spinosa).

native bread. The large sclerotium of an Australian pore fungus (Polyporus mylittae), used as food by the natives.

native cabbage. a In Australia, the marsh cress (Roripa palustris), used as a pot herb; also, the succulent shrub Scaevola koenigii. b In New Zealand, the Maori cabbage.

native carrot. a In Australia, an indigenous species of carrot (Daucus brachiatus). b In Tasmania, an adventive European wild crane's-bill (Geranium dissectum).

native cascarilla. An Australian shrub (Croton phebalioides); also, its bitter aromatic bark.

native cat. A dasyure. Australia.

native cherry. Bot. An Australian tree (Exocarpus cupressiformis), family Santalaceae; also, the edible, cherrylike pedicel of its fruit.

native cod. See 3d COD.

native coke. A substance approximating coke in composition, though not in structure, formed in bituminous coal beds by the local heat.

native companion. An Australian crane (Mathewsena rubicunda). It is generally seen in pairs and has a habit of gathering in groups and moving about as in a kind of dance.

native cranberry. Either of two shrubs of the genus Styphelia, family Epacridaceae, having thin-fleshed fruits resembling cranberries: a In Australia, S. sapida. b In Tasmania, S. humifusa.

native currant. Any of several Australian trees bearing small edible acid berries resembling currants; also, the fruit of any one of these; as: a The tree Coprosma billardieri. b Any of several trees of the genus Leptomeria, family Santalaceae, esp. L. acida. c = BLUEBERRY, 3 a. d The black nightshade.

native daisy. A Tasmanian herb (Brachycome decipiens), resembling the Swan River daisy.

native damson. An Australian shrub (Podocarpus spinulosa), or its fruit; also, the related P. elata and its fruit.

native dandelion. An Australian yellow-flowered herb (Podolepis acuminata), family Carduaceae.

native daphne. An Australian timber tree (Myoporum viscosum).

native date. An Australian caper (Capparis canescens); also, its small pear-shaped edible fruit.

native deal. The white pine Podocarpus elata of Australia; also, its wood.

native dog. The dingo. Australia.

native flax. a In Australia, a true flax (Linum marginale). b In New Zealand, the New Zealand flax.

native fuchsia. a N. Z. A tree fuchsia (Fuchsia excorticata), often 40 feet high, with pendulous, solitary, showy flowers. b Australia & Tasmania. Any of several species of Correa or Epacris with showy flowers.

native furze. The Australian evergreen shrub Hakea ulicina.

native ginger. An Australian fleshy herb (Alpinia caerulea), with globose edible fruit.

native grape. An Australian evergreen grapevine (Vitis hypoglauca); also, its black edible berry.

native guava. Australia. a A shrub or small tree (Rhodomyrtus psidioides) resembling the true guava. b A timber tree (Eupomatia laurina); also, its edible fruit.

native gum. = GUAIACUM, 3.

native hen. An Australian rail (Tribonyx mortierii).

native hickory. a = HICKORY, 2. b In Tasmania, the tree Phebalium billardieri, family Rutaceae; also, its wood.

native hop. a Australia. The hopbush (Dodonaea). b In Tasmania, the shrub Daviesia latifolia.

native indigo. a In Australia, any species of Swainsona. b In Tasmania, a true indigo (Indigofera australis).

native ivy. An Australian woody plant (Muehlenbeckia adpressa) with currantlike subacid fruit.

native juniper. See BLUEBERRY, 3 a. native laurel. a In Australia: (1) The fragrant-flowered shrub Pittosporum undulatum. (2) A timber tree (Polyscias elegans) with whitish wood. b The Tasmanian laurel.

native leek. A poisonous Australian herb (Bulbine bulbosa), often fatal to cattle.

native lime. Either of two Australian citrus trees or their fruit: a Citrus australis. b Microcitrus australasica, with very acid fruit.

native loquat. The edible berry of an Australian shrub or small tree (Rhodomyrtus macrocarpa); also, the plant itself.

native lucern. = PADDY LUCERN. Australia.

na'tive-ly, adv. By natural or original condition; naturally; innately; also, simply; plainly; not artificially.

native millet. = AUSTRALIAN MILLET.

native mistletoe. In Australia, any species of Loranthus.

native mulberry. Any of several Australian trees: a The tree Pipturus argenteus, family Urticaceae, with edible white berries. b The tree Hedycarya angustifolia, family Monimiaceae. c The evergreen tree Litsaea dealbata, family Lauraceae. d The thorny bush Cudrania javanensis, family Moraceae.

native myrtle. In Australasia, any of several shrubs or trees; as: a The brush cherry Eugenia myrtifolia. b Australian myrtle. c See BLUEBERRY, 3 a.

na'tive-ness, n. Quality of being native or natural.

native olive. In Australia: a An indigenous species of olive (Olea paniculata); also, its fruit, essentially similar to the common olive. b The white boree. c The ironwood Notelaea ligustrina.

native onion. The native leek. Australia.

native orange. In Australia: a = NATIVE LIME a. b The native pomegranate.

native peach. In Australia: a The fruit of the quandong; also, the tree. b = EMU APPLE a. native pear. In Australia: a The wooden pear. b The allied tree Hakea acicularis.

native pheasant. The leipoa.

native plantain. An Australian plantain (Plantago varia), used as a forage plant.

native plum. a In Australia, any of several plumlike trees and fruits; specif.: (1) The black apple. (2) The native damson. b In Tasmania, the tree Cenarrhenes nitida, family Proteaceae; also, its fruit.

native pomegranate. Any of certain Australian species of Capparis; also, their edible pomegranatelike fruit.

native poplar. In Australia: a The tree Homalanthus leschenaultianus, family Euphorbiaceae. b The radish tree.

native potato. a Tasmania. An orchid (Gastrodia sesamoides) having tubers somewhat resembling small potatoes. b In Australia, any of several plants of the genus Marsdenia.

native quince. The bitterbark Petalostigma quadriloculare. Australia.

native rabbit. An Australian marsupial (Thylacomys lagotis), resembling a rabbit in size and form.

native rose. a The Australian rose. b In Tasmania, the handsome flowering shrub Bauera rubioides.

native rubber. See RUBBER, n., 3.

native sandalwood. An Australian tree (Fusanus persicarius), family Santalaceae. Its root bark is edible.

native sarsaparilla. In Australia: a = AUSTRALIAN TEA. b = AUSTRALIAN SARSAPARILLA.

native sassafras. The plume nutmeg.

native seal. The harbor seal. Newfoundland.

native sloth. The koala.

native sparrow. Either of two Australian weaverbirds, Zonaeginthus oculatus and Z. bellus.

native steel. An alloy of iron and carbon occurring where a burning coal seam has reduced and carbonized iron ore.

native thrush. An Australian thickhead (Timixos, syn. Pachycephala, olivaceus).

native timothy. See GRASS, Table.

native turkey. An Australian bustard (Choriotis australis).

native willow. In Australia, any of several trees with foliage somewhat like that of a willow, as the boobyalla, cooba, wilga, and poisonberry tree.

native word. a An inherited word; one not borrowed. See FOREIGN WORD. b A word of an aboriginal language.

native yam. In Australia: a The yam Dioscorea transversa. b Any of several indigenous species of Ipomoea.

na'tiv·ism (nā'tĭv·ĭz'm), n. 1. Policy of favoring the native inhabitants of a country as against immigrants. 2. Philos. The doctrine that the mind possesses elements of knowledge not derived from sensation. 3. Psychol. Emphasis upon heredity or native constitution as explaining the origin and development of intelligence, abstract ideas, forms of thought, etc.

— na'tiv·ist (-ĭst), n. — na'tiv·is'tic (nā'tĭ·vĭs'tĭk), adj.

na·tiv'i·ty (nā·tĭv'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. nativité, fr. LL. nativitas. See NATIVE; cf. NAÏVETÉ.] 1. The coming into life or into the world; birth; also, the circumstances attending birth, as time, place, manner, etc.; specif. [cap., usually with the], the birth of Christ or the day observed as commemorating his birth; Christmas Day. Chaucer. 2. [cap.] A church festival commemorating the birth of Christ (Christmas) or, sometimes, of the Virgin Mary (Sept. 8) or of John the Baptist (June 24). 3. Fact, status, or condition of being born a native. 4. Astrol. A horoscope at or of the time of one's birth. See HOROSCOPE, 1. 5. [cap.] Fine Arts. A picture or relief sculpture representing or symbolizing the early infancy of Christ.

na'tr (nāt''r), n. sing. & pl. [Amharic naṭr, naṭĕr, same word as neṭĕr. Cf. NETER.] See WEIGHT, Table.

na'tri·um (nā'trĭ·ŭm), n. [NL. See NATRON.] Sodium. Chem. symbol, Na (no period).

Na'trix (nā'trĭks), n. [L., water snake. See ADDER.] Zool. A genus of colubrid snakes typified by the grass snake (Natrix natrix) of Europe and containing the water snakes of temperate regions and tropical Asia and Africa. Formerly it included the garter snakes and similar species, and formed a subfamily, Nat'rĭ·ci'nae (nāt'rĭ·sī'nē). — nat'rĭ·cine (nā'trĭ·sīn; -sĭn), adj. & n.

na'tro- (nā'trō-). A combining form for natron, denoting presence of sodium.

na'tro·chal'cite (-kăl'sīt), n. [natro- + -chalcite.] Mineral. A hydrous sodium copper sulphate, $Na_2SO_4.Cu_4(OH)_3(SO_4)_2.2H_2O$.

na'tro·jar'o·site (-jär'ō-sīt; -jȧ·rō'sīt), n. [natro- + jarosite.] Mineral. A variety of jarosite in which sodium takes the place of potassium.

nat'ro·lite (nāt'rō·līt; nā'trō-), n. [natro- + -lite.] Mineral. A mineral of the zeolite family. It is sodium aluminum silicate, $Na_2Al_2Si_3O_{10}.2H_2O$.

na'tron (nā'trŏn), n. [F., fr. Sp. natrón, fr. Ar. naṭrūn, fr. Gr. nitron. See NITER; cf. ANATRON, TRONA.] a Mineral. Native sodium carbonate, $Na_2CO_3.10H_2O$, occurring only in solution, or with other salts. b Glass gall, or sandiver.

na'tron-. Petrog. Natron prefixed to names of rocks to indicate that the rock is rich in sodium, as in natron-granite, natron-syenite, etc.

Natt (năt), n. See NOTT.

nat'ter (năt'ĕr), v. i. [Cf. E. dial. gnatter, Fris. gnattern. Cf. GNATTER.] To find fault; to be peevish. Dial. Eng.

nat'tered (-ĕrd), adj. Peevish; querulous. — nat'tered·ness, n. Both Dial. Eng.

nat'ter·jack' (năt'ĕr·jăk'), n. [Origin obscure.] Zool. A common brownish-yellow toad (Bufo calamita) of western Europe. Its hind legs are short, and it progresses by running rather than by hopping.

nat'tle (năt''l), v. i. [Imitative.] Dial. Eng. a To nibble; gnaw. b To make a slight broken noise, as of rattling or tapping.

Nat Turn'er's In'sur·rec'tion (năt tûr'nĕrz). An insurrection of slaves in Virginia in 1831, led by Nat Turner, a negro, who believed himself divinely chosen to lead his people to freedom. About sixty whites were murdered. Turner and sixteen others were hanged.

nat'ty (năt'ĭ), adj.; NAT'TI·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); NAT'TI·EST. [Origin uncert.] Trimly neat and tidy; smartly spruce; as, natty army officers; natty gloves. Now Colloq. — nat'ti·ly (-ĭ·lĭ), adv. — nat'ti·ness, n.

Nat'ty Bump'po (năt'ĭ bŭmp'ō). See LEATHERSTOCKING.

nat'u·ar'y (năt'ū·ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr·ĭ), n. [L. natus birth.] Med. A ward or division of a hospital for women during childbirth.

nat'u·ral (năt'ū·răl; 249), adj. [OF., fr. L. naturalis, fr. natura. See NATURE.] 1. Of, from, or by, birth; natural-born; as, a natural fool, athlete, musician; existing or characteristic from birth; innate; inborn; as, natural instincts. 2. a Now Chiefly Dial. Actually begotten by one (opp. to adopted), esp. in wedlock. b Born out of wedlock; illegitimate. c Rare. Consanguineous. d Obs. Native-born. 3. In accordance with human nature; consonant with the characteristic instincts, feelings, reasonings, etc., of humankind; esp., of social feelings and sensibilities, not unnatural or brutal; kindly; as, the natural affections; also, of animals, in accordance with the nature of its kind; as, the natural food of a dog is flesh. 4. Designating, or pertaining to, natural law (see below); as, natural liberty, rights, obligations. 5. In accordance with, or determined by, nature; characteristic of the operations of the physical world; normal; as, the natural year; a natural cause. 6. Of, pertaining to, or concerned with, nature, or the physical universe; as, natural law or philosophy; specif., relating to some special department of nature; as, natural history (which see); a natural science. See NATURE, 6. 7. Physical; real; as, the natural body of Christ. 8. Of or pertaining to the lower or animal nature, as contrasted with the higher or moral powers, or that which is spiritual; being in a state of nature; unregenerate. 9. Not artificial; in a state of nature, or produced by nature; as, natural heat or color; a natural jewel; not abnormal; realizing the characteristic type; as, an imperfect crystal lacks its natural development; not supernatural; as, prodigies usually turn out to be natural phenomena. 10. Conformed to truth or reality; as: a Springing from true sentiment; not artificial or exaggerated; — said of action, delivery, etc.; as, a natural gesture. b Resembling the object imitated; true to nature; according to life; — said of a thing copied or imitated; as, a portrait is natural. 11. In accordance with or due to the conditions, events, or circumstances of the case; in line with normal experience; as, a father is the natural protector of his children. 12. Of the color flesh. 13. Immunol. Normal; not resulting from disease or inoculation; as, natural immunity. 14. Math. Starting from, or referred to, 1 as the base; — said of certain functions or numbers; as, natural numbers, the integers 1, 2, 3, etc.; natural sines, cosines, etc., those taken in a circle with radius 1. 15. Music. a Having neither flats nor sharps; — said of keys and scales; as, the natural scale of C major. b Neither sharped nor flatted; — said of notes and tones; as, the note (b) (see Illust.) is e natural. c Having the pitch it indicates modified by the natural sign (♮); as, the note (a) (see Illust.) is f natural. d Not falsetto; — said of a man's singing voice. e Produced by the voice; as, natural music; — contrasted with instrumental. f Moving by easy and smooth transitions; digressing but little (as to a relative key) from the original key; — applied to an air or modulation of harmony. g Produced without aid of stop, valves, slides, or other supplementary means; — said of harmonics or tones from wind and stringed instruments.

Natural, 15 (see definition).

☞ For some natural phrases, see the second word.

Syn. — Unassumed, unfeigned; common, ordinary, regular, usual. See NATIVE; cf. REGULAR.

Ant. — Unnatural, acquired; alien; strange. See ARTIFICIAL.

nat'u·ral (năt'ū·răl; 249), n. 1. A native; an aboriginal. Obs. 2. One living in a state of nature. 3. One born without the usual powers of reason or understanding; an idiot. "The minds of naturals." Locke. 4. A naturalist. Rare. 5. The natural character, form, condition or disposition of a person or thing. 6. The color flesh. 7. Natural gasoline. 8. In gambling games, betting, etc., anything that immediately wins the stakes; as: a See CRAPS. b At vingt-et-un, an ace and tenth card dealt to any player. c In pin pool, a ranche. 9. a Anyone who is naturally expert. b Slang. Anything that is immediately successful. 10. Obs. a pl. Natural gifts, powers, etc. b pl. Products of nature; the objects of the natural world; natural things or objects. 11. Music. a A note or tone affected by the natural sign (♮). b A character (♮) placed on any degree of the staff to annul, or to remove the effect of, a sharp or flat preceding it. See B-FLAT. c A white key of the keyboard, as of a piano.

natural allegiance. See ALLEGIANCE, 2.

natural bark. Pharm. Virgin cinchona bark, or that first removed. It is peeled from the tree in alternate longitudinal strips and the remaining bark and trunk are covered with moss until the new bark appears. The old bark is known as mossed bark and the new growth as renewed bark.

natural base. See LOGARITHM.

nat'u·ral-born' (66), adj. Having a (certain) status or character by birth; as, natural-born citizens, genius.

natural boundary. A curve up to, but not beyond, which a function may be analytically continued.

natural cement. Cement produced by finely pulverizing the clinker obtained by calcining at a temperature of 900° to 1000° F. a natural argillaceous limestone without preliminary mixing and grinding.

natural co-ordinate. See 3d CO-ORDINATE, 2. natural day. a The time that elapses from sunrise to sunset; — called by astronomers artificial day; = DAY, 1. b = DAY, 2. natural draft. See DRAFT, n., 11 a. natural dualism. = NATURAL REALISM.
nat'u·ral·esque' (năt'ū·răl·ĕsk'), adj. [natural + -esque.] Conforming closely to the natural details of objects represented; as, naturalesque designs of birds.
natural father. The father of an illegitimate child; also, Now Dial., an actual father, as disting. from a father by marriage, etc. natural fool. A fool by nature; specif., = NATURAL, n., 3. natural frequency or wave length. Radio. a The frequency or wave length with which a circuit, or part of a circuit, is in tune. b The lowest frequency or highest wave length with which an antenna, without added capacity or inductance, is in tune.
natural gas. A gas issuing from the earth's crust through natural openings or bored wells and frequently accompanied by petroleum. It occurs especially in the Paleozoic rocks of the United States, and is of industrial importance in more than a dozen States. When combustible it consists chiefly of methane with small and variable amounts of ethane, propane, butane, hydrogen, oxides of carbon, nitrogen, helium, hydrogen sulphide, etc. When essentially of hydrocarbons, it is valuable as a fuel, 100 cu. ft. being equal to 8 to 13 pounds of coal. About 10 per cent of the gasoline supply of the United States is obtained from natural gas by condensation and extraction processes.
natural gasoline. A gasoline, of high Baumé gravity, extracted from natural gas. natural geometry. Math. The geometry of physical space or space time, as contrasted with geometry founded on a set of consistent axioms and having no necessary connection with physical space or space time.
natural guardian. Law. A guardian by natural right, as of relationship. natural harmonic. Music. a On a stringed instrument, a harmonic produced on an open string. b On a wind instrument, one of the overtones produced without the use of slide or valves.
natural harmony. Music. a The harmony of the triad or common chord. b Harmony without modulations or derived chords. natural hexachord. Music. The hexachord beginning on C. natural historian. A student of, or writer on, natural history.
natural history. Formerly, the study, description, and classification of animals, plants, minerals, and other natural objects, thus including the modern sciences of zoology, botany, mineralogy, etc., in so far as they existed at that time; — now commonly restricted to a study of these subjects in a more or less unsystematic way.
natural horn. Music. The simplest form of the horn, a tapering brass tube with mouthpiece and bell, curved upon itself and without keys or valves.
‖na'tu·ra'li·a (năt'ū·rā'lĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., neut. pl.] a See JURISTIC ACT. b The genital organs. natural idiot. = NATURAL, n., 3. natural immunity. See IMMUNITY, n., 4. nat'u·ral·ism (năt'ū·răl·ĭz'm), n. 1. Practice of or attachment to what is natural; action, inclination, or thought based on natural desires and instincts alone.
2. a The theory that art or literature should conform to nature; realism; also, the quality, rendering, or expression of art or literature executed according to this theory. b Specif., the principles and characteristics professed or represented by a 19th-century school of realistic writers, notably by Zola and Maupassant, who aimed to give a literal transcription of reality, and laid stress on the analytic study of character, and on the scientific and experimental nature of their observation of life. Cf. REALISM, 3.
3. Philos. The doctrine which expands conceptions drawn from the natural sciences into a world view, denying that anything in reality has a supernatural or more than natural significance; specif., the doctrine that cause-and-effect laws, such as those of physics and chemistry, are adequate to account for all phenomena, and that teleological conceptions of nature are invalid; loosely, materialism and positivism.
4. Theol. The doctrine that religious truth is derived from nature and not from miraculous or supernatural revelation; the denial of the miraculous and supernatural in religion.
‖nat'u·ra'lis pos·ses'si·o (năt'ū·rā'lĭs pŏ·zĕsh'ĭ·ō). [L.] See POSSESSION, 6. nat'u·ral·ist (-ĭst), n. [F. naturaliste.] 1. One versed in natural science; a student of natural history, now esp. of the natural history of animals or plants.
2. An adherent of naturalism, as in literature.
3. One who practices or teaches naturalism in art; specif., a painter who is assumed to care more for the study of external nature than for sentiment. Various groups of painters have been called naturalists, the name changing with changing notions of what constitutes naturalism.
4. Eng. a A dealer in animal pets. b A taxidermist.
nat'u·ral·ist, adj. Naturalistic. nat'u·ral·is'tic (năt'ū·răl·ĭs'tĭk), adj. 1. Pertaining to, or closely resembling or reproducing, nature; natural; realistic. "Naturalistic bit of pantomime." W. D. Howells.
2. Pertaining to naturalism or to the methods and achievements of naturalists, in various senses.
3. Of or pertaining to natural history or the natural order of things; as, a naturalistic sense.
— nat'u·ral·is'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.
nat'u·ral'i·ty (-răl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [F. naturalité, fr. LL. naturalitas.] 1. Quality or state of being natural; specif.: Obs. a Characteristic nature; also, a representation of it. b Accord with nature; also, closeness to nature. c Natural feeling or behavior.
2. The status of a natural-born subject or citizen. Obs.
nat'u·ral·i·za'tion (-răl·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. [F. naturalisation.] Act or process of naturalizing, or state of being naturalized. The privilege of naturalization is now general among civilized nations.
nat'u·ral·ize (năt'ū·răl·īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [F. naturaliser. See NATURAL.] Transitive: 1. To make really or apparently natural; as: a Obs. To render familiar by custom and habit; as, custom naturalizes labor or study; also, to familiarize or accustom; as, to naturalize one to work. b To make less artificial; to bring into accord with nature. c To treat as natural as opposed to supernatural; to place on a natural basis; as, to naturalize so-called miracles.
2. Specif.: a To confer the rights and privileges of a native subject or citizen on; to make as if native; to adopt (as an alien) into a state and place in the condition of a native subject or citizen. b To receive or adopt as native, natural, or vernacular; to make one's own; as, to naturalize foreign words. c To adapt and cause to grow as under natural conditions; to acclimate; as, to naturalize a fruit.
—, Intransitive: 1. To become as if native.
2. To explain phenomena by natural facts, agencies, or laws, to the exclusion of the supernatural.
3. To carry on investigations in natural history.
nat'u·ral·iz'er (năt'ū·răl·ĭz'ĕr), n. One who naturalizes. natural key. a Bot. & Zool. See 2d KEY, 14 a. b Music. See 2d KEY, 25 d. natural law. a Law which would be binding upon human societies in the absence of institutional law or which is binding as supplementing institutional law. The conception of natural law originated with the Stoics, by whom it was regarded as embodying those rules of justice discernible by right reason. This view was sometimes taken by Roman jurists, who also identified natural law with the jus gentium (which see). Justinian adopted Ulpian's definition of it as that law which "nature has taught all living beings," thus forecasting the modern bionomic view. The Scholastics generally regarded natural law as that part of the divine law which is not directly revealed, but is discernible to reason; and the rationalists of the 18th century derived from their analysis of human societies certain natural rights, as to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, which they regarded as of prior validity to institutional law (cf. SOCIAL CONTRACT). Modern theories tend to interpret natural law as the body of rules or customs which the general development of mankind shows to be essential to human society. See JUSTICE, 4; RIGHT. b = LAW OF NATURE b. natural logarithms. See LOGARITHM.
nat'u·ral·ly, adv. 1. By nature; by natural, native, or inherent character, condition, endowment, etc.

A woman, naturally born to fears. Shak.

2. According to the laws of nature or the usual course of things; as might be expected; as a natural result; as, pain naturally weakens one; he naturally shrank from pain.
3. Spontaneously; without cultivation or use of art or effort; as, her hair curls naturally; figs grow here naturally.
4. In physical nature; physically. Obs.
5. With truth to nature or life; in a lifelike manner.
natural man. Man as unaffected by civilization, sophistication, or religious regeneration. natural medium. See MEDIUM, n., 7 a. natural method. Educ. A method of teaching foreign, esp. modern, languages by use of objects, pictures, and short sentences, in imitation of the way in which children learn the vernacular. natural minor scale. See 6th SCALE, 11 a. natural necessity. See NECESSITY, n., 6 a. nat'u·ral·ness, n. 1. Natural feeling or conduct. Obs.
2. State or quality of being natural, or in accordance with, or conformity to, nature.
3. Action in accord with one's nature without affectation or artificiality; as, the naturalness of her manner.
natural night. = NIGHT, n., 1. natural order. Bot. See FAMILY, 8; ORDER, n., 19. natural parts. a Obs. The genitals. b Native ability. natural person. Law. A man, woman, or child, in distinction from a juristic person. See PERSON, CORPORATION, UNIVERSITY. natural philosophy. a Orig., the study of nature in general; — contrasted with mental and moral philosophy. b Physics. — natural philosopher.
natural points. At cassino, big and little cassino and the four aces.
natural porcelain. See PORCELAIN. natural Portland cement. = NATURAL CEMENT. natural predication. Logic. Indirect predication; also, predication in which subject and predicate relate to a common substance or matter of which they are accidents.
natural premium. See PREMIUM. natural price. See PRICE, n., 2. natural pruning. a The natural falling or dropping off of branches and twigs of trees, esp. that caused by suppression (sense 3). b Self-pruning. natural realism. Philos. The doctrine, elaborated by the philosophers of the Scottish school, that perception gives direct and indubitable evidence of the independent existence of both mind and matter.
natural religion. Religion derived from human reason and experience apart from miraculous or supernatural revelation.
natural representative. Law. See REPRESENTATIVE. natural resources. Capacities, as native wit, or materials, as mineral deposits and waterpower, supplied by nature.
natural rights. Law & Polit. Sci. Those rights that are esteemed to belong to a man by the law of nature; esp., the right to life, liberty, and property, and, with Locke and later writers, to participate in the constitution of government. See RIGHT, n., 2.
natural science. The branches of knowledge collectively which deal directly with natural objects, organic or inorganic, and the substances composing them and the phenomena exhibited by them, thus including biology in all its branches, mineralogy, geology, chemistry, physics, etc., but not abstract mathematics, philosophy, or metaphysics.
natural selection. The natural process tending to cause "the survival of the fittest" (that is, the survival of those forms of animals and plants best adjusted to the conditions under which they live), and extinction of poorly adapted forms. Darwin considered natural selection, operating by means of small fortuitous individual variations, as the most important factor in organic evolution. Later biologists do not generally regard it as of so great importance (relatively to other factors) in the origin of species and higher groups. Cf. DARWINISM, LAMARCKISM, MUTATION.
natural series. Math. The series of integers, 1, 2, 3, ... natural slope. Civ. Engin. The slope that a mass of earth thrown up into a heap assumes. natural steel. Steel made by the direct refining of cast iron in a refinery, or, as wootz, by a direct process from the ore.
natural system. a Chem. The periodic system of classifying the elements. See PERIODIC LAW. b Biol. A classification based upon morphological and anatomical relationships and affinities, considered in the light of phylogeny and embryology; specif., Bot., a system other than the artificial or sexual system established by Linnaeus. natural theology. Theology deriving its knowledge of God from the study of nature independent of special revelation. — natural theologian.
natural vowel. = NEUTRAL VOWEL. natural wave length. Radio. See NATURAL FREQUENCY.
‖na·tu'ra na·tu'rans (nȧ·tū'rȧ nȧ·tū'rănz). [NL.] Nature viewed as an informing or creative principle or agency; nature in its unity; specif.: a Scholastic. God; the divine creator. b According to Spinoza, nature in its unity, as that which determines the multiplicity of its modes or manifestations. Cf. NATURA NATURATA.
‖na·tu'ra na·tu·ra'ta (năt'ū·rȧ'tȧ). [ML.] Nature viewed as the sum of particular instances; created nature; specif.: a Scholastic. That which has been created by God. b According to Spinoza, nature in the multiplicity of its modes or manifestations, as that which exhibits or is determined by natura naturans.
‖na·tu'ra non fa'cit sal'tum (nȧ·tū'rȧ nŏn fā'sĭt săl'tŭm). [L.] Nature makes no leap; — implying the uniformity and continuity of natural phenomena.
na'ture (nā'tûr; 249), n. [OF., fr. L. natura, fr. natus born, produced, past part. of nasci to be born. See NATION.]
1. The essential character or constitution of a particular thing, a species, or a kind; distinguishing quality or qualities; essence; as, the nature of steel, of matter, of love, of a literary movement.
2. Being of a distinct species or kind; specific essence; as, our physical and spiritual natures. Hence: a Kind; sort; type; order; general character; as, adventures of this nature; in the nature of a conquest. b One's being; soul; self.

I am shamed thro' all my nature to have loved so slight a thing. Tennyson.

3. Fundamental character, disposition, or temperament, often regarded as innate or unchangeable; as, contrary to one's nature; human nature. Cf. sense 8, below.

One touch of nature makes the whole world kin
That all, with one consent, praise new-born gauds, Though they are made and molded of things past,
And give to dust that is a little gilt
More laud than gilt o'er-dusted. Shak.

Hence: a Human nature; as, to err through the frailty of nature. b A particular kind or type of character, disposition, etc., or a person with such; as, a cheery nature.
4. Normal and characteristic quality, strength, vigor, resiliency, or the like; as, to cook meat till it loses its nature. Now Chiefly Dial.
5. The vital functions, processes, organs, or the like; also, one of these, esp. a generative or excretory organ, process, etc., or the matter issuing from such an organ; — now chiefly a euphemism; as, a call of nature; interference with nature.
6. That which is produced by natural forces; the system of all phenomena in space and time; creation; the universe; as, laws governing nature; nothing happens without cause in nature; more narrowly, the totality of physical reality, exclusive of minds and the mental.
7. [sometimes cap.] A creative, controlling agent, force, or principle, or set of such forces or principles, operating or operative in a thing and determining wholly or chiefly its constitution, development, well-being, or the like. Specif.: a In the universe, such a force or agency, often viewed as a creative guiding intelligence, or such principles regarded as established for the regulation of the universe or observed in its operation; — often personified and sometimes equivalent to God, natural law, universal order, etc.; as, by provision of nature; determined to these ends by nature; Dame Nature. See def. 11. b In an individual, an inner driving or prompting force, as instinct, appetite, desire, or the sum of such; — often, esp. in Theol., opposed to grace; as, inciting or corrupting nature; to control nature by grace.

So priketh hem nature in hir corages. Chaucer.

c A life-giving or health-giving force in an animate thing; as, to leave a cure to nature.
8. Feeling, esp. kindliness or affection, that is genuine, spontaneous, or unstudied in expression; naturalness.
☞ In the first line of the quotation from Shakespeare cited in def. 3, above, the word nature is often interpreted in this sense.
9. A theoretical condition or stage of existence believed to reveal man in his original or most natural state or status, variously described as: a The normal, and hence ideal, element or character, both in particular things and in the universe at large; — sometimes equated with reason and the rational; as, the Stoics' conception of life according to nature. b Following Rousseau, a simple, undomesticated, uncivilized mode of life among primitive men when wants and obligations were few. c A simplified mode of life, esp. as lived out of doors apart from communities and other civilizing and restraining influences; as, back to nature; the state of nature.
10. A particular order of existence or of existing things, frequently regarded as in contrast with, or as the subject matter of, art. Specif.: a That which is in a natural, as distinct from a developed, ordered, perfected, or man-made state; that which is, or is represented, in its original, untouched condition.

Art is the perfection of nature. Sir T. Browne.

b Real and objective existence; the external world of mind and matter; reality as observed.

His [the actor's] mission is not to paint nature as it exists in the light of day, but nature as it exists in the heart of man. W. E. Lecky.

c The aspect of out-of-doors, esp. of the landscape, sea, sky, etc.; natural scenery; as, wild nature.
11. Philos. The totality of powers or agencies which determine the character and process of things, in general and in detail; that which is the ground of existing phenomena and determines the order of causes and effects, whether conceived as a plurality of formative agencies or as a single and unitary principle governing all reality in space and time; — often restricted to the totality of finite agencies and forces, in distinction from a creative and guiding intelligence. The conception of nature (Gr. physis, L. natura) has been confused by the mingling of three chief meanings adopted with the word into English, viz.: (1) Creative or vital force. (2) Created being in its essential character; kind; sort. (3) Creation as a whole, esp. the physical universe. The main ambiguity is between nature as active or creative and nature as passive or created. In the original animistic view, the active vitalistic conception prevailed; but Plato sharply distinguished the passive material from the active formal element, and Aristotle continued the distinction in the conception of a moving cause, or God, as separate from the moved physical universe, or Nature. This antithesis is all but obliterated in pantheistic and naturalistic views. It appears in the pantheism of Spinoza, but the distinction of natura naturans and natura naturata serves only to discriminate two elements or aspects of the one organic being or substance. The two elements, in the forms of matter and energy, are retained in the modern physical or mechanical view, wherein nature appears as a material universe acting according to rules, but to all intents independent of God or purposive cause.
12. Theol. a Substance or essence viewed as the principle of specific proper acts or operations; as, the union of two natures in Christ; in the Trinity, three persons in one divine nature. b The state of the unregenerate soul.
na'ture (nā'tûr), adj. Pertaining or relating to nature; as, nature myths.
na'ture, v. t. & i. To endow with or impart to, or to acquire, a (specific) nature or its nature. Cf. NATURING. na'ture·craft' (nā'tûr·krăft'; 83), n. See -CRAFT.
-na'tured (-nā'tûrd). A combining form for natured, part. adj., meaning having (such) a nature, temper, or disposition, as in good-natured, ill-natured. — -na'tured·ly. — -na'tured·ness.
nature deity or god. A deification of some natural force or phenomenon; as, Thor is a nature deity.

N

nature myth. A myth which explains or allegorizes natural phenomena.

nature printing. Any process of printing from metallic or other plates which in the original method (Auer process) have received an impression, or which in a later method have been made from matrices which have received an impression, as by heavy pressure, of an object such as a leaf, lace, or the like. — na'ture-print', v. t. — nature print.

nature spirit. A spirit regarded as the life or soul of any natural object (see ANIMISM); — used to distinguish animistic conceptions from conceptions of the supernatural.

nature study. The objective study of any or all the objects and phenomena of nature, as birds, flowers, weather, etc., esp. as a subject of instruction in elementary schools.

nature worship. a Any system of religious beliefs and practices toward the forces manifested in nature or supposed to be inherent in natural objects, usually involving prayer and sacrifices to natural phenomena or objects. b Worship of the powers of nature personified. c Cosmotheism. See PANTHEISM. d Figuratively, the cult, as by some poets, of the beauty of nature.

na'tur·ing (nā'tûr·ĭng), adj. [After ML. naturans, in natura naturans.] Creative; creating each thing with its specific nature. "Naturing Nature." Hardy.

na'tur·ism (nā'tûr·Iz'm), n. 1. Naturalism.
2. The theory that the earliest religion was nature worship.

na'tur·ist, n. A follower of nature; specif., one who believes in, or conforms to, the theory of naturism.

na'tur·is'tic (nā'tûr·Is'tĭk), adj. Like, or pertaining to, naturism. — na'tur·is'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

na'tur·ize (nā'tûr·Iz), v. t. To endow with a specific nature. Rare.

na'tur·op'a·thy (nā'tûr·ŏp'ȧ·thĭ), n. [L. natura nature + -pathy.] A system of treatment of disease emphasizing assistance to nature, sometimes including the use of certain medicinal substances and certain physical means. — na'tur·o·path' (nā'tûr·ō·păth'), n. — na'tur·op'a·thist (-ŏp'ȧ·thĭst), n. — na'tur·o·path'ic (-ō·păth'Ĭk), adj.

nau-. A combining form, Greek nau-, from naus, meaning ship, as in *nau*pathia, *nau*scopy.

nau'crar (nô'krăr), n. [Gr. naukraros.] A householder member of a naucrary.

nau'crar'y (nô'krĕr'Ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-Iz). [Gr. naukraria.] One of the forty-eight subdivisions of the four phylae into which the Athenian people were originally divided.

nau'fra·gous (nô'frȧ·gŭs), adj. [L. naufragus.] Causing, or marked by, shipwrecks. Obs.

nau'ger (dial. nō'gĕr), n. An auger. Obs. exc. Dial.

naught (nôt), n. [See NOUGHT.] 1. The arithmetical character 0; zero; also, a zero or cipher. See CIPHER, n.
☞ For this sense, the spelling naught is preferred to nought in this Dictionary.
2. Var. of NOUGHT.

naught. Var. of NOUGHT, adj., adv., & v.

naugh'ti·ly (nô'tĭ·lĭ), adv. In a naughty manner; mischievously; specif.: Obs. a Wickedly; perversely. b Poorly; badly.

naugh'ti·ness (-tĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. 1. Quality or state of being naughty; specif.: a Obs. Wickedness; perverseness. b Obs. Badness; faultiness. c Misbehavior, as of a child.
2. A naughty act, impulse, notion, etc.

naugh'ty (nô'tĭ), adj.; NAUGH'TI·ER (-tĭ·ĕr); NAUGH'TI·EST.
1. Having nothing; destitute. Obs.
2. Worthless; bad; disagreeable; unhealthy. Obs.
3. Wicked; morally bad; wrong. Archaic.
So shines a good deed in a naughty world. Shak.
4. Mischievous; wayward; guilty of disobedience or misbehavior; — now chiefly applied to children, or in playful censure.
5. Insignificant; valueless. Chiefly Scot.
Syn. — See BAD.
Ant. — Well-behaved, well-mannered, good.

naughty pack. A person of bad character; esp., a loose woman. Written also naugh'ty-pack'. Obs. exc. Dial.

nau'ja·ite (nô'jȧ·īt), n. [From Naujakasik, Greenland.] Petrog. A nephelite-sodalite-syenite having a poikilitic texture.

nau·ma'chi·a (nô·mā'kĭ·ȧ), n.; pl. -CHIAE (-ē), -CHIAS (-ȧz). Also nau'ma·chy (nô'mȧ·kĭ); pl. -CHIES (-kĭz). [L., fr. Gr. naumachia, fr. naus ship + machē fight, battle.] Rom. Antiq. a A mock sea fight or a spectacle representing a naval battle. b A place for such exhibitions, esp. an artificial body of water, surrounded by seats, or in an amphitheater.

nau'mann·ite (nô'mȧn·īt; nou'-), n. [After K. F. Naumann, Ger. mineralogist.] Mineral. Silver lead selenide, (Ag_2Pb)Se, in iron-black cubic crystals or massive. Sp. gr., 8.

Naum·bur'gi·a (nôm·bûr'gĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Johann S. Naumburg (1768–99), Ger. botanist.] Bot. A genus of perennial bog or marsh herbs of the primrose family (Primulaceae), having as its only known species N. thyrsiflora, the tufted loosestrife.

naum'keag (nôm'kĕg), n. [From Naumkeag, former (Indian) name of Salem, Mass., a center of leather and shoe manufacture.] The bottom of the sole of a boot or shoe; — often shortened to naumk (nômk).

naum'keag'er (-kĕg'ĕr), n. A naumkeag scourer.

naunt (nänt), n. [From mine aunt, thine aunt, taken as my, thy, naunt.] Aunt. Archaic & Dial. Eng.

naun'tle (nän't'l), v. t. To lift up; to raise. Dial. Eng. — v. i. To strut about; also, to fuss or potter. Dial. Eng.

nau·path'i·a (nô·păth'Ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. naus ship + -pathia.] Med. Seasickness.

nau'pli·us (nô'plĭ·ŭs), n.; pl. -PLII (-Ĭ). [L., a kind of shellfish.] Zool. In many crustaceans, a larval form (usually the first stage after leaving the egg) with three pairs of appendages (corresponding to antennules, antennae, and mandibles), a median eye, and little or no segmentation of the body. — nau'pli·al (-dl), nau'pli·i·form' (-ĭ·fôrm'), nau'pli·oid (-oid), adj.

a Nauplius of a Phyllopod (Artemia); b Nauplius of a Barnacle. Enlarged.

nau'ro·pom'e·ter (nô'rō·pŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [Gr. naus ship + rhopē inclination + -meter.] Naut. An instrument for measuring a ship's heeling at sea. Rare.

naus'co·py (nôs'kō·pĭ), n. [F. nauscopie, fr. Gr. naus ship + -scopy.] The pretended power or act of discovering ships or land at great distances.

nau'se·a (nô'shē·ȧ; -sē·ȧ; -shȧ; 277), n. [L., fr. Gr. nausia, fr. naus ship. See NAVE of a church.] 1. Any sickness of the stomach, like seasickness, with a desire to vomit; qualm; a feeling of distress associated with loathing of food.
2. Figuratively, extreme disgust; loathing.

nau'se·ant (nô'shē·ănt; -sē·ănt), adj. [L. nauseans, pres. part. of nauseare.] Med. Producing nausea; nauseating. — n. A substance which produces nausea.

nau'se·ate (-āt), v. i.; -AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -Id; 119); -AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). [L. nauseare, nauseatum, fr. nausea. See NAUSEA.] To become affected with nausea; to feel disgust. — v. t. a To sicken at; to loathe.
The patient nauseates and loathes wholesome foods. Blackmore.
b To affect with nausea; to sicken; to cause to feel loathing or disgust; as, the stench nauseated him. — nau'se·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n.

nau'se·ate, n. [L. nauseatum.] A nauseant. Obs.

nau'seous (nô'shŭs; -shē·ŭs; 277), adj. [L. nauseosus.] a Obs. Feeling nausea; inclined to nausea; squeamish.
b Causing, or fitted to cause, nausea; sickening; loathsome; disgusting; as, a nauseous odor; nauseous hypocrisy. — nau'seous·ly, adv. — nau'seous·ness, n.

Nau'set (nô'sĕt; -sĭt), n. An Indian of an extinct Algonquian tribe formerly of Cape Cod.

Nau·sic'a·ȧ (nô·sĭk'ȧ·ȧ; nou-), n. [L., fr. Gr. Nausikaa.] In the Odyssey, the daughter of Alcinoüs, king of the Phaeacians, who found Ulysses on the shore where he had been shipwrecked, and led him to her father's court.

naut (nôt), n. [Prob. for knot, confused with nautical mile.] A sea mile of 2,029 yards, used as a measure for submarine cables. Australia.

nautch (nôch), n. [Hind. nāc, fr. Prakrit nacca, fr. Skr. nṛtya dancing.] An entertainment consisting chiefly of dancing by professional dancing girls (nautch girls). India.

nau'ther (dial. nô'thĕr), pron. & conj. [AS. nāwther, nāhwæther. See NO, adv.; WHETHER. Cf. NOUTHER.] Neither. Obs. exc. Dial.

nau'tic (nô'tĭk), adj. Nautical. Now Rare.

nau'ti·cal (nô'tĭ·kăl), adj. [From nautic, fr. F. nautique, fr. L. nauticus, fr. Gr. nautikos, fr. nautēs a seaman, sailor, fr. naus ship. See NAVE of a church.] Of or pertaining to seamen, navigation, or ships; as, nautical skill. — nau'ti·cal·ly, adv.
Syn. — Marine, maritime. See NAVAL.

nau'ti·cal, n. One having to do with nautical things. Humorous.

Nautical Almanac (American). A mathematical publication prepared at the Naval Observatory in Washington. It contains tables of the position of various heavenly bodies at stated times, and other information, for the use of navigators, geodesists, and astronomers. Cf. EPHEMERIS, 3 a. nautical astronomy. That part of practical astronomy by which the position of a ship is found from astronomical observations.

Nautical Box. Astron. See ARGO, 2.

nautical day. A day of 24 consecutive solar hours, reckoned from noon to noon.

nautical distance. The length in nautical miles of the rhumb line joining any two places on the earth's surface.

nau'ti·cal'i·ty (nô'tĭ·kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality of being nautical.

nautical mile. See 2d MILE.

nautical planisphere. The projection of the terrestrial globe on a plane, for navigators' use.

nautical stars. Stars selected with especial reference to their fitness for navigators' use in ascertaining longitude and latitude.

nautical surveying. = MARINE SURVEYING.

nautical tables. Arithmetical tables especially adapted to facilitate the navigator's work in solving problems, particularly in nautical astronomy.

nau'tics (nô'tĭks), n. a Science or art of navigation; — usually construed as sing. b Water sports, as boating or swimming; — usually construed as pl.

nau'ti·form (nô'tĭ·fôrm), adj. [Gr. naus ship + -form.] Shaped like the hull of a ship. Rare.

Nau'ti·la'ce·a (-lā'shē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The Nautiloidea. — nau'ti·la'ceȧn (-shăn), adj. & n.

nau·til'i·cone (nô·tĭl'Ĭ·kōn), n. Paleon. Any nautiloid cephalopod shell coiled in a spiral as in the genus Nautilus.

nau·til'i·form (-fôrm), adj. [nautilus + -form.] Zool. Having the form of a nautilus shell.

nau'ti·lite (nô'tĭ·lĭt), n. Paleontol. A fossil nautilus.

Nau'ti·loi'de·a (nô'tĭ·loi'dē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See NAUTILUS; -OID.] Paleontol. & Zool. An order (or suborder) of tetrabranchiate cephalopods having an external chambered shell, either straight (as in Orthoceras) or variously curved or coiled. The group was important in the Ordovician and esp. the Silurian, but only the genus Nautilus now survives. — nau'ti·loid (nô'tĭ·loid), nau'ti·loi'de·an (-loi'dē·ăn), adj. & n.

nau'ti·lus (nô'tĭ·lŭs), n.; pl. -LUSES (-ĕz; -Iz; 119), NAUTILI (-tĭ·lī). [L., fr. Gr. nautilos a seaman, sailor, a kind of shellfish which was supposed to be furnished with a membrane which served as a sail, fr. naus ship. See NAVE of a church.] 1. a Any cephalopod mollusk of the genus Nautilus, the only surviving genus of the Tetrabranchia. Three or four species exist, living in the South Pacific and Indian oceans. They have a spiral, chambered shell formed of two layers, the outer being porcelaneous, the inner pearly, whence the name pearly nautilus, applied to distinguish them from the paper nautilus (see ARGONAUTA). The animal, which is contained in the outer chamber, has numerous small tentacles arranged in groups, without suckers or hooks, no ink sac, four gills, four auricles, four nephridia, and the siphon consisting of two lobes, not fused to form a tube. See TETRABRANCHIA.

Pearly Nautilus. a Section of Animal and Shell; b Shell, side view.

b [cap.] Zool. The genus containing these species, and fossil forms, some dating back to the Tertiary.
2. The paper nautilus. See ARGONAUTA.
3. A variety of diving bell.

Nav'a·ho, Nav'a·jo (năv'ȧ·hō), n.; pl. -HOS, -JOS (-hōz), or -HOES, -JOES (-hōz). [Sp. Apaches de Navajó, fr. Tewa Navahú, lit., great fields, a Tewa pueblo near which the Spaniards first encountered the Navahos.] 1. One of an important tribe of Athapascan Indians mostly living, as seminomadic herdsmen, on a reservation in Arizona, New Mexico, and Utah.
2. A color, reddish red-yellow in hue, of very high saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Navaho blanket. A woolen blanket, of bright colors in geometric design, made by Navaho women.

Nav'a·ho sand'stone (năv'ȧ·hō). Geol. A massive, cliff-making, red sandstone constituting the uppermost division of the Jurassic strata of northwestern New Mexico and northeastern Arizona.

na'val (nā'văl), adj. [L. navalis, fr. navis ship. See NAVE of a church.] 1. Of or pert. to ships or shipping. Obs.
2. Of, pertaining to, connected with, possessing, or characteristic of, vessels of war or a navy; as, naval forces.
Syn. — NAVAL, NAUTICAL. NAVAL designates that which pertains to a navy, or (now rarely) to ships and shipping in general; NAUTICAL applies to seamen, to the art of navigation, or to kinds of ships, their parts, etc.; as, a naval engagement, the Naval Academy, naval stores; a nautical almanac, nautical tables, nautical slang. Cf. MARINE.

naval architect. One who practices the art of designing ships, esp. vessels of war. — naval architecture.

naval attaché. A naval officer detailed on duty with the diplomatic representative of his country at a foreign capital. Cf. MILITARY ATTACHÉ. See PRECEDENCE.

naval auxiliary. In the United States Navy, a vessel auxiliary to the fighting vessels, as a tanker, supply vessel, etc. See NAVY, 2 c.

naval aviator. U. S. Navy. A commissioned officer who has completed the requisite course of training as a pilot of heavier-than-air craft, and whose certificate as naval aviator has been issued.

naval base. A port with facilities for maintaining vessels of the fleet in operating readiness.

naval brass. Brass composed usually of copper 62 parts, zinc 37, tin 1, used for bolts, etc., to be normally under water.

naval brigade. See NAVAL MILITIA.

naval cadet. A young man in training for service as a naval officer. In the United States, from 1882 to 1902, the name was given to a midshipman (which see).

naval constructor. U. S. Navy. A member of a corps of officers having in charge the designing, construction, and repairing of the hulls of war vessels and their fittings, exclusive of propulsive machinery, and the installation of all armor and ordnance. The corps is composed generally of honor graduates of the Naval Academy.

naval crown. A golden crown consisting of galley prows arranged in a circle to form the rim, invented by the Roman Emperor Claudius as a reward for sea service. Hence, Her., a charge depicting a crown of gold with ship sterns and square sails arranged alternately on the fillet.

naval engineering. See ENGINEERING, n., 1. — naval engineer.

na'val·ism (nā'văl·Iz'm), n. Policy of maintaining naval interests; also, dominance of the naval class or of naval policies. — na'val·ist (-Ĭst), n. & adj. — na'val·is'tic (-Is'tĭk), adj. — na'val·is'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

naval militia. A naval force maintained by some of the States in about the same manner as the National Guard; — formerly called naval brigade.

naval officer. a An officer in a navy. b U. S. An official of the Treasury Department attached to the customhouses at the larger ports to handle manifests and entries, permits, clearances, and other documents. He is now officially called comptroller of the customs.

naval pipe. Naut. = CHAIN PIPE a. naval reserve. An organization of organized and trained bodies of volunteers, and, sometimes, mercantile vessels, which can be called upon to strengthen the regular navy in war. In Great Britain vessels commanded by officers of the Royal Naval Reserve fly the blue ensign (see ENSIGN, 1).

naval station. A place where vessels of a navy can obtain coal, supplies and, usually, minor repairs.

naval stores. a Supplies for vessels, esp. war vessels. b Com. Tar, pitch, turpentine, and other resinous products.

Na'va·ra'tra (nŭv'ȧ·rā'trȧ), n. [Skr. navarātra period of nine days (prop., nights).] Hinduism. A nine-day festival in honor of Durga, held in the month Ashvin (Sept.–Oct.).

na'varch (nā'värk), n. [L. navarchus, fr. Gr. nauarchos, fr. naus ship + archos chief.] Gr. Antiq. The commander of a fleet.

na'varch·y (-vär·kĭ), n. [Gr. nauarchia.] Gr. Antiq. The office of a navarch.

‖na'va'rin' (nä'vä'răN'), n. [F.] A mutton stew prepared with turnips, potatoes, and beans.

Na'var·rese' (nä'vär·rēz'; -rēs'; năv'ȧ-), adj. Of or pert. to Navarre. See Gaz. — n. sing. & pl. A native or inhabitant of Navarre.

Na·var'ri·an (nȧ·vär'Ĭ·ăn), n. Of or pert. to Navarre.

nave (nāv), n. [AS. nafu; akin to D. naaf, G. nabe, OHG. naba, ON. nöf, Skr. nābhi nave, navel, L. umbo boss of a shield, Av. nāfa navel, Lett. naba. See NAVEL.] 1. The block in the center of a wheel, from which the spokes radiate, and in which the axle is fixed; the hub.
2. The navel. Rare. "From the nave to the chaps." Shak.

nave (nāv), n. [L. navis ship, to which the church was often likened; akin to Gr. naus, Skr. nom. naus, acc. nāvam, OIr. nau, ON. nōr. Cf. NAUSEA, NAUTICAL, NAVAL, NAVIGATE, NAVY, NEF, NOISE.] a In the dromic or basilican churches, and their successors the cruciform churches, the long narrow hall which ordinarily rises higher than the aisles flanking it, and which usually has windows on each side above the aisle roof (see CLERESTORY). See Illusts. under ARCHITECTURE and CATHEDRAL. b Hence, any higher division rising above lower roofs of the same building, as in a warehouse. c That part of a church which anciently was first entered from the atrium or from the narthex, and was usually, therefore, the western great division of the church. In cruciform churches, the part between the crossing and the western, or greater, porch.

nave (nāv). Var. of NIEVE, fist.

Na've (nä'vē). Bib.

na'vel (nā'vĕl), n. [AS. nafela; akin to D. navel, G. nabel, OHG. nabalo, ON. nafli, OIr. imbliu, L. umbilicus, Gr. omphalos, Skr. nābhīla, and to E. NAVE hub. Cf. NOMBRIL, OMPHALIC, UMBILICAL.] 1. A mark or depression in the middle of the abdomen, marking the point of attachment of the umbilical cord; the umbilicus.
2. The central part or point of anything; the middle.
Within the navel of this hideous wood. Milton.
3. Hence: Obs. a The middle of a horse's back. b The nave of a wheel.
4. Her. See ESCUTCHEON, 1.

---

nat'u·ral (năt'ū·rĕl), adj. Natural. Obs. — nat'u·ral·ly, adv. Obs.

na'ture·less, adj. Without vital nature; also, unnatural. Obs.

na'ture·like', adj. See -LIKE.

nau'frage (nô'frĭj), n. [F., fr. L. naufragium.] Shipwreck. Obs.

nau'fraged (-frĭjd), adj. Shipwrecked. Obs.

nau'fra·gie, n. Naufrage. Obs.

naught, nauht. ✝ NIGHT.

naught'ly, adv. Naughtily. Obs.

naughts'-and-cross'es. Var. of NOUGHTS-AND-CROSSES.

nau'krar, nau'kra·ry. Vars. of NAUCRAR, NAUCRARY.

nau'lum, n. [L., fr. Gr. naulon, fr. naus ship.] Ferry money; fare. Obs.

Na'um (nā'ŭm). Bib.

nau'se·a·proof', adj. See -PROOF.

nau'se·at'ing·ly, adv. of nauseating, pres. part.

nau'se·a'tive (nô'shē·ā'tĭv; nô'sē-), adj. Inclined to nausea. Obs.

nau'si·ty (nô'sĭ·tĭ), n. Nausea. Obs.

na'val·ly, adv. of NAVAL.

5. Meat Packing. The section of the plate below the short ribs.
6. Ordn. An eye on the underside of an old-time carronade for securing it to a gunner.

na'veled (nā'vĕld), adj. 1. Located in the center. Rare. 2. Furnished with a navel or navellike knobs. Rare.

navel orange. A type of orange in which the fruit encloses a small secondary fruit, the rind showing on the exterior a navellike pit at the apex. They are usually seedless, or nearly so, and are much grown in California. The type originated in Brazil.

navel pipe. Naut. = CHAIN PIPE a.

navel point. Her. = NAVEL. See ESCUTCHEON, 1.

na'vel-wort' (nā'vĕl-wûrt'), n. a A European succulent herb (Cotyledon umbilicus) having round, peltate leaves with a central depression. b Venus's-navelwort.

na'vew (nā'vū), n. [OF. navel, naveau, dim. fr. L. napus navew.] = WILD TURNIP a; also, the rape.

nav'i-cel'la (năv'ĭ-sĕl'ȧ), n. [LL., dim. of navis ship.] Art. Any vessel-shaped ornamental object, as one for holding incense.

na·vic'u·la (nȧ·vĭk'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., a small ship.] 1. Eccl. An incense boat.
2. [cap.] Bot. The largest genus of diatoms, having a lanceolate, usually free-floating, frustule covered with minute striae. The genus typifies a family, Na·vic'u·la'ce·ae (-lā'sē-ē), of the group Pennatae.

na·vic'u·lae·form' (nȧ·vĭk'ū·lē·fôrm'), adj. Bot. Navicular.

na·vic'u·lar (nȧ·vĭk'ū·lĕr), adj. [L. navicularius, fr. navicula, dim. of navis ship.] 1. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, a boat or ship.
2. Shaped like a boat; cymbiform; scaphoid.
3. Bot. Resembling a diatom of the genus Navicula.

na·vic'u·lar (nȧ·vĭk'ū·lĕr), na·vic'u·la're (-lā'rē), n. Anat. A bone having a fancied resemblance to a boat, as the lateral bone on the radial side of the proximal row of the carpus. See CARPUS a.

na·vic'u·loid (nȧ·vĭk'ū·loid), adj. Naviform.

na'vi·form (nā'vĭ-fôrm), adj. [L. navis ship + -form.] Bot. Boatshaped; navicular.

nav'i·ga·ble (năv'ĭ-gȧ-b'l), adj. [F. or L.; F. navigable, fr. L. navigabilis. See NAVIGATE.] 1. Capable of being navigated; deep enough and wide enough to afford passage to vessels; as, a navigable river. In the United States, for the purpose of defining the rights of ownership, some States have adopted the common-law test of flow of the tide, others that of actual navigability. For determining the right of the public to the use of a body of water as a public highway, however, the test in the United States is as to whether the water is navigable in fact or not. Technically, at the common law of England only those waters, whether rivers or not, are called navigable that ebb and flow with the tide, the bed of all navigable waters belonging to the crown and the right of traffic, fishing, etc., to the public; but the public have no common-law right to rivers and streams above the ebb and flow. By prescription, or act of Parliament, however, the larger and more important rivers have been opened to public navigation.

Those rivers must be regarded as public navigable rivers in law which are navigable in fact. And they are navigable in fact when they are used, or are susceptible of being used, in their ordinary condition as highways for commerce, over which trade and travel are or may be conducted in the customary modes of trade and travel on water. 10 Wall. 557, 563.

2. Capable of being navigated or steered, as a balloon.
3. Obs. a Capable of being reached by navigable water; as, a navigable town. b Nautical. c Naval.
— nav'i·ga·bil'i·ty (năv'ĭ-gȧ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n. — nav'i·ga·ble·ness, n. — nav'i·ga·bly, adv.

nav'i·gant (năv'ĭ-gȧnt), adj. [L. navigans, pres. part.] Navigating; voyaging. Rare.

nav'i·gant, n. [F.] Navigator. Obs.

nav'i·gate (năv'ĭ-gāt), v.; NAV'I·GAT'ED (-gāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), NAV'I·GAT'ING (-gāt'ĭng). [L. navigatus, past part. of navigare, v. t. & i, fr. navis ship + agere to move, direct. See NAVE of a church; AGENT.] Intransitive: 1. To journey by water; to go in a vessel; to sail or manage a vessel; to use the waters as a highway for commerce or communication; ply.

The Phoenicians navigated to the extremities of the Western Ocean. Arbuthnot.

2. Hence, to direct one's course through any medium; to steer; esp., to operate an airplane or airship.
—, Transitive: 1. To pass over in vessels; to sail over or on; as, to navigate the Atlantic; — said also of vessels; by extension, to direct one's course through (any medium).
2. To steer, direct, or manage in sailing; to conduct (a vessel) upon the water by the art or skill of seamen; hence, to operate, steer, control the course of (an airplane or airship.)

nav'i·gat'ing of'fi·cer (-gāt'ĭng). A navigator of a vessel, an airship, or the like.

nav'i·ga'tion (-gā'shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. navigation, fr. L. navigatio.] 1. Act or practice of navigating.
2. a The science or art of conducting ships or other vessels on the water from one place to another, including, more especially, the method of determining a ship's position, course, distance passed over, etc., on the surface of the globe, by the principles of geometry and astronomy, including also reference to landmarks and aids to navigation. b The management of sails, rudder, etc.; the mechanics of traveling by water; seamanship.
3. Science or art of conducting airplanes, etc., from place to place, esp. through the use of calculations as to position and direction, etc.
4. Hence: a Science or art of, or skill in, handling aircraft. b Now Rare. A voyage by water. c Ships in general; shipping; also, Obs., maritime commerce. Shak. d Obs. A navigable passage. e Obs. exc. Dial. An artificial waterway or inland channel or canal.

navigation act or law. An act regulating navigation or shipping; specif. [caps.]: Eng. Hist. Any of a series of acts of Parliament, beginning with 1645, having for their objects the protection of the shipping of Great Britain and her colonies. They and other navigation laws were finally repealed in 1849.

nav'i·ga'tion·al (năv'ĭ-gā'shŭn-ăl; -'l), adj. Of, pertaining to, or used in, navigation.

nav'i·ga'tor (năv'ĭ-gā'tĕr), n. [L. Cf. NAVVY.] 1. One who navigates or sails; esp., one who directs the course of a ship, or one skillful in the art of navigation; specif., on war vessels, an officer who is, while holding the position, particularly charged with the navigation of the ship; also, a book which teaches the art of navigation, as, Bowditch's Navigator. In the United States navy the navigator is usually the officer third or fourth in command.
2. One who handles the controls of, or directs the operations of, an aircraft.
3. A laborer engaged in digging, etc., on a canal, or navigation (see NAVIGATION, 4 e), or, later, in any similar earthwork; — now generally abbreviated to navvy. Eng.

na·vig'er·ous (nȧ·vĭj'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. naviger, fr. navis ship + gerere to bear.] Capable of floating vessels.

na'vi·pen'du·lum (nā'vĭ·pĕn'jū·lŭm), n. [L. navis ship + pendulum.] Naval Arch. A pendular device to reproduce the effect of waves on a ship and used esp. with a view to reduce rolling in designing battleships. — na'vi·pen'du·lar (-lĕr), adj.

na'vite (nā'vīt), n. [From L. Nava Nahe River, Germany.] Petrog. A coarse-grained olivine-basalt with phenocrysts of altered olivine and a little augite and basic plagioclase in a holocrystalline groundmass of labradorite and augite.

nav'vy (năv'ĭ), n.; pl. NAVVIES (-ĭz). [Abbr. fr. navigator.] 1. An unskilled, or common, laborer, esp. one engaged on excavating or construction work; a navigator (see NAVIGATOR, 3). Eng.
2. A machine for excavating earth; a steam shovel.
3. Mining. A barer. Eng.

nav'vy, v. i. To work as a navvy. — v. t. To excavate. Both Chiefly Eng.

na'vy (nā'vĭ), n.; pl. NAVIES (-vĭz). [ME. navie, fr. OF. navie ship, fleet, fr. (assumed) VL. navia, fr. L. navis ship. See NAVE of a church.] 1. A fleet of ships; an assemblage of vessels, or so many as sail in company. Archaic. "The navy also of Hiram, that brought gold from Ophir." 1 Kings x. 11.
2. The war vessels belonging to a nation, considered collectively; as, the navy of Italy; also, rarely, the merchant vessels of a nation collectively. Until about the middle of the 19th century the principal classes of war vessels were ships of the line, frigates, and gun vessels. To these correspond the modern battleships, cruisers, and gunboats. The torpedo craft are a new development. Modern navies include three broad classes: combatant vessels for service with the fleet; combatant vessels for special service; and auxiliary vessels. a Combatant vessels for service with the fleet are: (1) Battleships: Heavy armor on sides, turrets, conning tower, and uptakes, lighter armor on protective decks; heavy guns in turrets, lighter guns in broadsides, antiaircraft guns; moderate speed; displacement between 22,000 and 34,000 tons. (2) Battle cruisers: Like battleships except moderate armor and high speed. (3) Armored cruiser: See CRUISER, 2 b. (4) Cruisers and light cruisers: Little or no armor, some protection being obtained by using heavy hull plating; guns from 5-inch to 8-inch caliber, 8-inch and sometimes 6-inch being mounted in enclosed mounts, antiaircraft guns; high speed; displacement from 3,750 to 10,000 tons. (5) Aircraft carriers: Flush flying decks permitting planes to land and take off; high speed; antiaircraft guns, and sometimes guns up to 8-inch caliber; displacement from 13,000 to 33,900 tons. (6) Destroyers: No armor; torpedoes launched from above-water tubes; guns up to 5-inch caliber; high speed; displacement 600 to 1,700 tons. (7) Fleet submarines: Torpedoes; 5½-6" guns; high surface speed, good submerged speed; good seagoing qualities; displacement from 1,500 to 2,500 tons. b Combatant vessels for special service include: (1) Cruisers (2d line): utilized for protection of national interests, etc. (formerly called protected and unprotected cruisers — see CRUISER, 2 b). (2) Gunboats: No armor; light guns; light draft; moderate speed; good fuel capacity. (3) River gunboats: Specially constructed for duty such as up the Yangtse River in China. (4) Submarines (1st line): 3-inch to 4-inch guns; torpedoes; moderate speed on surface, good speed submerged; displacement from 800 to 950 tons. c Auxiliary vessels include: (1) Tankers. (2) Repair ships. (3) Hospital ships. (4) Destroyer and submarine tenders. (5) Mine sweepers. (6) Tugs.
3. [usually cap.] The naval establishment of a nation, including yards, shops, stations, men, ships, offices and officers, etc.; the complete organization for naval warfare.
4. Obs. a Shipping. b A ship. c Lordship of the sea.
5. a The color navy blue. b The color Oxford blue. c The color marine blue.
6. A kind of chewing tobacco.

navy agent. a In Great Britain, an attorney who acts for naval officers in financial matters connected with the service, such as distribution of prize money. b Formerly, in the United States Navy, a disbursing officer.

navy bean. A white-seeded variety of the common kidney bean, grown esp. for its nutritious seeds.

navy bill. a A bill drawn on or by the British Admiralty for naval purposes. b Now Rare. A bill drawn by a paymaster of a United States war vessel abroad.

navy blue. a A color, reddish-blue in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. It is of lower brilliance than indigo. Called also navy. b Marine blue. c By extension, any color of low or very low brilliance, of a hue varying from reddish-blue to greenish-blue, and of low or medium saturation. Called also navy. Cf. COLOR. — na'vy-blue', adj.

navy board. A government board having control of the navy; specif. [caps.], the British Admiralty.

Navy Cross. See MEDAL, Plate.

Navy Department. See DEPARTMENT, 4.

navy green. The color light chrome green. See CHROME GREEN, 5.

navy league. An association of citizens for promoting the interests of the navy. — navy leaguer.

Navy List. a An official list of the officers of the British Navy, issued quarterly. b A list of the officers of the United States Navy on active duty, issued bimonthly.

navy plug. Strong, dark-colored plug tobacco.

Navy Register. An official list of the officers and ships of the United States Navy, issued annually.

navy yard. A shore station for the navy, with appliances for building, repairing, and equipping war vessels.

na·wab' (nȧ·wŏb'), n. [Hind. nawāb. See NABOB.] India.
1. A deputy ruler or viceroy under the Mogul government; also [cap.], the title of a Moslem prince, inferior only to Nizam.
2. [cap.] A courtesy title (sometimes bestowed by the government without office). India.
3. A rich, retired Anglo-Indian; a nabob.

nay (nā), adv. [ME. nay, nei, fr. ON. nei, fr. ne not + ei ever. See NO, adv.; AYE ever.] 1. No; — a negative answer to a question asked or a request made, now superseded by no. See YES.

And eke when I say "ye," ne say not "nay." Chaucer.

☞ Before the time of Henry VIII nay was used to answer simple questions, and no was used when the form of the question involved a negative expression; nay was the simple form, no the emphatic. Skeat.
2. Not this merely, but also; not only so, but; — used to mark addition or substitution of a more explicit or emphatic phrase, and thus may be interchanged with yea. "Were he my brother, nay, my kingdom's heir." Shak.
— to say nay. a To refuse; also, to forbid. "I'll frown and be perverse and say thee nay." Shak. b Obs. To make denial or express dissent.

nay, n. 1. A denial or refusal; also, a prohibition.
2. A negative reply or vote; hence, one who votes no.
— it, there, etc., is no nay. It cannot be denied. Obs.

nay, adv. [ne not + aye ever.] Never. Obs.

nay, v. t. & i. [OF. neier (F. nier), fr. L. negare; confused with nay no.] To refuse; deny. Obs.

nay, n. [Ar. (fr. Per.) nāy.] Music. A flute, used in Moslem lands, played by blowing across the end.

na·yaur' (nȧ·yôr'), n. [Cf. NAHOOR.] A wild sheep (Ovis ammon hodgsoni) of Tibet.

nay'say' (nā'sā'), n. [nay, adv. + say, n.] A refusal; denial. — v. t. & i. To refuse. — nay'say'er (-sā'ĕr), n.

nay'ward (nā'wĕrd), n. The negative; refusal to agree. Rare.

nay'word' (nā'wûrd'), n. Now Rare. a A watchword; a signal word. b A byword; a proverb of reproach.

Naz'a·rate (năz'ȧ·rāt), n. Nazariteship.

Naz'a·rene' (năz'ȧ·rēn'), adj. [LL. Nazarenus, fr. Gr. Nazarēnos.] 1. Of or pertaining to Nazareth. Rare.
2. Of or pertaining to the Nazarenes.

Naz'a·rene', n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Nazareth; — applied esp. to Jesus Christ.
2. A follower of Jesus of Nazareth; a Christian.
3. Eccl. One of a sect of trinitarian Christians in Hungary.
4. Painting. Usually in pl. (G. Nazarener). One of a group of German painters, who, after their expulsion from the Vienna Academy in 1810, established themselves at Rome, and aimed at restoring Christian art to its medieval purity. The leader was Overbeck. Their works exhibit a certain naïveté, but a very primitive technique.

Naz'a·rite (năz'ȧ·rīt), n. Also Naz'i·rite (năz'ĭ-). [LL. Nazaraeus, fr. Gr. Nazēraios, fr. Heb. nāzar to dedicate, consecrate; cf. Heb. nāzīr one consecrated.] 1. Among the ancient Hebrews, a consecrated person, prohibited from using wine, from cutting the hair, and from touching a corpse. Similar customs exist among the Arabs.
2. a = NAZARENE, n., 1, 3, 4. b Rare. = NAZARENE, n., 2.
— Naz'a·rit'ic (năz'ȧ·rĭt'ĭk), Naz'a·rit'ish (năz'ȧ·rĭt'-ĭsh), adj.

naze (nāz), n. [See NESS.] A promontory or headland.

Na'zi (nä'tsē; năt'sē), n.; pl. NAZIS (-tsēz; -sēz). [G., abbr. representing pron. of first two syllables of Nationalsozialistische (Partei).] 1. A member of the former National Socialist German Workers' party, founded on fascist principles in 1919, headed by Hitler from 1921.
2. [also not cap.] An adherent of Nazism elsewhere.
— Na'zi, na'zi, adj. — Na'zi-fy, na'zi-fy (nä'tsē-fī; năt'sē-), v. t.

na'zim (nä'zĭm), n. [Ar. nāẓim one who puts things in order.] A military viceroy or governor. India.

na'zir (nä'zĭr), n. [Ar. nāẓir overseer.] a In India, a native court official who serves processes, acts as treasurer, etc. b In Mohammedan countries, any of various officials.

Na'zism (nä'tsĭz'm; năt'sĭz'm), Na'zi·ism (nä'tsē-ĭz'm; năt'sē-), n. The body of political and economic doctrines held and put into effect by the National Socialist German Workers' party in the Third German Reich, including the totalitarian principle of government, state control of all industry, predominance of groups assumed to be racially superior, and supremacy of the Führer; German fascism.

-nd. An ending used with the figure 2; as, 2nd. Cf. -D.

n'-di·men'sion·al, adj. Math. Consisting of elements each of which is fixed and distinguished from all others by n determinations or co-ordinates and by no less.

ne (nē; nĕ), adv. [AS. ne. See NO.] Not. Archaic.
☞ Ne was formerly the universal adverb of negation. In the form n it was often prefixed to words as in nacheveth for "ne achieveth."

ne, conj. [See NE, adv.] Nor; also, or. Archaic. — ne . . . ne. Neither . . . nor. Archaic.

ne-. = NEO-.

Ne·ae'ra (nē·ē'rȧ), n. [L.] A name for a mistress in the poetry of Horace, Vergil, and Tibullus; — sometimes also in modern pastoral poetry, as in Milton's Lycidas.

neal (nēl), adj. [AS. nēol, neowol, niwol.] Deep. Obs.

neal (nēl), v. i. & i. To anneal; temper. Obs. exc. Dial.

Neal, Neil (nēl), n. [Gael. & Ir. Niall; cf. Gael. niata courageous, Ir. nia champion.] Masc. proper name.

ne·al'lo·type (nē·ăl'ō·tīp), n. [ne- + allotype.] Zool. A type specimen of the opposite sex to the holotype, and collected and described later. Cf. ALLOTYPE.

Ne·an'der·thal' (nē·ăn'dĕr·tăl'), adj. Anthropol. Of, pertaining to, or named from, the Neanderthal, a valley in the Rhine Province, in which were found parts of a skeleton of an early type of man. The skull is characterized by extreme dolichocephaly, flat, retreating forehead, and enormous superciliary ridges. The cranial capacity is estimated at about 1,400 cubic centimeters, approximately the average for modern man. Hence, designating the Neanderthal race, or man, a species known from other remains to have been widespread in paleolithic Europe. See 1st MAN, 17. — Ne·an'der·thal'er (-ĕr), n.

Ne·an'der·thal'oid (-tăl'oid), adj. Like or pertaining to the Neanderthal skull, or the type of man it represents.

ne·an'ic (nē·ăn'ĭk), adj. [Gr. neanikos youthful.] Zool. Youthful; immature; — said of a stage of development between the nepionic and ephebic.

neap (nēp), adj. [AS. nēpflōd neap flood, of uncert. origin; cf. Nor. dial. næpen scarcely, touching.] Designating, or, rarely, pertaining to, certain tides (neap tides), which are the least in the lunar month. See TIDE.

neap, n. A neap tide.

neap, v. i. Of a tide, to tend towards the neap stage.

neap (nēp), n. [Cf. Nor. dial. neip a cleft stick.] The tongue or pole of a vehicle drawn by two animals. U. S.

N

neaped (nēpt), adj. Naut. Left aground on the height of a spring tide; — called also beneaped.

Ne'a·pol'i·tan (nē'ă·pŏl'ĭ·tăn), adj. [L. Neapolitanus, fr. Neapolis Naples, fr. Gr. Neapolis, lit., new town.] Of or pertaining to Naples in Italy. — n. A native or inhabitant of Naples.

Neapolitan fever. See UNDULANT FEVER.

Neapolitan ice cream. A mold of from two to four kinds of ice cream and, often, water ice, arranged in lengthwise layers.

Neapolitan mandolin. See MANDOLIN.

Neapolitan medlar. The azarole; also, its fruit.

Neapolitan ointment. Pharm. Mercurial ointment.

Neapolitan sixth. Music. A chromatic chord on the subdominant of a minor key, formed by its minor third and minor sixth. It is the first inversion of the major triad on the minor second of the scale.

Neapolitan Sixth in the key of C minor.

Neapolitan violet. A variety of the common cultivated violet.

Neapolitan yellow. = NAPLES YELLOW.

near (nēr), adv. [AS. nēar, compar. of nēah nigh (cf. nēarra, adj., nearer). The change to a positive sense was prob. aided by Scand.; cf. ON. nær near, nearer, prop., compar., Dan. nær near, Sw. när. See NIGH.] 1. At, within, or to a little distance; at or to a point of proximity in place or time; hence, in or into intimate relation; as, the enemy approached quite near; shells kept falling nearer to us; the shot that fell nearest us. See LIKE, adv., 1, Note.

2. Within little; almost; nearly; — denoting proximity in degree; as, a dark brown coming near to absolute black; not near so good.

3. Closely; as, do it as near as you can.

An heir, and near allied unto the duke. Shak.

4. Thriftily. "I had lived so near." Defoe.

5 Veter. With legs close to each other.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

near-acquainted	near-fighting	near-smiling
near-adjoining	near-following	near-stored near-bordering	near-growing	near-threatening near-colored	near-guessed	near-touching near-coming	near-related	near-ushering near-dwelling	near-resembling	near-white

— come or go near or nigh. a To approach; to draw near. b To want but little of; to approximate to. "Such a sum would go near to ruin him." Addison.

— near the wind. Naut. Close to the wind; close-hauled; as, no nearer; — a command to the steersman.

near (nēr), adj.; NEAR'ER (-ēr); NEAR'EST. [See NEAR, adv.] 1. Closely akin or related by blood; as, a near relative.

2. Close to one's interests, affection, etc.; touching, or affecting, intimately; as, one's near affairs, friends.

3. Not far distant in time, place, or degree; not remote; adjacent; nigh. "Every country far and near." Shak.

Now I think my time is near. Tennyson.

4. Close; narrow; such as barely avoids, passes, or misses something; as, a near escape.

5. Designating or pertaining to the left side of animals, vehicles, etc.; left; as, the near ox; the near wheel; — from the fact that among English-speaking peoples the driver of yoked cattle commonly walks on the left. See OFF.

6. Direct; short. "The nearest way." Milton.

7. Closefisted; parsimonious; stingy.

8. Close to anything followed or imitated; not free, loose, or rambling; as, a version near to the original; also, approximating the genuine; as, near silk; — sometimes used in combination; as, near-antique, adj.; near-leather, adj.

Syn. — NEAR, CLOSE. CLOSE commonly implies more immediate contact or proximity than NEAR; as, "The red rose cries, 'She is near, she is near'" (Tennyson); "I'd clasp it round so close and tight" (id.). Figuratively, both close and (colloq.) near are used in the sense of stingy, parsimonious; as, "He was close in small matters of money" (Trollope); "His neighbors called him 'near,' which always means that the person in question is a lovable skinflint" (G. Eliot). Cf. ADJACENT, NEAREST, PROXIMITY, NEIGHBORHOOD.

Ant. — Far, remote. See DISTANT.

near (nēr), prep. At or within little distance from; close to or upon. See NEAR, adv., 1.

My wife! my traitress! let her not come near me. Milton.

near (nēr), v. t. & i.; NEARED (nērd); NEAR'ING. [See NEAR, adv.] To draw near (to); approach.

near, adv. & prep. [AS. nēar.] Nearer. Obs. exc. Dial.

near (nēr). Var. of NEER, a kidney. Dial.

near'a·bout' (nēr'ă·bout'), adv. Also -a·bouts' (-bouts'). Nearby. Now Dial.

near'-at-hand', adj. Nearby; intimate.

near'a·way' (nēr'ă·wā'), near'a·ways' (-wāz'), adv. Nearly. Rare.

near'by', near by, near'-by' (nēr'bī'), adv. 1. Near at hand; close by; as, nearby flows a river; a plane lands nearby.

2. Nearly; thereabouts; as, sixty miles, or nearby. Scot.

near'by', near'-by' (66), prep. Near; close to; hard by; as, he lives nearby the river.

near'by', near'-by', adj. Being or set close at hand; adjacent; neighboring; as, a nearby river or hospital.

Ne·arc'tic (nē·ärk'tĭk), adj. [ne- + arctic.] Biogeog. Of, pertaining to, or designating, a terrestrial division including Greenland, Arctic America, and the northern and mountainous parts of North America. It is now generally regarded as a subdivision of the Holarctic region.

Ne·arc'ti·ca (-tĭ·kă), n. [NL.] The Nearctic region.

Near East. a Formerly, the Balkan States. b The southwestern part of Asia with Egypt; — a term indefinite in its application, often restricted to those countries at or near the east end of the Mediterranean Sea but sometimes equivalent to Middle East (which see). See FAR EAST. — Near Eastern, adj.

Near Eastern Question. The Eastern Question.

near'est (nēr'ĕst; -ĭst; 119), adj., superl. of NEAR.

Syn. — Closest, proximate. — NEAREST, NEXT. NEAREST expresses simple proximity; NEXT, in earlier usage identical with nearest in sense, now implies immediate succession or precedence in an order or series; as, the nearest house (without respect to order or arrangement); the next house (in a given street or row); one's nearest friend, the next of kin; the next day previous. Cf. NEAR.

near'-hand', adv. Also near hand. a Near at hand; adjacent. b Almost; nearly. — adj Near; adjacent. — prep. Also near hand. Close to; near. All Chiefly Scot. & Dial. Eng.

near'ish (nēr'ĭsh), adj. Rather near.

near'-leg'ged (nēr'lĕg'ĕd; -ĭd; -lĕgd'; 66), adj. Having the legs near; esp., having the legs so near that the feet interfere when traveling; — of horses. Shak.

near'ly (nēr'lĭ), adv.; MORE NEARLY; MOST NEARLY; also, Rare, NEAR'LI·ER (nēr'lĭ·ēr); NEAR'LI·EST (nēr'lĭ·ĕst; -ĭst; 119). In a near manner or degree; specif.: a Closely; with careful scrutiny. b Closely as to relationship, similarity, personal connection or interest, or intimacy; as, nearly related; the accusation touched his honor nearly. c Closely as to location. "I doubt some danger does approach you nearly." Shak. d Approximately; with an approach to completeness or exactness. "To live more nearly as we pray." Keble. e Within a little; almost; all but; as, nearly a year. f With niggardliness; parsimoniously.

near'most (nēr'mōst; -mŭst), adj. Nearest. Chiefly Dial.

near'ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. State or quality of being near, as in ties of blood, resemblance, parsimony, etc.

near point. Physiol. The nearest point at which objects are seen distinctly, when the maximum power of accommodation of the eye is employed.

near seal. Furriery. Any of several furs prepared to imitate the true seal. French dyed rabbit is sometimes called French seal.

near'sight'ed (nēr'sīt'ĕd; -ĭd; 66; 119), adj. Seeing distinctly at short distances only; shortsighted. — near'-sight', n. — near'sight'ed·ly, adv. — near'sight'ed·ness, n.

ne'ar·thro'sis (nē'är·thrō'sĭs), n. [NL. See NEO-; ARTHROSIS.] Med. The formation of a new joint, as the result of fracture, disease, or operation; a false joint.

neat (nēt), n. sing. & pl. [AS. nēat; akin to OHG. nōz, ON. naut, Sw. nöt, Dan. nöd, and to AS. nēotan to make use of, enjoy, G. genießen, Goth. niutan to attain, obtain, Lith. nauda use, profit. Cf. HUGUENOT.] Cattle of the ox kind, as distinguished from horses, sheep, and goats; an animal of the genus Bos; as, a neat's tongue or foot. — adj. Of or pertaining to the genus Bos, or cattle of that genus; as, neat cattle.

neat, adj.; NEAT'ER (-ēr); NEAT'EST. [F. net, fr. L. nitidus brilliant, sleek, elegant, LL., clean, pure, fr. nītere to shine; akin to MIr. niam brightness. Cf. NET, adj., NITID.] 1. Obs. a Clean; pure. b Fastidiously trim.

2. Free from admixture or adulteration; as, neat silk; of liquors, etc., undiluted. "Our old wine neat." Chapman.

3. Free from what is unbecoming, inappropriate, or tawdry; of simple elegance; tasteful; refined; as, a neat style.

4. Free from awkwardness in execution; adroit; as, a neat cake; a neat thief; a neat retort.

5. Orderly and cleanly; tidy; as, a neat housewife; the neat habits of the cat; clothes kept neat as a pin.

6. With all deductions or allowances made; clear; net. [In this sense usually written net. See 4th NET, 3.]

7. Civ.Engin. Without sand; as neat cement; neat plaster, etc.

Syn. — NEAT, TIDY, TRIM, PRIM. NEAT suggests cleanliness, simplicity, and a certain orderliness, deftness, or precision, which sometimes becomes the chief implication of the word; TIDY often implies habitual neatness; as, "He was remarkably neat in his dress" (Johnson); neat workmanship; to keep a room tidy. TRIM adds the implication of spruceness or smartness, often of snugness or compactness; PRIM suggests formality, or (often) affected nicety or precision; as "The sward was trim as any garden lawn" (Tennyson); "Prim little scholars are the flowers in her garden, trained to stand in rows and asking if they please" (G. Meredith). Cf. FINICAL, NICE, CORRECT, PRECISION.

Ant. — Disorderly, confused, messy, slovenly, slipshod.

— as neat as wax. See under WAX, n.

neat, adv. Neatly.

neat, v. t. To make neat; also, to net (a profit).

neat-. Combining form for NEAT, adj. & adv., as in:

neat-dressed	neat-folded	neat-handedness
neat-faced	neat-footed	neat-limbed neat-fingered	neat-handed	neat-looking, adj.

neat'en (nēt'ĕn), v. t. & i. a To make neat. b Sewing. To finish carefully.

'neath (nēth; nēth), prep. Aphetic form of ANEATH; also, contr. of BENEATH; — often written neath. Poetic & Dial.

neat'-hand'ed (66), adj. Neat and deft in handling things; dexterous. — -hand'ed·ly, adv. — -hand'ed·ness, n.

neat'herd' (nēt'hûrd'), n. A herdsman; a cowherd.

neat'herd'ess (-hûr'dĕs; -dĭs; 119), n. A female neatherd.

neath'most (nēth'mōst; -mŭst), adj. Lowest. Scot.

neat house. 1. A shelter for cattle.

2. [cap.] Also pl. A locality near Chelsea Bridge, London, where there was a celebrated market garden. Oxf. E. D.

neat'i·fy (nēt'ĭ·fī), v. t. [neat + -fy.] To make neat. R.

neat'ly (nēt'lĭ), adv. In a neat manner; tidily; tastefully; cleverly; as, it was neatly done, expressed.

neat'ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Quality or state of being neat.

neat's foot (nēts). The foot of an ox.

neat's'-foot' oil (nēts'fŏŏt'). A pale-yellow fixed oil made by boiling the feet and shin bones of neat cattle, used chiefly as a leather dressing and fine lubricant.

neat soap. See SOAP, n., 1.

neat's tongue. Ox tongue.

neb (nĕb), n. [AS. nebb beak, nose, face; akin to D. neb, MLG. nebbe, nibbe, beak, ON. nef beak, nose, and to D. sneb, snavel, bill, beak, G. schnabel, OHG. snabul, Lith. snapas. Cf. NIB, NIPPLE, SNAFFLE, SNAP.] 1. The beak of a bird or tortoise; bill. Hence: a The face. b The nose; a snout. c A person's mouth.

2. The pointed or narrowed end of a thing; the tip. Specif., the nib, or point, of a pen or pencil.

neb, v. t. & i. To kiss. Dial.

Ne·ba'ioth (nē·bā'yŏth; -bī'ŏth), n. Bib. 1. Son of Ishmael.

2. An Arabian tribe. Is. lx. 7.

Ne·ba'li·a (nē·bā'lĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., of uncert. origin.] Zool. A genus of small marine crustaceans of the division Phyllocarida, having the body enclosed in a bivalved carapace, the thoracic feet leaflike, the abdominal feet biramous, and the abdomen composed of eight segments. With one related genus it constitutes the family Neb'a·li'i·dae (nĕb'ȧ·lĭ'ĭ·dē) and the order Ne·ba'li·a'ce·a (nē·bā'lĭ·ā'shē·ȧ). — ne·ba'li·an (nē·bā'lĭ·ăn), ne·ba'li·oid (-oid), adj. & n.

Nebalia (N. geoffroyi), male. a, a' First and Second Antennae: m Mouth Organs: b, s Thoracic and Abdominal Appendages; e Eye; i Stomach; i Intestine; c Carapace.

nebbed (nĕbd), adj. Having a neb.

neb'by (nĕb'ĭ), adj. [From NEB, n.] Given to impertinent interference; also, Scot., N. of Eng., & Ir., spiteful; sharp.

ne'ben·kern' (nā'bĕn·kĕrn'), n. [G.] Biol. A staining body associated with the nucleus in the animal spermatid.

Ne'bi·im' (nĕb'ē·ēm'; Heb. nĕ·vē'ēm'), n. pl. [Heb. nĕbī·'īm, pl. of nābī prophet.] The books of the Hebrew Bible placed between the Torah and the Hagiographa, and generally called the Prophets.

Ne'bo (nā'bō), Na'bu (nä'bōō), n. [Assyr.-Bab. Nabū, lit., the announcer.] Babylon. Reliq. God of wisdom and agriculture, and patron of scribes and protector of schools.

Ne'bo (nē'bō), n. Bib. The mountain in Moab from which Moses saw the land of Canaan.

Ne·bras'kan (nē·brăs'kăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Nebraska. — n. a A native or inhabitant of Nebraska. b Geol. See GLACIAL EPOCH.

neb'ris (nĕb'rĭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. nebris, fr. nebros fawn.] A fawnskin, worn in classic art by Dionysus, Silenus, satyrs, etc.

Neb'u·chad·nez'zar (nĕb'ū·kăd·nĕz'ẽr), or, more properly, Neb'u·chad·rez'zar (-rĕz'ẽr), n. Bib. King of Babylon from 605 to 562 B.C., who captured Jerusalem, invaded Egypt, and rebuilt Babylon.

neb'u·la (nĕb'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē), -LAS (-lȧz). [L., mist, vapor, cloud; akin to Gr. nephelē, nephos, cloud, mist, G. nebel mist, OHG. nebul, D. nevel, OSlav. nebo sky, Skr. nabhas mist, cloud, atmosphere, sky; cf. Hittite nebis sky. Cf. IMBRICATE, NIMBUS.] 1. Astron. One of a large class of celestial structures, of great extension and extreme tenuity, composed of matter in a gaseous or finely divided state. Nebulae are sometimes classified as galactic and anagalactic, according as they are situated within our Galaxy or outside it. The usual classification is into planetary nebulae, diffuse nebulae, and spiral nebulae, with the so-called dark nebulae as a possible fourth class. All but the third class are galactic. Planetary nebulae are relatively small gaseous nebulae, frequently annular, or ring-shaped, and containing a central star. They are quite rare, about 150 being known. The Nebula of Lyra is the type object of the class. Diffuse nebulae (sometimes called diffused nebulosities) are enormous structures of extreme tenuity, usually gaseous. Several thousands of them are known, the Nebula of Orion being the type object of the class. Spiral nebulae show usually a structure of spiral arms and whorls. Formerly thought to be of nebulous constitution, they are now regarded as other milky ways comparable with our Galaxy in dimensions and structure, and are termed spirals. See ISLAND UNIVERSE. They are far outside our galaxy. The Nebula of Andromeda is the type object of this class. Dark nebulae are great extensions of presumably nebulous matter, either nonluminous or very faintly luminous, seen against the luminous background of stars or other nebulae, as the Coalsack, near the Southern Cross.

2. Med. a A white spot or a slight cloudlike opacity of the cornea. b A cloudy appearance in the urine.

3. Pharm. A liquid preparation intended for spraying.

Nebula of Andromeda. Astron. The type object of the spiral nebulae, located in the girdle of Andromeda and visible to the naked eye. Cf. ISLAND UNIVERSE.

Nebula of Lyra. An annular nebula, known as the Ring Nebula, in the constellation Lyra, not visible without a telescope. It is the type object of the planetary nebulae.

Nebula of Orion. Astron. One of the largest of the nebulae and type object of the diffuse nebulae, located in the sword hilt of Orion.

neb'u·lar (nĕb'ū·lẽr), adj. Of or pertaining to nebulae; of the nature of, or resembling, a nebula.

nebular hypothesis. Cosmog. A hypothesis to explain the process of formation of the stars and planets. As framed by Laplace, it supposed the matter of the solar system to have existed originally in the form of a vast, diffused, rotating nebula, which, gradually cooling and contracting, threw off, in obedience to physical laws, successive rings of matter, from which, by the same laws, were produced the several planets, satellites, and other bodies of the system. See PLANETESIMAL HYPOTHESIS.

neb'u·lar·ize (nĕb'ū·lẽr·īz), v. t. & i. To become, or to cause to become, a nebula, or like a nebula. — neb'u·lar·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.

neb'u·lat'ed (nĕb'ū·lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Clouded; indistinctly marked. — neb'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n.

neb'u·lé (nĕb'ū·lā), adj. [F. nébulé.] 1. Her. Composed of successive short curves made to resemble a cloud; — said of a heraldic line by which an ordinary or subordinary may be bounded, or of the ordinary or subordinary.

2. Arch. Designating a molding consisting of an overhanging band the lower projecting edge of which conforms in shape to a continuous undulating curve.

neb'ule (nĕb'ūl), n. [Cf. F. nébule. See NEBULA.] a Rare. A cloud; a mist. b A nebula.

neb'u·les'cent (nĕb'ū·lĕs'ĕnt; -'nt), adj. Becoming a nebula or like a nebula.

neb'u·lif'er·ous (-lĭf'ẽr·ŭs), adj. [nebula + -ferous.] Having nebulous spots. Rare.

neb'u·lite (nĕb'ū·līt), n. [See NEBULA.] Petrog. A metamorphic rock of a nebulous appearance forming the boundary between an intrusive and the country rock.

ne·bu'li·um (nē·bū'lĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. nebula.] Astrophysics. A hypothetical chemical element whose existence in nebulae is inferred from two characteristic green lines in their spectra. Its terrestrial identification is not definitely established.

neb'u·lize (nĕb'ū·līz), v. t.; -LIZED (-līzd); -LIZ'ING (-līz'ĭng). [See NEBULA.] To reduce to a fine spray or vapor; to atomize. — v. i. To become nebulous. — neb'u·li·za'tion (-lĭ·zā'shŭn; -lĭ·zā'-), n. — neb'u·liz'er (nĕb'ū·līz'ẽr), n.

neb'u·lon (-lŏn), n. [L. nebulo.] A paltry rascal. Obs.

neb'u·lose (nĕb'ū·lōs), adj. Nebulous.

neb'u·los'i·ty (-lŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [LL. nebulositas.] 1. State or quality of being nebulous; cloudiness.

The nebulosity . . . of the mother idiom. I. Disraeli.

2. Nebulous matter; a nebula.

neb'u·lous (nĕb'ū·lŭs), adj. [L. nebulosus. See NEBULA.] 1. Cloudy; hazy; misty; — often figuratively.

That nebulous quality known as charm. Edna Ferber.

2. Resembling clouds.

3. Clouded; not transparent.

4. Astron. Of, pertaining to, or like, a nebula; nebular. — neb'u·lous·ly, adv. — neb'u·lous·ness, n.

nebulous cluster. Astron. A cluster of stars so remote, and of so many stars, that it presents a hazy appearance.

nebulous star. Astron. One of a small class of stars known, from spectroscopic or photographic evidence, to possess large gaseous atmospheres.

Ne·ap'o·lis (nē·ăp'ŏ·lĭs). Bib.

neap tide. See 1st NEAP.

near'a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.

Ne'a·ri'ah (nē'ȧ·rī'ȧ). Bib.

near'-an'kled (66), adj. See -ANKLED.

near'ness (nēr'ĕs; 119), n. [From NEAT cattle.] A neatherdess. Obs.

neave. Var. of NIEVE. [v. t.] neav'il (nĕv'ĭl). Var. of NEVEL, Bib. [Bib.] neb'ack (nĕb'ăk). Var. of NABK.

Neb'a·has (nĕb'ȧ·hăz). D. Bib.

Ne'bai (nē'bī; nē·bā'ī; nĕb'ā·ī). Bib.

Ne·ba'joth (nē·bā'jŏth; -jŏth).

Ne·bal'lat (nē·băl'ăt). Bib.

Ne'bat (nē'băt). Bib. [NABK.]

neb'buck, neb'buk. Var. of NABK.

nebd. Nebbed. Ref. Sp.

ne'bel (nē'bĕl), n. [Heb. nēbel.

Cf. NABALUS.] Music. = NABLA — ne'bel·ist (-ĭst), n.

neb'-neb', n. See BABUL, 2 a.

neb'uk. Var. of NABK.

Ne·ca'tor (nē-kā'tĕr), n. [LL., slayer.] Zool. A genus of strongyloid nematodes of which the American hookworm (N. americanus) is the type. Syn. Uncinaria.

nec'es·sar (nĕs'ĕ-sĕr), adj. & n. Necessary. Scot.

nec'es·sar'i·ly (nĕs'ĕ-sĕr'ĭ-lĭ; emphatic also nĕs'ĕ-sâr'ĭ-lĭ), adv. 1. Obs. a Unavoidably. b Indispensably. c By or in accord with a necessary principle.

2. a Of necessity. b As a necessary consequence.

nec'es·sar'y (-sĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -sĕr-ĭ; 68; 277), adj. [L. necessarius, fr. necesse unavoidable, necessary, fr. ne- not + cedere to go away. See CEDE.] 1. Essential to a desirable or projected end or condition; not to be dispensed with without loss, damage, inefficiency, or the like; as, a necessary tool, evil; a most necessary law, help.

A certain kind of temper is necessary to the pleasure and quiet of our minds. Tillotson.

2. Resulting from or happening in accordance with necessity; determined by the nature of things; predestined or obedient to natural law; as, necessary death; a necessary climax.

3. Having the character of being compelled or resulting from compulsion; not voluntary; as, a necessary penance; having the character of acting under compulsion; as, a necessary rather than a free agent.

4. Rendering service esp. of an essential and intimate kind; — now only in phrase necessary woman.

5. Providing for comfort and personal convenience; specif., Now Dial., used as a toilet; as, a necessary house.

6. Near of kin or closely connected. Obs.

7. Logic. a Logically required or unavoidable; as, a necessary consequence. b Impossible of denial without contradiction; a priori; as, a necessary truth. c Involving, stating, or having to do with what is necessary in the sense of a or b; as, a necessary relation; a necessary judgment; — opposed to contingent.

8. Philos. Having the character of necessity.

Syn. and Ant. — See NEEDFUL.

nec'es·sar'y, n.; pl. -IES (-ĭz). 1. A thing that is necessary or indispensable to some purpose; something that one cannot do without; a requisite; an essential.

2. A privy; a water closet. Now Dial.

3. A near kinsman or friend. Obs.

4. pl. Law. Such things, in respect to infants, lunatics, married women, and other similarly incompetent or dependent, as are requisite for support suitable to station.

necessary condition. a Logic. See CONDITION, n., 10. b Math. See CONDITION, n., 11.

necessary hypothecation. Rom. Dutch Law. A hypothecation arising by operation of law.

necessary improvement. See IMPROVEMENT, 4.

nec'es·sism (nĕs'ĕ-sĭz'm), n. [From L. necesse. See NECESSARY, adj.] Necessitarianism. — nec'es·sist (-sĭst), n.

ne·ces'si·tar'i·an (nĕ-sĕs'ĭ-târ'ĭ-ăn; 79), adj. Of or pert. to necessitarianism. — n. An adherent of necessitarianism.

ne·ces'si·tar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n. The doctrine of philosophical necessity; the doctrine that results follow by invariable sequence from causes, and esp. that the will is not free; determinism.

ne·ces'si·tate (nĕ-sĕs'ĭ-tāt), v. t.; -TAT'ED (-tāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -TAT'ING (-tāt'ĭng). [ML. necessitatus, past part. of necessitare, fr. necessitas. See NECESSITY.] 1. To make necessary, or indispensable; to render unavoidable; to demand as a condition or involve as a consequence.

Sickness [might] necessitate his removal from the court. South.

2. To reduce to the necessity of; to force; to compel.

The Marquis of Newcastle, being pressed on both sides, was necessitated to draw all his army into York. Clarendon.

3. To reduce to want or privation. Obs.

Syn. — Constrain, impel, oblige.

— ne·ces'si·ta'tion (-tā'shŭn), n.

ne·ces'si·tate (-tāt), adj. Forced by necessity; necessitated. Archaic.

ne·ces'si·ta'tive (nĕ-sĕs'ĭ-tā'tĭv), adj. Making, or tending to make, necessary.

ne·ces'si·tous (-tŭs), adj. [Cf. F. nécessiteux.] 1. Living in, or characterized by, poverty; needy.

Necessitous heirs and penurious parents. Arbuthnot.

2. Narrow; destitute; pinching; pinched; as, necessitous circumstances.

3. Necessary; forced by necessity; as, necessitous selling drove prices down.

— ne·ces'si·tous·ly, adv. — ne·ces'si·tous·ness, n.

ne·ces'si·tude (nĕ-sĕs'ĭ-tūd), n. [L. necessitudo, fr. necesse. See NECESSARY.] 1. Connection or relation. Obs.

2. Need; necessity.

ne·ces'si·ty (-ĭ-tĭ), n. [ME. necessite, fr. OF. necessité, fr. L. necessitas, fr. necesse. See NECESSARY.] 1. Certain and unavoidable character or quality; inevitableness; as, the necessity of death; an act of necessity.

2. That which is necessary. Specif.: a That which is unavoidable because compelled, predetermined, inevitable, obligatory, or the like; hence, constraint; compulsion; as, to submit to necessity; to happen without necessity. b Something indispensable; a necessary; a requisite; as, sufficient for the necessities of life.

3. A state or condition imperatively demanding relief or assistance; urgent need; as, telephone in case of necessity; the army's necessity is the enemy's opportunity; want; poverty.

Necessity makes an honest man a knave. Defoe.

4. A compelling force or principle, esp. one conceived of as inherent in nature or in the constitution of things; specif., a power that determines human action; fate; as, a world governed by necessity; the doctrine of necessity versus the doctrine of free will.

5. Obs. a That which is needed; also, lack; need. b Business; a necessary pursuit, task, or duty. c Anything unavoidable.

6. Philos. a The relation of that which must be to the grounds of its being; inevitable connection. Necessity has been distinguished as: logical, or metaphysical, the necessity of the forms or laws of thought and of thinking according to these; hypothetical, the inevitableness of a consequent when the ground is given; mathematical, logical necessity applied to mathematical reasonings or the necessity of axioms; physical, or natural, the necessity of the causal relation; moral, the compulsion of a moral being to choose the good. Internal and external necessity are contrasted: Internal necessity may be absolute, the necessity that a thing must be what it is if otherwise it would be contradictory, or secundum quid, the necessity of a matter of fact in its own uninterfered-with happening. External necessity is always ex hypothesi, due to some condition or ground. Leibnitz reduced all types of necessity to three: absolute, the rational necessity that the self-contradictory cannot be conceived to exist; physical, that which could be conceived otherwise, but follows from the nature of things as they are; and moral (see above). If moral necessity be conceived also as teleological, or including the necessity of that which follows from purpose, this division appears adequate. Hegel made all necessity relative; hence, subordinate to some self-determination which included the related elements. On this ground is based his paradox that "freedom is the truth of necessity." b The character of that whose contradictory is inconceivable; the a priori; that which is logically unavoidable, whether absolutely, or in certain conditions when those conditions are satisfied. c The principle of inevitable connection as a characteristic of nature; the principle of universal and uniform causation; — contrasted with chance.

For that philosophy, matter and energy are indestructible and ingenerable, and the laws of their working rigorous, exact, and unalterable. And this, beyond all cavil, is what is meant by natural or blind necessity. James Ward.

d The negation of freedom in voluntary action; necessitarianism; — contrasted with freedom or liberty.

Syn. — See NEED.

neck (nĕk), n. [ME. necke, fr. AS. hnecca; akin to D. nek the nape of the neck, G. nacken, genick, ON. hnakki, and prob. to OIr. cnocc hump, hill. Cf. NOOK.] 1. The part (usually narrowed) of an animal connecting the head and the trunk or body; the cervical region or vertebrae.

2. The part of a garment covering, or nearest to, the neck.

3. A part of anything, or between the parts of anything, corresponding to, or suggestive of, the neck of an animal; as: a The slender part of a bottle, or of a gourd or various other fruits, or the projecting tube formed by the united siphons of the long clam. b A narrow stretch of land, as an isthmus, a cape or promontory, or a mountain pass. c A narrow body of water between two larger bodies; a strait.

4. Anat. A constricted part of an organ; as the neck of a bone; the neck of the uterus; the neck of a tooth (the part between the root and the crown).

5. Arch. = GORGERIN, 1.

6. Bot. a = COLLUM, 2 b. b The tapering portion of an archegonium. c In certain fungi, the apical part of a perithecium or pycnidium.

7. Brickmaking. Any of a number of walls of bricks, usually 60 bricks long, 24 to 30 high, and 3 thick, placed on each side of an upright or double battering wall to form a clamp.

8. Geol. A mass of solidified lava or igneous rock, massive or fragmental, in what was once the vent of a volcano. Cf. BYSMALITH.

9. Golf. The curved part of the head of a golf club next the shaft.

10. Mach. A part reduced in circumference, formed by a groove around, usually near the end of, an object; as, a neck forming the journal of a shaft.

11. Music. The part of a violin, guitar, or similar instrument, extending from the head to the body.

12. Naut. That part of a mast just below the bibbs. Rare.

13. Ordn. a The slender part of a cascabel between the knob and the fillet. b The part of a cannon immediately behind the swell of the muzzle.

14. Print. The beard of a type.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

neck-breaking	neck-deep	neck-high neck-cracking	neck-fast	neck-stretching

— in the neck. In a vulnerable spot; as, to catch, get, etc., it in the neck, to suffer a penalty, punishment, rebuke, etc. Slang. — in, or on, the neck of. Immediately after; following closely.

neck (nĕk), v. t.; NECKED (nĕkt); NECK'ING. 1. To kill by striking or straining the neck.

2. Mach. To reduce the diameter of (an object), by making a groove around it; — used with down.

3. To put the arm around the neck; — also as v. i. Slang.

neck, adj. Of or pertaining to the neck; for use at or round the neck. For some neck phrases, see the second word.

-neck (-nĕk). A combining form of the noun neck, as in break*neck,* rough*neck.*

neck (nĕk). Var. of NIX.

neck (nĕk), n. Chess. A move covering check. — neck, v. Both Obs.

neck, n. The last sheaf of grain cut, often with traditional ceremonies (cf. HARVEST HOME), at harvesttime, sometimes decorated and preserved. Local, Eng.

neck and crop. Bodily; summarily; — implying energy and haste; as, to throw one out neck and crop. Colloq.

neck and heels. a = NECK AND CROP. b Securely; as, to tie one neck and heels.

neck and neck. Racing. So nearly equal that one cannot be said to be before the other; very close.

neck'a·tee (nĕk'ä-tē), n. A neckerchief. Obs. exc. Dial.

neck'band' (nĕk'bănd'), n. A band which goes around the neck, often part of a garment; esp., the band of a shirt to which a collar is attached.

neck'-break', adj., n., & adv. Breakneck. Rare.

neck canal cell. See CANAL CELL.

neck cell. Bot. One of the sterile cells constituting the enclosing jacket of the canal cells of the neck of an archegonium.

neck'cloth' (nĕk'klŏth'; 185), n. A neckerchief.

necked (nĕkt), adj. 1. Having a neck or such a neck.

2. [Past part. of neck to break the neck.] Naut. Cracked or bent; — said of a treenail.

-necked (-nĕkt). A combining form of necked, denoting having (so many or such) necks. Corresponding adverbs are formed in -ly, as stiff-necked*ly;* corresponding nouns are formed in -ness, as stiff-necked*ness.*

barenecked	loose-necked	stiff-necked black-necked	low-necked	straight-necked bull-necked	narrow-necked	straw-necked crooknecked	red-necked	thick-necked full-necked	ring-necked	thin-necked high-necked	rough-necked	three-necked lean-necked	short-necked	two-necked leather-necked	skinny-necked	white-necked long-necked	smooth-necked	wry-necked neck'er (nĕk'ĕr), n. One who necks, in various senses; specif., a worker who attaches necks to bodies, as by knitting, seaming, or soldering.

neck'er·cher (nĕk'ĕr-chĕr), n. A neckerchief. Now Dial.

neck'er·chief (nĕk'ĕr-chĭf), n. [For neck kerchief.] A kerchief for the neck; — called also neck handkerchief.

neck'guard' (-gärd'), n. A piece of armor, or the like, protecting the neck.

neck'-hole', n. a A hole, as in a garment, for the neck. b Obs. exc. Dial. The nape of the neck; also, the space between it and a collar or other garment.

neck'ing, pres. part. & verbal n. of NECK. Hence, n. a Arch. (1) Any small molding near the top of a column or pilaster, as a neckmold. See IONIC, Illust. (2) A gorgerin. b Railroads. The wearing away of a spike under the head, due to the vibration of the rail against it.

neck'in·ger (nĕk'ĭn-jĕr), n. [Alteration of neckercher.] A neckerchief. Now Dial.

neck journal. Mach. A journal supported at both ends.

neck'lace (nĕk'lĭs), n. 1. A string of jewels, beads, or the like, or a band or chain of platinum, gold, or other metal, worn around the neck.

2. Hence, any neck ornament, as of lace; a necktie; loosely, anything suggesting a necklace, as in shape, composition, or position.

3. A noose; halter. Jocose.

4. Naut. A rope or chain fitted around a mast near the top to hold hanging blocks.

neck'lace, v. t. & i. 1. To twine in the form of a necklace. R.

2. To encircle with or as with a necklace.

neck'laced (nĕk'lĭst), adj. Wearing a necklace; marked as with a necklace.

necklace of Freya. See FREYA.

necklace orchid. An orchid (Coelogyne dayana) of Borneo, with showy streaked flowers.

necklace poplar. The cottonwood Populus balsamifera.

necklace tree. Any tree of the genus Ormosia, esp. O. dasycarpa of the West Indies; — from the use of the seeds as beads in making necklaces.

neck'lace·weed' (nĕk'lĭs-wēd'), n. a U.S. The white baneberry. b A false gromwell (Onosmodium virginianum).

neck'let (nĕk'lĕt; -lĭt), n. Anything worn around the neck.

neck'line' (-līn'), n. The line to which a dress comes about the neck; also, the outline of that part of a garment covering, or nearest to, the neck.

neck'mold', neck'mould' (-mōld'), n. Arch. A molding around a column at the junction of the shaft and capital.

neck molding. = NECKMOLD.

neck of the woods. Orig., a settlement in a wooded country; hence, Colloq., a neighborhood. U.S.

neck or nothing (or naught). Figuratively, at all risks or hazards; as, I'll try it, neck or nothing.

neck'piece' (nĕk'pēs'), n. A scarf, boa, etc., usually of fur.

neck rot. Plant Pathol. A fungous disease of onions caused by Botrytis allii.

neck strap. A strap placed, or to be placed, over the neck, as one over the neck of a horse supporting the breastband. See HARNESS, Illust.

neck'tie' (nĕk'tī'), n. A scarf, band, or tie, as of silk, passing round the neck or collar and tied in front; also, a bow, as of silk, fastened at the front of the neck.

neck verse. a Hist. A verse read as a test of learning by a person claiming benefit of clergy. b Hence, a verse or saying the utterance of which decides one's fate; a shibboleth.

neck'wear' (nĕk'wâr'), n. Apparel for the neck, as ties, collars, boas, etc., collectively.

neck'weed' (-wēd'), n. a An American speedwell (Veronica peregrina), with flowers reputed to cure scrofula. b Slang. Hemp; — from the hangman's hempen rope.

nec·rec'to·my (nĕk-rĕk'tŏ-mĭ), n. [necr- + -ectomy.] Excision of necrosed material.

ne·cre'mi·a, ne·crae'mi·a (nĕ-krē'mĭ-ä), n. [NL. See NECRO-; -EMIA.] Med. State in which the vital elements of the blood are dead.

nec'ro- (nĕk'rō-), necr-. [See NOXIOUS.] A combining form, Greek nekro-, nekr-, from nekros, meaning a dead body; the dead; denoting: a The dead; deaths; as in necromancy, necrology. b A corpse, as in necrophilian, necropsy. c Atrophy; necrosis; gangrene; as in necrobiosis, necremia. d Dead tissue, as in necrectomy. e Fossil, as in necrotype.

nec'ro·bac'il·lo'sis (nĕk'rō-băs'ĭ-lō'sĭs), n.; pl. -SES (-sēz), [NL., fr. necro- + bacillus + -osis.] Any of several diseased conditions in domestic animals, esp hogs and sheep, caused by the necrosis bacillus Actinomyces, syn. Bacillus, necrophorus. — nec'ro·bac'il·lar'y (-băs'ĭ-lĕr'ĭ; -bä-sĭl'ĕr-ĭ), adj.

nec'ro·bi·o'sis (-bī-ō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. necro- + Gr. biōsis way of life.] Med. A stage of degeneration of a part or tissue in which some portions are alive and others dead. — nec'ro·bi·ot'ic (-ŏt'ĭk), adj.

nec'ro·gen'ic (nĕk'rō-jĕn'ĭk), ne·crog'e·nous (nĕ-krŏj'ĕ-nŭs), adj. [necro- + -genic, -genous.] Pertaining to, living in, or coming from, dead animals.

ne·crol'a·try (nĕ-krŏl'ä-trĭ), n. [necro- + -latry.] Worship or excessive veneration of the dead; manes worship.

nec'ro·log'i·cal (nĕk'rō-lŏj'ĭ-kăl), adj. Also nec'ro·log'ic (-lŏj'ĭk). Of or pertaining to necrology; of the nature of necrology. — nec'ro·log'i·cal·ly, adv.

ne·crol'o·gist (nĕ-krŏl'ŏ-jĭst), n. A writer of obituaries.

nec'ro·logue (nĕk'rō-lŏg; 185), n. [See NECROLOGY.] Obituary.

ne·crol'o·gy (nĕ-krŏl'ŏ-jĭ), n.; pl. -GIES (-jĭz). [necro- + -logy; cf. F. nécrologie. See NECROMANCY.] 1. A register of deaths, esp. in an ecclesiastical organization; a roll of the dead.

2. An obituary notice.

3. The history of the dead. Rare.

nec'ro·man'cer (nĕk'rō-măn'sĕr), n. [ME. nigromancer, fr. OF. nigromanceur.] One who practices necromancy. — nec'ro·manc'ing (-măn'sĭng), adj. & n.

nec'ro·man'cy (-sĭ), n. [ME. nigromaunce, nigromancie, fr. OF. nigromance (F. nécromance, nécromancie), fr. L. necromantia, fr. Gr. nekromanteia, fr. nekros a dead body + manteia divination, fr. mantis diviner, seer; akin to Gr. mania frenzy. See NOXIOUS; MANIA. The old spelling is due to confusion with L. niger black. Hence the name black art.] The art of, or a device for, revealing the future by pretended communication with the spirits of the dead; hence, magic in general; conjuration; enchantment.

neb'u·ly (nĕb'ū-lĭ). Var. of NEBULE. [băn). Bib.

Neb'u·shas'ban (nĕb'ū-shăs'-|

Neb'u·zar-a'dan (nĕb'ū-zär-ĕ'-dăn; nĕb-ū'zär-ĕd'ăn). Bib.

necc. + NEBE, nose; NECK.

|ne ce'de ma'lis. [L.] Yield not to misfortune. Vergil (Aeneid, VI. 95).

nec'es·saire, adj. [F. nécessaire.] Necessary. Obs.

nec'es·sar'i·an (nĕs'ĕ-sâr'ĭ-ăn; 79), n. & adj. [Cf. F. nécessarien.] = NECESSITARIAN, n. & adj. — n. Necessity. — v. i. [L. necessare.] To compel. All Obs.

nec'es·sar'i·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

nec'es·sar'i·ness (nĕs'ĕ-sĕr'ĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. See -NESS. [Obs.] nec'es·sar'i·ous, adj. Necessary.

|ne'ces·sa'ri·us he'res (nĕ's'ĕ-sâ'rĭ-ŭs hē'rēz); pl. NECESSARII HEREDES (-rĭ-ī hĕr'ĕ-dēz). [L.] See HEIRS.

ne·cesse', adj. [F.] Necessary.

ne·ces'si·tate, v. t. [L. necessare.] To compel. All Obs.

ne·ces'si·at'ed, adj. = NECESSITATED. Obs.

ne·ces'si·tat'ed·ly, adv. of NECESSITATED, past part.

ne·ces'si·tat'ing·ly, adv. of NECESSITATING, pres. part.

ne·ces'site, v. i. [F. nécessiter.] Necessitate. Obs. [NECESSITY.]

necessity money. = MONEY OF Nech'a·o (nĕk'ä-ō). D. Bib.

neck'ar. Var. of NICKER.

neck'ar nut (nĕk'ĕr). Var. of NICKER NUT.

neck'en·ger. Var. of NECKINGER.

neck'ful, n. See -FUL. [Obs.] neck'land, n. A neck of land.

neck'less, adj. See -LESS.

neck'like', adj. See -LIKE.

neck'stock', n. = STOCK, n., 16.

neck'tie'less, adj. See -LESS.

neck'ward, adv. & adj. See -WARD.

neck'yoke', n., neck yoke. = 1st YOKE, 4 d. See HARNESS, Illust.

Ne·co'dan (nĕ-kō'dăn). Bib.

necr-. = NECRO-.

ne·crae'mi·a. Var. of NECREMIA.

ne·crog'ra·pher (nĕ-krŏg'rä-fĕr), n. [necro- + -grapher.] = NECROLOGIST.

N

nec'ro·man'tic (nĕk'rō·măn'tĭk), adj. 1. Practicing necromancy.
2. Of or pertaining to, or of the nature of, necromancy performed by necromancy; hence, marvelous; magical.

nec'ro·man'tic (-măn'tĭk), n. 1. A necromancer. Obs.
2. A necromantic device. Rare.

nec'ro·man'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv. of NECROMANTIC, -MANTICAL.

nec'ro·mor'phous (-môr'fŭs), adj. [necro- + -morphous.] Feigning the appearance of death, as certain beetles. See THANATOSIS.

nec'ro·nite (nĕk'rō·nīt), n. [Gr. nekros a dead body.] Mineral. A variety of orthoclase exhaling a fetid odor when broken.

ne·crop'a·thy (nĕ·krŏp'ȧ·thĭ), n. [necro- + -pathy.] Med. Any disease attended with necrosis.

Ne·croph'a·ga (nĕ·krŏf'ȧ·gȧ), n. pl. [NL. See NECROPHAGOUS.] Zool. A group composed of the burying beetles; — from the typical genus, Necrophorus. — ne·croph'a·gan (-găn), adj. & n.

ne·croph'a·gous (nĕ·krŏf'ȧ·gŭs), adj. [Gr. nekrophagos eating corpses, fr. nekros a dead body + phagein to eat.] Feeding on carrion.

nec'ro·phile (nĕk'rō·fīl; -fĭl), n. [necro- + -phile.] One affected with necrophilia.

nec'ro·phil'i·a (nĕk'rō·fĭl'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] Love of the dead. — nec'ro·phil'ic (-fĭk), adj.

ne·croph'i·lous (nĕ·krŏf'ĭ·lŭs), adj. Zool. Fond of, or attracted to, carrion.

nec'ro·pho'bi·a (nĕk'rō·fō'bĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. necro- + -phobia.] An exaggerated fear of death or horror of dead bodies. — nec'ro·pho'bic (-fō'bĭk; -fŏb'ĭk), adj.

Ne·croph'o·rus (nĕ·krŏf'ō·rŭs), n. [NL., fr. necro- + -phorus.] Zool. A genus of burying beetles. See BURYING BEETLE.

ne·crop'o·lis (nĕ·krŏp'ō·lĭs; nē-), n.; pl. -LISES (-lĭs·ēz; -lĭz; 119), NECROPOLEIS (-lĭs). [Gr. nekropolis, fr. nekros a dead body + polis city.] A cemetery, esp. one of large size or of olden times. — nec'ro·pol'i·tan (nĕk'rō·pŏl'ĭ·tăn), adj.

nec'rop·sy (nĕk'rŏp·sĭ), n. [necr- + Gr. opsis sight.] Med. A post-mortem examination; an autopsy.

ne·cros'co·py (nĕ·krŏs'kō·pĭ), n. [necro- + -scopy.] Med. Autopsy. — nec'ro·scop'ic (nĕk'rō·skŏp'ĭk), -scop'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj.

ne·crose' (nĕ·krōs'; nĕk'rōs), v. t. & i.; NE·CROSED' (-krōst'; -rōst); NE·CROS'ING (-krōs'ĭng; -rōs·ĭng). To affect with, or undergo, necrosis.

ne·cro'sis (nĕ·krō'sĭs), n.; pl. NECROSES (-sēz). [NL., fr. Gr. nekrōsis, fr. nekroun to make dead, to mortify, fr. nekros a dead body.] 1. Death or mortification, esp. of a bodily tissue, as from loss of blood supply, corrosion, burning, etc.
2. Plant Pathol. a A localized or general death of plant tissue caused by low temperatures, fungi, etc. b = DEAD-ARM.

ne·crot'ic (nĕ·krŏt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. nekrotēs state of death.] Affected with, characterized by, or producing, necrosis; of or pertaining to death.

necrotic enteritis. Veter. Enteritis in swine, characterized by necrotic and ulcerative patches on the intestinal mucosa.

nec'ro·tize (nĕk'rō·tīz), v. i. & t. To undergo, or to affect with, necrosis. — nec'ro·ti·za'tion (-tĭ·zā'shŭn; -tĭ·zā'-), n.

ne·crot'o·my (nĕ·krŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [necro- + -tomy.] a Med. The dissection of dead bodies. b The surgical removal of necrosed bone. — nec'ro·tom'ic (nĕk'rō·tŏm'ĭk), adj. — ne·crot'o·mist (nĕ·krŏt'ō·mĭst), n.

nec'ro·type (nĕk'rō·tīp), n. [necro- + -type.] An extinct organism or group of organisms. — -typ'ic (-tĭp'ĭk), adj.

-nec'tae (-nĕk'tē). [NL., pl.] Zool. A combining form from Greek nēktēs, meaning a swimmer, used in group names, as in Physo*nectae.* Corresponding adjectives are formed in -nec'tous (-tŭs).

Nec·tan'dra (nĕk·tăn'drȧ), n. [NL. See NECTAR; -ANDROUS. Alluding to the nectar glands of the anthers.] Bot. A large genus of tropical American trees of the laurel family (Lauraceae). Many species are large timber trees; some yield aromatic oils. See BEBEERU, GREENHEART.

nec'tar (nĕk'tĕr), n. [L., fr. Gr. nektar, prop., death-overcoming; akin to L. nex violent death, and (-tar) to Skr. tarati he overcomes, crosses over. See NOXIOUS; TERM.]
1. Gr. Myth. & Poetic. The drink (sometimes, less properly, the food) of the gods; hence, any delicious or inspiring beverage. Cf. AMBROSIA, 1.
2. A color, red in hue, of low saturation and medium brilliance. Cf. COLOR.
3. Bot. A sweet liquid secreted by the nectaries of a plant. It is the chief source of the honey of bees.
☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

nectar-bearing	nectar-loving	nectar-spouting
nectar-breathing	nectar-secreting	nectar-streaming nectar-dropping	nectar-seeking	nectar-tongued nectar bird. A honey eater or sunbird.

nec'tar·e·al (nĕk·tär'ē·ăl; 79), adj. 1. Nectareous.
2. Bot. Nectarial.

nec·tar'e·an (nĕk·tär'ē·ăn; 79), adj. [See NECTAREOUS.] Nectareous.

nec'tared (nĕk'tĕrd), adj. Imbued or mingled with nectar; hence, sweet or fragrant as nectar.

nec·tar'e·ous (nĕk·tär'ē·ŭs; 79), adj. [L. nectareus, fr. Gr. nektareos.] Of, pertaining to, containing, or of the nature of, or like, nectar; sweet as nectar; delicious; nectarean. — nec·tar'e·ous·ly, adv. — nec·tar'e·ous·ness, n.

nec·tar'i·al (nĕk·tär'ĭ·ăl; 79), adj. Bot. Pertaining to, or consisting of, a nectary.

nec·tar'i·an (nĕk·tär'ĭ·ăn; 79), adj. Nectarean.

nec'ta·ried (nĕk'tȧ·rĭd), adj. Having a nectary.

nec·tar'if'er·ous (nĕk'tĕr·ĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. nectar nectar + -ferous.] Bot. Secreting nectar; — said of the nectaries.

nec'tar·ine (nĕk'tĕr·ĭn), adj. Nectareous.

nec'tar·ine' (nĕk'tĕr·ēn'; nĕk'tĕr·ĭn, -ēn; 277), n. [See NECTAR.] 1. A smooth-skinned variety of peach. Nectarines may arise from peaches, or peaches from nectarines, by bud variation.
2. The color peach.

Nec'ta·ri·ni'i·dae (nĕk'tȧ·rĭ·nī'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The family of Old World oscine birds consisting of the sunbirds. A leading genus is Nec'ta·rin'i·a (-rĭn'ĭ·ȧ).

nec·tar'i·ous (nĕk·tär'ĭ·ŭs; 79), adj. Nectareous. Rare.

nec·tar'i·um (-ŭm; 79), n.; pl. -IA (-ȧ). [NL.] Bot. A nectary.

nec'tar·iv'o·rous (nĕk'tĕr·ĭv'ō·rŭs), adj. [L. nectar + -vorous.] Zool. Feeding on nectar.

nec'tar·ize (nĕk'tĕr·īz), v. t. To sweeten as with nectar. Rare.

nec'tar·o· (nĕk'tĕr·ō·). Bot. A combining form for nectar.

nec'tar·ous (nĕk'tĕr·ŭs), adj. Nectareous.

nec'ta·ry (nĕk'tȧ·rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [From NECTAR.]
1. Bot. A gland that secretes nectar; also, sometimes, the organ or part containing the gland. In flowers, the nectaries are usually at the base of the corolla or petals, or in the spur of such flowers as the larkspur and violet. Nectaries on other parts of the plant are extrafloral nectaries.
2. Zool. The honey tube of an aphid.

nec·tif'er·ous (nĕk·tĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. Nectariferous.

nec'to- (nĕk'tō-), nect-. A combining form from Greek nēktos, swimming, as in nectocalyx, Necturus.

nec'to·ca'lyx (-kā'lĭks; -kăl'ĭks), n.; pl. -CALYCES (-kăl'ĭ·sēz; -kā'lĭ-). [NL., fr. necto- + Gr. kalyx a calyx.] Zool. A swimming bell. See DIPHYES. — -cal'y·cine (-kăl'ĭ·sĭn; -sīn), adj.

Nec'to·ne'ma (nĕk'tō·nē'mȧ), n. [NL., fr. necto- + -nema.] Zool. A genus of marine hairworms of the family Gordiidae.

nec'to·phore (nĕk'tō·fōr; 181), n. [necto- + -phore.] Zool. A swimming bell. Cf. DIPHYES.

nec'to·pod (nĕk'tō·pŏd), n. [necto- + -pod.] A limb adapted for swimming.

Nec'tri·a (nĕk'trĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nēktris, fem. of nēktēr swimmer.] Bot. a A genus of sac fungi (family Hypocreaceae) having bright-colored perithecia. Some occur as parasites, as N. cinnabarina on currants and other plants, N. galligena on apple trees, and N. cucurbitula on various conifers. Some species were formerly included in the form genera Fusarium, Cephalosporium, and Tubercularia. b [not cap.] Any fungus of this genus. — nec'tri·a'ceous (-ā'shŭs), adj.

Nec'tri·oid·a'ce·ae (nĕk'trĭ·oid·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Nectria.] Bot. A family of imperfect fungi (order Sphaeropsidales) including mostly saprophytic species.

Nec·tu'rus (nĕk·tū'rŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nēktos swimming + oura tail.] Zool. A genus of large wholly aquatic salamanders of the United States, having large external gills, and a broad flat tail. They constitute a family, Nec·tu'ri·dae (-rĭ·dē).

Necturus (N. maculosus).

ned'der (nĕd'ĕr), n. [See ADDER.] An adder. Obs. exc. Dial.

ned'dy (nĕd'ĭ), n.; pl. NEDDIES (-ĭz). [From the proper name Ned (from mine Ed, taken as my Ned).] a [often cap.] A donkey. b Slang. = LIFE PRESERVER, 2.

Ne'der·lands (nā'dĕr·lănts), n. [S. Afr. D.] The Dutch language. S. Africa.

nee (nā), adj. fem. [F., fr. L. nata, fem. of natus, past part. of nasci to be born. See NATION.] Born; — used in introducing the maiden family name of a married woman; as, Madame de Staël, nee Necker.

nee (dial. nē). Var. of NIGH. Now Dial.

need (nēd), n. [ME. need, neod, nede, fr. AS. nēad, nīed, nēd, nēod, nȳd; akin to D. nood, G. not, ON. nauthr, Sw. & Dan. nöd, Goth. nauths, OPruss. acc. nautin.] 1. Force used on a person or thing; violence. Obs.
2. a A condition requiring supply or relief; urgent exigency.
Be governed by your needs, not by your fancy. Jer. Taylor.
b The lack of anything requisite, desired, or useful; as, he felt the need of a better education. c Want of the means of subsistence; poverty; indigence; destitution. d Now Rare. Needful; — used predicatively as an adjective equivalent; as, he worked harder than was need.
3. That which is necessary to be done; in pl., in necessary duties or business; also, an emergency; strait. Obs.
4. Anything needed or felt to be needed; as, our daily needs.
5. Psychol. Any requirement of an organism, native or acquired, which prompts to action and is experienced as a desire; as, an organic need; the need for security.
Syn. — Extremity, compulsion, urgency, lack, want. — NEED, NECESSITY. NECESSITY, implying esp. constraint or compulsion, is commonly stronger than NEED, which suggests pressing or urgent want; as, "Nature must obey necessity" (Shak.); "grace to help in time of need" (Heb. iv. 16). Cf. NEEDFUL, LACK, POVERTY.
Ant. — Luxury, wealth; sufficiency.
— at need, or at one's need. In an emergency.

need (nēd), v.; NEED'ED; NEED'ING. [See NEED, n. Cf. AS. nēodian to be necessary.] Transitive: To be in need of; to have cause or occasion for; to require, as supply or relief; as, to need food or sleep; to need an assistant; to need advice.
☞ Need is used like an auxiliary before a complementary infinitive, now regularly without to (and without inflection for the 3d person sing.) when followed by a negative (as in, "he need not fear") and in interrogative clauses such as "why need it be?" "why need they sing?" etc.
—, Intransitive: 1. To be needful; to be necessary; — now chiefly in various impersonal constructions, as what needs? it needs not; we have done all that needs.
It does not need that a poem should be long. Emerson.
2. To be in need or want; as, give to them who need.
Syn. — Lack, want, demand.

need, adv. Of necessity. Obs.

need'-be' (nēd'bē'), n. A necessary reason; a necessity. R.

need'er (nēd'ĕr), n. One who needs.

need'fire' (nēd'fīr'), n. 1. Teut. Folklore. A fire of purification, of heathen origin, formerly kindled esp. during cattle plague, and finally associated with the St. John's fires.
2. A bonfire or beacon. Rare.

need'ful (-fŏol; -fĭ), adj. 1. Full of needs; needy.
2. Necessary for supply or relief; requisite.
All things needful for defense abound. Dryden.
Syn. — Indispensable, vital, integral. — NEEDFUL, NECESSARY, REQUISITE, ESSENTIAL. That is NEEDFUL which is required esp. to supply a want; NECESSARY implies more pressing need or urgent constraint; as, "His personal return was most required and necessary" (Shak.); "The needful qualities for a fit prose are regularity, uniformity, precision, balance" (M. Arnold). That is REQUISITE which is needful esp. for fulfillment, completion, attainment, and the like; that is ESSENTIAL (cf. INTRINSIC) which is absolutely and indispensably necessary; as, "Tenderness is a requisite quality in an instructor" (Goldsmith); knowledge of one's subject is essential to successful teaching. Cf. NEED, REQUIREMENT.
Ant. — Unnecessary, superfluous, unessential, needless.
— need'ful·ly, adv. — need'ful·ness, n.

need'ful (nēd'fŏol; -fĭ), n. Something needed.
— the needful. Anything necessary; specif., Slang, money.

need'gates (nēd'gāts), adv. [See NEED, n.; GATE a way.] Necessarily.

need'ham (nēd'ăm), n. Need; want; — adapted punningly from Needham Market, a town in Suffolk, England. Obs.

need'i·ness (nēd'ĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. State or quality of being needy.

need'ing (nēd'ĭng), n. A need; need.

nee'dle (nē'd'l), n. [ME. nedle, fr. AS. nǣdl; akin to D. naald, OS. nādla, G. nadel, OHG. nādala, ON. nāl, Goth. nethla, OIr. snāthat, and to G. nähen to sew, OHG. nājan, L. nere to spin, Gr. neein, nēma thread, OIr. snāthe, Skr. snāyu, snāvan, sinew. Cf. NERVE, SNOOD.] 1. A small instrument for sewing, usually of steel, sharp at one end, with an eyehole for thread. In some needles (as for sewing machines) the eye is at the pointed end, but in ordinary needles it is at the blunt end. Ordinary sewing needles in order of length include: darners (the longest), straws, sharps, long-eyed sharps, ground-downs, betweens, and blunts.
2. A slender rod or wire used in knitting; a knitting needle; also, a hooked instrument with which the knots or loops are made in netting, knitting, or crocheting.
3. Any slender, pointed object, like a needle, as a pointed crystal, a sharp rock, an obelisk, etc.
4. A slender, sharp-pointed piece of a jewel, or of steel, wood, or fiber, used in a phonograph to transmit vibrations from the record.
5. Short for MAGNETIC NEEDLE, NEEDLEWOMAN.
6. Part of the knotting mechanism of a grain binder.
7. Bacteriol. A wire, usually of platinum, used for transferring microorganisms into culture mediums.
8. Blasting. A slender tapering rod set in a bore during charging and then withdrawn, leaving an opening for the priming, fuse, or squib; a pricker; — called also blasting needle.
9. Bot. Any acicular or needle-shaped leaf, specif. that of the pine.
10. Building. A short stout timber, steel, or iron beam passing through a hole in a wall, to support the end of a shore or the like. See SHORING, Illust.
11. Mach. A slender pointed rod controlling a fine inlet or outlet, as in a valve.
12. Med. A sharp-pointed, slender instrument for sewing or puncturing tissues. See HYPODERMIC NEEDLE.

Needles, 12. 1 and 2 with Spear Points, 3 with Straight Point.

13. Textile Mfg. One of a set of parallel wires found in knitting machines and Jacquard looms.
☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

needle-form, adj.	needlemaker	needle-scarred needle grinder	needlemaking	needle-shaped needle grinding	needlemonger	needle-sharp needle-leaved	needleproof	needleworked needle-made	needle-nosed	needleworker

— a needle in a haystack or a bottle of hay. Figuratively, an object hard to find or attain. — the needle. Nervous tension; nervousness.

nee'dle (nē'd'l), v.; NEE'DLED (-d'ld); NEE'DLING (-dlĭng). Transitive: 1. To sew with a needle.
2. To pierce or treat with or as with a needle; also, to push (something) through like a needle.
3. To form in the shape of a needle; as, to needle crystals.
4. To strengthen, or increase the alcoholic content of, as beer, ale, etc., by adding raw alcohol; as, to needle beer. Colloq.
5. Surg. To puncture, or to operate on, with a needle.
—, Intransitive: 1. To sew or embroider with a needle.
2. To pass back and forth like a needle in sewing. Rare.
3. To crystallize in the form of needles.

needle and thread. = NEEDLE GRASS a.

needle bar. a Any long, usually pointed, bar, resembling a needle, as a bar used in ice harvesting. b The reciprocating bar holding the needle of a sewing machine.

nee'dle·bar', adj. Of, pertaining to, or resembling, a needle bar; as, a needle-bar cam (see 3d CAM a, Illust.).

needle bath. A bath in which water is forcibly projected on the body in fine jets.

needle beam. a Building. = NEEDLE, n., 10. b A transverse floor beam in a bridge.

nee'dle·bill' (nē'd'l·bĭl'), n. Also nee'dle-billed' snipe (-bĭld'). Wilson's phalarope. See PHALAROPE. Local, U. S.

needle blight or cast. = LEAF CAST.

nee'dle·book' (nē'd'l·bŏŏk'), n. A book-shaped needlecase.

needle bug. A bug of the genus Ranatra (which see).

nee'dle·bush' (nē'd'l·bŏŏsh'), n. a Any of several Australian shrubs or trees with rigid, needle-shaped leaves, esp. Hakea leucoptera and Acacia rigens. Calif. b The chaparral pea.

nee'dle·case' (-kās'), n. A case to hold needles.

needle cast. = LEAF CAST.

needle chervil. The lady's-comb.

nee'dled (nē'd'ld), adj. Having, done with, or shaped or pointed like, a needle. Also figuratively; as, needled ironies.

needle dam. Hydraul. Engin. A barrier consisting of horizontal bars dropped into grooves in the abutments of a pass through a dam, and removable in case of flood.

needle diatom. A diatom of the genus Synedra.

needle file. See 4th FILE, 1.

needle fir. A Chinese evergreen tree (Abies holophylla) with pectinate leaves and erect cones.

nee'dle·fish' (nē'd'l·fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -lz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. 1. Any member of the Belonidae, a family of voracious elongate teleost fishes (called also billfishes, garfishes, and gars), resembling superficially, but not related to, the fresh-water ganoids also called gars. Needlefishes are green and silvery in color; even the bones are often bright green. Belone belone is a common European species; the best-known American forms belong to the genus Tylosurus. See GAR.
2. A pipefish.

nee'dle·ful (-fŏŏl), n.; pl. -FULS (-fŏŏlz). As much thread as is used in a needle at one time.

needle furze. A prickly shrub (Genista anglica) of western Europe.

needle girder. A girder used as a needle beam in a bridge.

needle gorse. Needle furze.

needle grass. a A grass (Stipa comata) of the western United States, with filiform leaves, and slender awns on the spikelet. b Any of several grasses of the genus Aristida, esp. A. longiseta of the western United States, furnishing rather poor forage.

nec'ro·man'ti·cal, adj. = NECROMANTIC, adj. Obs. [Obs.] necromantic, n. Necromancy.
ne·croph'i·liam (nĕ·krŏf'ĭ·lĭz'm), n. [necro- + Gr. philos lovinc.] = NECROPHILIA. — ne·croph'i·lis'tic (-lĭs'tĭk), adj.
ne·croph'i·ly (-lĭ), n. = NECROPHILIA. [CROPOLIS.] necropoles, n., erron. pl. of NEnec'tar·ell, adj. Like nectar. Obs. nec'tar·in. Nectarean. Ref. Sp.

nec'tar·like', adj. See -LIKE.
-nec'tes (-nĕk'tēz). [NL.] = -NECTAE, as in Rhachia*nectes.*
-nec'tous (-tŭs). See -NECTAE. nec'tron. † NECTARINE.
Ned (nĕd), n. Dim. of EDGAR, EDMUND, EDWARD.
Ned'a·bi'ah (nĕd'ȧ·bī'ȧ). Bib.

ned'der. † NETHER. ned'dick. Dial. var. of NIDDICK. ned'dre. † ADDER.
nede. † NEED. [of NEIGHBOR.]
nee'bor, nee'bour. Scot. vars.

Need'ham's sac (nēd'ăms). See SPERMATOPHORE SAC. [HOOD.] need'i·hood. Var. of NEEDY-need'i·ly, adv. of NEEDY. nee'dl. Needle. Ref. Sp.

needle gun. A Dreyse rifle.

needle ironstone, needle iron ore. Mineral. Göthite in acicular crystals.

needle juniper. An Asiatic evergreen shrubby tree (Juniperus rigida) with needle-shaped leaves.

needle lace. Needle-point lace.

needle loom. Weaving. A loom in which the weft thread is carried through the shed by a long eye-pointed needle.

nee'dle-man (nē'd'l-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). A man who works with a needle; specif., a tailor.

needle ore. Mineral. = AIKINITE.

needle palm. = BLUE PALMETTO.

nee'dle-point', adj. 1. Having points like needles.
2. Designating a type of lace made entirely with a needle on a parchment or paper pattern; — disting. esp. from bobbin lace. In needle-point lace, made chiefly in Venice and Brussels, the threads are held together by buttonhole stitches, not by plaiting as in bobbin lace. See LACE, n., 5.

needle point. 1. Needle-point lace.
2. Embroidery. See 1st POINT, 21.

nee'dle-point'ed (66), adj. Pointed as needles.

needle pointer. See POINTER, 2 b.

nee'dler (nē'dlĕr), n. 1. One who makes, uses, or deals in, needles.
2. One who sews up packages. Eng.

nee'dles (nē'd'lz), n. Lady's-comb.

needle spar. Aragonite. Rare.

needle spike rush. A common perennial sedge (Eleocharis acicularis) with needlelike leaves.

need'less (nēd'lĕs; 119), adj. 1. Not needed; unnecessary; as, needless labor. "Needless jealousy." Shak.
2. Having no need; not in want. Obs.
— need'less-ly, adv. — need'less-ness, n.

nee'dle-stone (nē'd'l-stōn'), n. Natrolite.

needle telegraph. A telegraph signaling by the deflections of a magnetic needle, as in a form of telegraph in which the receiver is a galvanometer with vertical needle.

needle tooth. Any of the small, dark, sharp teeth of newborn pigs; — called also black tooth.

needle trade. One of the several trades, such as clothing manufacture, in which the sewing-machine needle is the principal tool used.

needle valve. Mach. a A valve consisting essentially of a slender pointed rod or needle fitting into a conoidal seat and capable of fine adjustment. See CARBURETOR, Illust. b A valve consisting of a small needle fitting in a cylindrical bore to give increased aperture with a greater lift.

needle weir. A needle dam.

needle whin. = NEEDLE FURZE.

nee'dle-wom'an (nē'd'l-wŏŏm'ăn), n.; pl. -WOMEN (-wĭm'-ĕn; -ĭn; 119). A woman who does needlework; a seamstress.

nee'dle-wood' (-wŏŏd'), n. The needlebush Hakea leucoptera. Australia.

nee'dle-work' (-wûrk'), n. 1. Work done with a needle; sewing; embroidery; also, the occupation of one who sews, as of a seamstress.
2. The combination of timber and plaster in making the outside framework of some houses. Obs.

needle zeolite. Mineral. Natrolite.

nee'dling (nē'dlĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of NEEDLE. Hence: n. a Rare. Work done with the needle. b A temporary support of needle beams.

nee'dly (nē'dlĭ), adj. Like a needle or needles.

need'ly (nēd'lĭ), adv. [See NEED.] Necessarily. Obs.

need'ments (nēd'mĕnts), n. pl. Things needed or wanted; necessary luggage. Archaic & Dial.

need'-not', n. A superfluity. Rare.

needs (nēdz), adv. [Orig. a gen. of need, AS. nēdes.] Of necessity; necessarily; indispensably; — now chiefly with must, and equiv. to of need.

And he must needs go through Samaria. John iv. 4.

needs'-be', n. Necessity. Rare.

need'y (nēd'ĭ), adj.; NEED'I-ER (-ĭ-ĕr); NEED'I-EST. 1. Distressed by want of the means of living; poverty-stricken.
2. Necessary; requisite. Obs. "Needy bread." Shak.

neel'-bhun'der (nēl'bŭn'dĕr), n. [Hind. nīl-bandar, lit., blue monkey.] The wanderoo.

neele (nēl), n. [OF. nelle, neele, nielle (F. nielle). See DARNEL.] Darnel. Local, U. S. & Canada.

neem (nēm), n., or neem tree. Also neem'ba (-bä). [Hind. nīm, fr. Skr. nimba.] The margosa.

ne'en-ceph'a-lon (nē'ĕn-sĕf'ä-lŏn), n. [NL., fr. ne- + encephalon.] Anat. The part of the brain having the most recent phylogenetic origin; specif., the cerebral cortex and parts developed in relation to it. Cf. PALEENCEPHALON. — ne-en'ce-phal'ic (nē-ĕn'sĕ-făl'ĭk), adj.

neep (nēp), n. [AS. nǣp, fr. L. napus. Cf. NAVEW.] A turnip. Chiefly Dial.

neer (nēr), n. [ME. nere; akin to D. nier. See NEPHRITIS.] A kidney. Now Dial.

ne'er'-do-well' (nâr'dōō-wĕl'), n. A person who never does well; a good-for-nothing. — adj. Good-for-nothing.

ne ex'e-at (nē ĕk'sē-ăt). [L. ne exeat regno let him not go out of the kingdom.] Law. Orig., in England, a high prerogative writ used in matters of state to restrain a person from leaving the country; later, a writ issued out of chancery or equity to restrain a person from leaving the jurisdiction of the court pending an action. In the equity practice in the United States the equivalent process is called ne ex'e-at re-pub'li-ca (rē-pŭb'lĭ-kä) and is still existent in the Federal practice and in some States.

neeze, neese (nēz), v. i. & n. [ME. nesen (perh. fr. ON.); akin to ON. hnjōsa, Dan. nyse, D. niezen, G. niesen, Lith. skiaudėti, Skr. kṣauti he sneezes. Cf. SNEEZE.] Sneeze. Now Scot. & N. of Eng.

nef (nĕf), n. [F., fr. L. navis ship. See 2d NAVE.] 1. The nave of a church. Obs.
2. A table vessel for napkins, salt, etc., in the shape of a ship, formerly used by nobles or princes. Obs. exc. Hist.
3. A clock in the form of a ship, of the 16th century, with mechanical devices to illustrate astronomical movements.
4. Eccl. = NAVICULA, 1.

ne-fan'dous (nē-făn'dŭs), adj. [L. nefandus not to be spoken, fr. ne- not + fari to speak.] Unfit to speak of; unmentionable; impious; execrable. — ne-fan'dous-ness, n.

The like nefandous wickedness. Increase Mather.

ne-far'i-ous (nē-fâr'ĭ-ŭs; 79), adj. [L. nefarius, fr. nefas crime, wrong, fr. ne- not + fas divine law; akin to L. fari to speak. See NO, adv.; FATE.] Heinously or impiously wicked; iniquitous.

Syn. — Detestable, horrible, heinous, atrocious, villainous, infamous, impious. See INIQUITOUS; cf. FLAGRANT.

Ant. — Virtuous, godly; innocent; exemplary.

— ne-far'i-ous-ly, adv. — ne-far'i-ous-ness, n.

‖ne'fas (nē'făs), adj. [L.] Contrary to divine law; sinful; hence, not permissible. See FAS.

ne-fast' (nē-făst'), adj. [L. nefastus.] Wicked. Rare.

nefit'gil (nĕfĭt'gĭl), n. [Per., naphtha clay.] Ozocerite.

ne-gate' (nē-gāt'; nē'gāt), v. t.; NE-GAT'ED (nē-gāt'ĕd; nē'gāt-; -ĭd); NE-GAT'ING (-ĭng). [See NEGATION.] a To deny; to nullify. b To declare or prove nonexistent.

ne-ga'tion (nē-gā'shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. négation, fr. L. negatio, fr. negare to say no, to deny, fr. neg- not, no, fr. nē not + strengthening particle; akin to Lith. negi, negu, not, OS. nec and not. See NO, adv.; cf. ABNEGATE, DENY, NEGLECT, NEGOTIATE, RENEGADE.] 1. Act or instance of denying; assertion involving a negative; a refusal; — opposite of affirmation.

Our assertions and negations should be yea and nay. Rogers.

2. State of being, or a making, empty, blank, or nugatory; blankness; nullity; negativity; obliteration; annihilation.
3. Logic. A negative proposition. See NEGATIVE, adj., 6 a.
4. Philos. A nonexistence or merely privative state; as, in the philosophy of Plotinus, matter is a mere negation.

ne-ga'tion-ist (-ĭst), n. Also, Rare, ne-ga'tion-al-ist (-ăl-ĭst). An adherent of a doctrine or theory of mere negation.

neg'a-tive (nĕg'ä-tĭv), adj. [F. or L.; F. négatif, fr. L. negativus, fr. negare to deny. See NEGATION.] 1. Expressing, implying, or containing negation, denial, prohibition, or refusal; refusing assent; as, a negative answer, opinion; — opp. to affirmative.

Between an affirmative bow and a negative shake. Dickens.

2. Not positive; without affirmative statement or demonstration; privative; as, a negative argument, character.

There is another way of denying Christ, . . . which is negative, when we do not acknowledge and confess him. South.

3. a Bacteriol., etc. Not affirming the presence of the organism or condition in question; as, a negative diagnosis. b Biol. Directed or moving away from a source of stimulation; as, a negative tropism.
4. Chem. a Gaining electrons; acid. b See CATALYSIS, 2.
5. Elec. Designating or pertaining to a kind of electricity (see ELECTRICITY, 2); electronegative.
6. Logic. a Denying a predicate of a subject, or of a part of a subject; also, asserting the falsity of something; thus, "No A is B," "Some A is not B," and "It is false that A is B," are negative propositions; — opposed to affirmative. b Denoting the absence of something, or the contradictory of something; as, "not-white" is a negative term.
7. Math., Physics, etc. a Designating a quantity to be subtracted; minus. b Reckoned or proceeding oppositely to an ordinary or arbitrary positive direction. c Falling on the side of a line or plane opposite to an arbitrary positive side.
8. Optics. a Designating, or exhibiting, rotation to the left; levorotatory. b Having, or characterized by, a smaller index of refraction for the extraordinary ray than for the ordinary ray; — said of certain doubly refracting crystals.
9. Photog. Having the lights and shades in approximately inverse order to those of the original subject.
10. Psychol. Characterized by resistance or retreat; as, a negative reaction of a child to a suggestion. Cf. POSITIVE.

☞ For some negative phrases, see the second word.

Syn. — See NEUTRAL. Ant. — Positive, actual.

neg'a-tive (nĕg'ä-tĭv), n. [Cf. F. négative.] 1. A proposition by which something is denied or forbidden; an opposite or contradictory term, conception, or sense.
2. A negative reply; specif., a refusal or withholding of assent; as: a A right of veto; veto (which see). b Obs. An adverse vote or negative decision (of a body or majority).
3. That side of a question which denies or refuses, or which is taken by an opposing or denying party; as, the debate was decided in favor of the negative.
4. A word, particle, or term that expresses negation or denial (not; no). See DOUBLE NEGATIVE.
5. = 2d IMPRESS, 2.
6. Elec. The negative plate of a voltaic or electrolytic cell.
7. Logic. A negative proposition, or a negative term.
8. Math. A negative quantity or symbol.
9. Photog. A negative image, usually on transparent material and used for printing the positive pictures.

neg'a-tive, v. t.; NEG'A-TIVED (-tĭvd); NEG'A-TIV-ING (-tĭv-ĭng). 1. To refuse assent to; specif.: a Rare. To reject the nomination of (a person to an office). b To veto.
2. To pronounce against; to refuse to entertain; specif., to reject by vote; as, the Senate negatived the bill.
3. To prove unreal or untrue; to disprove.

The omission or infrequency of such recitals does not negative the existence of miracles. Paley.

4. To contradict; deny.
5. To neutralize; counteract.

negative acceleration. Mech. Retardation. See ACCELERATION, 4.

negative allowance. Mach. See ALLOWANCE, n., 10 a. negative angle. Math. See ALGEBRAIC ANGLE.

negative apostrophe. Plant Pathol. See 1st APOSTROPHE, 2.

negative buoyancy. Aeronautics. See BUOYANCY, 4.

negative catalyst. = ANTICATALYST.

negative crystal. a In a mineral mass, a cavity of the form of a crystal. b A crystal showing negative double refraction.

negative curvature. Math. Concavo-convex curvature.

negative definite. Math. See DEFINITE QUADRATIC FORM.

negative demonstration. See DEMONSTRATION, 5.

negative direction of bending. Math. See DIRECTION OF BENDING.

negative double. Bridge. An informatory double.

negative double refraction. See DOUBLE REFRACTION.

negative easement. See EASEMENT, 4.

negative electricity. See ELECTRICITY, 2.

negative eyepiece. An eyepiece consisting of two plano-convex lenses; — called also Huygenian eyepiece (because devised by Huygens and applied by him to the telescope) or, sometimes, Campani's eyepiece (because applied by Campani to the microscope).

negative glow. Also neg'a-tive-pole' glow. Physics. The thin layer of luminosity adjacent to the cathode in a vacuum tube through which an electric discharge is passing.

negative lap. See 3d LAP, 8. negative lead. See 5th LEAD, 18 b.

negative lens. Optics. A lens which is thinnest at its center, causing light which passes through it to diverge.

negative logarithm. The logarithm of the reciprocal.

neg'a-tive-ly, adv. 1. In a negative manner, direction, or way; esp., with or by denial; in or on the negative; — opposed to positively; as, he is negatively moral.
2. Elec. With negative electricity; as, negatively charged.

negative misprision. See 1st MISPRISION, 1.

negative pedal. Geom. A curve or surface of which a given curve or surface is the pedal.

negative phase. Immunol. A phase of lowered resistance which may follow the injection of foreign protein in active immunization.

negative photophoresis. See PHOTOPHORESIS.

negative plate. Elec. The plate to which current flows from the external circuit when a battery or cell is discharging.

negative pole. Elec. The pole of a cell which has the lower potential. — neg'a-tive-pole', adj.

negative potential. Physics. An electric potential less than that of the earth considered as a conductor.

negative pregnant. Law. In pleading, a negation which may or does imply an affirmative.

negative preponderance. Gun. See PREPONDERANCE, 2.

neg'a-tiv-er (nĕg'ä-tĭv-ĕr), n. One who negatives; specif., Gram., a word or word element expressive of negation. Rare.

negative reaction or test. Med. Absence of a positive reaction; as, a negative Wassermann reaction.

negative resistance. Elec. A resistance phenomenon, as one exhibited by an electric arc or vacuum tube, in which the voltage drop across the circuit decreases as the current increases.

negative sensation. Psychol. a The hypothetical sensation arising from a stimulus lying below the threshold of consciousness. b Any sensation opposite in quality or intensity to one regarded as positive.

negative servitude. Law. See SERVITUDE, n., 8.

negative sign. = MINUS SIGN a. negative skewness. Statistics. See SKEWNESS.

negative theology. See POSITIVE THEOLOGY.

negative valence. Physical Chem. a The valence of a negatively charged ion. b The number of electrons an atom can take up; as, oxygen has a negative valence of two.

negative well. = ABSORBING WELL.

neg'a-tiv-ism (nĕg'ä-tĭv-ĭz'm), n. 1. The doctrines of one who holds skeptical or agnostic views, or of one who denies reality, esp. of the phenomenal universe.
2. Psychol. A peculiarity of behavior often observed in early childhood, and in exaggerated degree in dementia precox, consisting either in not performing acts which are commanded or suggested (passive negativism) or in doing the opposite (active negativism).
— neg'a-tiv-ist (-ĭst), n. & adj. — neg'a-tiv-is'tic (-ĭs'-tĭk), adj.

neg'a-tiv'i-ty (-tĭv'ĭ-tĭ), n. 1. Negativeness.
2. Self-denial; privation or deprivation.

Some austerity and wintry negativity. Wm. James.

ne-ga'tor (nē-gā'tŏr), n. [LL.] One who negates, or denies; a denier; specif. [cap.], one of a sect of Russian anarchists.

neg'a-to'ry (nĕg'ä-tō'rĭ; -tĕr-ĭ), adj. [From LL. negatorius, perh. through F. négatoire.] Expressing, or of the nature of, negation.

Ne-gau'nee for-ma'tion (nē-gô'nē). [From Negaunee, Mich., fr. Ojibway Nēgawaning, lit., place of the sands.] Geol. A Proterozoic iron-bearing formation in the Lake Superior region.

ne'ger (dial. nē'gĕr, nā'gĕr), n. [F. nègre, fr. Sp. negro. See NEGRO.] A negro. Now Dial.

neg'i-noth (nĕg'ĭ-nŏth; -nōth; nĕg'ē-nōth'), n. pl. [Heb. nĕgīnōth.] Bib. A term used in the heading of several psalms, and probably meaning stringed instruments or melodies.

neg-lect' (nĕg-lĕkt'), v. t.; NEG-LECT'ED; NEG-LECT'ING. [L. neglectus, past part. of negligere, neglegere, fr. neg- not + legere to pick up, gather. See NEGATION; LEGEND.] 1. To disregard or slight; specif.: a To omit to notice; to treat with little or no attention or respect; to consider or deal with as though of no consequence. b To fail to attend to with due care or attention; negligently to omit or to suffer to pass unimproved, unheeded, undone, etc.; as, to neglect business or a guest.
2. To cause to be neglected. Obs. Shak.

Syn. — NEGLECT, DISREGARD, SLIGHT. To NEGLECT is to fail to give due attention, esp. to the performance of a task or duty; to DISREGARD (so also, less frequently, to neglect) is to pay no attention, esp. to something which is felt as unimportant; to SLIGHT is intentionally and somewhat contemptuously to neglect or disregard; as, to neglect a precaution, to neglect to pay one's debts; to disregard petty annoyances; one may disregard his alleged evidence; to slight a duty. Cf. NEGLIGENCE, OVERLOOK, DESPISE.

neg-lect', n. [L. neglectus. See NEGLECT, v.] 1. Act or fact of disregarding, slighting, or neglecting (a person or thing), or state or fact of being disregarded, slighted, or neglected; also, formerly, indifference or lack of consideration; as, to treat an offer with neglect.
2. Omission of proper attention; disregard of duty, from indifference or willfulness; failure to do, use, or heed anything; negligence; as, neglect of business, of health.
3. An instance of negligence; a slight. Now Rare.

Syn. — Inattention, disregard. See NEGLIGENCE.

neg-lect', adj. Neglected; also, negligent. Obs.

neg-lect'a-ble (nĕg-lĕk'tä-b'l), adj. Negligible. Rare.

neg-lect'er (-tĕr), n. One who neglects.

neg-lect'ful (nĕg-lĕkt'fŏŏl; -f'l), adj. Characterized by, or prone to, neglect; careless; negligent; inattentive. — neg-lect'ful-ly, adv. — neg-lect'ful-ness, n.

neg-lec'tion (nĕg-lĕk'shŭn), n. [L. neglectio.] a Obs. Negligence. b Dial. Neglect.

neg-lec'tive (-tĭv), adj. Neglectful.—neg-lec'tive-ly, adv.

neg-lec'tor (nĕg-lĕk'tĕr), n. [LL.] One who neglects.

neg'li-gee' (nĕg'lĭ-zhā'; nĕg'lĭ-zhā'), ‖né'gli'gé' (nā'glē'-zhā'), n. [F. négligé, past part. of négliger to neglect, fr. L. negligere. See NEGLECT.] 1. A kind of easy robe or dressing gown formerly worn by women; hence, any easy, unceremonious attire; undress.
2. Formerly, a long necklace of beads.

---

nee'dle-like', adj. See -LIKE.

needles and pins. = PINS AND NEEDLES.

needle's eye. = EYE OF A NEEDLE.

needs'-cost', adv. Of necessity. Obs.

needs'ly, adv. Of necessity. Obs.

need'some, adj. = NEEDY. Rare.

need'y-hood, n. Neediness. Obs.

neef (nĕf). Var. of NIEVE.

nee'ger (dial. nē'gĕr). Var. of NEGER, negro. Obs. exc. Dial.

neeld. Var. of NEEDLE. Now Dial.

neel'ghau (nēl'g'ô). Var. of NILGAI.

Ne'e-mi'as (nē'ē-mī'ăs). Bib. NEEN (nēn; năn). Var. of NINE, NONE. Now Dial.

Ne-ĕn'ga-tu' (nyā'-ĕng'gä-tōō'), n. See TUPI, n., 6.

nee'pour (nē'pĕr). Scot. var. of NEIGHBOR.

ne'er (nâr; nār; 79), adv. Contr. of NEVER. Chiefly Poetic.

ne'er'-do-weel'. Scot. & N. of Eng. var. of NE'ER-DO-WELL.

neese (nēz). Var. of NEEZE.

neet (nēt). Dial. Eng. var. of NIGHT.

neet. ✝ NEAT.

nee'tup. Var. of NETOP.

neeve. Var. of NIEVE.

nee'vie-nee'vie-nick'-nack'. Var. of NIEVIE-NIEVIE-NICK-NACK. Scot.

neeze'wort', n. Hellebore. Obs.

‖ne-fas'tus (nē-făs'tŭs), adj. masc.; pl. NEFASTI (-tī). [L.] See DIES NEFASTUS.

nef'ew. Nephew. Ref. Sp.

nef'ly. Dial. var. of NEPHEW.

ne-fol'o-gy. Nephology. Ref. Sp.

nef'rite. Nephrite. Ref. Sp.

nefte, n. [From Russ. neft', or Per. nefi.] Naphtha. Obs.

ne'gar (nē'gĕr). Var. of NEGRO, NIGGER. Now Rare.

ne-gat'ed-ness (nē-gāt'ĕd-nĕs; -ĭd-; -nĭs; 119), n. See -NESS.

ne-ga'tion-proof', adj. See -PROOF.

neg'a-tive-ness, n. See -NESS.

Ne-gi'nah (nē-gē'nä). Bib.

neg-lect'ed-look'ing, adj. See -LOOKING.

neg-lect'ed-ly, adv. of NEGLECTED.

neg-lect'ed-ness, n. See -NESS.

neg-lect'ing-ly, adv. of neglecting, pres. part.; — formerly used for negligently.

neg-lect'proof', adj. See -PROOF.

N

neg'li·gence (nĕg'lĭ·jĕns), n. [OF. or L.; OF. negligence, fr. L. negligentia.] 1. Quality or state of being negligent; lack of due diligence or care; omission of duty; neglect.
2. Law. Failure to exercise the care that the circumstances justly demand; omission of duty in doing or forbearing. When such failure results in injury to another the negligent person is liable in damages, and may be criminally liable. (Cf. TORT, CRIME.) Negligence is substantially equivalent to culpa (which see) of the Roman and Civil law. It is often divided into three degrees, slight, ordinary, and gross, or crass, negligence, corresponding respectively to (1) absence of such care as would be exercised by an extraordinarily prudent person, (2) by a person of ordinary prudence, and (3) by a person who is wantonly neglectful of the consequences of his acts, or shows little or no regard for their effect upon the rights of others. The degrees correspond to the similar division of culpa and of diligence; but they have no exact legal definition or value. The definition generally approved by both English and American courts is:

Negligence is the omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided upon those considerations which ordinarily regulate the conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. 11 Exchcq. 781.

3. An act or instance of negligence or carelessness.
4. Indifference as to appearance, manner, or style; disregard of convention; as, negligence in dress.
Syn. — NEGLIGENCE, NEGLECT, INATTENTION, INADVERTENCE, REMISSNESS, OVERSIGHT. Negligence and neglect are sometimes used with little distinction; but NEGLIGENCE commonly emphasizes the habit, NEGLECT, the fact, of leaving things undone or unattended to; as, "No one has done more through negligence to corrupt the language" (Byron); "a princely negligence of little things" (Landor); "a plague that Cupid will impose for my neglect of his almighty dreadful little might" (Shak.). INATTENTION is (often culpable) failure to attend; INADVERTENCE is esp. unintentional or involuntary failure to heed or to pay attention; as, "this universal indolence and inattention among us to things that concern the public" (Tatler); "It is . . . a practice to which I am extremely averse, and into which I could fall only by inadvertence" (Macaulay). REMISSNESS implies a lax and careless attitude toward duty or performance; OVERSIGHT, as here compared (cf. OVERSIGHT), suggests esp. omission through inadvertence; as, "some remissness or tardiness in good offices, or some neglects and failures in services" (Waterland); "whose gross defaults thy dainty pen may file, and unadvised oversights amend" (Spenser). Cf. NEGLECT, OVERLOOK, CARELESS, SLOVENLY.
Ant. — Care, carefulness, attention, prudence, heed. neg'li·gen·cy (nĕg'lĭ·jĕn·sĭ), n. Negligence.
neg'li·gent (-jĕnt), adj. [OF. or L.; OF. negligent, fr. L. negligens, pres. part. of negligere. See NEGLECT.] 1. Guilty of, or given to, neglect or disregard; neglectful; characterized by negligence; heedless; culpably careless; as, in negligent order; negligent of traffic rules.
2. Caused by, or due to, negligence. Rare.
neg'li·gent, n. A negligent person. neg'li·gi·ble (nĕg'lĭ·jĭ·b'l), adj. [Cf. F. négligible, négligeable.] That may be neglected or disregarded. — neg'li·gi·bil'i·ty (-bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), neg'li·gi·ble·ness, n. — -gi·bly, adv.
ne·go'ti·a·bil'i·ty (nē·gō'shĭ·ā·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality of being negotiable.
ne·go'ti·a·ble (nē·gō'shĭ·ā·b'l), adj. [Cf. F. négociable. See NEGOTIATE.] 1. Capable of being negotiated; assignable or transferable in the ordinary course of business; specif., transferable by delivery, with or without endorsement as the case may be, so that the title passes to the transferee, who, if a bona fide holder without notice, is not prejudiced in his rights by any defect or flaw in the title of prior parties or by any personal defenses available to prior parties among themselves; as, negotiable instruments or paper. Bills of exchange, promissory notes, and checks that are payable to bearer or order are negotiable instruments by the law merchant, but other instruments used as evidences of debt have in some jurisdictions become negotiable, as bonds, some forms of stock, etc. Negotiable paper is sometimes used in a restricted sense as including only instruments negotiable by the law merchant. In some jurisdictions statutes make certain instruments negotiable that are not negotiable at common law.
2. Possible to be negotiated (in sense 4). Colloq.
ne·go'ti·ant (-shĭ·ănt), n. [L. negotians, prop. pres. part. of negotiari; cf. F. négociant.] A negotiator.
ne·go'ti·ate (nē·gō'shĭ·āt), v.; -AT'ED (-āt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -AT'ING (-āt'ĭng). [L. negotiatus, past part. of negotiari, fr. negotium business, fr. neg- not + otium leisure. See NEGATION; OTIOSE.] Intransitive: 1. To transact business. Obs.
2. To hold intercourse or treat with a view to coming to terms upon some matter, as a purchase or sale, a treaty, etc.; to conduct communications or conferences as a basis of agreement; as, to negotiate for the purchase of a house.
—, Transitive: 1. To deal with, direct, manage, or conduct, as a client's financial affairs. Now Rare.
2. To transfer for a valuable consideration under rules of commercial law; to sell; pass; — said chiefly of commercial paper, as notes or bills of exchange, or of securities.

The notes were not negotiated to them. Kent.

3. To carry on negotiations concerning; to procure, induce, or arrange for, by negotiation; as, to negotiate peace.
4. To surmount or traverse; accomplish; to deal with as desired; — said of any obstacle or test of skill, strength, etc.; as, the mare negotiated the fence easily. Colloq.
ne·go'ti·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n. [L. negotiatio.] 1. A business transaction; also, mercantile business; trading. Obs.
2. Act or process of negotiating; a treating with another with a view to coming to terms, as for a sale or purchase or in international affairs; as, negotiations for a treaty.
ne·go'ti·a'tor (nē·gō'shĭ·ā'tĕr), n. [L.] 1. A trader; merchant. Obs.
2. One who negotiates; one who treats with others, as with a view to purchase or sale or an international agreement.
ne·go'ti·a·to'ry (-ā·tō'rĭ), adj. Pert. to negotiation. Rare.
ne·go'ti·a·tress (-shĭ·ā·trĕs; -trĭs; 119), ne·go'ti·a·trix (-shĭ·ā'trĭks; nē·gō'shĭ·ā·trĭks), n. [LL. negotiatrix.] A female negotiator.
Ne'gress (nē'grĕs; -grĭs; 119), n. [F. négresse.] A female Negro; — regarded by Negroes as derogatory.
Ne'gri bod'y (nā'grē), [After A. Negri (1876–1912), It. physician.] Med. An inclusion body found in the nerve cells in rabies.
ne·gril'lo (nē·grĭl'ō), n.; pl. -LOS (-ōz). [Sp., dim. of negro black.] 1. A little black child. Rare.
2. [cap.] A Pygmy or Bushman. See NEGRITO, 1. ne'grine (nē'grĭn; -grīn), adj. Of or like black people.
Ne·grit'ic (nē·grĭt'ĭk), adj. 1. Of or pertaining to Negroes; composed of Negroes.
2. Of or pertaining to the Negritos, or resembling or derived from them, or designating or belonging to the common stock from which they, with the Papuans and Melanesians, are wholly or in part sprung.
Ne·gri'to (nē·grē'tō), n.; pl. -TOS or -TOES (-tōz). [Sp., dim. of negro black.] 1. A member of any of a number of dwarfish Negroid peoples, found especially in central and southern Africa and in Oceania. The Negritos are less uniformly black than the Negroes, the upper lip is longer and less everted, hairiness is more pronounced, and brachycephaly is usual. In stature they range from 3 feet, 4 inches, to about 5 feet. Mentally they are probably the lowest of mankind. They include, besides the Aëtas of the Philippines, the Andamanese, Sakais, etc., and the Pygmies and Bushmen of Africa, who are sometimes distinguished as Negrillos.
2. [not cap.] = GUMBO LIMBO b.
Ne·grit'oid (nē·grĭt'oid), adj. [Negrito + -oid.] Resembling the type or traits of the Negritos.
Ne'gro (nē'grō), n.; pl. NEGROES (-grōz). [Sp. negro, fr. negro black, fr. L. niger; perh. akin to Gr. anigros unclean, base. Cf. DARNEL, NIELLO, NIGGER.] 1. A person belonging to the black race, esp. to the typical African branch of that race (formerly called the Ethiopian), the type being characterized by tall stature and often powerful physique, extreme dolichocephaly, convex forehead, prognathous jaws with large teeth, flat broad nose, everted lips, woolly hair, and dark-brown to sooty-black complexion; specif.: a A person of the typical race inhabiting the Sudan, or that part of Africa between the Congo and the Sahara, also inhabited by Hamites, Arabs, and Pygmies. See NIGRITIAN. b A person of any of the black or Negroid races of Africa, including, besides the Negroes proper, Bantus, Pygmies, Hottentots, and Bushmen. Cf. NEGROID, NEGRITO. c A member of the aboriginal race of Papua, or of a similar Oceanian tribe.
2. A black man; esp., a person having more or less Negro blood. Cf. BLACK, n., 6.
3. Law. A person of African descent. In the absence of statutory definition it has been held not to include a mulatto (18 Ala. 720), but statutes define it differently, some even including one having any measurable trace of Negro blood.
4. [not cap.] A brown, red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance; — called also iron, iron brown. Cf. COLOR.
ne'gro, adj. Of, pert. to, or characteristic of, dark-skinned people or specif. [cap.] Negroes.
negro bug. Any of numerous minute convex black bugs of the family Thyreocoridae, esp. Corimelaena pulicaria, common on the blackberry and raspberry. negro coffee. See CASSIA, 1. negro corn. A variety of Sorghum vulgare. W. Ind.
negro fly. The carrot rust fly.
Ne'gro·fy (nē'grō·fī), v. t. [Negro + -fy.] To make like a Negro. ne'gro·head' (-hĕd'), n. A dark lump or mass of tobacco or inferior rubber. Cf. NIGGERHEAD, 5. negrohead beech. An Australian timber tree (Nothofagus moorei) of little value because of its tendency to be hollow-trunked.
Ne'groid (nē'groid), adj. [Negro + -oid.] Characteristic of, or resembling, the Negro or Negroes; also, of or pertaining to those who resemble the Negro.
Ne'groid, n. [Negro + -oid.] A member of a race perceptibly sharing Negro blood or displaying Negro traits; as: a A person of the Ethiopian race. See ETHIOPIAN, adj., 4. b A member of any of the Bantu tribes of Africa. See BANTU.
Ne'gro·ism (nē'grō·ĭz'm), n. [Negro + -ism.] 1. Partiality to, or advocacy of, the cause of Negroes.
2. A Negro peculiarity or idiom, esp. in the use of English.
Ne'gro·ize (-īz), v. t. [Negro + -ize.] To make like a Negro or Negroes. — Ne'gro·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n.
negro lethargy. = SLEEPING SICKNESS, 1. negro minstrel. = MINSTREL, n., 3. negro monkey. a The moor monkey (Macaca maura). b A black langur (Semnopithecus maurus). c A black Brazilian tamarin (Leontocebus ursulus).
Ne'gro·phile (nē'grō·fīl; -fĭl), n. Also Ne'gro·phil (-fĭl). [Negro + -phile, -phil.] One friendly to the Negro. — Ne·groph'i·lism (nē·grŏf'ĭ·lĭz'm), n. — Ne·groph'i·list, n.
Ne'gro·phobe (nē'grō·fōb), n. & adj. (One) having Negrophobia.
Ne'gro·pho'bi·a (-fō'bĭ·ȧ), n. [Negro + -phobia.] Dread of, or strong aversion to, the Negro. — Ne'gro·pho'bi·ac (-ăk), adj. — Ne·groph'o·bist (nē·grŏf'ō·bĭst), n.
Ne·grot'ic (nē·grŏt'ĭk), adj. Of or pert. to Negroes. Rare.
negro vine. A herbaceous vine (Vincetoxicum hirsutum) with hairy foliage and dark-purple flowers.
Ne·gun'do (nē·gŭn'dō), n. [NL., fr. Malayalam negundo = Vitex negundo; transferred to Acer negundo by Mönch.] Bot. a Syn. of ACER (in part). b [not cap.] The box elder Acer negundo.
Ne'gus (nē'gŭs), n. [Amharic (fr. Eth.) nĕgūš king.] The title of the sovereign of Abyssinia. ne'gus (nē'gŭs), n. [After Col. Francis Negus (d. 1732), its first maker.] A beverage of wine, hot water, sugar, nutmeg, and lemon juice.
Ne·he·mi'ah (nē·hē·mī'ȧ; nē'ē-), n. [Heb. Nĕḥemyāh.] 1. Literally, comfort of Jehovah; — masc. proper name. L. Nehemias.
2. a A famous Jewish leader, empowered by Artaxerxes to rebuild Jerusalem. b The Book of Nehemiah, following Ezra in the Bible canon. See OLD TESTAMENT. ne'hi·loth (nē'hĭ·lŏth; -lōth), n. pl. [Heb. nĕḥīlōth.] Bib. Probably, wind instruments, as flutes. Cf. Ps. v.
Ne·hush'tan (nē·hŭsh'tăn), n. [Heb. nĕḥushtān.] A brazen serpent. Num. xxi. 4–9; 2 Kings xviii. 4. neif (nēf), n. Also, fem., neife. [OF. neïf, naïf, native, fr. L. nativus born, imparted by birth. See NATIVE.] Feud. Law. One born a serf; a native. Hist.
neif (nēf). Var. of NIEVE, fist.
neigh (nā), v. i.; NEIGHED (nād); NEIGH'ING. [ME. neien, AS. hnǣgan; akin to MHG. nëgen, Icel. hneggja, ON. gneggja, Sw. gnägga.] To utter the loud and prolonged cry of the horse. — v. t. To utter with a neigh or similar sound.
neigh (nā), n. The, or a, sound of neighing. neigh (nā; nē). Var. of HIGH. Now Dial.
neigh'bor, neigh'bour (nā'bĕr), n. [ME. neighebour, fr. AS. nēahgebūr, lit., nigh-dweller; akin to D. nabuur, G. nachbar, OHG. nāhgibūr. See NIGH; BOOR.] 1. A person who lives near another; one whose abode is (relatively) not far off; as, neighbors of the same village.
2. A person or thing which is near another.

And every one looked in his neighbor's face. Shelley.

3. One entitled as a fellow being to receive, and expected to render, kindness. Cf. Luke x. 27, 36, 37.
4. One on friendly terms; — often used in familiar address
5. One of a pair; a fellow; mate. Chiefly Scot.
neigh'bor, neigh'bour, adj. Near to another; adjoining, adjacent; neighboring. "The neighbor cities." Jer. l. 40 neigh'bor, neigh'bour, v.; -BORED or -BOURED (-bĕrd), -BOR·ING or -BOUR·ING. Transitive: 1. To adjoin; to border on; to be near to or a neighbor to; as, hills that neighbor the shore.
2. To approach. G. Meredith.
3. To bring near; hence, to draw into close association.
—, Intransitive: 1. To dwell or be situated in the vicinity. "A copse that neighbors by." Shak
2. To be or associate on neighborly or friendly terms.
neigh'bored, neigh'boured (nā'bĕrd), adj. Having neighbors or surroundings of a specified kind; also, being or living as a neighbor to (another person).
neigh'bor·er, neigh'bour·er (nā'bĕr·ĕr), n. One who neighbors; a neighbor.
neigh'bor·ess, neigh'bour·ess (-ĕs; -ĭs; 119), n. A female neighbor.
neigh'bor·hood, neigh'bour·hood (nā'bĕr·hŏŏd), n. 1. Neighborly disposition or relations, esp. of kindness and good will; neighborliness. Now Rare.
2. Quality or condition of being neighbors; proximity; as, palaces and slums in distressing neighborhood.
3. Vicinity; a place or region near; — usually with of.
4. The people living near one, or near one another; a community; as, the fire alarmed the neighborhood.
5. A district or section, esp. with reference to the character of its inhabitants; as, a squalid neighborhood.
6. Math. The assemblage of all points, z, whose distances from a given point, a, are not greater than a given h.
Syn. — NEIGHBORHOOD, VICINITY. Neighborhood (Saxon) and vicinity (Latin) are often interchangeable. But NEIGHBORHOOD commonly implies closer proximity than VICINITY; as, "We, wanting to buy food, came from our ship into the neighborhood of your cave" (Shelley); "those birds which are looked upon as signs of the vicinity of land" (Cook). Cf. PROXIMITY, ADJACENT, NEAR.
— in the neighborhood of. About; approximately; as, it is in the neighborhood of 100,000. Colloq.
neighborhood house. = SETTLEMENT, 17.
neigh'bor·ing, neigh'bour·ing, adj. 1. Living or being near; adjacent; as, the neighboring nations or countries.
2. Chem. Vicinal.
neigh'bor·ly, neigh'bour·ly, adj. Appropriate to the relation of neighbors; having frequent or familiar intercourse; friendly. — -li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.
neigh'bor·ly, -bour·ly, adv. In a neighborly manner.
neigh'bor·stain'ed (nā'bĕr·stān'ĕd), adj. Stained with the blood of neighbors. Shak.
neigh'er (nā'ĕr), n. One that neighs; a horse. neigh'er (nĭk'ĕr), n. & v. i. [Imitative. Cf. NEIGH.] = 4th NICKER. Scot.
Neis·se'ri·a (nī·sē'rĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Albert L. S. Neisser (1855–1916), Ger. physician.] Bacteriol. A genus of strictly parasitic Gram-negative bacteria of the family Coccaceae, growing in pairs and occasionally tetrads, and thriving best at 98.6° F. in the animal body of serum media. N. (syns. Diplococcus, Micrococcus) gonorrhoeae is the gonococcus, causing gonorrhea, and N. intracellularis (syns. Streptococcus intracellularis meningitidis, Micrococcus intracellularis) is the meningococcus, causing epidemic cerebrospinal meningitis. The genus typifies a tribe, Neis'ser·i'e·ae (nī'sĕr·ĭ'ē·ē). nei'ther (nē'thĕr; nī'thĕr; 277: see note under EITHER), adj. [ME. neither, nother, nouther, fr. AS. nāwther, nāhwæther, nōhwæther, nōwther, fr. nā, nō, not + hwæther whether. The word has followed the form of either. See NO; WHETHER. Cf. NEUTER, NOR.] Not either; as, neither one of us.

Where neither party is nor true nor kind. Shak.

— pron. Not the one or the other; sometimes, not any one of more than two; as, neither is a man of substance; — sometimes construed as plural, not any.

Neither of them were in. Galsworthy.
Neither's friends have cause to be sorry. Ben Jonson.
Neither of these are the causes of it. Ruskin.

nei'ther, conj. 1. Not either; — usually introducing the first of two or more co-ordinate words or clauses joined by nor or, formerly, neither. Some authorities class neither so used as an adverb.

When she put it on, she made me vow
That I should neither sell, nor give, nor lose it. Shak.

2. Nor yet; also not.

Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it. Gen. iii. 3.

nei'ther, adv. Any more so; any more truly or certainly; — used (instead of either) at the end of a clause to enforce a foregoing negative (nor, not, no). Now Chiefly Dial.

He is very tall, but not too tall neither. Addison.

neither party. Law. In some courts, an entry on the docket of the words "neither party [will proceed]," signifying that an action pending is discontinued without costs.
Nejd (nĕzhd; nād), adj. Also Nej'di (nĕzh'dē; nā'dē). Of or pertaining to the kingdom of Nejd in Arabia.
Nej'di (nĕzh'dē; nā'dē), n.; pl. NEJDIS (-dēz). A native or inhabitant of the kingdom of Nejd.
Nekh'e·bet (nĕk'ĕ·bĕt), Ne·khebt' (nē·kĕbt'), n. [Egypt.] Tutelary goddess of Upper Egypt, represented as a vulture. nek'ton (nĕk'tŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nēkton, neut. of nēktos swimming.] Zool. The actively swimming pelagic organisms. — nek·ton'ic (nĕk·tŏn'ĭk), adj.
N electron. Physics. In certain atoms, one of the thirty-two electrons whose orbits are outside of and nearest to those of the M electrons.

---

negligent escape. See 3d ESCAPE, 9. neg'li·gent·ly, adv. of NEGLIGENT. neg'li·gesse, n. Negligence. Obs.
ne·goce', n. [F. négoce.] Business; commercial intercourse. Obs.
ne·go'tious (nē·gō'shŭs), adj. [L. negotiosus.] Involving, or involved in, business. Obs.
Ne·gri'tian (nē·grĭsh'ăn), n. & adj. = NIGRITIAN.
Ne·grit'ize (nē·grĭt'īz), v. t. See -IZE. ne'gro·dom (nē'grō·dŭm), n. See -DOM. ne'gro·hood, n. See -HOOD.
Ne·gro'idal (nē·groi'dăl; -d'l), adj. = NEGROID, adj. ne'gro·ish, adj. See -ISH. ne'gro·like', adj. See -LIKE.
Ne·gro·loid (nē'grō·loid), adj. = NEGROID, adj. [NIANTIC.
Ne·han'tic (nē·hăn'tĭk). Var. of Ne·hel'a·mite (nē·hĕl'ȧ·mīt; nē'·hĕ·lē'mīt). Bib.
Ne'hi·el (nē'hĭ·ĕl). D. Bib.
Ne'hum (nē'hŭm). Bib.
Ne·hush'ta (nē·hŭsh'tȧ). Bib.
ne'i (nā'ē), n. Music. = NAY, n. neid (nēd). Scot. var. of NEED.
Ne·i'el (nē·ĭ'ĕl). Bib. neigh'bor·less, neigh'bour·less, adj. See -LESS. neigh'bor·like', neigh'bour·like', adj. & adv. = NEIGHBORLY, adj. & adv. Rare.
neigh'bor·ship, neigh'bour·ship. n. See -SHIP. neighd. Neighed. Ref. Sp.
Neil (nēl). Var. of NEAL.
Neil'li·a (nēl'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Patrick Neill, Scot. horticulturist.] Syn. of PHYSOCARPUS. nei'per (nē'pĕr). Scot. var. of NEIGHBOR. neir (nēr). Scot. var. of NEAR.
neir. Var. of NEER, a kidney. neist (nēst). Var. of NEXT. Scot.
& N. of Eng.
neive. Var. of NIEVE, fist.
Ne'keb (nē'kĕb). Bib.
Nek·kar' (nĕk·kär'), n. [Ar. naqqār digger.] See STAR, Table.
Nek'kar. Var. of NAKIR. See MUNKAR.
Ne·ko'da (nē·kō'dȧ). Bib.
ne·krop'o·lis. Var. of NECROPOLIS.
Nell (nĕl), n. Dim. of ELLEN, HELEN, ELEANOR.

Nel'ly (nĕl'ĭ), n. 1. Also Nel'lie. Dim. of ELLEN, HELEN, or ELEANOR; — fem. proper name.
2. [not cap.] a The giant fulmar. b The sooty albatross. nel'son (nĕl'sŭn; -s'n), n. A full nelson. See HALF NELSON, Illust.
nel'son-ite (-ĭt), n. [From Nelson co., Va.] Petrog. An abnormal differentiation rock occurring in dikes and consisting chiefly of ilmenite and apatite.
Ne·lum'bo (nē-lŭm'bō), n. [NL., fr. Singhalese nelumbu.] Bot. a A small genus of large water lilies constituting the family Ne·lum'bo·na'ce·ae (-nā'-sē-ē). They have flowers with four or five sepals, numerous petals, and the distinct carpels embedded in a fleshy receptacle. N. nucifera is the Indian lotus or sacred bean; N. lutea, the water chinquapin. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus. — ne·lum'bi·an (-lŭm'bĭ-ăn), adj.

Flower of Nelumbo (N. lutea). (1/6) nem'a (nĕm'ȧ), n. [Gr. nēma thread.] 1. Paleontol. The tubular filament which connects the disk of attachment of a graptolite with the primary theca.

2. Zool. A nematode worm; roundworm; eelworm.
-nema. Also nema-. [NL.] Combining forms from Greek nēma, meaning a thread, used chiefly in generic names in botany and zoology, as in Hyalo*nema*, Scyto*nema*. nem'a·line (nĕm'ȧ-lĭn), adj. [Gr. nēma thread. See NEEDLE.] Mineral. Having the form of threads; fibrous.
Ne·ma'li·on (nē-mȧ'lĭ-ŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nēma thread + leōn lion.] Bot. A small genus of North Atlantic cylindrical branching red algae (family Helminthocladiaceae) known as threadweeds.
Ne·ma'li·o·na'ceS (-lĭ-ō-nā'lēz), n. pl. [NL. See NEMALION.] Bot. An order of red algae (Rhodophyceae) in which the carpospores develop from the end cells of short filaments sprouting from the carpogonial cell.
nem'a·lite (nĕm'ȧ-līt), n. [nema- + -lite.] Mineral. A fibrous variety of brucite.
Nem'a·sto·ma'ce·ae (-stō-mā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL., fr. nema- + stom- + -aceae.] Bot. A family of red algae (order Cryptonemiales) with cylindrical, flat, or leaflike thalli and sunken cystocarps. It includes Furcellaria.
nem'a·the'ci·um (-thē'shĭ-ŭm; -sĭ-ŭm), n.; pl. -CIA (-ȧ). [NL., fr. nema- + -thecium.] Also nem'a·thece (nĕm'ȧ-thēs). Bot. In certain red algae, a wartlike prominence on the thallus, containing tetraspores, antheridia, or cystocarps. — nem'a·the'ci·al (-ăl), adj.
Nem'a·thel·min'thes (-thĕl·mĭn'thēz), n. pl. [NL. See NEMATO-; HELMINTHES.] Zool. A phylum of worms, including the roundworms, having a cylindrical unsegmented body covered by an unciliated ectoderm which secretes an external cuticle. — nem'a·thel'minth (-thĕl'mĭnth), n.
nem'a·to- (nĕm'ȧ-tō-), nemat-. [See NEEDLE.] Bot. & Zool. A combining form from Greek nēma, nēmatos, meaning a thread, as in *Nemato*spora; — used also for nematode, as in *nemato*cide. nem'a·to·blast' (-blăst'), n. [nemato- + -blast.] Biol. A spermatocyte or spermatoblast.
nem'a·to·blas'tic (-blăs'tĭk), adj. [nemato- + -blastic.] Petrog. Of metamorphic rock, having a texture corresponding to the fibrous texture in igneous rock.
Nem'a·toc'er·a (-tŏs'ĕr·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. nemato- + -cera.] Zool. A suborder of flies including the mosquitoes, fungus gnats, and crane flies. Cf. BRACHYCERA. — nem'a·toc'er·an (-ăn), adj. & n. — nem'a·toc'er·ous (-ŭs), adj.
nem'a·to·cide' (nĕm'ȧ-tō-sīd'), n. [nemato- + -cide.] Any chemical substance used to destroy nematodes.
nem'a·to·cyst' (-sĭst'), n. [nemato- + -cyst.] Zool. a One of the minute stinging organs of hydrozoans, scyphozoans, and actinozoans. In some of the larger jellyfishes and siphonophores they can penetrate the human skin and inflict painful stings. b One of the stinging organs of similar structure in various protozoans, mollusks, worms, etc. Cf. TRICHOCYST. — nem'a·to·cys'tic (-sĭs'tĭk), adj.
Nem'a·to'da (-tō'dȧ), n. pl. [NL. See NEMATOIDEA.] Zool. A class of worms of the phylum Nemathelminthes. In typical nematodes the coelom is not lined with epithelium; there are dorsal and ventral nerve cords and lateral excretory canals. The group includes the genus Ascaris, the pinworm, trichina, and Guinea worm.
nem'a·tode (nĕm'ȧ-tōd), adj. Pertaining to the Nematoda. — n. One of the Nematoda; a roundworm; a nema. nem'a·to·di'a·sis (nĕm'ȧ-tō-dī'ȧ-sĭs), n. [NL. See -IASIS.] Med. Infestation with nematodes or roundworms. nem'a·to·gene' (nĕm'ȧ-tō-jēn'), nem'a·to·gen' (-jĕn'), n. [nemato- + -gene, -gen.] Zool. One of the dimorphic forms, of the species of Dicyemida, which produces vermiform embryos; — opposed to rhombogene. — nem'a·to·gen'ic (-jĕn'ĭk), adj. — nem'a·tog'e·nous (-tŏj'ē-nŭs), adj.
Nem'a·tog'na·thi (nĕm'ȧ-tŏg'nȧ-thī), n. pl. [NL. See NEMATO-; GNATHIC.] Zool. An order of scaleless fishes of the division Ostariophysi comprising the catfishes (families Siluridae, Amejuridae, Ariidae, Loricariidae, etc.). Syn. Siluroidei. See SILURIDAE. — nem'a·tog·nath' (nĕm'ȧ-tŏg·nāth'), adj. & n. — nem'a·tog'na·thous (-tŏg'nȧ-thŭs), adj.
nem'a·to·gone' (nĕm'ȧ-tō-gōn'), n. [nemato- + Gr. gonē offspring.] Bot. One of the thinwalled propagative cells in the gemmae of certain mosses. — nem'a·tog'o·nous (-tŏg'-ō-nŭs), adj.
Nem'a·toi'de·a (-toi'dē-ȧ) n. pl. [NL., fr. nemato- + -oid.] Zool. a Syn. of NEMATODA. b An order of Nematoda containing the typical nematodes, as distinguished from the Gordioidea. — nem'a·toid (nĕm'ȧ-toid), adj. & n.

One of the Nematoidea (Trichocephalus dispar). Much enlarged.

nem'a·toi'de·an (-toi'dē-ăn), adj. & n. Zool. Nematoid.
nem'a·toi'o·gy (nĕm'ȧ-tŏi'ō-jĭ), n. The department of zoology that treats of nematodes. — nem'a·toi'o·gist (-jĭst), n.
Nem'a·to·mor'pha (-tō-mōr'fȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. nemato- + Gr. morphē form.] Zool. The Gordioidea regarded as a group separate from the Nematoda.
nem'a·toph'y·ton (nĕm'ȧ-tŏf'ĭ-tŏn), n. [NL. fr. nemato- + Gr. phyton plant.] Paleontol. A large, branching, fossil plant, apparently a thallophyte, found in Devonian rocks; — originally called prototaxites.
Nem'a·tos'po·ra (nĕm'ȧ-tŏs'pō-rȧ), n. [NL., fr. nemato- + -spora.] Bot. A genus of yeasts (family Saccharomycetaceae) forming ascospores with threadlike, nonvibratile extensions. Forms have been connected with inspissosis of oranges, a boll rot of cotton, and an anthracnose of Lima beans.
nem'a·to·zo'oid (nĕm'ȧ-tō-zō'oid), n. [nemato- + -zooid.] Zool. A defensive zooid in a hydroid or siphonophore.
Ne·me'an (nē-mē'ăn; nē'mē-ăn), adj. [L. Nemeus, Nemeaeus, fr. Gr. Nemeos, Nemeios, Nemeaios, fr. Nemea.] Of or pertaining to Nemea, a valley in Argolis.
Nemean games. A festival in honor of Zeus, inaugurated in 573 B.C. and celebrated once in two years at his temple at Nemea in the Argolid. These athletic games constituted one of the four chief Panhellenic festivals, the others being the Olympic, the Pythian, and the Isthmian.
Nemean lion, the. The fierce lion killed by Hercules at Nemea. See HERCULES. ne·mer'te·an (nē-mŭr'tē-ăn), ne·mer'ti·an (-tĭ-ăn), adj. Of or pert. to the Nemertinea. — n. One of the Nemertinea.
ne·mer'tine (-tĭn; -tīn; 156), adj. Of or pert. to the Nemertina (syn. of Nemertinea). — n. One of the Nemertinea.
Nem'er·tin'e·a (nĕm'ĕr-tĭn'ē-ȧ), n. pl. Also Nem'er·ti'na (nĕm'ĕr-tī'nȧ), Nem'er·ti'ni (-nī). [NL., fr. Gr. Nēmertēs, name of a Nereid, fr. nēmertēs unerring.] Zool. A class of worms generally included in, or considered related to, the Platyhelminthes. They range in length from a fraction of an inch to many yards, and are often vividly colored. Most of them are marine and burrow in mud or sand along the seacoasts. A few live on land or in fresh water. They are carnivorous, feeding on small invertebrates or dead fragments. — nem'er·tin'e·an (-tĭn'ē-ăn), adj. & n.

One of the Nemertinea (Tetrastemma elegans).

ne·mer'toid (nē-mŭr'toid), adj. & n. [Nemertea + -oid.] Of or pertaining to the Nemertinea; nemerteau.
Ne·me'si·a (nē-mē'shĭ-ȧ; -sĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. (Dioscorides) nemesis snapdragon.] Bot. a A large genus of African herbs or subshrubs of the figwort family (Scrophulariaceae), having variously colored, irregular, slightly spurred, mostly racemose flowers. b [not cap.] A plant or flower of this genus.
ne·mes'ic (-mĕs'ĭk), adj. Of the character of Nemesis; avenging.
Nem'e·sis (nĕm'ē-sĭs), n. [Gr., prop., imputation, distribution, fr. nemein to deal out, distribute. See NIMBLE.] 1. Gr. Relig. An ancient goddess whose chief significance in Greek literature is as a personification of retributive justice. Nemesis of Rhamnus, more concrete, was possibly a local form of Artemis (which see).
2. [often not cap.; pl. -ESES (-sēz).] a Someone or something that inflicts retribution; also, one that avenges relentlessly, destroys inevitably, or the like. b Act or effect of retributive justice; unavoidable penalty; hence, inevitable result.
Many animals . . . illustrate natural death as the nemesis of starting new lives. J. Arthur Thomson.
Ne·mich'thys (nē-mĭk'thĭs), n. [NL., fr. nema- + -ichthys.] Zool. A genus of apodal fishes, the snipe eels. It is the type of a family, Nem'ich·thy'i·dae (nĕm'ĭk·thĭ'ĭ-dē). nemo-. A combining form from Greek nemos, a glade.
nemo-. = NEMATO-, as in *Nemo*cera.
Ne'mo·pan'thus (nē'mō-păn'thŭs), n. [NL., fr. 2d nemo- + Gr. pous foot + -anthus.] Bot. A genus of shrubs of the holly family, having as its only known species N. mucronata, the mountain holly.
Ne·moph'i·la (nē-mŏf'ĭ-lȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nemos wooded pasture + -phila.] Bot. a A genus of ornamental, chiefly Californian, annual herbs, family Hydrophyllaceae. N. menziesii is the baby blue-eyes. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.
ne·moph'i·ly (-lĭ), n. [Gr. nemos wooded pasture, glade + philos loving.] Love of the woods or forest. — ne·moph'i·list (-lĭst), n. — ne·moph'i·lous (-lŭs), adj.
nem'o·ral (nĕm'ō-răl), adj. [L. nemoralis, fr. nemus, nemoris, a wood or grove.] Of, pert. to, or inhabiting, a wood or grove.
Nem'o·ren'sian (nĕm'ō-rĕn'shăn), adj. [L. nemorensis pert. to a grove.] Of or pertaining to the sacred grove (nemus) of Diana. See DIANA, 2.
ne·mor'i·cole (nē-mŏr'ĭ-kōl), nem'o·ric'o·line (nĕm'ō-rĭk'ō-lĭn; -līn), nem'o·ric'o·lous (-lŭs), adj. [L. nemus, nemoris, grove + colere to inhabit.] Inhabiting groves.
Ne'mus Di·a'nae (nē'mŭs dī-ā'nē). [L.] See DIANA, 2.
Nen'ga·hi'ba (nyĕng'ä-ē'bä), n. See TUPINAMBA. nen'ta (nĕn'tä), n. Veter. A chronic nervous disease of grazing animals in South Africa, similar to loco disease.
nen'u·phar (nĕn'ū-fär), n. [ML., fr. Ar. naynūfar, naylūfar, through Per. fr. Skr. nīlotpala blue lotus, fr. nīla blue + utpala lotus. See LILAC.] The European white water lily, or the yellow water lily.
ne'o- (nē'ō-), ne-. A combining form, Greek neo-, ne-, from neos, meaning: 1. New, recent, as in *neo*logism, *neo*phyte. Specif.: a A new and different period or form of a faith, school, language, etc., as in Neo-Catholic, Neo-Darwinism, Neo-Latin, *Neo*platonism. b Neozoic; — opposed to paleo-, as in *Neo*crinoidea, *neo*lithic, *neo*volcanic.
2. Biogeog. The new world, as in *Neo*arctic, *Neo*tropical.
3. Biol. a An immature form, as in *neo*tetus. b A more recently developed part, as in *neo*morph. c An abnormal new formation, as in *neo*plasm.
4. Bot. & Zool. Recent; extant; — opposed to paleo-, as in ne'o·bot'a·nist, ne'o·bot'a·ny, ne'on·tol'o·gy.
5. Chem. Designating: a That variety of isomeric hydrocarbons which, when the name was applied, had been recently classified, and in which at least one carbon atom is connected directly with four other carbon atoms; — contrasted with normal and iso-, as in *neo*paraffin. b A new compound isomeric with the one to the name of which it is prefixed, as in *neo*menthol.
6. Geol. Denoting the latest subdivision of a period, as in *Neo*paleozoic; — distinguished from meso- and eo-.
ne'o (nē'ō), n. [From NEO-.] One that represents what is newest; esp., an advocate of the novel as distinguished from the conventional or traditional.
ne'o·ars'phen·a·mine' (nē'ō-ärs'fĕn·ȧ-mēn'; -ăm'ĭn), n. Also -am'in. [neo- + arsphenamine.] Pharm. Asynthetic organic compound of arsenic, essentially $C_{12}H_{11}N_2O_2As_2$ $(CH_2O)SONa$.
Ne'o-At'tic, adj. Designating, or pert. to, the later Attic.
Neo-Attic school. Sculpture. See ATTIC SCHOOL.
Ne'o-Bab'y·lo'ni·an, adj. Of or pertaining to the later Babylonian empire; Chaldean. — n. The Chaldean language. See SEMITIC LANGUAGES, Table.
Ne'o·ba·lae'na (nē'ō-bȧ·lē'nȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Balaena.] Zool. A genus of relatively small whalebone whales of the waters about Australia and New Zealand.
Ne'o·beck'i·a (nē'ō-bĕk'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., after Lewis C. Beck, Am. botanist.] Bot. A genus of North American herbs of the mustard family (Brassicaceae), having as its only known species N. aquatica, the lake water cress.
ne'o·blas'tic (-blăs'tĭk), adj. [neo- + -blastic.] Of the nature of a new growth.
Ne'o-Cath'o·lic, n. a In France, one who has separated from the Roman Catholic Church because of Modernist views. See MODERNISM, 4. b A member of the extreme section of Anglo-Catholics which openly avows preference for Roman Catholic doctrine, ritual, and discipline.
Ne'o·cene (nē'ō-sēn), adj. [neo- + Gr. kainos new.] Geol. Pertaining to or designating the later portion of the Tertiary, including both the Miocene and Pliocene. See TERTIARY, adj., 4. — Ne'o·cene, n.
Ne'o·ce·rat'o·dus (nē'ō-sē·răt'ō-dŭs), n. [NL.] Zool. A genus of dipnoan fishes. See CERATODUS. ne'o·ce·rot'ic (-sē-rŏt'ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to a crystalline acid, $C_{31}H_{62}CO_2H_6$, found as an ester in beeswax.
Ne'o-Chris'ti·an'i·ty, n. [neo- + Christianity.] Theol. A liberal or rationalistic interpretation of Christianity.
ne'o·clas'sic (nē'ō-klăs'ĭk), adj. [neo- + classic.] Belonging to or designating a revival of classical taste and style in art, literature, architecture, etc. — ne'o·clas'si·cism (-ĭ-sĭz'm), n. — ne'o·clas'si·cist (-sĭst), n.
Ne'o·co'mi·an (-kō'mĭ·ăn), adj. [F. Néocomien, fr. Neocomium, Latinized name of Neuchâtel, in Switzerland, where these rocks occur.] Geol. Pertaining to or designating the earliest subdivision of the European Lower Cretaceous. See GEOLOGY, Chart. — Ne'o·co'mi·an, n. ne'o·cos'mic (-kŏz'mĭk), adj. [neo- + cosmic.] Of or pertaining to the universe in its present state, or to races of men known to history.
ne·oc'ra·cy (nē-ŏk'rȧ-sĭ), n. [neo- + -cracy.] Government by inexperienced hands; untried officials collectively. Rare.
ne'o·crit'i·cism (nē'ō-krĭt'ĭ-sĭz'm), n. [neo- + criticism.] The form of Neo-Kantianism developed principally by French idealists, following C. Renouvier. It rejects the noumena of Kant, restricting knowledge to phenomena as constituted by a priori categories.
ne'o·cy'a·nine (-sī'ȧ-nēn; -nĭn), n. Also -nin. [neo- + cyanine.] Photog. A dye derived from lepidine and used for sensitizing to infrared rays.
ne'o·cyte (nē'ō-sīt), n. [neo- + leucocyte.] An immature leucocyte. — ne'o·cy·to'sis (-sī·tō'sĭs), n.
ne·od'a·mode (nē·ŏd'ȧ-mōd), n. [Gr. neodamōdēs, fr. neos new + damos, dēmos, the people + eidos shape.] In ancient Sparta, a newly enfranchised Helot.
Ne'o—Dar'win·ism, n. The theory which holds natural selection, as explained by Darwin, to be the chief factor in the evolution of plants and animals, and denies the inheritance of acquired characters; — esp. as opposed to Neo-Lamarckism. Weismannism is an example of extreme Neo-Darwinism. — Ne'o—Dar·win'i·an, adj. & n. — Ne'o—Dar'win·ist, n. ne'o·dym'i·um (nē'ō-dĭm'ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL. See NEO-; DIDYMIUM.] Also ne'o·di·dym'i·um (-dĭ-dĭm'ĭ·ŭm; -dĭ-). Chem. A rare metallic element having a yellow tinge and occurring (in combination) with cerium, lanthanum, and other rare metals. Symbol, Nd; at. no., 60; at. wt., 144.27. It was separated in 1885 by von Welsbach from praseodymium, the two having previously been regarded as a single element (didymium). It is chiefly trivalent, forming colored salts.
Ne'o—E·gyp'tian, n. The popular language of Egypt from about 1400 to 1000 B.C.; Late Egyptian. See EGYPTIAN, n., 2.
Ne'o·fa·brae'a (nē'ō-fȧ-brē'ȧ), n. [NL., after T. H. Fabre, French mycologist.] Bot. A genus of fungi (family Mollisiaceae). N. malicorticis causes apple anthracnose.
ne'o·fe'tus (-fē'tŭs), n. [NL., fr. neo- + fetus.] The embryo during the eighth and ninth weeks of gestation. — ne'o·fe'tal (-tăl; -t'l), adj.
Ne·of'i·ber (nē-ŏf'ĭ-bĕr), n. [NL., fr. neo- + L. fiber beaver.] Zool. A genus of voles related to Microtus, consisting of N. alleni, the round-tailed muskrat (which see).
ne'o·for·ma'tion (nē'ō-fôr·mā'shŭn), n. [neo- + formation.] A new growth; specif.: a Med. A tumor or a cancer. b Anat. An anatomical anomaly peculiar to a small racial group and regarded as recent in appearance, as the overdevelopment of the mandible in many Eskimos. — ne'o·form'a·tive (-fôr'mȧ·tĭv), adj.
Ne'o·gae'a (-jē'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Gr. gaia earth.] Biogeog. The Neotropical region regarded as one of three primary divisions or realms. — Ne'o·gae'an, Ne'o·ge'an (-jē'ăn), adj.
ne·og'a·my (nē·ŏg'ȧ·mĭ), n. [neo- + -gamy.] Zool. In certain gregarines, association occurring prior to the adult stage of the life cycle. — ne·og'a·mous (-mŭs), adj.
Ne'o·gene (nē'ō-jēn), adj. & n. [Gr. neogenēs newborn. See NEO-; -GEN.] Geol. = NEOCENE, adj. & n. Rare in U.S. ne'o·gen'e·sis (-jĕn'ē-sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neo- + -genesis.] New formation; regeneration, as of tissue. — ne'o·genet'ic (-jē-nĕt'ĭk), adj.
Ne·og'na·thae (nē-ŏg'nȧ-thē), n. pl. [NL., fr. neo- + -gnathae.] Zool. A superorder of Neornithes comprising most existing birds, in which the palate is modernized through the reduction of its median bones. See BIRD, 2. — ne·og'na·thous (-thŭs), ne'og·nath'ic (nē'ŏg·năth'ĭk), adj.
Ne'o—Goth'ic, adj. Designating, or pertaining to, art based on close study of medieval Gothic art, as in the Gothic revival of 1840 in England and similar movements in Germany, France, and the United States.

Nel'son's o'ri·ole (nĕl'ŭ·sŭnz; -s'nz). See HOODED ORIOLE.
Ne·lum'bi·um (nē-lŭm'bĭ-ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Singhalese nelumbu.] Syn. of NELUMBO.
‖ne lu·mi'ni·bus of·fi'ci·a'tur (lū·mĭn'ĭ-bŭs ŏ·fĭsh'ĭ·ā'tĕr). [L.] Law. See SERVITUDE, n., 5.
Ne·ma'li·o·na'ce·ae (nē-mȧ'lĭ-ō-nā'sē-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of HELMINTHOCLADIACEAE. nemat-. = NEMATO-.
Nem'a·tel'mi·a (nĕm'ȧ-tĕl'mĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] = NEMATELMINTHES.
Nem'a·tel·min'thes (-tĕl·mĭn'thēz), n. pl. [NL.] Syns. of NEMATHELMINTHES. — nem'a·tel'minth (-tĕl'mĭnth), n.
Nem'a·thel'mi·a (-thĕl'mĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of NEMATHELMINTHES. ne·mat'ic (nē-măt'ĭk), adj. [nemat- + -ic.] See MESOMORPHIC. nem'ble, etc. ✝ NIMBLE, etc.
Ne·mer'te·a (nē-mŭr'tē-ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] = NEMERTEANS.
‖ne'mi·ne con'tra·di·cen'te (nĕm'ĭ-nē kŏn'trȧ·dĭ·sĕn'tē), ne'mi·ne dis·sen'ti·en'te (dĭ·sĕn'shĭ·ĕn'tē). [L.] Without a dissenting vote; unanimously.
nem'ly, ✝ NIMBLY.
nemn, nemme, v. t. [AS. nemnan to name or call. See NAME, n.] To call or mention by name. Obs.
‖ne'mo bis pu'ni·tur pro e·ŏ'dem de·lic'to. [L.] No man is punished twice for the same offense.
Ne·moc'er·a (nē-mŏs'ĕr·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of NEMATOCERA. — ne·moc'er·an (-ăn), adj. & n. — ne·moc'er·ous (-ŭs), adj.
‖ne'mo dat quod non ha'bet. [L.] Law. No one can give what (that is, title which) he does not have.
‖ne'mo est he'res vi·ven'tis. [L.] Law. No one is heir of a living person.
‖ne'mo me im·pu'ne la·cĕs'sit. [L.] No one attacks me with impunity; — motto of Scotland.
Ne'mo·rhae'dus. Var. of NAEMORHEDUS. nemp'ne. ✝ NEMN. nempt, past part. of NEMN. Obs.
Nem'rod (nĕm'rŏd). D. Bib.
Nem'u·el (-ū-ĕl; nē-mū'ĕl). Bib.
Nem'u·el·ites (-īts), n. pl. Bib. ne'o·ac'a·dem'ic, adj. See NEO-, 1 a.
Ne'o·arc'tic. Var. of NEARCTIC.
Ne'o-Celt'ic, adj. See NEO-, 1 a. ne'o·dim'i·um. Neodymium. Ref. Sp.
ne'o·fite. Neophyte. Ref. Sp.

N

ne′o·gram·mar′i·an (nē″ō·grə̆·mär′ĭ·ăn), n. [neo- + grammarian; trans. of G. junggrammatiker.] One of a school of philologists that arose in Germany about 1875, advocating the more exact formulation of phonetic law and its more rigid application to linguistic phenomena, maintaining that phonetic laws admit no real exceptions, and recognizing analogy as a normal factor in linguistic change. The movement gave new impetus and direction to scientific method in linguistics. — ne′o·gram·mat′i·cal (-măt′ĭ·kăl), adj.

ne′o·graph′ic (-grăf′ĭk), adj. [neo- + graphic.] Of or pertaining to a new system of writing. Rare.

Ne′o-Greek′, n. A member of a body of French painters (F. les néo-Grecs) of the middle 19th century; — chiefly applied by outsiders to certain artists of grave and refined style, such as Hamon and Aubert.

Ne′o-He·bra′ic, n. The modern Hebrew language; post-Biblical Hebrew; Mishnaic Hebrew. See HEBREW, n., 2. — adj. Of or designating this language.

Ne′o-He′brew, n. The learned language of the Jews of the Christian era; Neo-Hebraic.

Ne′o-He·ge′li·an·ism, n. The philosophy of a school of British and American idealists who follow Hegel in dialectical or logical method and in doctrine. See HEGELIANISM. — Ne′o-He·ge′li·an, adj. & n.

Ne′o-Hel·len′ic, n. See GREEK, n., 7 b; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table. — Ne′o-Hel·len′ic, adj.

Ne′o-Hel′len·ism, n. Hellenism as surviving or revived in modern times; the practice of ancient Greek ideals in modern life or art.

Ne′o·hip·pa′ri·on (nē″ō·hĭ·pā′rĭ·ŏn; 79), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Hipparion.] Paleontol. A genus of American Pliocene horses, with one large and two small toes on each foot.

ne′o·im·pres′sion·ism (nē″ō·ĭm·prĕsh′ŭn·ĭz′m), n. Painting. A development, on more rigorously scientific lines, of the theory and practice of impressionism, originated by George Seurat (1859–91), and carried on by Paul Signac (b. 1863) and others. Its characteristic method is known as pointillism. — ne′o·im·pres′sion·ist, n. & adj.

Ne′o-Kant′i·an·ism, n. The philosophy of modern thinkers who follow Kant in his general theory of knowledge. See KANTIANISM. — Ne′o-Kant′i·an, adj. & n.

Ne′o-La·marck′ism, n. Biol. Lamarckism as revived, modified, and expounded by recent biologists, esp. as maintaining that the offspring inherits characters acquired by the parent from change of environment, use or disuse of parts, etc.; — opposed to Neo-Darwinism. — Ne′o-La·marck′i·an, adj. & n. — Ne′o-La·marck′ist, n.

Ne′o-Lat′in, n. Romance (the group of languages); also, one of a people speaking a Romance language. — Ne′o-Lat′in, adj.

ne·ol′a·try (nē·ŏl′ə·trĭ), n. [neo- + -latry.] The cult of novelty. — ne·ol′a·ter (-tĕr), n.

ne′o·lith (nē″ō·lĭth), n. A neolithic stone implement.

ne′o·lith′ic (nē″ō·lĭth′ĭk), adj. [neo- + -lith + -ic.] Designating, pertaining to, or belonging to, a stage of culture following the paleolithic and preceding the aëneolithic, and characterized by the use of polished stone implements; as, neolithic culture, Neolithic age. The Neolithic era began in western Europe about 10,000 B.C., being introduced from the east, and continued for about 7,000 years. It was notable for many cultural advances including the art of grinding stone, horn, bone, and ivory tools with sandstone, pottery making, the use of bow and arrow, domestication of animals, the cultivation of grain and fruit trees, the invention of the wheel, and linen weaving. It marked the beginning of settled village life and attained its highest level in Europe among the Swiss lake dwellers. It was represented in America, at the time of the discovery, by the culture of North American Indian tribes, most of which knew the art of polishing stone.

ne′o·lo′gi·an (-lō′jĭ·ăn; 159), n. Theol. A neologist.

ne·ol′o·gism (nē·ŏl′ō·jĭz′m), n. [F. néologisme.] 1. A new word, usage, or expression; the use of a new word or of an old word in a new or different sense; neology.
2. A new doctrine; esp., Theol., neology.
— ne·ol′o·gist (-jĭst), n. — ne·ol′o·gis′tic (-jĭs′tĭk), ne·ol′o·gis′ti·cal (-tĭ·kăl), adj.

ne·ol′o·gize (-jīz), v. i. To practice neology. — ne·ol′o·gi·za′tion (-jĭ·zā′shŭn; -jĭ·zā′-), n.

ne·ol′o·gy (-jĭ), n.; pl. -GIES (-jĭz). [F. néologie. See NEO-; -LOGY.] 1. The use of a new word, or words, or of new meanings; esp., the use of expressions not yet sanctioned by conventional good usage; the introduction of such words or meanings into a language; also, a new word or meaning; a neologism.
2. A new doctrine; esp., Theol., a new method of theological interpretation; rationalism.
— ne′o·log′ic (nē″ō·lŏj′ĭk), ne′o·log′i·cal (-I·kăl), adj. — ne′o·log′i·cal·ly, adv.

Ne′o-Mal·thu′sian, adj. Designating, or pertaining to, the doctrine that only through the limitation of births by the use of artificial contraceptives can the numbers of the population be sufficiently controlled to make possible the elimination of vice and misery and a general elevation of the standard of living. — Ne′o-Mal·thu′sian, n. — Ne′o-Mal·thu′sian·ism, n.

Ne′o-Man′i·chae′an, n. See CATHARI.

Ne′o-Marx′i·an, n. A revisionist (see REVISIONISM); also, a syndicalist (see SYNDICALISM).

Ne′o-Men·de′li·an, adj. Of or pertaining to Neo-Mendelism — n. An adherent of Neo-Mendelism.

Ne′o-Men′del·ism, n. Mendelism as modified and extended by recent biologists, esp. as including the concepts of linkage, multiple factors, etc.

ne′o·me′ni·a (nē″ō·mē′nĭ·ȧ), n. [LL., fr. Gr. neomēnia, fr. neos new + mēnē moon, mēn month.] 1. The time of the new moon; also, the festival of the new moon.
2. [cap.] [NL.; partly from the lunate form.] Zool. A genus of aplacophorous Amphineura having a thick, tumid body, and the foot represented by a narrow groove. It is the type of a family, Ne′o·me·ni′i·dae (-mē·nĭ′ĭ·dē).
— ne′o·me′ni·an (-mē′nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. & n.

ne′o·mir′a·cle (-mĭr′ȧ·k'l), n. A play imitating the miracle plays.

ne′o·mod′al (-mŏd′ăl; -'l), adj. Music. Pertaining to new uses of the old ecclesiastical modes based on modern harmonies, or to new modes like that of the whole-step scale; — opposed to major-minor.

ne′o·morph (nē″ō·môrf), n. [neo- + -morph.] Biol. A structure that is not derived from a similar structure in an ancestor. — ne′o·mor′phic (-môr′fĭk), adj. — ne′o·mor′phism (-fĭz′m), n.

Ne′o·mor′pha (-môr′fȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + -morpha.] Zool. The genus consisting of the huia. Syn. Heteralocha.

ne′on (nē″ŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. neos new.] Chem. A colorless, odorless, inert gaseous element found in the atmosphere, of which it constitutes one or two thousandths of a per cent by volume. Symbol, Ne; at. no., 10; at. wt., 20.183. It gives a reddish glow in a vacuum tube and is used in electric lamps, esp. glow lamps and tubes for display purposes. It was discovered by Ramsay and Travers in 1898 by fractionation of liquid air.

ne′o·na′tal (nē″ō·nā′tăl; -t'l), adj. Med. Pertaining to the newborn.

ne′o·na′tus (-tŭs), n. [NL., fr. neo- + L. natus born.] A newly born infant.

neon lamp. Physics. A gas-discharge lamp in which the discharge takes place through a mixture of gases containing a large proportion of neon.

ne′o·no′mi·an (nē″ō·nō′mĭ·ăn), n. [neo- + Gr. nomos law.] One who advocates, or adheres to, new laws; esp., one who holds that the gospel is a new law, supplanting the Mosaic. — ne′o·no′mi·an, adj. — ne′o·no′mi·an·ism (-ĭz′m), n.

neon tube. Elec. = NEON LAMP.

ne′o·nych′i·um (nē″ō·nĭk′ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. ne- + onychium.] Embryol. A protective pad enclosing a claw.

ne′o·pa′gan·ism (-pā′găn·ĭz′m), n. [neo- + paganism.] Revived or new paganism. — ne′o·pa′gan (-pā′găn), adj. & n. — ne′o·pa′gan·ize (-īz), v. t.

Ne′o·pa′le·o·zo′ic (-pā′lē·ō·zō′ĭk), adj. [neo- + Paleozoic.] Geol. Late Paleozoic. The late Paleozoic, or (Upper) Silurian to the Permian, both inclusive. See GEOLOGY, Chart. — Ne′o·pa′le·o·zo′ic, n.

ne′o·pal′li·um (-păl′ĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. neo- + pallium.] Anat. The phylogenetically new part of the pallium, or cerebral cortex. It develops from the area between the pyriform lobe and the hippocampus. It comprises the nonolfactory region of the pallium, and attains its maximum development in man, where it makes up the greater part of the cerebral hemisphere on each side. See BRAIN, n., 1 a; cf. ARCHIPALLIUM. — ne′o·pal′li·al (-ăl), adj.

ne·oph′i·lism (nē·ŏf′ĭ·lĭz′m), n. [neo- + Gr. philos loving + -ism.] Morbid or excessive desire for novelty.

ne′o·phil′o·log′i·cal (nē″ō·fĭl′ō·lŏj′ĭ·kăl), adj. Neogrammatical.

ne′o·phi·lol′o·gist (-fĭ·lŏl′ō·jĭst), n. A neogrammarian.

ne′o·pho′bi·a (-fō′bĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + -phobia.] Dread of, or aversion to, novelty. — ne′o·pho′bic (-bĭk), adj.

ne′o·phras′tic (nē″ō·frăs′tĭk), adj. [Gr. neos new + phrazein to speak. See PHRASE.] Of or pertaining to the use or introduction of new words or expressions.

Ne′o·phron (nē″ō·frŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. neophrōn childish in spirit.] Zool. A genus of Old World vultures characterized by horizontal nostrils and containing the Egyptian vulture (N. percnopterus) and N. p. ginginianus of India.

ne′o·phyte (nē″ō·fīt), n. [LL. neophytus, fr. Gr. neophytos, prop., newly planted, fr. neos new + phytos grown, phyton that which has grown, a plant, fr. phyein to grow. See NEW; BE.] 1. A new convert; a proselyte; usually, a convert to the Christian faith, esp. in the early church or in the Roman Catholic Church.
2. R.C.Ch. a A newly ordained priest. b A novice in a convent.
3. A novice; a tyro; a beginner in anything.
Syn. — See CONVERT.
— ne′o·phyt′ic (-fĭt′ĭk), ne′o·phyt′ish (nē″ō·fĭt′ĭsh), adj. — ne′o·phyt′ism (-ĭz′m), n.

Ne′o·pi′er·is (nē″ō·pī′ĕr·ĭs), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Pieris.] Bot. A genus of shrubs or small trees of the heath family (Ericaceae), having persistent leaves and small, cylindric flowers followed by capsules. The only known species are N. nitida, the fetterbush, and N. mariana, the staggerbush.

ne′o·pla′si·a (-plā′zhĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Gr. plassein to form, mold.] Physiol. & Med. a Growth or development of new material; esp., the growth or development of true tumors. b Neoplasty.

ne′o·plasm (nē″ō·plăz′m), n.; pl. -PLASMS (-plăz′mz). [See NEOPLASIA.] Med. Any abnormal new formation; any morbid growth, as a tumor, esp. one of the so-called "true tumors."

ne′o·plas′tic (-plăs′tĭk), adj. Med. a Of or pertaining to a neoplasm. b Pertaining to neoplasty.

ne′o·plas′ty (nē″ō·plăs′tĭ), n. [See NEOPLASIA.] Surg. Restoration of a part by a plastic operation; autoplasty.

Ne′o·pla·ton′ic, Ne′o-Pla·ton′ic (-plȧ·tŏn′ĭk; -plā-), adj. Of. pert. to, or resembling, Neoplatonism or Neoplatonists.

Ne′o·pla′to·ni′cian, Ne′o-Pla′to·ni′cian (-plā′tō·nĭsh′ăn), n. A Neoplatonist.

Ne′o·pla′to·nism, Ne′o-Pla′to·nism (nē″ō·plā′tō·nĭz′m), n. The philosophy of a group of thinkers of the early Christian Era who endeavored to reconcile the teachings of Plato and Aristotle with Oriental conceptions; also, teachings and doctrines, similar to those of the ancient Neoplatonists, promulgated in medieval and modern times. Ancient Neoplatonism began at Alexandria with Ammonius Saccas (about 175–250 A.D.), found its chief exponent in Plotinus (205–270), and included also as representatives Porphyry, Iamblichus, Synesius, and Proclus (died 485). Its fundamental conception is a kind of pantheism developed from the Platonic dualism of Idea and Matter, under the influence of Jewish and Oriental conceptions. The physical world was conceived as an emanation (or a lapse from true being) of the immanent divinity, or One, from whom all human souls are arisen and with whom, according to Plotinus, they may be reunited in trance or ecstasy. Contempt for the world of matter and belief in liberation of the soul through asceticism and mystic revelation made this philosophy especially congenial to Christian mystics. Neoplatonism formed the basis of the mysticism of Meister Eckhart.

Ne′o·pla′to·nist, Ne′o-Pla′to·nist, n. One who held to Neoplatonism; a member of the Neoplatonic school.

Ne′op·tol′e·mus (nē″ŏp·tŏl′ē·mŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Neoptolemos.] The son of Achilles, who after his father's death joined the forces against Troy; — called also Pyrrhus.

Ne′o-Pu′nic, adj. Of, pert. to, or designating, Punic speech, writing, or inscriptions of the period after the fall of Carthage in 146 B.C. — n. The later Punic language.

Ne′o-Py·thag′o·re′an·ism, n. The doctrines of a school of philosophy, founded at Alexandria about the time of Augustus Cæsar, which revived, with mystical interpretations, many Pythagorean ideas. See PYTHAGOREANISM. — Ne′o-Py·thag′o·re′an, adj. & n.

ne′o·ra′ma (nē″ō·rȧ′mȧ; -răm′ȧ), n. [Gr. neōs temple + horama a view.] A panorama of the interior of a building, seen from within.

Ne·or′ni·thes (nē·ôr′nĭ·thēz; nē″ôr·nĭ′thēz), n. pl. [NL., fr. ne- + Gr. ornithes birds.] Zool. A subclass of birds comprising all recent and fossil birds except the Archaeornithes. See ARCHAEORNIS. — ne·or′nith′ic (nē″ôr·nĭth′ĭk), adj.

Ne′o-Ro′man, adj. Arch. Roman of the new or later time as contrasted with antiquity; — applied to Rome and Italy of the Middle Ages, to the classical Renaissance, or to 18th-century or 19th-century classical building.

Ne′o·sal′var·san (nē″ō·săl′vĕr·săn), n. [neo- + salvarsan.] Pharm. A trade-mark for neoarsphenamine; hence [sometimes not cap.], this substance.

Ne′o-San′skrit, n. The modern Sanskritic languages spoken in India. — Ne′o-San·skrit′ic, adj.

Ne′o-Scho·las′tic, adj. Of or pert. to Neo-Scholasticism.

Ne′o-Scho·las′ti·cism, n. A movement begun in the middle of the 19th century among Catholic scholars, and having for its aims: (1) the restatement and exposition of the methods and teachings of the medieval Schoolmen in a manner suited to the intellectual needs of the present; (2) further speculation that makes use of the findings of modern research and is grounded on principles derived from the Greeks and the Schoolmen.

Ne′o-Sog′di·an, adj. Pertaining to or designating the Uigur alphabet.

Ne′o·so′rex (nē″ō·sō′rĕks; 181), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Sorex.] Zool. A subgenus or genus of relatively large aquatic shrews having the feet and toes fimbriate, constituted by N. palustris and N. navigator of the northern and western United States.

Ne′o·spo·rid′i·a (-spō·rĭd′ĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. neo- + -sporidia.] A group or subclass of Sporozoa which are amoeboid and, in the adult stage, usually multinucleated.

ne·os′sin (nē·ŏs′ĭn), n. [Gr. neossia a nest of young birds, fr. neossos a young bird, fr. neos new, young.] Biochem. A hyalogen, the chief component of edible birds' nests, secreted from glands well developed in the birds during the nestbuilding season.

ne′os·sol′o·gy (nē″ŏs·ŏl′ō·jĭ), n. [Gr. neossos young bird, + -logy.] The study of young birds.

ne′os·sop′tile (-ŏp′tĭl; -tīl), n. [Gr. neossos young bird + ptilon down.] Zool. One of the downy feathers of a newly hatched bird.

ne′o·stri·a′tum (nē″ō·strĭ·ā′tŭm), n. [NL., fr. neo- + striatum.] Anat. The phylogenetically new part of the corpus striatum; the caudate nucleus and putamen.

ne′o·style (nē″ō·stīl), n. [neo- + style.] A kind of manifolding device. — v. t. To duplicate by neostyle.

Ne′o-Su·me′ri·an, n. The later form of the Sumerian language. — Ne′o-Su·me′ri·an, adj.

Ne′o-Syr′i·ac, n. A modern form of Syriac, spoken by Aramaean Christians, which is akin to the ancient literary Syriac, though not directly from it. — Ne′o-Syr′i·ac, adj.

ne′o·tei′ni·a (nē″ō·tĭ′nĭ·ȧ), ne′o·te′ni·a (-tē′nĭ·ȧ), n. Also ne·ot′e·ny (nē·ŏt′ē·nĭ). [NL., fr. neo- + Gr. teinein to stretch.] Zool. The condition of having the period of immaturity indefinitely prolonged, as in the axolotl, or esp. in certain individuals of some termites which have their development arrested and are held in reserve to take the place of the queen. — ne′o·tei′nic (-tī′nĭk), ne′o·ten′ic, (-tĕn′ĭk), adj.

ne′o·ter′ic (nē″ō·tĕr′ĭk), adj. Also, Rare, ne′o·ter′i·cal, (-I·kăl). [L. neotericus, fr. Gr. neōterikos, fr. neōteros, compar. of neos young, new.] Recent in origin; modern; new; — said of things or persons. — ne′o·ter′ic, n. — ne′o·ter′i·cal·ly (I·kăl·ĭ), adv.

ne·ot′er·ism (nē·ŏt′ĕr·ĭz′m), n. [Gr. neōterismos innovation.] A neoteric word or phrase; the introduction of new expressions. Cf. NEOLOGISM. — ne·ot′er·ist, n. — ne·ot′er·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj. — ne·ot′er·ize (nē·ŏt′ĕr·īz), v. i.

ne′o·thal′a·mus (nē″ō·thăl′ȧ·mŭs), n. [NL., fr. neo- + thalamus.] Anat. The phylogenetically more recent part of the thalamus, including the lateral nucleus and the pulvinar, together with the geniculate bodies.

Ne′o-Tho′mism, n. Neo-Scholasticism, esp. as it is concerned with the teachings of Thomas Aquinas.

Ne·ot′o·ma (nē·ŏt′ō·mȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Gr. temnein to cut.] Zool. The genus consisting of the wood rats.

Ne·ot′ra·gus (-rȧ·gŭs), n. [NL., fr. neo- + Gr. tragos goat.] Zool. The genus constituted by the royal antelope.

Ne′o·trem′a·ta (nē″ō·trĕm′ȧ·tȧ; -trē″mȧ·tȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. neo- + Gr. trēma hole.] Paleontol. & Zool. An order of inarticulate Brachiopoda having the peduncle restricted throughout life to the ventral valve. It includes the living genera Discina and Crania.

Ne′o·trop′i·cal (nē″ō·trŏp′ĭ·kăl), adj. Also Ne′o·trop′ic (-ĭk). [neo- + tropical.] Geog. & Biogeog. Of, pertaining to, or designating, a terrestrial region comprising South America, the West Indies, and tropical North America. Among its characteristic animals are the sloths, anteaters, marmosets, capuchin monkeys, vampire bats, toucans, tinamous, macaws, curassows, and hummingbirds.

ne′o·type (nē″ō·tīp) n. [neo- + -type.] A type specimen selected to replace a destroyed proterotype.

ne′o·vi′tal·ism (-vī′tăl·ĭz′m; -vĭ′t'l·ĭz′m), n. [neo- + vitalism.] Modern vitalism. See VITALISM.

ne′o·vol·can′ic (nē″ō·vŏl·kăn′ĭk), adj. [neo- + volcanic.] Petrog. Of, pertaining to, or designating, igneous rocks erupted later than the beginning of the Tertiary.

ne′o·yt·ter′bi·um (nē″ō·ĭ·tûr′bĭ·ŭm), n. See YTTERBIUM.

ne·o′za pine (nē·ō′zȧ). [Bhutanese neoza.] A tall Himalayan pine (Pinus gerardiana) with silvery bark and edible nuts.

Ne′o·zo′ic (nē″ō·zō′ĭk), adj. & n. [neo- + Gr. zōē life.] Geol. a Pertaining to or designating the entire period from the end of the Mesozoic to the present time. b = CENOZOIC, adj. & n. c = TERTIARY, adj., 4, & n., 3.

nep (nĕp), n. [Cf. ME. & AS. nepte, fr. L. nepeta. Cf. CATNIP, NEPETA.] Catnip. Obs. exc. Dial.

nep, n. [AS. nǣp turnip, fr. L. napus.] Bryony. Obs.

nep (nĕp), n. [Cf. E. dial. nap, 1st KNAP.] Cotton Mfg. Little knots formed by irregular growth or by the rubbing together of the fibers, esp. in ginning; also, one of these knots. Hence, a cluster of fibers occurring in wool staple.

nep, v. t.; NEPPED (nĕpt); NEP′PING. To form nep in (cotton) during the operation of ginning.

Nep, NEP (nĕp), n. Short for NEW ECONOMIC POLICY.

Ne′pa (nē″pȧ), n. [L., scorpion.] 1. Zool. A genus of insects (order Hemiptera) consisting of the water scorpions. It is the type of a family, Nep′i·dae (nĕp′ĭ·dē), containing also the needle bugs. See RANATRA.
2. Also Ne′pas (nē″pȧs). Astron. The constellations of Cancer, Hydra, and Scorpio combined. Rare.

Ne·pal′ ac′o·nite (nē·păl′). An East Indian, very poisonous herb (Aconitum spicatum); also, the strong drug derived from its roots.

Nepal barberry. The Indian barberry Berberis lycium.

Nep′a·lese′ (nĕp′ȧ·lēz′; -lēs′), adj. Of or pert. to Nepal (see Gaz.). About half of the population are Mongoloid Buddhists, the others followers of Hinduism; the ruling classes are the Gurkhas. — n. sing. & pl. A native of Nepal.

Ne′o·Hin′du, n. Neo-Sanskrit.
ne′o·hol′mi·a (nē″ō·hŏl′mĭ·ȧ), ne′o·hol′mi·um (-ŭm), n. See HOLMIUM.
Ne′o-Kant′ism, n. = NEO-KANTIANISM.
ne′o·lo′gi·an·ism (nē″ō·lō′jĭ·ăn·ĭz′m), n. = NEOLOGY, 2. ne′o·me′di·e′val·ism, n. See NEO-, 1 a. ne′o·my′lo·don, n. [NL., fr. neo- + Mylodon.] Paleontol. Syn. of GLOSSOTHERIUM. [NEO-, 5 a.] ne′o·par′al·fin, n. Chem. See Ne′o-Per′sian, n. = NEW PERSIAN. See PERSIAN, n., 2. ne′o·plas′ma (nē″ō·plăz′mȧ), n.; pl. -PLASMATA (-tȧ). [NL.] = NEOPLASM. [REALISM.]
Ne′o·wash′ing·to′ni·a (-wŏsh′ĭng·tō′nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. neo- + (George) Washington.] Syn. of WASHINGTONIA 3.

Ne·pa'li (nĕ·pä'lē), n. [Hind. naipālī of Nepal.] The language of the Nepalese; specif., Khas-kura. Cf. NEWARI.

Nepal paper. A native Tibetan or Himalayan paper made from the bark of shrubs of the genus Daphne.

Nepal wheat. = HIMALAYAN BARLEY.

ne·pen'the (nĕ·pĕn'thē), n. [L. nepenthes, fr. Gr. nēpenthes, neut. of nēpenthēs removing all sorrow, an epithet of an Egyptian drug, fr. nē- not + penthos sorrow, grief.] 1. A potion or drug used by the ancients to give forgetfulness of pain and sorrow — by some supposed to have been opium or hashish. Hence, anything capable of causing oblivion of grief or suffering.

Lulled with the sweet nepenthe of a court. Pope.

2. The plant which yielded the drug.

— ne·pen'the·an (-thē·ăn), adj.

ne·pen'thes (-thēz), n. [L. See NEPENTHE.]

1. = NEPENTHE.

2. [cap.] Bot. A genus of Malaysian climbing insectivorous plants constituting the family Nepenthaceae (order Sarraceniales). They have leaves with the midrib prolonged to a tendril, the apex expanding in a pitcherlike appendage, whence they are often called pitcher plants or monkey cups. They secrete an acid liquid that aids in the digestion of insects.

Leaf of Nepenthes, 2. Much reduced.

Ne·pe'ri·an (nĕ·pē'rĭ·ăn), adj. Napierian.

Nep'e·ta (nĕp'ē·tä), n. [L.] Bot. A large genus of Eurasian mints. N. cataria, the catnip, is the best-known species.

nep'a·lism (nĕp'ä·lĭz'm), n. [Gr. nēphalismos soberness, fr. nēphalios sober.] Total abstinence from spirituous liquor. — nep'a·list (-lĭst), n.

Nep'e·le (nĕp'ĕ·lē), n. 1. [L., fr. Gr. Nephelē.] See PHRIXOS.

2. [not cap.] [Gr. nephelē cloud.] = 2d AIR, 16.

neph'e·lig'e·nous (nĕf'ē·lĭj'ē·nŭs), adj. [See NEPHELO-; -GENOUS.] Emitting clouds, esp. of tobacco smoke.

neph'e·lin·ite (nĕf'ē·lĭn·ĭt), n. Petrog. A dark, heavy, volcanic rock which may be regarded as basalt containing no olivine and with nephelite replacing the feldspar. — neph'e·lin·it'ic (-ĭt'ĭk), adj.

neph'e·lin·i·toid (-ĭ·toid), n. [See -OID.] Petrog. 1. Nephelite glass or a nephelite aggregate in which no individual crystals can be recognized under the microscope.

2. Any of certain rocks, as nephelinites and nephelite-basalts, which contain nephelinitic substances as interstitial material.

neph'e·lite (nĕf'ē·līt), neph'e·line (-lĭn), n. [F. néphéline, fr. Gr. nephelē cloud. See NEBULA.] A hexagonal mineral occurring in glassy crystals or grains, or in coarse crystals or masses of greasy luster without cleavage; specif., the glassy variety, as disting. from eleolite. Nephelite is an orthosilicate of sodium, potassium, and aluminum, $K_2Na_6Al_8Si_9O_{34}$. It occurs in various igneous rocks and is an essential constituent of some, as nephelinite, nephelite-basalt, etc. — neph'e·lin'ic (-lĭn'ĭk), adj.

neph'e·lite–bas'a·nite, n. Petrog. A basanite whose feldspathoid is nephelite.

neph'e·lite–di'o·rite, n. Petrog. A diorite which contains nephelite in addition to acid plagioclase and a dark mineral. Therralite is a melanocratic variety.

neph'e·lite–por'phy·ry, n. Petrog. A porphyritic rock containing phenocrysts of nephelite.

neph'e·lite–sy'e·nite, n. Petrog. A granitoid, intrusive, igneous rock consisting of nephelite (eleolite) and orthoclase, with other minerals.

neph'e·lite–teph'rite, n. Petrog. An extrusive rock of basaltic habit, composed of nephelite, plagioclase, augite, sometimes hornblende, and usually magnetite.

Ne·phe'li·um (nĕ·fē'lĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. LL. nephelion a kind of plant, fr. Gr. nephelion, dim. of nephelē cloud.] Bot. A genus of Asiatic and Australian trees (family Sapindaceae) having terminal panicles of small flowers, succeeded by fruits with a sweet edible pulp and a warty crust. N. lappaceum is the rambutan.

neph'e·lo- (nĕf'ē·lō-), nephel-. [See NEBULA.] A combining form, Greek nephelo-, nephel-, from nephelē, meaning cloud, denoting: a Clouds, as in *nephelo*gnosy. b Cloudiness, as in *nephelo*meter.

Neph'e·lo·coc·cyg'i·a (nĕf'ē·lō·kŏk·sĭj'ĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. Nephelokokkygia "cloud cuckoo town," fr. nephelē cloud + kokkyx cuckoo.] A town built in the clouds by the cuckoos in the Birds of Aristophanes.

neph'e·log'no·sy (-lŏg'nō·sĭ), n. [nephelo- + Gr. gnōsis knowledge.] Scientific observation of clouds.

neph'e·loid (nĕf'ē·loid), adj. [nephel- + -oid.] Cloudy; turbid; as, nepheloid urine.

neph'e·lom'e·ter (-lŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [nephelo- + -meter.] An instrument for measuring cloudiness. Specif.: a Bacteriol. A set of barium chloride standards used for estimating the turbidity of a fluid and thereby the approximate number of bacteria in suspension. b Physical Chem. An instrument for studying the character of suspensions by means of diffuse transmitted or reflected light. c = TURBIDIMETER. — neph'e·lo·met'ric (-lō·mĕt'rĭk), adj. — neph'e·lo·met'ri·cal (-rĭ·kăl), adj. — neph'e·lo·met'ri·cal·ly, adv. — neph'e·lom'e·try (-lŏm'ē·trĭ), n.

neph'e·lo·rom'e·ter (-lō·rŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [nephelo- + an uncert. element + -meter.] An instrument for observing speed and direction of motion of clouds.

neph'e·lo·scope' (nĕf'ē·lō·skōp'), n. [nephelo- + -scope.] Meteorol. An instrument for showing cloud formation by expansion of moist air.

neph'esh (nĕf'ĕsh), n. [Heb.] 1. The soul; the divine breath as it exists in man. See SOUL.

2. Theos. The vital animal soul in man.

neph'ew (nĕv'ū or, esp. Brit., nĕv'ū; 3; 277), n. [ME. neveu, nevou, nevu, fr. OF. neveu, nevou, fr. L. nepos; akin to AS. nefa, D. neef, G. neffe, OHG. nevo, ON. nefi, Lith. nepotis, Skr. napāt grandson, descendant. Cf. NEPOTISM, NEVE, NIECE.] 1. The son of a brother or a sister, or, loosely, of a brother-in-law or sister-in-law.

2. Obs. a A grandson or grandchild, or remoter lineal descendant.] Tim. v. 4. b A niece. c A cousin. "His nephew Richard." Shak. d Euphemistically, the illegitimate son of an ecclesiastic.

Neph'i·la (nĕf'ĭ·lä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nein to spin + philos.] Zool. A genus of large, elongate, brightly marked, mainly tropical spiders, typifying a subfamily, Neph'i·li'nae (-lī'nē), of the family Argiopidae. See SILK SPIDER.

Neph'i·lim (nĕf'ĭ·lĭm), n. pl. [Heb. nĕphīlīm.] Bib. A race of giants or demigods mentioned in Gen., vi. 4 and Num. xiii. 33, R. V.; in A. V. translated "giants."

Ne'phite (nē'fīt), n. According to the Book of Mormon, one of the people of Nephi, son of Lehi, who, about 600 B.C., led a colony from Jerusalem to the American continent.

neph'o- (nĕf'ō-). [See NEBULA.] A combining form, Greek nepho-, from nephos, meaning cloud.

neph'o·gram (nĕf'ō·grăm), n. [nepho- + -gram.] A photograph of clouds.

neph'o·graph (-gräf; 83), n. [nepho- + -graph.] An instrument for photographing clouds.

ne·phol'o·gy (nē·fŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [nepho- + -logy.] The department of meteorology treating of clouds. — neph'o·log'i·cal (nĕf'ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — ne·phol'o·gist (nē·fŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

neph'o·scope (nĕf'ō·skōp), n. [nepho- + -scope.] Meteorol. An instrument for observing clouds, their direction, and their velocity.

nephr-. = NEPHRO- (which see), as in:

nephradenoma	nephratonia	nephrelcosis nephralgia	nephraxue	nephremia nephralgic	nephrectasia	nephremphraxis nephrapostasis	nephrectasis	nephroncus ne·phrec'to·mize (nē·frĕk'tō·mīz; nĕ·frĕk'-), v. t. Surg. To perform nephrectomy upon. — v. i. To remove a kidney.

ne·phrec'to·my (nē·frĕk'tō·mĭ; nĕ-), n. [nephr- + -ectomy.] The surgical removal of a kidney.

neph'ri·a (nĕf'rĭ·ä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nephros kidney.] Med. Bright's disease.

neph'ric (nĕf'rĭk), adj. [Gr. nephros kidney.] Of or pertaining to the kidneys; renal.

ne·phrid'i·al (nē·frĭd'ĭ·ăl; nĕ-), adj. Zool. & Anat. Of or pertaining to a nephridium.

ne·phrid'i·o·pore' (-ō·pōr'), n. [nephridium + Gr. poros passage.] Zool. See NEPHRIDIUM a.

ne·phrid'i·um (nē·frĭd'ĭ·ŭm; nĕ-), n.; pl. IA (-ä). [NL., fr. Gr. nephridios of the kidneys.] Zool. & Anat. a An excretory organ of the type found in annulate worms, mollusks, brachiopods, polyzoans, certain arthropods, etc. In typical cases it consists of a tube opening at one end into the coelom by a ciliated, funnel-shaped aperture (nephrostome) and discharging at the other end by a minute pore (nephridiopore) on the exterior of the body. It is often lengthened and convoluted, with glandular walls. In the annulate worms a pair of these organs often occurs in each of several or many of the segments of the body, whence the name segmental organs. In the mollusks (see ORGAN OF BOJANUS) and brachiopods but one pair is usually present. In many cases these organs also carry off the products of the generative organs from the coelom, and in certain animals some of them are modified to perform this function only. Nephridia of a modified type also occur in Amphioxus. b Embryol. Sometimes, a renal tubule of a craniate vertebrate, which is comparable to a nephridium in many respects, and which in the lower vertebrates possesses nephrostomes. Also, loosely, any of certain other tubular excretory organs of invertebrates.

Nephridia of a Worm. a, a External Orifices; b Vesicular Portion; c Convoluted Tubular Portion; o Funnel-shaped Internal Orifice.

neph'rism (nĕf'rĭz'm), n. [nephr- + -ism.] Med. The morbid condition caused by chronic disease of the kidney.

neph'rite (-rīt), n. [G. nephrit, fr. Gr. nephros kidney. See NEPHRITIC.] Mineral. A compact variety of tremolite or actinolite, constituting the less valuable kind of jade, and formerly worn as a remedy for kidney diseases; kidney stone. See JADE, 1 b.

ne·phrit'ic (nē·frĭt'ĭk; nĕ-), adj. [LL. nephriticus, fr. Gr. nephritikos. See NEPHRITIS.] 1. Arising from, originating in, or affecting, the kidneys.

2. Med. Of, pertaining to, or affected with, nephritis.

ne·phrit'ic, n. A person affected with nephritis.

ne·phrit'i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. Nephritic.

nephritic stone. = NEPHRITE.

nephritic wood. Old Pharm. a The wood of the rosilla Eysenhardtia polystachya, formerly used in an infusion (nephritic tincture) for kidney diseases. b The wood of the horse-radish tree Moringa oleifera, similarly used.

ne·phri'tis (nē·frī'tĭs; nĕ-), n. [LL., fr. Gr. nephritis, fr. nephros a kidney; akin to D. nier, G. niere, ON. nýra. Cf. NEER.] Med. Inflammation of the kidneys. Nephritis occurs in acute and chronic forms, certain types of which are known as acute and chronic Bright's disease.

-ne·phri'tis (-nē·frī'tĭs; -nĕ-). [NL.] Med. A combining form of nephritis, as in gastro*nephritis,* pyelo*nephritis.*

neph'ro- (nĕf'rō-), nephr-. [See NEPHRITIS.] A combining form, Greek nephro-, nephr-, from nephros, meaning kidney, as in nephrology, nephritis. Nephro- in adjectives denotes also nephric and, as in neph'ro·ab·dom'i·nal, pert. to the kidney and abdominal wall, neph'ro·car'di·ac, neph'ro·gas'tric. The meanings of the following words can be supplied from the definitions of the second word or element.

nephrocolic	nephromalacia	nephrorrhagia nephrocolopexy	nephromegaly	nephrosclerosis nephrocoloptosis	nephroparalysis	nephrostomy nephrocystitis	nephrophthisis	nephrotoxin nephrocystosis	nephroptosis	nephrotuberculosis nephroerysipelas	nephropyelitis	nephrotyphoid nephrohydrosis	nephropyeloplasty	nephrotyphus nephrohypertrophy	nephropyosis	nephrozymosis neph'ro·cele (nĕf'rō·sēl), n. [nephro- + -cele.] Med. Hernia of the kidney.

neph'ro·coele (nĕf'rō·sēl), n. [nephro- + -coele.] Zool. The cavity of a nephrotome.

neph'ro·cyte (-sīt), n. [nephro- + -cyte.] Zool. An excretory cell; specif., a cell which has the ability to store up substances of an excretory nature, as in various invertebrates.

neph'ro·din'ic (nĕf'rō·dĭn'ĭk), adj. [nephr- + Gr. ōdis, ōdinos, travail.] Zool. Provided with nephrogonaducts.

Ne·phro'di·um (nē·frō'dĭ·ŭm; nĕ-), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nephrōdēs like a kidney.] Bot. See DRYOPTERIS a.

neph'ro·gen'ic (nĕf'rō·jĕn'ĭk), adj. Also neph'ro·ge·net'ic (-jē·nĕt'ĭk). [nephro- + -genic.] Anat. & Embryol. Formed from or forming kidney tissue.

ne·phrog'e·nous (nē·frŏj'ē·nŭs; nĕ-), adj. [nephro- + -genous.] Produced, caused by, or arising in, the kidney.

neph'ro·gon'a·duct (nĕf'rō·gŏn'ä·dŭkt), n. Zool. A nephridium which serves as a gonaduct.

neph'roid (nĕf'roid), adj. [nephr- + -oid.] Reniform.

Ne·phrol'e·pis (nē·frŏl'ē·pĭs; nĕ-), n. [NL., fr. nephro- + Gr. lepis scale.] Bot. A small genus of ferns (family Polypodiaceae), mainly tropical, having large pinnate fronds, the pinnae articulated at the rachis, with the sori on the upper branches of the free veins. From N. exaltata, the sword fern, the Boston fern was derived.

neph'ro·lith (nĕf'rō·lĭth), n. [nephro- + -lith.] Med. A renal calculus. See CALCULUS, 1.

neph'ro·lith'ic (nĕf'rō·lĭth'ĭk), adj. [nephro- + -lith + -ic.] Med. Of or pertaining to renal calculi; as, nephrolithic ischuria.

neph'ro·li·thot'o·my (-lĭ·thŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [nephrolith + -tomy.] Surg. The operation of removing a calculus from the kidney by incision; lithonephrotomy.

ne·phrol'o·gy (nē·frŏl'ō·jĭ; nĕ-), n. [nephro- + -logy.] The science which treats of the kidneys, their structure, functions, diseases, etc. — ne·phrol'o·gist (-jĭst), n.

neph'ro·ly'sin (nĕf'rō·lī'sĭn), n. Biochem. A specific nephrolytic toxin.

ne·phrol'y·sis (nē·frŏl'ĭ·sĭs; nĕ-), n. [NL., fr. nephro- + -lysis.] 1. Med. Destruction of kidney tissue.

2. The surgical operation of freeing the kidney from surrounding adhesions.

neph'ro·lyt'ic (nĕf'rō·lĭt'ĭk), adj. [nephro- + -lytic.] Biochem. Destructive to the kidneys.

neph'ro·mere (nĕf'rō·mēr), n. [nephro- + -mere.] Embryol. A segment of the mesoblast giving rise to a part of the kidney.

ne·phrop'a·thy (nē·frŏp'ä·thĭ; nĕ-), n. [nephro- + -pathy.] Med. Any disease of the kidney. — neph'ro·path'ic (nĕf'rō·păth'ĭk), adj.

neph'ro·pex'y (nĕf'rō·pĕk'sĭ), n. [nephro- + -pexy.] Surg. The operation of fixing a floating kidney.

neph'ro·pore (nĕf'rō·pōr; 181), n. Zool. A nephridiopore.

Neph'rops (nĕf'rŏps), n. [NL., fr. nephr- + Gr. ōps eye.] Zool. The genus containing the Norway lobster.

neph'rop·to'sis (nĕf'rŏp·tō'sĭs), n. [NL. See NEPHRO-; -PTOSIS.] Med. Abnormal sinking downwards of the kidney; floating kidney.

ne·phror'rha·phy (nē·frŏr'ä·fĭ; nĕ-), n. [nephro- + -rhaphy.] Surg. The fixation of a floating kidney by suturing it to the posterior abdominal wall.

neph'ros (nĕf'rŏs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nephros.] A kidney; — chiefly in combination, as in pro*nephros.*

ne·phro'sis (nē·frō'sĭs; nĕ-), n. [NL., fr. nephr- + -osis.] Med. Disease of the kidneys; specif., a noninflammatory, degenerative condition of the kidneys, distinguished from nephritis.

-ne·phro'sis (-nē·frō'sĭs; -nĕ·frō'-). [NL.] A combining form of nephrosis, as in hydro*nephrosis.*

neph'ro·stome (nĕf'rō·stōm), n. [NL. nephrostoma, fr. nephro- + -stoma.] Zool. See NEPHRIDIUM a. — ne·phros'to·mous (nē·frŏs'tō·mŭs; nĕ·frŏs'-), adj. — neph'ro·sto'mi·al (nĕf'rō·stō'mĭ·ăl), adj.

neph'ro·tome (nĕf'rō·tōm), n. [See NEPHROTOMY.] Embryol. In vertebrate embryos, the modified part of a primitive segment developing into an excretory tubule of the primitive kidney.

ne·phrot'o·my (nē·frŏt'ō·mĭ; nĕ-), n. [nephro- + -tomy.] Surg. Cutting into a kidney, as for the extraction of a stone. — ne·phrot'o·mize (-mīz), v. t.

neph'ro·tox'ic (nĕf'rō·tŏk'sĭk), adj. [nephro- + toxic.] Med. Poisonous to the kidney, as salts of mercury. — neph'ro·tox·ic'i·ty (-tŏk·sĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n.

neph'ro—u·re'ter·ec'to·my (-ū·rē'tĕr·ĕk'tō·mĭ), n. Surgical removal of the kidney and a part of the ureter.

Neph'thys (nĕf'thĭs), n. [Gr., fr. Egypt. Nebt-het, lit., the lady of the house.] Egypt. Relig. A goddess, daughter of Geb and Nut, sister and wife of Set, who with Isis was especially associated with the ritual of the dead.

nep'i·on'ic (nĕp'ĭ·ŏn'ĭk), adj. [Gr. nēpios infant.] Zool. Very young; postembryonal; larval; — said of a stage of development next succeeding the embryonic.

‖ne plus ul'tra (nē plŭs ŭl'trä). [L., no further, fr. ne no, not + plus more + ultra beyond.] 1. The uttermost point to which one can go or attain; hence, the summit of achievement; the acme.

The ne plus ultra of bell ringing. Scott.

2. A prohibition against proceeding further; an insuperable obstacle or limiting condition. Now Rare.

nep'man (nĕp'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One who engages in private trade as permitted by the Nep. Russia.

nep'o·tal (nĕp'ō·tăl), adj. Of, pert. to, or like, a nephew.

ne'pote (nē'pōt), n. [L. nepos, nepotis.] A nephew; also, Obs., a grandson. Scot.

ne·pot'ic (nē·pŏt'ĭk), adj. [See NEPOTISM.] Of or pertaining to nepotism; disposed to nepotism.

ne·po'tious (nē·pō'shŭs), adj. Nepotic. Rare.

nep'o·tism (nĕp'ō·tĭz'm), n. [F. népotisme, fr. It. nepotismo, fr. nepote nephew, fr. L. nepos, nepotis. See NEPHEW.] 1. Favoritism shown to nephews and other relatives; bestowal of patronage by reason of relationship rather than of merit.

From nepotism Alexander V was safe; for he was without kindred or relatives. Milman.

2. Excessive fondness for one's nephews. Rare.

— nep'o·tist (-tĭst), n. — nep'o·tis'ti·cal (-tĭs'tĭ·kăl), adj.

ne·pou'ite (nä·pou'ĭt; -pōō'ĭt), n. [From Nepoui, New Caledonia.] Mineral. A hydrous nickel magnesium silicate, $3(Ni,Mg)O.2SiO_2.2H_2O$.

Nep'tune (nĕp'tūn), n. [L. Neptunus.] 1. Rom. Relig. In primitive Roman religion, a god who had to do with the perpetuity of springs and streams, and not a sea-god. He was later completely identified with the Greek Poseidon as chief god of the sea. See POSEIDON.

2. Figuratively, the ocean; sea. Shak.

3. Astron. The third largest of the planets. Its diameter is about 33,000 miles, its mean distance from the sun, about 2,793,000,000 miles, and its period of revolution, 164.79 years. It is invisible to the naked eye, but appears greenish in a telescope. It is known to have one satellite. Its discovery, in 1846, as the result of computations of Leverrier, is regarded as one of the greatest triumphs of mathematical astronomy. Symbol, ♆, or ♅.

4. [not cap.] A copper or brass plate or pan used in trade with the natives of Africa.

5. The color Neptune green.

Neptune green. A color, green in hue, of medium saturation and medium brilliance; — called also Neptune. Cf. COLOR.

Nep'au·lese' (nĕp'ô·lēz'; -lēs'; 66). Var. of NEPALESE.

nepe. Var. of NEEP. New Dial.

Ne'pen·tha'ce·ae (nē'pĕn·thā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] See NEPENTHES, 2. — ne'pen·tha'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

Ne'pheg (nē'fĕg). Bib.

nephel-. = NEPHELO-.

neph'e·le·scope' (nĕf'ē·lē·skōp'), n. Incorrect for NEPHELOSCOPE.

neph'e·line, n. = NEPHELITE.

neph'ew·ship, n. See -SHIP.

Ne'phis (nē'fĭs). Bib.

Ne'phish (nē'fĭsh). Bib.

Ne·phish'e·sim (nē·fĭsh'ē·sĭm). Bib. [TUM.]

ne·phrid'i·a, n., pl. of NEPHRIDIUM.

nephridial gland. = NEPHRIDIUM.

neph'ron, n. = NEPHROS.

Ne·phrop'si·das (nē·frŏp'sĭ·dăz; nĕ-), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. = HOMARIDAE.

ne·phros'to·ma (nē·frŏs'tō·mä; nĕ-), n. [NL.] = NEPHROSTOME.

Neph'ta·li (nĕf'tä·lī). D. Bib.

Neph'ta·lites (-lĭts). D. Bib.

Neph'tha·lī (nĕf'thä·lī). Bib.

Neph'tha·lim (nĕf'thä·lĭm). Bib.

Neph·thu'a·ti (nĕf·thū'ä·tī). D. Bib. [D. Bib.]

Neph·to'a (nĕf·tō'ä; nĕf'tō·ä).]

Neph·to'ah (-ä). Bib.

Neph'tu·im (nĕf'tū·ĭm). D. Bib.

Ne·phu'sim (nē·fū'sĭm). Bib.

Nep'i·dae (nĕp'ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. See NEPA, 1. — nep'id (nĕp'ĭd), adj. & n. [Catnip. Obs.] nepte, n. [AS., fr. L. nepeta.]

Nep·tu'ne·an (nĕp·tū'nē·ăn). Var. of NEPTUNIAN.

Nep'tune's-cup' (nĕp'tūnz-kŭp'), n. Either of two very large cup-shaped sponges (Poterion neptuni and P. amphitritae), sometimes four feet high.

Nep·tu'ni·an (nĕp·tū'nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. [L. Neptunius.] 1. Of or pertaining to Neptune, the god, the planet, or, figuratively, the ocean.
2. [not cap.] Geol. Formed by the agency of water; pertaining to or designating the theory of the neptunists.

Nep·tu'ni·an, n. 1. An inhabitant of Neptune.
2. [not cap.] Geol. A neptunist.

Neptunian plain. The ocean surface. Poetic.

nep'tun·ism (nĕp'tū-nĭz'm), n. Geol. The theory of the neptunists.

Nep'tun·ist (nĕp'tū·nĭst), n. 1. A navigator. Obs.
2. [not cap.] Geol. One who held the now obsolete theory propounded by Werner that all of the rocks of the earth's crust were formed by the agency of water. Cf. PLUTONIST.

nep·tu'ni·um (nĕp·tū'nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Neptune the planet.] Chem. A radioactive element artificially produced by bombardment of uranium with neutrons, deuterons, etc. Symbol, Np; at. no., 93. The disintegration of neptunium proceeds with the emission of an electron and formation of plutonium.

Ne're·id (nēr'ē·ĭd), n. [L. Nereis, -idis, fr. Gr. Nēreis, Nērēis, -idos, a daughter of Nereus, an ancient sea god, fr. Nēreus; akin to Gr. naein to flow. See NOURISH.] 1. Gr. Myth. A sea nymph. The Nereids, fifty or one hundred in number, were the daughters of Nereus and Doris, and attendants upon Poseidon. They were represented as riding sea horses and other sea monsters, and usually as having the human form.
2. In modern Greek folklore, any nymph of springs, trees, etc., as well as of the sea. These spirits are usually considered to be malevolent.
3. [not cap.] Zool. Any species of the genus Nereis or family Nereidae; often, loosely, any of various other polychaete worms, esp. of the order Errantia.

Ne're·id·i·for'mi·a (-ĭ·fôr'mĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL. See NEREID; -FORM.] Zool. A large suborder of polychaete worms, nearly equivalent to Errantia, including the free-swimming or burrowing and a few tubicolous forms. — ne're·id'i·form'.

Ne're·is (nēr'ē·ĭs), n.; pl. NEREIDES (nē·rē'ĭ·dēz). [L.] 1. Gr. Myth. A Nereid. See NEREID.
2. Zool. A large genus of predaceous marine polychaetous worms (suborder Nereidiformia) having the body composed of numerous segments each bearing a pair of biramous

Nereis (N. pelagica): (½) parapodia. Some species are dimorphic (see HETERONEREIS). Most of them live in burrows in the mud or sand or among rocks in shallow water; some are free-swimming. Nereis virens is common on the Atlantic coast of the United States. The genus is the type of a family, Ne·re'i·dae (nē·rē'ĭ·dē).

3. [not cap.] Any marine worm of the genus Nereis.

ne're·ite (nēr'ē·īt), n. Paleontol. A fossil worm track.

Ne're·o·cys'tis (nē'rē·ō·sĭs'tĭs), n. [NL. See NEREID; -CYST.] Bot. A genus of gigantic seaweeds (family Laminariaceae), bladder kelps, of the North Pacific. The stem is used by Alaskans for fishing lines. The single species N. lütkeana, the sea-otter's-cabbage, yields potash.

Ne'reus (nēr'ūs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Nēreus. See NEREID.] Gr. Myth. A sea god, father of the Nereids.

Ner'gal (nûr'găl), n. [Heb. Nērgal, fr. Assyr.-Bab. Ne-ri-gal, for Ne-unu-gal, the lord of the great abode (Hades).] Babylon. Relig. The god of the midsummer sun, the sun in its burning, destructive aspect; also, the god of war and pestilence, and in the later mythology (as a result of having married Eresh-Kigal) the supreme lord of the world of the dead. Mentioned in 2 Kings xvii. 30. Cf. ARALU.

Ne·ri'ne (nē·rī'nē), n. [NL., fr. L. Nerine Nereid.] Bot. a A genus of fifteen species of South African bulbous herbs (family Amaryllidaceae) with strap-shaped leaves and showy, lilylike, red flowers. N. sarniensis, the Guernsey flower, is usually crimson. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Ne·ris'sa (nē·rĭs'ȧ), n. Portia's clever waiting woman in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.

Ne·ri'ta (nē·rī'tȧ), n. [L., a sort of sea mussel, fr. Gr. nēritēs, nēreitēs. See NEREUS.] Zool. A genus of marine snails (suborder Rhipidoglossa), type of a family, Ne·rit'i·dae (nē·rĭt'ĭ·dē). — ner'i·toid (nĕr'ĭ·toid), adj. & n.

Nerita (N. ustulata). Nat. size.

ne·rit'ic (nē·rĭt'ĭk), adj. [See NERITA.] Biol. Of, pertaining to, or designating, the belt or region of shallow water adjoining the seacoast; as, the neritic zone or fauna.

Ner'i·ti'na (nĕr'ĭ·tī'nȧ), n. [NL.] Zool. A genus of snails of the family Neritidae, closely allied to Nerita, but chiefly inhabiting fresh and brackish waters.

Neritina (N. sebra). Nat. size.

Ne'ri·um (nē'rĭ·ŭm), n. [L., oleander, fr. Gr. nērion.] Bot. A small genus of tropical Old World shrubs, family Apocynaceae, having coriaceous verticillate leaves and large handsome red or white fragrant flowers. N. oleander is the oleander.

Nernst dis'tri·bu'tion law (nĕrnst). [After Walter Nernst (b. 1864), Ger. physicist.] Phys. Chem. The law that the ratio in which a dissolved substance distributes itself between two immiscible solvents (the coefficient of distribution or partition) is a constant at constant temperature.

Nernst effect. Elec. A transverse electromotive force, analogous to the Hall effect, produced when a metal through which a flow of heat occurs is placed in a magnetic field. The effect is observed when the magnetic lines of force are perpendicular to the thermal flux.

Nernst glower. = NERNST LAMP.

Nernst heat theorem. Thermodyn. Specif., a theorem giving the quantitative relation between the free energy change A and the total energy change U, of a reaction. It is: $A = U_0 - \beta T^3 - \gamma \frac{T^5}{2} - \delta \frac{T^7}{4}$ (where U_0 is U at absolute zero, T is absolute temperature, and β, γ, and δ are constants).

Nernst lamp. An electric incandescent lamp the filament or rod of which consists of a mixture of magnesia with oxides of the rare-earth metals. This mixture, on being raised to a high temperature, as by a glowing platinum spiral, becomes luminous and conducting, and may be kept thus by the passage of a comparatively weak current and without a vacuum.

1 Small Type of Nernst Lamp with casing partly removed.

2 Diagrammatic Sectional View of Head. A Heating Coil surrounding Filament B; C Iron Resistance; D Chamber containing Electromagnet E; F Flat Spring forming Armature of E; G Hydrogen-filled Bulb containing C. When the current first passes, A becomes incandescent and heats B, which at about 600° C. becomes a conductor and establishes a shunt circuit including the electromagnet. The Armature F is attracted, thereby breaking the circuit including A. C is included in the circuit of B to compensate for the inverse variation of B's conductivity.

‖ne'ro·an·ti'co (nā'rō·ăn·tē'kō), n. [It., fr. nero black + antico ancient.] Art. A beautiful black marble, found in fragments among Roman ruins, and usually thought to have come from ancient Laconia.

Ne·ro'ic (nē·rō'ĭk), adj. Neronian.

ner'o·li cam'phor (nĕr'ō·lĭ; nē'rō-). [F. néroli, fr. It. neroli, said to be from the name of an Italian princess.] Chem. A white crystalline paraffin, tasteless and odorless, obtained from neroli oil.

neroli oil. A yellowish essential oil obtained from orange flowers, chiefly by distillation, and used in cologne and other perfumes, in liqueurs, etc.

Ne·ro'ni·an (nē·rō'nĭ·ăn), adj. [L. Neronianus.] Like, of, or pert. to, Nero (Roman emperor 54–68 A.D.), a profligate and cruel tyrant.

Ne·ron'ic (nē·rŏn'ĭk), adj. Neronian.

Ne'ro·nize (nē'rō·nīz), v. t. & i.; -NIZED (-nīzd); -NIZ'ING (-nīz'ĭng). To charge with being, to tend to make, or to be, like Nero, esp. in depravity, tyranny, or cruelty.

Ne'ro's-crown' (nē'rōz-kroun'), n. The crape jasmine.

ner'ter·ol'o·gy (nûr'tĕr·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [Gr. nerteros lower, nerteroi, pl., the dead, those in the lower world + -logy.] Learning about the dead. Rare.

Ner'thri·dae (nûr'thrĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Nerthrus, type genus (prob. fr. L. Nerthus, Teut. earth-goddess) + -idae.] Zool. A family of insects (order Hemiptera) consisting of the toad bugs, type genus Ner'thrus (-thrŭs). Syn. Galgulidae, Gelastocoridae.

Ner'thus (nûr'thŭs), n. [L., of Teut. origin; cf. ON. Njörthr, name of a god.] Teut. Myth. A goddess, probably of peace and fertility, whose chief seat of worship was the island of Seeland. She is called by Tacitus Terra Mater.

nerv'al (nûr'văl), n. [M.L. nervale.] A salve for the sinews.

nerv'al (nûr'văl), adj. [F. nerval, or L. nervalis.] Of or pertaining to nerves; neural.

nerv'ate (nûr'vāt), adj. Also nerv'at·ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119). Bot. Nerved.

nerv'ate, v. t. To strengthen or reinforce. Obs.

ner·va'tion (nûr·vā'shŭn), n. The arrangement of nerves, esp. those of leaves; neuration; venation.

nerv'a·ture (nûr'vȧ·tŭr), n. Nervation.

nerve (nûrv), n. [L. nervus; prob. akin to Gr. neuron sinew, nerve, Skr. snāvan. See NEEDLE; cf. NEURALGIA, NEUROTIC.] 1. A sinew or tendon. Obs., exc.: a In the phrase to strain every nerve, that is, to put forth the utmost exertion. b A sinew or tendon taken from an animal, as for a bowstring.
2. One of the cordlike or filamentous bands of nervous tissue that connect parts of the nervous system with the other organs of the body, and conduct nervous impulses to or away from these organs. A nerve is made up essentially of fibers (see NERVE FIBER). The fibers of the larger nerves are gathered into bundles, or funiculi. Each funiculus is surrounded by a connective-tissue sheath (perineurium), and these are further enclosed in a common sheath (epineurium).
3. That part of anything that is regarded as the source or transmitter of vitality, force, sensation, etc.; as, Washington was the nerve of the Continental army.
4. Physical force or steadiness; muscular power and control; constitutional vigor; energy; strength.

> He led me on to mightiest deeds,
> Above the nerve of mortal arm. Milton.

5. a Power of endurance that is mental rather than physical; self-command under strain; coolness; pluck; resolution; as, to work on one's nerve; to lose one's nerve. b Slang. Audacity; "cheek."
6. pl. a State in reference to sensitiveness and adjustment between the nervous system and the bodily mechanism; as, he has nerves of steel. b Acute, often hysterical, nervousness; as, an attack of nerves.
7. A (specified) respect in which one is nervously sensitive; a weak spot; as, to touch one's pocketbook nerve. Colloq.
8. [F. nerfs, pl.] Arch. A rib, as of a Gothic vault. Rare.
9. Bot. = VEIN.
10. Dent. The sensitive pulp of a tooth.
11. Rubber. The aggregate of the physical properties, esp. elasticity, characteristic of raw rubber; rubbery quality.
12. Textiles. Strength and durability of wool fiber.
13. Zool. A vein or nervure in the wing of an insect.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

nerve-ache	nerve-irritating,	nerve-shaking, adj.
nerve-celled	adj.	nerve-stretching,
nerve-cutting, adj.	nerve-racked	adj.
nerve-deaf	nerve-rending, adj.	nerve-tingling, adj.
nerve-deafness	nerve-ridden	nerve-trying, adj.
nerve-destroying, adj.	nerve-shaken	nerve-winged, adj.

nerve, adj. Of or pertaining to the nerves.

nerve (nûrv), v. t.; NERVED (nûrvd); NERV'ING (nûr'vĭng). To give strength, vigor, or courage to; to supply with physical or moral force; as, fear nerved his arm.

nerve block. Physiol. & Surg. Interruption of the passage of impulses through a nerve, as with pressure or narcotization; hence, block anesthesia (see ANESTHESIA, 1).

nerve canal. = PULP CANAL.

nerve cavity. = PULP CAVITY.

nerve cell. Anat. One of the characteristic cells of nerve tissue, occurring in the gray matter of the brain and spinal cord, and in the ganglia and retina. In man and the higher animals, typical nerve cells are composed of soft reddish or grayish-brown protoplasm, containing irregular granules (Nissl granules). They have a large nucleus, usually with a conspicuous nucleolus, and are produced into long protoplasmic processes, called axons and dendrites. The axon (usually one to each cell) forms the axis cylinder of a nerve fiber. The dendrites, of which there may be many, are finely branched and interlace with the processes of other nerve cells. In a strict sense the term nerve cell includes these processes, but in ordinary usage it designates only the cell body from which they arise. Cf. NEURON.

nerve center. Anat. & Physiol. A group of associated nerve cells controlling those impulses concerned with or regulating any bodily function, as respiration.

nerve cord. A cord of nervous tissue; specif., Zool., the pair of closely united ventral longitudinal nerves, with their segmental ganglia, which is characteristic of many elongate invertebrates, as earthworms.

-nerved (-nûrvd). A combining form of nerved, denoting having (so many or such) nerves, as in:

basal-nerved	five-nerved	single-nerved costal-nerved	full-nerved	strong-nerved false-nerved	many-nerved	triple-nerved fan-nerved	quintuple-nerved	weak-nerved nerve eminence. Zool. An epithelial sense organ of cyclostomes, fishes, and many amphibians, consisting of cells exposed on the surface of the skin or sunken in a pit or closed canal, and usually receiving branches from the nervus lateralis.

nerve ending. Anat. The structure in which the distal end of the axis cylinder of a nerve fiber terminates.

nerve fiber. Anat. A protoplasmic process (axon or dendrite) of a nerve cell. A nerve fiber may be surrounded by a delicate homogeneous sheath (neurilemma) provided at intervals with flattened nuclei. In the higher animals many nerve fibers (distinguished as white or medullated) have, immediately surrounding the axis cylinder, a sheath of white fatty substance (myelin) making up the medullary sheath, which is interrupted at intervals by constrictions (nodes of Ranvier). Fibers lacking the medullary sheath are said to be nonmedullated or gray. There are four types of nerve fibers: (1) medullated fibers with a neurilemma, found in the peripheral nervous system, esp. in the cranial and spinal nerves; (2) medullated fibers without a neurilemma, found in the central nervous system; (3) nonmedullated fibers with a neurilemma (fibers of Remak), found esp. in the sympathetic system; (4) fibers without coverings of any kind, found abundantly in the gray matter of the brain and spinal cord. Nerve fibers are also classified as motor and sensory, efferent and afferent, effectors and receptors, etc.

nerve impulse. = NERVOUS IMPULSE.

nerve'less, adj. 1. Destitute of strength or of courage; wanting vigor; weak; powerless; inert; unnerved.

> Awaking, all nerveless, from an ugly dream. Hawthorne.

2. Without nerves.
— nerve'less·ly, adv. — nerve'less·ness, n.

nerve'let (nûrv'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. A little nerve.

nerve net. Anat. & Zool. A network of primitive nerve cells, or protoneurones, each of which appears continuous with one or several adjacent cells, without intervening synapses. Stimulation may therefore be conducted in all directions and with a decrement (cf. SYNAPTIC NERVOUS SYSTEM). A nerve net constitutes the chief nervous system of certain animals, as sea anemones, and occurs in the intestinal wall of vertebrates.

nerve of Co·tun'ni·us (kō·tŭn'ĭ·ŭs). [After Domenico Cotugno (L. Cotunnius) (1736–1822), It. anatomist.] Anat. The nasopalatine nerve.

nerve of Lan·ci'si (län·chē'zē). [After G. M. Lancisi (1654–1720), It. anatomist.] = STRIA LONGITUDINALIS.

nerve of Wris'berg (vrĭs'bĕrg). See FACIAL NERVE.

nerv'er (nûr'vĕr), n. One who nerves.

nerve'-rack'ing, adj. Extremely trying on the nerves.

nerve ring. Zool. A circumesophageal ring formed of ganglia and commissures, as in the lobster.

nerve'root' (nûrv'rōōt'; 200), n. The yellow lady's-slipper; also, the moccasin flower. U. S.

nerve sheath. Anat. = NEURILEMMA.

nerve stretching. Surg. Neurectasy.

nerve trunk. Anat. A bundle of nerve fibers enclosed in a connective-tissue sheath.

nerve'-wrack'ing. Var. of NERVE-RACKING.

ner'vi- (nûr'vĭ-), ner'vo- (-vō-). Combining forms from Latin nervus, nerve, as in nerviduct, nervomuscular.

ner'vid (nûr'vĭd), adj. Having nerve or strength. Rare.

ner'vi·duct (nûr'vĭ·dŭkt), n. [See NERVI-; DUCT.] Anat. A bony or cartilaginous passage transmitting a nerve.

Ner'vi·i (nûr'vĭ·ĭ), n. pl. [L.] A Celtic-German tribe of Belgium almost exterminated by Julius Caesar, 57 B.C. ner'vi·mo'tion (nûr'vĭ·mō'shŭn), n. [See NERVE; MOTION.] Physiol. Movement due to stimuli transmitted to the muscles by the nerves.

ner'vi·mo'tor (-mō'tĕr), n. [See NERVE; MOTOR.] Physiol. Any agent capable of causing nervimotion. — adj. a Pertaining to nervimotion. b Pertaining to a motor nerve.

nerv'ine (nûr'vēn; -vĭn; 277), adj. [NL. nervinus; cf. F. nervin. See NERVE.] Med. Having the quality of affecting the nerves; soothing nervous excitement.

nerv'ine, n. 1. A nervine agent; a nerve tonic.
2. Any species of Cypripedium; — so called from their reputed tonic properties. Local, U. S.

‖ner'vi ner·vo'rum (nûr'vĭ nûr·vō'rŭm). [NL., nerves of nerves.] Anat. Small nerve filaments innervating the sheath of a larger nerve.

nerv'ing (nûr'vĭng), n. Veter. The removal of part of a nerve trunk, in cases of chronic inflammation, to destroy sensation in the parts supplied and thus cure lameness.

nerv'ish (-vĭsh), adj. Nervous. Scot., Dial. Eng., & Ir.

nerv'ism (nûr'vĭz'm), n. 1. Nerve force.
2. Nervous excitement.

ner'vo·san·guin'e·ous (nûr'vō·săng·gwĭn'ē·ŭs), adj. Of a nervous and sanguine temperament.

ner'vose (nûr'vōs; nûr·vōs'), adj. [See NERVOUS.] 1. a Obs. Sinewy; vigorous. b Now Rare. Of or pertaining to the nerves; affecting the nerves.
2. Nerved; having nerves.

ner'vo·sism (nûr'vō·sĭz'm), n. Nervosity.

ner·vos'i·ty (nûr·vŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. nervositas strength.] Condition or quality of being nervous or nerved.

> The two Goncourts, . . . whose work may be summed up in one word, nervosity. Encyc. Brit.

‖ne quid de'tri·men'ti res·pu'bli·ca ca'pi·at (dē'tĭ·rĭ·mĕn'tĭ rĕz·pŭb'lĭ·kȧ). [L.] That the republic receive no injury.

‖ne quid ni'mis. [L.] Not anything too much or too far; (let there be) no excess; meden agan.

ner. Var. of NEAR, NOR. Now Dial.
ner. † NAR, nearer; NE'ER, never. Ner (nûr). Bib. nere. Var. of NEAR. Now Dial. nere. Contr. of ne were, were, or wert, not. Obs.
nere. † NE'ER, never.
Ner'e·gal (nĕr'ē·găl). D. Bib.
Ne'reus (nē'rē·ŭs; nē'rē·ŭs). Bib. nerf, n. [OF., fr. L. nervus. See NERVE.] A sinew. Obs.
Ner'gal-sha-re'zer (nûr'găl-shȧ-rĕz'zĕr). Bib.
Ne'ri (nē'rē), n. pl. [It., lit., blacks.] See BIANCHI.
Ne'ri (nē'rĭ). Bib. [Bib.] Ne·ri'ah (nē·rī'ȧ), Ne·ri'as (-ăs.) nert. Obs. contr. of ne art, art not.
nerv. Nerve. Raf. Sp.
nerve'-celled', adj. See -CELLED. nerve'proof' (66), adj. See -PROOF.
‖ner'vi, n., pl. of NERVUS.
‖ner'vi e'ri·gen'tes (nûr'vĭ ĕ'rĭ·jĕn'tēz), pl. of NERVUS ERIGENS. ner'vi·ly, adv. of NERVY. ner'vi·mus'cu·lar (nûr'vĭ·mŭs'kū·lĕr), adj. = NEUROMUSCULAR. ner'vi·ness (nûr'vĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. See -NESS. ner'vo- (nûr'vō-). = NERVI-. ner'vo·mus'cu·lar (-mŭs'kū·lĕr), adj. = NEUROMUSCULAR.

ner'vous (nûr'vŭs), adj. [L. nervosus sinewy, vigorous; cf. F. nerveux. See NERVE.] 1. Sinewy; strong; vigorous. "Nervous arms." Pope. "Nervous strength." Scott. 2. Like a sinew or tendon; having strong or abundant sinews or tendons; — said of animals, meat, etc. Obs. 3. Possessing or manifesting vigor of mind; characterized by strength of thought, feeling, or style; forcible; spirited. "Nervous, idiomatic English." W. D. Whitney. 4. Full of, or abounding in, nerves; as, the nervous parts. 5. Of, having the quality of, or pertaining to, a nerve or nerves; seated in the nerves; affected by, or employing, the nerves; as, nervous excitement, fever, energy. Also, affecting the nerves; as, nervous drugs, experience. 6. a Having the nerves weak, diseased, or easily excited; subject to, or suffering from, undue excitement of the nerves; easily agitated or annoyed; excitable. b Hence: Timid; fearful; apprehensive. 7. Tending to produce nervousness; agitating; critical.

The moment was nervous — as far as the private secretary knew, quite the most critical moment in the records of American diplomacy. Henry Adams.

Syn. — Highstrung, sensitive, touchy.
Ant. — Phlegmatic, sluggish.
— nerv'ous·ly, adv. — nerv'ous·ness, n.

nerv'ous, v. t. To make nervous; to irritate. Dial.

nervous breakdown. a Also nervous prostration. A condition of mental depression and unusual ineffectiveness. b The passing into such a condition.

nervous dyspepsia. See DYSPEPSIA.

nervous fluid. Physiol. A hypothetical fluid formerly thought to circulate through nerves, and regarded as the essential agent in transmitting impulses.

nervous impulse. Physiol. The change (in the protoplasm), associated with redistribution of electrical charge, which travels like a wave along a nerve fiber when it is stimulated. It is responsible, in sensory nerves, for sensation, and in motor nerves for the contraction of muscles and other effector responses.

nervous system. The nerve cells (neurons or protoneurons) and associated cells, collectively, which among higher forms are organized into nerves and nerve centers, and which coordinate and regulate excitation of effectors, as muscles and glands, and directly condition behavior and consciousness. The essential constituents are nerve-cell bodies (perikarya) and their processes, the nerve fibers (axons and dendrites). (See NERVE CELL; NERVE, 2.) In all higher, and some lower, animals they form a central nervous system with peripheral connections. In vertebrates the nervous system is described as comprising two major parts, the cerebrospinal nervous system and the autonomic nervous system.

ner'vule (nûr'vūl), n. [L. nervulus, dim.] A small nerve. — ner'vu·lar (-vū·lĕr), adj.

ner'vu·let (-vū·lĕt), n. A nervule. Rare.

ner'vu·lose (-lōs), adj. Minutely nerved.

ner'vure (nûr'vūr), n. [F. See NERVE.] a Arch. = NERVE, 8. b Bot. A nerve or vein. c Zool. One of the thickened lines or ribs in the wings of insects.

‖ner'vus (nûr'vŭs), n.; pl. -VI (-vī). [L.] Anat. & Zool. A nerve.

‖ner'vus e'ri·gens (ē'rĭ·jĕnz); pl. NERVI ERIGENTES (nûr'vī ĕr'ĭ·jĕn'tēz). [NL.] Any one of the three autonomic nerves supplying visceromotor and vasodilator fibers to the bladder, prostate gland, and external genitalia.

‖ner'vus fur·ca'lis (fûr·kā'lĭs). [NL.] Anat. The fourth lumbar nerve.

‖ner'vus in'ter·me'di·us (ĭn'tĕr·mē'dĭ·ŭs). [NL.] See FACIAL NERVE.

‖ner'vus la'te·ra'lis (lăt'ĕ·rā'lĭs). [NL.] Zool. A nerve supplying a lateral line organ, esp. a large branch of the pneumogastric, which is the principal nerve of that organ.

‖ner'vus ter'mi·na'lis (tûr'mĭ·nā'lĭs). [NL.] Anat. A slender ganglionated nerve associated with the olfactory nerves in most vertebrates from fishes to man.

nerv'y (nûr'vĭ), adj.; NERV'I·ER (-vĭ·ĕr); -I·EST. 1. Strong; sinewy. "His nervy knees." Keats. 2. Colloq. Characterized by assurance; bold. 3. Requiring nerve; also, affecting one's nerves. 4. Nervously unsteady; jerky; as, nervy steps; also, Brit., excitable; nervous.

nes'ci·ence (nĕsh'ĭ·ĕns) nĕsh'ĕns), n. [LL. nescentia, fr. L. nesciens, -entis, pres. part. of nescire not to know, fr. ne not + scire to know. See NO, adv.; SCIENCE.] 1. Lack of knowledge or the impossibility of knowledge; state of not knowing, or quality of being not known or not knowable; esp., Philos., the doctrine that God, and all that goes beyond natural phenomena, are incapable of being known.

His nescience was profound. H. G. Wells.

2. The unknown. Rare.

nes'ci·ent (-ĕnt), adj. [L. nesciens, pres. part. See NESCIENCE.] Exhibiting, or characterized by, nescience; ignorant; agnostic. — n. An agnostic.

ness (nĕs), n. [ME. nese, neose; akin to MLG. nese. Cf. NESS.] Nose. Obs. exc. Scot.

nesh (nĕsh), adj. [AS. hnesce; akin to Goth. hnasqus.] Obs. exc. Dial. a Soft; tender; juicy; also, Obs., moist. b Slack; timid; delicate; weak. c Obs. Mild; kindly; yielding. d Dainty; fastidious; squeamish. — nesh'ly, adv. — nesh'ness, n.

nesh, adv. Neshly. Obs. exc. Dial.

nesh, v. t. & i. [AS. hnescian.] a Obs. To make or become soft. b Dial. Eng. To act timidly; to funk; — with it.

-nesia. [NL.] A combining form, from Greek nēsos, island, used for region, as in Australo*nesia*, Poly*nesia*. Derivative adjectives are formed in -nesian.

Ne'si·ot (nē'sĭ·ŏt), n. Indonesian.

ne'si·ote (nē'sĭ·ōt), adj. [Gr. nēsiōtēs.] Inhabiting an island.

Nes'khi, Nes'ki (nĕs'kĭ), n. [Ar. naskhī, fr. nasakh to abolish, copy.] The ordinary cursive Arabic script used in writing scientific and, esp., religious books. — Nes'khi, Nes'ki, adj.

Nes'li·a (nĕs'lĭ'·ä), n. [NL., after J. A. N. de Nesle (fl. 1800), French botanist.] Bot. A genus of Old World annual or biennial herbs, family Brassicaceae, having as its only known species N. paniculata, the ball mustard.

ne'so- (nē'sō-). A combining form, Greek nēso-, from nēsos, meaning island, as in *Nesoga*ea.

Ne'so·gae'a (nē'sō·jē'ä), n. [NL., fr. neso- + Gr. gaia earth.] Biogeog. The Polynesian region. — Ne'so·gae'an, Ne'so·ge'an (-ăn), adj.

Ne·so'ki·a (nē·sō'kĭ·ä), n. [NL.] Zool. A genus of ratlike burrowing rodents of India having a long scaly tail.

Ne'so·net'ta (nē'sō·nĕt'ä), n. [NL., fr. neso- + Gr. nētta duck.] Zool. A genus of flightless ducks consisting of one species (N. auckландica), of the Auckland Islands.

Ne·sot'ra·gus (nē·sŏt'rä·gŭs), n. [NL., fr. neso- + Gr. tragos goat.] Zool. A genus of very small antelopes of southeastern Africa comprising N. moschatus and N. livingstonei.

nes'que·ho'nite (nĕs'kĕ·hō'nīt), n. [From Nesquehoning Valley, Pa., a Lenape place name, lit., at the black deer lick.] Mineral. A colorless hydrous magnesium carbonate, $MgCO_3 3H_2O$, in prismatic crystals.

ness (nĕs), n. [AS. næs, nes; akin to ON. nes, Sw. näs, Dan. næs, and E. NOSE.] A promontory; a cape; a headland; — often used as a suffix in place and family names; as, Sheer*ness*, Hark*ness*.

-ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119). [AS. -ness, -nyss, -nys; akin to OS. -nissi, -nussi, D. -nis, OHG. -nissa, -nassī, -nussī, G. -nis, -niss, Goth. -inassus. The n (in) orig. was part of the stem, not of the suffix proper.] A suffix used primarily to form abstract nouns denoting in general state, condition, quality, or degree, as in good*ness*, great*ness*, sick*ness*, quality or state of being good, great, sick. These nouns often have various derivative senses, as that of: (1) a particular instance of the quality or state; thus, he showed them many kind*nesses*; (2) something exhibiting or causing the quality or state; thus, in the midst of that green*ness;* to rub off the dim*ness* from a glass. The suffix forms a few nouns which are primarily concrete, as in wit*ness*, wilder*ness*. Cf. -ITY, -MENT. It is used chiefly with native adjectives, but now also with those of Latin origin, where, however, a suffix of Latin origin, as -ity, is in general preferred, as in spiritual*ness*, for spiritual*ity*. It is now added also, usually jocosely, to pronouns, adverbs, and phrases, as in why*ness*, everyday*ness*.

Nes'sel·rode pud'ding (nĕs'ĕl·rōd). [After Count K. R. Nesselrode, Russ. diplomat.] a A gelatin pudding containing chestnuts. b A rich ice cream containing chestnuts, candied fruit, and maraschino.

ness'ler·ize, Ness'ler·ize (nĕs'lĕr·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [After Julius Nessler (1827–1905), Ger. chemist.] Anal. Chem. To treat or test with Nessler reagent. — -i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'shŭn), n.

Ness'ler jar, cyl'in·der, glass, or tube (nĕs'lĕr). Anal. Chem. A narrow cylindrical glass jar, used for comparing the colors of liquids, as in the Nessler test.

Nessler reagent or solution. Anal. Chem. An alkaline solution of potassium and mercuric iodide, used in a delicate test (Nessler reaction or test) for ammonia in aqueous solution, as when obtained from water, blood, urine, etc.

Nes'sus (nĕs'ŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Nessos.] Gr. Myth. A Centaur shot with a poisoned arrow by Hercules for trying to ravish his wife, Deianira. In obedience to the dying advice of Nessus, Deianira steeped her husband's shirt in the Centaur's blood as a love charm, but it poisoned his flesh, causing such agony that he killed himself.

nest (nĕst), n. [AS.; akin to D. & G. nest, OIr. net, W. nyth, L. nidus, Lith. lizdas, Armen. nist seat, site, Skr. nīḍa resting place, nest; from the particle ni down, Skr. ni + the root of E. sit, and thus orig., a place to sit down in. See NETHER; SIT. Cf. EYAS, NICHE, NIDIFICATION, NYE.] 1. The bed or receptacle prepared by a bird or fowl for holding its eggs and for hatching and rearing its young.

2. Hence, the place in which the eggs of other animals, as insects, fishes, turtles, etc., are laid and hatched; a settled and often concealed place in which young animals are reared.

3. Any snug, comfortable, or cozy residence or retreat; a lodging; also, the place of deposit of something.

A little cottage, like some poor man's nest. Spenser.

4. A place where persons of a certain character (usually bad) live or gather or where certain conditions (usually evil) prevail; abode; haunt; den; as, a nest of traitors.

5. The inhabitants, occupants, or frequenters of a nest, collectively; swarm; as, a nest of mice, hornets, outlaws.

6. A collection, set, or group of similar objects or immaterial things; as, a nest of bushes, miracles; specif.: a A graduated series of boxes, cases, bowls, or the like, each put within the one next larger. b A crowded group of buildings and narrow streets.

7. Geol. A small isolated mass of any ore or mineral within another formation.

8. Mach. A compact group of pulleys, gears, springs, etc., working together or collectively; a group of boilers, or of tubes in a water-tube boiler, or the like.

9. Med. More fully cell nest. An isolated collection or clump of cells in tissue of a different structure; as, a cancer nest.

nest, v.; NEST'ED; NEST'ING. Transitive: 1. To put into a nest; to form a nest for; to settle or place in or as in a nest.

2. To pack or fit one within another in a graduated series.

—, Intransitive: 1. To build or occupy a nest; to settle down in or as in a nest.

2. To hunt for birds' nests.

nest'a·ble (nĕs'tä·b'l), adj. That may be nested.

nest'age (nĕs'tĭj), n. Nests; a place of nests or a nest.

nest box. a A box containing a nest of graduated receptacles. b A box designed as a nest for a hen.

‖n'est-ce pas' (nĕs·pä') ? [F.] Isn't it so? — often used when the speaker expects agreement with his statement or opinion previously expressed, or when he expects a simple affirmative answer.

nest egg. 1. An egg left in the nest to prevent the hen from forsaking it, and to induce her to lay more in the same place; hence, figuratively, something laid up as the beginning of a fund or collection, or as a reserve.

2. A decoy; an artificial inducement. Washington.

nest'er (nĕs'tĕr), n. 1. One who or that which nests, as a bird; specif., one who nests boxes, ware, etc.

2. A settler on a small ranch, esp. a squatter without legal rights; also, sometimes, a homesteader. Western U. S.

nest fungus. Any fungus of the family Nidulariaceae.

nes'ti·at'ri·a (nĕs'tĭ·ăt'rĭ·ä; -ā'trĭ·ä; nĕs·tĭ'ä·trĭ'ä), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nēstis fasting + -iatria.] Med. Nestitherapy.

nes'ti·ther'a·py (nĕs'tĭ·thĕr'ä·pĭ), n. [Gr. nēstis fasting + -therapy.] Med. Treatment by reducing the amount of food.

nes'tle (nĕs'l), v.; NES'TLED (-ld); NES'TLING (nĕs'lĭng). [AS. nestlian.] Intransitive: 1. To make and occupy a nest; to nest. Now Rare.

2. To lie close and snug, as a bird in her nest; to cuddle up; to settle, as in a nest; to take shelter. "Their purpose was to fortify in some strong place . . . and there nestle." Bacon.

3. To move about in one's place, like a bird when shaping the interior of her nest or a young bird getting close to the parent; as, a child nestles to its mother's breast.

4. To take up one's abode; to settle. Obs.

5. To be restless; to fidget. Now Dial. Eng.

—, Transitive: 1. To settle, shelter, or house, as in a nest; to provide with a nest or cozy retreat.

2. To cherish, as a bird her young. Rare.

3. To move (a part of the body) against or into something as if nestling; as, the child nestles his head on her breast.

nes'tler (nĕs'lĕr), n. One who or that which nestles; specif., a nestling.

nest'ling (nĕst'lĭng; nĕs'lĭng), n. [nest + 1st -ling.] A young bird which has not abandoned the nest; hence, a very young child.

nes'tling (nĕs'lĭng), n. [nestle, v. + -ing.] Nest; retreat. Obs.

Nes'tor (nĕs'tôr; -tĕr), n. [L., fr. Gr. Nestōr.] 1. A king of Pylos, who in his old age joined the Greek expedition against Troy and was noted as a wise counselor.

2. Figuratively, an old man pre-eminent for wisdom.

3. [NL.] Zool. A genus of large parrots of New Zealand and Papuasia, including the kaka and the kea. It is the type of a family, Nes·tor'i·dae (nĕs·tôr'ĭ·dē), or subfamily, Nes'tor·i'nae (nĕs'tō·rī'nē).

Nes·to'ri·an (nĕs·tō'rĭ·ăn; 181), n. Eccl. Hist. a An adherent of Nestorius, patriarch of Constantinople, condemned as a heretic by the Council of Ephesus in 431. b A member of one of the churches founded by his followers. The Christology of these churches represents that in Jesus Christ a divine person (the Logos) and a human person were joined in perfect harmony of action but not in the unity of a single individual. The Nestorians were driven out of their churches and schools and for a time multiplied amazingly outside the bounds of the Empire, in Persia, India, Mongolia, and China. A remnant of the once powerful church survives in the Near East. — Nes·to'ri·an·ism (-īz'm), n. — Nes·to'ri·an·ize (-īz), v. i. — Nes·to'ri·an·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n.

Nes·to'ri·an, adj. 1. Of or relating to the Nestorians or Nestorius; connected with, or adhering to, Nestorianism.

2. Relating to, or resembling, Nestor, the aged warrior and counselor; hence, wise; aged; as, Nestorian caution.

Nestorian alphabet. A Syriac alphabet widely spread by Nestorian missionaries.

Nestorian rite. See LITURGY, 1 a (1).

nes'tor·ine (nĕs'tĕr·ĭn), adj. Of or pert to the genus Nestor, or the subfamily Nestorinae. See NESTOR, n., 3.

nest'y (nĕs'tĭ), adj. Full of nests. Kipling.

nes'ty (nĕs'tĭ). Scot. var. of NASTY.

net (nĕt), n. [AS.; akin to D. net, OS. net, netti, OHG. nezzi, G. netz, ON. net, nōt, Goth. nati, L. nassa fish basket, nodus a knot, Skr. nahyati he binds; basic idea: to knot, weave. Cf. ANNEX, LANYARD, NETTLE, NODE.] 1. A fabric of twine, thread, or the like, wrought or woven into meshes, and used for catching fish, birds, butterflies, etc.

2. Anything designed or fitted to entrap or catch; a snare; any device for catching; specif., a spider's web.

A man that flattereth his neighbor spreadeth a net for his feet. Prov. xxix. 5.

3. Anything wrought or woven in meshes; as, a net for the hair; a mosquito net; a tennis net; beaded net.

4. Anything netlike in reticulation; a network, as of lines, fibers, or figures.

5. Aeronautics. a A rigging of ropes and twine, on free balloons, which supports the weight of the basket, etc., distributing the load over the entire upper surface of the envelope. Cf. BALLOON, Illust. b A rectangular net of cordage used to restrain the envelope of a kite balloon or airship during inflation and before the car is attached.

6. [cap.] Astron. = RETICULUM, 3.

7. Math. a In the plane, a system of lines determined by four points and the intersections of lines through these points and subsequent intersections; in space, a system of intersections of planes passed in every way through triads of points consisting of five original points and the subsequent intersections of the planes in sets of three. b A doubly infinite system of curves represented by the equation $\lambda U + \mu V + \nu W = 0$, where $U = 0$, $V = 0$, $W = 0$ are, in point co-ordinates, curves of the same degree which do not belong to the same pencil; but if in line co-ordinates, the net is tangential or a web. See LINEAR SYSTEM OF PLANE CURVES. c A doubly infinite system of surfaces $\lambda U + \mu V + \nu W = 0$, where $U = 0$, $V = 0$, $W = 0$ are surfaces of the *n*th degree not belonging to the same pencil.

8. Mil. A network of communications between higher, lower, and adjacent units; as, a radio net, a road net, etc.

9. Radio. = CHAIN, n., 12.

10. Sports. a Cricket. A three-sided structure of poles and netting enclosing a wicket, used in batting and bowling practice. b Hockey, Lacrosse, etc. = GOAL NET. c Lawn Tennis, Ping pong, etc. A return of the ball that goes into the net. Cf. LET, n.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

net-fashion, adj.	netmaking	net-veined netmaker	netmonger	network, adj.

-net (-nĕt). A combining form of the noun net, as in drag*net*.

net (nĕt), v.; NET'TED (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119); NET'TING. Trans.: 1. To cover or enclose with or as with a net or nets.

2. To take in or as in a net; to capture by stratagem or wile.

And now I am here, netted and in the toils. Scott.

3. To use nets in, as in a stream to catch fish.

4. To make into a net; to make in the style of, or by means of, network; as, to net silk.

5. Lawn Tennis, etc. To hit (the ball) into the net. Cf. LET, n.

—, Intransitive: To make, or be occupied in making, netting.

net, adj. Netted; also, of net (fabric).

net (nĕt), adj. [F. See NEAT clean.] 1. Neat; trim; clean; bright. Now Rare.

Her breast all naked as net ivory. Spenser.

2. Free from that which is extraneous; pure; unadulterated; unqualified; as, net wine. Rare.

3. Clear of, or free from, all charges, deductions, etc.; specif.: a Remaining after the deduction of all charges, outlay, loss, etc.; as, net profit; net proceeds; net income. See phrases, below. b Clear of or excluding all tare, tret, or the like; as, net weight.

☞ For some net phrases, see the second word.

net, n. [From 4th NET.] 1. A net amount, profit, weight, or the like.

2. Golf. The net score in a handicap match, after deducting the player's handicap from his gross.

net, v. t. To produce or gain as clear profit; as, he netted a thousand dollars by the operation.

net, v. t. [OF. netir, fr. net clean. See NET neat.] To wash, esp. to rinse. — n. A rinsing. Both Obs. exc. Dial.

net area. See GROSS AREA.

net assets. a Accounting. See ASSETS, 2. b Insurance. = ADMITTED ASSETS.

net'ball' (nĕt'bôl'), n. A game similar to basketball, played usually out of doors between teams of seven players each.

---

ner'vu·ra'tion (nûr'vū·rā'shŭn). n. = NEURATION (of insects).

nes'ci·ous, adj. [L. nescius.] Ignorant. Obs.

Nes·pe'lim (nĕs·pē'lĭm), n. See OKINAGAN, n.

nest'ful (nĕst'fŏol), n.; pl. -FULS (-fŏolz). See -FUL.

nest'like', adj. See -LIKE.

Net (nĕt), Net'ty (nĕt'ĭ), n. Diminutives of ANTOINETTE, JEANNETTE.

net blotch. Plant Pathol. A fungous disease of barley, characterized by spots on the leaves, and caused by Helminthosporium teres. Cf. SPOT BLOTCH.

net'braid'er (nĕt'brād'ĕr), n. A netmaker.

net'bush' (-bŭŏsh'), n. = AUSTRALIAN NETBUSH.

netch'a (nĕch'ȧ), n. [Esk.] A sealskin coat.

Netch'i-lik (nĕch'ĭ-lĭk), n. sing. & pl. One of a tribe of Eskimos west of Hudson Bay, regarded as the typical Central Eskimos.

ne'te (nē'tē), n. [Gr. nētē, neatē, fr. neatos lowest.] Anc. Gr. Music. See TETRACHORD, Illust.

net earnings. Accounting. Excess of earnings over expenses, sometimes including interest charges, during a given period.

‖Ne Te'me-re (nē tĕm'ĕ-rē). [L., not rashly, the first words of the decree.] R.C.Ch. A decree of the Congregation of the Council declaring invalid any marriage of a Catholic of the Latin rite, or of a person baptized as such though fallen away, if not contracted before a duly qualified priest (or the bishop of the diocese) and at least two witnesses. The decree was issued August 2, 1907, and took effect on Easter, April 19, 1908.

net'er (nĕt'ĕr), n. [Amharic neḫĕr. See NATR.] See WEIGHT, Table.

net fixer. See FIXER, n., 2.

ne'the-ist (nē'thē-ĭst), adj. [L. ne-, or Gr. nē- + theist. See NO, adv.] An atheist. Rare.

neth'er (nĕth'ĕr), adj. [ME. nethere, nithere, fr. AS. nithera, fr. the adv. nither, nithor, downward; akin to AS. neothan below, beneath, D. neder down, G. nieder, Sw. nedre below, nether, adj. & adv., Skr. nitarām downwards, ni down. Cf. BENEATH, NEST.] Situated down or below; lying beneath or in the lower part; lower in position; lower; under; — opp. to upper; as, the nether limbs, garments.

neth'er. Var. of NITHER, v. ne'ther (nē'ȯhĕr; nā'-). Var. of NEITHER. Now Dial.

Neth'er-land-er (nĕth'ĕr-lăn-dĕr), n. A native of the Netherlands, sometimes restricted to Holland, sometimes made to include Belgium. Cf. DUTCH, n., 3 b. — Neth'er-land'i-an (-lăn'dĭ-ăn; nĕth'ĕr-lăn'-), Neth'er-land'ic, adj.

Neth'er-land'ish (-lăn'dĭsh), adj. Of or pertaining to the Netherlands or its people or language. — n. The language of the Netherlands; Dutch.

neth'er-more' (nĕth'ĕr-mōr'; 181), adj. [nether + more.] Lower; nether. NowRare. — adv. Lower; farther down. Obs.

neth'er-most (-mōst; -mŭst), adj. [Cf. AS. nithemest. See NETHER; cf. AFTERMOST.] Lowest; as, the nethermost hell.

neth'er-stock' (nĕth'ĕr-stŏk'), n. A stocking; — usually in pl. Obs. exc. Hist.

neth'er-stone' (-stōn'), n. Nether millstone. Browning.

nether vert. See 1st VERT, 1 b.

neth'er-ward (nĕth'ĕr-wĕrd), neth'er-wards (-wĕrdz), adv. [AS. nitherward, -weardes. See -WARD(S).] Downward. R.

nether world. The world of the dead; esp., the world of future punishment. See AMENTI; ARALU; GEHENNA; HADES, 1 b; HELL; NARAKA; NASTROND; NIFLHEIM; SHEOL; TARTARUS.

Neth'i-nim (nĕth'ĭ-nĭm), n. pl. [Heb. nĕthīnīm those given.] Jewish Antiq. Servants who performed the lowest menial services about tabernacle and temple.

ne'ti (nā'tē), n. The eulalia Miscanthus sinensis, used in the Pacific Islands as a thatch.

net income. See INCOME, 4.

ne'ti ne'ti (nā'tĭ nā'tĭ). An aphorism denying the validity of any predicate applied to the Absolute. Cf. BRAHMA, n., 1.

net interest. See INTEREST, 3.

net'leaf' (nĕt'lēf'), n., or netleaf plantain. A common rattlesnake plantain (Peramium pubescens).

net'man (nĕt'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). Lawn Tennis. a A player stationed near the net or considered with regard to his playing in this position. b A lawn-tennis player.

net necrosis. Plant Pathol. A necrosis of the phloem of the potato tuber caused by frost or a virus (see LEAF ROLL), in which the pith and cortex contain a broken netlike pattern of necrotic cells.

ne'top (nē'tŏp), n. [Of Algonquian origin; cf. Narragansett netonp my friend or companion, Virginian nitāpeu.] Friend; crony; — used in salutation to an Indian by the American colonists.

net pitch–diameter tolerance. Mach. See SCREW-THREAD TOLERANCE.

net plankton. Plankton filtered from water by means of a specially constructed plankton net.

net profit. See PROFIT, n., 4.

net quick assets. Accounting. = WORKING CAPITAL.

net silk. = THROWN SILK. Brit.

nets'man (nĕts'măn), n. One who uses a net, esp. in fishing.

net'su-ke (nĕt'sōō-kā; Jap. nĕts'kĕ), n. [Jap.] In Japanese costume and decorative art, a small object carved in wood, ivory, etc., or wrought in metal, and pierced with holes.

net'ta-ble (nĕt'ȧ-b'l), adj. Capable of being fished, or caught, with a net or nets.

Net'ta-pus (nĕt'ȧ-pŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nētta duck + pous foot.] Zool. See PYGMY GOOSE.

net tare. = CLEAR TARE.

net'ted (nĕt'ĕd; -Id; 119), adj. Made into a net; taken or covered as with a net; provided with, or protected by, nets or netting; formed of network; specif., reticulated.

net'ted-veined' (66), adj. Bot. Having netted or reticulated veins, as the leaves of most dicotyledons.

net'ter (nĕt'ĕr), n. One who or that which makes or uses nets, esp. for fishing; specif., a machine that weaves wire netting; also, its operator.

net'tie-wife' (nĕt'ĭ-wīf'), n. A woman who gathers bits of wool. Scot.

net'ting, verbal n. a Act or process of making nets or network, or of forming meshes. b Act, process, or right of fishing with a net or nets. c A piece of network; any fabric of crossing cords, threads, ropes, wires, or the like, with open spaces between. d Specif.: Nav. A network of ropes formerly used for various purposes, as for holding the hammocks.

net'ting, n. [From 7th NET; urine being used like lye. See NET, adj.] Urine. Dial. Eng.

netting knot. See 2d KNOT, 1, Table.

Net'ti-on (nĕt'ĭ-ŏn), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nēttion, dim. of nētta duck.] Zool. A genus of ducks including the common European teal, the American green-winged teal, and their allies.

net'tle (nĕt'l), n. Also knit'tle, the original form. [See KNITTLE, NET, n.] Naut. a A small line made of rope yarn, as a reef point, hammock clews, etc. b pl. Halves of yarns in the end of a rope twisted up for pointing.

net'tle (nĕt'l), n. [AS. netele, nettle; akin to D. netel, G. nessel, OHG. nezzila, nazza, Dan. nelde, Sw. nässla, and prob. to E. NET, n.] 1. a Any plant of the genus Urtica, the species of which are chiefly coarse herbs armed with stinging hairs. See URTICA. b By extension, any plant of the family Urticaceae.

2. Any of many other prickly or stinging plants; — usually with an attributive; as, Chile nettle, hedge nettle, etc.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:
nettlebed, nettle-leaved, nettle-rough, nettle-stung.

net'tle (nĕt'l), v.; NET'TLED (-ld); NET'TLING (nĕt'lĭng). Transitive: 1. To whip with nettles.

2. To fret or sting as with nettles; hence, to irritate; vex.

3. To rouse or incite as by irritation.

—, Intrans.: To become irritated, vexed, or provoked.

Syn. — See IRRITATE. Ant. — See PACIFY, SOOTHE. net'tle, n. A state of being nettled; uneasiness. Rare.

net'tle-bird' (nĕt'l-bûrd'), n. A whitethroat. Local, Eng.

nettle butterfly. Any of several butterflies whose larvae feed on nettles, as Vanessa urticae and the red admiral.

nettle cell. Zool. A nematocyst.

nettle cloth. a Obs. Cloth made of the fibers of nettles. b A thick cotton fabric, of German manufacture, intended as a substitute for leather.

nettle creeper. a A whitethroat. b = BLACKCAP a. Local, Eng. & Scot.

nettle family. Bot. The Urticaceae.

net'tle-fire' (nĕt'l-fīr'), n. The burning sting of nettles.

net'tle-foot' (-fŏŏt'), n. The hedge nettle Stachys sylvatica.

nettle geranium. The common garden coleus.

nettle hemp. The hemp nettle.

nettle potato. = QUEENROOT.

net'ler (nĕt'lĕr), n. One who or that which nettles.

nettle rash. Med. An eruption on the skin resembling the condition produced by stinging with nettles; urticaria.

net'tle-some (nĕt'l-sŭm), adj. Readily nettled; irritable; also, irritating.

nettle tree. a Any tree of the genus Celtis, esp. the Asiatic C. australis. b The Australian nettle tree Laportea gigas.

net'tle-wort' (nĕt'l-wûrt'), n. Any plant of the Urticaceae.

net'ting (nĕt'lĭng), n. [See 1st NETTLE.] Ropemaking. a A process (resembling splicing) by which two ropes are joined end to end so as to form one rope. b The process of tying together the ends of yarns in pairs, to prevent tangling.

net'ting, adj. Stinging; irritating; vexing.

nettling cell. A nematocyst.

net'ty (nĕt'ĭ), adj. 1. Having a profusion of nettles.

2. Readily nettled; irritable.

net ton. A short ton. = TON, 1 b.

net tonnage. Naut. See TONNAGE, 5.

net tracery. Arch. Window tracery, as in the 14th-century Gothic work, in which the openings are of nearly the same size and of similar form.

net'ty (nĕt'ĭ), adj. Like, or made of, network; netted.

Net'ty (nĕt'ĭ), n. Dim. of ANTOINETTE, JEANNETTE.

net valuation. See VALUATION.

net value (of a policy). Life Insurance. The reserve.

net weaver. a One who weaves nets. b Any of various sedentary spiders, esp. of the family Theridiidae, which spin irregular webs in which the threads cross in all directions.

net weight. See 4th NET, 3 b.

net'-winged', adj. Zool. Having wings with a fine network of veins; neuropteroid.

net'work' (nĕt'wûrk'), n. 1. A fabric or structure of threads, cords, wires, or the like, crossing each other at certain intervals, and knotted or secured at the crossings.

2. Any system of lines or channels interlacing or crossing like the fabric of a net; as, a network of veins; a network of railroads; also figuratively; as, a network of falsehoods.

3. Elec. A system of conductors interconnected so as to form closed meshes like those of a net, and used for distributing electrical energy.

4. Math. All points of the plane of complex numbers determined by the formula $z = 2m\omega + 2m'\omega'$, where 2ω, $2\omega'$ are constants (whose ratio is not real) and m, m' are any integers positive or negative, or zero.

5. Radio. = CHAIN, n., 12.

net worth. Net assets (see ASSETS, 2).

Neuf'châ'tel' (nŭf'shȧ'tĕl'), n., or Neufchâtel cheese. A kind of soft white cheese made from sweet milk with or without cream; — so called from Neufchâtel in France.

neu'gro'schen (noi'grō'shĕn), n. sing. & pl. [G.] A groschen of billon struck in Saxony (1840–73) and divided into 10 pfennige.

neu'ma-tize (nū'mȧ-tīz), v. t. [ML. neumatizare.] Music. To render into neumes. R.

neume (nūm), n. [F., fr. ML. neuma a group of notes sung to a final syllable as long as the breath lasts, a neuma, fr. Gr. pneuma breath. See PNEUMA.] Music. 1. = PNEUMA, 4 a.

2. Medieval Music. One of an early system of symbols developed from the Greek accents to indicate relative pitch. They date from as early as the 8th century, and were written originally over the words to be sung, but later between two or more horizontal lines denoting fixed pitch, as C or F. Neumes were thus the first step towards modern staff notation. The table shows the more important ones as written in the 11th century and with conjectured present equivalents (the notes being taken as showing merely rise and fall of pitch, not definite intervals, nor time values).

NAME	ELEMENTS	FORM AND EQUIV.
Virga	Acute accent
Punctum	Grave accent
Clivis	Acute & grave
Podatus	Grave & acute
Scandicus	2 Grave & 1 acute
Climacus	Acute & 2 grave
Torculus	Grave, acute, & grave
Porrectus	Acute, grave, & acute
Quilisma	Tremolo

— neu·mat'ic (nū-măt'ĭk), neu'mic (nū'mĭk), adj.

neur-. = NEURO- (which see), as in:
neuradynamia, neurarthropathy, neuraxis, neurectasy, neurectomy, neurectomic, neurectomy, neurectasia, neurectasis, neurectopy, neurectasy, neurectomy, neurectomic, neurepithelium, neurodynia, neurotomy, neurotomize.

-neu'ra (-nū'rȧ). [NL.] Zool. A combining form, from Greek neuron, nerve, used chiefly in classificational names, as in Schizo*neura,* Strepto*neura.*

neu'rad (nū'răd), adv. [Gr. neuron nerve + 1st -ad.] Anat. Toward the neural side; — opposed to hemad.

neu'ral (nū'rȧl), adj. [Gr. neuron nerve. See NERVE.] Anat & Zool. a Of or pertaining to a nerve or to the nervous system. b In vertebrate anatomy, situated in the region of, or on the same side of the body as, the neural axis; — hence in vertebrates equivalent to dorsal, and opposed to hemal or ventral.

neu'ral, neu-ra'le (nū-rā'lē), n. Anat. & Zool. A neural element, as a plate or shield.

-neu'ral (-nū'rȧl), adj. A combining form of neural, adj., denoting: a With prepositions, position with reference to a nerve or the nervous system, as in ab*neural,* sub*neural.* b Affection of the nerves and another (specified) part, as in cardio*neural,* spino*neural.*

neural arch. The cartilaginous or bony arch on the dorsal side of a vertebra. The series of neural arches forms the neural canal, in which the spinal cord is situated.

neural axis. The cerebrospinal axis.

neural canal. Zool. & Embryol. a See NEURAL ARCH. b The medullary tube.

neural cavity. Anat. The cavity comprising the spinal canal and the interior of the cranium.

neural crest, fold. Embryol. See NEURAL PLATE a.

neu·ral'gia (nū-răl'jȧ; -jĭ-ȧ; 277), n. [NL., fr. neur- + -algia.] Med. An acute pain, constant or intermittent, radiating along the course of a nerve and its branches; also, the morbid condition characterized by such pain. — neu·ral'gic (-jĭk), adj.

-neu·ral'gi-a. [NL.] A combining form of neuralgia, used with word elements denoting an affected part, as in arthro*neuralgia,* oto*neuralgia.*

neu·ral'gi-ac (nū-răl'jĭ-ăk), n. Med. One affected with, or subject to, neuralgia.

neu·ral'gi-form (-jĭ-fôrm), adj. [neuralgia + -form.] Med. Resembling neuralgia.

neural gland. Zool. In ascidians, a glandular mass in close relation to the nerve ganglion, possibly homologous with the pituitary body of vertebrates.

neural groove. Embryol. See NEURAL PLATE a.

neu·ral'gy (nū-răl'jĭ), n. Neuralgia. Chiefly Dial.

neu'ral·ist (nū'rȧl-ĭst), n. Med. A neuropath.

neural lamina. Embryol. One of the medullary folds.

neural plate. a Embryol. A thickened plate of ectoderm along the dorsal midline of the early vertebrate embryo. On each side it develops a longitudinal fold, the neural fold, having a ridge, the neural crest, with an intervening hollow, the neural groove. The neural folds close over the neural groove beneath the surface, forming the neural tube, from which the central nervous system develops. Part of the neural crest, called the ganglion crest, is pinched off and gives rise to the spinal ganglia, the sympathetic system, and the chromaffin bodies. b Zool. One of a series of bony plates lying in the middorsal portion of the carapace of most turtles.

neural process. Zool. The lateral half of the neural arch of a vertebra, equivalent to the pedicle and lamina together.

neural shield. Zool. Any of certain horny shields above the neural plates on the carapace of turtles.

neural spine. Anat. & Zool. The median dorsal spine of a vertebra; the spinous process.

neural tube. Embryol. See NEURAL PLATE a.

neu·ras·the'ni·a (nū'rȧs-thē'nĭ-ȧ; 242), n. [NL., fr. neur- + Gr. astheneia weakness.] Psychopathol. A neurotic condition of debility, characterized by feelings of fatigue, worry, and inadequacy, by lack of zest and interest, and often by headache, by undue sensitiveness to light and noise, and by functional disturbances of digestion and circulation. It is sometimes attributed to nervous exhaustion, but now usually to emotional conflict, feeling of inferiority, etc.

neu·ras·then'ic (nū'rȧs-thĕn'ĭk; -thē'nĭk; 242), adj. Med. Pertaining to, or having, neurasthenia. — n. One having neurasthenia. — -then'i·cal (-ĭ-kăl), adj. — -then'i·cal·ly, adv.

neu·ra'tion (nū-rā'shŭn), n. The arrangement of nerves, esp. the nervures of the wings of insects.

neu·rax'is (nū-răk'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neur- + axis.] Anat. a An axis cylinder. b The cerebrospinal axis. — neu·rax'i·al (-sĭ-ăl), adj.

neu·rax'on (-sŏn), neu·rax'one (-sōn), n. [NL. neuraxone. See NEURO-; AXIS.] Anat. An axon.

-neure (-nūr). Anat. A combining form, from Greek neuron, nerve, denoting nerve cell, as in axo*neure,* zygo*neure.*

neu'ren·ter'ic (nū'rĕn-tĕr'ĭk), adj. [neur- + enteric.] Embryol. Designating a canal which, in embryos of many vertebrates and tunicates, temporarily connects the medullary tube and the primitive intestine.

neu·rer'gic (nū-rûr'jĭk), adj. [neur- + Gr. ergon work.] Physiol. Of or pert. to the action of a nerve or nerves.

neur'ex·ai're·sis (nūr'ĕks-ĭ'rē-sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neur- + Gr. exairesis a taking out.] Surg. The tearing out of nerves, as for the relief of neuralgia.

neur·hyp'no·tist (nūr·hĭp'nō-tĭst), n. [neur- + hypnotist.] A hypnotist. Rare.

-neu'ri·a (-nū'rĭ-ȧ). [NL.] Med. A combining form from Greek neuron, nerve, denoting a (specified) state of the nervous system, as in dys*neuria,* metro*neuria.*

neu'ric (nū'rĭk), adj. [neur- + -ic.] Of, pertaining to, or provided with, nerves or a nervous system; neural.

-neu'ric (-nū'rĭk). A combining form, of neuric, denoting having (so many) neurons, as in dine*uric,* poly*neuric.*

neu'ri·lem'ma (nū'rĭ-lĕm'ȧ), n. [NL. (after Gr. lemma peel, skin), fr. NL. neurilema, fr. Gr. neuron nerve + eilēma covering; cf. F. névrilème.] Anat. a The delicate outer sheath of a nerve fiber; the primitive sheath. b Formerly, the perineurium. — neu'ri·lem'mal (-ăl), -lem'mat·ic (-lĕ-măt'ĭk), -lem'ma·tous (-lĕm'ȧ-tŭs), adj. — -lem·mi'tis (-lĕ-mī'tĭs), n.

Net·chi'lir·miut' (nĕ'-chē'lĭr-mūt'), n. See ESKIMO.

nete. † NEAT, NET, NIT.

net'ful, n.; pl. -FULS. See -FUL.

neth (nĕth). = BENEATH. Scot.

Ne·than'e·el (nē-thăn'ē-ĕl). Bib.

Neth'a·nī'ah (nĕth'ȧ-nī'ȧ). Bib.

neth'e·less', adv. Nevertheless. Obs.

neth'er-est, adj. Nethermost. Obs.

net'like', adj. See -LIKE.

net'-mon'ey-re·ceipts' pool. See 5th POOL, 5 b (3).

Ne·to'phah (nē-tō'fȧ). Bib.

Ne·toph'a·thi (-tŏf'ȧ-thī). Bib.

Ne·toph'a·thite (-thīt). Bib.

Ne·toph'a·ti (-tī). D. Bib.

nett. Var. of NET, not subject to deduction. [MELON.]

net'ted mel'on. = NUTMEG.

Net'tie (nĕt'ĭ), n. Dim. of HENRIETTA. net'tle-fish' (nĕt'l-fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -Iz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. = JELLYFISH.

net'tle-like', adj. See -LIKE.

net'tle·mon'ger (nĕt'l-mŭng'gĕr), n. = NETTLEBIRD. Eng.

Ne·tu'pha (nē-tū'fȧ). D. Bib.

net'wise', adv. See -WISE.

neuck, neuk (Scot. nūk). Var. of NOOK. Scot. & Dial.

Neu·deck'i·an (noi-dĕk'ĭ-ăn), adj. [From Neudeck, near Freistadt, Germany.] Geol. = RISS-WÜRM.

Neuil'ly' (nŭ'yĕ'), n. See TREATY, Table. [NEUME, 2.]

neu'ma (nū'mȧ), n. [ML.] = neu'ra·poph'y·sis (nū'rȧ-pŏf'ĭ-sĭs), n.; pl. -SES (-sēz). [NL. See NEURO-; APOPHYSIS.] a = NEURAL PROCESS. b = NEURAL SPINE. — neu·rap'o·phys'e·al (nū-răp'ō-fĭz'ē-ăl), -i·al (-ĭ-ăl), adj.

neur'hyp·nol'o·gy (nūr'hĭp-nŏl'ō-jĭ), n. = NEUROHYPNOLOGY.

neu'ri- (nū'rĭ-). = NEURO-.

neu·ri'a·try (nū-rĭ'ȧ-trĭ), n. [neur- + -iatry.] = NEUROLOGY.

neu'ri·le'ma (nū'rĭ-lē'mȧ), etc. Original forms of NEURILEMMA, etc.

neu·ril'i·ty (nū·rĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [Gr. neuron nerve.] Physiol. The special properties and functions of the nerves.

neu'rine (nū'rēn; -rĭn; 157; 242), n. Also neu'rin, in sense 2. [Gr. neuron a nerve.] 1. Physiol. Nerve tissue. Obs. 2. Biochem. A poisonous ptomaine, $C_5H_{13}NO$, formed from protagon and from choline by boiling with barium hydroxide solution, and in the putrefaction of flesh. It resembles choline, with which it was once thought identical.

neu'ri·no'ma (nū'rĭ·nō'mȧ), n.; pl. -NOMATA (-mȧ·tȧ), -NOMAS (-mȧz). [NL. See NEURO-; -OMA.] Med. A nerve tumor supposed to be derived from the neurilemma.

neu'rism (nū'rĭz'm), n. [Gr. neuron nerve.] Nerve force. Cf. VITAL FORCE.

neu'rite (nū'rīt), n. [neur- + -ite.] Anat. The axon of a nerve cell.

neu·rit'ic (nū·rĭt'ĭk), adj. Med. Pertaining to or affected with neuritis. — n. A person having neuritis.

neu·ri'tis (nū·rī'tĭs), n.; pl. NEURITIDES (-tĭ·dēz). [NL., fr. neur- + -itis.] Med. Inflammation of a nerve or nerves; also, the morbid condition resulting therefrom, characterized by pain, sensory disturbances, reflex abnormality, or other signs of nervous disability in the part affected.

-neu·ri'tis (-nū·rī'tĭs). [NL.] A combining form of neuritis, denoting neuritis of a (specified) origin or part, as in actino*neuritis*, ophthalmo*neuritis*.

neu'ro- (nū'rō-), neur-. [See NERVE.] A combining form, Greek neuro-, neur-, from neuron, meaning nerve, denoting a nerve, of or pertaining to a nerve, nervous tissue, or the nervous system (and), as in *Neuro*ptera, *neuro*glia, *neur*algia; also, neuritic (and), as in *neuro*myelitis. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

neuroanatomical	neurogenic	neurosurgeon
neuroanatomy	neurogenous	neurosurgery
neurocardiac	neurohistology	neurosurgical
neurochemistry	neuromalacia	neurosuture
neurochorioretinitis	neuromalakia	neurosynapse
neuroclonic	neuromuscular	neurotherapeutics
neurocyte	neuroparalysis	neurotherapist
neurodegenerative	neuroparalytic	neurotherapy
neurodermatitis	neuroplasty	neurothlipsis
neurodermatosis	neuroplexus	neurotonic neurodermitis	neuropsychic	neurotoxia
neurodiagnosis	neuropsychopathic	neurotoxic
neurodynamic	neuropsychopathy	neurotoxin
neuroganglion	neurorrhaphy	neurotripsy
neurogastralgia	neurosarcoma	neurotrophic
neurogastric	neurosclerosis	neurotrophy
neurogenesis	neurospasm	neurovascular
neurogenetic	neurosthenia	neurovisceral

neu'ro-bi'o-tax'is (-bī'ō·tăk'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + bio- + -taxis.] Physiol. A phenomenon of the growth of neurons, interpreted as a kind of taxis consisting in the development of the dendrites toward the most effective source of incident stimulation and ultimately in the movement of the cell body in the same direction. — neu'ro-bi'o-tac'tic (-tăk'tĭk), adj.

neu'ro·blast (nū'rō·blăst), n. [neuro- + -blast.] a Embryol. One of the embryonic cells from which nerve cells develop. b Zool. A portion of the nervous system of a larval insect remaining after histolysis. — neu'ro·blas'tic (-blăs'tĭk), adj.

neu'ro·blas·to'ma (-blăs·tō'mȧ), n.; pl. -TOMATA (-mȧ·tȧ), -TOMAS (-mȧz). [NL., fr. neuroblast + -oma.] Med. A tumor formed of embryonic ganglion cells, occurring in the sympathetic nervous system, adrenal glands, and roots of the cranial nerves, and in the brain.

neu'ro·ca·nal' (-kȧ·năl'), n. [neuro- + canal.] Anat. The central canal of the spinal cord.

neu'ro·cen'tral (-sĕn'trăl), adj. Zool. Pert. to, or situated between, the neural arch and the centrum of a vertebra.

neu'ro·cen'trum (-sĕn'trŭm), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + centrum.] Embryol. The dorsal element of a vertebra which unites with its fellow of the opposite side to form a neural arch, from which the vertebral spine is developed.

neu'ro·chi'tin (-kī'tĭn), n. Biochem. A form of chitin said to replace neurokeratin in insects and crustaceans.

neu'ro·chord' (nū'rō·kôrd'), n. [neuro- + chord.] Zool. The primitive central nervous system, as found in Branchiostoma.

neu'ro·cir'cu·la·to'ry (-sûr'kū·lȧ·tō'rĭ), adj. [neuro- + circulatory.] Anat. & Med. Pertaining to both the nervous and circulatory systems.

neu·roc'i·ty (nū·rŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. Physiol. Nerve force. See VITAL FORCE.

neu'ro·coele (nū'rō·sēl), n. [neuro- + -coele.] Zool. The cavity or system of cavities in the interior of the central nervous system. It includes the central canal of the spinal cord and the ventricles of the brain. — neu'ro·coe'li·an (-sē'lĭ·ăn), adj.

neu'ro·cy·to'ma (-sī·tō'mȧ), n.; pl. -TOMATA (-mȧ·tȧ), -TOMAS (-mȧz). [NL., fr. neuro- + cyt- + -oma.] Med. A nervous-tissue tumor composed of cells resembling neural epithelium, commonly arranged in the form of rosettes. It occurs in the brain, esp. in the region of the ventricles, and in the spinal cord, retina, adrenal glands, and sympathetic nervous system.

neu'ro·ep'i·der'mal (-ĕp'ĭ·dûr'mȧl), adj. Embryol. Pert. to or giving rise to the central nervous system and epidermis.

neu'ro·ep'i·the'li·um (-ĕp'ĭ·thē'lĭ·ŭm), n. [NL.] a Embryol. The part of the epiblast which becomes the nervous system. b Anat. The modified epithelium of an organ of special sense. — neu'ro·ep'i·the'li·al (-ăl), adj.

neu'ro·fi'bril (nū'rō·fī'brĭl), n. [neuro- + fibril.] Biol. One of a system of many minute axial fibrils in a neurone, believed by some to be conducting elements. — neu'ro·fi'bril·lar (-brĭl·ẽr), adj.

neu'ro·fi·bro'ma (-fī·brō'mȧ), n.; pl. -BROMATA (-mȧ·tȧ), -BROMAS (-mȧz). [NL., fr. neuro- + fibr- + -oma.] Med. A fibroma originating in the fibrous tissue of a nerve sheath.

neu'ro·fi·bro'ma·to'sis (-fī·brō'mȧ·tō'sĭs), n. [NL. See NEUROFIBROMA; -OSIS.] Med. Condition marked by the presence of many neurofibromata, usually in the subcutaneous tissue.

neu'ro·fil (nū'rō·fĭl), n. [neuro- + L. filum thread, fiber.] Anat. A network of fibers arising at the beginning of the axis cylinder and surrounding the nerve cell.

neu'ro·glan'du·lar (-glăn'jŭ·lẽr), adj. [neuro- + glandular.] Physiol. a Pertaining to a gland with its nerves and their nerve centers. b Having the properties of both nervous and glandular tissue, as the pituitary body.

neu·rog'li·a (nū·rŏg'lĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + -glia.] Anat. The sustentacular tissue which fills the interstices and supports the essential elements of nervous tissue, esp. in the brain, spinal cord, and ganglia. It is probably of epiblastic origin, and consists of a network of fine fibrils and of flattened stellate cells with numerous radiating fibrillar processes. — neu·rog'li·ac (-ăk), neu·rog'li·al (-ăl), neu·rog'li·ar (-ẽr), neu·rog'lic (-rŏg'lĭk), adj.

neu·rog'li·o'ma (nū·rŏg'lĭ·ō'mȧ), n.; pl. -OMATA (-mȧ·tȧ), -OMAS (-mȧz). [NL.] Med. A tumor developed from neuroglia cells; a glioma.

neu·rog'li·o'sis (-ō'sĭs), n. [NL. See NEUROGLIA; -OSIS.] Med. A condition marked by diffuse growth of neuroglia, as in certain degenerative conditions of the brain and spinal cord.

neu'ro·gram (nū'rō·grăm), n. [neuro- + -gram.] Psychol. The modified neural structure resulting from activity and serving to retain whatever has been learned; neural engram. — neu'ro·gram'mic (-grăm'ĭk), adj.

neu·rog'ra·phy (nū·rŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [neuro- + -graphy.] 1. Anat. Description of the nervous system. 2. Psychol. a The formation of neurograms. b The system of engram present in an individual's brain. — neu'ro·graph'ic (nū'rō·grăf'ĭk), adj.

neu'ro·hyp'no·tism (nū'rō·hĭp'nō·tĭz'm), n. Nerve sleep; hypnotism. — neu'ro·hyp·not'ic (-hĭp·nŏt'ĭk), adj.

neu'ro·hy·poph'y·sis (-hī·pŏf'ĭ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + hypophysis.] Anat. The neural part of the posterior lobe of the hypophysis.

neu'roid (nū'roid), adj. [neur- + -oid.] Anat. & Zool. a Resembling a nerve or nerve tissue. b Pert. to the transmission of excitation through tissues without nerve fibers.

neu'ro·ker'a·tin (nū'rō·kĕr'ȧ·tĭn), n. Biochem. A variety of keratin present in nerve tissue, as in the sheath of the axis cylinder of medullated nerve fibers.

neu'ro·kyme (nū'rō·kīm), n. [neuro- + Gr. kyma wave.] The kinetic energy of the nerve impulse and of all neural activity.

neu'ro·log'i·cal (-lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. Of or pert. to neurology.

neu·rol'o·gist (nū·rŏl'ō·jĭst), n. a One versed in neurology. b One skilled in the treatment of nervous diseases.

neu·rol'o·gize (-jīz), v. i. [neurology + -ize.] Psychol. To explain in neural terms.

neu·rol'o·gy (-jĭ), n. [neuro- + -logy.] The branch of science dealing with the nervous system, specif. with diseases of the nervous system.

neu'ro·lymph (nū'rō·lĭmf), n. = CEREBROSPINAL FLUID.

neu·rol'y·sis (nū·rŏl'ĭ·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + -lysis.] a Physiol. The breaking down of nerve substance, as from exhaustion. b Surg. The operation of freeing a nerve from adhesions. — neu'ro·lyt'ic (nū'rō·lĭt'ĭk), adj.

neu·ro'ma (nū·rō'mȧ), n.; pl. -MATA (-mȧ·tȧ), -MAS (-mȧz). [NL. See NEURO-; -OMA.] Med. A form of tumor developed from a nerve, esp. one consisting of new-formed nerve fibers or nerve cells. — neu·rom'a·tous (nū·rŏm'ȧ·tŭs; -rō'mȧ·tŭs), adj. — neu·ro'ma·to'sis (-rō'mȧ·tō'sĭs), n.

neu'ro·mere (nū'rō·mēr), n. [neuro- + -mere.] Anat. A metameric segment of the cerebrospinal nervous system. In the spinal cord neuromeres are marked by the exits of the spinal nerves. — neu·rom'er·ous (nū·rŏm'ẽr·ŭs), adj.

neu·rom'er·ism (nū·rŏm'ẽr·ĭz'm), n. [neuro- + Gr. meros part.] Zool. The metamerism of the nervous system.

neu'ro·mi·me'sis (nū'rō·mĭ·mē'sĭs; -mĭ·mē'sĭs), n. [NL. See NEURO-; MIMESIS.] Med. Neurotic simulation of organic disease. — neu'ro·mi·met'ic (-mĕt'ĭk), adj.

neu'ro·mo'tor (-mō'tẽr), adj. [neuro- + motor.] Physiol. Pertaining to efferent, or motor, nervous impulses; also, of or pertaining to a system of fibers, the neuromotor apparatus, in certain protozoa.

neu'ro·mus'cu·la·ture (-mŭs'kŭ·lȧ·tûr), n. [See NEURO-; MUSCULATURE.] Anat. The nerves and muscles collectively.

neu'ro·my'e·li'tis (-mī'ē·lī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + myelitis.] Med. a Inflammation of the medullary substance of the nerves. b Inflammation of both spinal cord and nerves.

neu'ron (nū'rŏn; -rŏn), neu'rone (-rōn), n.; pl. NEURONS (-rŏnz; -rōnz), NEURONES (-rōnz). [NL. neuron, fr. Gr. neuron nerve.] 1. Anat. & Rare. The brain and spinal cord. b A nerve cell with all of its processes. 2. Zool. A nervure. Rare. — neu'ro·nal (nū'rō·năl; nŭ·rō'năl; -n'l), neu·ron'ic (nū·rŏn'ĭk), adj.

neuron doctrine or theory. Anat. & Physiol. The theory that the nervous system is composed of nerve cells, or neurons, each of which is (1) a structural unit, in contact with other units but not in continuity; (2) a genetic unit, derived from a single embryonic cell, the neuroblast; (3) a functional unit or unit of conduction, the nervous pathways being chains of such units; (4) a trophic unit, the nerve processes degenerating when severed from the cell body, and being replaced, or regenerated, by outgrowths from the cell body.

neu'ron·ism (nū'rŏn·ĭz'm), n. [neuron + -ism.] A theory which stresses the brain neurons as the vehicles of mental processes. — neu'ron·ist (nū'rŏn·ĭst), n.

neu·ro'no·pha'gi·a (nū·rō'nō·fā'jĭ·ȧ), neu'ro·noph'a·gy (nū'rō·nŏf'ȧ·jĭ), n. [NL. neuronophagia. See NEURON; -PHAGIA, -PHAGY.] Med. Destruction of neurons by phagocytic cells.

neu'ro·nym (nū'rō·nĭm), n. [neur- + -onym.] The name of a nerve or a part of the nervous system.

neu·ron'y·my (nū·rŏn'ĭ·mĭ), n. The nomenclature of the nervous system.

neu'ro·path (nū'rō·păth), n. [See NEUROPATHY.] Med. a One who believes that most diseases are of nervous origin. b A person liable to nervous disease.

neu'ro·path'ic (nū'rō·păth'ĭk), neu'ro·path'i·cal (-păth'ĭ·kăl), adj. Med. Of or pert. to neuropathy; of the nature of, or having, nervous disease. — neu'ro·path'i·cal·ly, adv.

neu·rop'a·thist (nū·rŏp'ȧ·thĭst), n. A specialist in nervous diseases.

neu'ro·pa·thol'o·gy (nū'rō·pȧ·thŏl'ō·jĭ), n. Pathology of the nervous system. — neu'ro·path'o·log'i·cal (-păth'ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — neu'ro·pa·thol'o·gist (-pȧ·thŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

neu·rop'a·thy (nū·rŏp'ȧ·thĭ), n. [neuro- + -pathy.] Med. An abnormal condition of the nervous system or of a nerve.

Neu'rope (nū'rŭp), n. [Contracted from New Europe.] Philately. The new countries of Europe resulting from World War I; also, their numerous stamp issues.

neu'ro·phile (nū'rō·fĭl; -fīl), -phil (-fĭl), adj. [neuro- + -phile, -phil.] Physiol. Neurophilic.

neu'ro·phil'ic (-fĭl'ĭk), adj. Physiol. Neurotropic, as certain drugs.

neu'ro·phys'i·ol'o·gy (-fĭz'ĭ·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. Physiology of the nervous system. — -phys'i·o·log'i·cal (-ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj.

neu'ro·pile (nū'rō·pīl), n. Also neu'ro·pil (-pĭl), neu'ro·pi'lem (nū'rō·pī'lĕm). [neuro- + Gr. pilos felt.] Anat. a A feltwork of delicate unmyelinated nerve fibers interrupted by numerous synapses and occurring throughout the central nervous system, highly developed in parts of the brain, where, interspersed with myelinated fibers, it constitutes the reticular formations. b A delicate terminal branch of a nerve fiber.

neu'ro·plasm (nū'rō·plăz'm), n. [neuro- + -plasm.] Anat. The basophilic cytoplasm of a nerve cell. — neu'ro·plas'mic (-plăz'mĭk), adj.

neu'ro·po'di·um (-pō'dĭ·ŭm), n.; pl. -DIA (-ȧ). [NL., fr. neuro- + -podium.] a Anat. One of the delicate terminal branches of an axon. b Zool. The ventral lobe or branch of a parapodium. — neu'ro·po'di·al (-ăl), adj.

neu·rop'o·dous (nū·rŏp'ō·dŭs), adj. Zool. Having limbs directed toward the neural side.

neu'ro·pore (nū'rō·pōr; 181), n. [neuro- + pore.] Embryol. An opening from the exterior into the neurocoele.

neu'ro·psy·chi'a·try (-sī·kĭ'ȧ·trĭ; -psĭ-; 205), n. [neuro- + psychiatry.] The study and treatment of nervous and mental diseases; clinical neurology combined with psychiatry. — neu'ro·psy'chi·at'ric (-sī'kĭ·ăt'rĭk; -psĭ'-), adj. — neu'ro·psy·chi'a·trist (-sī·kĭ'ȧ·trĭst; -psĭ-), n.

neu'ro·psy·chol'o·gy (-sī·kŏl'ō·jĭ), n. The science of the connection of psychological and neurological facts. — neu'ro·psy'cho·log'i·cal (-sī'kō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — neu'ro·psy·chol'o·gist (-sī·kŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

neu'ro·psy·cho'sis (-sī·kō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + psychosis.] Med. a Mental disorder closely connected with, or caused by, nerve disease. b = PSYCHONEUROSIS. See NEUROSIS, n., 2.

Neu·rop'ter·a (nū·rŏp'tẽr·ȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. neuro- + -ptera.] Zool. An order of insects to which various limits have been assigned. In addition to the lace-winged flies, ant lions, and allied forms (to which it is now restricted), it includes in old and less natural classifications the Ephemerida, Odonata, Plecoptera, Isoptera, Corrodentia, Mallophaga, Mecoptera, and Trichoptera, which are mandibulate insects having four net-veined wings, but differing in their development and metamorphosis. Cf. PSEUDONEUROPTERA. — neu·rop'ter·an (-ăn), adj. & n. — neu·rop'ter·ous (-ŭs), adj.

One of the Neuroptera (Manispa interrupta). a Young Larva; b Mature Larva. Both enlarged. c Mature Insect. Nat. size.

Neu·rop'ter·is (-tẽr·ĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + Gr. pteris a kind of fern.] Paleontol. A large genus of fossil pteridosperms represented by abundant fronds and stems from the Devonian to the Triassic.

neu·rop'ter·ist (-ĭst), n. Zool. A student of the neuropteroid insects.

neu·rop'ter·oid (-oid), adj. [See -OID.] Like the Neuroptera (in the broad sense). — n. A neuropteroid insect.

Neu·rop'ter·ol'de·a (-tẽr·ol'dē·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Paleontol. A group of extinct insects (order Palaeodictyoptera) whose fragmentary remains suggest relationship with the Neuroptera. — neu·rop'ter·oid (nū·rŏp'tẽr·oid), adj. & n.

neu·rop'ter·ol'o·gy (-ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [NL., fr. Neuroptera + -logy.] Zool. The study of Neuroptera. — neu·rop'ter·o·log'i·cal (-ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj.

neu·rop'ter·on (nū·rŏp'tẽr·ŏn), n. [NL.] Zool. One of the Neuroptera.

neu'ro·ret'i·ni'tis (nū'rō·rĕt'ĭ·nī'tĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + retinitis.] Med. Inflammation of the optic nerve and the retina.

Neu'ror·thop'ter·a (nū'rôr·thŏp'tẽr·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Paleontol. A group of fossil insects having characters of both the Neuroptera and Orthoptera. — neu'ror·thop'ter·an (-ăn), adj. & n. — neu'ror·thop'ter·ous (-ŭs), adj.

neu·ro'sal (nū·rō'săl; -s'l), adj. Pertaining to or resembling a neurosis.

neu·ro'sis (nū·rō'sĭs), n.; pl. -SES (-sēz). [NL., fr. Gr. neuron nerve. See NERVE.] 1. Physiol. Any activity of the nervous system, esp. as correlated with mental activity. Cf. PSYCHOSIS, 1.
2. Psychiatry. A functional nervous disorder, without demonstrable physical lesion. Sometimes actual neuroses, like neurasthenia and anxiety neurosis, presumed to be due to physical exhaustion or irritation, are distinguished from psychoneuroses, like hysteria and compulsion neurosis, psychogenic in origin; but the terms are commonly used synonymously. Cf. PSYCHOSIS.

-neu·ro'sis (-nū·rō'sĭs). [NL.] A combining form of neurosis, used with word elements denoting an affected part, as in acro*neurosis*, myo*neurosis*.

neu'ro·skel'e·ton (nū'rō·skĕl'ē·tŭn), n. [neuro- + skeleton.] Zool. The endoskeleton of vertebrates. Rare. — neu'ro·skel'e·tal (-tăl; -t'l), adj. Rare.

neu'ro·some (nū'rō·sōm), n. [neuro- + 2d -some.] Anat. a The cell body of a neuron. b One of various small particles in the cytoplasm of a neuron.

neu'ro·spast (nū'rō·spăst), n. [L. neurospaston, fr. Gr. neurospaston, fr. neurospastos drawn by strings.] A puppet moved by strings. Obs. — neu'ro·spas'tic (-spăs'tĭk), adj. Obs.

neu'ro·spon'gi·um (-spŭn'jĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + -spongium.] Anat. a A network of fibrils in the cytoplasm of a nerve cell. b The inner reticular stratum of the retina.

neu'ro·syph'i·lis (-sĭf'ĭ·lĭs), n. [NL., fr. neuro- + syphilis.] Med. Syphilis of the nervous system.

neu'ro·ten'di·nous (-tĕn'dĭ·nŭs), adj. [neuro- + tendinous.] Anat. Pertaining to a nerve and tendon; esp., referring to the terminations of nerves in tendons.

neu'ro·ten'sion (-tĕn'shŭn), n. [neuro- + tension.] Surg. Neurectasy.

neu·rot'ic (nū·rŏt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. neuron nerve. See NEUROSIS.] Med. a Acting on the nerves; useful in nervous disorders; as, a neurotic drug. b Of or pertaining to the nerves; seated in the nerves; of the nature of neurosis; nervous; as, a neurotic disease. c Affected with neurosis; as, a neurotic person. — neu·rot'i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

neu·rot'ic, n. Med. a Any toxic agent affecting mainly the nervous system. Neurotics that specially affect the spinal cord are often called tetanics. b A disease seated in the nerves. c A neurotic person.

neu·rot'i·cism (-ĭ·sĭz'm), n. A neurotic condition, character, or trait.

neu·rot'i·za'tion (nū·rŏt'ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'-), n. Med. Regeneration of a nerve after division.

neu'ro·tome (nū'rō·tōm), n. [See NEUROTOMY.] Anat. & Zool. A neurometer.

neu·rot'o·my (nū·rŏt'ō·mĭ), n. [neuro- + -tomy.] a The dissection or cutting of nerves. b Surg. The division of a nerve, as to relieve neuralgia. — neu'ro·tom'i·cal (nū'rō·tŏm'ĭ·kăl), adj. — neu·rot'o·mist (nū·rŏt'ō·mĭst), n.

---

neu'ro·cele (nū'rō·sēl), n. = NEUROCOELE. neu'ro·chon'drite (-kŏn'drīt), n. = NEUROCENTRUM. neu'ro·den'drite (-dĕn'drīt), n. = DENDRITE. neu'ro·fi·bril'la (-fī·brĭl'ȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-ē). [NL.] = NEUROFIBRIL. neu'ro·den'dron (-drŏn), n. = NEUROCOELE. neu'ro·hyp·nol'o·gy (-hĭp·nŏl'ō·jĭ). = NEUROHYPNOLOGY. neu'ro·lem'ma (nū'rō·lĕm'ȧ), n. Var. of NEURILEMMA. neu'ro·mast (nū'rō·măst), n. [neuro- + Gr. mastos hillock, breast.] = NERVE EMINENCE. — = NEUROMUSCULAR.
neu'ro·mas'tic (-măs'tĭk), adj.
neu'ro·mus'cu·lar spin'dle (-mŭs'kŭ·lẽr). = MUSCLE SPINDLE. neu'ro·my'ic (nū'rō·mī'ĭk), adj. [neuro- + Gr. mys, myos, muscle.] = NEUROMUSCULAR.
neu·roph'a·gy (nū·rŏf'ȧ·jĭ), n. = NEURONOPHAGIA. neu'ro·poph'y·sis (nū'rō·pŏf'ĭ·sĭs). Var. of NEUROAPOPHYSIS.
neu·rop'ter (nū·rŏp'tẽr), n. = NEUROPTERON.
neu·rot'i·cize, v. t. See -IZE.

N

neu'ro·trop'ic (nū'rō-trŏp'ĭk; -trō'pĭk), adj. [neuro- + -tropic.] Med. Turning or directed toward, or having an affinity for, nerve tissue; as, neurotropic poisons, drugs, stains, or bacteria; characterized by, or pertaining to, neurotropism.

neu·rot'ro·pism (nū·rŏt'rō-pĭz'm), n. Also neu·rot'ro·py (-pĭ). Physiol. The attraction toward, or gathering in, nerve tissue (esp. of the central nervous system) of substances, cells, or minute organisms.

neu'ro·vac'cine (nū'rō-văk'sēn; -sĭn), n. [neuro- + vaccine.] Bacteriol. A smallpox vaccine virus cultivated in vivo in rabbits' brains. — neu'ro·vac'ci·na'tion (-sĭ-nā'shŭn), n.

neu'ru·la (nū'rōō-lȧ; 249), n. [NL., fr. neur- + -ula.] Embryol. An early embryo comprising an elongated gastrula in which nervous tissue is beginning to differentiate.

neu'ryp·nol'o·gy (nū'rĭp-nŏl'ō-jĭ), n. [neur- + Gr. hypnos sleep + -logy.] Hypnology. — neu'ryp·no·log'i·cal (-nō-lŏj'ĭ-kȧl), adj. — neu'ryp·nol'o·gist (-nŏl'ō-jĭst), n.

Neus'tri·an (nūs'trĭ-ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Neustria, the northwestern portion of the Frankish empire, including most of the territory between the Loire and the Scheldt and from the ocean east to about the frontier of Lorraine.

neu'ter (nū'tĕr), adj. [F. or L.; F. neutre, fr. L. neuter, fr. ne- not + uter either, one of two. See NO, adv.; WHETHER. Cf. NEITHER.] 1. Gram. a Conforming, or denoting conformity to, the class of words viewed as neither masculine nor feminine; as, a neuter noun or suffix. See GENDER, 3. b Now Rare. Neither active nor passive; intransitive; also, more restrictedly, expressing mere existence or state; — applied to verbs and verb forms.

2. Being no side; impartial; neutral. Archaic.

Providence never stands neuter. South.

3. Belonging to neither of two, usually opposed, classes. R.

4. Biol. a Having no generative organs; sexless. b Having imperfectly developed generative organs, as a worker bee. — neu'ter·ly, adv. — neu'ter·ness, n.

neu'ter (nū'tĕr), n. 1. Gram. a A noun, pronoun, adjective, or inflectional form or class of the neuter gender; also, the gender thus formally distinguished. b Now Rare. A verb used intransitively.

2. A person who takes no part in a contest or controversy; one who is neutral. Specif. [cap.], Amer. Hist., one of a tribe of Iroquoian Indians formerly dwelling along the northern shores of Lake Erie. They were called the Neutral Nation by the French, because of neutrality in the war between the Iroquois and the Hurons. They were destroyed by the Iroquois in 1651.

3. A thing that is neutral, in any sense. Rare.

4. One of the imperfectly developed females of certain social insects, as ants and honeybees, that perform the labors of the community; a worker.

5. A castrated animal, esp. a castrated cat.

neu'ter, v. t.; -TERED (-tĕrd); -TER·ING. To castrate. R.

neu'ter·dom (nū'tĕr-dŭm), n. State of being neuter sexually.

neuter passive. Gram. Passive in form and "neuter," or intransitive, in meaning; — applied to such Latin verbs as gaudeo, in which the perfect tense is passive, and to French verbs forming their perfect with être.

neu'tral (nū'trȧl), adj. [F. or L.; obs. F. neutral, fr. L. neutralis, fr. neuter. See NEUTER.] 1. Not engaged on either side; not taking part with or assisting either of two or more contending parties; neuter; specif., of a state or power, lending no active assistance to either or any belligerent.

The heart cannot possibly remain neutral, but constantly takes part one way or the other. Shaftesbury.

2. Of or pertaining to a neutral state or power; not involved in hostilities; as, neutral territory.

3. Neither one thing nor the other; belonging to neither of two, usually opposed or contrasted, classes; not decided or pronounced as to characteristics; middling; indifferent; as, a neutral character without marked virtues or vices.

4. a Gray; achromatic. b Not decided in color; quiet in tone. c Free from tinges of other colors; as, a neutral blue.

5. Designating a rope, as for hoisting, that has no tendency to twist or untwist, a condition fulfilled esp. by flat ropes.

6. Bot. Without stamens or pistils, as the ray florets of many composites, the marginal flowers of Hydrangea, etc.

7. Biol. Neuter. See NEUTER, adj., 4.

8. Chem. a Neither acid nor basic; neither acid nor alkaline; specif., having a p H value of 7.0. b Normal (sense 4 c).

9. Elec. Neither positive nor negative; of a potential which is midway between, or the average of, the extreme potentials of an electric apparatus or system.

10. Gram. Noncommittal; — said of certain types of conditional sentence (which see).

11. Mach. Designating the position in which the propelling mechanism, although itself revolving freely, transmits no motion to the parts, as wheels, to be driven.

12. Philos. Neither distinctively physical nor distinctively mental but common to both; common to the knowing mind and the object known; as, neutral being, entities.

13. Phonet. a Of the lips, wide open as for sounding ah, without being either rounded or spread. Cf. ROUND, v. t., 11. b Of the tongue, resting without effort in the center of the mouth, or in the mid-mixed position, as in uttering the first vowel of above.

Syn. — NEUTRAL, NEGATIVE, as here compared, agree in suggesting the absence of marked characteristics. But NEUTRAL emphasizes the idea of vagueness or indefiniteness, as of that which is neither one thing nor the other; NEGATIVE involves a more strongly implied contrast with that which is positive; as, "a low, muffled, neutral tone, as of a voice heard through cotton wool" (G. Eliot); a neutral tint; a negative character; merely negative results. — neu'tral·ly, adv. — neu'tral·ness, n.

neu'tral (nū'trȧl), n. 1. A person, party, vessel, or nation that takes, or belongs to one who takes, no part in a contest between others; one that is neutral.

2. A neutral tone or color; specif., = GRAY, n., 1 a.

3. = NEUTRAL LARD.

4. [cap.] Amer. Hist. A Neuter (see NEUTER, n., 2).

5. Elec. A neutral point, wire, conductor, bus bar, etc.

6. Mach. The neutral position; — esp. of gears; as, the engine was in neutral.

neutral acriflavine. See ACRIFLAVINE.

neutral axis (or surface). Mech. That line (or plane), in a beam or other member subjected to a bending action, in which the fibers are neither stretched nor compressed, or where the longitudinal stress is zero.

neutral conductor. Elec. The intermediate conductor in a three-wire system, usually grounded or maintained at zero potential.

neutral corner. Boxing. Either of the two diagonally opposite corners of the ring that are not appropriated to one or the other of the contestants.

neutral dye or color. Dyeing. A dye capable of dyeing fibers (esp. cotton) directly in a neutral or faintly alkaline bath.

neutral equilibrium. Mech. The kind of equilibrium of a body so placed that when moved slightly it neither tends to return to its former position nor to depart more widely from it, as a perfect sphere or cylinder on a horizontal plane.

neutral gray. = GRAY n., 1 a.

Neutral Ground. Specif.: a Amer. Hist. During the Revolutionary War, a region in Westchester County, New York, which lay between the British and the American lines. b A tract of ground near Gibraltar lying between the British and the Spanish lines.

neu'tral·ism (nū'trȧl-ĭz'm), n. Neutrality. Rare.

neu'tral·ist (-ĭst), n. a One who professes or practices neutrality. b One who favors the neutralization of a state or region.

neu·tral'i·ty (nū-trȧl'ĭ-tĭ), n. [F. neutralité, or ML. neutralitas.] 1. The party or parties who are neutral; a combination of neutral powers or states; — with the. Cf. ARMED NEUTRALITY. Obs. exc. Hist.

2. Quality or state of being neutral; the condition of being uninvolved in contests or controversies between others; state of refraining from taking part on either side.

The cold neutrality of an impartial judge. Burke.

3. The character of a neutral thing, place, or the like, during hostilities; as, the neutrality of a port.

4. Quality or state of being neither in one class or category nor in another; indifference in quality. Specif., Chem., quality or state of being neutral. See NEUTRAL, adj., 8.

5. State or fact of being neuter, in any sense. Rare.

6. Internat. Law. a The condition of a state or government which refrains from taking part, directly or indirectly, in a war between other powers. The right to observe neutrality and the name neutrality are both comparatively modern, all persons anciently having been considered as friends or foes. b In the case of a country or a waterway, the condition of immunity from invasion or use by belligerents in the course of operations against each other. Such neutrality is sometimes guaranteed by treaty.

neu'tral·i·za'tion (nū'trȧl-ĭ-zā'shŭn; -ĭ-zā'shŭn), n. [Cf. F. neutralisation.] Act or process of neutralizing, or state of being neutralized.

neu'tral·ize (nū'trȧl-īz), v.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). [Cf. F. neutraliser.] Transitive: 1. Chem. To render neutral (see NEUTRAL, adj., 8); to destroy the peculiar properties or effect of; as, to neutralize an acid with a base.

2. To destroy the peculiar properties or opposite dispositions of; to reduce to inefficiency; to counteract; as, to neutralize parties, efforts, opposition, etc.

3. Elec. To make void of electricity, or electrically inert, by combining equal positive and negative quantities.

4. Internat. Law. To invest with conventional or obligatory neutrality conferring inviolability by belligerents.

—, Intransitive: Radio. To prevent regeneration by inserting a device to balance the voltage due to the capacitive current between grid and plate.

Syn. — Counterbalance, annul, nullify, frustrate, vitiate. — NEUTRALIZE, COUNTERACT, COUNTERVAIL. To NEUTRALIZE is to render inoperative or ineffective, esp. by an opposite influence, force, or effect; to COUNTERACT implies more positively counter or contrary action; it does not so definitely suggest that the thing itself ceases to act or becomes neutral; as, "White shall not neutralize the black, nor good compensate bad in man" (R. Browning); "Unless powerfully counteracted by all sorts of opposite agencies, [old age] is a miserable . . . blighter to the genial charity of the human heart" (De Quincey). But the two words are often used with little distinction. COUNTERVAIL suggests more definitely than either of them a balance of opposing forces; as, "The fact . . . shall, in the absence of strong countervailing testimony, be deemed conclusive evidence" (A. Lincoln). Cf. ABOLISH.

neu'tral·iz'er (-īz'ĕr), n. a One who or that which neutralizes. b Specif., in the manufacture of glucose from starch, a tank in which the acid liquid is neutralized.

neutral lard. Lard of high quality rendered at low temperatures (not above 55° C. or 131° F.) from the leaf or back fat of swine.

neutral layer. = NEUTRAL SURFACE. See NEUTRAL AXIS.

neutral light. See COLOR, n., 2.

neutral line. a Mech. = NEUTRAL AXIS. b Elec. = NEUTRAL POSITION.

neutral monism. Philos. A monism which takes primordial reality to be neither mind nor matter but something more fundamental than either of these.

Neutral Nation. See NEUTER, n., 2.

neutral oil. a An oil which is neither acid nor alkaline. b A paraffin oil deprived of bloom and odor, used for mixing with animal or vegetable oils.

neutral orange. = BITTERSWEET ORANGE.

neutral phosphate. See PHOSPHORIC ACID.

neutral point. Elec. The temperature at which the thermoelectric power of two metals is zero. It is the average of the temperature of the cold junction and the corresponding temperature of inversion.

neutral position. a Elec. The position of the brushes of a dynamoelectric machine for least sparking; — called also neutral line. b Mach. See NEUTRAL, adj., 11.

neutral red. a A dye. See DYE, Table. b A color, red in hue, of medium saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

neutral rock. Petrog. A rock chemically intermediate between acid and basic, and containing between 64 and 52 per cent of silica.

neutral surface. See NEUTRAL AXIS.

neutral temperature. Physics. The temperature at which the thermoelectric power of two metals is zero.

neutral text. See TEXT, n., 9. neutral tint. a A gray pigment of various shades, used by artists. b A color approximating to gray; specif., a color, reddish-blue in hue, of very low saturation and very low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

neutral vowel. Phonet. Any of various closely similar unstressed mixed vowel sounds (a in above, e in quiet, i in possible). See Pron., §§ 31, 32, 72, 92.

neutral wire. Elec. The central wire in a three-wire distribution system. It is connected to the central point of the generator or of two generators connected in series.

neutral zone. 1. Amer. Football. A space between the two lines of scrimmage which may not be encroached upon by either team until the ball is put in play. The width of the zone is equivalent to the length of the ball.

2. In form Neutral zone. Biogeog. The Transition zone.

3. Elec. The position on the armature of a direct-current machine where the magnetic flux from the field poles is zero. It is midway between the poles at no load.

4. Mach. = POSITIVE ALLOWANCE.

neu'tro- (nū'trō-). A combining form for neutral, as in neutrophile.

neu'tro·cep'tor (nū'trō-sĕp'tĕr; nū'trō-sĕp'tĕr), n. [neutro- + receptor.] A receptor for stimuli which are not necessarily either harmful or beneficial. Cf. NOCICEPTOR, BENECEPTOR. — neu'tro·cep'tive (-tĭv), adj.

neu'tro·clu'sion (nū'trō-klōō'zhŭn), n. [neutro- + occlusion.] Dent. The condition in which the anteroposterior occlusal relations of the teeth are normal.

Neu'tro·dyne (nū'trō-dīn), n. [neutro- + dyne.] Radio. A trade-mark for radio receiving apparatus in which the effect of capacity between grid and plate in causing regeneration is prevented or controlled by an auxiliary balancing capacity.

neu'tro·lo·gis'tic (nū'trō-lō-jĭs'tĭk), adj. [See NEUTER; cf. EULOGY.] Neutral, with respect to favor. Rare.

neu'tron (nū'trŏn), n. [NL., fr. L. neuter neither; — from having neither positive nor negative charge.] Physics & Chem. An uncharged particle of slightly greater mass (1.00893 atomic mass units, or 1.675×10^{-24} gm.) than the proton, occurring in atomic nuclei except those of ordinary hydrogen. Symbol, n (no period).

neu'tro·phile (nū'trō-fīl; -fĭl), neu'tro·phil (-fĭl), n. [L. neuter + -phile, -phil.] Anat. One of a group of leucocytes whose granules stain indifferently. — neu'tro·phil'ic (-fĭl'ĭk), neu·troph'i·lous (nū-trŏf'ĭ-lŭs), adj.

neu'tro·phile, neu'tro·phil, adj. Physiol. Staining indifferently with acid or basic dyes; — said of cells or cell parts.

neu'tro·phil'i·a (nū'trō-fĭl'ĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. neutro- + -philia.] Med. Leucocytosis in which the increase in white corpuscles is chiefly in neutrophile leucocytes.

Ne·vad'a (nĕ-văd'ȧ; -vā'dȧ), n. A State of the United States. See Gaz.

Ne·vad'an (-văd'ăn; -vā'dăn), adj. Of or pert. to the State of Nevada. — n. A native or inhabitant of Nevada.

ne·vad'ite (nĕ-văd'īt; -vā'dĭt), n. Petrog. A variety of rhyolite of granitoid appearance, first observed in Nevada.

Ne'va green (nē'vȧ). A color, yellow-green in hue, of high saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

nev'e (nĕv'ē), n. [AS. nefa. See NEPHEW.] Nephew. Obs.

né'vé' (nā'vā'), n. [F., ult. fr. L. nix, nivis, snow. See SNOW.] The partially compacted granular snow forming the surface part of the upper end of a glacier; by extension, any field of granular snow; firn. See GLACIER.

nev'el, nev'ell (nĕv'l'; -ĭl), n. [See NIEVE fist.] A fisticuff. — v. t. To beat with the fists. Both Scot. & N. of Eng.

nev'er (nĕv'ĕr), adv. [AS. nǣfre, fr. ne not, no + ǣfre ever. See EVER.] 1. Not ever; not at any time; at no time.

Death still draws nearer, never seeming near. Pope.

2. Not in any degree, in the least, in any way, under any condition, or the like; — used in emphatic negation, often idiomatically; as, never fear; he had never a cent.

And he answered to him never a word. Matt. xxvii. 14

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

never-ceasing	never-lasting	never-swerving
never-certain	never-needed	never-tamed
never-changing	never-quenching	never-tiring never-conquered	never-ready	never-trodden never-constant	never-resting	never-twinkling never-daunted	never-satisfied	never-vacant never-dead	never-setting	never-varied never-dying	never-shaken	never-varying never-ended	never-silent	never-waning never-ending	never-sleeping	never-wearied never-fading	never-smiling	never-winking
never-failing	never-stable	never-withering

— never so. As never before; more than ever before; especially; particularly; — now often expressed or replaced by ever so. "Ask me never so much dower." Gen. xxxiv. 12.

— never the (followed by a comparative). None the; not at all, or in any way, the; as, never the less (Obs., exc. in nevertheless); never the more (formerly also neverthemore).

nev'er·mass (nĕv'ĕr-măs), n. A day that never was or will be. Obs.

nev'er·more' (-mōr'; 181), adv. Never again; at no time hereafter. "Quoth the raven, 'Nevermore.'" Poe.

nev'er–nev'er coun'try or land. Also nev'er–nev'er, n. Colloq. a Australia. The sparsely settled district in the north and west of Queensland. b A remote and little-settled district. Kipling. c An ideal or make believe country; an illusory existence.

nev'er–say'–die', adj. Indomitable; as, a never-say-die spirit or person. — nev'er–say'–die', n.

nev'er–strike', n. One who never strikes his flag, or yields.

nev'er·the·less' (nĕv'ĕr-thē-lĕs'), adv. [never + the (see THE by that) + less.] Not the less; notwithstanding; in spite of that; yet.

Syn. — However, still. See BUT, conj.

ne'void, nae'void (nē'void), adj. [nevus + -oid.] Med. Resembling a nevus or nevi.

ne'vus, nae'vus (nē'vŭs), n.; pl. -VI (-vī). [L.] Med. A pigmented place on the skin, usually congenital; a birthmark; a mole; esp., a vascular tumor, that is, one mainly of blood vessels, as dilated arteries, veins, or capillaries.

nev·yansk'ite (nĕv-yăn'skĭt), n. [From Nevyansk, Russia.] Mineral. Iridosmine containing over forty per cent of iridium, occurring in tin-white scales.

new (nū; 242), adj.; NEW'ER (-ĕr); NEW'EST. [ME. newe, fr. AS. nīwe, nēowe; akin to D. nieuw, OS. niwi, OHG. niuwi, G. neu, ON. nȳr, Dan. & Sw. ny, Goth. niujis, Lith. naujas, OSlav. novŭ, OIr. nūe, W. newydd, L. novus, Gr. neos, Skr. nava, navya, and to E. NOW. Cf. INNOVATE, NEOPHYTE, NINE, NOVEL, NUNCIO, RENOVATE.] 1. Having existed, or having been made, but a short time; having originated or occurred lately; not early or long in being; recent; fresh; modern; — opposed to old; as, a new coat; a new regime; a new fashion; new potatoes.

2. a With reference to a person himself or thing itself: having been seen or known but a short time, although perhaps existing before; recently manifested, recognized, or experienced; hence, strange; unfamiliar; as, new lands, doctrines, grief. b With reference to another: other than the former, or old; having freshly come into a use, connection, etc.; as, to turn a new leaf; the new teacher.

3. Having been in some relationship, position, or condition but a short time; hence, not habituated; unaccustomed; as, a new member; new from school; new to the plow.

neu·rur'gic. Var. of NEURERGIC. neu'ter·like', adj. Neutral. R.
neu'tral·ize. Var. of NEUTRALIZE. neu'tral·iz'ing sign. Music. = NATURAL, n., 11 b. neu'tri·a. Var. of NUTRIA. neu'tro·pas'sive, adj. Gram. = NEUTER PASSIVE.
‖neu'vaine' (nū'vān'), n. [F., fr. ML. novena.] = NOVENA.
Nevada blue grass. See GRASS, Table.
ne·var' (nē-wär'). Var. of NEWAR. ne·vat' (nĕ-văt'), n. [Ar. nawāh date stone.] See WEIGHT, Table.
nev'en, v. t. [ON. nefna, fr. nafn. See NAME, n.] To name; to nominate; tell; speak of. Obs. — v. i. To tell; speak. Obs. [TREE a.] nev'er-die'tree. = HORSE-RADISH. nev'er·land, n. = NEVER-NEVER LAND c. Barrie. neveriesse. † NEVERTHELESS. nevermo. † NEVERMORE. nev'er·the·lat'ter, nev'er·the·lat'er, adv. Nevertheless. Obs.
nev'er·thrift', n. A thriftless person. Obs. [& Ref. Sp.] nev'ew. Var. of NEPHEW. Obs.
Ne'vile and Win'ther's acid. Dyes. See NAPHTHOLSULPHONIC. nev'o (nĕv'ō), nev'oy (nĕv'oi). Scot. vars. of NEPHEW.
Ne'vo·me' (nē'vō-mē'), n. See 1st PIMA, 2.

‖ Foreign Word. † Obsolete Variant of. + combined with. = equals. Abbreviations, Signs, etc., are explained on pages immediately preceding the Vocabulary.

4. Beginning or appearing as the recurrence, resumption, or repetition of some previous act or thing; as, a new year; a new start; also, renovated or recreated; regenerated; as, rest had made him a new man.

For as the sun is daily new and old
So is my love still telling what is told. Shak.

5. Different or distinguished from a person, place, or thing of the same kind or name that has longer or previously existed; as, the new reservoir; the new theology; New York; New Guinea.

6. Not of ancient lineage; of a family previously unknown or undistinguished; recently acquiring rank, distinction, or the like; as, new blood; a new family.

7. [cap.] In names of languages, modern; esp., in use since medieval times; as, New Greek; New Latin; New Hebrew; New English; New High German. See MODERN, adj., 4.

Syn. — NEW, NOVEL, FRESH, RECENT, LATE, MODERN. That is NEW (opposed to old) which has existed, or been known, but a short time; that is NOVEL (opposed to common, usual, familiar) which is, often strikingly, out of the ordinary course; as, "No man putteth new wine into old bottles" (Mk. ii. 22); a novel method of bottling wine. That is FRESH, as here compared, which has just been done, made, received, etc., or which retains or suggests the liveliness, brightness, or energy of a new thing; the word may also connote new and original qualities or characteristics; as, fresh butter, fresh footprints, the work received fresh impetus; "fresh and lasting in . . . remembrance" (Shak.). RECENT is a more relative term; it suggests comparative nearness to the present; as, recent discoveries, a recent number of a magazine, until recent years. LATE (cf. SLOW), which is sometimes interchangeable with recent (as, "On the Late Massacre in Piedmont," Milton), applies esp. to that which has recently ceased to exist, or which is no longer what it recently was; as, his late residence, during the late reign, the late incumbent of the office, the funeral of the late Richard Roe. That is MODERN (in ordinary usage) which belongs to the present period, or is characteristic of it; the word commonly suggests contrast with a more distant past than that implied in recent, and often applies esp. to that which is of the latest and most approved form, construction, or character; as, modern languages, modern (cf. recent) usage, modern artillery; "This strange disease of modern life, with its sick hurry, its divided aims, its heads o'ertaxed, its palsied hearts" (M. Arnold). Cf. RENEW.

Ant. — Old, ancient; familiar, usual, common; former, early, obsolete; antique.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:
new-bladed, new-bloomed, new-looking.

new (nū; 242), n. That which is new; something new; specif., the first phase; as, in the new of the moon.

new (nū; 242), adv. [AS. nīwe.] Newly; recently; anew; afresh (see FLAT, adj., 11).

It must be that when God speaketh he should . . . new date and new create the whole. Emerson.

☞ In recent practice, new is generally hyphened to a verb, esp. in its participial or participial-adjective forms, and to derivative agent nouns before which it is used, as in the following selected list:

new-admitted	new-create	new-mown
new-apparel	new-furbish	new-name
new-array	new-grown	new-people new-awaked	new-laid	new-rigged
new-begotten	new-made	new-risen new-blown	new-model	new-written new-built	new-modeler	new-wrought

-new and new. Over and over; again and again. Obs.

— of new. Anew. Obs. Chaucer.

new, v. t. & i. [AS. nīwian to renew.] To renew. Obs.

New Al'bi·on (ăl'bĭ·ŭn). a A region, including Long Island and the territory now included in New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania, granted under this name by Charles I in 1634 to Sir Edmund Plowden and others as a county palatine. b An extensive region on the northwest coast of North America, now mostly included in the States of Oregon and Washington; — so called by Drake.

New Apostolic Church. An offshoot (1862) from the Catholic Apostolic Church (which see).

Ne·war' (nē·wär'), n. One of the Mongoloid Nepalese.

Ne·wa'ri (nē·wä'rē), n. The language of the Newars. See INDO-CHINESE LANGUAGES, Table.

New'ark charg'ing sys'tem (nū'ĕrk). [From Newark, N. J.] Libraries. A system of charging library books, in which, when a book is lent, the date of issue or the date due is stamped on the book card, on a plate in the book, and on the borrower's card; and the borrower's name or number also is recorded on the book card, which is filed until the book is returned and the return is recorded on the borrower's card.

New'ark for·ma'tion or se'ries (nū'ĕrk). [From Newark, New Jersey.] Geol. A series of sedimentary rocks representing the Triassic system in the eastern United States. See GEOLOGY, Chart.

Newark Works. See MOUND BUILDER.

New Art. = ART NOUVEAU.

new assignment. Pleading. = NOVEL ASSIGNMENT.

New Atlantis. An allegory by Lord Bacon, and the name of an island described in it as being situated, like the Atlantis of the ancients, in the middle of an ocean. Bacon represents himself as wrecked on this island, and as finding there an association for the cultivation of natural science and improvements in the arts.

New Attic School. See ATTIC SCHOOL.

new'ber·y·ite (nū'bĕr·ĭ·īt; 68), n. [After J. C. Newbery, an Australian.] Mineral. An acid magnesium phosphate, $HMgPO_3 3H_2O$, in white orthorhombic crystals in guano.

new birth. Theol. Regeneration, or the beginning of a religious or specifically Christian life.

new blue. a = ULTRAMARINE b. b French blue, or a dye of this color.

new'born' (nū'bôrn'; 66), adj. a Recently born. b Born anew.

new bronze. A brown, yellowish red-yellow in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

New Bruns'wick green (nū brŭnz'wĭk). = CHROME GREEN, 1 b.

New'burg (nū'bûrg), adj. = À LA NEWBURG. — n. A dish à la Newburg.

new'cal (nū'k'l), new'ca'd (-kăd), adj. Newly calved. Scot. & N. of Eng.

New'cas'tle (nū'kăs'l; 83), n. An English folk dance, a round dance for eight, now often revived.

New Christian. = MARRANO.

new chum. A recent arrival; a tenderfoot. Australia & S. Africa.

New Church. See NEW JERUSALEM CHURCH.

new cocoa. The color Natal brown.

New Code. R.C.Ch. = CODEX JURIS CANONICI.

new'come' (nū'kŭm'), adj. Recently come. — n. A newcomer.

New Comedy. See COMEDY, 1.

new'com'er (-kŭm'ĕr), n. One who has lately come.

New'comes, The (nū'kŭmz). The title and family name of the chief characters in a novel (completed 1855) by Thackeray, of life in England in the first half of the 19th century. Colonel Newcome is a gallant, simple-hearted gentleman, a retired East Indian officer. His unworldliness leads to the loss of his fortune, and he dies, a pensioner, in the Charterhouse.

New Congregational Methodist Church. See METHODIST, n., 2.

New Connexion. Eccl. a A former division of the General Baptists of England, founded in 1770. b A former division of British Methodists formed in 1797 by Rev Alex. Kilham.

new'-cut', n. A certain old game at cards.

new cutch. See CATECHU, 1 d.

New Deal. A number of measures of President F. D. Roosevelt, designed to promote economic recovery and social security. Some of the most important of these measures are the National Industrial Recovery Act, farm relief, public works, control of public utility holding companies, old-age pensions, and unemployment insurance.

New Dunkers. = CHURCH OF GOD. See DUNKER (5).

New Economic Policy. The policy of the Russian Soviet government, officially announced in May, 1921, by which the smaller industrial plants (about 70 per cent of the total), confiscated in 1918, were returned to private ownership, state control of agriculture was abandoned, private trading was legitimized, and the wage system was restored. Often called Nep or NEP. See NEPMAN.

New Egyptian. Late Egyptian. See EGYPTIAN, n., 2.

new'el (nū'ĕl), n. [ME. nowell, fr. OF. nouel, noiel (F. noyau), stone of a fruit, newel, fr. LL. nucale, fr. nucalis of a nut, fr. nux, nucis, nut. See NUCLEUS; cf. NOWEL core.] 1. Arch. The upright post, or the upright made of the inner or smaller ends of the steps, about which the steps of a circular staircase wind; hence, in stairways with straight flights, the principal post at the foot, or a secondary one at a landing. See HOLLOW NEWEL.

Newel at Bottom of Staircase.

2. Engin. A cylindrical pillar terminating a wing wall of a bridge or viaduct.

new'el, n. [From novel, n., after new.] A novelty; a new thing. Obs.

newel stair. A stair with newels at the angles to receive the ends of the strings; also, a spiral stair in which the inner or smaller ends of the steps are engaged in a solid vertical core.

new'el·ty (nū'ĕl·tĭ), n. [From novelty, after new.] Novelty. Obs. exc. Dial.

New Empire. a See NEW KINGDOM. b See 3d MAYA, 1 a.

New England. The section of the United States comprising the six northeastern States, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. — New Eng'land·er (ĭng'glănd·ĕr), n. — New Eng'land·ish (-dĭsh), adj. — New Eng'land·ism, n.

New England aster. A common perennial aster (Aster novae-angliae) of eastern North America, with showy purplish flowers. See WILD FLOWERS, Plate. It is the chief parent of the Michaelmas daisies.

New England boxwood. The flowering dogwood.

New England Confederation. Amer. Hist. A confederation (1643–84) of the colonies of Massachusetts Bay, Plymouth, Connecticut, and New Haven, formed for defense against the Indians and the Dutch.

New England hake. The silver hake. See HAKE, 1.

New England of the West. Minnesota; — so called because so many New Englanders settled there.

New England pine. = WHITE PINE, 1 a.

New England primer. A famous primary school book, probably compiled by Benjamin Harris and printed at Boston about 1690.

New England shilling. A silver coin of Massachusetts, authorized 1652, with NE on the obverse and the Roman numerals XII on the reverse, — along with the sixpence and threepence (marked VI and III on reverse) the earliest silver colonial coinage.

New England short o. See Pron., 179.

New England theology. The modified Calvinism originated by Jonathan Edwards (1703–58). See EDWARDEAN.

New England turpentine. = CANADA BALSAM.

New English. a Now Rare. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, New England. b Obs. New Englanders collectively. c Modern English (see NEW, adj., 7).

new extent. See EXTENT, 1 a. new'fan'gle (nū'făng'g'l; nū'făng'g'l; 66), adj. [ME. newefangel. See NEW; FANGLE.] Newfangled. — n. A newfangled thing; a novelty. — v. t. To make newfangled. All Now Dial.

new'fan'gled (-g'ld; 66), adj. 1. Inclined to novelties; given to new theories or fashions. "Newfangled men." Latimer. 2. New-made; novel; — used in disparagement.

A newfangled nomenclature. Sir W. Hamilton.

— new'fan'gled·ism (-ĭz'm), n. — new'fan'gled·ly, adv. — new'fan'gled·ness, n.

new'fan'gle·ment (nū'făng'g'l·mĕnt), n. Novelty; a novelty. Rare.

new'-fash'ion, adj. New-fashioned. Dial.

new'-fash'ioned (nū'făsh'ŭnd; 66), adj. Made in a new fashion or form, or lately come into fashion.

new fire. Anthropol. A ceremony in which all household fires are extinguished and the hearths reignited by fire from a newly kindled ceremonial fire, as symbolic of new life, the near year, or rebirth.

new'-fire' meth'od. A method of determining the performance characteristics of a previously heated low-pressure heating boiler by taking observations from the time a new fire is started.

New Foundation. Ch. of Eng. The status of having been founded at the Reformation with a new organization; — used of those cathedrals which previously were monastic cathedrals and of those of the new sees created around previous monastic churches.

New'found·land' (nū'fŭn(d)·lănd' (the local pron.); nū'fŭn(d)·lănd, -lănd'; also, esp. for the dog and attributively, nū·foun(d)'lănd), n. 1. An island on the coast of British North America, famed for the fishing grounds in its vicinity. 2. Short for NEWFOUNDLAND DOG.

New·found'land cariboo. A caribou (Rangifer terraenovae) confined to Newfoundland, larger than the woodland caribou.

Newfoundland dog. A very large dog of a breed native to North America but believed to have developed in mid 17th century by crossing dogs found in Newfoundland with other large dogs from England. It is intelligent, self-sacrificing, and very devoted to its owners. It is a strong, active dog, with great swimming powers, stands 26 to 28 inches high, and weighs 110 to 150 pounds. Its head is broad and massive, with well-developed occipital bone, decided stop, and short squarish muzzle. It has a coarse, flat, dense coat, usually black, though bronze and black-and-white dogs are sometimes found.

Head of Newfoundland Dog.

New'found·land'er (nū'fŭn(d)·lăn'dĕr; nū'fŭn(d)·lăn·dĕr, -lăn'dĕr; nū·foun(d)'lăn·dĕr), n. a A native of Newfoundland. b A Newfoundland vessel.

new'-front', v. t. To provide with a new front.

New'gate (nū'gāt; -gĭt), n. a The western gate in the wall of the old city of London. b A famous old prison in this locality, rebuilt several times and razed in 1902.

Newgate calendar. An account of prisoners in Newgate, with details of their crimes, formerly published in London.

Newgate frill or fringe. A fringe or beard under the chin.

New Greeks. Painting. The Neo-Greeks.

new growth. = NEOPLASM.

New Guin'ea nut'meg (gĭn'ĭ). = MACASSAR NUTMEG.

New Hamp'shire (hămp'shĭr). A State of the United States. See Gaz.

New Hampshire grants. U. S. Hist. The early colonial name of the region that became Vermont. See GRANT, n., 3.

New Hamp'shir·ite (nū hămp'shĭr·īt), n. Also New Hamp·shir'e·an (hămp·shĭr'ē·ăn). A native or inhabitant of New Hampshire.

New Ha'ven the·ol'o·gy (hā'vĕn). See TAYLORISM.

new'ing (nū'ĭng), n. 1. A renewing. Obs. 2. Chiefly pl. Anything new; news. Now Dial.

New Ionic. See GREEK, n., 5; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

New Jer'sey (jûr'zĭ). A State of the United States. See Gaz.

New Jer'sey·ite (-īt), n. A native or inhabitant of New Jersey.

New Jersey pine. The scrub pine Pinus virginiana.

New Jersey plan. U. S. Hist. A plan for a constitution laid before the convention of 1787 by William Paterson of New Jersey, but rejected. It provided for a single legislative house, with equal representation for each State. See VIRGINIA PLAN.

New Jersey tea. The leaves of an undershrub (Ceanothus americanus) of the eastern United States, used during the Revolution as a substitute for tea; also, the plant.

New Jerusalem. The Heavenly, or Celestial, City; the abode of the redeemed; the Holy City. Rev. xxi. 2.

New Jerusalem Church, New Church, or Church of the New Jerusalem. The church holding the doctrines taught by Emanuel Swedenborg. See SWEDENBORGIAN.

New Kingdom, New Empire. In Egypt, the Theban kingdom under the XVIIIth to XXth dynasties from 1580 B.C. to about 1100 B.C., when Egypt was at the height of her power. By some, New Empire is also used of the period of decline through the XXXth dynasty (353 B.C.). new'land·ite (nū'lănd·īt), n. [From Newlands diamond mine, S. Africa.] Petrog. A garnet, enstatite, chrome-diopside metamorphic rock found as a xenolith in diamond pipes.

New Learning. English learning of the 16th century based on the study, then introduced into England, of the Bible and the classics, esp. Greek, in the original (cf. RENAISSANCE); also, the learning or doctrines of the English Reformation.

new'-light', n. The crappie. Local, U. S.

New Light. Eccl. One who accepts new (usually liberal) religious doctrine or views; a member of a liberal party. See LIGHT, n., 4. Specif.: a One of the Calvinistic Methodists, organized in the United States about 1740 in consequence of the preaching of Whitefield. They were subsequently organized into separate societies and were called Separates, many of them becoming Baptists. b One of those among New England Congregationalists who formed the revival movement of 1740–42. c One of those parties in the Scottish Secession Churches, both Burgher and Antiburgher, which (about 1800) adopted less rigorous, voluntaryist views with regard to the proper relation between church and state. In 1820 the New Light Burghers and the majority of the New Light Antiburghers united to form the United Secession Church. The minority of the latter in 1827 united with the Auld Licht Antiburghers to form the Original Seceders. Cf. AULD LICHT b. d One of those Reformed Presbyterians in North America who hold that it is permissible to vote in civil elections and hold civil office. This minority party was organized in 1833 as the Reformed Presbyterian Church in North America, General Synod. Cf. OLD LIGHT, 2 b. e An Edwardean. f One of the Disciples of Christ.

new'ly (nū'lĭ), adv. [AS. nīwlīce.] 1. Lately; recently. 2. Anew; afresh; in a new way; as, a house newly furnished; a thought newly expressed. 3. Soon; quickly. Obs.

new'ly·wed' (nū'lĭ·wĕd'), n. One recently married.

new man, the. The regenerate nature. Eph. iv. 24.

New'man·ism (nū'măn·ĭz'm), n. The theological and ecclesiastical views taught by John Henry (afterwards Cardinal) Newman (1801–90) while a member of the Church of England, esp. in Tract No. 90, where he argued that the language of the Thirty-nine Articles admits of a "Catholic" interpretation by distinguishing between the corruptions against which they were directed and the doctrines they did not oppose.

New'man·ite (nū'măn·īt), n. A follower of Newman; an adherent of Newmanism.

New'man·ize (-īz), v. t. To adhere to Newmanism.

new'mar'ket (nū'mär'kĕt; -kĭt; 119), n. [From Newmarket, England.] 1. A long, closely fitting coat or cloak; — called also Newmarket coat. 2. A game at cards resembling Pope Joan without the pope, the layout being usually heart ace, club king, diamond queen, spade jack. This is dressed by each player's contributing a chip to each, the dealer two chips. The whole new'al·ty. Var. of NEWELTY.

---

Newcastle burr. Phonet. See 1st BURR, 13 a.

Newcastle glass. [From Newcastle upon Tyne, England.] = CROWN GLASS.

Newcastle thorn. = COCKSPUR, 2 a.

new'fan'gle·ness, n. [ME. newefangelnes. See FANGLE.] Newfangledness. Obs.

Ne·wich'a·wan'oc (nē·wĭch'ä·wän'ŏk), n. See PENNACOOK.

new'ish, adj. See -ISH. [Dial.] newk (nūk) Var. of NOOK. Now Obs., anew. Scot.

new'lins, adv. Also newlings. [See NEW; 2d -LING.] Newly; also, pack is dealt out, with a widow to form stops. Eldest hand leads the lowest card in his hand of any suit he selects, and the others continue the sequence until a stop is reached. The last player then starts a suit with his lowest. As fast as cards matching those in the layout are got rid of in play, the holders take all the chips on those cards. Those not won remain and the layout is dressed again for the next deal.

---

N

New Mex'i·can (mĕk'sĭ·kăn), adj. Of or pert. to the State of New Mexico. — n. A native or inhabitant of New Mexico.

New Mexican piñon. The piñon Pinus edulis.

new'-mint', v. t. To coin anew; specif., to give a fresh meaning to, as a word or phrase.

New Model. Eng. Hist. The Parliamentary army as reorganized in 1645.

new moon. a The crescent moon before reaching first quarter; also, the phase when in conjunction with the sun. See 1st MOON, 1. b Day when the new moon is first seen. Among the Hebrews the period of the new moon was anciently regarded as a religious festival, in postexilic times celebrated chiefly by the women, but still marked by the ceremony of "Blessing the New Moon." The periodical reappearance of the moon is taken as a symbol of the Messianic redemption or renewal of Israel.

new'ness (nū'nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. [AS. nīwnes.] Quality or state of being new; as, the newness of a system; newness of life.

New'ness, the. New England transcendentalism. Hist.

New Norwegian. See LANDSMAAL.

New Or'le·ans (ôr'lē·ănz or, esp. in the phrases, ôr·lēnz'). 1. A city in the State of Louisiana. 2. See BATTLE, Table.

New Orleans molasses. See MOLASSES.

New Orleans moss. The long moss.

new parish. See PARISH, n., 1 c.

New Place. Shakespeare's residence in Stratford from 1598 to his death in 1616.

New Platonism. Neoplatonism.

New'port (nū'pōrt; 181), n. [From Newport, R. I.] A game of tenpins in which the object is to knock down one or more pins in each of ten frames without duplicating a number scored in a previous frame. Three balls, not exceeding 6 inches in diameter, are allowed to a frame.

new realism. Philos. A form of realism which holds that knowledge is an identity, or partial identity, of the mind and the object known; — called also neorealism.

New Red Sandstone. Geol. An old name for an English series in which red sandstones of Triassic age predominate.

new'-rich', adj. Newly rich. — n. A nouveau riche.

news (nūz; 242), n.; plural in form but commonly construed as sing. [From NEW; cf. F. nouvelles.] 1. Something strange or newly happened; novelties. Obs.

2. A report of a recent event; information about something before unknown; fresh tidings; recent intelligence.

> Evil news rides post, while good news baits. Milton.
> News have come to me respecting a dear friend. Hawthorne.

3. A bearer of news; courier. Pepys.

4. Matter adapted to gaining the interest of newspaper readers; material or event suitable for a news article; as, to distinguish between information and news.

5. Short for NEWSPRINT, NEWSPAPER, etc.

Syn. — NEWS, TIDINGS, INTELLIGENCE. NEWS is the general term; TIDINGS is now poetical or elevated; INTELLIGENCE is esp. news more or less formally communicated.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

news-greedy	news-making, adj.	news-seeking, adj.
news item	newsreader	newsteller news, v. t. & i. To tell news or as news; to gossip. Now Dial.

news agency. An agency for the collection of news to supply newspapers. See ASSOCIATED PRESS, HAVAS AGENCY.

news agent. a One who collects and supplies news. b A news dealer.

New Salon. See SALON, 3.

news bell. A singing in the ears supposed to portend news. Dial.

news'bill' (nūz'bĭl'), n. A bulletin containing news. Brit.

news'board' (-bōrd'; 181), n. A bulletin board for posting newsbills. Brit.

news'boat' (-bōt'), n. A boat which puts out to passing vessels to supply and receive news.

news'boy' (-boi'), n. A boy who distributes or sells newspapers.

news case. Print. One of a pair of type cases, an upper case and a lower case, especially arranged to facilitate newspaper composition.

New School. Eccl. The more liberal of two parties into which the Presbyterian Church in the United States was divided about 1825. It was organized as a separate church from 1838 to 1869, when a reunion was effected with the Old School, or more conservative party.

news dealer. One who sells newspapers, periodicals, etc.

news editor. The editor on a daily newspaper in immediate charge of the telegraphic news; also, sometimes, an editor in charge of local news, or of news gathering and editing in general.

New Side. Eccl. Hist. See PRESBYTERIAN, adj.

new silver. A color, yellow in hue, of low saturation and very high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

news'let'ter (nūz'lĕt'ĕr), n. A circular letter written or printed for the dissemination of news. It was introduced into England from Europe in the latter part of the 17th century, and was the precursor of the newspaper.

news'man (nūz'măn; 242); n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). a Now Rare. A bearer of news. b A news writer; also, a newspaperman. c A man who distributes or sells newspapers.

news'mon'ger (-mŭng'gĕr), n. A gossipy person; one active in hearing and telling news. — news'mon'ger·ing, n. — news'mon'ger·y (-I), n.

New South Wales. A State of the Commonwealth of Australia. See in Gaz.

New South Wales rosewood. Bastard rosewood.

New South Wales sassafras. Australian sassafras.

news'pa'per (nūz'pā'pĕr; nūs'-), n. A paper printed and distributed, at stated intervals, usually daily or weekly, to convey news, advocate opinions, etc., now usually containing also advertisements and other matters of public interest; also, an organization engaged in composing and issuing such a publication.

news'pa'per·ized (-Izd), part. adj. Affected by, or conformed to the standards of, newspaper writing.

news'pa'per·man' (-măn'), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn'). One who writes for, or one who owns or conducts, a newspaper.

newspaper post. See 6th MAIL, 3.

newspaper syndicate. a An organization which owns or controls a number of newspapers. b U. S. An organization for the sale of news, illustrations, or miscellaneous material to a number of periodicals for simultaneous publication.

news'pa'per·dom (nūz'pā'pĕr·dŭm, nūs'-), n. See -DOM.

news'pa'per·ese', n. See -ESE.

news'pa'per·ish, adj. See -ISH.

news'pa'per·man' (nūz'pā'pĕr·wŏŏm'ăn; nūs'-), n.; pl. -WOMEN (-wĭm'ĕn; -In; 119). A woman engaged in newspaper work.

news'pa'per·y (-I), adj. Like, or in the manner of, newspaper writing; usually (in depreciation), superficial.

news'print' (nūz'prĭnt'), n. Cheap machine-finished paper made chiefly from wood pulp, and used mostly for newspapers.

news'reel' (nūz'rēl'), n. [news + reel.] Motion Pictures. A reel of motion pictures portraying current events.

news'room' (-rōōm'; 200; 242), n. 1. A room or place where newspapers or periodicals are sold.

2. A reading room having newspapers, magazines, etc.

news'sheet' (nūz'shēt'), n. A newspaper. Colloq.

news'stand' (-stănd'), n. A place, esp. an open-air stall, for the sale of newspapers, periodicals, etc.

new star. Astron. A nova.

New Style. See CALENDAR, 1. Abbr. N. S.

news vendor. A seller of newspapers.

news writer. A writer of news; esp., formerly, a person who gathered news for, and wrote, newsletters.

news'y (nūz'I), adj.; NEWS'I·ER (-I·ĕr); NEWS'I·EST. Abounding in news. — news'i·ness (nūz'I·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Both Colloq.

news'y, n. Newsboy. Colloq., U. S.

newt (nūt), n. [ME. newte, for ewte, evete, fr. AS. efete, Newt, with initial n-, arose through the incorrect division of an ewt as a newt (cf. ADDER). See EFT.] Any of various small salamanders of semiaquatic habits, esp. those of the genus Triturus (syn. Triton); an eft or triton. Among the species occurring in Europe and Great Britain are: the crested newt (T. cristatus), with the male conspicuously crested in the breeding season; the palmated newt (T. palmipes), with the feet webbed; and the common smooth, or spotted, newt (T. vulgaris, syn. punctatus), with the lower parts yellow spotted with black. The American species include T. torosus and T. viridescens (see GIANT NEWT and RED EFT).

new'take' (nū'tāk'), n. [new + take.] A portion of moorland assigned to a person for enclosure and cultivation. Eng.

New Testament. The covenant of God with man embodied in the coming of Christ and the teaching of Christ and his followers as set forth in the Bible; hence, usually, that portion of the Bible in which this covenant is contained. Abbr. N. T., New Test. The canonical books of the New Testament are: PAULINE EPISTLES. a First Period: Galatians, which insists on freedom from the yoke of the Jewish law, and vindicates Paul's apostleship; 1 Thessalonians, containing practical directions and the assurance that the deceased will share in the Messianic resurrection; 2 Thessalonians, correcting misunderstanding of the eschatology of the previous letter; 1 & 2 Corinthians, which seek to allay contention, give instruction on the eating of meats offered to idols, speaking with tongues, the administration of the Lord's Supper, eschatology, Christian morality, etc.; Romans, dealing especially with the drama of salvation through Christ, of the place of the law as a preparation, and of the position of Israel in the scheme of salvation. b Second Period (Epistles of the Captivity): Philemon, a personal letter, which commends the runaway slave, Onesimus, to his master's forgiveness; Philippians, Ephesians, and Colossians, called the Christological Epistles, which deal with the place of Christ in the divine plan, rebuke false teaching, and inculcate purity of life. THE SECONDARY CANON OF PAULINE EPISTLES (now commonly regarded as not Pauline in their present form). 1 & 2 Timothy and Titus, called the Pastoral Epistles, dealing with the duties of a minister and the refutation of heresy; Hebrews, which sets forth the superiority of the high priesthood of Christ, according to the type of Melchizedek, and to that of Aaron, and explains the nature of faith. CATHOLIC EPISTLES. 1 Peter, which urges Christians, the redeemed people of God, to bear persecution in meekness; James, which emphasizes the ethical rather than the doctrinal, and inveighs against social discriminations in violation of the law of love; Jude, which denounces libertine teachers and holds to the apostolic word; 2 Peter, which explains the delay in Christ's coming. HISTORICAL BOOKS. a Synoptic Gospels: Mark, which relates the public ministry of Jesus chiefly in Galilee and within the compass of a year; Matthew and Luke, which add to the framework of Mark the sayings of Jesus taken from the Second Source (see Q). b Acts of the Apostles, which relates the founding of the church by Peter and Paul. JOHANNINE EPISTLES. Revelation, which apportions praise and blame to the seven churches, and describes symbolic visions of the persecution of the church, of the last judgment, and of the New Jerusalem; the Johannine Epistles, 1, 2, & 3 John, which emphasize love and combat Gnostic heresies; the Gospel of John, which casts the public ministry of Jesus into a framework of Jewish feasts calling for something over two years, places the scene chiefly in Jerusalem, and casts the subject matter into the form of great symbolic discourses.

new theology. Any of various departures from strict Christian Protestant orthodoxy, as, in the last quarter of the 19th century, the teachings of professors in Andover Theological Seminary, or, in the 20th century, the teachings of Rev. R. J. Campbell, minister of the City Temple, London.

New Thought. Any form of modern belief in and practice of mental healing other than those associated with traditional Christianity, Christian Science, and hypnotism and psychotherapy. Locally and in its various separate developments it is known by other names, as Mental Science, Metaphysical Healing, Practical Christianity, Higher Thought. See also DIVINE SCIENCE CHURCH. Its characteristic doctrines are the divine immanence, that man's true self is God, that thoughts are forces, and especially that all disease and failure are mental in origin and may be controlled by one's mental attitude. — New Thought'er, New Thought'ist.

New·to'ni·an (nū·tō'nĭ·ăn; 159), adj. Of, pert. to, or following, Sir Isaac Newton (1642–1727), his discoveries, or doctrines. — n. a A follower of Newton. b A Newtonian telescope. — New·to'ni·an·ism (-Iz'm), n.

Newtonian constant of gravitation. Physics. The gravitational attraction between two particles of matter, each of unit mass, at a unit distance apart. Expressed in C.G.S. units, it has been found to be 6.6577×10^{-8}.

Newtonian philosophy. The philosophy of Sir Isaac Newton; — applied to the doctrine of the universe as expounded in Newton's Principia, and most frequently to his mathematical theory of universal gravitation.

Newtonian potential. Physics. A potential in a field of force obeying the inverse square law.

Newtonian telescope. See TELESCOPE.

Newtonian theory. See LIGHT, n., 18 a.

New·ton'ic (nū·tŏn'Ĭk), adj. Newtonian.

new'ton·ite (nū'tŭn·īt; -t'n·It), n. [From Newton Co., Arkansas.] Mineral. A hydrous aluminum silicate of the clay group, occurring in soft, white, compact masses.

New'ton's al·loy' or met'al (nū'tŭnz; -t'nz). See FUSIBLE METAL, Table.

Newton's disk. A disk divided into sectors of proper relative dimensions, bearing the different colors of the spectrum, so that fusion of the colors by rotation gives a white or gray.

Newton's Disk. R Red; O Orange; Y Yellow; G Green; B Blue; I Indigo; V Violet.

Newton's laws of motion. Physics. See LAWS OF MOTION.

Newton's problem. The problem, proposed by Sir Isaac Newton, of finding mathematically from mutual gravitational attractions the positions and motions at any time of the bodies of the solar system, given these data for any particular time.

Newton's rings. Physics. Colored rings due to light interference, seen about the contact of a convex lens with a plane surface, or of two lenses differing in curvature.

New'town' Pip'pin (nū'toun'). Hort. The Yellow Newtown.

New Troy. See 3d BRUT.

New Venus. Astron. The nova of 1572 in Cassiopeia; Tycho's star.

New World. The land of the Western Hemisphere.

new year. 1. The year approaching or just begun; also, the first days of a year; also, New Year's Day.

2. [caps.] The first day of Tishri (Rosh Hashana), and, with many orthodox Jews, the second day also. See JEWISH CALENDAR.

new'-year', adj. Also new year's, New Year's. Of, pertaining to, or suitable for, the commencement of the year; as, new-year resolutions.

New Year's Day, or, Colloq., New Year's. The first day of a calendar year; the first day of January. The beginning of the year in most Christian countries was March 25 during the Middle Ages; changed to January 1 in many European countries in the 16th century, in Scotland in 1600, and in England in 1752. For the Chinese New Year, see CHINESE CALENDAR. See NEW YEAR, 2.

New Year's Eve. The evening or, by extension, day, before New Year's Day; the last evening, or day, of the year.

New York. a A State of the United States of America. b A city in that State, the largest in the United States.

New York aster. An erect perennial herb (Aster novi-belgii) of northeastern North America, with slender, lanceolate leaves and showy violet-rayed heads.

New York'er, n. A native or inhabitant of New York.

New York fern. A slender shield fern (Dryopteris noveboracensis) of moist woods in eastern North America.

New York ironweed. See IRONWEED.

New York plaice. The windowpane (flounder).

New York point. A modification of Braille (which see).

New York rod. See LEVELING ROD.

New York weasel. A weasel (Mustela noveboracensis).

New York weevil. The peach weevil.

New Zea'land (nū zē'lănd). A group of South Pacific islands constituting a British colony. Abbr. N. Z.

New Zealand birch. Any New Zealand tree of the genus Nothofagus.

New Zealand bramble. A leafless prickly bramble (Rubus australis) of New Zealand. It forms impenetrable thickets, and is also called wait-a-bit and bush lawyer.

New Zealand broom. Any plant of the genus Carmichaelia, family Fabaceae, esp. C. australis.

New Zealand bur. Any of several species of Acaena.

New Zealand cotton. A substance consisting of the strong bast fiber of the New Zealand ribbon tree (Plagianthus betulinus).

New Zea'land·er (zē'lăn·dĕr), n. A native or inhabitant of New Zealand.

New Zealand flax or hemp. a A tall New Zealand herb (Phormium tenax) having erect, sword-shaped leaves and scarlet or yellow flowers. b The strong fiber from its leaves, used for cordage, twine, mattings, etc.

New Zealand frog. A rare discoglossoid toad (Liopelma hochstetteri) peculiar to New Zealand, and the only amphibian known from that subregion.

New Zealand holly. A New Zealand prickly-leaved shrub (Olearia ilicifolia).

New Zealand laurel or sassafras. a An aromatic shrub (Laurelia novae-zelandiae), family Monimiaceae. b The plant Corynocarpus laevigatus. See CORYNOCARPUS.

New Zealand oak. a The puriri. b The rewa-rewa.

New Zealand oat grass. See GRASS, Table.

New Zealand palm. The nikau.

New Zealand pepper tree. An aromatic and pungent evergreen tree (Drimys axillaris).

New Zealand region. Biogeog. A terrestrial division including New Zealand and a few adjacent islands. When included in the Australian region it is called the New Zealand subregion. It is characterized by the absence of indigenous land mammals except bats, and by many peculiar birds.

New Zealand sandalwood. A New Zealand tree (Fusanus cunninghamii), family Santalaceae, with fragrant dark-brown wood, used in cabinetwork, etc.

New Zealand spinach or ice plant. A coarse annual, chiefly Australasian and Japanese herb (Tetragonia expansa), family Aizoaceae, used as a substitute for spinach.

New Zealand teak. The puriri.

New Zealand tea tree. The tea tree Leptospermum scoparium, of New Zealand and Australia.

New Zealand water lily. An aquatic crowfoot (Ranunculus lyallii) having white flowers.

New Zealand white pine. Kahikatea.

nex'al (nĕk'săl; -s'l), adj. Rom. Law. Of or pertaining to, or of the nature of, the contract of nexum.

next (nĕkst), adj., superl. of NIGH. [AS. nēhst, nīehst, nȳhst, superl. of nēah nigh. See NIGH.] 1. Nearest; having nothing similar intervening; as: a Adjoining in a series; immediately preceding or following in order; as, in reference to place: the next chapter; the next house; in reference to degree, quality, rank, right, or relation: the next heir; next of kin; in reference to time: the next day; next Monday.

☞ In Scottish use next is often employed to designate the days of the following week.

b Following that approaching (as a season), or in progress (as a piece of work); as, I cannot go this Christmas, but I hope to go next (Christmas). c First in nearness, without implication of succession or contiguity; first located, appearing, happening, or the like; as, his next neighbor was five miles away.

2. Most pressing, convenient, ready, direct, or the like; as, the next remedy. Obs. "I fled the next way." Bunyan.

news'book', n. A newspaper. Obs. news'ful, adj. See -FUL.	news'less, adj. See -LESS. — news'less·ness, n.			New Testament Apocrypha. See APOCRYPHA b.
		New'ton·ist (n.-/tŭn·ĭst; -t'n·Ist), n. A Newtonian

3. U. S. Slang. a Aware of what is happening; "wise," esp. to a secret. b Intimate; close.
Syn. — Closest, adjoining, contiguous. See NEAREST.
— next'ly, adv. — next'ness, n.

next (nĕkst), adv. 1. In the time, place, or order nearest or immediately succeeding; as, next we drove home; — often followed by a complement, in the construction of a preposition. See NEAR, adv.
A mad dog . . . will fly upon and bite anyone that comes next him. Defoe.
2. On the first occasion to come; as, when next we meet.

next best. Second best.

next door. The door of the next house; hence, the next house.

next door to. a In the next house to. b Hence, near to; bordering on; very close to; as, that's next door to mutiny.

next friend. Law. One who, not being regularly appointed a guardian, acts for the benefit of an infant, a married woman, or any person not sui juris, as in a suit at law; a prochein ami.

next of kin. Law. Literally, the person or persons in the nearest degree of relationship by blood to a person; hence, those blood relatives (often called statutory next of kin) of a person who in case of his death intestate will be entitled by virtue of the Statute of Distributions to share his estate. In England next of kin is taken in the literal sense, as in the construction of wills and settlements, except when the context or circumstances show that the statutory next of kin are intended. This is also the case in some States of the United States, as in Massachusetts, while in others, as New York, the term seems to be equivalent to statutory next of kin unless the context shows some other intention. The husband and wife are not included, except as the term is rarely construed to include them where this is necessary to give effect to the intention of a statute.

next suit. At euchre, the other suit of the same color.

next to. The nearest thing to; almost; nearly; as, it is next to impossible; he had next to no food.

next ways. By the shortest way or route; directly.

nex'um (nĕk'sŭm), n. [L., prop. neut. of nexus, past part. of nectere to bind.] Rom. Law. A formal contract with coin and balance in the presence of five witnesses. The obligor could be seized and held in bondage for failure to perform.

nex'us (nĕk'sŭs), n.; pl. NEXUSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119), NEXUS. [L. See ANNEX.] 1. Connection or interconnection; tie; link.
Man is doubtless one by some subtile nexus . . . extending from the newborn infant to the superannuated dotard. De Quincey.
2. A connected group or series.
3. Gram. A predicative relation or an expression presenting two ideas either actually or felt as so related; — proposed by Jespersen. Cf. JUNCTION, 4; see RANK.
4. Rom. Law. A person bound by a contract of nexum.

ne-yan'da (nĕ-yăn'dȧ), n. Ceylon bowstring hemp (see BOWSTRING HEMP).

Nez'i-kim (nĕz'ĭ-kĭm; nē-zē'kĭm), Nez'i-kin (-kĭn; nĕz'ē-kĕn'), n. pl. [Aram. nezīqīn injuries.] One of the six sections of the Mishnah and Talmud, treating of torts, contracts, testimony, and other matters of civil and criminal law. See MISHNAH.

Nez' Per'cé' (nā' pĕr'sā'; Angl. nĕz' pûrs'); pl. NEZ PERCÉS (-sā'). [F., lit., pierced nose, French name of several western tribes who pierced the nose for insertion of a tooth shell. Nose piercing was not practiced by the Nez Percés.] An Indian of the principal Shahaptian tribe, formerly occupying central Idaho and eastern Oregon and Washington, now gathered on the Colville and Lapwai reservations. When removed from Oregon, a portion of the tribe under chief Joseph conducted a famous campaign, the Nez Percé War (1877), in their effort to escape to Canada.

ngai ('ngī'), n. [Masai engai the god, rain, sky (in which eng- is the article).] Among the Negro peoples of East Africa, an impersonal spiritual power equivalent to the Polynesian mana. See MANA. Cf. ORENDA.

nga'ī-o ('ngä'ē-ō), n. [Maori.] A small tree (Myoporum laetum) of the New Zealand coast, with edible fruit and light, tough wood.

ngan ('ngăn), n. sing. & pl. [Siamese ngan.] See MEASURE, Table.

Ngo'ko ('ngō'kō), n. The common or vernacular form of Javanese speech. See JAVANESE, n., 2.

ngu ('ngōō), n. sing. & pl. [Annamese nu, written ngu.] See MEASURE, Table.

Ñhe-en'ga-tu' (nyā-ĕng'gȧ-tōō'). Var. of Ñeengatu.

Ni-ag'a-ra (nī-ăg'ȧ-rȧ; 59), n. 1. Niagara Falls (see NIAGARA, in Gaz.).
2. [often not cap.] Something like Niagara (Falls) in power or effect; specif., an overwhelming flood; as, a Niagara of curses.
3. [not cap.] A large revolving nozzle, mounted on an elevated platform, for fire fighting.
4. A well-known American variety of green grape, descended from the Concord.

Niagara green. A color, bluish-green in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Ni-ag'a-ran (nī-ăg'ȧ-răn), adj. [From Niagara River. See Gaz.] Geol. Designating, or belonging to, a division of the American (Upper) Silurian. The rocks of the Niagara epoch, mostly limestones, are extensively distributed, and at Niagara Falls consist of about eighty feet of shale supporting a greater thickness of limestone, which is being gradually undermined by the removal of the shale at the falls. See GEOLOGY, Chart. — Ni-ag'a-ran, n.

Niall of the Nine Hostages (nēl). King of Ireland in the 4th century. He led the Irish and Picts against the Romans.

Niam'-Niam' (nyăm'nyăm'), n. A member of a group of tribes of the Uele and Ubangi basins, in Central Africa, noted for their cannibalism; — called also Azande. Artistic wood and ivory carving, metalwork, and pottery, a varied agriculture, and faculty for organization, give them a superiority to surrounding peoples. They are supposed to be of mixed Negro and foreign (perhaps Hamitic) origin.

Ni-an'tic (nī-ăn'tĭk), n. One of a small tribe of Algonquian Indians of southwestern Rhode Island, amalgamated after King Philip's War with the survivors of the Narraganset, whose name they took. A few, of mixed blood, live in Connecticut.

Ni'as' (nē'äs'), n. Niasese (the language).

Ni'as'ese' (-ēz'; -ēs'), n. a sing. & pl. A native of Nias island, west of Sumatra. b Their language. See AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table.

ni-a'ta (nē-ä'tȧ), n. A breed of dwarf cattle produced, about the 17th century, in South America, by a variation.

nib (nĭb), n. [Cf. MLG. nibbe beak. See NEB.] 1. Zool. A bill or beak.
2. The point of a pen; often, each of the two (rarely more) divisions of the point of a pen; also, the whole pen, as of steel or gold, intended for insertion into a holder.
3. A pointed part; a point; a prong.
4. One of the handles which project from a scythe snath; also, Dial. Eng., the shaft or pole of a wagon.
5. pl. a Particles of crushed cacao beans. b Coffee beans.
6. A kink, knot, or lump of lint in a woven fabric.
7. A small sharp-pointed projecting part, as a scorer.
8. A bead at the center of each leaf of a leaf spring, fitting into depressions in the adjoining leaf to prevent longitudinal movement of the leaves relative to one another.

nib (nĭb), v. t.; NIBBED (nĭbd) NIB'BING. a To furnish with a nib; to point. b To mend the point of (a pen). c To crush (cacao beans) to nibs.

nib, v. t. & i. a Obs. To pick. b Now Dial. To nibble. c Slang. To nab.

nib (nĭb), n. [Cf. NOB a swell.] A gentleman; a swell. Cf. NIBS. Slang, Eng. Oxf. E. D. — nib'like' (-lĭk'), adj. — nib'some (-sŭm), adj.

nibbed (nĭbd), adj. Having a nib.

nib'ber (nĭb'ẽr), n. One who or that which nibs; as: a One who puts nibs on buckles, etc. b A machine for crushing cacao beans; also, its operator. c A tool for nibbing a pen.

nib'ble (nĭb''l), v.; NIB'BLED (-'ld); NIB'BLING (-lĭng). [Cf. LG. nibbelen, D. knibbelen, and E. KNABBLE.] Transitive: 1. To bite lightly or gently; to eat in small bits.
2. To take away bit by bit; hence, Slang, to nab; to pilfer.
3. Lens Making. To shank.
—, Intransitive: 1. To take bites gently or cautiously; to eat bit by bit; as, fishes nibble at the bait.
2. To carp; to make petty criticisms; — often with at.
3. To fidget (with the fingers). Obs.

nib'ble, n. Act of nibbling; a small or cautious bite; also, a quantity (of food) such as might be so taken.

nib'ble. Var. of NIPPLE. Now Dial.

nib'bler (-lẽr), n. 1. One that nibbles; specif., Local, U. S., the cunner, which nibbles off the bait of fishermen.
2. Mining. = LOCKERMAN.

nib'by (nĭb'ĭ), n. [Cf. NIB a point.] A hooked staff. Scot. & N. of Eng.

nib'by-jib'by (nĭb'ĭ-jĭb'ĭ), n. Also, nib'by-gib'by. A narrow margin, as in making a train or escaping danger.

Ni'be-lung'en-lied' (nē'bĕ-lōōng'ĕn-lēt'), n. [G. See NIBELUNGS; LIED.] A great medieval German late 12th century epic of unknown authorship containing traditions which refer to the Burgundians at the time of Attila (called Etzel in the poem) and mythological elements pointing to heathen times. It is written in Middle High German and has a characteristic four-line strophe rhymed a a b b, each verse of which is broken midway by a caesura. The first three lines have six accents (3 + 3); the last, seven (3 + 4). See BRUNHILD, GUNTHER, HAGEN, KRIEMHILD, SIEGFRIED; cf. RING OF THE NIBELUNG, VOLSUNGA SAGA.

Ni'be-lungs (-lōōngz), n. pl.; sing. NIBELUNG (-lōōng). Also Ni'blungs (nē'blōōngz). In German mythology, the children of the mist, a race of dwarfs or demonic beings, the original possessors of the famous hoard and ring won by Siegfried; also, the Burgundian kings in the Nibelungenlied. See SIEGFRIED, RHEINGOLD, RING OF THE NIBELUNG.

Nib'haz (nĭb'hăz), n. Bib. A deity worshiped by the Avites in Samaria. 2 Kings xvii. 31.

nib'lick (nĭb'lĭk), n. Also nib'lic. [Origin uncert.] A golf club with a heavy iron head, having a wide face laid back at an angle of 45 degrees or more, used esp. for playing the ball from bunkers. See GOLF, Illust.

nib'lick, v. t. To strike with a niblick.

ni'bong (nē'bŏng), ni'bung (-bŭng), n. [Malay niboh.] A Malay feather palm (Oncosperma filamentosum).

nibs (nĭbz), n. [Cf. NIB a swell, NABS.] Personage; — used, chiefly humorously, to designate a person as of some importance; as, his nibs. See NABS. Slang.

Ni-cae'an (nī-sē'ăn), n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Nicaea.
2. Eccl. Hist. In the 4th and 5th centuries, an adherent of the Nicene Creed of A.D. 325.

Ni-cae'an (nī-sē'ăn), adj. Nicene.

Nic'a-ra'guan (nĭk'ȧ-rä'gwăn; Brit. usually -răg'ū-ăn), adj. Of or pert. to Nicaragua or its inhabitants. — n. A native or citizen of Nicaragua. Most of the people are Spanish-American mestizos; a few are of pure Spanish descent, and there are a number of semi-independent wild tribes.

Nic'a-ra'gua rub'ber (nĭk'ȧ-rä'gwȧ; Brit. usually nĭk'ȧ-răg'ū-ȧ). Central American rubber. See RUBBER, n., 3; CASTILLA.

Nicaragua wood. See HYPERNIC, n., b.

Ni'ca-ra'o (nē'kä-rä'ō), n. An Indian of an isolated Nahuatlan tribe, whose descendants are now an integral part of the Nicaraguan population.

nic'co-lic (nĭk'ō-lĭk), nic'co-lous (-lŭs), adj. Of nickel.

nic'co-lite (nĭk'ō-līt), n. [NL. niccolum nickel. See NICKEL.] Mineral. A mineral of a pale copper-red color and metallic luster, usually occurring massive. It is essentially a nickel arsenide, NiAs. H., 5–5.5. Sp. gr., 7.33–7.67.

nice (nīs), adj.; NIC'ER (nīs'ẽr); NIC'EST (nīs'ĕst; -ĭst; 119). [ME., foolish, fr. OF. nice ignorant, fool, fr. L. nescius ignorant, fr. nescire to be ignorant, fr. ne- not + scire to know. See NO, adv.; SCIENCE.] 1. Obs. a Foolish; silly; stupid; simple; ignorant. b Lewd; lascivious; wanton.
2. Affecting coy reserve; shy; reluctant. Archaic.
3. Exacting in matters of taste; fastidious; hence, finical; also, refined; discriminating.
4. Demanding close discrimination or treatment; calling for minute analysis, delicate handling, tactful treatment, or the like; as, a nice experiment, problem.
5. Displaying, or characterized by, close discrimination, delicate, minute, or tactful treatment, etc.; minute; subtle; fine; as, a nice distinction; a nice stroke.
6. Susceptible to fine distinctions, or able to make them; delicately discriminative; as, a nice ear for music; nice judgment; hence, of instruments, methods, etc., minutely accurate; adjusted or adjustable to small differences.
7. Exacting in requirement or standard; scrupulous; punctilious; as, nice politics do not always succeed.
8. Pleasing, agreeable, appetizing, delightful, good, kind, considerate, or the like; as, a nice day, letter.
9. Properly modest; well-behaved; well-mannered.
10. Obs. a Strange or uncommon; esp., of dress, appearance, etc.: smart; showy. b Unduly weak; effeminate; luxurious. c Trivial. d Fine. e Spare; meager.
Syn. — Particular, exacting; hypercritical; prudish, queasy. — NICE, DAINTY, FASTIDIOUS, FINICAL, SQUEAMISH agree in the idea of very delicate susceptibility or precise discrimination, as shown, in the case of nice and dainty, chiefly in selection; in the case of fastidious, finical, and squeamish, rather in rejection. NICE implies fineness of discrimination, and connotes rather more of intellectual quality than the other words; as, "an appetite for knowledge too eager to be nice" (Johnson); "in language one should be nice but not difficult" (Lowell). DAINTY implies delicacy of taste or sensibility; as, "No shape but his can please your dainty eye" (Shak.); dainty in personal habits. FASTIDIOUS differs from dainty chiefly in suggesting a certain disdainfulness in rejecting what is displeasing to one's taste; as, "I am fastidious in voices, and I can't endure listening to an imperfect reader" (G. Eliot); "a fastidious instinct for the connotations of a phrase" (W. Pater). FINICAL implies an affected or fussy fastidiousness; as, "His reserve, his delicacy, his distaste for many of the persons and things surrounding him . . . have produced an impression of Gray as being a man falsely fastidious, finical, effeminate" (M. Arnold); "a world of little finical observances, and little frail proprieties" (Stevenson). SQUEAMISH emphasizes strongly the implication of aversion or disgust; as, "I would not be so squeamish as to suffer the spirit of prudery to prevail in me" (Cowper). See CORRECT; cf. NEAT, DELICACY.
Ant. — Undiscriminating, coarse, unrefined, gross.

nice (nīs), adv. Nicely. Rare.

nice (nīs), v. t. To make or keep nice. Now Dial.

Nice (nēs), n. The color Quimper.

nice'ling (nīs'lĭng), n. [nice + 1st -ling.] Rare. a An overfastidious person. b A "nice" thing.

nice'ly (-lĭ), adv. of NICE. Now esp.: a Precisely. b Scrupulously. c Satisfactorily.

nice'ly, adj. Well; in good health. Colloq.

Ni-cene' (nī-sēn'; nī'sēn; 66; 277), Ni-cae'an (nī-sē'ăn), adj. [LL. Nicaenus, fr. Nicaea Nice, fr. Gr. Nikaia.] Of or pertaining to Nicaea, or Nice, an ancient city of Asia Minor; also, designating, or pertaining to, the Nicene Creed.

Nicene Council. See COUNCIL, Table.

Nicene Creed. a A confession formulated and decreed by the First Council of Nicaea, A.D. 325, in opposition to Arianism, and reaffirmed by the First Council of Constantinople, A.D. 381. It was based on the ancient creed of the church of Caesarea, into which were introduced certain crucial changes and additions — "consubstantial with the Father," "of the essence of the Father," etc. — to exclude Arian views, which were further condemned in a series of anathemas. b An expanded form of the foregoing read at the Council of Chalcedon (451) as the creed of the Council of Constantinople; — hence called also Niceno-Constantinopolitan (or Constantinopolitan*) *Creed. This creed differs from the first only in the substitution of "before all ages" for the words "from the substance of the Father, God of God," the addition of the clauses on the Holy Ghost, the Church, baptism, and the Resurrection, and the omission of the anathemas. It is the creed used in the Eastern Churches. c A form now in use in the Western Church, identical with the preceding except for the addition of the "filioque" clause and the restoration of the words 'God of God.' See FILIOQUE. The Book of Common Prayer omits holy as a denominative for church, and the Lutheran creeds change Catholic to Christian.

Ni-ce'no- (nī-sē'nō-), A combining form of Nicene, denoting Nicene and, as in Ni-ce'no-Con-stan'ti-no-pol'i-tan.

nice'tish (nīs'tĭsh), adj. Rather nice. Dial. Eng.

ni'ce-ty (nī'sē-tĭ; -sĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. nicetè foolishness.] 1. Quality or state of being nice; specif.: Obs. a Folly; light conduct. b Ignorance; simplicity. c Pleasure; lust. d Self-indulgence; luxuriousness; excessive elegance. e Modesty; reserve; also, prudishness.
2. A dainty, delicate, or elegant thing or feature; as, to enjoy the niceties of life.
3. An expression, act, mode of treatment, distinction, etc., involving delicacy or subtlety; a minute distinction, point, or detail; as, niceties of workmanship, of a problem.
4. Delicacy or exactness of perception or discrimination; precision; accuracy; as, he depicted the scene with the greatest nicety; the nicety of a trained eye and hand.
5. The quality of demanding delicacy and accuracy of treatment; as, a question of great nicety.
6. Delicacy of taste or feeling; fastidiousness; often, in a bad sense, excessive fastidiousness; squeamishness.
Syn. and Ant. — See DELICACY.
— to a nicety. Precisely; accurately.

niche (nĭch; 277), n. [F., fr. OF. nichier to nestle (F. nicher), fr. (assumed) VL. nidicare, fr. L. nidus nest. See NEST.] 1. A recess in a wall. Specif.: a A hollowed space in a wall, made esp. for a statue, bust, or other ornament. b A vaulted passage or alcove made usually within the thickness of a wall.
2. A covert or retreat resembling a niche in its formation or privacy.
3. A place, condition of life or employment, position, or the like, suitable for the capabilities or merits of a person or qualities of a thing; as, his poetry fills a niche of its own.

niche (nĭch), v. t.; NICHED (nĭcht); NICH'ING (nĭch'ĭng). [F. nicher. See NICHE, n.] To place in, or as in, a niche; hence: a To put into a position to attract attention or veneration. b To settle snugly or cozily. c To secrete. d To construct as, or furnish with, a niche or niches. — v. i. To settle or grow in a niche; to nestle. Rare.

ni'che-li'no (nē'kā-lē'nō), n. [It.] The Italian 20-centesimi nickel coin first issued in 1894.

ni'che-vo', ni'tche-vo' (nyē'chĕ-vô'), interj. [Russ. nichego nothing.] A Russian exclamation signifying "It does n't matter"; "Never mind."

nich'il (nĭch'ĭl), n. [ML.] Obs. 1. Nothing; nihil.
2. Eng. Law. A return of nihil habet on an execution by the sheriff to the Exchequer. Obs. — nich'il, v. t. Obs.

Nich'o-las, Nic'o-las (nĭk'ō-lȧs), n. [F. Nicolas, fr. L. Nicholaus, Nicolaus, fr. Gr. Nikolaos, fr. nikē victory + laos people, army.] Masc. proper name. L. Nicolaus (nĭk'ō-lā'ŭs); F. Nicolas (nē'kō'lä'); Nicole (nē'kōl'); It. Nicolò (nē'kō'lō), Nì(c)colò (nē(k)'kō-lô'), Nì(c)cola (nē(k)-kō'lä); Sp. Nicolás (nē'kō-läs'); Pg. Nicoláo (-läō'); G. Nikolaus (nē'kō-lous). — Dim. Nick.

Nich'o-las Nick'le-by (nĭk''l-bĭ). The title and hero of a novel (1839) by Dickens. Nicholas's adventures give the author an opportunity to expose the ignorance, narrowness, and cruelties of "Yorkshire Schoolmasters," and to describe the characters and experiences of the actors in a traveling theatrical troupe. See DOTHEBOYS HALL; CREEPYBLE BROTHERS; SMIKE; CRUMMLES, VINCENT.

ney. + NO, NOY, NIGH.

Ne-zib'ah (nē-zĭ'ȧ). Bib.

Ne'zib (nē'zĭb). Bib.

ngai camphor (n'gī). [Cant. ngai, for Chin. (Pek.) nao[3] camphor.] See BORNEOL.

n'ga'na. Var. of NAGANA.

nga'pi ('ngä'pē), n. [Burmese.] = BALACHONG. Burma.

ni (nē), n. See BORIZATION.

niaise, niais. + NYAS. [VANA, 2.]

nib-ba'na (nĭ-bä'nȧ), n. See NIBnib'bling-ly, adv. of nibbling, pres. part.

Ni'be-lung'en (nē'bĭ-lōōng'ĕn), n. pl. [G.] = NIBELUNGS.

nib'l. Nibble. Ref. Sp.

nib'-nib', Var. of NEB-NEB.

Nib'shan (nĭb'shăn). Bib.

Ni-cae'no-. Var. of NICENO-.

Ni-ca'nor (nĭ-kā'nôr). Bib.

nic'co-lif'er-ous (nĭk'ō-lĭf'ẽr-ŭs) adj. = NICKELIFEROUS.

nic'co-lo. Var. of NICOLO.

nice. + NIECE.

ni'ce-be-ce'tur, n. A dainty or fashionable girl or woman. Obs.

nice'ish, adj. See -ISH.

nice'ness, n. See -NESS.

Ni-ce'ni-an (nī-sē'nĭ-ăn), n. Also Ni-ce'nist (-nĭst). = NICAEAN, 2.

ni'cer-y (nī'sẽr-ĭ), n. A nicety. Obs.

nice'some, adj. See 1st -SOME.

nich'er (Scot. nĭx'ẽr), v. & n. =

4th NICKER. Chiefly Scot. [LAS.]

Nicholas, St. See SAINT NICHO-

Nich'ol-son's bal'ance (nĭk'ĭl-sŭnz; -s'nz). See BALANCE, n., 1 c.

Nicholson's hydrometer. [After William Nicholson (1753–1815), Eng. scientist.] See HYDROMETER.

nick (nĭk), n. [Origin uncert.; perh. akin to NOCK.] 1. A notch, slit, or the like, in or cut into anything; a cut; as: a A notch cut as a score in keeping an account. b Colloq., Eng. A gap, or slight opening, in a range of hills; also, a narrow depressed way along a moor. c A broken or indented place in any edge or surface; as, nicks in china. 2. A particular point or place considered as marked by a nick; hence, the precise time of any occurrence or when anything must be done; the (or, rarely, a) critical moment or point; as, the troops arrived at the nick of time. 3. Physical condition, esp. when good. Colloq., Australia. 4. Obs. a A score; reckoning; exact amount. b The exact mark aimed at; the precise point. c A play on a likeness in words; a pun. d A false bottom in a beer or ale can to lessen fraudulently its capacity. 5. Court Tennis. The junction line of wall and floor. 6. Gaming. a Hazard. A throw that equals the main, or is 11 if the main is 7, or is 12 if the main is 6 or 8. b See CRAPS. 7. Logging. See UNDERCUT, n., 5. 8. Print. A notch on the body of a type. See TYPE. 9. Stock Breeding. An animal superior to either parent; also, the mating which produces such an offspring.
Syn. — See DINT.

nick (nĭk), v.; NICKED (nĭkt); NICK′ING. Transitive: 1. To make a nick or nicks in; to notch; hence, to make a dent or dents in; injure by denting; to chip; as, to nick the edge. 2. To keep track of, as a charge or record, by making a nick on a stick or tally; hence, to jot down; to record; to charge; — often with down. Now Chiefly Collog. 3. To suit or fit into, as by a correspondence of nicks; to tally with; to copy closely. Obs. 4. To nickname; to fix a fitting name upon.

> For Warbeck, as you nick him, came to me. Ford.

5. To fit a nick, or false bottom, to (a beer or ale can) in order to defraud; hence, to cheat; defraud. 6. To cut; to cut through, into, or out; to cut short; as, a war that nicked off millions.

> The itch of his affection should not then > Have nicked his captainship. Shak.

Specif., to make a crosscut or cuts on the under side of (the tail of a horse, in order to make him carry it higher); to cut under the tail of (a horse). 7. To hit at, or in, the nick; to touch rightly; to strike, catch, or grasp at the precise and proper point or time; as, to nick the truth; to nick a train or an opportunity. 8. To catch off guard; to arrest; also, to steal; to rob; cheat; as, in the transaction he nicked his partner for a thousand dollars. Slang & Dial. 9. To break (windows). See 1st NICKER. Prior. 10. Hazard & Craps. To throw (a cast or nick); also, Obs., to win from by throwing a nick.
—, Intransitive: 1. To throw a nick; to gamble. Obs. 2. Court Tennis. Of a ball, to drop so as to touch the wall and floor simultaneously. 3. Racing, etc. To outrun, and take the inner course from, another, esp. by a narrow margin; — usually with in. 4. Stock Breeding. To combine; to breed together and produce offspring of good quality.

Nick (nĭk), n. 1. Dim. of NICHOLAS. 2. The Devil; — usually Old Nick.

nick (nĭk), v. t. & i. [Perh. fr. ME. & AS. ne not + ic I; cf. ME. nich not I, no.] To deny; say nay to. Obs.

Nick′ Car′ter (nĭk′ kär′tĕr). The pseudonym of the author, or authors, of a series of dime novels, chiefly detective stories or tales of adventure, from about 1870.

nick′-eared′ (nĭk′ērd′), adj. Crop-eared.

nick′el (nĭk′ĕl; -l), n. [G., abbr. fr. kupfernickel, a name given by German miners, as the ore seemed to contain copper, but yielded none. The second part of the word is prob. G. nickel demon. Cf. KUPPERNICKEL, COPPER-NICKEL.] 1. Chem. A hard, malleable, ductile, metallic element, nearly silver-white, capable of a high polish, and resistant to oxidation. It is attracted by magnets. Sp. gr., about 8.8; symbol, Ni; at. no., 28; at. wt., 58.69. Nickel occurs native in meteorites, awaruite, and josephinite; it is found combined in millerite, pentlandite, niccolite, garnierite, and several other minerals. Though used in an alloy by the Chinese in very early times, it was first isolated in 1751 by Cronstedt and obtained in a pure state by Bergman in 1775. At present nickel is obtained chiefly from nickeliferous and cupriferous pyrrhotite, by smelting in the blast furnace and working up the resulting matte. The metal is used principally in alloys, as nickel steel, nickel silver, etc., as a plating on other metals, and as a catalyst, esp. in hydrogenation. Chemically, nickel is closely related to cobalt and iron. It is bivalent and trivalent, but it forms only bivalent salts, the cation of which (Ni^{++}) is green. 2. The five-cent piece composed of copper (75 per cent) and nickel (25 per cent), which is legal tender for any sum not exceeding twenty-five cents. See COIN, Table. Colloq., U. S. 3. A trifling sum of money. Cf. PENNY, 4. 4. A nearly neutral gray of high brilliance, slightly blue.

nick′el, adj. Pertaining to, made of, or containing, nickel.

nick′el, v. t. To plate with nickel.

nickel bronze. Metal. Cupronickel.

nickel calciner. See CALCINER.

nickel carbonyl. Chem. A colorless, volatile, poisonous liquid, $Ni(CO)_4$, obtained by passing carbon monoxide over finely divided nickel.

nickel glance. Gersdorffite.

nickel gray. = NICKEL, n., 4.

nickel green. A color, yellowish-green in hue, of low saturation and low brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

nickel gymnite. Mineral. Genthite.

nick′el·ic (nĭk′ĕl·ĭk; nĭ·kĕl′-), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or containing nickel; designating compounds in which the metal is trivalent; as, nickelic oxide, Ni_2O_3, a black solid.

nick′el·if′er·ous (nĭk′ĕl·ĭf′ĕr·ŭs), adj. [nickel + -ferous.] Containing nickel; as, nickeliferous iron.

nick′el·ine (nĭk′ĕl·ĭn; -ēn), adj. Nickel. — n. Any of several varieties of nickel silver; also, niccolite.

nick′el·ize (nĭk′ĕl·īz), v. t. To nickel. — nick′el·i·za′tion (-l·ĭ·zā′shŭn; -ī·zā′-), n.

nickel ocher. Mineral. Annabergite.

nick′el·o′de·on (nĭk′ĕl·ō′dē·ŭn), n. [See NICKEL; cf. ODEON.] A theater affording a motion-picture exhibition, variety show, or the like, for an admission price of five cents. U. S.

nick′el·ous (nĭk′ĕl·ŭs), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or containing nickel; specif., designating those compounds in which the metal is bivalent; as, nickelous hydroxide, $Ni(OH)_2$, obtained as a pale-green precipitate; nickelous oxide, NiO, obtained as a green powder by heating the preceding. Nickelous salts are in general yellow when anhydrous.

nick′el·plate′, v. t. To electroplate with nickel.

nickel silver. A silver-white alloy, essentially of copper, zinc, and nickel, the usual proportion for a good quality being 3:1:1. It contains no silver. It is hard and tough, but malleable and ductile, and not affected by exposure to the air. It is used for tableware, keys, restaurant and hospital equipment, electric-resistance wire, etc. Called also German silver.

nickel steel. Steel containing nickel, usually 2.0–3.75 per cent, which improves most of its mechanical properties, esp. elastic limit, tensile strength, and fatigue resistance. It is used in automobile gears, shafts, etc., machine parts, naval armament, etc.

nick′el·type (nĭk′ĕl·tīp; nĭk′l·tīp), n. An electrotype made by first depositing a film of nickel in the mold, and then copper on the back of the nickel. — nick′el·type, v. t.

nick′er (nĭk′ĕr), n. [From NICK, v. t.] One who or that which nicks; specif., one of the 18th-century night brawlers of London noted for breaking windows with halfpence.

nick′er, n. [AS. nicor a water monster; akin to ON. nykr, OHG. nihhus, G. nix a water sprite, D. nikker, Gr. nizein, niptein to wash, OIr. nigim I wash, Skr. nejana a washing. Cf. NIX.] A fabulous water monster; a water sprite; a nix. See NIX.

nick′er, n. = KNICKER, a marble, etc., 1 & 2 b.

nick′er, n. & v. i. [Imitative. Cf. NEIGH.] Neigh; laugh. Chiefly Dial.

nick′er nut (nĭk′ĕr). [Prob. the same word as knicker a marble; named from its shape and size.] See GUILANDINA.

nick′er·peck′er (nĭk′ĕr·pĕk′ĕr), n. The green woodpecker. Local, Eng.

nick′er tree. a The bonduc, which bears the nicker nut. See GUILANDINA. b Local, U. S. The Kentucky coffee tree.

nick′ey (nĭk′ĭ), n. A kind of Manx fishing boat.

nick′ing, verbal n. of NICK. Specif.: a Coal Mining. The cutting made by the hewer at the side of the face; pl., small coal produced in making the nicking. b Furniture. A kind of gouged or notched carving frequent on cabinetwork of the 17th and early 18th centuries; — called also gouge carving, notch carving.

nick′le (nĭk′l), n. [Prob. fr. ickle; an ickle taken as a nickle. Cf. HICKWALL.] The green woodpecker. Local, Eng.

nick′name′ (nĭk′nām′), n. [ME. ekename surname, hence, a nickname, an ekename being understood as a nekename. See EKE; NAME.] 1. A name given instead of the one belonging to a person, place, or thing, usually descriptive and given in sport. 2. A familiar form of a proper name, as "Bill" or "Tommy."

nick′name′, v. t.; -NAMED′ (-nāmd′); -NAM′ING (-nām′ĭng). 1. To misapply the name of (one person or thing) to another; to misname. 2. To give a nickname to; to call by a nickname.

nick′nam·ee′ (nĭk′nām·ē′), n. One who is nicknamed.

nick′nam′er (nĭk′nām′ĕr), n. 1. Prosonomasia. Rare. 2. One who nicknames.

Nick′ne′ven (-nē′vĕn), n. In Scottish folk belief, a hag.

nick′stick′ (nĭk′stĭk′), n. A stick on which a reckoning was kept by notches; a tally. Now Rare.

nick′um (nĭk′ŭm), n. 1. A sharper. Obs. Slang. 2. Scamp; wag. Scot.

nick′y (-ĭ), n. Bundle; fagot. Dial. Eng.

Nic′o·bar′ (nĭk′ō·bär′; 66), adj. Of or pertaining to the Nicobar Islands or their inhabitants.

Nic′o·bar′, n. The language of the Nicobarese.

Nic′o·bar·ese′ (nĭk′ō·bär·ēz′; -ēs′; 66), n. sing. & pl. A native or the natives of the Nicobars, having the general character and culture of the tribes of the Malay Peninsula; also, their language. See AUSTROASIATIC.

Nicobar pigeon. A pigeon (Caloenas nicobarica) of Malayan and Polynesian islands, chiefly iridescent green.

Nic′o·de′mite (nĭk′ō·dē′mīt), n. In the 16th century, one who to escape persecution concealed his Protestantism while living in a Roman Catholic country.

Nic′o·de′mus (-mŭs), n. Masc. proper name; Bib., a Pharisee, and ruler of the Jews, who came to talk with Jesus by night. John iii. 1, 2.

Nic′ol (nĭk′ŏl; -l), n. Short for NICHOLAS.

Nic′ol (nĭk′ŏl; -l), n. Optics. A Nicol prism.

Nic′o·la′i·tan (nĭk′ō·lā′ĭ·tăn), n. [After Nicolas of Antioch, mentioned in Acts vi. 5.] Eccl. a One of a group reproved in Rev. ii. 6 and ii. 14 f. (cf. ii. 20) for eating things offered to idols and for fornication. b In the 3d century, one of a group of antinomian Gnostics. c In the Middle Ages, one of the married or concubinary clergy; also, an opponent of clerical celibacy. — Nic′o·la′i·tan·ism (-īz′m), n.

Nic′o·las (nĭk′ō·lăs), n. 1. Masc. proper name. See NICHOLAS. 2. Bib. A proselyte of Antioch appointed by the apostles to be one of the seven deacons to administer charity.

nic′o·lay′ite (nĭk′ō·lā′ĭt), n. [After C. G. Nicolay, Australian mineral collector.] Mineral. A rare radioactive mineral containing uranium and thorium.

ni′co·lo (nē′kō·lō), n. [It.] Music. A large 17th-century variety of reed bombardon, a precursor of the bassoon.

nic′o·lo (nĭk′ō·lō), n. Also nic′co·lo. [It. niccolo.] A variety of onyx having a faint bluish layer over black.

Nicol, or Nic′ol′s (nĭk′ŏlz; -lz), prism. [After Wm. Nicol of Edinburgh, who first proposed it.] Optics. A device, used for the production or analysis of polarized light, consisting of the two parts of a rhombohedron of clear calcite bisected obliquely at a certain angle and subsequently cemented together with a transparent cement of which the refractive index lies between that of calcite for the ordinary ray and the maximum refractive index of calcite for the extraordinary ray. The ordinary ray is totally reflected at the cement interface and the extraordinary ray alone is transmitted. Both rays are plane-polarized at right angles to each other.

Sectional Diagram of Nicol Prism. The Luminous Ray R is divided at the cemented bisecting Surface a b; the Ordinary Ray r is reflected out; the Extraordinary Ray r is transmitted.

ni·co′ti·a (nĭ·kō′shĭ·ȧ), n. [NL.] Nicotine; Poet., tobacco.

ni·co′tian (nĭ·kō′shăn), n. [F. nicotiane, fr. NL. nicotiana, after Jean Nicot, who first introduced it into France, in 1560.] Orig., tobacco; now a user of tobacco.

Ni·co′ti·a′na (-shĭ·ā′nȧ), n. [NL. See NICOTIAN.] Bot. A genus of American and Asiatic herbs or shrubs, family Solanaceae, having viscid foliage and tubular flowers with a cleft or divided calyx, the capsule being many-seeded. The tobacco plant is a derivative principally of N. tabacum.

ni·co′ti·a·nin (nĭ·kō′shĭ·ȧ·nĭn; -tĭ·ȧ·nĭn), n. [F. nicotianine.] Chem. A white crystalline neutral substance obtained from tobacco.

nic′o·ti′na (nĭk′ō·tē′nȧ), n. [NL.] Chem. Nicotine. Obs.

nic′o·tine (nĭk′ō·tēn; -tĭn; 277), n. Also ·tin. [F. nicotine. See NICOTIAN.] Chem. A very poisonous alkaloid, $C_{10}H_{14}N_2$, the active principle of tobacco. It is a colorless, pungent, oily liquid, having an acrid burning taste. Nicotine is a dibase, a derivative both of pyridine and of pyrrolidine. The natural alkaloid is levorotatory. In aqueous solution it is used as an insecticide.

nic′o·tin′e·an (-tĭn′ē·ăn), adj. Nicotinian.

nic′o·tined (nĭk′ō·tēnd; -tĭnd), adj. Full of, or saturated with, tobacco smoke; drugged with nicotine.

nicotine sulphate. Chem. A white crystalline compound, $(C_{10}H_{14}N_2)_2.H_2SO_4$, used as an insecticide.

nic′o·tin′i·an (nĭk′ō·tĭn′ĭ·ăn), adj. Pertaining to, or caused by use of, tobacco.

nic′o·tin′ic (-ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to nicotine; specif., designating a crystalline acid, $C_6H_5NO_2$ (3-pyridinecarboxylic acid), obtained esp. by oxidation of nicotine. See vitamin B, under VITAMIN.

nic′o·tin·ism (nĭk′ō·tēn·īz′m; -tĭn·īz′m), n. The morbid condition induced by excessive use of nicotine.

nic′o·tin·ize (-īz), v. t. To drug with nicotine.

nic′o·tism (nĭk′ō·tĭz′m), n. Nicotinism. Rare.

nic′o·tize (-tĭz), v. t. To nicotinize.

nic′tate (nĭk′tāt), v. i.; -TAT·ED (-tāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -TAT·ING (-tāt′ĭng). [L. nictare, nictatum. See CONNIVE.] To nictitate, or wink. — nic·ta′tion (nĭk·tā′shŭn), n.

nic′ti·tant (nĭk′tĭ·tănt), adj. [See NICTITATE.] 1. Nictitating. 2. Zool. Having the central spot lunate; — of certain ocellated spots on some insects and birds.

nic′ti·tate (nĭk′tĭ·tāt), v. i.; -TAT′ED (-tāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -TAT′ING (-tāt′ĭng). [Freq. of nictate.] To wink. — nic′ti·ta′tion (-tā′shŭn), n.

nic′ti·tat′ing (nĭk′tĭ·tāt′ĭng), pres. part. of NICTITATE.

nictitating membrane. Zool. A thin membrane, found in many animals at the inner angle, or beneath the lower lid, of the eye, and capable of being drawn across the eyeball.

nictitating spasm. Med. Clonic spasm of the eyelid.

nid (nĭd), v. i. [See NID-NOD.] To nod; to bend and bob; — usually with nod.

nid (nĭd). Var. of NIDE.

ni′dal (nī′dăl; -d′l), adj. Of or pertaining to a nidus.

nid′a·men′tal (nĭd′ȧ·mĕn′tăl; nī′dȧ-; -t′l), adj. [L. nidamentum materials for a nest, fr. nidus nest. See NEST.] 1. Zool. Pertaining to, designating, or producing, a capsule or covering for an egg or mass of eggs. 2. Resembling, or serving as, a nest or nests. Rare.

nidamental gland. Zool. In elasmobranchs, a gland in the upper half of each oviduct which secretes the egg shell.

ni·da′na (nĭ·dä′nȧ), n. [Skr. nidāna.] Buddhism. One of the causes of finite existence, as consciousness, individuality, feeling, birth, age, and sorrow.

ni·da′tion (nĭ·dā′shŭn), n. [L. nidus nest.] Physiol. a The development of the epithelial membrane lining the inner surface of the uterus, in the periods between menstruation. b The formation of the decidua capsularis.

nid′a·to′ry (nĭd′ȧ·tō′rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), n. Of or pertaining to a nest or nests.

nid′der·ing (nĭd′ĕr·ĭng), n. Coward. — adj. [Cf. NIDING.] Infamous; base; cowardly. Both Pseudoarchaic.

nid′dick (nĭd′ĭk), n. The nape; also, back of the head. Dial. Eng.

nid′dle (nĭd′l), v. i. To move quickly; to trifle. Scot. & Ir.

nid′dle–nod′dle, adj. [Reduplicated & dim. or freq. fr. nod.] Having unstably nodding heads. — v. i. & t. To nod to and fro unstably.

nid′dy–nod′dy (nĭd′ĭ·nŏd′ĭ), v. i. & t. = NIDDLE-NODDLE.

niddy noddy. A hand reel for yarn. Hist.

nide (nīd), n. [F. or L.; F. nid, fr. L. nidus a nest.] A nest or brood of pheasants. Chiefly Eng. — v. i. To nest.

nidge (nĭj), v. t. & i. To shake; quiver. Rare. Oxf. E. D.

nidge, v. t. = NIG, v. t., 2.

nidg′et (nĭj′ĕt; -ĭt), n. A kind of horse hoe. — v. t. To hoe (land) with a nidget; also, to mix (manure, etc.) with the soil by means of a nidget. Both Local, Eng.

nidg′et (nĭj′ĕt), n. [From NIDIOT.] Idiot; fool. Archaic.

nidg′et·y (-ĕ·tĭ), adj. Frivolous. Jane Austen.

ni·dic′o·lous (nĭ·dĭk′ō·lŭs), adj. [L. nidus nest + -colous.] Zool. Reared for a time in a nest; altricial; — said of birds.

nid′i·fi·cant (nĭd′ĭ·fĭ·kănt), adj. [L. nidificans, pres. part.] Nestbuilding.

nid′i·fi·cate (nĭd′ĭ·fĭ·kāt), v. i.; -CAT′ED (-kāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -CAT′ING (-kāt′ĭng). [L. nidificare, -catum, fr. nidus nest + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See NEST; -FY.] To build a nest. — nid′i·fi·ca′tion (-kā′shŭn), n. — nid′i·fi·ca′tion·al (-ăl; -l), adj.

ni·dif′u·gous (nĭ·dĭf′ū·gŭs), adj. [L. nidus nest + fugere to flee.] Zool. Leaving the nest soon after birth.

nid′i·fy (nĭd′ĭ·fī), v. i. [L. nidificare.] To build a nest.

nid′ing (nī′dĭng), n. A nithing. Now Rare.

nid′–nod′, v. i. & t. [From NOD. Cf. NIDDLE-NODDLE.] To nod repeatedly, as when drowsy.

ni·dol′o·gy (nĭ·dŏl′ō·jĭ; nī-), n. [L. nidus nest + -logy.] The study of birds' nests. — ni·dol′o·gist (-jĭst), n.

ni′dor (nī′dôr; -dĕr), n. [L.] Scent or savor, esp. of cooking.

ni′dor·ous (nī′dĕr·ŭs), adj. [LL. nidorosus steaming, reeking, fr. nidor scent, smell.] Rankly odorous; smelling of or like burning or decaying animal matter. Now Rare — ni′dor·os′i·ty (-ŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n. Rare.

ni·dor′u·lent (nĭ·dôr′ū·lĕnt), adj. See -ULENT. Rare.

nid′u·lant (nĭd′ū·lănt), adj. [L. nidulans, pres. part.] Nestling; specif.: Bot. Lying free in a cavity.

---

nicht (nĭxt). Scot. var. of NIGHT.
‖nicht (nĭxt), adv. [G.] Not.
‖nicht wahr? (nĭxt vär′). [G.] Not true? Is n't that so?
ni′ci·fin′i·ty, n. Finicalness. Obs.
nic′ish (nĭs′-). Var. of NICEISH. nick′a·peck′er (nĭk′ȧ·pĕk′ĕr). Var. of NICKERPECKER.
nick′ar nut, nick′ar tree (nĭk′är). Vars. of NICKER NUT, etc.
nick′el·ate′ (nĭk′ĕl·āt), n. Art, act, or process of nickel-plating.
nick′el·chrome′ stain′less steel. See STAINLESS STEEL. nick′el·chro′mi·um steel. = CHROME-NICKEL STEEL. [ING.] nick′el·ing, n. Mil. See POUL-nick′el·i′ron ac·cu′mu·la′tor or sto′rage bat′ter·y. = EDISON ACCUMULATOR. nick′el·like′, adj. See -LIKE.
Nick′er·bock′er. Var. of KNICKERBOCKER. nick′er·y, n. A nickname. Obs.
Nick′ie (nĭk′ĭ), n. = NICK, the Devil. Also Nick′ie·ben′. Scot.
Nickleby, Nicholas. See NICHOLAS NICKLEBY. nick′le·hawk′. Local var. of WINKLEHAWK. U. S.
nick′nack′, nick′nack′a·to′ry, etc. Vars. of KNICKNACK, KNICKNACKATORY, etc.
nick′name′a·ble, adj. See -ABLE.
nick′name′less, adj. See -LESS. nick′pot′, n. A deficient ale or beer pot; a tapster. Obs. nickt. Nicked. Ref. Sp.
nic′nac′. Var. of KNICKNACK.
Nic′o·la′ite, n. = NICOLAITAN. Obs. — Nic′o·la′it·ism, n. Obs.
Ni·com′a·che′an Eth′ics (nĭ·kŏm′ȧ·kē′ăn). See ETHICS, 1. nic′or. Var. of 2d NICKER.
ni·cot′ic (nĭ·kŏt′ĭk), adj. Chem. = NICOTINIC. nic′o·tine·less, adj. See -LESS.
nid′a·ry, n. [L. nidus a nest.] Nesting place. Obs. nid′der. Var. of NITHER. Scot. nid′der·ling. Corrupt. var. of NIDDERING. nid′di·cock, n. A ninny. Obs.
nid′er·ing. Var. of NIDDERING.
Nid′hog, Nid′höggr, n. = NIFLHOGG. ni′di, n., pl. of NIDUS. nid′i·ot, n. [From an idiot, taken as a nidiot.] Idiot. Obs. ni′do·rose′, adj. Nidorous. Obs.

Nid'u·la'ri·a (nĭd'ū·lā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. nidulus, dim. of nidus nest.] Bot. A genus of fungi typifying the family Nidulariaceae, having a sessile globose peridium opening by a lacerate mouth.

Nidularia (N. australis). Section of Peridium showing Peridiola. Enlarged.

Nid'u·la'ri·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of small fungi (class Basidiomycetes), the bird's-nest fungi, having the spores formed in peridiola borne in the peridium like eggs in a nest. They constitute the order Nid'u·la'ri·a'les (-ā'lēz). — nid'u·lar'i·a'ceous (-lär'ĭ·ā'shŭs), adj.

nid'u·late (nĭd'ū·lāt), adj. Bot. Nidulant.

nid'u·late (-lāt), v. i. [L. nidulari, fr. nidulus, dim. of nidus nest.] To make a nest. — nid'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Both Rare.

nid'u·lus (-lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-lī). [L., dim. of nidus nest.] Anat. The nucleus of origin of a nerve.

ni'dus (nī'dŭs), n.; pl. NIDI (-dī), NIDUSES (-dŭs·ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [L. See NIDE, NEST.] 1. A nest, esp. for the eggs of insects, spiders, etc.
2. A breeding place; esp., the place or substance in an animal or plant where the germs of a disease or other organisms effect lodgment or are developed.
3. Figuratively: A place where anything originates or is made, settled, fostered, or the like.
4. Anat. = NUCLEUS, 4.
5. Bot. A place of development for spores, etc.

‖ni'dus a'vis (nī'dŭs ā'vĭs), ‖ni'dus hi·run'di·na'lis (hĭ·rŭn'dĭ·nā'lĭs), ‖ni'dus hi·run'di·nis (hĭ·rŭn'dĭ·nĭs). [NL., lit., bird's nest, or swallow's nest.] Anat. One of the fossae, of the under surface of the cerebellum, in which the amygdalae lie.

niece (nēs), n. [ME. nece, nice, fr. OF. niece, fr. VL. neptia, for L. neptis a granddaughter, niece; akin to L. nepos. See NEPHEW.] 1. A female descendant or relative, esp. a granddaughter. Also, rarely, a nephew. Obs.
2. A daughter of one's brother or sister, or, somewhat loosely, of one's brother-in-law or sister-in-law.

ni·el'lat·ed (nĭ·ĕl'āt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [It. niellato, past part.] Nielloed.

ni·elled' (nĭ·ĕld'), adj. Nielloed.

ni·el'list (nĭ·ĕl'ĭst), n. A maker of, or worker in, niello.

ni·el'lo (nĭ·ĕl'ō), n.; pl. NIELLI (-ē), NIELLOS (-ōz). [It., fr. L. nigellus, dim. of niger black. See NEGRO.] 1. Any of several metallic alloys of sulphur, with silver, copper, lead, or the like, having a deep-black color.
2. Art, process, or method of decorating metal with incised designs filled with the black alloy; work of this kind.
3. A piece of metal, or any other object, so decorated.
4. An impression on paper taken from the engraved or incised surface before the niello alloy has been inlaid.

ni·el'lo (nĭ·ĕl'ō), v. t.; NI·EL'LOED (-ōd); NI·EL'LO·ING. To inlay, or ornament, with niello.

Nie'mey·er pill (nē'mī'ĕr). = GUY'S PILL.

Nien' Fei' (nyĕn' fā'). [Chin. (Pek.) *nien*³-*fei*³.] Chinese Hist. Mounted bandits who caused much trouble in northern China, 1853–68.

nie'pa (nē'pȧ), n., or niepa bark. [Skr. nīpa.] The bark of an East Indian tree (Samandura indica), which contains a bitter principle similar to quassia; also, the tree itself.

Nie'rem·ber'gi·a (nē'rĕm·bûr'jĭ·ȧ; -jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after Juan Eusebio Nieremberg, a Spanish Jesuit.] Bot. a A genus of tropical American creeping herbs, the cupflowers (family Solanaceae), having solitary white or purple flowers. b [not cap.] A plant of this genus.

Nier'stein·er (nēr'stīn·ĕr; -shtīn·ĕr), n. [G., fr. Nierstein, Rheinhessen, Ger.] A white, still, Rhine wine.

‖nies'hout (nēs'hout), n. [D., lit., sneezewood, fr. niezen to sneeze + hout wood.] The sneezewood. S. Africa.

Nie'tzsche·ism (nē'chĕ·ĭz'm), n. The philosophical doctrines of Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche (German philosopher, 1844–1900) and his followers, esp. that of the perfectibility of man through forcible self-assertion, leading to criticism of Christian ethics as servile and to glorification of the overman. See OVERMAN, 3. — Nie'tzsche·an (nē'chĕ·ăn), n. & adj. — Nie'tzsche·an·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

nieve (nēv), n. [AF. neife, niefe, prop. fem. fr. OF. neïf, naïf, native. See NEIF.] O. Eng. Law. A female neif.

nieve (nēv), neif, n. [ME. neve, nefe, fr. ON. hnefi (Dan. næve, Sw. näfve).] The fist; the hand. Archaic & Dial.

ni·e·ve'ta (nē'ĕ·vē'tȧ), n. [Amer. Sp., fr. nieve snow.] Any Californian herb of the genus Cryptantha, family Boraginaceae. They are low herbs with small white flowers like forget-me-nots.

niev'ie–niev'ie–nick'–nack' (nēv'ĭ·nēv'ĭ·nĭk'năk'), n. Scot., Ir., & N. of Eng. A children's choosing game using these words.

niev'ling (nēv'lĭng), n. [Cf. NIEVE fist.] A method of milking cows with the hand doubled in a particular manner. Scot.

ni'fe (nī'fē), n. [Chem. Ni nickel + Fe iron.] Geol. The hypothetical core material of the earth, supposed to be of nickel and iron. Cf. SIAL, SIMA. — ni'fic (-fĭk), adj.

ni'fe·si'ma (nī'fē·sī'mȧ), n. [See NIFE; SIMA.] Geol. Collectively, rocks or magmas rich in nickel and iron.

nif'fer (nĭf'ĕr), n. & v. Exchange; bargain. Chiefly Scot.

niff'–naff' (nĭf'nȧf'), v. i. To trifle. Scot., Ir., & N. of Eng.

niff'–naff'y (nĭf'nȧf'ĭ), nifi'y–nafi'y (nĭf'ĭ-), adj. Trifling; finical. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

ni'fle (nī'f'l; nĭf'l), n. [Origin obscure.] A trifle; a thing of no value or credit. Now Dial.

Ni'fl·heim, Ni'fel·heim (nĭv'l·hām), n. Also Ni'fl·heimr (-hām'r). [ON. Niflheimr.] Norse Myth. The northern region of cold and darkness. See NINE WORLDS.

Ni'fl·hel (nĭv'l·hĕl), n. [ON.] Niflheim, regarded as equivalent to Hel.

ni'fling (nī'flĭng; nĭf'lĭng), adj. Insignificant. Now Dial.

nif'ty (nĭf'tĭ), adj.; NIF'TI·ER (-ĕr); NIF'TI·EST. [Said by Bret Harte to be fr. magnificat.] Very good; esp., attractively smart or stylish. — nif'ty, n. Both Slang, Chiefly U. S.

nig (nĭg), n. A niggard. Obs. — v. i. To be niggardly. Obs.

nig, v. t. [Cf. 2d NICK.] 1. To clip the edges of, as coin. Obs.
2. To dress (stone) with a sharp-pointed hammer.

nig, n. Short for NIGGER.

nig, v. i. Short for RENEGE, to revoke. Colloq.

Ni'gel (nī'jĕl), n. [See NEAL.] 1. Masc. proper name.
2. In Scott's Fortunes of Nigel, Nigel Olifaunt, the proud young Scottish lord of Glenvarloch, who goes to England to induce King James I to pay a debt to his father's estate.

Ni·gel'la (nĭ·jĕl'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. L. nigellus dark. See NIELLO.] Bot. A genus of erect annual European herbs, the fennel flowers (family Ranunculaceae), having dissected leaves and blue or white flowers. N. damascena is the love-in-a-mist of gardens. The seeds of N. sativa are used as a condiment.

Ni'ger eb'o·ny (nī'jĕr). Calabar ebony.

Ni·ge'ri·an (nĭ·jēr'ĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Nigeria.

niger oil, ni'ger–seed' oil. See OIL, Table I.

niger seed. [L. niger black; from the color of the seeds.] See RAMTIL.

nig'gard (nĭg'ĕrd), n. [ME. nig a niggard + -ard; nig is prob. of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. dial. gnikka, gnigga, to be stingy.] 1. A person meanly close and covetous; a miser.
2. A false bottom in a grate. Scot. & N. of Eng.

nig'gard, adj. 1. Niggardly; stingy.
2. Resulting from or displaying niggardliness; scanty.

nig'gard, v. t. & i. To treat or act niggardly. Obs.

nig'gard·ly (nĭg'ĕrd·lĭ), adv. In the manner of a niggard.

nig'gard·ly, adj. 1. Meanly covetous or parsimonious.
2. Characteristic of or coming from a niggard; scanty.
Syn. — Avaricious, penurious, sordid. See PARSIMONIOUS.
Ant. — Spendthrift, prodigal, wasteful, lavish.
— nig'gard·li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

nig'ger (nĭg'ĕr), n. [Earlier neger, fr. F. nègre, fr. Sp. negro. See NEGRO.] 1. (A substandard term.) A Negro; — often used familiarly, now chiefly contemptuously.
2. Improperly or loosely, a member of any very dark-skinned race, as an East Indian, a Filipino, an Egyptian.
3. Any of several dark-colored insect larvae, as of certain ladybirds and of the turnip sawfly (Athalia spinarum).
4. A kind of steam capstan for hauling river steamboats over snags and shallows. U. S.
5. Any of several crude African rubbers marketed as dark balls.
6. A fault in any apparatus. Colloq.
7. Lumbering. A long-toothed, power-propelled lever arm, used to turn logs on a sawmill carriage.
8. Soap Mfg. An impure soap (often dark-colored) that settles to the bottom of lye soap after fitting and standing.

nig'ger (nĭg'ĕr), adj. Of or pertaining to Negroes or negroes. Colloq.

nig'ger (nĭg'ĕr), v. t.; NIG'GERED (-ĕrd); NIG'GER·ING.
1. To exhaust (land) by working it without proper fertilization; — usually with out. Local, U. S.
2. With off, to burn (off), as a log; also, to burn (charred logs left in clearing land). Local, U. S. & Canada.
3. To subject to the influence of or association with negroes. Colloq.

nig'ger. Dial. Eng. var. of NICKER, neigh, laugh, NIGGARD.

nigger babies. In California, either of two herbs: a A sanicle (Sanicula bipinnatifida) with purple flowers. b A blue-eyed grass (Sisyrinchium bellum) with purplish-blue flowers.

nigger bug. A negro bug.

nigger chaser. A small firework that shoots about on the ground.

nigger daisy. The yellow daisy Rudbeckia hirta.

nig'ger·fish' (nĭg'ĕr·fĭsh'), n.; pl. -FISH, -FISHES (-fĭsh'ĕz; -ĭz; 119). See PLURAL, Note. 1. A grouper (Cephalopholis fulvus) of the West Indies and southern Florida, varying in color from bright yellow through vivid scarlet to dark brown, in any case more or less spotted with blue or black.

Niggerfish (Cephalopholis fulvus). (⅙)

2. Also nigger club. The stone toter (Exoglossum maxillingua).

nig'ger·goose' (nĭg'ĕr·gōōs'), n. A cormorant. Local, U. S.

nig'ger·head' (-hĕd'), n. 1. Any dark-colored clump or tussock of vegetation in swamps. Local, U. S.
2. a In North America, any of several plants, as: (1) The yellow daisy, and other plants of the genus Rudbeckia. (2) The ribwort Plantago lanceolata. (3) A wild species of peony (Paeonia brownii) of the western United States. (4) The common cat brier (Smilax rotundifolia). (5) Purple coneflower. See ECHINACEA. b In Australia, the spiny head of the saltwort; also, the negrohead beech.
3. Any hard, dark-colored nodule or boulder.
4. Any of certain blackish smooth-shelled fresh-water mussels of Quadrula or a closely allied genus. See QUADRULA.
5. A strong black chewing tobacco; negrohead.
6. A scoter. Local, Canada.
7. Mach. A kind of spool on which to wind a hauling rope.
8. Print. A small wire nail driven into the furniture of a form on a cylinder press to produce a black mark on the feed-gauge edge of the printed sheet; also, the mark so made.

niggerhead cactus. Bisnaga.

nigger in the woodpile. A concealed motive, an obscure factor, or the like. Colloq.

nig'ger·ish (nĭg'ĕr·ĭsh), adj. Like, pertaining to, or characteristic of, the negro.

nig'ger·ism (nĭg'ĕr·ĭz'm), n. a Negro blood or character. b A negro characteristic, esp. of expression or idiom.

nig'ger·ling (-lĭng), n. A little negro.

nigger pine. The scrub pine Pinus virginiana.

nig'ger·toe' (nĭg'ĕr·tō'), n. a Southern U. S. Any of various herbs having flower heads with black or dark-colored disks, as species of Gaillardia, Coreopsis, Rudbeckia, etc. b Chiefly U. S. A Brazil nut.

nig'ger·weed' (-wēd'), n. The joe-pye weed.

nig'ger·y (nĭg'ĕr·ĭ), adj. Niggerish.

nig'gle (nĭg'l), v. t.; NIG'GLED (-'ld); NIG'GLING (nĭg'lĭng). [Prob. of Scand. origin; cf. Nor. dial. nigla.] To trifle with. Specif.: a To deceive by petty tricks; to cheat. b To perform meticulously; esp., to overelaborate, as in art. — v. i. Chiefly Eng. To trifle; to potter. Hence, to fidget; also, to be finicking or meticulous.

nig'gle, n. Cramped handwriting. Rare.

nig'gle (nĭg'l), v. t. & i. To have sexual intercourse with a person. — nig'gler (nĭg'lĕr), n. Both Obs. Slang.

nig'gler (nĭg'lĕr), n. One who niggles, or trifles.

nig'gling (nĭg'lĭng), n. [From 2d NIGGLE.] Finicky or pottering work; specif., Fine Arts, minute and very careful workmanship, esp. on unimportant detail.

nig'gling, adj. That niggles. — nig'gling·ly, adv.

nig'gly (nĭg'lĭ), adj. Niggling.

nigh (nī), adv. [ME. nigh, neigh, neih, neh, adv. & adj., fr. AS. nēah, nēh; akin to D. na, adv., OS. nāh, adv. & adj., OHG. nāh, adj., nāhe, adv., G. nah, nahe, also nach to, after, ON. nā (in comp.) nigh, Goth. nehw, nehwa, adv., nigh, and perh. ult. to Skr. nāśati he reaches, attains. See ENOUGH; cf. NEAR, NEIGHBOR, NEXT.] Now Archaic & Dial. 1. Near, esp. in place, time, relationship, likeness, or in the course of events; close; — often followed by a complement, in the construction of a preposition. "He was sick, nigh unto death." Phil. ii. 27. See NEAR, adv.
2. Almost; nearly; — often, Dial., with about, by, on, upon, etc.
3. Near to; not remote or far from. See LIKE, adv., 1, Note.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

nigh-destroyed	nigh-ebbed	nigh-past nigh-drowned	nigh-naked	nigh-spent nigh (nī), adj.; NIGH'ER (-ĕr); NIGH'EST or NEXT (nĕkst). [AS. nēah, nēh. See NIGH, adv.] Now Archaic & Dial. 1. Not distant or far off in place, time, kinship, likeness, etc.; near; close.

The loud tumult shows the battle nigh. Prior.

2. Direct; short; as, the nighest road to York.
3. Of domestic animals, vehicles, etc., on the left; near.
4. Close; parsimonious; near. Now Chiefly Dial.
Syn. — Adjacent, contiguous, neighboring.
Ant. — See DISTANT.

nigh, v. t. & i.; NIGHED (nīd); NIGH'ING. To draw or come near (to); to approach. Now Rare.

nigh hand. Also nigh'–hand' (66), adv. & prep. Now Rare. a Near at hand; close by or to. b Nearly; almost.

nigh'ly (nī'lĭ), adv. [AS. nēahlīce.] 1. Nearly; almost.
2. Niggardly. Spenser.

night (nīt), n. [ME. night, niht, fr. AS. neaht, niht; akin to D. nacht, OS. & OHG. naht, G. nacht, ON. nōtt, nātt, Goth. nahts, Lith. naktis, OSlav. nošti, W. nos, OIr. innocht tonight, L. nox, noctis, night, Gr. nyx, nyktos, Skr. nakta, nakts. Cf. EQUINOX, NIGHTINGALE, NOCTURNAL.]
1. That part of the natural day when the sun is beneath the horizon, or the time from sunset to sunrise; esp., the time from dusk to dawn, when no light of the sun is visible. Cf. DAY, 1.
2. The beginning of darkness; nightfall.
3. The darkness of night; hence, figuratively: a Darkness; concealment. "Nature and nature's laws lay hid in night." Pope. b Intellectual or moral darkness. c A period of affliction; adversity; as, a dreary night of sorrow. d The period after life; death. "She closed her eyes in everlasting night." Dryden. e A lifeless or unenlivened period. "Sad winter's night." Spenser.
4. a One's experience during a night. b A period between evening and dawn spent in pastime or occupation; as, to make a night of it.
5. The part of a natural night during which one is employed for compensation; also, a professional performance after nightfall; as, to work nights; to run 50 nights.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

night-black	night-faring	night-robbing night-blooming	night-feeding	night-rolling night-blowing	night-filled	night-scented night-born	night-flowering	night-shining night-bringing	night-folded	night-singing night-cheering	night-foundered	night-straying night-clad	night-gaping	night-struck night-cloaked	night-grown	night-swaying night-contending	night-haired	night-swift night-cradled	night-haunted	night-swollen night-dark	night-hid	night-traveling night-decking	night-mantled	night-tripping night-dispersing	night-overtaken	night-veiled night-enshrouded	night-prowling	night-wandering night-fallen	night-riding	night-warbling

— at night. At nightfall; in the evening. — on night or nights. By night; nightly. Obs. — the night. Tonight. Dial. — within night. After nightfall. Obs.

night, adj. a Of or pertaining to the night; esp., for use at night; as, night clothes; night noises. b By night; in the night; as, night flying. c On, of, or pertaining to, night duty; as, a night nurse, watchman.

night (nīt), v. i.; NIGHT'ED; NIGHT'ING.
1. To remain during the night; to spend the night. Now Rare.
2. To become night; to grow dark. Obs.

night adder. Any of four African viperine snakes of the genus Causus, having nocturnal habits.

night and day. Continually.

night ape. A monkey of the genus Aotus.

Night Before Christmas, 'T was the. The first line, often serving as a title, of a poem (1844) by Clement Clark Moore, A Visit from St. Nicholas.

night bird. 1. A bird associated with night; as: a An owl. b A nightingale. c The moor hen. d Eng. The Manx shearwater.
2. = NIGHTHAWK, 2.

night blindness. Nyctalopia. — night'–blind', adj.

night'–bloom'ing ce're·us. a A well-known cactus (Selenicereus grandiflorus) with flexuous, climbing, angled branches and large, fragrant, white flowers opening about midnight. b Any of several cultivated species of night-blooming cacti, esp. Peniocereus greggii and Hylocereus undatus.

night blue. See DYE, Table.

night bolt. See NIGHT LATCH.

night by night, night after night. Nightly; many nights.

night'cap' (nīt'kăp'), n. 1. A cap or covering for the head, worn in bed or, formerly, in undress.
2. A cloud resting about the summit of a mountain or hill.
3. Something soporific taken (or done) at bedtime, esp. a drink of spirits.
4. A night bully or brawler. Obs.

night'capped' (nīt'kăpt'), adj. Wearing a nightcap.

night'caps' (-kăps'), n. sing. & pl. The wood anemone (Anemone quinquefolia).

night cart. A cart for removing night soil.

night chair. A closestool.

night'churr' (nīt'chûr'), n. The European goatsucker.

---

nie. † NEIGH, NIGH, NINE.
nie. Obs. pl. of EYE.
niece. † NEEZE, NICE, NICHE. niece'less, adj. See -LESS.
niece'ship, n. See -SHIP.
nief (nĕf). Var. of NIEVE. ni·el' (nĭ·ĕl'). Var. of NIELLO. nier. † NEAR.
niere. Var. of NEEZE, a kidney.
niesse. † NYAS. nie'ther. Neither. Ref. Sp.
niew. Var. of NIU.
nif. Contr. of ne if, unless. Obs.
Ni'flungs (nē'flōōngz). Var. of NIBELUNGS. nigd. Nigged. Ref. Sp.
nigeot. † NIDGET, NIDIOT.
Ni'ger (nī'jĕr). Bib. ni'ger, n. [L.] A negro. Obs. nig'gard·ise, n. Niggardliness. Obs. [Obs.] nig'gard·ish, adj. Niggardly. nig'gard·ize, v. t. & i. = NIGGARD, v. t. & i. Rare. nig'gard·ling, adj. & n. = NIGGARD, adj. & n. Rare.
nig'gard·ness, n. See -NESS. nig'gard·ous, adj. Niggardly. Obs. nig'gard·ship, n. See -SHIP. Obs. nig'gard·y, n. Niggardliness. Obs. nig'ger·al'i·ty (nĭg'ĕr·ăl'ĭ·tĭ), n. [From nigger, var. of NIGGARD.] = NIGGARDLINESS. Gall.
nig'ger·dom (nĭg'ĕr·dŭm), n. See -DOM. nig'get. † NIDGET. nig'gish, adj. [See NIGGARD.] Niggardly. — nig'gish·ly, adv. — nig'gish·ness, n. All Obs. nig'gld. Niggled. Ref. Sp.
nig'got. † INGOT.
nigh'ness, n. See -NESS. nightcap wig. A small undress wig. Obs. night'-cat', n. An instrument to impede cavalry. Obs.

N

night clothes. a Garments worn in bed. b Obs. Informal evening dress. night cloud. Stratus cloud. See STRATUS. night club. a A night stick. b A resort, in the guise of a social club, frequented by pleasure seekers at night.
night court. A criminal court, in a large city, which sits at night for summary disposition of criminal charges, the granting of bail, etc. U. S.
night crawler. = NIGHTWALKER d. Colloq., U. S. night crow. a A bird that cries in the night, esp. a night heron. b Local, Eng. A goatsucker.
night dial. a A dial showing time by the moon's shadow; — called also moon dial. See LUNAR DIAL. b A clockface made luminous at night by a light from behind or by radioluminescent paint. c Obs. A graduated dial, or disk, held centrally over the polestar, and adjusted for reading off the time of night.
night'dress' (nīt'drĕs'), n. A nightgown; night clothes.
night'ed (-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. a Darkened; clouded. b Rare. Pertaining to the night. c Benighted. night editor. On American morning newspapers, an editor who has charge of the final make-up of the paper.
night emerald. Chrysolite or olivine, used as a gem. By artificial light it is like the emerald in color.
night'-eyed' (nīt'īd'), adj. Capable of seeing at night; hence, sharp-eyed.
night'fall' (nīt'fôl'), n. The close of the day; dusk.
night fire. a Obs. Ignis fatuus; will-o'-the-wisp; jack-o'-lantern. b A bonfire at night.
night'fish' (nīt'fĭsh'), n. Cod reputed to bite only at night. Local, U. S. night'flit' (-flĭt'), n. A woodcock. Local, U. S.
night flower. A flower that blooms at night; specif., the night jasmine.
night'-flow'er·ing catch'fly'. An herb (Silene noctiflora) with fragrant, white or pink, night-blooming flowers.
night'-fly', n. 1. A fly that is active at night.
2. A kind of artificial fly for fishing.
night'-fly', v. i. & t. To fly (an airplane) at night. — night'-fly'ing, n. & adj.
night'fowl' (nīt'foul'), n. A night bird. night'gale (-gāl), n. Nightingale. Obs. night'gown' (nīt'goun'), n. 1. A dressing gown worn esp. at night. Obs. exc. Hist.
2. A long, loose, light garment worn in bed.
night green. A color, yellow-green in hue, of very high saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.
night'hawk' (nīt'hôk'), n. 1. a Any of several North American goatsuckers of the genus Chordeiles, related to the whippoorwill. C. minor, common in the eastern United States, is marbled black, brown, and ocherous, with white on the wings, throat, and, in the male, also on the tail. Its food consists of insects, which it secures on the wing, principally at twilight, flying at a considerable height and often diving almost vertically. Called also bullbat. b The European nightjar. c Any of several large petrels of the genera Pterodroma (syn. Oestrelata) and Priofinus, inhabiting southern seas. d Australia. A morepork.

Nighthawk (Chordeiles minor).

2. One who is habitually up or abroad at night; specif.: a Colloq. One who secures victims at night, as a footpad, prostitute, etc. b Slang, U. S. The driver of a public vehicle, esp. an independent cab or taxi, plying chiefly at night; also, the vehicle.
night heron. Any of certain nocturnal or crepuscular herons, of Nycticorax and allied genera, found in most temperate and tropical regions, esp. N. nycticorax, which ranges from southern Europe to India and northern Africa. The American variety, the black-crowned night heron (N. n. hoactli), is but slightly different. When adult it is chiefly bluish gray with the crown and back greenish black. Several slender white plumes depend from the crown. The yellow-crowned night heron (Nyctanassa violacea), of the southern United States to South America, has the crown buffy white.

Black-crowned Night Heron (N. nycticorax hoactli).

night'ie (nīt'ĭ), n. A nightgown; — a child's word.
night'in·gale (nīt'ĭn·gāl; nīt'ĭng-; 277), n. [ME. nihtegale, nightingale, fr. AS. nihtegale, prop., night-singer; akin to D. nachtegaal, OS. nahtigala, OHG. nahtigalo, G. nachtigall. See NIGHT; YELL.] 1. Any of several Old World birds of the genus Luscinia, of the thrush family (Turdidae). The common species of Great Britain (L. megarhyncha) is about six inches long and russet brown above with the rump and tail lighter and the under parts whitish. It is noted for the sweet song of the male, often heard at night during the breeding season. A species of eastern Europe (L. luscinia) is similar, but larger. With a qualifying term, any of various birds, mostly sweet singers, as mock nightingale, Japanese nightingale, etc. (see these terms).

Nightingale (Luscinia megarhyncha).

2. Loosely, any of various birds that sing at night.
night'in·gale (nīt'ĭn·gāl; nīt'ĭng-), n. [After Florence Nightingale, Eng. philanthropist.] Any one of a variety of bed jackets made of a single piece of cloth.
night'in·gal·ize (nīt'ĭn·gāl·īz; nīt'ĭng-), v. i. To sing like a nightingale. Southey.
night'jar' (nīt'jär'), n. [See JAR to sound.] A goatsucker, esp. the European species. See GOATSUCKER, Illust. night jasmine. a The hursinghar; — called also tree of sadness and sad tree. b A tropical shrub (Cestrum nocturnum) with tubular yellow flowers.
night kaka. The kakapo. night key. See NIGHT LATCH. night lamp. A lamp, usually with a small flame or bulb, designed to be kept burning all night.
night latch. A kind of door latch or lock having a spring bolt (called the night bolt) operated from the outside by a key (night key) and from the inside by a knob.
night letter, night lettergram. See LETTERGRAM. night life. Mode of living of those active at night; specif., the activities of pleasure seekers at night.
night light. a The light, not directly from the sun, perceptible during the night. b A light kept burning at night. c An artificial light to burn through the night.
night line. A fish line set overnight. — night'-line', v. i. night'long' (nīt'lŏng'; 185), adj. & adv. Lasting or during the whole night.
night'ly, adj. [AS. nihtlīc.] 1. Of or pertaining to the night or every night; happening, done, or used by night, or every night; as, nightly prowls; he kept nightly vigils.
2. Characteristic of, or resembling, night.
Syn. — NIGHTLY, NOCTURNAL are sometimes interchangeable. But NOCTURNAL applies to that which belongs or pertains to night in any way; NIGHTLY, to that which happens or recurs every night; as, "Hail, goddess of nocturnal sport!" (Milton); "a fortnight hold we this solemnity in nightly revels" (Shak.). Ant. — See DAILY.
night'ly, adv. Every night; also, at or by night.
night'man (nīt'măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. One whose business is emptying privies by night.
2. Usually night man. A man whose work is at night, as a night watchman or a member of a night shift.
night'mare' (-mär'), n. [night + mare incubus. See MARE incubus.] 1. A fiend or incubus formerly supposed to oppress people during sleep.
2. A condition brought on in sleep, commonly by digestive or nervous disorders, and characterized by a sense of extreme uneasiness or discomfort or by frightful or oppressive dreams; incubus.
3. Any impression or experience having a similar effect.
The nightmare of this divorce. Galsworthy.
night'mare', v. t. To oppress like a nightmare.
night'mar'ish (nīt'mâr'ĭsh), adj. Like or suggesting a nightmare. — night'mar'ish·ly, adv.
night'mar'y (nīt'mâr'ĭ), adj. Nightmarish. night monkey. A night ape. night owl. a An owl of especially nocturnal habits. b Colloq. One who keeps late hours at night.
night palsy. Med. A numbness of the arms or legs occurring at nighttime, esp. in women undergoing the menopause.
night parrot. The kakapo. night partridge or peck. The woodcock. Local, U. S. night piece. 1. A picture of a scene at night.
2. A composition dealing with, or referring to, night.
night rail. A woman's loose negligee robe, or wrapper; a nightdress. Archaic & Dial. night raven. A bird that cries at night; esp., a night heron.
night rider. A member of a secret band who ride masked at night doing acts of violence for the purpose of punishing or terrorizing. Chiefly U. S.
night robe. A nightgown. — night'-robed', adj.
night rocket. The garden rocket. nights (nīts), adv. At or by night. Now Dial. exc. U. S. night school. School held in the evening.
night'shade' (nīt'shād'), n. [AS. nihtscada; akin to D. nachtschade, G. nachtschatten, and appar. to E. NIGHT; SHADE.] a Any of various species of Solanum; esp., the cosmopolitan weed S. nigrum, commonly distinguished as black nightshade (called also African nightshade), and S. dulcamara, the bittersweet. See SOLANUM, BITTERSWEET. b The belladonna. c The henbane.
night'shade', n. 1. The darkness of night.
2. A night-walking prostitute. Obs.
nightshade family. The Solanaceae. night shift. a Archaic. A nightgown. b A shift of laborers who work at night; the time it works.
night'shirt' (nīt'shûrt'), n. Nightgown for a man or boy.
night singer. A bird that sings at night; the sedge warbler. night soil. The excrement collected at night for manure.
night song. Eccl. A complin. night sparrow. The chipping sparrow, often singing at night.
night spell. A spell or charm designed either to avert or to cause evil at night.
night steed. One of the horses of the chariot of Night.
night stick. A policeman's club carried by night.
night'stock' (nīt'stŏk'), n. The garden rocket.
night'stool' (-stōōl'), n. A closestool.
night sweat. Med. Profuse sweating at night, a common symptom of certain febrile diseases.
night terror. Med. A sudden awakening in dazed terror.
night'tide' (nīt'tīd'), n. 1. Nighttime.
2. A flood tide occurring during the night.
night'time' (nīt'tīm'), n. The time from dusk to dawn.
night'time', adj. Occurring at night.
night vision. 1. A vision had at night.
2. a Ability to see in the dark. b = HEMERALOPIA a. night'wake' (nīt'wāk'), n. Watching in the night; a wake. Obs.
night'walk'er (nīt'wôk'ĕr), n. One who or that which roves about at night; specif.: a Now Rare. A footpad, street brawler, or the like. b A prostitute who walks the street at night. c A somnambulist. d Any large angleworm crawling about at night. — night'walk'ing, n. & adj.
night warbler. The sedge warbler. night'ward (nīt'wĕrd), adj. Occurring or done towards night; directed towards, or leading to, night or darkness.
night watch. a A watch or guard during the night. b A man or men keeping watch by night. c A chronological division of the night; — usually in pl.
night watcher. One who watches by night, esp., formerly, with evil designs. — night'-watch'ing, adj.
night watchman. a A watchman on duty by night. b A member of a night watch.
night'wear' (nīt'wâr'), n. Night clothes. night willow herb. The evening primrose Oenothera biennis. night'work' (nīt'wûrk'), n. 1. Work done at night, as the work of an evening or night shift.
2. The lock mechanism operating a night latch.
night'work', v. t. & i. To do, or cause to do, nightwork. — night'work'er (-wûr'kĕr), n. night'y (nīt'ĭ), adj. Pertaining to or like night. Obs. nig'nay (nĭg'nā), nig'nye (-nī), n. A triviality; a trifle. Scot. & Ir.
ni'go·ri (nyĭ'ngō·rĭ), n. [Jap., prop., muddling.] The secondary change, in Japanese, of a voiceless consonantal sound to a voiced, when beginning the second element of a compound.
ni·gres'cence (nĭ·grĕs'ĕns; -'ns), n. [See NIGRESCENT.] The process of becoming black or dark; blackness or darkness; specif., darkness of complexion. ni·gres'cent (-ĕnt; -'nt), adj. [L. nigrescens, pres. part. of nigrescere to grow black, fr. niger black. See NEGRO.] Approaching to blackness; blackish. nig'res·cite (nĭg'rĕs·īt), n. Mineral. A hydrous iron magnesium silicate, changing by exposure from green to black.
nig'ri·cant (nĭg'rĭ·kănt), adj. [L. nigricans, -antis, pres. part. of nigricare to be blackish.] Black or dark; specif., Bot., nigrescent. — v. t. To blacken. Obs.
nig'ri·fied (nĭg'rĭ·fīd), adj. Niggerish. Southern U. S. nig'ri·fy (nĭg'rĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [LL. nigrificare to blacken, fr. niger black + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See -FY.] To blacken. — nig'ri·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.
-ni'grin (-nī'grĭn). A combining form from Latin niger, black + -in, as in bilinigrin.
ni'grine (nī'grĭn; nĭg'rĭn), adj. [L. niger black.] Black.
ni'grine (nī'grĭn), n. A black ferruginous variety of rutile.
Ni·gri'tian (nĭ·grĭsh'ăn), adj. [From Nigritia, fr. L. niger black.] Of, pertaining to, or inhabiting, Nigritia, a name formerly given to the Sudan; hence, Negro. — n. An inhabitant of Nigritia; a Negro of the purest type. ni·gri'ti·es (nĭ·grĭsh'ĭ·ēz), n. [L., blackness, fr. niger black.] Med. Abnormally dark pigmentation.
nig'ri·tude (nĭg'rĭ·tūd), n. [L. nigritudo, fr. niger black.] Blackness; intense darkness; also, anything black. — nig'ri·tu'di·nous (-tū'dĭ·nŭs), adj.
ni'gro·sine (nī'grō·sēn; -sĭn; 157), n. Also -sin. [L. niger black.] a Any of several dyes closely related to the indulines. See INDULINE a. b A bluish-black dye obtained by heating nitrobenzene or nitrophenol with aniline and iron; — called also nigrosine spirit-soluble. It is used in coloring varnish, leather, etc., in calico printing, and silk dyeing. c A sulphonation product of this; — called also nigrosine water-soluble. It is used chiefly in dyeing silk gray.
ni'grous (nī'grŭs), adj. Black.
ni'gua (nē'gwä), n. [Sp.] The chigoe.
Ni·hal' (nē·häl'), n. [Ar. nihāl thirsty.] a See STAR, Table. b The group α, β, γ, δ Leporis.
‖ni'hil (nī'hĭl), n. [L. See NIHILISM.] 1. Nothing; a thing of no value.
2. Eng. Law. = NICHIL, n., 2. ni'hil, or ni'hi·lum, al'bum (nī'hĭ·lŭm ăl'bŭm). [LL.] See ZINC OXIDE.
ni'hil de'bet (dē'bĕt). [L., he owes nothing.] Law. The general issue in an action of debt on a simple contract or on a specialty when the deed is the only inducement to the action.
ni'hil dī'cit (dī'sĭt). [L., he says nothing.] Law. A declinature by the defendant to plead or answer.
ni'hil ex ni'hi·lo (ĕks nī'hĭ·lō). [L.] Nothing (comes) from nothing.
ni'hil ha'bet (hā'bĕt). [L., he has nothing.] Law. The return made on a writ when the sheriff or other officer executing it has been unable to serve it upon the defendant.
ni·hil'ian·ism (nĭ·hĭl'yăn·ĭz'm), n. [nihil + -ian + -ism.] The doctrine that the human nature of Christ was nothing, having no true subsistence. It was never widespread. — ni·hil'ian·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj.
ni·hil'i·fy (nĭ·hĭl'ĭ·fī), v. t. [L. nihili facere.] To slight or account as nothing. — ni·hil'i·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. ni'hil·ism (nī'ĭ·lĭz'm; nī'hĭ-; 277), n. [L. nihil nothing; cf. F. nihilisme. See ANNIHILATE.] 1. Philos. a Primarily, the doctrine that no reality exists; more commonly, a doctrine which denies, or is taken as denying, any objective or real ground of truth. b The doctrine which denies any objective ground of moral principles; — called also ethical nihilism.
2. Annihilation of desires and self-consciousness.
3. a The doctrine that conditions in the social organization are so bad as to make destruction desirable for its own sake, independent of any constructive program or possibility; esp. [cap.], the program or doctrine of a Russian party, or succession of parties, of the 19th and 20th centuries, who proposed various schemes of revolutionary reform, and resorted to terrorism and assassination; — derived from the use of the term in Turgenev's Fathers and Sons. b In loose usage, revolutionary propaganda; terrorism.
4. Med. Denial of the beneficial properties of medicines.
5. Psychiatry. A delusion that everything is unreal.
6. Theol. Nihilianism. ni'hil·ist (-lĭst), n. [See NIHILISM.] One who advocates a doctrine of nihilism; esp. [cap.], a member of a Russian nihilistic party resorting to terrorism. — ni'hil·ist, adj.
Syn. — See SOCIALIST.
ni'hil·is'tic (-lĭs'tĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characterized by, nihilism.
ni'hil·it'ic (-lĭt'ĭk), adj. Characterized by nihility.
ni·hil'i·ty (nī·hĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ML. nihilitas.] 1. Nothingness; a state of being nothing.
2. A thing amounting to nothing; a nullity; a mere trifle.
‖ni'hil ob'stat (nī'hĭl ŏb'stăt). [L.] E.C.Ch. Nothing hinders; — a formula on title pages signifying the imprimatur of the official censor, whose name follows.
Ni'hon·gi (nyē'hōn·gĭ), or Ni'hon·sho'ki (nyē'hōn·shō'kĭ). [Jap., The Chronicles of Japan.] The first of the six officially compiled annals of Japan, containing history from the mythical age to A.D. 696, written in the classical Chinese style. Cf. KOJIKI.
Nij'me'gen (nī'mā'gĕn), n. See TREATY, Table.
ni'kau (nē'kou), n., or nikau palm. [Maori nikau.] A graceful pinnate-leaved palm (Rhopalostylis sapida), the only palm native to New Zealand.
Ni·ka'ya (nĭ·kä'yä), n. [Skr. nikāya collection.] A collection of the sayings of Buddha, esp. one of the five Nikayas of the Suttapitaka. See TRIPITAKA.

night'er·tale, n. [Cf. Icel. nattarthel.] Nighttime. Obs. night'farm'er, n. A remover of offal. Obs. night'ish, adj. Nocturnal. Obs. night'ker'chief, n. A kerchief used as a nightcap. Obs.
night'less, adj. See -LESS. — night'less·ness, n. night'like', adj. See -LIKE. night'mart', n. Trading done at night; illicit dealings. Obs.
night'shine', n. See -SHINE. night'-sun', n. Paraselene. Obs. night'trad'er, n. A prostitute. Obs. [See -WARDS.] night'wards (nīt'wĕrdz), adv.
night'worm', n. Obs. a A traitor. b A prostitute. c A glowworm. ni'gon, n. A niggard. Obs. — ni'gon·ry, n. Obs.
ni·gran'i·line (nĭ·grăn'ĭ·lēn; -lĭn), n. Also -lin. [L. niger black + E. aniline.] See ANILINE BLACK.
nĭ'gre (nĭ'gĕr; nĭg'ĕr), n. Var. of NIGGER. ni'gre, n. See SOAP, n.
ni·gre'sceous (nĭ·grĕsh'ŭs), adj. = NIGRESCENT. nig'rite, n. [L. niger black.] A negro. Obs.
Ni·grit'ic (nĭ·grĭt'ĭk). Var. of NEGRITIC. [gro. Obs.
ni'gro, n. [See NEGRO.] A neni'gro·man'cer, ni'gro·man'cie, ni'gro·mance. ✝ NECROMANCER, NECROMANCY. ni'gro·man'cien, n. [OF.] A necromancer. Obs. nigs (nĭgz), interj. A minced oath; — in God's nigs. Obs.

Ni′ke (nī′kē; nē′kā), n. [Gr. Nikē.] 1. Gr. Relig. a The goddess of victory, in myth daughter of the Titan Pallas and of the Styx, but actually a deliberate personification, generally represented as winged and as carrying a wreath and a palm branch. See ZEUS. b Nike Apteros (Athena Nike).

Nike of Samothrace.

2. A representation of this goddess in art.

Ni′ke Ap′te·ros (ăp′tē·rŏs). [Gr. apteros wingless.] Athena as giver of victory. The temple of Nike Apteros at Athens, on a high stone platform jutting out beyond the Propylaea, is Ionic amphiprostyle tetrastyle and measures 18 by 27 feet.

Ni′ke of Sam′o·thrace (săm′ō·thrās; L. săm′ō·thrā′sē). A Hellenistic statue now in the Louvre, representing Victory moving onward on the prow of a ship. It was erected on Samothrace by Demetrius Poliorcetes in memory of a naval victory over the Egyptians about 306 B.C.

Nik′ko (nĭk′kō), n. China blue.

Nik′ko fir (nĭk′kō; Jap. nyĭk′kō). [From Nikko, cen. Japan. See Gaz.] A handsome Japanese evergreen tree (Abies homolepis), widely cultivated for ornament.

nik′les·ite (nĭk′lĕs·īt), n. [From Niklesdorf, in the valley of the Morava.] Petrog. A pyroxenite consisting of diallage, diopside, and enstatite with accessory olivine and aggregates of chromite.

nil (nĭl), n. [L., a contr. of nihil. See NIHIL.] 1. Nothing. 2. At bridge, no game.

nil (nĭl), n. Also nill. [Ar. nīl. See 1st ANIL.] Now Rare. a The indigo plant; indigo dye. b A blue-flowered ipomoea (Ipomoea nil).

nil, n. The male nilgai.

Nile (nīl), n. [L. Nilus, fr. Gr. Neilos.] 1. The great river of Egypt.
2. The color Nile green.

Nile, Battle of the. See BATTLE, Table.

Nile bird. a Local, Eng. The wryneck. b The crocodile bird.

Nile blue. A color, greenish green-blue in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Cf. COLOR.

Nile goose. The Egyptian goose.

Nile green. A color, yellow-green in hue, of low saturation and high brilliance. Called also boa. Cf. COLOR.

Nile star. Sirius, the Dog Star, which several thousand years ago rose with the sun at the summer solstice, and so heralded the approach of the inundation of the Nile.

nil′gai (nĭl′gī), n.; pl. NILGAIS (-gīz), sometimes NILGAI. See PLURAL, Note. [Hind. & Per. nīlgāw, prop., a blue cow, fr. Per. nīl blue + gāw cow. See LILAC; COW the animal.] A large antelope (Boselaphus tragocamelus) of India. The male has short horns, a black mane, and a bunch of long hair on the throat. The general color is bluish gray.

Nilgai (Boselaphus tragocamelus).

Nil′gi·ri, or Nil′ghi·ri, net′tle (nĭl′gĭ·rĭ). [From Nilgiri, India.] a An East Indian fiber plant (Girardinia palmata), family Urticaceae, with stinging foliage. Its stems yield a strong fiber useful for cordage. b Any of several related species of this genus having similar fiber.

nill (nĭl), v. t.; NILLED (nĭld); NILL′ING. [AS. nyllan, nellan, fr. ne not + willan to will. See NO; WILL.] Not to will; to refuse; reject; prevent. Archaic. — v. i. To be unwilling. Archaic.

And, will you, nill you, I will marry you. Shak.

nill, n. [From NILL, v.] Disinclination. Obs.

nill, n. Nihil album. Obs.

nill. Var. of 2d NIL.

nill. Dial. Eng. var. of NEEDLE.

nil′ly·wil′ly, adv. Willy-nilly.

Ni·lom′e·ter (nī·lŏm′ē·tĕr), n. [Gr. Neilometrion, fr. Neilos the Nile + metron measure; cf. F. nilomètre.] An instrument for measuring the height of water in the Nile, esp. during its flood. — Ni′lo·met′ric (nī′lō·mĕt′rĭk), adj.

Ni′lo·scope (nī′lō·skōp), n. [Gr. Neiloskopeion, fr. Neilos the Nile + skopein to observe.] A Nilometer. Rare.

Ni′lot (nī′lŏt), n.; pl. NILOTES (nī·lō′tēz). [Cf. Gr. Neilōtēs.] A native of the region of the Upper Nile.

Ni·lot′ic (nī·lŏt′ĭk), adj. [L. Niloticus, fr. Gr. Neilōtikos, fr. Neilos the Nile.] 1. Of or pertaining to the Nile or the peoples dwelling in the territory directly drained by it.
2. Designating a group of Sudanic languages, including Dinka, Shilluk, and others.

Ni·lot′ic, n. One of a Nilotic tribe or nation.

Nil′ous (nĭl′ŭs), adj. Of or characteristic of the Nile. Rare.

nil′po·tent (nĭl′pō·tĕnt), adj. [L. nil + potens, pres. part. of posse to be able. Cf. POWER.] Math. Having a power which is zero; hence, dealing with nilpotent quantities. See ALGEBRA.

nim (nĭm), v. t.; past NAM (năm; nām) or NIMMED (nĭmd); past part. NO′MEN (nō′mĕn) or NOME (nōm); pres. part. & verbal n. NIM′MING. [AS. niman. See NIMBLE.] To take; specif., to steal; filch. Archaic. — v. i. Obs. exc. Dial. a To go; to betake oneself. b To steal; thieve.

nim (nēm). Var. of NEEM.

nimb (nĭmb; nĭm), n. A nimbus or halo.

nimbed (nĭmbd; nĭmd), adj. Also nim′bat·ed (nĭm′bā·tĕd; -ĭd; 119). Having a nimbus, esp. around the head.

nim·bif′er·ous (nĭm·bĭf′ĕr·ŭs), adj. [L. nimbifer, fr. nimbus a cloud + ferre to bear.] Serving to bring clouds or storms. Rare.

nim′bi·fi·ca′tion (nĭm′bĭ·fĭ·kā′shŭn), n. [L. nimbus cloud + -fication.] Cloud formation. Rare.

nim′ble (nĭm′b'l), adj. [ME. nimel, nemel, prob. orig., quick at seizing, fr. nimen to take, fr. AS. niman; cf. AS. nǣmel, numol; akin to D. nemen to take, G. nehmen, OHG. neman, ON. nema, Goth. niman, Gr. nemein to distribute, allot, to pasture, nomas pasturing, nomós pasture, district, abode, nómos anything assigned, custom, law, nomimos customary, nomisma custom, L. numerus number, Lith. nuoma interest, rent. Cf. ASTRONOMY, AUTONOMY, BINOMIAL, ECONOMY, NEMESIS, NOMAD, NOME, NOMIC, NUMB, NUMBER, NUMISMATIC, NUMMARY.] 1. Quick in seizing or comprehending. Obs.
2. Quick and light in motion; moving easily, swiftly, dexterously; as, a nimble man, rabbit; agile; lively; swift; as, a nimble movement, pace.

Through the mid-seas the nimble pinnace sails. Pope.

3. a Rapid in apprehension, conception, or the like; alert; acute; as, a nimble wit, imagination, mind; also, quick-witted; clever; adroit; as, a nimble thinker. b Revealing mental quickness; cleverly devised; as, a nimble jest.
4. Quickly or acutely responsive; sensitive.
5. Of coins or money, circulating rapidly; — esp. in the phrase the nimble ninepence.

Syn. — Agile, quick, brisk, prompt. See ACTIVE.

Ant. — Sluggish, heavy, slow, awkward, inert, dull.

☞ COMBINATIONS (all adjectives) are:

nimblebrained	nimble-heeled	nimble-spirited nimble-eyed	nimble-jointed	nimble-stepping nimble-feathered	nimble-mouthed	nimble-tongued nimble-fingered	nimble-moving	nimble-toothed nimble-footed	nimble-pinioned	nimble-winged nimble-headed	nimble-shifting	nimble-witted

— nim′ble·ness, n. — nim′bly (nĭm′blĭ), adv.

nim′ble (nĭm′b'l), v. t. & i. To make nimble; to move or act nimbly.

nimble Kate. = BUR CUCUMBER a. nimble Will. A slender, branching American grass (Muhlenbergia schreberi) of some value for grazing in the central United States.

Nimble Will.

nim′bose (nĭm′bōs; nĭm·bōs′), adj. [L. nimbosus, fr. nimbus cloud.] Cloudy; stormy. — nim·bos′i·ty (nĭm·bŏs′ĭ·tĭ), n.

nim′bus (nĭm′bŭs), n.; pl. NIMBI (-bī), NIMBUSES (-bŭs·ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [L., rainstorm, cloud; akin to Pahlavi namb moisture, and ult. to L. nebula mist, cloud. See NEBULA.] 1. A luminous vapor, cloud, or atmosphere about a god or goddess when on earth; hence, figuratively, a cloud or atmosphere, as of romance, about a person or thing.

2. Art. A circle, disk or any indication of radiant light around the heads of divinities, saints, and sovereigns, on medals, pictures, etc. See AUREOLE, 3, and GLORY, n., 8.

Nimbus, 2. 1 Common Form for Christ; 2 Greek Form for God the Father; 3 Common Form for a Saint; 4 Square Nimbus for a Living Person.

3. Meteorol. The rain cloud, characterized by its uniform grayness and extending over the entire sky in seasons of continued rain; in general, any cloud from which rain is falling.
4. The color nickel.

nim′bused (nĭm′bŭzd), adj. Furnished with a nimbus.

ni·mi′e·ty (nĭ·mī′ĕ·tĭ), n. [L. nimietas, fr. nimius, adj., nimis, adv., too much.] Excess; redundancy.

nim′i·ny-pim′i·ny (nĭm′ĭ·nĭ·pĭm′ĭ·nĭ), adj. Affectedly refined; mincing; effeminate. — nim′i·ny-pim′i·ni·ness (-nĭ·nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. — nim′i·ny-pim′i·ny·ism (-ĭz′m), n.

nim′i·ous (nĭm′ĭ·ŭs), adj. [L. nimius.] Excessive; extravagant. Now Chiefly Scots Law.

Nim′kish (nĭm′kĭsh), n. An Indian of a Kwakiutl tribe. See KWAKIUTL.

nim′mer (nĭm′ĕr), n. [From NIM.] A thief.

‖n'im′porte′ (năn′pôrt′). [F.] It matters not; it's no matter.

Nim′rod (nĭm′rŏd), n. 1. Bib. A son of Cush, described in Gen. x. 8–10 as a mighty hunter and ruler.
2. Hence: a Obs. A tyrant. b A hunter.

— Nim·ro′di·an (nĭm·rō′dĭ·ăn), adj. — Nim·rod′ic (-rŏd′ĭk), adj. — Nim·rod′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — Nim′rod·ize (nĭm′rŏd·īz), v. i.

nim′shi (nĭm′shĭ), n. [E. dial. nimshie flighty girl (a nimshie, fr. an imshie), Scot. hims hasty, flighty, half-witted, fr. ON. heimskr foolish, silly.] A fool; a silly person. Local, U. S.

nim tree (nēm). The neem, or margosa.

Ni′na (nī′nä; nē′-), n. [Prob. fr. a dim. Annina, of Anna.] Feminine proper name. See ANN.

Ni′na (nē′nä), n. [Bab. Ninā.] Babylon. Relig. A goddess of the watery deep. She is a daughter of Ea.

Ni′ña (nē′nyä), n. [Sp.] See SHIP, Table.

nin′com·poop (nĭn′kŏm·pōōp; 66), n. Also nin′com (nĭn′kŏm), nin′cum (-kŭm). [Origin obscure.] A fool; a simpleton. — nin′com·poop′er·y (-pōōp′ĕr·ĭ), n. — nin′com·poop·hood, n. — nin′com·poop·ish, adj.

nine (nīn), adj. [ME. nine, fr. AS. nigon, nigan; akin to D. & LG. negen, OS. & OFris. nigun, OHG. niun, G. neun, ON. nīu, Sw. nio, Dan. ni, Goth. niun, OIr. nōi, W. naw, L. novem, Gr. ennea, Lith. devynì, Skr. navá, and perh., as starting a new series (the dial. form of eight in Indo-European suggests counting by fours), to E. NEW. Cf. NOON, NOVEMBER.] Eight plus one; being one more than eight; as, nine weeks; — often with ellipsis of the noun; as, nine have arrived.

☞ Nine is combined with a noun, often with the suffix -ed added to the combination, to form compound adjectives, such compounds being written usually with a hyphen, as in:

nine-banded	nine-jointed	nine-power nine-circled	nine-knot	nine-share nine-cornered	nine-lived	nine-shilling nine-day	nine-mile	nine-spined nine-eyed	nine-part	nine-spotted nine-foot	nine-ply	nine-tailed nine-hole	nine-point	nine-voiced nine-hour	nine-pound	nine-word nine-inch	nine-pounder	nine-year nine (nīn), n. 1. The number greater by a unit than eight; nine units or objects.

2. A symbol representing nine units, as 9, IX, or ix.
3. A playing card with nine pips.
4. Any person or thing distinguished by the number nine, as a glove or shoe, a prisoner or inmate of an institution, a member of a gun crew, or the like.
5. Nine units or objects; a set or group of nine units.
6. Nine o'clock; — often combined with a number for the minutes past the hour; as, nine-two.
7. Baseball. The nine players composing a side; also, a baseball team, including extra players.

— the Nine. The Muses. — to, or up to, the nines, or, rarely, nine. To the highest point, degree, or mark, as in skill, taste, etc.

nine′–band′ed ar′ma·dil′lo. The peba.

nine′bark′ (nīn′bärk′), n. Any American white-flowered shrub of the genus Physocarpus, having bark which separates into many thin layers.

Nine Classics. The nine books comprising the Five Classics and the Four Books (which see). nine′–eyes′ (-īz′), n. [Cf. G. neunauge, D. negenoog.] a A lamprey nine′–eyed′ eel [-īd′]). b Eng. The gunnel.

nine′fold′ (-fōld′; 66), adj. a Consisting of nine things or parts; nine times repeated; nine times as much or as many; nonuple. b Of nine folds. c Poetic. Nine.

nine′fold′, n. An amount nine times as much or as many; also, a group or set of nine.

nine′fold′ (66), adv. To nine times as much or as many.

Nine Gems. See VIKRAMADITYA.

Nine Gods, the. [Transl. of L. di novensides or di novensiles.] A group of Etruscan gods whose worship was introduced into Rome.

nine′holes′ (nīn′hōlz′), n. 1. A game in which balls are rolled into nine holes, or, sometimes, through arches.
2. A cut of beef from below the brisket. Brit.

nine′–kill′er, n. [It is believed to kill nine birds, etc., before eating; cf. D. negen-dooder, G. neuntöter.] A shrike.

nine′pegs′ (nīn′pĕgz′), n. pl. Ninepins.

nine′pence (-pĕns), n.; pl. -PENCES (-pĕn·sĕz; -sĭz; 119). The sum of nine pence, or a coin of this value. Specif.: a A harp shilling. b In New England, the real, formerly current in the U. S. at 12½ cents; hence, the sum of 12½ cents.

nine′pen′ny (-pĕn′ĭ; -pĕn·ĭ), n.; pl. -NIES (-ĭz). A coin worth ninepence. — nine′pen′ny, adj.

ninepenny morris or marl. Nine-men's morris.

nine′pin′ (-pĭn′), n. One of the pins used in ninepins.

ninepin block. Naut. A fair-leader shaped like a ninepin.

nine′pins′ (-pĭnz′), n.; pl. in form, but construed as sing. a A bowling game played with nine wooden pins set on end. b Tenpins without the head pin.

nine′–point′ cir′cle. Math. The circle bisecting the sides of a triangle and the segments between the orthocenter and the vertices, and passing through the feet of the altitudes.

Nine′–Pow′er Trea′ty. a A treaty concerning the status of China signed at the Washington Conference, Feb. 6, 1922, by the United States, Belgium, the British Empire, China, France, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, and Portugal. It pledges respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China, provision for self-government, equality for all nations in commercial opportunities, etc. b A treaty signed by the same powers and of the same date, allowing China to increase her customs tariff.

nine′score′ (nīn′skōr′; 181), adj. Nine times twenty. — n. The product of nine times twenty; ninescore units.

nine′ted (nīn′tĭd), adj. [For dial. nointed, anointed. Cf. ANOINT, v.] Wicked. Dial. Eng.

nine′teen′ (nīn′tēn′; 66), adj. [AS. nigontȳne, nigontēne. See NINE; TEN.] Nine plus ten; eighteen and one more; also, Obs., nineteenth.

nine′teen′, n. The number greater by a unit than eighteen; the sum of ten and nine; nineteen units or objects; also, a symbol representing nineteen units, as 19, XIX, or xix.

nine′teenth′ (nīn′tēnth′; 66), adj. [AS. nigontēotha.] Next in order after the eighteenth; also, constituting one of nineteen equal parts. — nine′teenth′ly, adv.

nine′teenth′, n. 1. The quotient of a unit divided by nineteen; one of nineteen equal parts or divisions.
2. The unit or object coming next after the eighteenth.
3. Music. a An interval of two octaves and a fifth. b A tone at this interval. c An organ stop sounding pitches two octaves and a fifth above the keys used.

Nineteenth Amendment. U. S. Const. The woman's suffrage amendment, in force Aug. 26, 1920.

nineteenth hole. The locker room or other convivial gathering place of golfers after play on the course.

nine′ti·eth (nīn′tĭ·ĕth; -ĭth), adj. a Next in order after the eighty-ninth. b Constituting one of ninety equal parts.

nine′ti·eth, n. 1. The quotient of a unit divided by ninety; one of ninety equal parts or divisions.
2. The unit or object coming next after the eighty-ninth.

nine′ty (-tĭ), adj. [AS. nigontig. See NINE; cf. FORTY.] Nine times ten; eighty-nine and one more; — often with ellipsis of the noun.

nine′ty, n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). a The sum of nine tens; nine times ten; ninety units or objects. b A symbol representing ninety units, as 90, XC, or xc. COMBINATIONS are:

ninety-acre, adj.	ninety-fourth	ninety-seventh ninety-day, adj.	ninety-hour, adj.	ninety-six ninety-eight	ninety-mile, adj.	ninety-sixth ninety-eighth	ninety-nine	ninety-third ninety-fifth	ninety-ninth	ninety-three ninety-first	ninety-one	ninety-ton, adj.
ninety-five	ninety-second	ninety-two ninety-four	ninety-seven	ninety-word, adj.

— the nine′ties (nīn′tĭz). The numbers ninety to ninety-nine inclusive; hence, the years numbered ninety to ninety-nine in a person's life or in a particular century; also, the degrees ninety to ninety-nine on a scale, as a thermometer.

Ni·ke′no, n. = WIKENO.

nil. Nill. Ref. Sp.

‖nil ad′mi·ra′ri. [L.] To be moved or excited by nothing; also, to wonder, or the wondering, at nothing. Horace.

‖nil al′bum. Nihil album.

‖nil de′spe·ran′dum (nĭl dē′spĕ·răn′dŭm). [L.] Nothing must be despaired of; never despair. Horace (Odes I. vii. 27).

‖nil dĭ′cit. [L.] = NIHIL DICIT.

nil′gau (nĭl′gô; -gou), nil′ghai (nĭl′gī), nil′ghau (nĭl′gô). Vars. of NILGAI.

‖nil nĭ′si bo′num. Short for DE MORTUIS NIL NISI BONUM.

nilpotent algebra. See ALGEBRA.

‖nil sĭ′ne nu′mi·ne. [L.] Nothing without the divine will, or the deity; — the motto of Colorado. nilt. Contr. of ne will, wilt not. Obs. [yond; utmost limit.

‖nil ul′tra. [L.] Nothing benim′bi, n., pl. of NIMBUS.

nim′bless, n. Nimbleness. Obs.

nimel. † NIMBLE.

nim′e·ny-pim′e·ny. Var. of NIMINY-PIMINY.

nimf. Nymph. Ref. Sp.

nim′fa·do′ro, n. [It. (Florio).] A lady's man. Obs.

nim′i·ny. Short for NIMINY-PIMINY. [DIY-PIMINY.]

nim′my-pim′my, adj. = NIM-

Nim′rah (nĭm′rä). Bib.

Nim′rim (nĭm′rĭm). Bib.

Nim′shi (nĭm′shī). Bib.

Nim′u·ś (nĭm′ōō·ē), n. See LADY OF THE LAKE a.

nin′com, nin′cum. Var. of NINCOMPOOP. [MORRIS.]

nine′-men′s′ mor′ris. See 4th nine′mur′der, nine′mur′der·er, n. The nine-killer. Obs.

nine′-part′ meas′ure or time. See TIME, n., 22.

nine′-spined′ stick′le·back′. See STICKLEBACK, Illust. [ALCAIC.]

nine′-syl′la·bled Al·ca′ic. See nine′teen·fold′, adj. See -FOLD.

nine′ti·fold′. Ninetyfold. R. S.

Ni·net′ta Crum′mles (nĭ·nĕt′ä krŭm′′lz). See CRUMMLES.

N

Nin'e·vite (nĭn'ē·vīt), n. An inhabitant of Nineveh, in ancient Assyria, opposite modern Mosul. — Nin'e·vit'i·cal (-vĭt'ĭ·kăl), adj. — Nin'e·vit'ish (nĭn'ē·vīt'ĭsh), adj.

Nine Worlds. In Norse cosmology, the divisions of the universe, viz., Asgard, Midgard, Jotunnheim, Muspellsheim, and Niflheim, and possibly Alfheim, Svartalfaheim, Vanaheim, and Hel. See YGGDRASILL.

Nine Worthies. The nine personages rated in the Middle Ages as most worthy. A common list includes: Hector, son of Priam, Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar (three Gentiles); Joshua, conqueror of Canaan, David, king of Israel, Judas Maccabaeus (three Jews); Arthur, king of Britain, Charlemagne, Godfrey of Bouillon (three Christians).

Nin'gal (nĭn'găl), n. [Assyr.-Bab. Nin-gal, lit., the great lady.] Babylon. Relig. A goddess, wife of the moon-god Sin, worshiped especially at Ur.

Nin·gir'su (nĭn·gĭr'sōō), n. [Assyr.-Bab.] Babylon. Relig. In the older pantheon, god of war and agriculture, patron deity of Lagash.

Nin'gish·zi'da (nĭn'gĭsh·zē'dä), n. Babylon. Relig. An underworld deity, patron of medicine. His emblem, a snake coiled around a staff, is still the symbol of physicians.

Nin·khur'sag (nĭn·kōōr'săg), n. Also Nin·khar'sag (-kär'săg). [Assyr.-Bab. (fr. Sumerian) Nin-khar-sag, lit., the lady of the great mountain.] Babylon. Relig. The great Sumerian mother goddess, worshiped under several names, as Aruru, Mama, and Nintu, throughout ancient Mesopotamia.

Nin'ni (nĭn'ē), n. A Sumerian name of Ishtar.

nin'ny (nĭn'ĭ), n.; pl. -NIES (-ĭz). [A ninny, prob. fr. an innocent.] A fool; a simpleton. — nin'ny·ish, adj. — nin'ny·ism (-ĭz'ĭm), nin'ny·ship, n.

nin'ny·ham'mer (-hăm'ẽr), n. A simpleton; a silly person.

nin'ny·watch' (nĭn'ĭ·wŏch'), nun'ny·watch' (nŭn'ĭ-), n. A disturbance; commotion; confusion; excitement. Dial. Eng.

‖ni'ño (nē'nyō), n.; pl. NIÑOS (-nyōs). [Sp.] Boy; pl., children.

Ni'non' (nē'nôn'), n. [F.] 1. See ANN; — fem. proper name.
2. [not cap.] Any of various fabrics, as a silk voile.

Ni'nox (nī'nŏks), n. [NL.] Zool. A large genus of owls ranging from Madagascar to the Australian and Indo-Malayan regions. They have bristly feet and long wings.

ninth (nīnth; 232), adj. [From NINE; cf. AS. nigotha.]
1. Next in order after the eighth.
2. Constituting one of nine equal parts.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

ninth-born	ninth-formed	ninth-mentioned
ninth-built	ninth-hand	ninth-rate ninth-class	ninth-known	ninth-told ninth, n. 1. The quotient of a unit divided by nine; one of nine equal parts.

2. The unit or object coming next after the eighth.
3. Music. a The interval of an octave and a second. b A tone at this interval. c Also ninth chord. A chord of the dominant seventh with the ninth added. See 2d CHORD, 2.

ninth'ly (nīnth'lĭ), adv. In the ninth place.

ninth nerve, Anat. One of the ninth pair of cranial nerves; the glossopharyngeal nerve.

Ninth of Ab (äb; äb). Jewish Relig. A fast day commemorating the two destructions of the temple in Jerusalem (586 B.C. and A.D. 70), observed in the synagogues.

Ni·nur'ta (nĭ·nōōr'tä), n. [Assyr.-Bab., fr. Sumerian.] Babylon. Relig. A solar deity, the first-born of Bel, one of the chief gods of the pantheon, primarily god of war and the chase and patron of agriculture. He is identified by some authorities with the Biblical Nimrod.

Ni'nus (nī'nŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Ninos.] In Greek legend, the founder of Nineveh, and husband of Semiramis.

nin'ut (nĭn'ŭt), n. The magpie. Local, Eng.

ni'o·bate (nī'ō·bāt), n. [See NIOBIUM.] Chem. A salt of niobic acid; a columbate. See COLUMBIC ACID, 2.

Ni'o·be (nī'ō·bē), n. [L. Nioba, Niobe, Gr. Niobē.] 1. Gr. Myth. Daughter of Tantalus, and wife of Amphion, king of Thebes. Her pride in her numerous children led her to compare herself to Leto, who had only two; to punish her, Apollo and Artemis, Leto's children, slew Niobe's children. Niobe herself was changed by Zeus into stone, in which form she continued to weep her loss.
2. Bot. Syn. of HOSTA.
— Ni'o·be'an (nī'ō·bē'ăn), adj.

ni·o'bic (nī·ō'bĭk; nī·ŏb'ĭk), adj. Chem. Columbic.

Ni'o·bid (nī'ō·bĭd), Ni'o·bide (-bĭd; -bīd), n. [Cf. 1st -IN.] One of the children of Niobe.

Ni'o·bite (nī'ō·bīt), n. Eccl. Hist One of a strict Monophysite party who followed Stephen Niobes (Alexandria, 6th century) in maintaining that Jesus Christ's nature is wholly divine.

ni'o·bite (-bīt), n. Columbite.

ni·o'bi·um (nĭ·ō'bĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. L. & E. Niobe.] Chem. The element of atomic number 41. See COLUMBIUM.

ni·o'bous (nī·ō'bŭs), adj. Chem. Derived from niobium; denoting a lower degree of oxidation than niobic.

Ni'o·brar'a for·ma'tion (nī'ō·brär'ä). [From the Niobrara River, Nebraska.] Geol. A subdivision of the Upper Cretaceous, lying above the Benton and below the Montana formations. It contains most of the chalk of the United States.

ni·o'ta (nĭ·ō'tä), n., or niota bark. [Malayalam ñoṭṭa.] = NIEPA, NIEPA BARK.

nip (nĭp), v.; NIPPED (nĭpt), NIP'PING (-ĭng). [ME. nippen; akin to Dan. nippe to pinch, twitch, MD. nēpen, D. nijpen, Lith. knibti to pluck, pick, cull.] Transitive:
1. To catch hold or squeeze tightly between two surfaces, edges, or points; to compress as by pinching or biting; to clamp; as, a ship nipped in the ice.
2. To sever or prick off, esp. by pinching, or clipping with shears, as a bud, a shoot, or the like. Chiefly Hort.
3. To benumb (cheeks, fingers, etc.) as by severe cold; to blast (vegetation) as by frost; hence, to blight.
His exhilaration died down, nipped by a chilly wind. W. J. Locke.
4. To check sharply and, sometimes, to destroy the growth, progress, maturing, or fulfillment of; — now often with in the bud, in the head, or the like.
5. To seize suddenly and forcibly; snatch; hence, Slang, to arrest. Also, Thieves' Cant, to steal.
6. Obs. a To make bare or to diminish by snipping, biting, or cutting off in bits. b To censure sharply or bitingly. c To affect (one) painfully and closely.
7. Bookbinding. a To apply pressure to (books) to reduce the protuberance along the binding edge. b To press (books) lightly, after casing, to set the cover firmly along the joints. c To squeeze up (raised bands) on the backs of leather-covered books.
8. Naut. a To secure or stop (a cable or rope) with seizing. b To press forcibly (a ship) on both sides; — of ice.
—, Intransitive: 1. To pinch or press tightly.
2. To ache as if pinched. Chiefly Scot.
3. To move briskly, quickly, or nimbly; to hurry.

nip (nĭp), n. 1. The act of nipping or an instance of being nipped; a little pinch or bite; peck.
2. Something that nips, esp. a quality or element of a thing. Specif.: a A penetrating, stinging remark or rebuke; a pointed turn of expression; a dig. b A check to the growth of vegetation due to cold or frost; hence, sudden, sharp cold. c A sting in a cold wind. d A tang or bite in cheese. e Usually pl. Nippers.
3. One who nips; as: a Obs. A cheat; a sly thief; a pickpocket. b A sharp or cunning bargainer. c A passenger on a coach who avoids paying fare.
4. Something nipped; a bit; a small particle.
5. An effect of nipping or being nipped; as: a A frozen or benumbed ear, nose, etc.; vegetation blighted by frost. b The crushing of a ship caught between ice.
6. The variation in the radius of bending of the leaves of a leaf spring, decreasing from the larger to the smaller leaves; also, the distance due to this formation between two adjacent leaves when the leaves are placed with the ends of each touching the preceding leaf.
7. A biting or pungent flavor. Scot.
8. Coal Mining. A pinch, or contraction, of a coal seam.
9. Naut. The pressure on a rope where it is bent around, or held by, something; hence, a sharp bend or turn in a rope.

nip (nĭp), n. [Cf. D. & LG. nippen to sip, and E. nip to pinch. Cf. NIPPERKIN.] Formerly, a half pint of ale; now, a sip or small draft; a dram.

nip, v. t. & i. To take (liquor) in nips; esp., to tipple.

nip, n. [See NEP.] Catnip. Obs. exc. Dial.

ni'pa (nē'pä; nĭ'pä), n. [Sp., fr. Malay nipah.] 1. a An East Indian palm (Nipa fruticans); — called also atap. b An alcoholic drink made from the juice of the nipa palm. c A thatch or mat made of its leaves.
2. [cap.] Bot. A genus constituted by N. fruticans. It is a palm of low stature, common along tidal streams, and has long pinnate leaves. The seeds are edible, and the sap yields sugar (nipa sugar) and alcohol (nipa alcohol). See TUBA.

nip and tuck. With rapid alternation of favorable and unfavorable prospects. Cf. NECK AND NECK. U. S. — nip'–and–tuck' (66), adj.

nip'cheese' (nĭp'chēz'), n. Slang. a Obs. A ship's purser. b A miser.

nipe (nīp), v. t. [MD. nīpen. See 1st NIP.] To nip. Obs. — nip'er (nīp'ẽr), n. Obs.

niph'o- (nĭf'ō-), niph-. Comb. form from Greek nipha (acc.), snow, as in niph'a·blep'si·a, niph'o·typh·lo'sis.

Nip'is·sing (nĭp'ĭ·sĭng), n. One of a tribe of Algonquian Indians formerly living about Lake Nipissing.

Nip'muc, Nip'muck, Nip'muk (nĭp'mŭk), n. One of a tribe of Algonquian Indians formerly living in Southern New England.

nip'per (nĭp'ẽr), n. [From NIP to pinch.] 1. One who or that which nips; esp., a machine or worker that nips; also, a miser; a nipping remark.
2. Usually in pl. Any of various devices for nipping; as: a Small pincers for holding, breaking, or cutting. Cf. SIDE NIPPER. b Long, slender-nosed pliers or pincers used for seizing the end of a key in a lock to turn it. c A device for squeezing tar from rope yarn. d Colloq. Handcuffs or leg irons. e A kind of grab for seizing large stones and other heavy objects for hauling, hoisting, etc. f Slang. Eyeglasses; pince-nez.

Nippers, 2 a. 1 Ordinary Form; 2 Nippers with Compound Lever.

3. a In horses, an incisor, esp. one of the middle four. b One of the large claws or pincers of a crab or lobster.
4. a The cunner (Tautogolabrus adspersus). b A European crab (Polybius henslowii).
5. A young boy; lad; urchin; specif., a boy who assists a navvy, costermonger, or the like. Slang, Eng.
6. A thief. Obs. Cant.
7. Mining. A workman who distributes sharp, and collects dull, drill steel in the mine.
8. Print. A gripper (which see).
9. Railroads. In track laying, a man who holds up the ties to the rails while the latter are being spiked down.
10. Sea Fishing. A kind of thick band or mitten to protect the hand from the lines.

nip'per (nĭp'ẽr), v. t. To rack; to put nippers on. Naut.

nip'per, n. A nip, or small drink.

Nip'per, Susan (nĭp'ẽr). In Dickens's Dombey and Son, a faithful attendant having a sharp and biting manner.

nip'per·kin (nĭp'ẽr·kĭn), n. [Cf. D. nippertje, and 3d NIP.] A quantity of liquor equaling, or less than, a half pint. Archaic. See 3d NIP.

nip'per·ty–tip'per·ty (-tĭ'·tĭp'ẽr·tĭ), adj. Silly; trifling. Scot.

nip'ping (nĭp'ĭng), adj. That nips. — nip'ping·ly, adv.

nip'ping (nĭp'ĭng), verbal n. of NIP. Specif.: a The squeezing of cotton to remove mordant previous to dyeing. b Railroads. Holding ties up to the rails in track laying.

nip'pi·tate (nĭp'ĭ·tāt), adj. Strong and good; — of ale, etc. nip'pi·tate, n. Also nip'pi·ta'to (-tā'tō), nip'pi·ta'tum (-tŭm), nip'pi·ta'ty (nĭp'ĭ·tā'tĭ). Particularly good and strong ale or other liquor. Obs.

nip'ple (nĭp'l), n. [Earlier neble, nible, perh. dim. fr. NEB, NIB.] 1. The protuberance of a breast, or mamma, upon which, in the female, the ducts open; the mammilla; a teat; a pap.
2. A papilla that marks the outlet of a secretory gland.
3. a An artificial device resembling a teat and used for sucking. b A similarly constructed device with an orifice through which the discharge of a fluid can be regulated, as in a stopcock.
4. Any protuberance resembling or suggesting the nipple of a breast; esp., a projection on metal or glass.
5. Mach. A pipe or rod coupling consisting of a short piece of tubing, with an external screw thread at each end.
6. Mil. On a percussion lock, a hollow conical projection on which the cap is placed, and through which fire from the exploding cap is conveyed to the charge.

nip'ple (nĭp'l), v. t.; NIP'PLED (-'ld); NIP'PLING (-lĭng). To provide with a nipple or nipples.

nipple cactus. Any cactus of the genus Neomamillaria.

Nip'pon·ese' (nĭp'ō·nēz'; -nēs'; 66), n. sing. & pl. [From Nippon, the Japanese name for Japan.] A Japanese also, the Japanese. — adj. Japanese.

Nip'pon·ism (nĭp'ŏn·ĭz'm), n. A characteristic or peculiarity of the Nipponese or of Japanese.

nip·po'ni·um (nĭ·pō'nĭ·ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Nippon + -ium.] Chem. A supposed element obtained from thorianite, molybdenite, etc.

Nip'pon·ize (nĭp'ŏn·īz), v. t. To make Nipponese, or Japanese.

nip'py (nĭp'ĭ), adj.; -PI·ER (-ĭ·ẽr); -PI·EST. Disposed or tending to nip; nipping; biting; grasping; hence, active; brisk; vigorous; as, nippy air or liquor; a nippy person.

nip'ter (nĭp'tẽr), n. [MGr. niptēr, in Gr., wash basin.] Eastern Ch. = MAUNDY, 1.

nirles (nĭrlz), n. Also nirls. An eruption resembling measles or chicken pox. Scot. & Ir.

nir·ma'na·ka'ya (nẽr·mä'nä·kä'yä), n. [Skr. nirmāna unselfish + kāya nature.] 1. Buddhism. See TRIKAYA.
2. Theos. The state of an adept or yogi who, to help mankind, after death chooses semipreservation of his personality rather than nirvana; also, an adept in this state.

nir·va'na (nĭr·vä'nä; popularly nûr·vä'nä, -văn'ä; 277), n. [Skr. nirvāṇa.] 1. Hinduism. Extinction of the flame of life; final emancipation; reunion with Brahma.
2. Specif., Buddhism. (Also Pali, nibbana.) The dying out in the heart of the threefold fire of raga*, dosa, and moha, or passion, hatred, and delusion. This emancipation involves a beatific spiritual condition, and freedom from the necessity of future transmigration. See BUDDHISM.
3. Oblivion to care, pain, or external reality induced by joy, intoxication, or the like; as, lost in a nirvana of ecstasy; hence, that which induces such a state.
— nir·va'nic (-nĭk; -ĭk), adj.

Ni·sae'an (nĭ·sē'ăn), adj. [Gr. Nisaios, fr. Nisaion, Nēsaion, name of the district.] Of or pertaining to a great plain in ancient Media famous for the Nisaean horse, a breed of large fine horses used by Persian kings about 500 B.C.

Ni'san (nī'săn; Heb. nē·sän'), n. [Heb. Nīsān.] The first month of the Jewish ecclesiastical calendar, corresponding to March–April. See JEWISH CALENDAR, ABIB.

nisf ked'dah (nĭs'ĭ kĕd'ä), sing. & pl. [Ar. niṣf + gadaḥ vase.] See MEASURE, Table.

Ni·sha'da (nĭ·shä'dä), n. [Skr. niṣāda.] 1. In ancient Sanskrit literature, one of the native races of India, subjects of Nala.
2. The offspring of a Brahman and a Sudra.

ni'shi·ki (nyĭ'shĭ·kĭ), n. [Jap.] Japanese brocade.

‖ni'si (nī'sī), conj. [L.] Unless; if not; — used in Law after the word of rule, decree, order, or the like, to denote that it shall take effect at a given time, unless before that time it is modified or avoided by cause shown or further proceedings or by the fulfillment of some condition therein named. See DECREE NISI.

ni'si pri'us (prī'ŭs). [L.] Law. 1. Lit., unless before; — used of causes involving issues of fact, which, formerly, being begun in the courts of Westminster, were appointed to be there tried, in an Easter or Michaelmas term, by a jury from the county wherein the cause of action arose, unless before (nisi prius) the day appointed the judges of assize came into the county in question and there tried the cause. This they now always do, but the term is retained to designate issues of fact triable at the assizes. Eng.
2. Hence: a A writ commanding the sheriff to provide a jury at the Court of Westminster on a day certain unless the judges of assize previously come to the county from which the jury is to be returned; also, the clause in this writ introduced by the words "nisi prius," or the authority or commission conferred by this clause on the judges of assize. Eng. b An action tried or to be tried under such a writ. Eng. c In England, the trial of civil causes by the judges of assize; hence, the trial of issues of fact in civil causes or court business of that nature, as the trial of causes before the judges of the King's (Queen's) Bench Division in London. d Loosely, in the United States and British dominions, any court of record which tries an issue of fact before a jury and a single judge; also, the proceedings in such a court.
—ni'si–pri'us, adj.

nis'nas (nĭs'nȧs), n. [Ar. nisnās.] A guenon monkey (Cercopithecus griseoviridis) of northeastern Africa or a related species.

ni'spe·ro (nē'spā·rō), n. [Sp. níspero.] a Sp. Am. The sapodilla and one or two related trees. b Spain. The loquat.

Nis'qual·li (nĭz'kwä·lē), n. An Indian of a Salishan tribe dwelling about the southern end of Puget Sound.

Nis'roch (nĭs'rŏk; nĭz'-), n. Bib. An Assyrian deity at whose shrine Sennacherib while worshiping was slain by his sons. 2 Kings xix. 37; Is. xxxvii. 38.

nis'se (nĭs'ĕ), n.; pl. NISSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). [Dan. & Sw. nisse.] In Scandinavian folklore, a friendly goblin or brownie that frequents the farm buildings; a kobold.

Nis'sl (nĭs'l), or Nis'sl's (-'lz), gran'ules, bod'ies, or cor'pus·cles. [After Franz Nissl (b. 1860), Ger. alienist.] Anat. Discrete bodies of variable size, found in the cytoplasm of nerve cells, and staining deeply with methylene blue. The material of which they consist is called Nissl substance.

nis'su·ee trout (nĭsh'ŏŏ·ē). [Of Copehan origin.] A large voracious variety of the rainbow trout (Salmo irideus stonei) of the upper Sacramento basin.

ni'sus (nī'sŭs), n.; pl. NISUS. [L., fr. niti, past part. nisus, to strive.] 1. A striving; an effort; conative state or character.
A nisus or energizing towards a presented object. Hickok
2. Physiol. The periodic procreative desire manifested in the spring by birds, etc. b Contraction of diaphragm and abdominal muscles to evacuate feces or urine.
3. Philos. The tendency or principle in reality which is exhibited in the emergence of higher levels of existence and the movement toward the quality of Deity.

Ni'sus and Eu·ry'a·lus (nī'sŭs, ū·rī'ā·lŭs). A pair of friends in Vergil's Aeneid.

nit (nĭt), n. [AS. hnitu; akin to D. neet, G. niss, OHG. niz, Gr. konis, konidos, OIr. sned.] The egg of a louse or other parasitic insect; also, the insect itself when young; —applied also, contemptuously or jocosely, to persons. See LOUSE.

nit, n. A nut; esp., a hazelnut. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

nitch (nĭch), n. A notch; a nick. Obs. exc. Dial.

nitch, v. t. [See KNITCH.] To join together; connect. Rare.

nitch. Var. of KNITCH.

nitch. Var. of NICHE, n.

nitch'e·vo' (nĭch'ĕ·vō'), interj. = NICHEVÓ.

nite (nīt), v. t. [ON. nīta.] To deny; abjure; refuse. Obs.

Ni·tel'la (nī·tĕl'ä), n. [NL., fr. L. nitella splendor.] Bot. A large genus of plants (family Characeae), delicate branching aquatics with whorled leaves. See CHARACEAE.

ni'ten·cy (nī'tĕn·sĭ; -t'n·sĭ), n. [L. nitens, pres. part. of nitere to shine.] Brightness; luster. Rare.

ni'ter, ni'tre (nī'tĕr), n. [F. nitre, fr. L. nitrum native soda, natron, fr. Gr. nitron, fr. Heb. nether, prob. fr. Egypt. ntrj. Cf. NATRON, NITROGEN.] 1. Natron. Obs.

Though thou wash thee with nitre. Jer. ii. 22.

2. Chem. a Potassium nitrate (saltpeter). b Sodium nitrate (Chile saltpeter); —called also cubic, or soda, niter. 3. A supposed nitrous substance or element, occurring esp. diffused through the air. Obs.

4. = NITRATE, n., 1.

ni'ter, ni'tre, v. t.; NI'TERED, NI'TRED (-tĕrd); NI'TER·ING, NI'TRING (nī'trĭng). To treat with nitric acid.

ni'ter-blue', v. t. Mach. To make (steel) blue by immersing in a molten niter mixture.

niter cake. See SODIUM BISULPHATE.

ni'tered, ni'tred (nī'tĕrd), adj. Fertilized with nitrate.

nit grass. An annual grass (Gastridium ventricosum) of the Mediterranean region, having small shining spikelets.

Nit·ham' (nĭt·hăm'), n. [See ALNITHAM.] Astron. a The asterism ϕ (Phi) 1, 2, 3, 4, in the constellation Cetus. b The star Alnitham (Alnilam). See STAR, Table.

nith'er (nĭth'ĕr), v. t. [AS. nitherian.] To humiliate; debase; oppress; to blast, as a plant. Obs. exc. Scot.

nith'er, n. & v. [Cf. Icel. gnōtra to shiver.] Shiver; tremble. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

nith'er (nĭth'ĕr). Var. of NEITHER, NETHER. Now Dial.

ni'thing (nī'thĭng), n. [AS. nīthing, fr. ON. nīthingr.] A coward; niggard; dastard. Archaic.

Nith'oth·r. King (nĭth'ŏth·r). See VÖLUND.

Niths'dale (nĭths'dāl), n. [After the Countess of Nithsdale.] A kind of large riding hood worn in 18th century.

nit'id (nĭt'ĭd), adj. [L. nitidus.] Bright; lustrous. R.

ni·tī'dous (nĭ·tī'dŭs), adj. Shining or glossy; nitid.

Ni·tī'du·li·dae (-dū'lĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. dim. of L. nitidus bright.] Zool. A family of small beetles with 5-jointed tarsi and antennae ending in a 3-jointed clublike expansion. —ni·tid'u·lid (nĭ·tĭd'ū·lĭd), n. & adj.

ni'to (nē'tō), n.; pl. NITOS (-tōz). [Tag. & Visayan.] Any of several climbing ferns, genus Lygodium. Their stems are used in the Philippine Islands for making hats, baskets, etc. L. scandens and L. circinnatum, both commonly called agsam, are important species.

ni'tra·mine' (nī'trä·mēn'; nĭ·trăm'ĭn), n. Also ni·tram'in. [nitr- + amine.] Chem. Any of a class of compounds formed indirectly from amines by action of nitric acid, and characterized by the group >N.NO_2.

ni'tra·mi'no- (nī'trä·mē'nō-; nĭ·trăm'ĭ·nō-). Chem. A combining form for nitramine. —ni'tra·mi'no (-nō), adj.

ni'tra·nil'ic (nī'trä·nĭl'ĭk), adj. [nitro- + chloranil.] Designating a golden-yellow crystalline acid, $C_6(NO_2)_3(OH)_3O_3$, produced by action of sodium nitrite on chloranil.

ni'trate (nī'trāt), n. [Cf. F. nitrate.] 1. Chem. A salt or ester of nitric acid. The nitrates of the metals are, as a class, soluble crystalline salts.

2. Potassium nitrate or sodium nitrate, as a fertilizer.

ni'trate, v. t.; -TRAT·ED (-trāt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119); -TRAT·ING (-trāt·ĭng). To treat or combine with nitric acid or a nitrate; specif., Org. Chem., to convert into a nitro compound or a nitrate.

nitrate of iron. Dyeing. A dark-red liquid, chiefly ferric sulphate, made usually by oxidizing a solution of ferrous sulphate with nitric acid. It is a mordant.

nitrate of lime. A synthetic fertilizer supplying nitrogen and lime in a highly available form.

nitrate of silver. = SILVER NITRATE.

nitrate of soda, nitrate of sodium. Sodium nitrate.

ni'tra·tine (nī'trä·tĭn), n. Native sodium nitrate; caliche (sense a). See SODIUM NITRATE.

ni·tra'tion (nī·trā'shŭn), n. Act or process of nitrating.

ni·tra'to- (nī·trā'tō-; nī'trä·tō-). [See NITRATE.] Chem. A combining form for nitrate, denoting presence of the nitrate group, NO_3, esp. in the ammino compounds.

ni'tra·tor (nī'trā·tĕr), n. One who or that which nitrates; specif.: a An acidproof vessel with cooling equipment, used for the nitration of organic substances. b One who makes guncotton or nitroglycerin.

Nit'ri·an (nĭt'rĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Nitria (Nitriae), a desert region west of Cairo, Egypt, which was in early times the seat of a famous settlement of anchorites.

ni'tri·ar'y (nī'trĭ·ĕr'ĭ; -ēr·ĭ), n.; pl. -IES (-Iz). [F. nitrière. See NITER.] An artificial bed of refuse animal matter, etc., for the manufacture of niter by nitrification.

ni'tric (nī'trĭk), adj. [F. nitrique. See NITER.] Chem. Of, pertaining to, or containing, nitrogen; specif., designating compounds in which, as contrasted with nitrous compounds, the element has a higher valence; as, nitric oxide.

nitric acid. A mono acid, HNO_3. It is made chiefly by the action of sulphuric acid on nitrates (esp. sodium nitrate) by the passage of air through an electric arc, or by the catalytic oxidation of ammonia; aqua fortis. The most concentrated acid is a colorless, fuming, corrosive liquid, which has a sp. gr. of 1.502 and boils at 86° C. (187° F.) with partial decomposition, forming some gaseous nitrogen peroxide. The fuming nitric acid of commerce contains this gas in solution, is red or brown in color, and is more active than the colorless acid. Nitric acid is very active, dissociating readily in water and having also strong oxidizing properties. It attacks most metals and certain other elements, and yellows and corrodes various organic matters, as the skin, hair, and dyestuffs. Nitric acid is used in the manufacture of explosives, dyes, celluloid, etc.

nitric anhydride. Chem. = NITROGEN PENTOXIDE.

nitric bacteria. Any bacteria which oxidize nitrites to nitrates, as Nitrobacter.

nitric oxide. A colorless poisonous gas, NO, obtained by oxidation of nitrogen or ammonia in making nitric acid, or by reduction of nitric or nitrous acid.

ni'trid·a'tion (nī'trĭd·ā'shŭn), n. Chem. Conversion into a nitride.

ni'tride (nī'trīd; -trĭd; 157), n. Also ni'trid. [From NITROGEN.] Chem. A binary compound of nitrogen with a more positive element, as boron, silicon, and many metals.

ni'tride (nī'trīd), v. t. a Chem. To convert into a nitride. b Metal. To treat by the process of nitriding.

ni'trid·ing (nī'trĭd·ĭng), n. A process of casehardening steel by causing the surface to absorb nitrogen. It is usually done by heating the steel in ammonia gas at 500 to 550°C.

ni'trid·ize (-īz), v. t. Chem. To combine with nitrogen; also, to change (a compound) by increasing the proportion of the electronegative part, or to deprive (an atom or ion) of electrons, by means of nitrogen. Cf. OXIDIZE. —ni'trid·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'-), n.

ni'tri·fac'tion (nī'trĭ·făk'shŭn), n. [nitro- + -faction.] Chem. Formation of niter.

ni·trif'er·ous (nī·trĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [niter + -ferous.] Containing, or yielding, niter.

ni'tri·fi'a·ble (nī'trĭ·fī'ä·b'l), adj. Capable of nitrification.

ni'tri·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n. [F. See NITRIFY.] Chem. & Bacteriol. Act or process of nitrifying; specif., the oxidation, esp. by bacteria, of ammonium salts to nitrites and the further oxidation of nitrites to nitrates. Such oxidation can be produced in the laboratory directly, but it also occurs wherever the proper conditions of temperature, air, moisture, and alkalinity allow the nitrobacteria to act, as in all productive soils, in the heaps of waste organic matter formerly used in manufacturing saltpeter, etc. See NITROBACTERIA.

ni'tri·fy (nī'trĭ·fī), v. t.; -FIED (-fīd); -FY'ING (-fī'ĭng). [F. nitrifier. See NITER; -FY.] Chem. a To combine or impregnate with nitrogen or a nitrogen compound. b To convert, by oxidation, into nitrous or nitric acid or their salts; to subject to, or produce by, nitrification. —ni'tri·fi'er (-fī'ĕr), n.

ni'trile (nī'trĭl; -trēl; -trīl; in compounds often -nī·trĭl', -nĭ·trēl'), n. Also -tril. [See NITRO-.] Chem. An organic cyanide, characterized by the univalent group CN; —called also acid nitrile as distinguished from nitrile base (which see). On hydrolysis the nitriles yield acids (CN being replaced by CO_2H) with elimination of nitrogen as ammonia. Thus, acetonitrile, acetic nitrile, or methyl cyanide, CH_3CN, gives acetic acid; propionitrile, propionic nitrile, or ethyl cyanide, C_2H_5CN, gives propionic acid.

nitrile base. Chem. A tertiary amine. See AMINE.

ni'tri·lo- (nī'trĭ·lō-). Chem. A combining form for nitrile, denoting presence of trivalent nitrogen, N≡.

ni'tri·ot (nī'trĭ·ŏt), adj. Nitrian.

ni'trite (nī'trīt), n. [Cf. F. nitrite. See NITER.] Chem. A salt or ester of nitrous acid.

ni·tri'to- (nī·trī'tō-). Chem. A combining form for nitrite, denoting presence of the nitrite group, NO_2, esp. in the ammino compounds.

ni'tro- (nī'trō-), nitr-. [L. nitrum native soda, natron, Gr. nitron. See NITER.] A combining form, Greek nitro-, nitr-, meaning niter, denoting: 1. Niter, as in nitrobacteria, nitrogen.

2. Chem. a Certain compounds of nitrogen or of its acids, as *nitro*hydrochloric. b The group or radical NO_2, or its compounds, as in *nitro*benzene (benzene in which the nitro group replaces a hydrogen atom).

☞ Organic compounds containing the group -O.NO_2 are really nitrates and are more correctly so called; as, cellulose nitrate (rather than *nitro*cellulose). Cf. NITROGLYCERIN. —ni'tro (-trō), adj.

ni'tro (nī'trō), n. Short for NITRO POWDER.

ni'tro·a·mine' (nī'trō·ä·mēn'; -ăm'ĭn), n. Also -am'in. Chem. Any nitro derivative of an amine; specif., a nitramine.

ni'tro·an'i·line (-ăn'ĭ·lĭn; -līn; -lēn), n. Also -lin. Chem. Any nitro derivative of aniline; specif., one of the three mono derivatives, $H_2NC_6H_4NO_2$ (orthonitroanilines, metanitroanilines, and paranitroanilines), made by nitration of aniline and in other ways. They are compounds used in dye manufacture.

Ni'tro·bac'ter (nī'trō·băk'tĕr), n. [NL.] Bacteriol. a A genus of rod-shaped nonmotile bacteria (family Nitrobacteriaceae) occurring in soil, which secure energy for growth by oxidizing nitrites to nitrates, and grow poorly on organic media. N. winogradskyi is common in the soil. b [not cap.] Any bacterium of this genus.

ni'tro·bac·te'ri·a (-băk·tē'rĭ·ä), n. pl. [NL.] Bacteriol. The soil bacteria concerned in nitrification. They are of two classes: the nitric and the nitrous bacteria. By some the term nitrobacteria is restricted to the former class, the latter, which oxidize ammonia to nitrites, being called nitrosobacteria. See NITRIC BACTERIA.

Ni'tro·bac·te'ri·a'ce·ae (-băk·tē'rĭ·ā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bacteriol. A family of Eubacteriales comprising rod-shaped (and some spherical) bacteria capable of subsisting on carbon, hydrogen, sulphur, or nitrogen either in elemental form or in simple compounds.

Ni'tro·bac'te·ri'e·ae (-băk'tē·rī'ē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bacteriol. A tribe of Nitrobacteriaceae including Nitrobacter.

ni'tro·bar'ite (-bär'īt; -bā'rīt), n. Min. Native barium nitrate.

ni'tro·ben'zene (-bĕn'zēn; -bĕn·zēn'), n. [nitro- + benzene.] Chem. Any nitro derivative of benzene; specif., the mono compound, $C_6H_5NO_2$, produced by action of nitric acid on benzene, and called oil, or essence, of mirbane, and artificial oil of bitter almonds (because of its bitter-almond odor). It is made in the preparation of aniline, and is used in dye manufacture, in explosives, as a perfume, etc.

ni'tro·cal'cite (-kăl'sīt), n. [nitro- + calcite.] Mineral. Native calcium nitrate, $Ca(NO_3)_2$+aq., occurring as an efflorescence on old walls, in limestone caves, etc.

ni'tro·cel'lu·lose, ni'tro—cel'lu·lose (-sĕl'ū·lōs), n. Nitrated cellulose; cellulose nitrate (which see). —ni'tro·cel'lu·lose, adj. —ni'tro·cel'lu·lo'sic (-lō'sĭk), adj.

ni'tro·cot'ton, ni'tro—cot'ton (nī'trō·kŏt''n), n. [nitro- + cotton.] Cellulose nitrate made from cotton; specif., guncotton.

ni'tro·form (nī'trō·fôrm), n. [nitro- + formyl.] Chem. A white, crystalline, explosive compound, $CH(NO_2)_3$, analogous to chloroform; trinitromethane.

ni'tro·gel'a·tin, or -tine (-jĕl'ä·tĭn), n. Blasting gelatin.

ni'tro·gen (nī'trō·jĕn), n. [F. nitrogène. See NITRO-; -GEN.] Chem. A colorless gaseous element, tasteless and odorless, constituting about four-fifths (78.03 per cent) of the atmosphere by volume; —called azote by French chemists, because incapable of supporting life. Symbol, N; at. no., 7; at. wt., 14.008. It was discovered by Daniel Rutherford in 1772. Free nitrogen is very inactive. Except for the action of nitrogen-fixing bacteria, it combines with other elements only at high temperatures or under high pressures (see NITROGEN FIXATION), or when converted by an electric discharge into active nitrogen. Once combined, however, it may take part in many transformations. It is chiefly trivalent and quinquevalent and forms many important compounds, as ammonia, nitric acid, the nitrates (occurring native as saltpeter), nitrides, cyanides, etc., and a host of organic substances, as the proteins, alkaloids, and azo compounds. It is a constituent of all living tissues. Pure nitrogen in large quantity is obtained by distillation of liquid air. Nitrogen is a little lighter than air, one liter weighing 1.2506 g. It can be reduced to a colorless liquid boiling at −195.8° C., and to a colorless crystalline solid melting at −209.8° C. It is used in certain types of mercurial thermometers and electric lamps.

ni'tro·gen·ate (nī'trō·jĕn·āt), v. t. To combine with nitrogen; to nitrogenize. —ni'tro·gen·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), n.

nitrogen chloride. Chem. A pungent, yellowish, volatile, violently explosive oil, NCl_3, made esp. by passing chlorine into a warm solution of ammonium chloride.

nitrogen dioxide. a Nitric oxide (formerly regarded as NO_2, but now as NO). b See NITROGEN PEROXIDE.

nitrogen family. Chem. The related elements, nitrogen, phosphorus, arsenic, antimony, and bismuth, forming a subdivision of group V of the periodic table.

nitrogen fixation. a The conversion of free nitrogen into combined form so as to render it useful for fertilizers, explosives, etc. The industrial fixation processes for nitrogen are: (1) the arc process, in which electric sparking causes direct union of the nitrogen and oxygen of the air, the final products being nitric acid, nitrates, and nitrites; (2) cyanamide process, in which calcium cyanamide is formed by union of calcium carbide and nitrogen at red heat; (3) nitride process, which depends on the formation of a metallic nitride, e.g. by heating alumina, coal, and nitrogen in an electric furnace (Serpek process); (4) cyanide process, which depends on the formation of a cyanide, e.g. by heating sodium carbonate, carbon, and iron in a stream of nitrogen; (5) synthetic ammonia process, as the Haber process, Claude process, etc., according to which nitrogen and hydrogen, under high pressure and at elevated temperature, combine in the presence of a catalyst to form ammonia. The last process is the most important. b The assimilation of free atmospheric nitrogen by certain soil organisms, called nitrogen fixers, as Clostridium butyricum (syn. pastorianum), acting independently, and Rhizobium (syn. Bacillus) radicicola, living symbiotically within nodules or tubercles formed on the roots of various leguminous plants. These plants absorb nitrogen from the bacteria. Upon the death of the bacteria and plants, nitrification takes place, binding the nitrogen to certain elements in the soil, forming compounds available as plant food.

ni'tro·gen-fix'ing, adj. Having the power of nitrogen fixation, as certain bacteria; loosely, contributing to the process of nitrogen fixation, as certain leguminous plants.

nitrogen iodide. Chem. A brown or black violently explosive powder, $N_3H_3I_3$, obtained by the action of ammonia on iodine and by other methods.

ni'tro'gen·ize (nī'trō·jĕn·īz), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To combine, or impregnate, with nitrogen or its compounds. — ni'tro·gen·i·za'tion (nī'trō·jĕn·ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ī·zā'-), n.

nitrogen monoxide. Nitrous oxide.

ni·trog'e·nous (nī·trŏj'ĕ·nŭs), adj. Chem. Of, pertaining to, or containing, nitrogen.

nitrogenous equilibrium. Biochem. Equilibrium of the animal body characterized by equality of income and output of nitrogen. Cf. BALANCE, n., 12.

nitrogenous extractive. Usually pl. Any substance, as creatine, creatinine, or xanthine, which contains nitrogen, is soluble in water, and not coagulable by heat, and upon which the flavor of meat depends.

nitrogenous foods. See FOOD, n., 1.

nitrogen oxide. Chem. Any of the oxides of nitrogen, as nitrous oxide, nitric oxide, etc.

nitrogen pentoxide. A white crystalline oxide of nitrogen, N_2O_5; —called also nitric anhydride. It combines with water with evolution of much heat to form nitric acid.

nitrogen peroxide. Chem. A compound of powerful oxidizing properties obtained as a reddish-brown, suffocating, poisonous gas by mixing nitric oxide and oxygen, by heating lead nitrate, etc. At 150° C. (302° F.) it corresponds to the formula NO_2 (nitrogen dioxide). On cooling it becomes lighter in color, condensing to a yellow liquid, N_2O_4 (nitrogen tetroxide), which at 0° C. (32° F.) becomes nearly colorless and at −9.3° C. (15.3° F.) changes to a colorless crystalline solid.

nitrogen trioxide. A compound, N_2O_3 (or N_4O_6), obtained at a low temperature as a deep-blue, unstable liquid which readily decomposes into nitric oxide and nitrogen peroxide.

ni'tro·glyc'er·in, ni'tro·glyc'er·ine (nī'trō·glĭs'ĕr·ĭn), n. [nitro- + glycerin.] Any nitrate of glycerol; specif., the trinitrate, a heavy, oily, explosive liquid, $C_3H_5(NO_3)_3$, colorless when pure, obtained by treating glycerol with a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, and called more properly glyceryl nitrate or trinitrate. It is poisonous and has a sweet burning taste. Nitroglycerin burns quietly in the open air, but is exploded by percussion or by heating in a closed vessel. It produces by detonation about ten thousand times its own volume of gas. Compared with gunpowder it is eight times as powerful, weight for weight, or thirteen times, volume for volume. It is a common explosive, but usually mixed with absorbents. See DYNAMITE. Nitroglycerin was first discovered about 1846 by Ascanio Sobrero but its use as an explosive dates from Alfred Nobel's invention of dynamite. See DYNAMITE.

nitro group. Chem. The univalent radical NO_2.

ni'tro—hy'dro—car'bon (nī'trō·hī'drō·kär'bŏn), n. [nitro- + hydrocarbon.] Chem. Any nitro derivative of a hydrocarbon (as nitrobenzene).

ni'trol·a·mine' (nī'trōl·ä·mēn'; -ăm'ĭn), n. Also -am'in. [G. nitrolamin, fr. nitroso- + hydroxy*lamin.*] Chem. Any of a class of compounds formed by the action of amines or ammonia on nitrosates, nitrosites, or nitrosochlorides, and characterized by the grouping >NC.CNO (or >NC.C:NOH).

ni·trol'ic (nī·trŏl'ĭk), adj. Chem. Pertaining to or designating any of a series of acids of the general formula RC(:NOH)NO_2, formed by action of nitrous acid on nitroparaffins containing the group -CH_2NO_2, corresponding to ni'ten·cy, n. [L. nitens, pres. part. of nitere to shine.] Endeavor; effort; tendency. Obs.

ni'tent, adj. [L. nitens.] Obs. Shining. — ni'tent·ly, adv. [1 d.] ni'ter·bush', n. = LOTUS TREE.

Nith'hogg' (nĭth'hŏg'), Nith'hög'gr (-hŭg'r), n. [ON. Nithhöggr.] See YGGDRASILL.

ni'ton (nī'tŏn), n. [L. nitere to shine + -on as in argon, neon; — so called because it glows in the dark.] See RADON; Symbol Nt.

ni'tor, n. [L.] Brightness. Obs.

nitr-. = NITRO-.

ni·tran'i·line (nī·trăn'ĭ·lĭn; -līn; -lēn; 157). Also -lin. Chem. Var. of NITROANILINE.

ni'tre (nī'tĕr), ni'tred, etc. Vars. of NITER, etc.

nitride process. See NITROGEN FIXATION a (3).

ni'trine, adj. Nitrous. Obs. [2.]

ni'tro·a·lin'a·rin, n. See NITRO-.

ni'tro·ben'sol (-bĕn'zōl; -zŏl), ni'tro·ben'sole (-zōl), n. = NITROBENZENE.

ni'tro·chlo'ro·form, n. [nitro- + chloroform.] = CHLOROPICRIN.

ni'tro·gen·free', adj. See -FREE.

ni'tro·gen'ic (nī'trō·jĕn'ĭk), adj. = NITROGENOUS. [Rej. Sp.] ni'tro·glic'er·in. Nitroglycerin.

ni'tro·hy'dro·chlo'ric ac'id. [nitro- + hydrochloric.] Chem. = AQUA REGIA the primary alcohols. The intense blood-red color of solutions of their alkali salts makes the formation of these acids a convenient test for the primary alcohols. Cf. PSEUDONITROLE.

N

ni'tro·mag'ne·site (nī'trō·măg'nē·sīt), n. [nitro- + magnesite.] Mineral. Native magnesium nitrate, $Mg(NO_3)_2$ + aq., occurring as an efflorescence in limestone caverns.

ni·trom'e·ter (nī·trŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [nitro- + -meter.] Chem. An apparatus for determining the amount of nitrogen or of some of its compounds in any substance subjected to analysis. — ni'tro·met'ric (nī'trō·mĕt'rĭk), adj.

Common form of Nitrometer.

ni'tro·mu'ri·ate (nī'trō·mū'rĭ·āt), n. [nitro- + muriate.] A substance obtained by dissolving a metal in nitrohydrochloric acid (aqua regia); as, nitromuriate of tin (a solution of stannic chloride used by dyers as a mordant).

ni'tro·naph'tha·lene (-năf'thȧ·lēn), n. Chem. Any nitro derivative of naphthalene.

ni'tro·par'af·fin (-păr'ȧ·fĭn), n. Chem. A nitro derivative of any member of the paraffin series.

ni'tro·phe'nol (-fē'nōl; -nŏl), n. Chem. Any nitro derivative of phenol.

ni·troph'i·lous (nī·trŏf'ĭ·lŭs), adj. [nitro- + -philous.] Bot. Thriving in nitrogenous soils.

ni'tro·phyte (nī'trō·fīt), n. [nitro- + -phyte.] A plant requiring a rich, nitrogenous soil. — ni'tro·phyt'ic (-fĭt'ĭk), adj.

nitro powder. Any explosive powder made from nitrated organic materials. See GUNCOTTON, SMOKELESS POWDER.

ni'tro·prus'si·ate (nī'trō·prŭs'ĭ·āt), n. A nitroprusside.

ni'tro·prus'sic (nī'trō·prŭs'ĭk), adj. [nitro- + prussic.] Chem. Pertaining to or designating a red, crystalline, unstable acid, $H_2Fe(NO)(CN)_5$, obtained in the form of its salts, the ni'tro·prus'sides (-ĭdz), by action of nitric acid on ferrocyanides, by action of sodium nitrate and acetic acid on ferricyanides, etc.

ni'tros·a·mine' (nī'trōs·ȧ·mēn'; -ăm'ĭn), n. Also -am'in. Chem. Any of a class of neutral compounds formed from secondary amines by action of nitrous acid, and characterized by the grouping >N.NO.

ni'tro·sate (nī'trō·sāt), n. [G. nitrosat, contr. fr. nitrosonitrat.] Chem. Any of a class of compounds obtained by the action of nitrogen peroxide on unsaturated hydrocarbons, and characterized by the grouping $O_2NOC.CNO$ (or $O_2NOC.C:NOH$).

ni·tros'i·fy (nī·trŏs'ĭ·fī), v. t. Chem. To convert, by oxidation, into nitrous acid or nitrites. Cf. NITRIFY. — ni·tros'i·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

ni'tro·site (nī'trō·sīt), n. [G. nitrosit, fr. nitrosonitrit.] Chem. Any of a class of compounds obtained by action of nitrous acid or nitrogen trioxide on unsaturated hydrocarbons and characterized by the grouping ONOC.CNO (or ONOC.C:NOH).

ni·tro'so- (nī·trō'sō-). [See NITROUS.] Chem. A combining form of Latin nitrosus, nitrous, denoting the univalent group or radical NO (called the nitroso group, or nitrosyl) or its compounds, as in ni·tro'so·ben'zene, C_6H_5NO (benzene in which a hydrogen atom has been replaced by the nitroso group). Certain compounds isomeric with nitroso compounds, and containing the grouping C:NOH instead of CH.NO, are called isonitroso compounds. — ni·tro'so (-sō), adj.

ni·tro'so·chlo'ride (-klō'rīd; -rĭd; 157; 181), n. Also -rid. Chem. Any of a class of compounds formed by action of nitrosyl chloride (NOCl), or of alkyl nitrites and hydrochloric acid, on unsaturated hydrocarbons, and characterized by the grouping ClC.CNO (or ClC.C:NOH).

Ni·tro'so·coc'cus (-kŏk'ŭs), n. [NL., fr. nitroso- + -coccus.] Bacteriol. A genus of large spherical bacteria of the family Nitrobacteriaceae, oxidizing ammonia compounds to nitrites in the soil and on suitable media. It includes N. (syn. Micrococcus) nitrosus.

Ni·tro'so·mo'nas (-mō'năs), n. [NL., fr. nitroso- + -monas.] Bacteriol. A genus of rod-shaped, motile bacteria (family Nitrobacteriaceae) found in soil, which obtain energy for growth by oxidizing ammonia to nitrites, and grow poorly on organic matter. It includes N. (syn. Pseudomonas) europaea.

ni'tro·starch' (nī'trō·stärch'), n. [nitro- + starch.] An explosive obtained as a white powder by treating starch with nitric and sulphuric acids.

nitro substitution compound or product. Chem. A compound formed by the substitution of the nitro group, NO_2, esp. for hydrogen.

ni'tro·sul'phate (nī'trō·sŭl'fāt), n. A supposed salt of nitric and sulphuric acids; as, nitrosulphate (called also nitrosulphide) of iron, a liquor made by treating ferrous sulphate (copperas) with nitric acid and used in dyeing.

ni·tro'syl (nī·trō'sĭl; nī'trō·sēl'; nī'trō·sĭl), n. [nitroso- + -yl.] Chem. See NITROSO-.

nitrosyl chloride. Chem. An orange-yellow gas, NOCl, formed esp. by reaction of nitric oxide and chlorine.

ni'tro·syl·sul·phu'ric ac'id (-sŭl·fū'rĭk). A colorless or white crystalline acid, $(HSO_3)ONO$ or $(HSO_3)NO_2$, formed by reaction of sulphuric acid with oxides of nitrogen (not N_2O), by reaction of sulphur dioxide with nitric oxide or nitrogen peroxide, etc. It is formed by the latter reaction in sulphuric acid factories, sometimes separating in crystalline form (chamber crystals). It is decomposed by water, regenerating sulphuric acid. Called also nitrososulphuric, nitrosulphonic, and nitrosulphuric, acid.

ni'tro·tol'u·ene (nī'trō·tŏl'ū·ēn), n. Also ni'tro·tol'u·ol (-ōl; -ŏl). Chem. Any nitro derivative of toluene, esp. any of the three isomeric mono derivatives, $C_6H_4(NO_2)CH_3$.

ni'trous (nī'trŭs), adj. [L. nitrosus full of natron. See NITER.] 1. Of, pertaining to, containing, or impregnated with, niter; of the nature of, or like, niter; as, nitrous powder; Obs., nitrous air (Priestley's name for nitric oxide). 2. Pert. to or designating any compound in which nitrogen is relatively lower in valence than in nitric compounds.

nitrous acid. Chem. An acid, HNO_2, forming a series of well-characterized salts, the nitrites, but itself known only in solution, since it readily decomposes.

nitrous anhydride. Chem. = NITROGEN TRIOXIDE.

nitrous bacteria. See NITROBACTERIA.

nitrous ether. Chem. Ethyl nitrite.

nitrous oxide. Chem. A colorless gas, N_2O, obtained esp. by heating ammonium nitrate. When inhaled it produces in-co-ordination of movement and loss of sensibility to pain, preceded by exhilaration and laughter, and hence is called also laughing gas. It is much used as an anesthetic agent in dentistry.

nitrous vitriol. Sulphuric Acid Mfg. Strong sulphuric acid in which nitrous gases have been absorbed in the Gay-Lussac tower. See GLOVER TOWER.

ni·trox'yl (nī·trŏk'sĭl; nī'trŏks·ēl'), n. [nitr- + oxygen + -yl.] Chem. a = NITRYL. b A nitro metal.

ni'tryl (nī'trĭl), n. [nitr- + -yl.] The univalent radical NO_2; the nitro group.

nit'ta tree (nĭt'ȧ). [Appar. fr. Mandingo netto.] Either of the two trees Parkia africana and P. biglandulosa of the Old World tropics.

nit'ter (nĭt'ĕr), n. [From NIT.] An insect, as a botfly, that deposits nits on horses.

nit'ty (nĭt'ĭ), adj. 1. Full of, or infested with, nits. 2. Full of bubbles. Obs.

nit'wit' (nĭt'wĭt'), n. An empty-headed or stupid person. Slang.

Nitzsch'i·a (nĭch'ĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., after C. L. Nitzsch (1782–1837), Ger. naturalist.] Bot. A genus of mostly solitary and free-floating diatoms, typifying a family, Nitzsch'i·a'ce·ae (-ā'sē·ē). N. acicularis is a common and rapidly moving pond form.

Ni·u'an (nē·ōō'ăn), n. A native of Niue or Savage Island.

Ni·u'e (nē·ōō'ā), n. The language of the Niuans. See AUSTRONESIAN LANGUAGES, Table.

ni'val (nī'vȧl), adj. [L. nivalis, fr. nix, nivis, snow.] Characterized by, abounding with, or living in, snow.

ni·va'tion (nĭ·vā'shŭn), n. [L. nix, nivis, snow. See SNOW.] Effect of névé in mountain valleys; — contr. with glaciation.

‖ni'veau' (nē'vō'), n. [F. See LEVEL.] Level. niv'el·late (nĭv'ĕ·lāt), v. t. [F. niveler to level, fr. OF. nivel, livel, n., level. See LEVEL.] To level. — niv'el·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. — niv'el·la'tor (nĭv'ĕ·lā'tĕr), n.

niv'el·li·za'tion (-lĭ·zā'shŭn; -lĭ·zā'-), n. Philol. Leveling.

niv'en·ite (nĭv'ĕn·īt), n. [After William Niven, of New York.] Mineral. A velvet-black variety of uraninite.

niv'e·ous (nĭv'ē·ŭs), adj. [L. niveus, fr. nix, nivis, snow.] Snowy; resembling snow; pure shining white.

‖ni'ver'naise' (nē'vĕr'nâzĕ'), n. [F.] Carrots glazed in consommé, used as a garnish.

Ni'ver'nois' hat (nē'vĕr'nwȧ'). [F. Nivernois, Nivernais, fr. Nevers, France.] A small low-crowned tricorn hat, worn esp. by macaronis in the late 18th century.

ni·vic'o·lous (nĭ·vĭk'ō·lŭs), adj. [L. nix, nivis, snow + -colous.] Living in or amid the snow. Rare.

ni·vos'i·ty (nĭ·vŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. nivosus snowy.] Snowiness.

nix (nĭks), n.; fem. NIXE (nĭk'sĕ); pl. NIXES (nĭk'sĕz; -sĭz; 119); G. pl. NIXE (nĭk'sĕ) or NIXEN (-sĕn). [G. See 2d NICKER.] Teut. Myth. A water sprite, in the form sometimes of a woman, sometimes of a man, or part man, part fish.

nix (nĭks), n. [G. nichts nothing.] 1. Nothing; no one; a nobody; also, no; I don't agree, allow, permit, etc. Slang. 2. U. S. Mail Service. A piece of mail matter which cannot be delivered, because improperly addressed. Cant.

nix'ie (nĭk'sĭ), n. A female water sprite. See 1st NIX.

nix'ie, nix'y (-sĭ), n. = 2d NIX, 2.

ni·yo'ga (nē·yō'gȧ), n. [Skr., order, necessity, fate.] Hindu Law. An appointed task. Specif., the appointment of a brother or any near kinsman to raise up issue to a deceased childless husband by marrying his widow. Cf. LEVIRATE.

Ni·zam' (nĭ·zăm'; -zăm'), n. [Hind. & Per. niẓām ruler, fr. Ar. niẓām order, arrangement.] 1. The title of the native sovereigns of Hyderabad, Deccan, in India since 1713. 2. [not cap.] [Turk. (fr. Ar.) niẓām.] pl. NIZAM. A regular soldier of the Turkish army.

ni·zam'ate (-āt), n. The territory of the Nizam.

ni·za'mut, -mat (nĭ·zä'mŭt), n. [Hind. (fr. Ar.) niẓāmat.] Office or sovereignty of the Nizam.

niz'y (nĭz'ĭ), n.; pl. NIZIES (-Iz). Also niz'ey; pl. NIZEYS (-Iz). [Cf. NICE.] A fool; a noodle. Archaic & Dial.

Njals' Sa'ga (nyälsʹ sä'gȧ), or Njal'sa'ga (nyäl'sä'gȧ), n. The saga of Njal, or the burning of Njal; — the title of a masterpiece of early Norse literature (11th or 12th century).

nja've (nyä'vĕ), n. [Mpongwe, the fruit.] A tropical African tree (Mimusops njave) the seeds of which yield njave oil or butter. See OIL, Table I.

Njorth (nyôrth), n. Also Njord (nyôrd). [ON. Njörthr.] One of the Vanir, Scandinavian gods of fertility.

no (nō; 71), adv. [ME. no, na, fr. AS. nā, fr. ne not + ā ever. AS. ne is akin to OHG. ni, Goth. ni, ON. ne, nē, OIr. ní, nā, L. ne- (in comp.), nē, Gr. nē (in comp.), Skr. na, nā, OSlav. ne, and E. prefix UN- not. Cf. NAY, NECESSARY, NEFARIOUS, NEGATION, NEUTER, NICE, NONE, NOT; see AYE ever.] 1. Not; — formerly used generally, but now only Scot. or in expressions of alternative or opposing courses of action, judgments, opinions, or the like. Also formerly used with auxiliaries in negative interrogation.

A man may fight and no be slain. Burns.

2. Not any; not at all; not in any respect or degree; — used with comparative adjectives; as, he is no worse than he was yesterday.

3. Not so; — used to express negation, dissent, denial, or refusal in answer to a question, etc., or to introduce a statement correcting or contradicting that of another person or of oneself; the opposite of yes (cf. NAY, adv., 1); as, are you going? No, I am not going. It is often doubled for emphasis; as, No, no, I will not. Before another negative, no is emphatic or introduces a more emphatic, explicit, or comprehensive statement (cf. NAY, adv., 2).

There is none righteous, no, not one. Rom. iii. 10.

— no less. Not less; no fewer, smaller, or the like; as, no less than treason. — no more. a Not anything more or further; as, he wanted no more; also, no longer (in time); as, he heard no more the roar of the storm. b No longer existent; dead; gone; as, Cassius is no more. c To or in no greater degree; just as little; — with than; as, he can no more do it than he can fly. — no more nor less. See under MORE, adv. — no sooner. = NO MORE c, above.

no (nō), n.; pl. NOES (nōz). 1. Act of uttering no; a refusal by use of the word no; a denial.

2. A negative vote or decision; pl., those who vote in the negative; nays; as, the noes have it.

— without no. Beyond denial; surely. Obs.

no (nō), adj. [ME. no, non, na, nan, the same word as E. none; cf. E. a, an. See NONE.] Not any; not a; — used in a variety of connections and constructions; as: a Now Dial. or Illit. With other negatives or redundantly.

Ther nas [was not] no man no wher so vertuous. Chaucer.

b Without other negatives.

Let there be no strife . . . between me and thee. Gen. xiii. 8.

c With another adjective, qualifying both it and the noun, the two adjectives taken together usually implying a meaning more commonly expressed by the opposite positive statement; as, he made no short speech; I have no great regard for him. "No small tempest lay on us." Acts xxvii. 20. d With a noun in the predicate; as, it is no (i. e., AD extremely short) distance there.

That goodness is no name, and happiness no dream. Byron.

e With a verbal noun or gerund in the predicate, indicating the impossibility of the specified action; as, there is no denying his tale; there is no delaying his going.

☞ No is used in combination with nouns or adjectives with various forces; as: a Now Rare. Denoting that a thing or person is not properly entitled to the name.

Under this no-government the Schoolhouse began to see bad times. T. Hughes.

b Denoting complete absence of what is named; as, a vote of no confidence, or, attrib., a no-confidence vote.

To extract any such meaning or rather no-meaning, . . . is to play tricks with words. J. Martineau.

c Denoting objection or opposition; — in attrib. phrases; as, a no-compromise position. d Obs. With adjectives, equivalent to non-, un-, or in-.

☞ In Middle English before a vowel non or noon was used. "No man." "Noon apotecarie." Chaucer.

no (nō), conj. [ME. no, na, nor, not, fr. AS. nā. See NO, adv.] Nor. Obs.

no, v. t. & i.; NOED (nōd); NO'ING (nō'ĭng). To say or answer no.

no (nō), n. sing. & pl. Also no'-ga'ku (nō'ngȧ'kōō). [Jap. nō.] Japanese Drama. A kind of drama, originating in an ancient religious dance accompanied with rude choric songs (see SARU-GAKU, SAN-GAKU). The singing, as detached from dance and accompaniment, is called utai or yo-kyoku. Cf. KYOGEN.

No (nō), n. Bib.

no'a (nō'ȧ), adj. [Polynesian (Hawaiian, etc.).] Common or profane; — opposed to taboo.

noa (nō). Dial. var. of NO.

no'–ac·count', adj. Worthless; good-for-nothing. Dial., U.S.

No·a'chi·an (nō·ā'kĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to the patriarch Noah or his time; figuratively, ancient or antique.

No·ach'ic (nō·ăk'ĭk; -ā'kĭk), adj. Also No·ach'i·cal (nō·ăk'ĭ·kȧl; nō·ā'kĭ-). Noachian.

No'a·chite (nō'ȧ·kīt), n. Freemasonry. One who has taken the 21st degree of the Scottish rite, called by its possessors not a degree, but the "Very Ancient Order of Noachites," i. e., descendants of Noah. Called also Prussian Knight, the order having been established in Prussia in 1755. Some extend the term Noachites to all Freemasons.

No'ah (nō'ȧ), n. [Heb. Nōaḥ.] 1. Literally, rest; comfort; — masculine proper name.

2. Bib. A patriarch who at God's command built an ark to save his family and a number of individuals of all living creatures in the time of the Deluge, or Flood. Gen. v. 28–x.

No·ah'ic (nō·ā'ĭk), No·a'ic, adj. Noachian.

No'ah's ark (nō'ȧz). a Bib. The ark in which Noah and his family were saved at the time of the Deluge (Gen. vi. 14–22). b A set of toys representing Noah's ark (Gen. vi. 14–20) and the animals in it. c The lady's-slipper (Cypripedium); also, the monkshood Aconitum napellus. d A series of straight, parallel, narrow bands of cloud that by perspective appear to spring from common points on opposite sides of the horizon and to arch and spread apart as they approach the zenith. e An ark shell, esp. Arca noae. f [caps.] Astron. = ARGO, n., 2.

Noah's Dove. Astron. = COLUMBA, 2 b.

Noah's Raven. Astron. The constellation Corvus.

Noah's Wine Cup. Astron. The constellation Crater.

No'a·tun (nō'ȧ·tōon), n. [ON. Nōatūn.] See ASGARD nob (nŏb), n. [Cf. KNOB.] Slang. 1. The head.

2. A blow on the head.

3. Cribbage. A knave, or jack, of the same suit as the card turned up, held in a hand. It counts one to the holder. Usually in the phrase one for his nob (or nobs).

nob, v. t. & i. [See NOB head.] To deliver blows on the head (of). Boxing Slang.

nob, v. t. To collect (money) or collect money from (a person). Slang, Eng.

nob, v. To take. Cf. HOB, have; HOBNOB.

nob (nŏb), n. [Cf. NOB head.] One in a superior position in life; a swell. Slang.

nob, n. Short for KNOBSTICK, 2.

nob (nŏb). Dial. var. of KNOB.

no'–ball', n. Cricket. A ball unfairly bowled. A no-ball counts one run to the batting side and cannot take a wicket.

nob'ber (nŏb'ĕr), n. [From 2d NOB.] 1. A blow on the head; also, a boxer expert in delivering blows on the head.

2. = HEADER, 2.

nob'ber, n. One who nobs, or collects money. Slang, Eng.

nob'ble (nŏb'l), v. t.; NOB'BLED (-ld); NOB'BLING (-blĭng). [Possibly fr. NAB to seize.] a Racing Cant., Eng. To incapacitate (a horse), as by drugging. b Slang, Brit. (1) To win over to one's side or interest, as by bribery. (2) To obtain dishonestly; to steal. (3) To overreach; circumvent; cheat; swindle; "do." (4) To catch; seize; "nab."

nob'ble, v. t. [From NOB to strike.] To strike on the head; to stun; knobble. Dial. & Slang, Eng.

nob'bler (-lĕr), n. [From 1st NOBBLE.] Slang, Brit. a One who "nobbles" horses. b A swindler, as a thimble-rigger's confederate.

nob'bler (nŏb'lĕr), n. A dram of spirits. Australia.

nob'bler, n. [See NOBBLE to strike.] 1. A blow on the head; a knockout blow. Slang.

2. Angling. A stick for killing a fish. Cant.

3. Eng. a In foundries, a fettler. b A shingler who hammers one ball at a time.

nob'but (nŏb'ŭt), adv. Also nob'ut. Only; just; also, unless; except. Now Dial.

nob'by (-Ĭ), adj.; -BI·ER (-Ĭ·ĕr); -BI·EST. [From NOB a swell.] Of, pertaining to, or befitting, "nobs"; very stylish or smart. Slang.

---

ni'tro·lime', n. [nitro- + lime.] See CALCIUM CYANAMIDE.

ni'tro·mu'ri·at'ic ac'id (nī'trō·mū'rĭ·ăt'ĭk). = AQUA REGIA.

ni'trose (nī'trōs; nĭ·trōs'), adj. Nitrous. Obs. — ni·tros'i·ty, n. Obs.

ni·tro'so·bac·te'ri·a (nī·trō'sō·băk·tē'rĭ·ȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Bacteriol. See NITROBACTERIA.

ni·tro'so·sul·phu'ric ac'id (-sŭl·fū'rĭk). = NITROSYLSULPHURIC ACID.

ni'tro·sul·phon'ic ac'id (nī'trō·sŭl·fŏn'ĭk). Chem. = NITROSYLSULPHURIC ACID.

ni'tro·sul·phu're·ous, adj. Also ni'tro·sul'phu·rous. Of the nature of niter and sulphur. Obs.

ni'tro·sul·phu'ric ac'id. Chem. = NITROSYLSULPHURIC ACID.

ni'tryl (nī'trĭl), adj. Nitrous. Obs.

nitte. + NIT, NITE.

nit'ti·fy (nĭt'ĭ·fī), v. t. To make nitty. Obs.

ni'u (nē'ōō), n. sing. & pl. [Siamese.] See MEASURE, Table.

niv'er (nĭv'ĕr). Dial. var. of NEVER.

Ni'vōse' (nē'vōz'), n. [F., fr. L. nivosus snowy, fr. nix, nivis, snow.] See REVOLUTIONARY CALENDAR.

niv'y-nick'-nack', Var. of NIEVIE-NIEVIE-NICK-NACK.

Ni·war', Var. of NEWAR.

ni·yan'da (nĭ·yăn'dȧ). Var. of NEYANDA.

niz. Var. of NESS, nose.

nja'toh du·jan' (nyä'tō dōō·yăn'). [Malay ñatoh tree producing gutta-percha + D. diejan' dijan, fr. Malay diyan candle.] = GUTTA DUJAN (see GUTTA, Table). Borneo.

N'jord, n. = NJORTH. [= NJORTH.]

Njör'thr (nyûr'thr'), n. [ON.] No·ad'a·ĭ'a (nō·ăd'ȧ·ī'ȧ). D. Bib.

No'a·di'ah (nō'ȧ·dī'ȧ). Bib.

No'a·di'as (-dī'ȧs). D. Bib.

Noakes, John o' or John of the (nōks). See ROE, RICHARD.

No'-a'mon, or No Amon (nō'ā'mŏn). Bib.

noance. Dial. var. of NONCE.

noap. Var. of NOPE, bullfinch.

Nob, No'bah (nō'bȧ). Bib.

nob'bi·ly (nŏb'ĭ·lĭ), adv. of NOBBY. Slang.

nob'ble (-l). Var. of KNOBBLE.

nob'bly. Var. of KNOBBLY.

---

nob'by (nŏb'ĭ), n. 1. Angling. A nobbler. 2. The smallest kind of Manx fishing boat.

no'-be'ing, n. The negation of being; nonexistence.

No-bel' pow'der (nō-bĕl'). Any of various nitroglycerin powders, as dynamite (Nobel's safety powder), named after their inventor, Alfred Nobel; specif., Ballistite.

No-bel' prizes (nō-bĕl'). Prizes for the encouragement of men and women who work for the interests of humanity, established by the will of Alfred Nobel (1833–96), Swedish inventor of dynamite, who left his entire estate for this purpose. They are awarded yearly for what is regarded as the most important work during the year in physics, chemistry, medicine or physiology, idealistic literature, and service in the interest of peace. The prizes, averaging $40,000 (or about £8,000) each, were first awarded in 1901.

No'bert's lines (nō'bĕrts). [After F. A. Nobert, Ger. manufacturer.] Fine lines ruled on glass in a group of different closeness of line, and used to test the power of a microscope.

‖no'bi-le of-fi'ci-um (nō'bĭ-lē ō-fĭsh'ĭ-ŭm). [L., noble office.] Scots Law. The equitable discretion of the Court of Sessions to afford relief in certain cases where none is possible at law.

no-bil'i-ar'y (nō-bĭl'ĭ-ĕr'ĭ; -yā-rĭ; 159), adj. [F. nobiliaire. See NOBLE.] Of or pertaining to the nobility.

nobiliary particle. A preposition, as F. de or G. von, in a title of nobility.

No'bi-li's rings (nō'bē-lēz). [After Leopoldo Nobili, an It. physicist who first described them in 1826.] Physics. Colored rings formed upon a metal plate by the electrolytic deposition of copper, lead peroxide, etc.

no-bil'i-tate (nō-bĭl'ĭ-tāt), v. t. [L. nobilitatus, past part. of nobilitare.] Archaic. To ennoble.—no-bil'i-ta'tion, n.

no-bil'i-ty (nō-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. nobilité, fr. L. nobilitas. See NOBLE.] 1. Quality or state of being noble; specif.: a Now Rare. Quality of possessing characteristics or properties of a very high kind or order; superiority in excellence, value, or the like; as, the nobility of gold. b Superiority of mind or of character; commanding moral worth or excellence; eminence. c Quality, state, or status, of being of noble or of high birth, or exalted rank or station, whether inherited or acquired; pre-eminence or distinction by rank, station, or title, inherited or conferred.

Nobility, then, in the strict sense of the word, is the hereditary handing on from generation to generation of some acknowledged pre-eminence, a pre-eminence founded on hereditary succession, and on nothing else. (E. A. Freeman) Encyc. Brit.

2. Collectively: a Usually with the, those who are noble; the body of nobles or titled persons in a state (by 1919 abolished in many countries); the aristocratic and patrician class; in Great Britain, the peerage (greater, or higher, nobility). See PRECEDENCE. For the lesser nobility, see TITLE, 10 b; cf. GENTRY, 2; YEOMANRY, 2. b With the word a, a body of nobles; a noble class.

3. A manifestation of noble spirit.

no'ble (nō'b'l), adj.; NO'BLER (-blĕr); NO'BLEST (-blĕst; -blĭst; 119). [OF., fr. L. nobilis that can be or is known, well known, famous, highborn, noble; akin to L. noscere to know. See KNOW.] 1. Of persons, possessing eminence, dignity, or the like; illustrious; of deeds or acts, famous.

King Arthur and his noble knights. Sir T. Malory.

2. Possessing the power of transmitting by inheritance some acknowledged pre-eminence founded on hereditary succession; of high birth or exalted rank or station, whether inherited or conferred; of, pertaining to, belonging to, or constituting, the nobility (see NOBILITY, 1 c & 2); highborn; aristocratic; as, noble blood, birth, family.

3. a Possessing very high or excellent qualities or properties; as, noble hawks or falcons; noble fir. b Broadly, very good or excellent; as, a noble estate.

4. Grand, esp. in appearance; stately; magnificent; splendid; impressive; imposing; as, a noble edifice.

5. Possessing, characterized by, arising from, or indicating, superiority or commanding excellence of mind or character, or high ideals or morals; magnanimous; lofty.

Statues, with winding ivy crowned, belong To nobler poets for a nobler song. Dryden.

6. Chem. Resisting chemical action; inert; inactive, esp. toward oxygen; relatively stable; as, a noble metal; a noble gas; a noble patina.

Syn. — Honorable, aristocratic, dignified, elevated, sublime, eminent, renowned; generous, liberal.

Ant. — Plebeian, vulgar, lowly, base, sordid, mean.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

noble-born	noblehearted	noble-natured
noble-couraged	nobleheartedly	noble-spirited noble-featured	nobleheartedness	noble-tempered noble-fronted	noble-looking	noble-visaged no'ble (nō'b'l), n. 1. A person of noble rank or birth; one belonging to the nobility; a nobleman; peer.

2. A person of noble or superior nature; a worthy. Obs.

3. a An English coin, now obsolete, inaugurated by Edward III with a gold content of $5.86, but shortly afterwards reduced to 120 grains ($5.16); it passed current for 6s. 8d. until 1461. For rose noble, see ROYAL. The George noble of Henry VIII had a value of about $3.05 and was also current for 6s. 8d. Gold nobles were also issued for Scotland. b A Scottish silver coin, the half mark, issued by James VI at 6s. 8d.

no'ble (nō'b'l), v. t.; NO'BLED (-b'ld); NO'BLING (-blĭng). To make noble; to ennoble. Obs.

noble art or science (of defense or of self-defense). Boxing; also, Obs., fencing.

noble fir. A valuable, evergreen, timber tree (Abies nobilis), attaining a height of 250 feet in the Cascade Mountains, with sprucelike wood.

noble gas. Chem. See INERT GAS.

noble liverwort. The hepatica (Hepatica triloba).

no'ble-man (nō'b'l-mănˈ), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). 1. One of the nobility; a noble; a peer. See NOBLE, adj., 2.

2. pl. Chess. The pieces, as distinguished from the pawns.

no'ble-man-ly, adj. Of, pert. to, or befitting, a nobleman.

noble metal. Any metal or alloy of comparatively high value, or relatively superior in certain properties, esp. resistance to corrosion or infusibility, as gold, silver, or platinum; — opposed to base metal.

no'ble-mind'ed (66), adj. Having a noble mind; honorable. — no'ble-mind'ed-ly, adv. — -mind'ed-ness, n.

no'ble-ness, n. 1. Quality or state of being noble; specif.: a Nobility; dignity; elevation of mind, character, or station. "His purposes are full of honesty, nobleness, and integrity." Jer. Taylor. b Obs. Splendor; grandeur.

2. A noble; collectively, nobility. Obs.

noble opal. See OPAL.

noble pine. The pipsissewa.

noble rot. Plant Pathol. A fungous rot of grapes caused by Botrytis cinerea.

noble serpentine. See SERPENTINE, n., 3.

no-blesse' (nō-blĕs'), n. [OF. noblece, fr. F. noblesse. See NOBLE.] 1. Noble birth or condition; nobility. Now Rare.

2. The nobility, esp. of France; persons of noble rank.

‖no'blesse' o'blige' (nō'blĕs' ō'blēzh'). [F.] Nobility obligates; — used to denote the obligation of honorable and generous behavior associated with high rank or birth.

no'ble-wom'an (nō'b'l-wo͝om'ăn), n.; pl. -WOMEN (-wĭm'ĕn; -ĭn; 119). A woman of noble rank; a peeress.

no-bley' (nō-blā'), n. [OF., nobleie, noblei, nobility, magnificence.] Obs. 1. Nobility; grandeur; splendor; prowess.

2. Noble persons; also, property of great value.

no'bly (nō'blĭ), adv. of NOBLE. Specif.: a With greatness of soul; gallantly; as, a deed nobly done. b Splendidly; magnificently. c Of noble extraction; as, nobly born.

no'bod-y (nō'bŏd-ĭ; -bŭd-ĭ), pron. No person; not anybody.

no'bod-y, n.; pl. -BODIES (-ĭz). A person of no influence, importance, social standing, etc.

no'bod-y-ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. Anonymity. Rare.

nobs (nŏbz), n. 1. See 1st NOB, 3.

2. Dear; darling. Obs.

no'cake (nō'kāk), n. [OF Algonquian origin; cf. Narraganset nokehick, Massachuset nookhac, lit., it is soft. Cf. ROKEAGE.] Indian corn parched and pounded into a powder.

No-car'di-a (nō-kär'dĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., after Edmond I. E. Nocard (1850–1903), French veterinarian and biologist.] Bacteriol. a Syn. of ACTINOMYCES. b [not cap.; pl. -DIAE (-ē).] Any of the filamentous, funguslike organisms of the genus Actinomyces, formerly classed in Nocardia.

no'cent (nō'sĕnt; -s'nt), adj. [L. nocens, pres. part. of nocere to hurt. See NOXIOUS.] Now Rare. 1. Doing hurt or harm, or having a tendency to harm; hurtful; harmful.

2. Guilty; criminal; — the opposite of innocent.

— no'cent-ly, adv. Obs.

no'cent, n. A criminal; one who is guilty. Obs.

no'cer-ite (nō'sĕr-ĭt; nō-chā'rĭt), n. [From Nocera, Italy.] Mineral. A calcium magnesium oxyfluoride.

no'ci-as-so'ci-a'tion (nō'sĭ-ȧ-sō'sĭ-ā'shŭn; -shĭ-ā'shŭn), n. [L. nocere to hurt + E. association.] Med. Nervous energy discharge as manifested in shock, exhaustion consequent upon surgical operation, trauma, etc.

no'ci-cep'tive (-sĕp'tĭv), adj. [L. nocere to hurt + -ceptive as in receptive.] a Physiol. Activated by, or pertaining to, painful stimuli. b Psychol. Pertaining to or designating nociceptors.

no'ci-cep'tor (nō'sĭ-sĕp'tĕr; nō'sĭ-sĕp'tĕr), n. [L. nocere to hurt + receptor.] Physiol. & Psychol. A receptor for injurious or painful stimuli; a pain sense organ.

no'ci-per-cep'tion (-pĕr-sĕp'shŭn), n. [L. nocere to hurt + perception.] Med. Perception of injurious stimuli. — no'ci-per-cep'tive (-tĭv), adj.

nock (nŏk), n. [ME. nocke, prob. fr. Sw. nock, nocka; akin to MD. nocke (D. nok).] 1. Archery. a Either of two tips of horn fastened on the ends of a bow and having notches for holding the string; also, the notches cut in these or in the bow itself. b A horn tip in the butt end of an arrow having a notch for the bowstring; anciently, a thick bulbous wooden end containing the notch; the butt end of any arrow; also, the notch itself.

He took his arrow by the nock. Chapman.

c Obs. The notch in a crossbow for holding the string when the bow is bent. Cf. 1st NUT, 3. d Act of slipping the loop of a string into a nock.

2. The cleft in the posteriors; the fundament. Obs.

3. [LG. nock, or D. nok.] Naut. a Obs. Scot. The end of a yardarm. b The upper fore corner of a boom sail or staysail when cut with a square tack.

nock, v. t.; NOCKED (nŏkt); NOCK'ING. To make a notch in; specif.: Archery. a In bracing a bow, to slip (the eye of a bowstring) into a bow nock. b To fit (an arrow) on the string. c To furnish (an arrow or bow) with a nock or nocks.

nock, n. [Of Scand. origin; cf. Icel. hnokki, Dan. nokke. See NOCK notch.] A small metal hook on a spindle. Scot.

nock. Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of KNOCK.

nock-tat' (nŏk-tăt'), n. [Turk. noqṭa, fr. Ar. nuqṭah point, spot.] A measure of length equal to $\frac{1}{2128}$ arshin. Turkey.

no confidence. Politics. A formal vote of parties in a legislature expressing refusal to support a cabinet's policy. See VOTE OF NO CONFIDENCE. — no'-con'fi-dence, adj.

no'-count', adj. Of no account; worthless. Local, U. S.

noc-tam'bu-lant (nŏk-tăm'bū-lănt), adj. [See NOCTAMBULATION.] Noctambulous; walking by night.

noc-tam'bu-la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. [L. nox, noctis, night + ambulare to walk; cf. F. noctambulation.] Also noc-tam'bu-lism (-tăm'bū-lĭz'm). Somnambulism. — noc-tam'bu-list (-lĭst), n. — noc-tam'bu-lis'tic (-lĭs'tĭk), adj.

noc-tam'bule (nŏk-tăm'būl), n. [F.] A sleepwalker.

noc-tam'bu-lous (nŏk-tăm'bū-lŭs), adj. Of, pertaining to, or given to, walking by night.

Noc'tes Am-bro'si-a'nae (nŏk'tēz ăm-brō'zhĭ-ā'nē; -zĭ-ā'nē). [NL.] Ambrosian Nights; — title of a series of papers in Blackwood's Magazine (1822–35).

nocti-. [See NIGHT.] A combining form, Latin nocti-, from nox, noctis, meaning night, as in noc-tif'er-ous, noc'-ti-flo'rous, noc-tip'o-tent.

noc-tid'i-al (nŏk-tĭd'ĭ-ȧl), adj. [nocti- + L. dies day.] Comprising a night and a day. Rare.

noc'ti-di-ur'nal (nŏk'tĭ-dĭ-ûr'nȧl; -n'l), adj. [See NOCTI-; DIURNAL.] Comprising a sequence of day and night.

Noc-til'i-o (nŏk-tĭl'ĭ-ō), n. [NL., fr. L. nox, noctis, night + L. vespertilio bat.] Zool. A genus of fish-eating bats, type of a family, Noc-til'i-on'i-dae (-ŏn'ĭ-dē).

noc'ti-lu'ca (nŏk'tĭ-lū'kȧ), n. [L., something that shines by night, fr. nox, noctis, night + lucere to shine, fr. lux light.] 1. = PHOSPHOR, 2. Boyle.

2. [cap.] Biol. A genus of marine flagellates (order Dinoflagellata), unusually large and complex, and bioluminescent. The phosphorescence of the sea is often due to myriads of these organisms. The genus is the type of a family, Noc'ti-lu'ci-dae (-lū'sĭ-dē). — noc'ti-lu'can (-lū'kăn), n.

Noctiluca (N. miliaris) × 40. n Nucleus.

noc'ti-lu'cal (-lū'kȧl), adj. Bioluminescent.

noc'ti-lu'cence (nŏk'tĭ-lū'sĕns; -s'ns), n. Biol. Bioluminescence. — noc'ti-lu'cent (-sĕnt; -s'nt), adj.

noc'ti-lu'cin (-sĭn), n. A substance extracted from marine flagellates of the genus Noctiluca, to which their luminescence is attributed.

noc'ti-lu'cine (-sĭn; -sēn), adj. Of or pertaining to the genus Noctiluca.

noc'ti-lu'cous (-kŭs), adj. Shining at night; phosphorescent.

noc-tiv'a-gant (nŏk-tĭv'ȧ-gănt), adj. [nocti- + L. vagans, pres. part. of vagari to wander about.] Going about in the night; night-wandering.

noc-tiv'a-ga'tion (nŏk-tĭv'ȧ-gā'shŭn), n. A roving or going about in the night, a practice formerly unlawful.

noc-tiv'a-gous (nŏk-tĭv'ȧ-gŭs), adj. [L. noctivagus.] Noctivagant.

noc'to-graph (nŏk'tō-grȧf; 83), n. [L. nox, noctis, night + -graph.] 1. A kind of writing frame for the blind.

2. An instrument or register which records the presence of watchmen on their beats.

noc'to-vi'sion (nŏk'tō-vĭzh'ŭn), n. Physics. A form of television in which the use of infrared rays makes it possible to transmit the image of a subject not visible to the eye on account of darkness, fog, etc.

Noc'tu-ae (nŏk'tū-ē), n. pl. [NL.] Moths of the family Noctuidae.

noc'tu-ar'y (nŏk'tū-ĕr'ĭ; -ĕr-ĭ), n. [L. noctu by night.] A journal of nocturnal incidents. Obs.

Noc-tu'i-dae (nŏk-tū'ĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. L. noctua a night owl.] Zool. A family of moths comprising a great variety of forms, but not easily subdivided. It includes the cutworm moths, army-worm moths, and their allies, containing a majority of the moths which fly into houses at night, attracted by lights. They are mostly dull-colored, stout-bodied, and of medium size. The species are known as owlet moths. Their larvae are in most cases naked; many of them are well-known pests to agriculture. See UNDERWING, COTTON WORM, BOLLWORM, DAGGER MOTH. — noc'tu-id (nŏk'tū-ĭd), adj. & n. — noc'tu-i-form' (-ĭ-fôrm'), adj.

noc'tule (nŏk'tūl), n. [F.] A large Old World brown bat (Nyctalus noctula).

noc-tu'ri-a (nŏk-tū'rĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. nocti- + -uria.] Med. Urination, esp. excessive, at night; nycturia.

noc'turn (nŏk'tûrn), n. [OF. nocturne, fr. ML. nocturna, fr. L. nocturnus, adj. See NOCTURNAL; cf. NOCTURNE.] R.C.Ch. One of the divisions, usually three, into which the nocturnal office, or matins, is divided.

noc-turn' (nŏk-tûrn'), adj. Nocturnal. Obs.

noc-tur'nal (nŏk-tûr'nȧl; -n'l), adj. [LL. nocturnalis, fr. L. nocturnus, fr. nox, noctis, night. See NIGHT; cf. NOCTURN.] 1. Of, pertaining to, done, held, or occurring in, the night; as, nocturnal darkness, cries, trips, etc.; — opposed to diurnal.

2. Moving about at night; as, nocturnal birds and insects.

3. Music. Of the nature of a nocturne.

Syn. — See NIGHTLY. Ant. — Diurnal, daily.

— noc-tur'nal-ly, adv.

noc-tur'nal, n. 1. A night piece; specif., a type of play in which the action takes place to a considerable extent on a darkened stage.

2. A nightwalker, or streetwalker.

3. Astron. A kind of astrolabe for finding the time at night, or the latitude.

nocturnal signs. Astrol. The even zodiacal signs, 2d, 4th, 6th, etc., in which the planets whose mansions they are exert a less powerful influence than in their diurnal mansions. Called also cold, feminine, or unpropitious signs.

noc'turne (nŏk'tûrn; nŏk-tûrn'), n. [F. See NOCTURN.] 1. Music. A night piece, or serenade; esp., a dreamy, pensive instrumental composition.

2. Painting. A night piece; night scene.

noc'u-ous (nŏk'ū-ŭs), adj. [L. nocuus, fr. nocere to hurt.] Hurtful; noxious. — -ous-ly, adv. — -ous-ness, n.

nod (nŏd), v.; NOD'DED; NOD'DING. [ME. nodden, of uncert. origin; cf. OHG. hnōtōn, genuotōn, to shake.] Intransitive: 1. To incline the head with a quick motion; to make a quick downward motion of the head as a sign of assent, salutation, or command, or involuntary because of drowsiness; as, to nod at one.

2. To incline or sway from the vertical, as a wall; to tend.

3. To bend or incline the upper part downward or forward with a quick motion; as, nodding plumes.

4. To be for the moment inattentive, inaccurate, or careless; to make a slip or error.

—, Transitive: 1. To incline or bend downward or forward, as the head; specif., to make a quick downward motion of (the head) as a sign of assent, salutation, or command, or involuntarily because of drowsiness or sleep.

2. To bring, invite, or send by a nod; as, to nod one back.

3. To signify by a nod; as, to nod approbation.

4. To cause to bend. Poetic.

nod (nŏd), n. Act of one who nods, esp. of one who nods the head; hence, a nap or a slip or lapse.

nod, n. [Cf. NODDLE.] The nape of the neck. Dial. Eng.

Nod (nŏd), n. Bib. The land east of Eden where Cain went after he had killed Abel. Gen. iv. 16. See LAND OF NOD.

nod'al (nōd'ȧl; -'l), adj. Of the nature of, or pertaining to, a node or nodes.

no-dal'i-ty (nō-dăl'ĭ-tĭ), n. State of being nodal.

nodal points. Optics. Either of two points so located on the axis of a lens (or optical system) that any incident ray directed through one will produce a parallel emergent ray directed through the other.

no'dat-ed (nō'dāt-ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. [L. nodatus, past part. of nodare to make knotty, fr. nodus knot. See NODE.] Knotted.

nod'der (nŏd'ĕr), n. One who nods.

nod'ding (nŏd'ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of NOD. Hence: adj. That nods; specif., Bot., cernuous.—nod'ding-ly, adv.

nodding cap. A slender, tuberous orchid (Triphora trianthophora) of eastern North America.

nodding catchfly. A perennial, European, sticky herb (Silene nutans).

nodding lily. Meadow lily.

nodding onion. The wild onion Allium cernuum.

nodding pogonia. The nodding cap.

nodding trillium. A nodding variety of trillium. See TRILLIUM.

nodding violet. The plant Ionidium lineare. See IONIDIUM, 1.

---

no'bli-fy, v. t. [noble + -fy.] To ennoble. Obs.

no'blish, v. t. [Cf. ENNOBLISH.] To ennoble. Obs.

no-bob', Var. of NABOB.

nob'-pitch'er, n. A kind of charger. Obs. Slang.

nob'stick', Var. of KNOBSTICK.

nob'ut, Var. of NOBBUT.

no-car'di-o'sis (nō-kär'dĭ-ō'sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Nocardia + -osis.] Actinomycosis.

no'cence, n. Also no'cen-cy. [LL. nocentia.] Guilt. Obs.

noch, + NOTCH, NOUGHT.

noch. Notch. Ref. Sp.

noch'ell. Var. of NOTCHEL.

nocht (nŏkt). Var. of NOUGHT. Now Dial.

no'cive (nō'sĭv), no-ci'vous, adj. [L. nocivus.] Hurtful. Obs.

nockado. + NAKEDA.

nock'an-dro, n. The fundament; the breech. Obs.

nock'et (nŏk'ĕt; -ĭt), n. = 2d NACKET. Chiefly Scot.

nockhoda. + NAKEDA. [Obs.] noct, n. [L. nox, noctis.] Night.

noct-. = NOCTI-. [list. Obs.

noc-tam'bu-lo, n. A noctambu-

Noc-tăn' (nŏk-tăn'), n.; pl. NOCTENES (-tē'nēz). See MATACAN.

noc'ti-lu'mi-nous, adj. See NOCTI-.

noc-tiv'a-ga'tor, n. A nightwalker. Obs.

noc'tur-la'bi-um (nŏk'tĕr-lā'bĭ-ŭm), n. Also noc'turn-labe. [NL. See NOCTURNAL; ASTROLABE.] Astron. A nocturnal. Obs.

no-cu'i-ty (nō-kū'ĭ-tĭ), n. = NOCUOUSNESS.

noc'u-ment, n. [ML. nocumentum, fr. L. nocere to hurt.] Harm. Obs. — noc'u-men'tal, adj. Obs.

No'dab (nō'dăb). Bib.

nodd, nodde. + NOD. [DING.

nod'den. Corruptreading of NODnod'dle (nŏd'l), n. [ME. nodel, nodle, of uncert. origin; cf. E. dial. nod the nape of the neck.] 1. a Obs. The back of the head.

For occasion . . . turneth a bald noddle, after she hath presented her locks in front, and no hold taken. Bacon.

b Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. The back, or nape, of the neck.

2. The head; pate; brain. Chiefly Jocose.

Come, master, I have a project in my noddle. L'Estrange.

nod'dle (nŏd'l), v. t. & i.; NOD'DLED (-ld); NOD'DLING (-lĭng). [Freq. of NOD.] To nod quickly, slightly, or frequently; to bring or mark by this action.

nod'dle, v. t. & i. [Cf. 1st NODDLE.] To strike with the fist; to beat. Obs.

nod'dle, n. A quick or slight nod.

nod'dle-bone (-bōn), n. The occipital bone. Obs.

nod'dy (nŏd'ĭ), n.; pl. -DIES (-ĭz). [Perh. fr. nod to incline the head, either as in assent, or from drowsiness; or cf. HODDYPEAK, HODDYPOLL, NODDYPOLL.] 1. A simpleton; fool; noodle.

2. a Also noddy tern. Any of several stout-bodied terns of the genera Anoüs and Micranous, chiefly of tropical and subtropical seas; esp., A. stolidus, common on the southern Atlantic and Gulf Coasts of the United States; — so called from their tameness and stupidity. They are uniform sooty brown with gray or white on the head. b North Carolina. The ruddy duck. c The fulmar. d The razor-billed auk.

Noddy (Anoüs stolidus). ½

3. [Origin uncert.] Obs. exc. Dial. Eng. a An old card game resembling cribbage. b The knave, or jack.

4. [Cf. NOD, v. or n.] a A small two-wheeled one-horse hackney vehicle, formerly used in Ireland and Scotland. b An inverted pendulum consisting of a short vertical flat spring which supports a rod having a bob at the top; — used for measuring slight horizontal vibrations.

nod'dy (nŏd'ĭ), adj. Inclined to nod; drowsy; sleepy.

nod'dy, adj. [Cf. NODDY a fool.] Foolish. Obs.

node (nōd), n. [L. nodus. See NET; cf. DENOUEMENT, NODULE, NOOSE, NOWED, OUCH.] 1. A knot, complication, or difficulty, as in a drama.

2. A knot, knob, protuberance, or swelling.

3. A point at which subsidiary parts center.

4. Anat. & Zool. A swelling; some part likened to a knot; as, a lymph node (lymphatic gland).

5. Astron. Either of the two points where the orbit of a planet, or comet, intersects the ecliptic, or where the orbit of a satellite intersects the plane of the orbit of its primary. The node passed as the body goes north is called the ascending node (☊), that passed in going south, the descending node (☋). See DRAGON'S HEAD, 2.

6. Bot. The joint of a stem; also, the point of insertion of a leaf or leaves.

7. Dialing. A hole, or point, in the gnomon of a dial, the light or shadow from which marks the hour, the parallels of the sun's declination, the sun's place in the ecliptic, etc.

8. Geom. a A double point, which in regard to intersections counts as more than one point; the coincidence of two nonconsecutive points of a curve regarded as a system of points; a conjugate point; a conical point (on a surface) at which the surface is shaped like a double cone. See CRUNODE, ACNODE, CUSP. b A point of a surface considered as a node of the intersection of the surface with the plane tangent at the point (Cayley).

a Node, 8 a.

9. Mach. The point at which the lines of a funicular machine meet from different angular directions.

10. Med. A protuberance or knotty swelling, as in the neighborhood of a joint affected by rheumatism or gout.

11. Physics. A point, line, or surface of a vibrating body marked by absolute or relative freedom from vibratory motion; — contrasted with antinode, loop, ventral segment. A stretched string, vibrating as a whole, has nodes only at the ends, and gives its fundamental tone; if, however, the middle point be restrained, as by touching with the finger, it becomes a node, and the string vibrates in two segments, producing the octave. If a point at one third of its length be touched, the interference of waves produces another node at the two-thirds point, and the string then vibrates in three segments, giving the fifth above the octave. These segmentary vibrations may occur simultaneously with the simpler vibration (see HARMONIC). Vibrating columns of air, as in organ pipes, have similar nodes, which are places of maximum condensation and rarefaction (see PIPE, 18.). The nodes of a vibrating plate are illustrated by sonorous figures (which see). Node is used not only in acoustics, but also in light, electricity, etc.

Node, 11. The vibrating string ab, when stopped at ¼ its length, forms Nodes n, n′, n″, respectively at ¼, ½, and ¾ ab; l, l′, etc., are the Loops or Ventral Segments.

nod'ed (nōd'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Having, or divided into, nodes.

node longitude. Astron. = LONGITUDE OF NODE.

node of Ran'vier' (räN'vyā'). [After Louis Ranvier (b. 1835), French histologist.] Anat. In a medullated nerve fiber, a constriction in the medullary sheath. See NERVE FIBER.

no'di·ak (nō'dĭ·ăk), n. The three-toed echidna of New Guinea (Zaglossus bruijnii).

nod'i·cal (nŏd'ĭ·kăl; nō'dĭ-), adj. Astron. Of or pertaining to the nodes; measured from node to node; as, the nodical revolution of the moon.

no'di·corn (nō'dĭ·kôrn), adj. [L. nodus knot + cornu horn.] Zool. Having nodose antennae.

no·dif'er·ous (nō·dĭf'ĕr·ŭs), adj. [node + -ferous.] Producing, or having, nodes.

no'di·flo'rous (nō'dĭ·flō'rŭs; 181), adj. [node + -florous.] Bot. Bearing flowers at the nodes.

no'di·form (nō'dĭ·fôrm), adj. [node + -form.] Like a node or knot.

No'don' valve (nō'-dŏn'). [After A. L. C. Nodon, French physicist.] Elec. An electrolytic rectifier employing a neutral solution of ammonium phosphate in water as the electrolyte, with aluminum as one electrode and lead or steel as the other.

Nodosaria. b N. consobrina × 5; c N. radicula × 12.

No'do·sa'ri·a (nō'dŏ·sā'rĭ·ȧ; 79), n. [NL., fr. L. nodosus knotty.] Zool. A genus of Foraminifera having the shell composed of chambers arranged in a straight or gently curved line. — no'do·sar'i·an (-sär'ĭ·ăn), no'do·sar'ine (nō'dŏ·sär'ĭn; -ĭn), adj. & n. — no'do·sar'i·form (nō'dŏ·sär'ĭ·fôrm), adj.

no'dose (nō'dōs; nō·dōs'), adj. [L. nodosus, fr. nodus knot.] Knotty; knobbed; having numerous or conspicuous nodes, or protuberances.

no·dos'i·ty (nō·dŏs'ĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [LL. nodositas.] Quality or state of being nodose; also, a protuberance or swelling; a node.

no'dous (nō'dŭs), adj. [L. nodosus. See NODE.] Knotty.

nod'u·lar (nŏd'ū·lĕr), adj. Pertaining to, characterized by, having, or in the form of, nodules; as, nodular structure.

nod'u·late (-lāt), v. t. = NODULIZE. — v. i. To become nodulated.

nod'u·lat'ed (-lāt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Nodulose.

nod'u·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n. Process of becoming, or state of being, nodular or nodulated; also, a nodule.

nod'ule (nŏd'ūl), n. [L. nodulus, dim. of nodus knot. See NODE.] 1. A rounded mass of irregular shape; a little lump.

2. Anat. A prominence on the inferior surface of the cerebellum forming the anterior end of the vermis.

3. Astron. A granule (sense 2).

4. Bot. a A tubercle, as on the roots of certain leguminous plants. b A thickening of the valve in diatoms.

5. Geol. & Mining. A small roundish lump of some mineral or mineral aggregate; as, a nodule of ironstone.

6. Med. A small knotlike protuberance, as a tumor growth.

7. Old Pharm. A small quantity of medicine in a bag.

nod'uled (nŏd'ūld), adj. Having, or in the form of, nodules.

nodule disease. Veter. A disease of sheep, characterized by nodules formed in the mucous membrane of the intestines by a roundworm (Oesophagostomum columbianum).

nod'ul·ize (nŏd'ū·lĭz), v. t.; -IZED (-lĭzd); -IZ'ING (-lĭz'ĭng). To convert into nodules, as finely divided ores.

nod'u·lose (nŏd'ū·lōs; nŏd'ū·lōs'), adj. Also nod'u·lous (nŏd'ū·lŭs). Having nodules, or small knots or knobs.

nod'u·lus (nŏd'ū·lŭs), n. [L.] A nodule.

no'dus (nō'dŭs), n.; pl. -DI (-dĭ). [L., knot. See NODE.] 1. Knot; node; specif., a complication, or difficulty.

Under all roofs of this distracted City is the nodus of a Drama, not untragical, crowding toward solution. Carlyle.

2. a Obs. Dialing. = NODE, 7. b Obs. Med. = NODE, 10. c Music. An enigmatical canon. d Old Pharm. = NODULE, 7.

no'e·gen'e·sis (nō'ē·jĕn'ē·sĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. noēma understanding + -genesis.] Psychol. The production of knowledge. Noegenesis includes three processes: (1) observation, (2) discovery of relations, and (3) the bringing to mind or the creation of ideas which stand in a given relation to given ideas. — no'e·ge·net'ic (-jē·nĕt'ĭk), adj.

no·el' (nō·ĕl'), n. [F. noël, fr. L. natalis birthday, fr. natalis natal. See NATAL; cf. 2d NOWEL.] 1. A Christmas carol; also, the shout of noel, made as a sign of joy.

2. [cap.] (pron. nō'ĕl; -ĕl). Literally, Christmas; — masc. proper name. F. Noël (nō'ĕl'); It. Natale (nä·tä'lā).

no·e'ma·tach'o·graph (nō·ē'mȧ·tăk'ō·grȧf; 83), n. [Gr. noēma the understanding + tachos swiftness + -graph.] An instrument for measuring complex reaction time. See REACTION TIME.

no·e'ma·ta·chom'e·ter (-tă·kŏm'ē·tĕr), n. [See NOEMATACHOGRAPH, -METER.] An instrument for measuring simple reaction time. See REACTION TIME.

no'e·mat'i·cal (nō'ē·măt'ĭ·kăl), adj. [Gr. noēma the understanding. See NOETIC.] Obs. = NOETIC. — -ly, adv.

‖no·e'sis (nō·ē'sĭs), n. [Gr. noēsis. See NOETIC.] 1. Philos. Purely intellectual apprehension; in Plato, the highest kind of knowledge, or knowledge of the eternal forms or "ideas"; — contrasted with dianoia, (sense 1).

2. Psychol. Cognition, esp. through direct and self-evident knowledge.

no·et'ic (-ĕt'ĭk), adj. [Gr. noētikos, fr. noēsis intelligence, fr. noein to perceive, fr. nous mind.] Of, pertaining to, or characterized by noesis; apprehended only by the intellect; as, noetic truths; given to purely intellectual or abstract reasoning; as, a noetic thinker.

no·et'ic, n. 1. One who or that which is noetic.

2. Also no·et'ics (-ĭks). The logical doctrine of axioms, or of the laws of thought. See -ICS.

No·et'ic (nō·ĕt'ĭk), adj. [L. Noe Noah.] Noachian.

‖nœud (nū), n.; pl. NŒUDS (F. nū). [F.] A bow; a knot.

no'-eye' pea. The pigeon pea. Jamaica.

nog, or nogg (nŏg), n. [Origin uncert. Cf. NOGGIN.] 1. A kind of strong ale, formerly brewed in Norfolk. Dial. Eng.

2. Short for EGGNOG.

3. Loosely, any mixed drink containing an egg beaten with (usually) spirits; as, a brandy nog. U. S.

nog (nŏg), n. [Origin uncert.] A wooden peg, pin, or block, of the size of a brick; as: a A small block built into a wall, as a hold for nails. b One of the square logs of wood used in a pile to support the roof of a mine. c A projecting pin, as on a sliding piece in a machine to engage with a fork or the like; also, a treenail.

nog (nŏg), v. t.; NOGGED (nŏgd); NOG'GING (nŏg'ĭng). To fill in, as between scantling, with brickwork.

nog, n. [Cf. NOGGIN.] A noggin. Scot. & Dial. Eng.

no·ga'da (nō·gä'dȧ; 112), n. [Amer. Sp.; cf. Sp. nogada a sauce containing nuts, fr. L. nux, nucis, nut.] Pecan candy. Southern Texas.

No'gai (nō'gī), n. sing. & pl. A nomad Tatar people of the northeastern Caucasus; also, their language. See URAL-ALTAIC LANGUAGES, Table.

no·gal' (nō·gäl'), n. [Sp., walnut tree.] Any of several walnuts (Juglans) or hickories (Carya), esp. the pecan. U. S.

nog'gen (nŏg'ĕn), adj. [Prop., made of hemp, fr. E. dial. nogs hemp.] Hempen; hence, clumsy; rough. Dial.

nog'gin (nŏg'ĭn), n. [Origin uncert. Cf. NOG noggin, NOG ale.] A small mug or cup; also, a small quantity of drink, usually equivalent to a gill; as, a noggin of milk.

nog'ging (-ĭng), pres. part. & verbal n. of NOG. Specif.: verbal n. Rough brick masonry used to fill in the open spaces of a wooden frame.

nog'head' (nŏg'hĕd'), n. A blockhead; noodle. Dial. — nog'head'ed (-hĕd'ĕd; -ĭd; 66; 119), adj. Dial.

no'-go' gauge. Mach. Not-go gauge. See GAUGE, n., 10.

no'-good', adj. & n. (One) entirely worthless. Colloq.

no'how' (nō'hou'), adv. [no, adj. + how, adv.] Chiefly Dial. In no manner or way; not at all. — adj. In a disordered condition; out of sorts; — often all nohow.

noil (noil), n. [Origin uncert.] A piece or knot of short hair or fiber, as a short piece or knot of wool separated from the longer staple by combing, or a similar piece or shred of waste silk; also, such pieces collectively.

noil'age (noil'ĭj), n. Amount of noil separated in combing.

noil'er (-ĕr), n. A worker who packs noils.

noil'y (-ĭ), adj. Of a quality that produces waste (noil) in combing; — of wool. Also, designating wool that is open and fuzzy, or weak, webby, or frothy.

noint (noint), v. t. To anoint; beat; thrash. Now Dial.

noint'ment (-mĕnt), n. Ointment.

‖no'ī·o (nō'ē·ō), n. [Hawaiian.] A noddy tern. Hawaii.

‖noir (nwär), adj. [F., fr. L. niger. See NEGRO.] Black.

noir (nwär), n. [F., lit., black.] 1. See SOU MARQUE.

2. Roulette. A bet on black, paying even money.

noise (noiz), n. [ME., fr. OF. noise noisy strife, quarrel, brawl, appar. fr. L. nausea, with obscure change in meaning. See NAUSEA.] 1. Loud, confused, or senseless shouting or outcry; clamor; din or uproar of persons.

2. Obs. a General or common talk or discussion; rumor; report; specif., evil report; slander; also, repute; reputation. b Quarrel; strife. c A company of musicians; a band.

3. Sound or a sound of any sort, whether loud or harsh, or low, pleasant, or melodious; also, sounds collectively.

In Paradise perchance such perfect noise Resounds from angel choirs in unison. J. A. Symonds.

4. Sound or a sound without agreeable musical quality.

5. Any sound that is undesired or that interferes with something to which one is listening.

Syn. — See SOUND.

Ant. — Silence, quiet, peace, tranquillity.

— to make, or, Obs., keep, a noise. Figuratively: a To make a clamor or talk much or loudly (about); as, they make a great noise about his action. b To be the common or general topic of conversation; to be talked of generally.

Socrates lived in Athens during the great plague which has made so much noise in all ages. Spectator.

noise, v.; NOISED (noizd); NOIS'ING (noiz'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To report; to rumor; to spread by rumor or report.

All these sayings were noised abroad. Luke i. 65.

2. Obs. a To spread or circulate rumors, esp. ill rumors, about; to defame; slander. b To fill or disturb with noise; also, to put or force by clamor.

—, Intrans.: [Cf. OF. noisier.] 1. To talk much or loudly.

2. To make a noise or outcry.

Noi'se (noi'shē), n. One of the sons of Usnech. See DEIRDRE, USNECH.

noise field intensity. Radio. The electromagnetic field intensity produced by waves of an interfering character, in radio reception.

noise'ful (noiz'fŏol; -fĭ), adj. Full of noise: a Full of, abounding in, or making, sounds, whether loud or low; noisy.

From noiseful arms, and acts of prowess done. Tennyson.

b Obs. Full of evil report. — noise'ful·ly, adv.

noise'less, adj. Making, or causing, no noise or stir; without noise; silent; quiet; as, the noiseless foot of time.

Syn. — NOISELESS, SILENT. That is NOISELESS which (esp.) moves without noise or stir; that is SILENT (the positive term) which makes or is broken by no sound at all; as, "Along the cool sequestered vale of life they kept the noiseless tenor of their way" (T. Gray); "She from west her silent course advance[s]" (Milton).

Ant. — Noisy, turbulent, tumultuous. See BOISTEROUS.

— noise'less·ly, adv. — noise'less·ness, n.

noise'mak'er (noiz'măk'ĕr), n. One who or that which makes noise; specif., any of several devices, as a horn, a clapper, a razzle-dazzle, for making noise at celebrations, etc.

— noise'mak'ing, n. & adj.

noi'sette' (nwä'zĕt'), n. [F., hazel nut.] A small choice piece of lean meat, usually the eye of a chop.

noi'sette', n. The color hazel.

noisette brown. = HAZEL, n., 3.

Noi'sette' rose (nwä'zĕt'). A class or race of hardy garden roses descended from a hybrid between the China rose Rosa chinensis and the moss rose R. centifolia muscosa. It includes many fine varieties, as the Maréchal Niel, etc.

noi'some (noi'sŭm), adj. [For noysome, fr. noy for annoy. See ANNOY; cf. NOY.] 1. Noxious; harmful; unwholesome; destructive. "Noisome pestilence." Ps. xci. 3.

2. Offensive to the smell or other senses; disgusting; offensive. "Foul breath is noisome." Shak.

3. Annoying. Obs.

Syn. — See PERNICIOUS. Ant. — Wholesome, healthy.

— noi'some·ly, adv. — noi'some·ness, n.

nois'y (noiz'ĭ), adj.; NOIS'I·ER (-ĭ·ĕr); NOIS'I·EST. [From NOISE.] 1. Making, or given to making, a noise, esp. a loud sound; clamorous; vociferous; as, the noisy crowd.

2. Full of, or characterized by, noise; as, the noisy town.

‖noix (nwä), n.; pl. NOIX. [F., lit., walnut.] Cookery. The lymphatic gland, with the surrounding fat, in the thigh of an ox, sheep, etc.; a pope's-eye; as, noix de veau (of veal).

No·ko'mis (nō·kō'mĭs), n. In Longfellow's Hiawatha, the grandmother and nurse of Hiawatha.

nok'ta (nŏk'tȧ), n. Math. A mark (◈, ⊙), in a table of logarithms, indicating a change of the figure in a decimal place.

Nol'ī·chuck'y shale (nŏl'ĭ·chŭk'ĭ). [From the Nolichucky River, Tenn.] Geol. A Cambrian formation of the southern Appalachians.

‖no'li me tan'ge·re, or no'li–me–tan'ge·re (nō'lĭ·mē·tăn'jē·rē), n. [L., touch me not.] 1. A warning against touching or interference.

2. A painting representing Christ's appearance to Mary Magdalene after the Resurrection; — so called from the Latin form of his warning to her. John xx. 17.

---

nod'dle-case', n. A wig. Obs. nod'dock, n. A niddick. Obs. nod'dy-poll', n. [Cf. NODDY a fool, HODDYPOLL.] A simpleton. Obs. nod'dy-poop', n. & v. i. Fool. [Obs.] No'dens, No'dons, n. See NUADA. nodgs'combe, n. Also nodge'-cock', nodg'combe', nodge'-comb'. A simpleton. Obs.
no'di, n., pl. of NODUS. nodical month. See 1st MONTH.
nod'il. Noddle. Ref. Sp. [Dial.] nod'le. Var. of NODDLE. Now nodular goiter. See GOITER, n. nodular leprosy. See LEPROSY.
No'dus Se·cun'dus. [L., second knot.] See STAR, Table.
No'e (nō'ē), n. Bib. Noah.
No'e·ba (nō'ē·bȧ). Bib.
No'e·ma (nō'ē·mȧ). D. Bib.
No'e·man (-măn). D. Bib.
No'e·man·ites (-ĭts). D. Bib.
no·e'ma·tach'o·met'ic (nō·ē'mȧ·tăk'ō·mĕt'ĭk), n. = NOEMATACHOGRAPH.
No'e·mi (nō'ē·mī). D. Bib. [Obs.] no·et'i·cal, adj. = NOETIC, adj.
nof. Contr. of ne of, nor of. Obs.
No'gah (nō'gȧ). Bib. [NO.] no'-ga'ku, n. sing. & pl. = 6th nogg. Var. of IST NOG. nog'gur. Var. of NUGGAR. noght (nōkt). Var. of NOUGHT. Obs. exc. Scot.
no go. See no go, under GO, s.
No'hah (nō'hȧ). Bib. noht. Var. of NOUGHT. Now Dial.
No'hunt·sik (nō'kōnt·sĭk). See HEILTSUK. [BETHABARA.]
no'ib·wood' (nō'ĭb·wŏŏd'), n. = noint, 'noint, noint'ed, 'noint'ed, noint'er, etc. Aphetic forms of ANOINT, etc. noi'sance, adj. [OF. Cf. NUISANCE.] Annoyance; vexation; trouble; nuisance. Obs. noisd. Noised. Ref. Sp.
noise'proof', adj. See -PROOF. nois'ĭ·ly, adv. of NOISY. See -LY. nois'ĭ·ness, n. See -NESS. noit. Dial. var. of NOTE, n. & v.
noit, v. & n. Var. of KNOIT. Scot. noi'ther. Dial. var. of NOTHER.
Nokes, John o' or John of the (nōks). Var. of NOAKES, etc. no'kin', adj. Also no'kins'. Of no kind; not any. Obs.
nol. + NILL, v. NOLL.
No·las'can (nō·lăs'kăn), n. R. C. Ch. = MERCEDARIAN, n. nold, nol'de. Contraction of ne wolde, would not. Obs.
‖no'lens vo'lens. [L.] Unwilling (or) willing, whether one will or not; willy-nilly.

---

3. A person or thing not to be touched, or meddled with. 4. Bot. Any plant of the genus Impatiens; specif., the European touch-me-not (I. noli-me-tangere). 5. Med. Any of several ulcerous cutaneous diseases of the face; esp., lupus vulgaris and rodent ulcer.

no·li′tion (nō·lĭsh′ŭn), n. [L. nolle not to will, to be unwilling, fr. ne + velle to will, to be willing.] Adverse action of will; unwillingness; — opposed to volition.

noll (nŏl; nōl), n. [ME. nol, fr. AS. hnoll top; akin to OHG. hnol top.] Head; noddle. Obs. exc. Dial.

noll (nŏl). Scot. var. of KNOLL, n.

Noll (nŏl), n. Dim. of OLIVER.

nol·le′i·ty (nō·lē′ĭ·tĭ), n. [L. nolle to be unwilling.] State of being unwilling. Rare.

nol′le pros′e·qui (nŏl′ē prŏs′ē·kwī). [L., to be unwilling to prosecute.] Law. An entry on the record denoting that the prosecutor or plaintiff will proceed no further in his action or suit, either as a whole, or as to some count, or as to one or more of several defendants. In a criminal suit a nolle prosequi can be entered without the defendant's consent until the jury is impaneled, but not afterward. Abbr. nol. pros.

noll′–kholl′ (nŏl′kōl′), n. [D. knolkool.] Kohlrabi. India.

‖no′lo con·ten′de·re (nō′lō kŏn·tĕn′dē·rē). [L., I do not wish to contend.] Law. A plea by the defendant in a criminal prosecution, which, without admitting guilt, subjects him to a judgment of conviction as in case of a plea of guilty, but does not preclude him from denying the truth of the charges in a collateral proceeding. The form in the third person singular is non vult con·ten′de·re.

nol′–pros′ (nŏl′prŏs′), v. t.; -PROSSED′ (-prŏst′); -PROS′SING. To discontinue by entering a nolle prosequi.

‖nom (nŏn), n. [F. See NOUN.] Name.

no′ma (nō′mȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nomē, lit., a feeding.] Med. Gangrenous stomatitis, occurring oftenest in debilitated children, esp. after exhausting diseases.

no′mad (nō′măd or, esp. Brit., nŏm′ăd; 277), n. [L. nomas, -adis, fr. Gr. nomas, -ados, pasturing, roaming about for pasture. See NIMBLE.] One of a race or tribe that has no fixed location, but wanders from place to place.

no′mad, adj. Roving; nomadic.

no·ma′di·an (nō·mā′dĭ·ăn), n. A nomad. Rare.

no·mad′ic (nō·măd′ĭk), adj. Also, Rare, no·mad′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl). [Gr. nomadikos. See NOMAD.] Of or pert. to, or characteristic of, nomads or their way of life; wandering; as, a nomadic tribe. — no·mad′i·cal·ly (-ĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

No·mad′i·dae (nō·măd′ĭ·dē), n. pl. [NL. See NOMAD, n.] Zool. A family of small wasplike bees. See CUCKOO BEE.

no′mad·ism (nō′măd·ĭz′m; nŏm′ăd-), n. A pronounced tendency to wander, as in vagabonds.

no man. Also, Obs., no′man′ (nō′mȧn′), n. No person; nobody.

no′man·cy (nō′mȧn·sĭ), n. [F. nomancie, fr. onomancie. See ONOMANCY.] Divination by letters.

no man's land. a A stretch of unowned land, as at a border. b In modern warfare, the belt of ground between the most advanced trenches of opposing armies. c Rare. Naut. A space amidships not regarded as belonging distinctly to either the port or starboard watch; hence, a space or, by extension, a job, on a ship not a part of anyone's duty.

nom′arch (nŏm′ärk), n. [Gr. nomos a district + -arch.] The chief magistrate of a nome, or nomarchy.

nom′arch·y (-är·kĭ), n.; pl. -ARCHIES (-kĭz). A province of the modern Greece; a nome or department.

No·mar′thra (nō·mär′thrȧ), n. pl. [NL., fr. Gr. nomos law + arthron joint.] Zool. A group of edentates now usually equiv. to Pholidota. — no·mar′thral (-thrăl), adj.

‖nom′ de guerre′ (nŏn′ dĕ gâr′). [F.] Literally, war name; hence, a fictitious name; pseudonym.

nom′ de plume′ (nŏm′ dĕ plōōm′; F. nôn′ dĕ plüm′). [An English formation from French.] Literally, pen name; a name assumed by an author; a pseudonym.

nome (nōm), n. [Gr. nomos, fr. nemein to divide. See NIMBLE.] Gr. Lit. & Music. A type of musical composition intended either for instrumental performance alone, or to be accompanied by words, usually solemn in subject.

nome (nōm), n. In Greek form no′mos (nō′mŏs). [Gr. nomos. See NIMBLE.] a A province of ancient Egypt. b A province or department of modern Greece; a nomarchy.

nome, n. [Cf. BINOMIAL.] Alg. = TERM, 15 a. Obs.

nome. Past tense & past part. of NIM.

‖no′men (nō′mĕn), n.; pl. NOMINA (nŏm′ĭ·nȧ). [L.] 1. A name.

2. The name of the gens, the second of the three usual names of a person, among the ancient Romans. Cf. AGNOMEN, COGNOMEN, PRAENOMEN.

no′men·clate (nō′mĕn·klāt), v. t. [From NOMENCLATURE.] To give a name or names to. Rare.

no′men·cla′tive (nō′mĕn·klā′tĭv), adj. Tending to name.

no′men·cla′tor (nō′mĕn·klā′tĕr), n. [L., fr. nomen name + calare to call. See NAME; CLAIM.] 1. Obs. a A book containing collections or lists of words; a vocabulary. b A compiler of vocabularies or dictionaries. c A recounter or reckoner-up.

2. One who calls persons or things by their names; specif.: a In ancient Rome: (1) A slave who attended a candidate for office to tell him the names of influential persons whom they met. (2) A slave who told his master the names of the other slaves. b Antiq. An officer, as at the Roman imperial court of Constantinople, charged with inviting guests to banquets. c In modern use, one who announces the names of guests or of persons generally.

3. One who gives names to, or invents names for, things; a classifier of objects under appropriate names.

no·men′cla·to′ri·al (nō·mĕn′klȧ·tō′rĭ·ăl; 181), no·men′cla·to′ry (nō·mĕn′klȧ·tō′rĭ; 68), adj. Nomenclatural.

no′men·cla′tur·al (nō′mĕn·klā′tŭr·ăl), adj. Pertaining to, or connected with, nomenclature; nomenclatorial.

no′men·cla′ture (nō′mĕn·klā′tŭr; nō·mĕn′klȧ·tŭr; 277), n. [L. nomenclatura. See NOMENCLATOR.] 1. A designation. R.

2. a A list, catalogue, or register, as of names or particulars. b Obs. A vocabulary, dictionary, or glossary.

3. The system of names used in a particular branch of knowledge or art, or by any school or individual; esp., the names used in classifications as distinguished from other technical terms (see TERMINOLOGY, CLASSIFICATION). Hence: a Bot. & Zool. Nomenclature designates the Latin names of species, genera, and other groups, adopted that the same name may be intelligible to scientists of all nationalities; terminology designates names of organs, functions, processes, and all other technical terms of these sciences. The binomial system of nomenclature is now almost universally adopted; the first works in which it was systematically employed were Linnaeus's Species Plantarum (1753) for botany, and the tenth edition of his Systema Naturae (1758) for zoology. In binomial nomenclature the first word (generic name) is that of the genus to which the species belongs, and is always treated as a Latin noun; the second (specific name) is that peculiar to the species. Subspecies and other categories lower than species are often indicated by a third name (as Branta canadensis hutchinsii). When (as is often the case) more than one name has been applied to the same genus, or used as the specific name of the same species, the earliest published of the names in dispute is adopted, and all later ones regarded as synonyms, not to be used (if generic names) for any other genus in the same kingdom (animal or vegetable), or (if specific names) for any other species of the same genus. There is much less uniformity of usage in regard to names of groups of higher categories than the genus, and the law of priority is less strictly adhered to, but in recent classifications names of families and subfamilies (and, in Bot., also orders) are formed according to definite rules (see FAMILY, 8; SUBFAMILY for BOTANY, see INTERNATIONAL CODE OF BOTANICAL NOMENCLATURE). b Chem. In chemical nomenclature, names of simple compounds are formed from the most positive element (using its unchanged name or a form ending in -ic or -ous) and the less positive elements (indicated by a noun ending in -ide); as, mercu*ric* oxi*de;* phosphorus oxychlori*de;* tin tetrachlori*de.* For acids and salts see 1st -ATE, 3; HYPO-, 3; -IC, 1 e; 3d -ITE; -OUS, 2; PER-, 2. For hydrocarbons, aldehydes, alcohols, etc. see -ANE a; 1st -ENE; -YNE; 2d -INE, 1; 1st -OL; -ONE; 2d -OSE; and GENEVA SYSTEM. The name of a parent organic compound is often modified by prefixes in naming its derivatives; as *chloro*acetic acid.

no′men·cla′ture (nō′mĕn·klā′tŭr; nō·mĕn′klȧ·tŭr; 277), v. t. & i. To name; designate.

no′men·cla′tur·ist (nō′mĕn·klā′tŭr·ĭst), n. = NOMENCLATOR, 3.

‖no′men con′ser·van′dum (nō′mĕn kŏn′sĕr·văn′dŭm); pl. NOMINA CONSERVANDA (nŏm′ĭ·nȧ kŏn′sĕr·văn′dȧ). [L.] A name that should not be changed; specif., in botanical and zoological nomenclature, a generic or specific name to be preserved by special sanction in exception to the usual rules, as of priority. See INTERNATIONAL CODE OF BOTANICAL NOMENCLATURE.

‖no′men no′vum (nō′vŭm). [L., new name.] Bot. & Zool. A new Latin name for a plant or animal, substituted for an untenable one.

‖no′men nu′dum (nū′dŭm); pl. NOMINA NUDA (nū′dȧ). [L., naked name.] Biol. A mere name without description. Such a name is usually accorded no status, but may be used later when published with a proper description.

No·me′us (nō·mē′ŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nomeus herdsman.] Zool. The genus to which the man-of-war fish belongs. It is the type of a family, No·me′i·dae (nō·mē′ĭ·dē).

no′mi·al (nō′mĭ·ăl), n. [See BINOMIAL.] Alg. A single name or term.

nom′ic (nŏm′ĭk; nō′mĭk), adj. [Gr. nomikos, fr. nomos law, custom. See NIMBLE; cf. NOMISTIC.] Characterized by a constancy or a customary procedure having the general force of a natural law; hence, customary, ordinary, or conventional; — often applied to the usual English, as distinguished from phonetic, spelling. — n. Nomic spelling.

nom′ic, adj. Music. Of or pertaining to a nome.

nom′ic, adj. Of or pertaining to a nome, or province.

nom′i·na·ble (nŏm′ĭ·nȧ·b'l), adj. [L. nominare to name.] Namable; worthy of mention.

nom′i·nal (nŏm′ĭ·năl; -n'l), adj. [L. nominalis, fr. nomen, nominis, name. See NAME.] 1. Of, pertaining to, of the nature of, or consisting in, a name or names.

2. Existing in name only; not real or actual; — often with the implication that the thing named is so small, slight, or the like, in comparison with what might properly be expected, as scarcely to be entitled to the name; as, a nominal difference; a nominal price.

3. Consisting of, containing, or giving, names, as of a ship's company; bearing the name of a person, as shares.

4. Gram. a Of, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a noun or nouns; substantival. b Of, pertaining to, or denoting a word otherwise characteristically an adjective or adverb, but taking a noun construction in a given context ("How sleep the brave"; from now till then).

5. Metaph. Of or pertaining to the nominalists. Rare.

☞ For some nominal phrases, see the second word. — nom′i·nal·ly, adv.

nom′i·nal, n. Gram. a Rare. A noun or adjective. b Obs. A verb formed from a noun.

nom′i·nal, n. a Obs. A nominalist. b Obs. A nominal or unreal thing. c Music. A note from which a scale or other series of tones is named.

nominal damages. Law. The damages given for a violation of a right where no actual loss has accrued; a trifling sum awarded in token of the plaintiff's right.

nom′i·nal·ism (nŏm′ĭ·năl·ĭz′m; -n'l·ĭz′m), n. Philos. The doctrine of the nominalists, namely, that there are no universal essences in reality, and that the mind can frame no single concept or image corresponding to any universal or general term; — opposed to (logical) realism. Cf. CONCEPTUALISM. The doctrine arose in Scholastic philosophy, and became a center of dispute first in the time of Roscellinus (11th century A.D.), who held that universal terms such as indicate genus or species, and all general collective words or terms such as animal, man, horse, tree, air, cloud, rock, ship, city, nation, wagon, etc., have no objective, real existences corresponding to them, but are mere words, names, or terms, mere vocal utterances, and that only particular individual things and events exist. According to nominalism the Trinity could be understood only as three gods, denying the unity or oneness. The great Schoolmen were able to silence the nominalists for a long period, but Occam, three centuries after Roscellinus, was able to make a theological defense, discriminating between the logical, real, and grammatical meaning of words and setting up the principle: Entities must not be multiplied unnecessarily. The existence, unity, infinity of God, Creation, and Incarnation are factitious unities and cannot be supported on rational grounds, although there is a safe place for them as religious dogmas in the Christian faith in Divine revelation, according to Occam. He held that to our intellects everything real must be some particular individual thing. See REALISM. — nom′i·nal·ist (-ĭst), n. & adj. — nom′i·nal·is′tic (-ĭs′tĭk), adj.

nom′i·nal′i·ty (nŏm′ĭ·năl′ĭ·tĭ), n. Quality of being nominal; also, a nominal thing. Rare.

nominal par. See 1st PAR, 2.

nominal partner. See PARTNER, n., 5.

nominal rate. Finance. The rate, as of interest, according to which the principal, as of a note, is compounded. Cf. EFFECTIVE RATE.

nominal value. Value named or stated, as on the face of a certificate of stock; par value; as, the nominal value was $100 but the market price only $80.

nominal wages. Econ. See REAL WAGES.

nom′i·nate (nŏm′ĭ·nāt), v. t.; NOM′I·NAT′ED (-nāt′ĕd; -ĭd; 119); NOM′I·NAT′ING (-nāt′ĭng). [L. nominatus, past part. of nominare to nominate, fr. nomen name. See NAME.] 1. Formerly: a To call; entitle; denominate; name. b To furnish with a name or names; to name. c To mention by name or expressly. d To specify.

Is it so nominated in the bond? Shak.

2. To name, or designate by name, for an office or place; to appoint; esp., to name as a candidate for an election, choice, or appointment; to propose for office.

3. Billiards, etc. = CALL, v. t., 19. Brit.

nom′i·nate (-nĭt), adj. 1. Having a special or certain name; specif., Rom. Law, designating the contracts that fell within the recognized formal real or consensual contracts; — disting. from innominate.

2. Appointed to an office; — chiefly used in Scots law of a tutor appointed by a father in his will. See TUTOR, n.

nom′i·nate. Obs. past part. of NOMINATE, v.

nom′i·nat′ed (-nāt′ĕd; -ĭd), adj. 1. Named (for an office).

2. Noted; renowned. Obs.

Nominated Parliament. Barebone's, or the Little, Parliament.

nominated passages. Assisted passages granted to immigrants on the nomination of persons resident in a State, the nominator assuming certain obligations. Australia.

nom′i·nate·ly, adv. By name; particularly; namely. Rare.

nom′i·na′tion (nŏm′ĭ·nā′shŭn), n. [F. or L.; F. nomination, fr. L. nominatio.] 1. A nominating, or state of being nominated; as: a Act or right of designating by name for an office or duty; appointment. b Designation or proposal of a person as a candidate for office.

2. The giving or assigning of a name or names. Rare.

3. Obs. a Mentioning by name. b Naming; appointing; state of being appointed. c Name; denomination.

4. Ch. of Eng. The naming of a clergyman by a patron to the rightful authority for presentation in cases where patronage does not include the legal rights of a presentor.

5. Horse Racing. The preliminary entry of a horse by name.

6. Rom. Law. See FORMULA, 8.

nomination borough. A pocket borough.

nom′i·na·tive (nŏm′ĭ·nȧ·tĭv; -nā′tĭv), adj. [F. or L.; F. nominatif, fr. L. nominativus of a name, nominative.] 1. (pron. usually nŏm′ĭ·nā′tĭv) Named for an office; nominated.

2. Denominative. Rare.

3. Bearing a person's name; nominal, as shares.

4. Gram. Designating or pert. to the case denoting the subject of a finite verb, a predicate noun referring to the subject, a noun word in apposition with either, or one in certain absolute constructions; also, designating or pertaining to the relation of subject, etc., denoted by this case.

nom′i·na·tive, n. The nominative case, or a word in it; also, the sense relation denoted by it. — nom′i·na·ti′val (-nȧ·tī′văl), adj.

nominative absolute. Also, Rare, nominative independent. Gram. A construction consisting of a nominative noun or pronoun with a participle (sometimes with an infinitive) standing apart in syntax from the rest of the sentence, but adding a qualification as of time, cause, condition, or attendant circumstance ("She failing in her promise, I have been diverting my chagrin." Sheridan). Cf. ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

nom′i·na′tor (nŏm′ĭ·nā′tĕr), n. [LL.] 1. One who nominates.

2. Horse Racing. A person in whose name a horse is entered for a race.

nom′i·na′trix (nŏm′ĭ·nā′trĭks), n. A woman who nominates.

nom′i·na·ture (nŏm′ĭ·nȧ·tŭr), n. Nomination. Rare.

nom′i·nee′ (nŏm′ĭ·nē′), n. [See NOMINATE; -EE.] 1. The person named, as the recipient in an annuity or grant.

2. A person named for any office, duty, or position.

nom′i·nee′ism (-ĭz′m), n. [nominee + -ism.] The practice of appointment (as disting. from election) to office.

nom′i·ny (nŏm′ĭ·nĭ), n. [Prob. fr. L. phrase in nomine in the name (of).] A form of words, esp. a rhyming doggerel; a rigmarole; a wordy tale. Dial. Eng.

no′mism (nō′mĭz′m), n. Ethical or religious basing of conduct on the observance of moral law; legalism. — no·mis′tic (nō·mĭs′tĭk), adj.

no·mis′ma (nō·mĭz′mȧ), n.; pl. NOMISMATA (-mȧ·tȧ). [Gr.] The Byzantine solidus. See SOLIDUS.

nomo-. A combining form, Greek nomo-, from nomos, meaning usage, law, as in nomology.

no·moc′a·non (nō·mŏk′ȧ·nŏn), n. [MGr. nomokanōn, fr. Gr. nomos law + kanōn rule, rod. See NIMBLE; CANON.] Eastern Ch. a Properly, a collection of ecclesiastical laws (canons) of church councils, fathers, or patriarchs, and of imperial laws which are of importance for the administration of the church. The more important nomocanons are: nomocanon in 50 titles (called also nomocanon of Johannes Scholasticus), composed about 570; nomocanon in 14 titles (called also nomocanon of Photius), begun in the 6th century or earlier, augmented in the 7th century, and finished in 883. The last one is, since the decision of the synod of Constantinople in 920, the basis of all Orthodox Church law. b Loosely, a collection of canons alone.

no·moc′ra·cy (nō·mŏk′rȧ·sĭ), n. [nomo- + -cracy.] Government in accordance with a system of law.

no·mog′e·ny (nō·mŏj′ē·nĭ), n. [nomo- + -geny.] The origination of life by natural processes rather than by miracle. — no·mog′e·nist (-nĭst), n. — no·mog′e·nous (-nŭs), adj.

nom′o·graph (nŏm′ō·grăf; 83), n. [nomo- + -graph.] a An alignment chart; a graph that enables one by the aid of a straightedge to read off the value of a dependent variable when the value of the independent variable is given. b A graphic representation of numerical relations by any of various systems. c A treatise on the drafting of laws.

no·mog′ra·pher (nō·mŏg′rȧ·fĕr), n. A writer or maker of laws; one who is expert in nomography.

no·mog′ra·phy (nō·mŏg′rȧ·fĭ), n. [Gr. nomographia, fr. nomos law + graphein to write.] 1. The art of, or a treatise on, drafting laws.

2. Math. a The doctrine of alignment charts. b The making of nomographs.

— nom′o·graph′ic (nŏm′ō·grăf′ĭk), nom′o·graph′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. — nom′o·graph′i·cal·ly, adv.

---

nol′le (nŏl′ē), v. t. Short for NOLLE PROSEQUI. U. S.

nol′le·pros′. Short for NOLLE PROSEQUI. U. S. [CONTENDERE.]

no′lo (nō′lō). Short for NOLO nolt (nōlt). Scot. & dial. Eng. var. of NOWT. [part. of NIM.]

nom. Obs. past tense & past no′made (nō′măd; nŏm′ăd; F. nô·mȧd′). Var. of NOMAD.

no′mȧd·ize, v. i. See -IZE. — no′mȧd·i·za′tion (nō′mȧd·ĭ·zā′shŭn); -ĭ·zā′shŭn), n.

nom′bles (nŭm′b'lz). Var. of NUMBLES. Archaic.

nom′bril (nŏm′brĭl), n. [F., navel, fr. OF. lombril, i. e., ombril, with the article, dim. fr. L. umbilicus navel. See NAVEL.] Her. See ESCUTCHEON, 1.

nome. + NAME, NUMB.

No·me′i·dae (nō·mē′ĭ·dē), n. pl. See NOMEUS. [-SHIP. Rare.

no′men·cla′tor·ship, n. See

‖no′mi·na (nŏm′ĭ·nȧ), n., pl. of NOMEN.

‖no′mi·na con′ser·van′da, pl. of NOMEN CONSERVANDUM.

‖no′mi·na nu′da, pl. of NOMEN NUDUM.

nom′i·na·tiv. Nominative. Ref. Sp. [NATIVE.

nom′i·na·tive·ly, adv. of NOMI-nom′i·nor, n. A nominator. Obs.

nom′o·gram (nŏm′ō·grăm), n. = NOMOGRAPH.

N

no·mol′o·gy (nō·mŏl′ō·jĭ), n. [nomo- + -logy.] a The science of law and legislation. b The science of the laws of the mind. — nom′o·log′i·cal (nŏm′ō·lŏj′ĭ·kăl), adj. — no·mol′o·gist (nō·mŏl′ō·jĭst), n.

nom′o·pel′mous (nŏm′ō·pĕl′mŭs), adj. [Gr. nomos law, custom + pelma sole of the foot.] Zool. Having a separate and simple tendon to flex the hallux, as passerine birds.

no·moph′y·lax (nō·mŏf′ĭ·lăks), n.; pl. NOMOPHYLACES (nŏm′ō·fĭl′ō·sēz). [Gr. nomophylax, fr. nomos law + phylax guard.] Gr. Antiq. One of a body of officials whose duty was to see that the laws were observed, esp. in assemblies.

nom′o·phyl·lous (nŏm′ō·fĭl′ŭs), adj. See -PHYLLOUS.

‖no′mos (nō′mŏs), n.; pl. NOMOI (-moi). [Gr.] A nome or province.

no′mos (nō′mŏs), n. Also noum′os (nōō′mŏs; nou′-). [Gr.] The legal coin unit of a Greek city-state. Cf. STATER, NUMMUS.

nom′o·thete (nŏm′ō·thēt), n. [Gr. nomothetēs, fr. nomos law + tithenai to assign.] A nomothetes. Rare.

no·moth′e·tes (nō·mŏth′ē·tēz), n.; pl. NOMOTHETAI (-tī). [Gr. nomothetēs.] Gr. Antiq. A lawgiver; esp., at Athens, a member of a committee of discards charged with revising laws.

nom′o·thet′ic (nŏm′ō·thĕt′ĭk), nom′o·thet′i·cal (-ĭ·kăl), adj. [Gr. nomothetikos.] Giving or enacting laws; legislative; arising from, or based on, law; made by lawgivers; as, a nomothetical power.

-nomy. A combining form, Greek -nomia, fr. nomos, law, denoting a system of laws governing a (specified) field or the sum of knowledge regarding them, as in astr*onomy*, agr*onomy*, hist*onomy*, tax*onomy*. Cf. -GRAPHY, -LOGY.

‖non (nŏn), adv. [L.] Not.

non, n. [L.] Obs. a A negative; a prohibition. b Short for NON PLACET.

non- (nŏn-; see note below). [F. and L.; OF. non-; fr. L. non, fr. OL. noenum, fr. neoenum, lit., not one. See NONE.] A prefix, Old French non-, Latin non-, in common use in English in the sense of not, un-, in-. Non- is generally less emphatic than in- or un-, being merely negative, while in- and un- are positive, often implying an opposite thing or quality. Cf. *non*religious, *ir*religious; *non*moral, *im*moral; non-Christian, *un*christian.

☞ The prefix varies in accent, even in the same word, according to emphasis or sentence rhythm, from just enough to preserve the full vowel ŏ to full accent, as in non′sense. For words below, see the word to which non- is prefixed. For other words beginning with non-, see in Vocabulary.

nonabandonment
nonabdication nonabiding nonabjuration nonabolition nonabridgment nonabsentation nonabsolute nonabsolution nonabsorbable nonabsorbent nonabsorptive nonabstainer nonabstaining nonabstemious nonabstention nonabstract nonacademic nonacceding nonacceleration nonaccent nonacceptance nonacceptant nonacceptation nonaccession nonaccessory nonaccidental nonaccompaniment nonaccompanying nonaccomplishment nonaccredited nonaccretion nonachievement nonacid nonacknowledgment nonacoustic nonacquaintance nonacquiescence nonacquiescent nonacquisitive nonacquittal nonactinic nonaction nonactionable nonactive nonactuality nonaculeate nonacute nonadditive nonadherence nonadherent nonadhesion nonadhesive nonadjacent nonadjectival nonadjournment nonadjustable nonadjustment nonadministrative nonadmiring nonadmission nonadmitted nonadoption nonadornment nonadult nonadvancement nonadvantageous nonadventitious nonadventurous nonadverbial nonadvertence nonadvertency nonadvocate nonaerating nonaesthetic nonaffection nonaffiliated nonaffirmation non-African nonagency nonagent nonagglutinative nonagglutinator nonaggression nonaggressive nonagrarian nonagreement nonagricultural nonaid nonair nonalarmist nonalcohol nonalcoholic non-Alexandrian nonalgebraic nonalienating nonalienation nonalignment nonalkaloidal nonallegation nonallegorical nonalliterated nonalliterative nonallotment nonalluvial nonalphabetic nonaltruistic nonaluminous nonamalgamable nonamendable non-American nonamotion nonamphibious nonamputation nonanalogy nonanalytical nonanalyzable nonanalyzed nonanaphoric nonanatomical nonancestral nonanesthetized nonangelic nonangular non-Anglican nonangling nonanimal nonannexation nonannouncement nonanuitant nonanulment nonanonymity nonanswer nonantagonistic nonanticipative nonantigenic nonapologetic nonapostatizing nonapostolic nonapparent nonappealable nonappearing nonappellate nonappendicular nonapplication nonapposing nonappointment nonapportionable nonapposable nonappraisal nonappreciation nonapprehension nonappropriation nonapproval nonaqueous non-Arab non-Arabic nonarbitrable nonargentiferous nonaristocratic nonarithmetical nonarmament nonarmigerous nonaromatic nonarraignment nonarrival nonarsenical nonarterial nonartesian nonarticulated nonarticulation nonartistic non-Aryan nonascendancy nonascertainable nonascertaining nonascetic nonascription nonaseptic non-Asiatic nonaspersion nonasphalt nonaspirate nonaspiring nonassault nonassent nonassentation nonassented nonassenting nonassertion nonassertive nonbureaucratic nonassessable nonassessment nonassignable nonassignment nonassimilable nonassimilating nonassimilation nonassistance nonassistive nonassociable nonassortment nonassurance nonastigmatic nonastronomical nonathletic nonatmospheric nonatonement nonattached nonattachment nonattainment nonattendance nonattendant nonattention nonattestation non-Attic nonattribution nonattributive nonauctioneer nonauricular nonauriferous nonauthentication nonauthoritative nonautomatic nonautomotive nonavoidance nonaxiomatic nonbachelor nonbacterial nonballable nonballoting nonbanishment nonbankable non-Bantu non-Baptist nonbarbarous nonbaronial nonbase nonbasement nonbasic nonbathing
nonbathing
nonbearded nonbearing nonbeliever nonbelieving nonbelligerent nonbeneficial nonbenevolent nonbetrayal non-Biblical nonbilabiate nonbilious nonbinomial nonbiological nonbitter
nonbituminous nonblack nonblameless nonbleeding nonblended nonblockaded nonblockading nonblooded nonblooming nonbodily
non-Bolshevik non-Bolshevist nonbookish nonborrower nonbotanical nonbourgeois non-Brahmanical nonbranded nonbreakable nonbreeder nonbreeding non-British nonbroodiness nonbroody nonbrowsing non-Buddhist nonbudding nonbulbous nonbulkhead nonburgage nonburgess nonburnable nonburning nonbursting nonbusiness nonbuttress noncabinet noncaffeine noncaking noncalcareous noncalcified
non-Calvinist noncancellable noncannibalistic noncanonical noncanonization noncanvassing noncapillarity noncapillary noncapital noncapitalist noncapitalistic noncapitulation noncapsizable noncapture noncarbonate
noncareer noncarnivorous noncarrier noncartelized noncastigation noncataloguer noncatarrhal noncatechizable noncategorical noncathedral non-Catholic noncatholicity non-Caucasian noncausality noncausation noncelebration noncelestial noncellular noncellulosic non-Celtic noncensored noncensorious noncensus noncentral noncereal nonceremonial noncertainty noncertified nonchafing nonchalky nonchallenger nonchampion nonchangeable nonchanging noncharacteristic nonchargeable nonchastisement nonchastity non-Chaucerian nonchemical nonchemist non-Chinese nonchivalrous nonchokable nonchokeree non-Christian nonchronological nonchurch nonchurched nonchurchgoer nonciliate noncircuit noncircuital noncircular noncirculation noncitation noncitizen noncivilized nonclaimable nonclassable nonclassical nonclassifiable nonclassification nonclastic nonclearance noncleistogamic noncleargable nonclerical nonclimbable nonclinical nonclose nonclosure nonclotting noncoagulability noncoagulable noncoagulation noncoalescing noncock noncoercion noncoercive noncognate noncognition noncognitive noncognizable noncognizance noncoherent noncohesion noncohesive noncoinage noncoincidence noncoincident noncoincidental noncoking noncollaboration noncollaborative noncollapsible noncollectable noncollection noncollegiate noncollinear noncolloid noncollusion noncollusive noncolonial noncoloring noncombat noncombination noncombining noncombustible noncombustion noncoming noncommemoration noncommencement noncommendable noncommercial noncommonable noncommoracy noncommunal noncommunicable noncommunicating noncommunication noncommunist noncommunistic noncompensating noncompensation noncompetency noncompetent noncompeting noncompetitive noncompetitively noncompliance
noncompliance
noncomplicity noncomplying noncomposite noncompoundable noncomprehension noncompressible noncompression noncompulsion noncomputation nonconcealment nonconceiving nonconcentration nonconception nonconcern nonconcession nonconciliating nonconcludency nonconcludent nonconcluding nonconclusion nonconcordant nonconcur nonconcurrence nonconcurrency nonconcurrent noncondensable noncondensation noncondensible noncondimental noncondition noncondonation nonconducive nonconductibility nonconductible nonconducting nonconduction nonconductive nonconfederate nonconferrable nonconfession nonconficient
nonconfident nonconfidential nonconfinement nonconfirmation nonconfirmative nonconfiscable nonconfiscation nonconfitent nonconflicting nonconformance nonconfutation noncongealing noncongenital noncongestion noncongratulatory non-Congregational non-Congressional noncongruence nonconjectural nonconjugal nonconjugate nonconjunction nonconnection nonconnective nonconnivance nonconnotative nonconnubial nonconscientious nonconscious nonconscription nonconsecration nonconsecutive nonconsenting nonconsequence nonconsequent nonconservation nonconservative nonconserving nonconsideration nonconsignment nonconsistorial nonconsoling nonconsonant nonconsorting nonconspirator nonconspiring nonconstituent nonconstitutional nonconstraint nonconstruable nonconstruction nonconstructive nonconsular nonconsultative nonconsumable nonconsumption noncontact noncontagion noncontagionist noncontagious noncontagiousness noncontamination noncontemplative noncontemporaneous noncontemporary noncontending noncontention noncontentious noncontentiously noncontterminous noncontiguity noncontiguous noncontinental noncontingent noncontinuance noncontinuation noncontinuous noncontraband noncontraction noncontradictory noncontributing noncontribution noncontributor noncontributory noncontrivance noncontrolled noncontrolling noncontroversial nonconvective nonconvenable nonconventional nonconvergent nonconversable nonconversant nonconversational nonconversion nonconvertible nonconveyance nonconviction nonconviviality
non-co-operate non-co-operative
non-co-ordination noncoplanar noncopyright noncoring noncorporate noncorporeality noncorpuscular noncorrection noncorrective noncorrelative noncorrespondence noncorrespondent noncorresponding noncorroboration noncorroborative noncorrodible noncorroding noncorrosive noncorruption noncortical
noncosmic noncosmopolitism noncostraight noncottager noncotyledonous noncounty noncranking noncreation noncreative noncredence noncredent noncredibility noncredible noncreditor noncreeping noncrenate noncretaceous noncriminal
noncriminality
noncriminal
noncritical noncrucial noncruciform noncrusading noncrushability noncrushable
noncrustaceous noncrystalline noncrystallizable noncrystallized noncrystallizing nonculmination nonculpable nonculticated nonculti vation nonculture noncumulative noncurdling noncurrency noncurrent noncursive noncustodial noncuspidate noncustomary noncutting noncyclical
non-Cymric
non-Czech nondamagable nondamnation nondancer nondangerous
non-Danish non-Darwinian nondatival nondealer nondebtor nondecadence nondecadent nondecalcified nondecasyllabic nondecatoic nondecaying nondecagonal nondeception nondeceptive nondeciduous nondecision nondeclarant nondeclaration nondeclarer nondecomposition nondecoration nondedication nondeduction nondefalcation nondefamatory nondefaulting nondefection nondefense nondefendant nondefensive nondeference nondeferential nondefiance nondefilement nondegradation nondefinition nondefinitive nondeforestation nondegenerate nondegeneration nondegerming nondegradable nondegreased nondehiscent nondeist nondelegable nondelegate nondelegation nondeleterious nondeliberate nondeliberation nondelineation nondeliquescent nondelirious nondeliverance nondelivery nondemand nondemise nondemobilization nondemocratic nondemonstration nondendroid nondenial nondense nondenunciation nondepartmental nondeparture nondependence nondepletion nondeportation nondeported nondeposition nondepositor nondepravity nondepreciating nondepressed nondepression nondeprivable nonderivable nonderivative nonderogatory nondesecration nondesignate nondesigned nondesire nondesirous nondesisting nondespotic nondesquamative nondestructive nondesulphurized nondetachable nondetailed nondetention nondetermination nondeterminist nondeterrent nondetest nondetonating nondetrimental nondevelopable nondevelopment nondeviation nondevotional nondexterous nondiabetic nondiabolic nondiagnosis nondiagonal nondiagrammatic nondialectal nondialectical nondialyzing nondiametral nondiastatic nondiathermanous nondiazotizable nondichogamous nondichogamy nondichotomous nondictation nondictatorial nondictionary nondidactic nondieting nondifferentiable nondifferentiation nondiffractive nondistinguishing nondigestion nondilatable nondilution nondiocesan nondiphtheritic nondiphthongal nondiplomatic non-Diptera nondirection nondirectional nondisagreement nondisappearing nondisarmament nondisbursed nondiscernment nondischarging nondisciplinary nondisclaim nondisclosure nondiscontinuance nondiscordant nondiscountable nondiscovery nondiscretionary nondiscrimination nondiscriminatory nondiscussion nondisestablishment nondisfigurement nondisfranchised nondisingenuous nondisintegration nondisinterested nondisjunctive nondismemberment nondismissal nondisparaging nondispersate nondispensation nondispersal nondispersion nondisposal nondisqualifying nondissenting nondissolution nondistant nondistinctive nondistortion nondistribution nondistributive nondisturbance nondivergence nondivergent nondiversification nondivinity nondivisibility nondivisible nondivision nondivisional
nondivisional
nondivorce nondoctrinal nondocumentary nondogmatic nondoing nondomestic nondomesticated nondominant nondonation nondramatic nondrinker nondrinking nondropsical
non-Druid nondrying nonduality nonduplication nondutiable nondynastic nondyspeptic nonearning noneastern noneatable nonecclesiastical nonechoic noneclectic noneclipsing noneconomic nonedible noneditor noneditorial noneducable noneducation noneducational noneffectrescent noneffete noneffacious nonefficacy nonefficiency nonefficient noneffusion nonegoistical non-Egyptian non-Egyptologist nonejection nonelastic nonelasticity nonelect nonelection nonelective nonelector nonelectric nonelectrical nonelectrification nonelectrified nonelectrized nonelectrocution nonelectrolyte nonelemosynary nonelemental nonelementary nonelimination nonelopement nonemanating nonemancipation nonembarkation nonembellishment nonembezzlement nonembryonic nonemendation nonemergent nonemigration nonemission nonemotional nonemphatic nonemphatical nonempirical nonemploying nonemployment nonemulative nonenactment nonenclosure nonencroachment nonencyclopedic nonendemic nonendorsement nonenduring nonenemy nonenergic nonenforceability nonenforceable nonenforcement nonengagement nonengineering non-English nonenrolled nonentailed nonenteric nonentertainment nonentomological nonentrant nonenumerated nonenunciation nonenvious nonenzymic nonephemeral nonepic nonepicurean nonepileptic nonepiscopal nonepiscopalian nonepithelial nonepochal nonequal nonequation nonequatorial nonequestrian nonequilateral nonequilibrium nonequivalent nonequivocating nonerasure nonerecting nonerection nonerghter nonerroneous nonerudite noneruption nonescape nonespionage nonespousal nonessential nonesthetic noneternal noneternity nonethereal nonethical nonethnological nonethyl noneugenic nonevaporation nonevasive noneviction nonevident nonevidential nonevil nonevolutionary nonevolutionist nonevolving nonexaction nonexaggeration nonexamination nonexcavation nonexcepted nonexcerptible nonexcessive nonexchangeability nonexchangeable nonexciting nonexclamatory nonexclusion nonexclusive nonexcommunicable nonexculpation nonexcusable nonexecution nonexecutive nonexemplary nonexemplification nonexempt nonexercise nonexertion nonexhibition nonexistential nonexisting nonexoneration nonexotic nonexpansion nonexpansive nonexpansively nonexpectation nonexpendable nonexperience nonexperienced nonexperimental nonexpert nonexpiation nonexpiry nonexploitation nonexplosive nonexportable nonexportation nonexposure nonexpulsion nonextant nonextempore nonextended nonextensile nonextension nonextensional nonextensive nonextenuatory nonexteriority nonextermination nonexternal nonexternality nonextinction nonextortion nonextracted nonextraction nonextraditable nonextradition nonextraneous nonextreme nonextrication nonextrinsic nonexuding nonexultation nonfabulous nonfacetious nonfactial nonfacility nonfacing nonfact nonfactious nonfactory nonfactual nonfacultative nonfaculty nonfaddist nonfading nonfailure nonfalse nonfamily nonfamous nonfanatical nonfanciful nonfarm non-Fascist nonfastidious nonfat
nonfatal nonfatalistic nonfatty nonfavorite nonfeatured nonfebrile nonfederal nonfederated nonfeldspathic nonfictious nonfelony nonfenestrated nonfermentability nonfermentable nonfermentation nonfermentative nonfertile nonfertility nonfestive nonfeudal nonfibrous nonfiction nonfictional nonfiduciary nonfighter nonfigurative nonfilamentous nonfimbriate nonfinancial nonfinding nonfinishing nonfinite nonfireproof nonfiscal nonfisherman nonfissile nonfixation nonflaky non-Flemish nonfloating nonfloatation nonfloriferous nonflowering nonflowing nonfluctuating nonfluid nonfluorescent
nonflying nonfocal nonfood nonforeclosure nonforeign nonforeknowledge
nonfluorescent
nonforested nonforfeitable nonforfeiting nonforfeiture nonform nonformal nonformation nonformulation nonfortification nonfortuitous nonfossiliferous nonfouling nonfrat nonfraternity nonfrauder

nonfraudulent nonfreedom nonfreeman nonfreezable nonfreeze nonfreezing non-French nonfricative nonfriction nonfrosted nonfruition nonfrustration nonfulfillment nonfunctional nonfundable nonfundamental nonfungible nonfuroid nonfusion nonfuturition nonfuturity non-Gaelic nongalactic nongalvanized nonganglionic nongas nongaseous nongassy nongelatinizing nongelatinous nongenealogical nongenerative nongenetic nongentile nongeographical nongeological nongeometrical non-German non-Germanic nongermination nongerundial nongildsman nongipsy nonglacial nonglandered nonglandular nonglare nonglucose nonglucosidal nonglucosidic nongod nongold nongolfer nongospel
non-Gothic non-Government nongovernmental nongraduate nongraduated nongraduation nongrain nongranular nongraphitic nongrass nongratuitous nongravitation nongravity nongray nongreasy non-Greek nongreen nongregarious nongremial nongrey nongrooming nonguarantee nonguard
nongutural nongymnast nongypsy nonhabitable nonhabitual nonhallucination
non-Hamitic nonhandicap nonhardenable nonharmonious nonhazardous nonheading nonheathen
non-Hebraic
non-Hebrew nonhedonistic non-Hellenic nonhepatic nonhereditarily nonhereditary nonheritable nonheritor nonhero non-Hibernian nonhieratic non-Hindu non-Hinduized nonhistoric nonhistorical nonhomaloidal non-Homeric nonhomogeneity nonhomogeneous nonhomogenous nonhostile nonhousehold nonhousekeeping nonhuman nonhumanist nonhumorous nonhumus nonhunting nonhydrogenous nonhydrolyzable nonhygrometric nonhygroscopic nonhypostatic noniconoclastic nonideal nonidealist nonidentical nonidentity nonidiomatic nonidolatrous nonidyllic nonignitible nonignominious nonignorant nonillumination nonillustration nonimaginary nonimbricating nonimitative nonimmateriality nonimmersion nonimmigrant nonimmigration nonimmune nonimmunity nonimmunized nonimpact nonimpairment nonimpartment nonimpatience nonimpeachment nonimperative nonimperial nonimplement nonimportation nonimporting nonimposition nonimpregnated nonimpressionist nonimprovement nonimputation nonincandescent nonincarnated nonincitement noninclination noninclusion noninclusive nonincrease nonincrusting nonindependent non-Indian nonindictable nonindictment nonindividual nonindividualistic
non-Indo-European nonindurated noninductorial noninfallibilist noninfallible noninfantry noninfected noninfection noninfectious noninfinite noninfinitely noninflammability noninflammable noninflammatory noninflectional noninfluence noninformative noninfraction noninhabitant noninheritable noninherited noninitial noninjurious noninjury noninoculation noninquiring noninsect noninsertion noninstitution noninstruction noninstructional noninstructress noninstrumental noninsurance nonintegrable nonintegrity nonintellectual nonintelligence nonintelligent nonintent nonintention noninterchangeability noninterchangeable nonintercourse noninterference noninterferer noninterfering nonintermittent noninternational noninterpolation noninterposition noninterrupted nonintersecting nonintoxicant nonintoxicating nonintrospective nonintrospectively nonintuitive noninverted noninvidious noninvincibility noniodized non-Ionic nonionized nonionizing nonirate non-Irish nonirradiated nonirrational nonirreparable nonirrevocable nonirrigable nonirrigated nonirrigating nonirrigation nonirritable nonirritant nonirritating non-Islamic nonisotropic non-Israelite non-Israelitish
non-Italian
non-Japanese non-Jew non-Jewish nonjudicial nonjurable nonjuristic nonjury nonjurying non-Kaffir nonknowledge nonkosher nonlabeling nonlactescent nonlaminated nonlanguage non-Latin nonlaying nonleaded nonleaking nonlegato nonlegume nonlepidopterous nonleprous nonlevel nonlevulose nonliability nonliable nonliberation nonlicensed nonlicentiate nonlicking nonlife nonlimitation nonliniting nonlinear nonlipoidal nonliquefying nonliquid nonliquidating nonliquidation nonlister nonlisting
nonliterary nonlitigious nonliturgical nonliving nonlixiviated nonlocal nonlocalized nonlogical nonloosable nonloser nonlover nonloving nonloxodromic nonluminescent nonluminosity nonluminous nonluster nonlustrous non-Lutheran nonmagnetic nonmagnetizable
non-Magyar nonmaintenance nonmajority nonmalarious
non-Malay non-Malayan nonmalicious nonmalignant nonmalleable non-Malthusian nonmammalian nonmandatory nonmanifest nonmanifestation nonmanila nonmannite nonmanual nonmanufacture nonmanufactured nonmanufacturing
non-Marcan nonmarine nonmarital nonmaritime nonmarket nonmarriage nonmarriageable nonmarrying nonmartial
non-Mason nonmastery nonmaterial nonmaterialistic nonmateriality nonmaternal nonmathematical nonmathematician nonmatrimonial nonmatter nonmechanical nonmechanistic nonmedical nonmedicinal
non-Mediterranean
nonmedullated nonmelodious nonmember
nonmembership non-Mendelian nonmenial nonmental nonmercantile nonmetalliferous nonmetallurgical nonmetamorphic nonmetaphysical nonmeteoric nonmeteorological non-Methodist nonmetric nonmetrical nonmetropolitan nonmicrobic nonmicroscopical nonmigratory nonmilitant nonmilitary nonmillionaire nonmimetic nonmineral nonmineralogical nonminimal nonministerial nonministration nonmiraculous nonmischievous nonmiscible nonmissionary nonmobile nonmodern non-Mohammedan nonmolar nonmolecular nonmomentary nonmonarchical nonmonarchist nonmonastic non-Mongol non-Mongolian nonmonist nonmonogamous nonmonotheistic non-Moorish nonmorainic
non-Mormon nonmortal non-Moslem non-Moslemah nonmotile nonmotoring nonmotorist nonmountainous nonmucilaginous nonmucous nonmulched nonmultiple nonmunicipal nonmuscular nonmusical nonmussable nonmutationally nonmutative nonmutual nonmystical nonmythical nonmythological nonnarcotic nonnasal nonnational nonnative non-natty nonnautical nonnaval nonnavigable nonnavigation nonnebular nonnecessary nonnecessity nonnegligible nonnegotiable nonnegotiation non-Negritic non-Negro nonnephritic nonnervous nonnescience nonnescient nonneutral nonneutrality non-Nicene nonnitrogenized nonnobility nonnobleman nonnomad nonnomination non-Norman non-Norse nonnotification nonnotional nonnucleated nonnumeral nonnutrient nonnutritious nonnutritive nonobedience nonobedient nonobjection nonobligatory nonobservable nonobservance nonobservant nonobservation nonobstetrical nonobstructive nonobvious nonoccidental nonocculting nonoccupant nonoccupation nonoccupational nonoccurrence nonodorous nonoecumenic nonoffender nonofficeholding nonofficial nonofficially nonofficinal nonoily nonolfactory nonomerous nonopacity nonoperating nonoperative nonopposition nonoppressive nonoptical nonoptimistic nonoptional nonorchestral nonordination nonorganic nonorganization nonoriental nonornamental nonorthodox nonorthographical nonoscine nonostentation nonoutlawry nonoutrage nonoverhead nonoverlapping nonowner nonoxidating nonoxidizable nonoxidizing nonoxygenated nonoxygenous nonpacific nonpacification nonpacifist nonpagan nonpaid nonpainter nonpalatal non-Pali
non-Paninean nonpapal nonpapist nonpar nonparallel nonparalytic nonparasitic nonparasitism nonparent nonparental nonparishioner non-Parisian nonparliamentary nonparochial
nonparochial
nonpartial nonpartiality nonparticipant nonparticipation nonpartisanship nonpartner nonparty nonpassenger nonpastoral nonpatentable nonpatented nonpaternal nonpathogenic nonpauper nonpaying nonpayment nonpeak nonpeaked nonpearlitic nonpecuniary nonpedestrian nonpedigree nonpelagic nonpeltast nonpenal nonpenalized nonpending nonpensionable nonpensioner nonperception nonperceptual nonperfection nonperforated nonperforating nonperformance nonperformer nonperforming nonperiodic nonperiodical nonperishable nonperishing nonperjury nonpermeability nonpermeable nonpermissible nonpermission nonperpendicular nonperpetual nonperpetuity nonpersecution nonperseverance nonpersistence nonpersistent nonperson nonpersonal nonpersonification nonpertinent
non-Peruvian nonperversive nonphagocytic nonpharmaceutical nonphenolic nonphilanthropic nonphilological nonphilosophical nonphilosophy nonphonetic nonphosphatic nonphosphorized nonphotobiotic nonphysical nonphysiological nonpickable nonpigmented nonplacental nonplanar nonplanetary nonplantowning nonplastic nonplate nonplausible nonpleading nonplushed nonplutocratic nonpoet nonpoetic nonpoisonous nonpolarizable nonpolarizing non-Polish nonpolitical nonponderosity nonponderous nonpoundery nonpopular nonpopularity nonporous nonporphyritic nonport nonportability nonportable nonportrayal
non-Portuguese nonpossession nonposthumous nonpostponement nonpotential nonpower nonpraedial
nonpractice
nonpraedial
nonpreaching nonprecious nonprecipitation nonpredatory nonpredestination nonpredicative nonpredictable nonpreference nonpreferential nonpreformed nonpregnant nonprehensile nonprejudicial nonprelatical nonpremium nonpreparation nonprepayment nonpropositional nonpresbyter non-Presbyterian nonprescribed nonprescriptive nonpresence nonpresentation nonpreservation nonpresidential nonpress nonpressure nonprevalence nonprevalent nonpriestly nonprimitive nonprincipiate nonprincipled nonprobable nonprocreation nonprocurement nonproducer nonproducing nonproduction nonprofane nonprofessed nonprofession nonprofessional nonprofessionalism nonprofessorial nonproficence nonproficiency nonproficient nonprofit nonprofiteering nonprognostication nonprogressive nonprohibitable nonprohibition nonprohibitive nonprojection nonprojective nonprojectively nonproletarian nonproliferous nonprolific nonprolongation nonpromiscuous nonpromissory nonpromotion nonpromulgation nonpronunciation nonpropagandistic nonpropagation nonprophetic nonpropitiation nonproportional nonproprietary nonproprietor nonprorogation nonproscriptive nonprosecution nonprospect nonprotection nonprotective nonproteid non-Protestant nonprotestation nonprotractile nonprotractility nonprovided nonprovidential nonprovocation non-Prussian nonpsychic nonpsychological nonpublic nonpublication nonpublicity nonpueblo nonpulmonary nonpulsating nonpunpable nonpunctilious nonpunctuation nonpuncturable nonpunishable nonpunishing nonpunishment nonpurchase nonpurchaser nonpurgative nonpurification nonpurposive nonpursuit nonpurulent nonpurveyance nonputrescent nonputrescible nonputting nonpygenic nonpyritiferous non-Quaker nonqualification nonquality nonracial nonradiable nonradiating nonradical nonrailroader nonranging nonratability nonratable nonratified nonratifying nonrational nonrationalist nonrationalized nonrayed nonreaction nonreactor nonreader nonreading nonrealistic nonreality nonrealization nonreasonable nonreasoner nonrebel nonrebellious nonreceipt nonreceiving nonreception nonrecess nonrecipient nonreciprocal nonreciprocating nonreciprocity nonrecital nonreclamation nonreclusive nonrecognition nonrecognized nonrecoil non-recoiling nonrecollection nonrecommendation nonrecompense nonreconciliation nonrecourse nonrecoverable nonrecovery nonrectangular nonrectified nonrecuperation nonrecurrent nonrecurring nonredemption nonredressing non-reduction
nonre-eligibility
nonre-eligible nonreference nonreifiable nonreflector nonreformation nonrefraction nonrefrigerant nonrefueling nonrefutation nonregardance nonregarding nonregenerating nonregenerative nonregimented nonregistered nonregistrability nonregistrable nonregistration nonregression nonrehabilitation nonreigning nonreimbursement nonreinforcement nonreinstatement nonrejection nonrejoiner nonrelapsed nonrelation nonrelative nonrelaxation nonrelease nonreliance nonreligion nonreligious nonreligiousness nonrelinquishment nonremanié nonremedy nonremembrance nonremission nonremonstrance nonremuneration nonremunerative nonrendition nonrenewable nonrenewal nonrenouncing nonrenunciation nonrepair nonreparation nonrepayable nonrepealing nonrepeat nonrepeater nonrepentance nonrepetition nonreplacement nonreplicate nonreportable nonreprehensible nonrepresentation nonrepresentational nonrepresentative nonrepression nonreprisal nonreproduction nonreproductive
nonrepublican nonrepudiation nonrequirement nonrequisition nonrequital nonrescue nonresemblance nonrecent nonreservation nonreserve nonresidental nonresidential nonresidual nonresignation nonresiniffable nonresisting nonresistive nonresolvability nonresolvable nonresonant nonrespectable nonrespirable nonresponsibility nonrestitution nonrestricted nonrestriction nonresumption nonresurrection nonresuscitation nonretaliation nonretention
nonretentive nonretrocence nonretinal nonretirement nonretiring nonretraceable nonretractation nonretractile nonretraction nonretrenchment nonretroactive nonreturn nonreturnable nonrevaluation nonrevealing nonrevelation nonrevenge nonrevenue nonreverse nonreversed nonreversible nonreversing nonreversion nonreversionable nonreviewable nonrevision nonrevival nonrevocation nonrevolting nonrevolutionary nonrevolving nonrhetorical nonrhymed nonrhyming nonrhythmic nonriding
non-Riemannian nonrioter nonripariean nonritualistic nonrival non-Roman nonromantic nonrotatable nonrotative nonround nonroutine nonroyal nonroyalist nonrubber nonruminant nonrun nonrupture nonrural non-Russian nonrustable nonsabbatic nonsaccharine nonsacerdotal nonsacramental nonsacred nonsacrifice nonsacrificial nonsailor nonsalable nonsalaried nonsale nonsaline nonsalutary nonsalutation nonsalvation nonsanctification nonsanction nonsanctity nonsanguine nonsanity non-Sanskritic nonsaponifiable nonsatisfaction nonsaturated nonsaturation nonsaving nonsawing non-Saxon nonscalding nonscaling nonscandalous non-Scandinavian nonschematized nonschismatic nonscholastic nonscience nonscientific nonscientist nonscoring nonscraping nonscrutiny nonseasonal nonsecession nonseclusion nonsecrecy nonsecret nonsecretarial nonsecretion nonsecretive nonsecretory nonsectarian nonsectional nonsectorial nonsecular nonsecurity nonsedentary nonseditious nonsegmented nonsegregation nonseizure nonselected nonselection nonselective nonself nonselfregarding nonselling non-Semite
non-Semitic nonsenatorial nonsentible nonsensitive nonsensitiveness nonsensitized nonsensorial nonsensuous nonsentient nonseparation nonseptate nonseptic nonsequacious nonsequaciousness nonsequestration nonserial nonserif nonserious nonserous nonservential nonservile nonsetter nonsetting nonsettlement nonsexist nonsexual nonsexually nonshaft non-Shakespearean nonsharing nonshatter nonshedder nonshipper nonshipping nonshredding nonshrinkable nonshrinking nonsiccative nonsidereal non-Siemens nonsignatory nonsignature nonsignificance nonsignificant nonsignification nonsignificative nonsilicated nonsiliceous nonsilver nonsimplification nonswimmer
nonsinging nonsingular nonsinkable nonsinusoidal nonsister nonskeptical nonskipping nonslaveholding non-Slavic nonslip nonslippery nonslipping nonsludging nonsmoker nonsmoking nonsitter nonsitting nonsmutting nonsocial nonsocialist nonsocialistic nonsociety nonsociological nonsolar nonsoldier nonsolicitation nonsolid nonsolidified nonsolution nonsolvency nonsolvent nonsonant nonsovereign nonspalling
non-Spanish nonsparing nonsparking non-Spartan nonspeaker nonspeaking nonspecial nonspecialist nonspecialized nonspecie nonspecific nonspecification nonspecificity nonspecified nonspectacular nonspectral nonspeculation nonspeculative nonspherical nonspill nonspillable nonspinning nonspinose nonspiny nonspiral nonspirit nonspiritual nonspirituous nonspontaneous nonsporeformer nonsporeforming nonsporting nonspottable nonsprouting nonstainable nonstaining nonstampable nonstandard nonstandardized nonstanzaic nonstaple nonstarch nonstarter nonstarting nonstatement nonstatic nonstationary nonstatistical nonstatutory nonsticky nonstimulant nonstipulation nonstock
non-Stoic nonstooping nonstrategic nonstress nonstretchable nonstretchy nonstriker nonstriking nonstriped nonstructural nonstudent nonstudious nonstylized nonsubject nonsubjective nonsubmission nonsubmissive nonsubordination nonsubscribing nonsubscription nonsubsiding nonsubsidy nonsubsistence nonsubstantial nonsubstantiality nonsubstantiation nonsubstantive nonsubstitution nonsubtraction nonsuccess nonsuccessful nonsuccession nonsuccessive nonsuccour nonsuction nonsuctorial nonsufferance nonsuffrage nonsugar nonsuggestion nonsulphurous nonsummons nonsupplication nonsupporter nonsupporting nonsuppositional nonsuppressed nonsuppression nonsuppurative nonsurface nonsurgical nonsurrender nonsurvival nonsurvivor nonsuspect nonsustaining nonsustenance nonsweating non-Swedish
nonswimmer
nonswimming non-Swiss nonsyllogistic nonsyllogizing nonsymbolic nonsymmetrical nonsympathetic nonsympathizer nonsympathy nonsymphonic nonsymptomatic nonsynchronous nonsyndicate nonsynodic nonsynonymous nonsyntactic nonsyntactical nonsynthesized nonsyntonic non-Syrian nonsystematic nontabular nontactical nontan nontangential nontannic nontannin nontariff nontarnishable nontarnishing non-Tartar nontautomeric nontautomerizable nontax nontaxability nontaxable nontaxonomic nonteachable nonteacher nonteaching nontechnical nontechnological nonteetotaler nontelegraphic nonteleological nontelephonic nontemporal nontemporizing nontenant nontenurial nonterrestrial nonterritorial nonterritoriality nontestamentary non-Teuton
non-Teutonic
nontextual nontheatrical nontheistic nontheological

N

nontheosophical nontherapeutic nonthinker nonthinking nonthoracic nonthoroughfare nonthreaded nontidal nontillable nontimbered nontitaniferous nontitular nontolerated nontopographical nontourist nontoxic nontraction nontrade nontrader nontrading nontraditional nontragic nontrailing nontransferability nontransferable nontransgression nontransient nontransitional nontranslocation nontransmission nontransparency nontransparent nontransportation nontransposing nontransposition nontraveler nontraveling nontreasonable nontreated nontreatment nontreaty nontrespass nontrial nontribal nontribesman nontributary nontrier nontrigonometrical non-Trinitarian nontropical nontrunked nontruth nontuberculous nontuned nonturbinated non-Turkish non-Tuscan non-Ukrainian nonulcerous nonultrafiltrable nonumbilical nonumbrellaed non-Umbrian nonunanimous nonuncial nonundergraduate nonunderstandable nonunderstanding nonunderstandingly nonunderstood nonundulatory nonuniformity nonunique nonunion
non-Unitarian nonunited nonuniversal non-Universalist nonuniversity nonupholstered nonupright non-Uralian nonurban nonurgent nonusage nonuse nonusing nonusurping nonuterine nonutile nonutilitarian nonutility nonutilized nonutterance nonvacant nonvaccination nonvaccinous nonvaginal nonvalidity nonvaluation nonvalue nonvanishing nonvariable nonvariant nonvariation nonvascular nonvassal
non-Vedic nonvegetative nonvenereal non-Venetian nonvenomous nonventilation nonverbal nonverdict
non-Vergilian nonverminous nonvernacular nonvertebral nonvertical nonvertically nonvesicular nonvesting nonvesture nonveteran nonveterinary nonviable nonvibratile nonvibration nonvibrator nonvibratory nonvicarious nonvictory nonvillager nonvillainous nonvindication nonvinous nonvintage nonviolation nonviolence nonvirginal
non-Virginian nonvirile nonvirtuous nonvirulent nonviruliferous nonvirtue nonvissed nonvisceral nonviscid nonviscous nonvisional nonvisitation nonvisiting nonvisual nonvisualized nonvital nonvitreous nonvitrified nonviviparous nonvocal nonvocalic nonvocational nonvolant nonvolatile nonvolatilized nonvolcanic nonvolition nonvoter nonvoting nonvulcanizable nonvulvar nonwalking nonwar nonwasting nonwatertight nonweakness
non-Welsh non-Western nonwetted nonwhite nonwinged nonwoody
nonworker nonworking nonworkship nonwrinkleable non-Yahgan nonyielding nonzealous nonzero non-Zionist nonzodiacal nonzonal nonzonate nonzoological

non'a- (nŏn'ă-), non-. A combining form, from Latin nonus, meaning ninth, as in *nona*decane, etc.

No'na (nō'nȧ), n. [L.] See FATE, n., 5.

non'a-bil'i-ty (nŏn'ă-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n. a Want of ability; incapacity. b Law. An exception taken against a plaintiff in a cause as not having legal capacity to sue.

non'ab-jur'er (nŏn'ăb-jo͝or'ẽr), n. Eng. Hist. One who refused to take the oath of abjuration of the Stuart line, contained in an act in 1702.

non-ac'cess (nŏn-ăk'sĕs), n. Law. The nonexistence of opportunity for sexual intercourse, esp. as between husband and wife.

non'a-co'sane (nŏn'ă-kō'sān), n. [nona- + Gr. eikosi twenty.] Chem. Any paraffin hydrocarbon of the formula $C_{29}H_{60}$; specif., the one of normal structure.

non'act' (nŏn'ăkt'), n. That which is not an act; a forbearance.

non'ad-dress' (nŏn'ă-drĕs'), n. Dissent from the address of Parliament to the King. Obs. — non'ad-dress'er (-ẽr), n. Obs.

non'a-dec'ane (nŏn'ă-dĕk'ān), n. [nona- + L. decem ten.] Chem. A hydrocarbon of the paraffin series, $C_{19}H_{40}$; — so called from the number of carbon atoms in the molecule; specif., the normal variety.

non'ad-jus'tive (nŏn'ă-jŭs'tĭv), adj. [non + adjustive.] Psychol. Ill-suited to the conditions of one's life; contributing to maladjustment.

non'a'er-o-bi-ot'ic (nŏn'ā'ẽr-ō-bī-ŏt'ĭk), adj. Biol. Anaerobic.

no'nage (nō'nĭj; nŏn'ĭj), n. [ML. nonagium, fr. L. nonus ninth. See NOON.] Eccl. The ninth part of movable goods of a decedent, formerly payable to the clergy.

non'age (nŏn'ăj; nŏn'ĭj), n. [OF. See NON-; AGE.] State of not being of age; legal minority; immaturity.

non'a-ge-nar'i-an (nŏn'ă-jẽ-nâr'ĭ-ăn or, esp. Brit., nō'nȧ-; 277), adj. [L. nonagenarius containing, or consisting of, ninety, fr. nonageni ninety each; akin to L. novem nine.] Ninety, or between ninety and one hundred, years old. — n. A person of such age.

non'a-ges'i-mal (-jĕs'ĭ-măl), adj. [L. nonagesimus the ninetieth. Cf. NONAGENARIAN.] Ninetieth.

non'a-ges'i-mal (nŏn'ă-jĕs'ĭ-măl), n. Astron. The middle or highest point of that half of the ecliptic which is at any moment above (or, sometimes, below) the horizon; the ninetieth degree of the ecliptic, reckoned from the horizon.

non'a-gon (nŏn'ă-gŏn), n. [L. nonus ninth + Gr. gōnia angle.] Math. A polygon having nine angles and therefore nine sides. The area A of a regular nonagon of side a may be found from the formula $A = 6.182\ a^2$.

non'a-hy'drate (nŏn'ă-hī'drāt), n. [nona- + hydrate.] Chem. A compound with nine molecules of water.

non'a-mi'no (nŏn'ă-mē'nō; -ăm'ĭ-nō), adj. [non- + amino.] Anal. Chem. Not in the form of the amino group, NH_2; as, nonamino nitrogen.

no'nane (nō'nān; nŏn'ān), n. [L. nonus ninth.] Chem. Any of several liquid isomeric hydrocarbons, C_9H_{20}, of the methane series; specif., the normal variety, obtained from petroleum.

non'ap-pear'ance (nŏn'ă-pē̆r'ăns), n. Default of appearance, as in court, to prosecute or defend; failure to appear. — non'ap-pear'er (-ẽr), n.

non'-Ar'chi-me'de-an, adj. Math. Not assuming the axiom of Archimedes. Cf. NON-PYTHAGOREAN.

non-arc'ing, non-arck'ing (nŏn-ärk'ĭng), adj. Designating a metal, as metals of the zinc group and their alloys, that will not readily maintain an electric arc.

no'na-ry (nō'nȧ-rĭ), adj. [L. nonus ninth; cf. L. nonarius of the ninth hour.] 1. a Nonuple. b Obs. = NONAN. 2. Math. a Using nine as the radix or base; — said of a system of numeration. b Involving nine variables.

no'na-ry, n. [See NONARY, adj.] A group of nine. Rare.

‖non as-sump'sit (ŏ-sŭmp'sĭt; ŏ-sŭm'sĭt). [L., he did not undertake.] Law. The general plea or denial in an action of assumpsit.

non'be'ing (nŏn'bē'ĭng), n. Absence of being; nonexistence; void; also, Rare, a nonexistent thing.

non-bev'er-age (nŏn-bĕv'ẽr-ĭj), adj. Not used as a beverage; not suitable for use as a beverage.

Non'cal-ca're-a (nŏn'kăl-kā'rē-ȧ; 79), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. One of two main divisions into which the sponges are often separated, including all except the Calcarea (which see).

non-call'a-ble (nŏn-kôl'ȧ-b'l), adj. That cannot be called. Cf. CALLABLE. — non'call-a-bil'i-ty (nŏn'kôl-ȧ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.

non'caste' (nŏn'kăst'; 66), adj. Of no caste or rank.

nonce (nŏns; 232), n. [For the nonce, fr. ME. for the nones, fr. for then ones, where n in then is a relic of AS. m in tham, dat. of the article and demonstrative pronoun, E. the. See THE; ONCE.] Literally, the one, single, particular, or present (occasion, use, or purpose); — chiefly used in the phrase for the nonce, which, in modern literary English, denotes, for the special occasion, or, more usually, for the time being; temporarily.

I dismissed my curiosity for the nonce. Poe.

— at the very nonce. At the very moment. — for the very nonce. For the express purpose. Obs.

non'cer-tain' (nŏn'sẽr-tān'), adj. Uncertain. — n. Uncertainty. Obs. Chaucer.

nonce word. A word formed and used for the nonce, that is, to suit one particular occasion, but not adopted into use (decorist; diphrelatic; mammonolatry). A nonce word is sometimes used independently by different writers.

non'cha-lance (nŏn'shȧ-lăns; -lāns), n. [F. See NONCHALANT.] State of being nonchalant; want of enthusiasm or interest; carelessness; also, Colloq., jaunty carelessness, as of consequences; gay imperturbability.

The cat . . . eying the pigeons with an air of nonchalance. Poe.

non'cha-lant (-lănt; -lānt), adj. [F., fr. non not (fr. L. non) + chaloir to concern (oneself) for, fr. L. calere to be warm, to be inflamed with desire, to be troubled. See NON-; CALDRON.] 1. Lacking in warmth of feeling, enthusiasm, or interest; indifferent; careless; also, Colloq., jauntily indifferent, as to consequences; casual and imperturbable. 2. Evoking nonchalance.

Syn. — See COOL. Ant. — Interested, enthusiastic.

— non'cha-lant-ly, adv. — non'cha-lant-ness, n.

non'claim' (nŏn'klām'), n. [AF. nounclaim.] Law. Neglect or failure to make a demand within the time limited by law.

non'com' (nŏn'kŏm'), adj. & n. Mil. Noncommissioned (officer). Colloq.

non-com'bat-ant (nŏn-kŏm'bȧ-tănt; -kŭm'-), n. Mil. A person whose military or naval duties do not include fighting, as a chaplain, a member of the medical or pay corps, etc.; also, any civilian.

non'come' (nŏn'kŭm'), n. Prob., short for NON COMPOS MENTIS. Shak.

non'com-men'su-ra-ble (nŏn'kŏ-mĕn'shŏŏ-rȧ-b'l), adj. Not commensurable; specif., Math., = INCOMMENSURABLE, adj., 1.

non'com-mis'sioned (nŏn'kŏ-mĭsh'ŭnd), adj. Not having a commission.

noncommissioned officer. Mil. A subordinate officer appointed from the enlisted personnel of an army, holding his rank by virtue, not of a commission, but of a warrant issued by an appointing officer named by law. In the United States Army, noncommissioned officers consist of corporals and sergeants appointed by regimental commanders, by commanders of detached companies and battalions, by corps area and department commanders, and by the chiefs of branches, according to specific War Department authorization. Their warrants of appointment may terminate by termination of enlistment, by court-martial as provided by the Articles of War, at the will of the Secretary of War, or for misconduct or inefficiency, at the will of the appointing officer.

non'com-mit'tal (nŏn'kŏ-mĭt'ăl; -'l), adj. Characterized by forbearance or refusal to commit oneself; indicating neither consent nor dissent. — non'com-mit'tal-ism (-ĭz'm), n. — non'com-mit'tal-ly, adv. — non'com-mit'tal-ness, n.

non'com-mit'tal (nŏn'kŏ-mĭt'ăl; -'l), n. State of not being committed or pledged; forbearance to commit oneself.

non'com-mu'ni-cant (-kŏ-mū'nĭ-kănt), adj. Not partaking of the Communion; not communicating. — n. Eccl. One not a communicant; one who does not receive the Communion; specif., in England, in the 17th century, often, one who did not communicate in a church of the Establishment.

non'com-mun'ion (-mūn'yŭn), n. 1. Obs. a Want of communion, or fellowship. b Exclusion from the Communion. 2. Neglect or refusal to receive the Communion, esp. in a church of the Establishment in England.

non'com-mu'ta-tive (-kŏ-mū'tȧ-tĭv; -kŏm'ū-tā'tĭv), adj. Not commutative; as, noncommutative algebra (see ALGEBRA, n., 2).

non'com-pear'ance (nŏn'kŏm-pē̆r'ăns), n. Scots Law. Default in appearing in court.

non' com'pos (nŏn' kŏm'pŏs). Short for NON COMPOS MENTIS.

non-com'pos (nŏn-kŏm'pŏs), n.; pl. -POSES, -POSSES (-ĕz; -ĭz; 119). One who is non compos mentis.

‖non com'pos men'tis (mĕn'tĭs). [L.] Law. Not of sound mind; — a term including all forms of mental unsoundness.

non'com-pound'er (nŏn'kŏm-poun'dẽr), n. One who does not compound; specif. [usually cap.], Eng. Hist., one of those Jacobites who desired the unconditional restoration of James II after his abdication.

non'con-dens'ing (-kŏn-dĕn'sĭng), adj. Not condensing; as, a noncondensing engine (see STEAM ENGINE).

non'con-duc'tor (-dŭk'tẽr), n. Physics. A substance that does not conduct (convey or transmit) heat, electricity, sound, or the like, or rather, that conducts them with difficulty; an insulator; as, rubber, dry gases, silk, glass, wax, shellac, etc., are nonconductors of electricity.

non'con-form' (nŏn'kŏn-fôrm'), v. i. To fail to conform.

non'con-form', adj. Nonconforming. Obs. Oxf. E. D.

non'con-form'a-ble (-fôr'mȧ-b'l), adj. Nonconforming — non'con-form'a-bly, adv.

non'con-form'er (-fôr'mẽr), n. Nonconformist. Rare.

non'con-form'ing (-fôr'mĭng), adj. Not conforming declining conformity, esp. to the established church.

non'con-form'ing, n. Failure to conform; nonconformity non'con-form'ism (-fôr'mĭz'm), n. Nonconformity as a system.

non'con-form'ist (-mĭst), n. 1. One who does not conform to an established church or its doctrine, discipline, or polity; esp. [often cap.], one who does not conform to the established church of England, — orig., a member who refused to conform to its discipline or practice in certain respects; specif., one of the clergymen (about 2,000) who left the Church of England in 1662, rather than submit to the Act of Uniformity; later, a member of a religious body separated from it; a dissenter, now, chiefly, a Protestant dissenter.

2. One who refuses to conform to some practice or course of action or conduct. Obs.

Syn. — See HERETIC.

non'con-form'ist, adj. [often cap.] Nonconforming.

non'con-for-mis'ti-cal (nŏn'kŏn-fôr-mĭs'tĭ-kăl), adj. Characteristic of nonconformists, or dissenters. — non'con-for-mis'ti-cal-ly, adv.

non'con-form'i-ty (nŏn'kŏn-fôr'mĭ-tĭ), n. 1. Neglect, failure, or want of conformity, or refusal to conform, as to a rule or practice; specif., refusal or neglect to conform to an established church, orig., and now chiefly [often cap.], to the Church of England, or its doctrine, discipline, or polity; principles or practice of nonconformists, esp. Protestant dissenters.

2. [often cap.] Nonconformists collectively.

3. Absence of agreement or correspondence in any matter.

non'con-tent' (nŏn'kŏn-tĕnt'), n. 1. In the British House of Lords, one who gives a negative vote; — sometimes shortened into noncon or non con. Cf. 4th CONTENT, 4.

2. A person who is not content. Rare.

non'con-tin'u-ous ease'ment (-kŏn-tĭn'ū-ŭs). Law. A discontinuous easement. See EASEMENT, n., 3.

non'con-tra-dic'tion (nŏn'kŏn-trȧ-dĭk'shŭn), n. Logic. See NON-; — sometimes used in the phrase law of noncontradiction, which is equivalent to law of contradiction.

non'-co-op'er-a'tion, n. Failure or refusal to co-operate; specif., refusal, through civil disobedience, of a people to co-operate with the government of a country, esp. by nonpayment of taxes, and, sometimes, by boycotting the courts, legislative councils, educational institutions, etc.; — used esp. of the policy of Gandhi and his followers in India. See SATYAGRAHA. — non'-co-op'er-a'tion-ist, n. — non'-co-op'er-a'tive, adj. — non'-co-op'er-a'tor, n.

non'cu-ran'tist (nŏn'kū-răn'tĭst), adj. [It. noncurante indifferent.] Characterized by indifference.

non'da (nŏn'dȧ), n. [Native name.] The edible plumlike fruit of an Australian tree (Parinarium nonda); also, the tree itself.

Non'de-cid'u-a'ta (nŏn'dē-sĭd'ū-ā'tȧ), n. pl. [NL.] Zool The mammals having a nondeciduate placenta.

non'de-cid'u-ate (-sĭd'ū-āt), adj. Zool. Having no decidua; indeciduate; as, a nondeciduate placenta (see PLACENTA, 1).

non'de-nom'i-na'tion-al (-dē-nŏm'ĭ-nā'shŭn-ăl; -'l), adj. Not restricted to a denomination. — non'de-nom'i-na'tion-al-ism (-ĭz'm), n.

non'de-nu'mer-a-ble (-nū'mĕr-ȧ-b'l), adj. [non + denumerable.] Math. Having elements that cannot be set into one-to-one correspondence with the positive integers; having a cardinal number greater than alefnull; — said of a class or aggregate.

non'de-pend'ent (-dē-pĕn'dĕnt), adj. Gram. Independent.

non'de-script (nŏn'dē-skrĭpt), adj. [non- + L. descriptus described.] 1. Not hitherto described. Obs. 2. Not easily described; unclassifiable; belonging, or apparently belonging, to no particular class or kind.

Syn. — Indeterminable, indescribable.

Ant. — Definite, classifiable.

non'de-script, n. 1. A thing, as a species of a plant, mineral, etc., not hitherto described. Obs. 2. A person or thing not easily classified, or of no particular class or kind; — usually applied disparagingly.

‖non de'ti-net (dĕt'ĭ-nĕt). [L., he does not detain.] Law. The general issue in an action of detinue. It puts in issue only the question of detainer.

non'dis-junct' (nŏn'dĭs-jŭngkt'), adj. Biol. Nondisjunctional.

non'dis-junc'tion (-jŭngk'shŭn), n. Biol. The failure of two homologous chromosomes to separate during reduction division. — non'dis-junc'tion-al (-ăl; -'l), adj.

non'do (nŏn'dō), n. A perennial herb (Ligusticum canadense) of the eastern United States, having an aromatic root.

non-dump'ing (nŏn-dŭmp'ĭng), adj. Not dumping; as, a nondumping certificate. See DUMPING, n., 2.

none (nŭn), pron. [ME. none, noon, non, nan, fr. AS. nān, fr. ne not + ān one. See NO, adj. & adv.; ONE. Cf. NON-, NULL.] 1. Not any. As subject, none with a plural verb is the commoner construction.

None of their productions are extant. Blair.

2. No one; not one; nobody.

None but the brave deserves the fair. Dryden.

3. Not any such thing or person; as, half a loaf is better than none.

Like those that go for honest men, and are none. T. Wilson.

none (nŭn), adj. No; not any; — now only before a vowel or h, or after its noun; as, thou shalt have none assurance of thy life. Archaic.

none (nŭn), adv. Not at all; in no way; to no extent.

none (nōn), n. [F., fr. L. nona. See NOON.] 1. The part of the day from 3 P.M. to 6 P.M. Obs.

2. [often cap.] Eccl. One of the canonical hours, being the ninth hour (according to the ancient Roman and Eastern reckoning), or 3 P.M.; hence, an office recited, formerly at 3 P.M., but now in the Roman Catholic Church often somewhat earlier.

Non'ad'o-ran'tes, n. pl. [NL.] Eccl. Hist. See ADORANTES.

‖No'nae Ca'pro-ti'nae (nō'nē kăp'rō-tī'nē). [L.] See JUNO, 1.

non'a-ko'sane. Var. of NONACOSANE.

no'nan (nō'năn), adj. Also no'nane. [L. nonanus, fr. nonus ninth.] Recurring on the ninth day; as, nonan fever. Obs.

non'a-naph'thene (nŏn'ȧ-năf'thēn), n. Chem. See NAPHTHENE.

‖non An'gli sed an'ge-li. [L.] Not Angles, but angels; — according to Bede (Eccl. Hist., II. 1) said by Pope Gregory the Great of some English slaves whom he saw exposed for sale in the public market at Rome.

non'a-no'ic (nŏn'ȧ-nō'ĭk), adj. Chem. = PELARGONIC.

non-aph'thene. Var. of NONANAPHTHENE (see NAPHTHENE).

nonapparent easement or servitude. See APPARENT EASEMENT.

non'as-ses'a-ble mu'tu-al. See MUTUAL, adj., 7.

non-as'o-tized (nŏn-ăz'ō-tīzd), adj. Biochem. = NONNITROGENOUS.

non'chord' tone. Music. = AUXILIARY TONE.

noncon, n. Short for NONCONFORMIST, NONCONTENT. Colloq.

non'con-form'i-tan-cy, n. Nonconformity. Obs.

non'con-form'i-tant, n. Also non'con-form'i-tan. Nonconformist. Obs. [Rare.] non'con-sent', n. & v. See NON-; non con'stat (kŏn'stăt). [L.] It does not appear; it is not plain or clear; it does not follow.

non'cu-pa'tive. Var. of NUNCUPATIVE.

non'cu-ple, adj. [nona- + decuple.] Ninefold. Obs.

non-cy'clic (nŏn-sī'klĭk; -sĭk'lĭk), adj. = ACYCLIC. [illegible] ordinates (see 3d [illegible] ORDINATE, 2), noncyclic motion (see ACYCLIC MOTION).

non-dec'ane, n. = NONADECANE.

none. † NOON, NUN.

---

non'ef·fec'tive (nŏn'ĕ·fĕk'tĭv; -ĭ·fĕk'-), adj. a Not effective. b Mil. & Nav. Not fit or available for duty.

non'ef·fec'tive, n. A soldier or sailor unfit or unavailable for regular duty, as because of sickness, wounds, detached service, etc.

non·e'go (nŏn·ē'gō; -ĕg'ō), n.; pl. -GOS (-gōz). Philos. The external world or object of knowledge as contrasted with the subject or ego; — esp. so applied in the idealistic doctrines of Fichte and Schelling. See EGO b.

no'nene (nō'nēn; nŏn'ēn), n. [non- (see NONA-) + -ene.] Chem. Any of four normal hydrocarbons, C_9H_{18}, of the ethylene series.

non'ent' (nŏn'ĕnt'), n. Philos. That which does not exist.

non·en'ti·ta'tive (nŏn·ĕn'tĭ·tā'tĭv; -tə·tĭv), non·en'ti·tive (-tĭv), adj. That is a nonentity; nonexistent.

non·en'ti·tize (-ĕn'tĭ·tīz), v. t. To reduce to nonentity.

non·en'ti·ty (nŏn·ĕn'tĭ·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). 1. Quality or state of not existing; nonexistence; negation of being. 2. A thing not existing, or existing only in the imagination. 3. A person or thing of little or no account. — non·en'ti·ty·ism, n.

non·en'tres, non·en'tresse (nŏn·ĕn'trĕs), n. [non- + entresse.] Scots Feudal Law. Failure of an heir to make entry, or the feudal casualty arising therefrom.

non·en'try (-ĕn'trĭ), n. Fact of not entering; specif., Scots Feudal Law, nonentres.

nones (nōnz). Archaic or dial. Eng. var. of NONCE.

nones (nōnz), n., pl. [F., fr. L. nonae, so called because it was the ninth day before the ides, fr. nonus ninth. See NOON.] 1. The ninth day before the ides (counting the ides) in the Roman calendar. See ROMAN CALENDAR. 2. [cap.] Eccl. = 4th NONE, 2; — orig. an error.

none'-so-pret'ty, n. 1. A kind of decorative braid or tape used in the late 18th century. 2. a The London pride Saxifraga umbrosa. b Mahon stock.

‖non es'se (nŏn ĕs'ē). [L.] Nonbeing; nonexistence.

non'es·sen'tial clause (nŏn'ĕ·sĕn'shăl). Gram. A nonrestrictive clause.

nonessential property. See PROPERTY, n., 7 b.

‖non est (nŏn ĕst). [L.] 1. It is not; it is wanting. 2. Short for NON EST INVENTUS.

‖non est dis'pu·tan'dum (dĭs'pū·tăn'dŭm). [L.] Not to be disputed; not subject to argument.

‖non est fac'tum (făk'tŭm). [L., it was not done.] Law. The plea of the general issue in an action of debt on bond or other specialty.

‖non est in·ven'tus (ĭn·vĕn'tŭs). [L., he was not found.] Law. The return of a sheriff on a writ when the defendant is not found in his jurisdiction.

none'such' (nŭn'sŭch'), n. 1. A person or thing that no other approaches in likeness; specif.: a An unequaled or unrivaled thing or person; a paragon. b Rare. A thing unequaled for badness or the like. c Rare. The greatest, most conspicuous, most eminent, etc., one. 2. a A kind of apple, mentioned in literature, usually the Hubbardston. b The black medic. c The scarlet lychnis.

none'such', adj. Unequaled; unrivaled; matchless.

no·net' (nō·nĕt'), n. Also ‖no·net'to (nō·nĕt'tō). [It. nonetto, fr. nono ninth. Cf. NONES.] Music. A composition for nine instruments or, rarely, for nine voices.

none'the·less' (nŭn'thĕ·lĕs'), adv. None the less, written as one word in analogy with nevertheless.

non'·Eu·clid'e·an (nŏn'ū·klĭd'ē·ăn), non'·Eu·clid'i·an (-ū·klĭd'ĭ·ăn), adj. Math. Not Euclidean; specif., not assuming all the axioms and postulates assumed in the Elements of Euclid; not assuming the 11th axiom, concerning parallels; — applied to forms of space and of geometry. See EUCLIDEAN, ELLIPTIC, SPACE, HYPERBOLIC SPACE, GEOMETRY.

non'ex·ist'ence (nŏn'ĕg·zĭs'tĕns), n. 1. Absence of existence; the negation of being; nonentity. 2. That which or a thing that has no existence.

non'ex·ist'ent (-tĕnt), adj. Not having existence. — n. A person or thing that has no existence; a nonbeing.

non·fea'sance (nŏn·fē'zăns), n. Law. Omission to do something, esp. what ought to have been done.

non·fea'sor (-fē'zĕr), n. Law. One guilty of nonfeasance.

non·fer'rous (-fĕr'ŭs), adj. [non- + ferrous.] Not containing, including, or pertaining to, iron; relating to metals other than iron; as, a nonferrous foundry.

non·flam'ma·ble (-flăm'ə·b'l), adj. Not flammable; capable of being burned when subjected to fire, but not supporting flame; — preferred for technical use to uninflammable.

non·for'feit·ure law (nŏn·fôr'fĭ·tûr). Life Insurance. A law requiring life-insurance companies, within certain limitations, to grant surrender values (which see) on policies for which premium payments have been discontinued.

‖non gra'ta (nŏn grā'tə). [L.] Unwelcome; not approved.

non'har·mon'ic (nŏn'här·mŏn'ĭk), adj. Not harmonic; specif., Music, not belonging to the essential harmony; ornamental; auxiliary; — said of notes and tones.

non·hear'er (nŏn·hēr'ĕr), n. Scot. Hist. One of the Cameronians, or Presbyterian nonjurors, when they had become so few as not to have a meetinghouse anywhere.

non'hy·dro·gen'ic at'om (nŏn'hī·drō·jĕn'ĭk). Physics & Chem. An atom or ion consisting of a positive nucleus and more than one electron.

no'nic (nō'nĭk; nŏn'ĭk), n. [L. nonus ninth.] Math. A curve or quantic of the ninth degree.

no·nil'lion (nō·nĭl'yŭn), n. [F., fr. L. nonus ninth, after million.] In French and American notation, a thousand octillions, or a unit with 30 ciphers annexed; in English notation, a million octillions, or a unit with 54 ciphers annexed. See NUMERATION, Note. — no·nil'lionth (-yŭnth), n.

Non'im·por·ta'tion Act or A·greement (nŏn'ĭm·pôr·tā'shŭn). U. S. Hist. Any of several acts of the American colonies (1768–74) prohibiting the importation of certain articles from Great Britain and her colonies, or a similar act of the United States in 1806.

non'in·creas'ing (nŏn'ĭn·krēs'ĭng), adj. Not increasing; decreasing; as, a nonincreasing function (see DECREASING FUNCTION).

non'in·duc'tive (nŏn'ĭn·dŭk'tĭv), adj. Not inductive, as an electrical resistance. See RESISTANCE, 4. — non'in·duc'tive·ly, adv. — non'in·duc·tiv'i·ty (-dŭk·tĭv'ĭ·tĭ), n.

Non·in'ter·course Act (nŏn·ĭn'tĕr·kôrs; 181). U. S. Hist. An act of Congress, March 1, 1809, following the Embargo Act of 1807 (which see), which prohibited all commercial intercourse with England and France and their dependencies.

non'in·ter·sec'tor (nŏn'ĭn·tĕr·sĕk'tĕr), n. Math. A line not meeting a given line.

non'in·ter·ven'tion (nŏn'ĭn·tĕr·vĕn'shŭn), n. State or habit of not intervening or interfering; failure or refusal to intervene. — non'in·ter·ven'tion·al·ist (-ăl·ĭst), n. — non'in·ter·ven'tion·ist, n.

non'in·tru'sion (nŏn'ĭn·trōō'zhŭn), n. Want of intrusion; refusal to intrude; specif., Scot. Eccl. Hist., the principle that a minister may not be settled in a parish against the will of the people. — non'in·tru'sion·ism (-ĭz'm), n. — non'in·tru'sion·ist (-ĭst), n.

no'ni·on (nō'nĭ·ŏn), n. [L. nonus ninth.] Math. The general linear vector function involving nine constants. Obs.

non'i·so·bar'ic (nŏn'ī·sō·băr'ĭk), adj. Meteorol. Not directly associated with any definite form of isobars or isobaric gradients.

non·is'su·a·ble (nŏn·ĭsh'ū·ə·b'l), adj. Law. Not of such a nature as to support an issue on the merits; — said of pleas.

no'ni·us (nō'nĭ·ŭs), n. [After Pedro Nunes, Latinized as Petrus Nonius, Pg. mathematician.] A device formerly used in graduating instruments, etc. It was subsequently improved into the vernier. See VERNIER.

non·join'der (nŏn·join'dĕr), n. Law. The omission of some person who ought to have been made a party to a suit, or of some cause of action which ought to be joined.

non·ju'ran·cy (nŏn·jōō'răn·sĭ), n. Eng. Hist. State of being a nonjuror; nonjuring principles. — non·ju'rantism (-ăn·tĭz'm), n. Obs.

non·ju'rant (nŏn·jōō'rănt; 242), adj. Eng. Hist. Nonjuring; pert. to, or characteristic of, nonjurors. — n. Eng. Hist. A nonjuror; sometimes, specif., a Presbyterian nonjuror.

non·ju'ring (-ĭng), adj. [From NONJUROR.] Not swearing allegiance; — applied specif. to the party in Great Britain that would not swear allegiance to William and Mary or to their successors.

non·ju'ror (nŏn·jōō'rĕr; 242), n. [non- + juror.] Eng. Hist. One who refused to take a certain oath (esp. one of allegiance, supremacy, or abjuration); specif. [often cap.]: a Esp. and orig., one of those beneficed clergy in England and Scotland who refused to take the oath of allegiance to William and Mary, or to their successors, after the revolution of 1688. b Among the Scotch Presbyterians, one who refused to take the oath of abjuration (1702), as involving recognition of episcopacy. — non·ju'ror·ism (-ĭz'm), n.

non le day (nŏn' lē' dā). [le is abbr. fr. ML. (dies) legibilis day for reading. Oxf. E. D. See LEGIBLE.] Hist. In schools, a day on which the ordinary exercises were omitted; a holiday; day of rest.

non·le'gal (nŏn·lē'găl), adj. Not legal; specif., not having legal qualities of any kind; not within the province of the law so as to be either required as legal or forbidden as illegal.

non'·Le·gen'dre·an (nŏn'lē·jĕn'drē·ăn), adj. Math. Not accepting the theory of parallels developed in Legendre's Éléments de géométrie (1794), but admitting an infinity of nonintersectors of a line drawn through a point not on the line, in the plane of the point and line; also, having the sum of the three angles of a triangle always greater than two right angles.

‖non li'bet (lī'bĕt; lĭb'ĕt). [L.] It is not pleasing.

‖non li'cet (lī'sĕt; lĭs'ĕt). [L.] It is not permitted or lawful.

non·li'cet, adj. Not permitted; unlawful.

‖non li'quet (nŏn lī'kwĕt; lĭk'wĕt). [L.] Rom. Law. Literally, it is not clear; — used by judices in rendering a decision in a doubtful case.

non·lo'cal·ized vec'tor (nŏn·lō'kăl·īzd). Math. A vector which requires for its description only its magnitude and direction. Cf. LOCALIZED VECTOR.

non·mem'ber bank (nŏn·mĕm'bĕr). U. S. Banking. a A commercial bank not a member of the Federal Reserve System. b Local. A bank not a member of a clearing-house association.

non'met'al (nŏn'mĕt'l), n. Chem. An element that is not a metal; any of several elements, as boron, carbon, phosphorus, nitrogen, argon, oxygen, sulphur, chlorine, bromine, etc., which do not form basic oxides or basic hydroxides. The nonmetals do not in general resemble the metals physically, and most of them, unlike the metals, form stable compounds with hydrogen. Certain elements, as arsenic, antimony, and tellurium, which share the properties of metals and nonmetals, are by some placed in a special class called metalloids. See METAL, 8.

non'me·tal'lic (nŏn'mĕ·tăl'ĭk), adj. 1. Not metallic. 2. Chem. Of, pert. to, or of the nature of, a nonmetal.

non·me'tered mail (nŏn·mē'tĕrd). Post Office. Mail matter prepared in a manner similar to that of metered mail, but by an electrical machine that is not controlled by the post office. The postage is paid by count or weight or at bulk rates.

non·mod'al (nŏn·mōd'ăl; -'l), adj. Not modal; specif., Gram., see MODAL, 2 a.

non·mor'al (nŏn·mŏr'ăl), adj. Neither moral nor immoral; not in the sphere of morals or ethics; also, wanting in morality. — non'mo·ral'i·ty (nŏn'mō·răl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

non'nant' (nŏn'nănt'), n. [non- + L. nans, nantis, swimming, pres. part.] At Eton College, England, one who cannot swim.

non'nat (nŏn'ăt), n. [F.] a A very small, translucent, gobioid food fish (Aphia pellucida) of the Mediterranean. b The young of various other fishes caught with the true nonnat.

non·nat'u·ral (nŏn·năt'ū·răl), adj. Not natural; specif.: a Old Med. Not naturally a cause of disease. b Not belonging or conforming to the order or course of nature; not dependent on or harmonious with nature; unnatural. c Not according to the natural interpretation; forced; as, to take a word in a nonnatural sense. — non'nat·u·ral'i·ty (nŏn'năt·ū·răl'ĭ·tĭ), non·nat'u·ral·ness, n.

non·nat'u·ral·ism (-ĭz'm), n. Nonnatural quality, character, or style; a nonnatural or forced word, expression, or characteristic. — non'nat·u·ral·is'tic (nŏn'năt·ū·răl·ĭs'tĭk), adj.

non·nat'u·rals (-răls), n. pl. Nonnatural things or objects; — rare in sing.

non'ni·trog'e·nous (nŏn'nī·trŏj'ĕ·nŭs), adj. Devoid of nitrogen; as, a nonnitrogenous principle. See FOOD, n., 1.

non'ny–non'ny (nŏn'ĭ·nŏn'ĭ). An expression used as a refrain, often with indelicate suggestion. Archaic.

‖non ob·stan'te (nŏn ŏb·stăn'tē). [L.] Abbr. non obst. 1. As an adverbial or prepositional phrase: Notwithstanding; in opposition to, or in spite of, what has been stated, or is to be stated or admitted. 2. As a noun phrase: a Law. A clause, non obstante aliquo statuo in contrarium, in old English statutes and letters patent, importing a license from the crown to do a thing, or a dispensation from the legal penalty for a thing done, notwithstanding any statute to the contrary. This prerogative was abolished by the Bill of Rights. b Eccl. Hist. A clause, non obstantibus quibuscumque privilegiis (notwithstanding any privileges whatsoever), introduced into the canon law by Innocent III (Pope 1198–1216). It imported the setting aside of all obstacles to the enjoyment of a benefice by him who had obtained it. The clause was used also in papal bulls, and hence was imitated by King Henry III, the introducer of the clause described in a. c Obs. A dispensation or relaxation, as of a rule; also, an exception, as to a rule.

‖non ob·stan'te ve're·dic'to (nŏn ŏb·stăn'tē vĕr'ē·dĭk'tō). [ML.] Law. A judgment entered by order of the court on motion of the plaintiff, for the plaintiff, notwithstanding a verdict for the defendant (as when the record shows that the defendant is not entitled to the judgment).

no·no'ic (nō·nō'ĭk), adj. [L. nonus ninth.] Chem. Designating any saturated monobasic acid containing nine carbon atoms ($C_9H_{18}O_2$); specif., n-nonoic or pelargonic.

non·o'pen·ing (nŏn·ō'pĕn·ĭng; -ōp'nĭng), adj. Not opening; as, a nonopening die head (see DIE HEAD).

non'pa·reil' (nŏn'pə·rĕl'), adj. [F., fr. non not + pareil equal, fr. LL. pariculus, dim. of L. par equal. See NON; PEER, n.] Having no equal; peerless.

non'pa·reil', n. [See NONPAREIL, adj.] 1. Something of unequaled excellence; a nonesuch; paragon; — often used as a name, as for a kind of sweetmeat (orris powder covered with sugar), a kind of apple, a kind of wheat, etc. 2. The painted bunting. 3. [F. nonpareille.] Print. A size of type (6 points). See TYPE, n., 17.

☞ This line is printed in nonpareil.

non·par'ous (nŏn·păr'ŭs), adj. [non- + -parous.] Physiol. & Med. Not having borne children.

non'par·tic'i·pat'ing (nŏn'pär·tĭs'ĭ·păt'ĭng; nŏn'pĕr-), adj. See NON-; specif., Insurance, not participating, or giving the right to participate, in surplus or profit.

non·par'ti·san (nŏn·păr'tĭ·zăn), adj. Not partisan; of, pert. to, or consisting of, persons appointed or elected without regard to political affiliations; not controlled by parties or party spirit or interests; as, a nonpartisan board.

Nonpartisan League. An organization formed in North Dakota in 1915 as a nonpartisan body to reform the system of marketing farm products in agricultural States, and to promote the public ownership of public necessities.

nonpartisan primary election. See PRIMARY ELECTION.

non·pas'ser·ine (-păs'ĕr·ĭn; -īn), adj. Zool. Not passerine; — often designating esp. the birds of the order Coraciiformes.

non·per'ma·nent (nŏn·pûr'mə·nĕnt), adj. Not permanent; specif., designating any one of nine member states of the League of Nations elected by the Assembly, three each year for a period of three years, as members of the Council.

non'phe·nom'e·nal (nŏn'fē·nŏm'ĕ·năl; -n'l), adj. Noumenal; existing as a reality.

‖non pla'cet (nŏn plā'sĕt). [L.] It does not please; — used in giving a negative vote in ecclesiastical assemblies and in the legislative assemblies of the older universities; hence, a negative vote; an expression of disapproval.

non·pla'cet (nŏn·plā'sĕt), v. t. To vote non placet, or in the negative; to reject, as a grace (Eng. Univ.).

non'plane' (nŏn'plān'; 66), adj. Math. Not lying in one plane; twisted; — said of certain curves.

non'plus (nŏn'plŭs), n. [L. non not + plus more, further. See PLURAL.] A state in which no more can be said or done, or which baffles reason or confounds judgment; inability to proceed or decide; puzzle; quandary; — usually in the phrases at, to, or in a nonplus. "A perfect nonplus and baffle to all human understanding." South.

non'plus, v. t.; NON'PLUSED (-plŭst) or NON'PLUSSED; NON'PLUS·ING or NON'PLUS·SING. To bring, put, reduce, etc., to a nonplus; to puzzle; to stop, or render helpless, by perplexity or the like; as, he was nonplused by the question.

non'plus, adj. At a nonplus; nonplused; perplexed. Obs.

non'plus·a'tion, non'plus·sa'tion (nŏn'plŭs·ā'shŭn), n. A nonplusing; state of being nonplused.

non·po'lar (nŏn·pō'lĕr), adj. Not polar; specif., Physical Chem., pert. to or designating combination in which two or more atoms with incomplete electron shells make up for their instability by sharing electrons, thus achieving completed outer shells which neither could attain individually. A single nonpolar bond, then, consists of a pair of shared electrons.

non·pos'i·tive (-pŏz'ĭ·tĭv), adj. Negative or privative.

‖non pos'su·mus (pŏs'ū·mŭs). [L.] Literally, we cannot; — used to express the impossibility of acting or moving in a matter, as by the Pope in refusal of a request.

non'pro·duc'tive (nŏn'prō·dŭk'tĭv), adj. Unproductive; also, not directly productive; — applied specif. to: a Labor not directly concerned with production, as clerks, inspectors, etc. b Cost Accounting. Sometimes, general or overhead expenditures. — non'pro·duc'tive·ly, adv. — non'pro·duc'tive·ness, n.

non'·pros' (nŏn'prŏs'), v. t.; NON'·PROSSED' (-prŏst'); NON'·PROS'SING. To enter a non prosequitur against.

‖non pro·se'qui·tur (nŏn prō·sĕk'wĭ·tĕr). [L., he does not prosecute.] Law. A judgment entered against the plaintiff in a suit where he does not appear to prosecute; — usually abbr. to non pros. See NOLLE PROSEQUI.

non·pro'te·in (nŏn·prō'tē·ĭn), n. Biochem. Any substance not a protein, esp. any, or the sum of all, of the nitrogenous constituents of plant or animal tissues or fluids that are less complex in structure than protein, as asparagine of plants, urea, uric acid, etc., of urine, and various extractives of muscle.

non'·Py·thag'o·re'an (nŏn'pĭ·thăg'ō·rē'ăn), adj. Math. Not maintaining the Pythagorean theorem concerning the right triangle; — said of a non-Archimedean geometry that does not assume the symmetry of the plane.

non·quo'ta (-kwō'tə), adj. Not included in the, or a, quota.

nonquota immigrant. U. S. By the immigration law of 1924, an immigrant who is: (1) the unmarried child, under 18, or the wife, of a citizen resident in the United States; (2) returning from a temporary visit abroad, after having been previously lawfully admitted; (3) born in Canada, Newfoundland, or any independent country of North, South, or Central America; (4) a visiting minister or professor who has been two years in his profession, and his family; or (5) a bonafide student not under 15, entering for study. All other immigrants are quota immigrants. See QUOTA, 3.

---

non·gran'u·lar leu'co·cyte. See LEUCOCYTE. [HALATION.] non'ha·la'tion, n. Photog. See non'ho'mo·ge'ne·ous dif'fer·ence e·qua'tion. Math. See DIFFERENCE EQUATION. noninductive load. Elec. See LOAD, n., 10. [See RESISTANCE.] noninductive resistance. Elec.
non'i·nuc' A word used as a refrain. Obs. [INVENTUS.] ‖non in·ven'tus. = NON EST non·ju'ress, n. Fem. of NONJUROR non·ju'rist, adj. Eng. Hist. Non-juring. — non'ju·ris'ti·cal, adj. Obs. non'ly (nōn'lĭ). Contraction of as only. non'ny. Var. of NINNY. Dial.
‖non om'nis mo'ri·ar. [L.] I shall not wholly die; i. e., my poems will live. Horace.
non'o·naph'thene (nŏn'ō·năf'thēn). Var. of NONANAPHTHENE (see NAPHTHENE). non'pa·rel'la (nŏn'pə·rĕl'ə). Pseudo-Italian var. of NONPAREIL.
non·pa'ri·el'lo, n. Nonpareil. non'plust. Var. of NONPLUSED.
‖non plus ul'tra. [L.] = NE PLUS ULTRA, 1. non'pro·mo'vent, adj. [non- + L. promovens, pres. part., advancing.] Not advancing. Obs. non'pro·vid'ed school. See VOLUNTARY SCHOOL. Eng.
non·prov'en, part. adj. Not established by proof; not proved.
‖non quis, sed quid. [L.] Not who, but what.
‖non quo, sed quo'mo·do. [L.] Not by whom, but how.

non're·ac'tive (nŏn'rē·ăk'tĭv), adj. Elec. Without inductance or capacity; — said of a circuit offering only ohmic resistance to a current.

non're·duc'ing (nŏn'rē·dūs'ĭng), adj. Chem. Not reducing; specif., of sugars, not readily reducing Fehling solution or a similar reagent. See FEHLING SOLUTION.

non·re'gent (nŏn·rē'jĕnt), n. Eng. Universities. A master of arts whose regency has ceased. See REGENT.

non'reg·u·la'tion (nŏn'rĕg·ū·lā'shŭn), adj. a Not in accordance with regulations; as, nonregulation uniform. b Not subject to regulation; — formerly used in India of certain provinces for which the governor-general in council had power to make special laws.

non·res'i·dence (nŏn·rĕz'ĭ·dĕns), n. Also non·res'i·den·cy (-dĕn·sĭ). State or fact of being nonresident.

non·res'i·dent (-dĕnt), adj. 1. Not residing in a particular place, on one's own estate, or in one's proper place; systematically absent from one's benefice, charge, or estate. 2. Figuratively, deviating or departing (from). Obs.

non·res'i·dent, n. A nonresident person.

non·res'i·dent'er (-dĕn'tĕr), n. A nonresident, as a clergyman.

non'res·i·den'tia·ry (nŏn'rĕz·ĭ·dĕn'shā·rĭ), n. A nonresident church dignitary. — adj. Not residentiary.

non·res'i·den'tor (nŏn·rĕz'ĭ·dĕn'tĕr), n. [Appar. transferred from the owner to the land. See -OR.] Vacant land, as disting. from improved land; — a former usage in tax assessors' returns.

non're·sist'ance (nŏn'rē·zĭs'tăns), n. The principles or practice of a nonresistant; passive obedience or submission.

non're·sist'ant (-tănt), adj. Making no resistance.

non're·sist'ant, n. One who maintains, or acts on the theory, that no resistance should be made to constituted authority, even when unjust or oppressive; also, one who holds that violence should never be resisted by force.

non're·strainť (nŏn'rē·strānť), n. a Freedom from or lack of restraint. b Med. The treatment of the insane without mechanical restraint.

non're·stric'tive (-strĭk'tĭv), adj. Not restrictive; specif., Gram., not limiting the reference of the term it qualifies.

nonrestrictive clause. Gram. An adjective clause which adds information but is so loosely attached to its noun as to be not essential to the definiteness of the noun's meaning (the aldermen, who were present, assented); — called also descriptive clause. Such a clause is marked off by commas, whereas the corresponding restrictive clause is not (the aldermen who were present assented = such aldermen as were present assented).

non·rig'id (nŏn·rĭj'ĭd), adj. Not rigid. See AIRSHIP.

non·ro'tat·ing (-rō'tāt·ĭng), adj. Not rotating; as, a nonrotating die head (see DIE HEAD).

Non'ru·mi·nan'ti·a (nŏn'rōō·mĭ·năn'shĭ·ā), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. The Artiodactyla exclusive of the Ruminantia.

non·scrip'tur·al (nŏn·skrĭp'tūr·ăl), adj. Not scriptural; unscriptural; specif., Mohammedanism, not believing in the scriptures (said of a person not professing any of the so-called revealed faiths). — non·scrip'tur·al·ist, n.

non'sense (nŏn'sĕns or, esp. Brit., -sĕns; -s'ns), n. [non- + sense; cf. F. nonsens.] 1. That which is not sense, or has no sense; words, or language, having no meaning, or conveying no intelligible ideas; also, senseless action or behavior; absurdity.
2. A piece of nonsense or absurdity. Now Rare.
3. Trifles; things of no importance or value.
4. An interpretation that is not sense.
5. Humbug; also, evasive or trifling treatment or conduct; as, to stand no nonsense.
Syn. — Silliness, folly, twaddle, triviality, frivolity.
Ant. — Sense, wisdom, seriousness, earnestness.

non'sense, adj. Nonsensical. Obs.

non·sen'si·cal (nŏn·sĕn'sĭ·kăl), adj. Of the nature of, or full of, nonsense; without sense; unmeaning; absurd; foolish; preposterous. — non·sen'si·cal·ly, adv. — non·sen'si·cal·ness, non·sen'si·cal'i·ty (-kăl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

non·sen'si·cal, n. A nonsensical thing.

non·sen'si·fy (-sĭ·fī), v. t. To make nonsense of. — non·sen'si·fi·ca'tion (-fĭ·kā'shŭn), n.

non·sen'tence (nŏn·sĕn'tĕns), n. A word or group of words not grammatically forming a complete sentence, esp. one that assumes the force of a sentence, as in an answer to a question or command.

‖non se'qui·tur (sĕk'wĭ·tĕr). [L., it does not follow.] Logic. An inference that does not follow from the premises; specif., any fallacy resulting from a simple conversion of a universal affirmative proposition or from the transposition of a condition and its consequent; — called also fallacia consequentis.

‖non sĭ'bi sed pa'tri·ae (sĭb'ĭ sĕd pā'trĭ·ē). [L.] Not for self but for country.

non·si'phon·age (nŏn·sī'fŏn·ĭj), adj. Antisiphon.

non'skid' (nŏn'skĭd'; 66), non'skid'ding (nŏn'skĭd'ĭng), adj. Having the tread corrugated or otherwise specially constructed to resist skidding.

non'spored' (nŏn'spōrd'; 181), adj. Without spores; not producing spores.

non·stel'lar (nŏn·stĕl'ĕr), adj. Not stellar; — applied specif., Astron., to celestial objects, as asteroids, that resemble stars but are not stars.

non'stop' (nŏn'stŏp'; 66), adj. & adv. Without a stop. — non'stop', n.

non·stri'at·ed (nŏn·strī'ăt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Without striations; unstriped; as, nonstriated muscles (see 2d MUSCLE, 1).

non'sub·scrib'er (nŏn'sŭb·skrīb'ĕr), n. One who does not subscribe; specif. [often cap.], one who refuses to subscribe to a confession of faith, covenant, or the like, as the National Covenant of 1638 in the Church of Scotland.

non'sub·stan'tial·ism (-stăn'shăl·Iz'm), n. The doctrine of the unreality of phenomena; denial of substance. — non'sub·stan'tial·ist, n.

non'suit' (nŏn'sūt'), v. t.; NON'SUIT'ED; NON'SUIT'ING. 1. Law. To determine, adjudge, or record (a plaintiff) as having terminated his suit by default or failure to establish a good cause of action; to subject to a nonsuit. In strict common-law practice nonsuit is used only of the termination of the suit on motion of the defendant against a defaulting plaintiff; but in modern practice the term is often used of other terminations of a case not on the merits, as by a nolle prosequi, or where a judgment is directed against the plaintiff because he fails to establish a prima facie case. Not being on the merits, a nonsuit does not bar another action on the same cause. In code pleading the term discontinuance is generally used instead of nonsuit.
2. Hence, to deny the suit of.

non'suit' (nŏn'sūt'), n. Law. A judgment given against a plaintiff because of his failure to prosecute his case or his inability to establish a prima facie case at the trial.

non'suit', adj. Nonsuited. Now Rare.

non'sup·port' (nŏn'sŭ·pōrt'; 181), n. a Lack of support; failure to support. b Law. Failure to provide maintenance or means of sustenance on the part of one under obligation, either by contract or by statutory liability, to provide such support.

non·swear'er (nŏn·swăr'ĕr), n. a One who does not swear. b Obs. A nonjuror. — non·swear'ing, adj.

non'syl·lab'ic (nŏn'sĭ·lăb'ĭk), adj. Not forming a syllable; as, a nonsyllabic consonant; specif., Phonet., of a vowel, not forming a syllable, but constituting the unstressed part of a diphthong, that is, the first part of a rising diphthong or the last part of a falling diphthong (i of oi). — non'syl·lab'ic·ness, n.

non'sym·bi·ot'ic (nŏn'sĭm·bĭ·ŏt'ĭk; -bĭ·ŏt'ĭk), adj. Biol. Not living in a state of mutualism or symbiosis, as azotobacters. — non'sym·bi·ot'i·cal·ly (-I·kăl·ĭ), adv.

‖non tan'to (nŏn tăn'tō). [It.] Not as much; specif., Music, = NON TROPPO.

non·ten'ure (nŏn·tĕn'ūr), n. Law. A former plea in bar made by a defendant in a real action setting up that he did not hold the land.

non'term' (nŏn'tûrm'), n. Law. The vacation between two terms of a court. Rare, Eng.

non·ter'mi·nat'ing (nŏn·tûr'mĭ·nāt'ĭng), adj. Not terminating, or ending.

nonterminating decimal (between 0 and 1). Math. Any decimal whose law of formation does not assign 0 to all places after a given place; an interminate decimal.

non'the·mat'ic (nŏn'thē·măt'ĭk), adj. Philol. Not thematic; having no thematic vowel.

nonthematic verb. A verb whose present-tense stem does not end in the thematic vowel eo, as Latin es, thou art, est, he is, for es-si, es-ti; as compared with the thematic stem duc-e- in duci-s, thou leadest, duci-t, he leads.

non'tro·nite (nŏn'trō·nīt), n. [From the arrondissement of Nontron, France.] Mineral. A pale-yellow or greenish earthy mineral, consisting chiefly of hydrous iron silicate, and classed with chloropal.

‖non tro'po (nŏn trŏp'pō). [It.] Music. Not excessively; — used as a warning in directions pertaining to tempo and dynamics; as, ‖non tro'po pres'to (prĕs'tō), not too fast.

non'um·bil'i·cate (nŏn'ŭm·bĭl'ĭ·kăt), adj. Zool. Characterized by lack or closure of the umbilicus, as imperforate spiral shells.

non·u'ni·form (nŏn·ū'nĭ·fôrm), adj. Not uniform; specif., Math., many-valued. — non·u'ni·form·ly, adv.

non·u'ni·form'ist (-ū'nĭ·fôr'mĭst), n. One who believes that past changes in the structure of the earth have proceeded from cataclysms or processes more violent than are now operating; — called also non·u'ni·form'i·tar'i·an (-mĭ·târ'ĭ·ăn; 79).

non·un'ion (nŏn·ūn'yŭn), n. Lack of union; failure to unite; specif., Med., failure of the fragments of a broken bone to knit together.

non·un'ion (nŏn·ūn'yŭn), adj. a Not belonging to, or affiliated with, or according with the requirements of, a trade-union; as, nonunion carpenters, labor. b Not recognizing or favoring trade-unions or trade-unionists; as, a nonunion contractor. c Not united or affiliated with others of its kind; as, a nonunion high school.

non·un'ion·ism (-Iz'm), n. The theories, opinions, or practices of those who do not support trade-unions or do not believe that they are beneficial. — non·un'ion·ist, n. & adj.

nonunion shop. a An establishment in which the employer recognizes no labor union and excludes from employment anyone affiliated with a labor union. b A shop in which a labor union forbids its members to accept employment.

non'u·ple (nŏn'ū·p'l), adj. [F., fr. L. nonus ninth, with ending as in quadruple, quintuple, etc.] a Consisting of nine; ninefold. b Taken by nines or in groups of nine.

non'u·plet (-plĕt), n. [Dim. fr. nonuple.] Music. A group of nine notes to be performed in the time of eight or six.

nonuple time or measure. Music. See TIME, n.

non·us'er (nŏn·ūz'ĕr), n. [non- + user.] a One not a user. b Law. Neglect or omission to use; failure to use or exercise any right or privilege, as of an easement or franchise or office.

An office . . . may be forfeited by misuser or nonuser. Blackstone.

non·va'lent (-vā'lĕnt), adj. Chem. Of zero valence. Cf. ZERO GROUP.

non·val'ue bill (-văl'ū). An accommodation bill.

non·vi'o·lence (-vī'ō·lĕns), n. Restraining from all use of violence, as in strikes, resistance to arrest, etc.

non·vol'un·tar'y (-vŏl'ŭn·tĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ, -trĭ), adj. Neither voluntary nor involuntary; not affected by volition or desire; aconative.

non·vor'ti·cal (-vôr'tĭ·kăl), adj. Not vortical. — non·vor'ti·cal·ly, adv.

nonvortical motion. Irrotational motion.

no'nya (nō'nyä), n. [Jav. & Malay ñoñah foreigner's wife, foreign lady, prob. fr. Pg. senhora lady.] In Java, the daughter of a Malay mother and a European father.

non'yl (nŏn'ĭl), n. [nonane + -yl.] Chem. The univalent hydrocarbon radical, C_9H_{19}, of which nonane is the hydride; specif. and preferably, normal nonyl, $CH_3(CH_2)_7CH_2$-.

non'yl·ene (nŏn'ĭ·lĕn), n. [nonane + ethylene.] Chem. Any hydrocarbon of the ethylene series having the formula C_9H_{18}. — non'yl·en'ic (-lĕn'ĭk), adj.

no·nyl'ic (nō·nĭl'ĭk), adj. Chem. Nonoic.

noo (nōō). Dial. var. of NEW, NOW.

noo-. A combining form, Greek noo-, from noos, meaning the mind, as in noology.

noo'dle (nōō'd'l), n. = NODDLE, the head. Slang.

noo'dle (nōō'd'l), n. [Origin uncert. Cf. NODDY.] A simpleton; a blockhead; a stupid person; a ninny.

noo'dle, v. t. To make a noodle, or fool, of. Rare.

noo'dle, n. [G. nudel vermicelli.] 1. An alimentary paste, shaped in ribbon form, and usually made with egg. Commercially, in the U. S., noodles must contain 5.5 per cent of egg solids, or must be labeled water noodles.
2. One of the trimmings discarded in manufacturing cotton garments.
3. Sugar Mfg. = 1st CHIP, 16.

noo'dle–head' (nōō'd'l·hĕd'), n. A noodle, or blockhead.

noo·goo'ra bur (nōō·gōō'rä). [Prob. fr. a place name in Queensland.] A European cocklebur (Xanthium strumarium), now a noxious weed in Australia.

nook (nŏŏk), n. [ME. nok; cf. Nor. dial. nøk hook, bent figure, nøkja to bend, and E. NECK.] A tapering or gradually narrowing place, space, part, portion, etc., formed by an angle within a body or between bodies; a corner; specif.: a Now Chiefly Scot. A corner of cloth, paper, or the like, or of an angular figure. b A corner piece or angular portion of land; specif., Obs., a headland or promontory. c A corner of a building, street, etc. d An interior angle or corner formed by the meeting of two walls or the like, as in a room; recess; as, a chimney nook. e A remote, secluded, out-of-the-way, or sheltered corner, recess, part, place, or the like. "Nooks and corners of history." A. J. Balfour. f An old measure of land, sometimes equal to two fardels, sometimes to one.

nook (nŏŏk), v. t. & i.; NOOKED (nŏŏkt); NOOK'ING. To hide or put in a nook, or corner.

nooked (dial. nŏŏkt; nŏŏk'ĕt), adj. Having nooks, corners, or angles; — often in comb. Now Dial.

nook'er·y (nŏŏk'ĕr·ĭ), n. A snug nook.

nook shaft. Arch. A column set in a re-entrant angle, as that made by the parts of a compound pier, differing from an angle shaft in standing free and being therefore usually larger.

Cross Section through Nook Shaft and adjacent parts of Pier.

nook'–shot'ten (nŏŏk'shŏt'n), adj. Jutting out angularly; crooked. Archaic & Dial.

nook'y (nŏŏk'ĭ), adj.; NOOK'I·ER (-I·ĕr); -I·EST. Full of nooks; like a nook.

no·ol'o·gy (nō·ŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [noo- + -logy.] The science of the intuitive truths of reason. — no·o·log'ic·al (nō'ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — no·ol'o·gist (nō·ŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

no·om'e·try (nō·ŏm'ĕ·trĭ), n. [noo- + -metry.] Measurement of the mind. Nonce Word.

noon (nōōn), n. [AS. nōn, orig., the ninth hour, fr. L. nona (sc. hora) the ninth hour, or the church services (called nones) at that hour, the time of which was afterwards changed to noon, fr. nonus ninth; akin to Skr. navama, and to L. novem nine. See NINE; cf. NONES, NUNCHEON.]
1. Obs. a The ninth hour of the day according to the Roman reckoning, that is, 3 P.M. b Eccl. = 4th NONE, 2. c The midday meal; dinner.
2. The middle of the day; midday; the time when the sun is on the meridian; twelve o'clock in the daytime. Apparent noon is the instant when the sun's center is on the meridian; mean noon is the instant when the mean, or fictitious, sun's center is on the meridian; sidereal noon is the instant when the vernal equinox is on the meridian.
3. a Midnight; — chiefly in noon of night. b Poetic. The moon's position in the sky at midnight.
4. The highest point; culmination; as, the noon of life.
5. The most important hour, as of a social day.

noon, adj. Of or pertaining to noon; occurring or taken at or about noon; as, the noon hour or meal.

noon, v. i.; NOONED (nōōnd); NOON'ING. 1. To take a nooning; — often with it. Local, U. S.
2. To reach the highest point, or culmination.

noon (nōn). Var. of NONE. Now Dial.

noon'day' (nōōn'dā'), n. & adj. Midday.

no one, or no'–one', pron. No person; nobody; none.

noon'flow'er (nōōn'flou'ĕr), n. a Goatsbeard (Tragopogon). b Fig marigold (Mesembryanthemum); — in allusion to the closing of the flowers about noon.

noon'ing (nōōn'ĭng), n. Now Chiefly Dial. U. S. a Noontime. b A meal or drink taken at noon; midday meal or draft. c A rest at noon; a midday intermission for rest or food.

noon'light' (nōōn'lĭt'), n. The light of noon; the brightest daylight. "A strange noonlight." W. H. Hayne.

noon'lit' (-lĭt'), adj. Illumined by noonlight.

noon'stead (-stĕd), n. The position of the sun at noon. Obs. exc. Dial.

noon'tide' (-tīd'), n. [AS. nōntīd the ninth hour. See NOON; TIDE time.] 1. The time of noon; midday.
2. Midnight; the moon's place at midnight.
3. Figuratively, highest or culminating point; noon.

noon'time' (-tīm'), n. Midday; noontide.

noop (nōōp), n. A rounded prominence, as of the elbow. Scot.

noop, n. [Cf. Nor. dial. njupa, nupe, cornelian cherry.] The fruit of the cloudberry. Dial. Eng.

no'o·scop'ic (nō'ō·skŏp'ĭk), adj. [Gr. noos mind + -scopic.] Of or pertaining to the examination of the mind.

noose (nōōs), n. [Pr. nous, fr. L. nodus. See NODE.] 1. A loop with a running knot, as in a hangman's halter or a lasso, which binds closer the more it is drawn.
2. Figuratively, a tie, bond, or snare.
3. Archery. The thick, ropelike, free end of a bowstring, fastened to the bow nock by a timber hitch. See EYE, n., 9.

noose (nōōs; nōōz), v. t.; NOOSED (nōōst; nōōzd); NOOS'ING (nōōs'ĭng; nōōz'ĭng). 1. To secure by or as by a noose; to catch or capture in a noose; to put a noose round; to entrap.
2. To execute by hanging; to hang.
3. To furnish with a noose; to make a noose in or of; to pass, as a rope, so as to make a noose (around something).

noos'er (nōōs'ĕr; nōōz'ĕr), n. One who nooses something.

Noot'ka (nōōt'kä), n.; pl. -KA, -KAS (-käz). a An Indian of a small Wakashan tribe. b An Indian of one of the two major divisions of the Wakashan stock.

Nootka, or Nootka Sound, cypress. = YELLOW CEDAR a.

Nootka dog. A dog of a long-haired white breed formerly kept by the American Indians of the Nootka Sound region.

no'pal (nō'păl), n. [Sp., fr. Nahuatl nopalli.] a Any cactus of the genus Nopalea; specif., the cochineal fig (N. coccinellifera). b Hence, any prickly pear.

No·pa'le·a (nō·pā'lē·ä), n. [NL., fr., Sp. nopal. See NOPAL.] Bot. A small genus of cacti differing from Opuntia, with which it is sometimes combined, by the erect petals, scarlet flowers, etc. The most important species, N. coccinellifera, is the cochineal fig or cochineal cactus.

no'pal·ry (nō'păl·rĭ), n. A plantation of the nopal for raising the cochineal insect.

no'–par' (66), adj. Having no face value; as, no-par share; no-par value. Cf. 1st PAR, 2. — no'–par'–val'ue, adj.

nope (nōp), n. [From alp bullfinch, dial. ope. The n is from the article an.] The bullfinch. Local, Eng. & Scot.

no'pi·nene (nō'pĭ·nēn), n. [G. nopinsäure, formed by transposition, fr. pinonsäure, with which it is isomeric + -ene.] Chem. A terpene, $C_{10}H_{16}$, found in turpentine oils, hyssop oil, etc.

no'–place', n. See NO, adj., 1st Note a.

no place. Nowhere. Dial., U. S.

No–Pop'er·y Ri'ots. = See GORDON RIOTS.

nor (nôr; 71), conj. [ME., contr. fr. nother. See NEITHER.] Introducing the second (and each following) member of an alternative proposition or of a negative proposition ex-non're·ac'tive load. See LOAD, 10.

---

‖non' sans' droict' (nŏn' sänz' drōit'). [OF.] Not without right; — motto on Shakespeare's coat of arms.

non'sine', adj. = NONSINUSOIDAL.

non'such. Var. of NONESUCH.

non'suf·fi'cience, n. Insufficiency. Obs.

‖non sum qua'lis e'ram. [L.] I am not such as I was. Horace.

non·sure'ty, n. Insecurity. Obs.

non vult con·ten'de·re. See NOLO CONTENDERE.

noo'dle·dom, n. See -DOM.

noo'dle·ism, n. See -ISM.

nook'ing, n. = NOOK. Dial. Eng.

nook'let, n. See -LET.

nook'like', adj. See -LIKE.

noon'meat', n. A midday meal; luncheon. Obs.

noon'shun. Var. of NUNCHEON. New Dial.

noon'wards, adv. See -WARDS.

noost. Noosed. Ref. Sp.

noot. Contr. of ne wot, know not. Obs. [adj., 1st Note b.] no·par stock. See STOCK; cf. NO, 1.

Noph (nŏf). Bib.

No'phah (nō'fä). Bib.

---

pressing reciprocation, and indicating the continuation of the force of a negative in the first member to apply equally to the second (and each following); or not; no more; and not; likewise not; — used: a Following a negative such as no, not, never.

We will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image. Dan. iii. 18.

b Following neither as a correlative (as or in affirmative propositions follows either); also, when neither has been omitted in the first member and implied by use of nor in the second member.

Provide neither gold nor silver, nor brass, in your purses, nor scrip for your journey. Mat. x. 9, 10.

Simois nor Xanthus shall be wanting there. Dryden.

c Chiefly Poetic. Following nor as a correlative.

Where neither party is nor true, nor kind. Shak.

d Following an affirmative equivalent to or implying a negative. Usually nor causes inversion of order of subject and predicate.

Man wants but little here below Nor wants that little long. Goldsmith.

e Now Dial. Preceding another negative qualifying the same member. "Not nat'ral, nor not nice, says you." Stevenson.

nor (nôr), conj. [Cf. NOR, the negative connective, NA than.] Than. Dial.

nor' (nôr). Also nor. Abbr. of north, esp. in compounds; as, nor'easter, nor'wester; nor'-nor'west; nor' by east.

nor-. [From normal.] Chem. A prefix denoting: a The parent compound from which another may be regarded as derived, as in *nor*camphane (of which camphane is the trimethyl derivative; see NORCAMPHANE). b Less often, a normal compound isomeric with the one to the name of which it is prefixed, as in *nor*leucine.

no·rate' (nō·rāt'), v. t. & i. [Cf. dial. a noration for an oration.] To spread by report; to noise; to gossip. Dial.

no·ra'tion (nō·rā'shŭn), n. Loud talking; clamor. Dial.

nor'berg·ite (nôr'bûrg·īt), n. [From Norberg, Sweden.] Mineral. A magnesium silicate with fluorine and hydroxyl.

nor·cam'phane (nôr·kăm'fān), n. [nor- + camphane.] Chem. A compound, C_7H_{12}, known only in the form of derivatives and conveniently regarded as the parent compound of the terpenes of the camphane group; — called also bicycloheptane.

nord'cap'er (nôrd'kăp'ĕr), n. [D. noordkaper, prop., one of the North Cape.] A right whale.

nor'den·skiöld·dine (nôr'dĕn·shûl·dĭn), n. [After N. A. E. Nordenskjöld, Swed. explorer.] Mineral. A calcium tin borate, $CaSn(BO_3)_2$.

Nord'hau'sen ac'id (nôrd'hou'zĕn; nôrt'hou'zĕn). Fuming sulphuric acid; — so called from Nordhausen in the Harz, where it was originally manufactured. See SULPHURIC ACID.

Nor'dic (nôr'dĭk), adj. [NL. nordicus of the north. See NORTH.] Of or pertaining to the Germanic peoples of northern Europe, esp. the Scandinavians, and their languages. — n. A Nordic individual. — Nor·dic'i·ty (nôr·dĭs'ĭ·tĭ), n.

Nor'di·cism (nôr'dĭ·sĭz'm), n. The belief in the superiority of the Nordic, or Teutonic, racial type and its cultural capacities. — Nor'di·cist (-sĭst), n.

Nor'di·cize (-sīz), v. t. To introduce Nordic blood into a population; also, to modify a people in culture under Nordic influence. — Nor'di·ci·za'tion (-sĭ·zā'shŭn; -sĭ·zā'-), n.

Nordic race. Ethnol. A blond, dolichocephalic race, one of the tallest in the world, found chiefly in Scandinavia, Scotland, and northern England;—so termed by J. Deniker.

Nord'mann's fir (nôrd'mănz). [After Alex. von Nordmann (1803–66), Russian naturalist.] An evergreen tree (Abies nordmanniana), native to the Caucasus region.

nord'mark·ite (nôrd'märk·īt), n. [From Nordmark, Sweden.] a Mineral. A variety of staurolite containing manganese. b Petrog. An alkalic variety of syenite containing a little quartz.

Nor'folk (nôr'fŭk), n. 1. An eastern county of England. 2. Short for NORFOLK JACKET. 3. The color chocolate.

Norfolk capon. A red herring. Jocose, Eng.

Norfolk dumpling. Eng. a A kind of boiled dumpling made in Norfolk. b A native or inhabitant of Norfolk.

Norfolk Island palm or cabbage. A palm (Rhopalostylis baueri) of Norfolk Island and Kermadec and the Chatham Islands.

Norfolk Island pine. A handsome evergreen tree (Araucaria excelsa) of Australia and Norfolk Island, with whorls of horizontal branches densely set with deep-green awl-shaped leaves. When grown in pots it seldom exceeds a few feet in height, though in its native home it grows to 200 feet.

Norfolk jacket or coat. A loose fitting, single-breasted jacket, box-plaited in the front and back, and belted.

Norfolk plover. The stone curlew.

Norfolk spaniel. The English springer spaniel. See SPRINGER SPANIEL.

Norfolk wherry. See WHERRY, 1 c.

nor'gine (nôr'jĭn; -jĭn), n. [Nor. & Sw. Norge Norway + -ine.] A vegetable gelatine made from seaweed and used in combination with starch as a finish for fabrics.

nor'i (nôr'ĭ), n. [Jap.] a An alga or a product prepared from algae. b Specif., a purple seaweed (Porphyra laciniata), in Japan dried and pressed into sheets and used, crumbled, to sprinkle on food.

no'ri·a (nō'rĭ·ä), n. [Sp., fr. Ar. nā'ūrah.] A Persian wheel of the bucket type. See PERSIAN WHEEL.

Nor'ic (nôr'ĭk; nō'rĭk; 181), adj. [From Noric Alps.] Geol. Designating or pert. to the basal stage of the upper Triassic as developed in the eastern Alps. — Nor'ic, n.

nor'ie (nôr'ĭ), n. The common cormorant. Eng. & Scot.

nor'i·mon (-ĭ·mŏn), n. [Jap. norimono, lit., riding thing.] A Japanese covered litter, carried by men.

nor'ite (nôr'ĭt), n. [Norway + -ite.] Petrog. A variety of gabbro consisting of a granular aggregate of basic plagioclase, orthopyroxene, and usually some magnetite.

nor'land (nôr'lănd), n. [For northland.] [often cap.] 1. The land in the north; north country. Chiefly Poetic. 2. = NORLANDER. Chiefly Scot.

nor'land·er (-lăn·dĕr), n. A northerner; a person from the north country.

nor'land·ism (nôr'lăn·dĭz'm), n. A norland peculiarity of speech. Scot. & Eng.

nor·leu'cine (nôr·lū'sēn; -sĭn; 157; 242), n. [normal + leucine.] Biochem. A sweet, crystalline amino acid, $C_6H_{13}NO_2$ (a-amino-caproic acid), obtained from the hydrolyzed proteins of nerve tissue.

norm (nôrm), n. [L. norma a rule. See NORMAL.] 1. A rule or authoritative standard; model; type; pattern. 2. Educ. A set standard of development or achievement, usually the average or median achievement of a large group. 3. Math. a A rational integer, the continued product in any field of an integer by its conjugates. b The absolute value of a complex number. c In Dedekind's theory of ideals, the number of classes into which all the integers of a field may be sorted, so that any two elements of a class, and no two elements of different classes, are congruent. 4. Petrog. A hypothetical mineral composition of a rock calculated according to certain definite rules, and usually differing widely from the actual mineral composition or mode. 5. Psychol. The average score of a given class of individuals in a given test; as, an age or a grade norm.

nor'ma (nôr'mä), n.; pl. -MAE (-mē). [L.] 1. A norm; a pattern or rule; a model; a standard. 2. A mason's or a carpenter's square or rule. 3. A template or gauge. 4. Anat. & Craniom. A standard position for viewing a part, esp. the skull; hence, an aspect, esp. of the cranium; also, a line or pattern indicating the contour of the cranium. 5. [cap.] gen. NORMAE (-mē). Astron. A southern constellation between Scorpio and Triangulum; the Square (and Rule).

Nor'ma (nôr'mä; -mä), n. a Feminine proper name. b The title and heroine of an opera (1831) by Bellini.

nor'mal (nôr'măl), adj. [L. normalis, fr. norma rule, pattern, carpenter's square, perh. of Gr. origin; cf. Gr. gnōrimos well known, gnōmōn gnomon, also, carpenter's square, gignōskein to know. See KNOW; cf. ABNORMOUS, ENORMOUS.] 1. According to a square or rule; perpendicular; forming a right angle.

2. According to, constituting, or not deviating from, an established norm, rule, or principle; conformed to a type, standard, or regular form; performing the proper functions; not abnormal; regular; natural; analogical.

3. Biol., Immunol., etc. a Unaffected by, or not exposed to, any particular infection or experimental treatment; as, a normal animal. b Occurring naturally and not because of disease, inoculation, or any experimental treatment.

4. Chem. a Anal. Chem. Denoting a solution of such strength that one liter contains one gram atom of replaceable hydrogen or its equivalent; as, a normal salt solution. One liter of a normal solution contains the molecular weight in grams of a monoacid or monobase, half the gram-molecular weight of a diacid or dibase, etc. Abbr. N or n (normal), $\frac{N}{10}$ $\frac{n}{10}$ or 0.1 N (decinormal or tenth normal), 6 N or 6 n (six-normal), etc. b Denoting certain assumed fundamental compounds, as acids from which the ordinary acids are obtained by dehydration; thus, normal sulphuric acid and normal nitric acid are respectively S(OH)$_4$ and N(OH)$_5$ (Cf. ORTHO-, 2 a.) c Denoting a salt, ester, amide, or the like, that contains neither basic hydroxyl nor acid hydrogen; neutral; as, normal silver phosphate, Ag_3PO_4. d Physical Chem. Not associated; as, normal liquids, molecules. e Org. Chem. Pertaining to or designating aliphatic hydrocarbons or hydrocarbon derivatives having a straight-chain structure, that is, one in which no carbon atom is united with more than two other carbon atoms; as, normal pentane, hexane, etc. Cf. ISO-, 3 b.

5. Econ. Pertaining or conforming to a more or less permanent standard, deviations from which, on either side, on the part of the individual phenomena are to be regarded as self-corrective. Thus, the normal price is a price which corresponds to cost of production. In economics, natural and normal are sometimes used as synonymous; but natural involves certain assumptions not connoted by normal.

6. Geom. Of or pertaining to a normal.

7. Meteorol. Of a meteorological element, average over many years at a particular place and for a definite time, a certain day, or some other specified period.

8. Philol. Pertaining to or designating the high ablaut grade. See GRADE, n., 11 a.

9. Psychol. a Of or indicating average intelligence or development; free from mental defect. b Free from mental disorder; not insane or neurotic.

Syn. and Ant. — See REGULAR.

— nor'mal·ly, adv. — nor'mal·ness, n.

nor'mal, n. 1. One who or that which is normal; a normal individual, instance, etc. 2. Short for normal school, temperature, etc. 3. A form or state regarded as the norm; an archetypal standard to which individuals may conform. 4. The ordinary or usual condition, degree, quantity, or the like; average; mean. 5. Geom. a Any perpendicular; specif., a line or plane perpendicular to the tangent line (or plane) to a curve (or surface) at a point of the curve (or surface). b The intercept (on the normal line) between the curve and the x axis. c The intercept (on the normal line) between the curve and the center of curvature.

normal axis. See 1st AXIS, 5.

normal barrage. See 2d BARRAGE, 1.

normal butyric acid. See BUTYRIC ACID.

normal co-ordinate. See 3d CO-ORDINATE, 2.

nor'mal·cy (nôr'măl·sĭ), n. State, condition, or fact of being normal; normality; as, a return to normalcy.

normal dispersion. See DISPERSION, n., 4. normal dropper. See DROPPER, 6 b.

normal fault. See FAULT, n., 6.

normal forest. = INDEX FOREST.

normal honey. Floral honey.

normal horizontal separation. See SEPARATION, 6.

normal illusion. Psychol. See ILLUSION, 4.

normal induction curve. Elec. See SATURATION CURVE a.

nor'mal·ism (nôr'măl·ĭz'm), n. In early Buddhism and Taoism, a belief in a cosmic order or law not subject to the will of a personal deity; — opp. to animism. Cf. RITA.

nor'mal·ist (-ĭst), n. One who is normal, as in conduct.

nor·mal'i·ty (nôr·măl'ĭ·tĭ), n. 1. Normal state or quality. 2. Chem. Concentration or strength on the normal scale.

nor'mal·ize (nôr'măl·īz), v. t.; -IZED, (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'-ĭng). To make normal; to make conform to, or reduce to, a norm or standard; specif.: a Metal. To secure uniformity and destroy coarse structure, strains, etc., in (metal), esp. by heating to a temperature at which recrystallization takes place, specif., in the case of steel, by heating above the upper critical point and then cooling in still air. b Phonet. To reduce (the spelling of a language or dialect) to a phonetic basis, each sound being represented by one definite spelling. — nor'mal·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. — nor'mal·iz'er (nôr'măl·īz'ĕr), n.

normal level. Physics. = GROUND LEVEL.

normal minor scale. Music. See 6th SCALE, 11 a. normal phosphate. See PHOSPHORIC ACID.

normal pitch. Mach. a Of a screw thread, see PITCH, 17 b. b Of gear teeth, the distance between points of intersection of the line of action with the working faces of two adjacent teeth.

normal place. Astron. The apparent position of a planet or comet at a specified time, as determined from a considerable number of observations.

normal pressure. Standard pressure, usually taken to be equal to that of a column of mercury 760 mm. in height, the mercury being 0° C., and gravity being that at 45° latitude. It is equal to one atmosphere.

normal price. See NORMAL, adj., 5; PRICE, n., 2.

normal pyrotartaric acid. Chem. Glutaric acid.

normal salt. a Chem. See NORMAL, 4 a. b Physiol. Also normal saline solution. An isotonic solution of sodium chloride; a physiological salt solution (which see).

normal school. [After F. école normale.] A school, usually state-supported, offering a professional course for the training of persons, usually secondary-school graduates, to become teachers.

normal spectrum. See SPECTRUM.

normal state. Physics. The state of least energy of an atomic system. Hence, normal term, the term of this state.

normal succinic acid. See SUCCINIC a. normal syllable. Phonet. An accented syllable.

normal tax. Econ. A basic rate of taxation applied to large groups of taxpayers, to which varying surtaxes may be added for smaller subgroups.

normal valence. Physical Chem. The usually accepted valence of an element, atom, or radical.

normal value. See MARKET VALUE; VALUE, 14 c.

normal volume of a gas. Physics & Chem. The volume of a gas at 0° C. and 760 mm. barometric pressure, as ascertained either by direct observation or by calculations in accordance with the laws of Boyle and Charles.

Nor'man (nôr'măn), adj. [OF. normant, nom. sing. & acc. pl. masc. normanz, normans, of Scand. origin. See NORTHMAN; cf. NORSE.] Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, Normandy or the Normans. — Nor'man·ly, adv.

Nor'man, n.; pl. NORMANS (-mănz). [See NORMAN, adj.] 1. Literally, a Northman; a native or inhabitant of Normandy; orig., one of the Northmen or Scandinavians who conquered Normandy in the 10th century; later, one of the mixed (Norman-French) race which, in 1066, conquered England, under William the Conqueror. 2. = NORMAN-FRENCH. 3. [not cap.] [Cf. F. normand.] a A heavy wooden or iron bar to insert into a hole in a bitt or stanchion to guide or secure a cable or rope. b Rare. A pin used in a hole for any of various purposes, as a fid through a rudder head. 4. Masculine proper name.

Norman architecture or style. a The peculiar type of Romanesque first appearing in and near Normandy about 950 A.D. b The Romanesque style as introduced, under Norman influence, into England; — a sense appearing about 1845, but not now used by careful writers.

Norman Conquest. The conquest of England by the Normans under Duke William (William I of England) in 1066.

Norman crimson or red. The color vermilion, or a color resembling it.

nor'mande' sauce (nôr'mănd'). [F. sauce normande Norman sauce.] A white sauce made with cream, Rhine wine, egg yolk, and the liquor of fish, oysters, and mushrooms, and served with fish.

Nor'man–French', adj. Anglo-French. — n. The French language as used by the Normans; Anglo-French; also, loosely, law French.

‖Nor'ma Ni·lo'ti·ca (nôr'mä nĭ·lŏt'ĭ·kä). [L., the Nilometer.] Astron. An asterism in Aquarius, supposed to suggest the ancient Nilometer.

Nor'man·ism (nôr'măn·ĭz'm). Norman quality or character; partiality to the Normans; a Norman idiom, expression, custom, etc.

Nor'man·ist (-ĭst), n. A favorer of the Normans.

Nor'man·ize (-īz), v. i.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'ĭng). To adopt Norman speech, customs, etc. — v. t. To render Norman, as in character. — Nor'man·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn; -ĭ·zā'shŭn), n. — Nor'man·iz'er (nôr'măn·īz'ĕr), n.

Nor·man'nic (nôr·măn'ĭk), adj. Of or pertaining to, or characteristic of, the Normans.

norm'at·ed (nôr'măt·ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. Made conformable to a norm.

nor'ma·tive (nôr'mä·tĭv), adj. [Cf. F. normatif.] a Relating to, or establishing, a norm. b Gram. Concerned with norms or standards of usage; as normative grammar. c Petrog. Relating to minerals of the norm. — nor'ma·tive·ly, adv. — nor'ma·tive·ness, n.

normative currency. Econ. A currency system in which the unit is based upon a metallic standard.

normative science. A science that tests or evaluates, and not merely describes or generalizes, facts; specif., the group comprising logic, ethics, and aesthetics.

nor'mo- (nôr'mō-). A combining form for normal.

nor'mo·cyte (nôr'mō·sīt), n. [normo- + -cyte.] In mammals, a red blood corpuscle (see BLOOD, n., 1). — nor'mo·cyt'ic (-sĭt'ĭk), adj.

Norn (nôrn), n. [ON. norn, pl. nornir.] Teut. Myth. & Folklore. One of the demigoddesses or divine giantesses who preside over and determine the fates of both men and gods. Orig., there appears to have been but one Norn, called by the Anglo-Saxons Wyrd and by the Norse Urth, and her character was conceived in a gloomy light, making her name often equivalent to death doom (cf. HEL). Later, two others were added, making the Norse trio Urth, Verthandi, and Skuld, or Past, Present, and Future, in England represented by the Weird Sisters of Macbeth. Two give the blessings, the third the ills, of life. Cf. FATE, n., 5.

Norn, adj. [ON. norrœn.] Norse. Local, Scot. — n. [ON. norrœna.] The Norse dialect formerly used in the Shetland and Orkney Islands. Obs. exc. Hist.

Nor'ridge·wock (nôr'ĭj·wŏk), n. An Indian of an Algonquian tribe of the Abnaki Confederacy. The survivors now live at St. Francis, Province of Quebec. See ABNAKI.

No'ra, No'rah (nō'rd; 181), n. Contraction of HONORA, LEONORA, and ELEANOR; — fem. proper names.

no·ra'ghe (nō·rä'gā). Var. of NURAGHE.

No'ra Hel'mer (hĕl'mĕr). See DOLL'S HOUSE, A. nor'ard. Contr. of NORTHWARD.

Nor'bert·ine (nôr'bĕr·tĭn), n. & adj. = PREMONSTRATENSIAN.

nor''east', nor''east'er, etc. Contractions of NORTHEAST, etc.

nor'el·in (nôr'ĕl·ĭn), n. = NORLAND.

no'-rent' land. = RENTLESS.

Nor·folk'i·an (nôr·fŏk'ĭ·ăn), adj. & n. Geol. = GÜNZ-MINDEL.

no·rha'ge (nō·rä'gā). Var. of NURAGHE.

norice. † NOURICE.

norice. † NOURISH.

norishe, norisse, norishe. † NOURISH.

norkyn. † ORKYN.

‖nor'ma ba/si·la'ris, fa/ci·a'lis, ver'ti·ca'lis, etc. (nôr'mä bās'ĭ·lā'rĭs, fā'shĭ·ā'lĭs, vûr'tĭ·kā'lĭs). [NL.] See CRANIOMETRY.

normally ordered. Math. = WELL-ORDERED.

Nor'man·esque', adj. See [-ESQUE.]

Nor'man·ish, adj. = NORMAN.

normative truth. See TRUTH, n., 4 b. norm'less, adj. See -LESS.

nor'mo·blast (nôr'mō·blăst), n. [normo- + -blast.] Anat. & Med. See ERYTHROBLAST. — nor'mo·blas'tic (-blăs'tĭk), adj.

Nor'na (nôr'nä), n. [NL.] Teut. Myth. = NORN.

nor''-nor''east', nor''nor''west', etc. Contractions of NORTH-NORTHEAST, etc.; — also written without apostrophes.

Noroose. † NOWAOSE.

nor·o·pi·an'ic (nôr'ō·pĭ·ăn'ĭk), adj., nor·pin'ic (nôr·pĭn'ĭk), adj. See NOR = a.

Nôr'rem·berg's po·lar'i·scope (nûr'ĕm·bĕrz). See POLARISCOPE, Illus.

nor'rice. † NOURICE.

N

norse (nôrs), n. [Prob. fr. G. nors, var. of nörz, nerz; cf. Russ. norka.] The mink. Obs.

Norse (nôrs), adj. [D. Noorsch Norwegian, fr. Noordsch, fr. noord north. See NORTH.] 1. Of or pertaining to ancient Scandinavia or the language of its inhabitants.
2. Of or pert. to Norway or the Norwegians; Norwegian.

Norse, n. 1. Obs. & Rare. a A Scandinavian. b The king or the people of Scandinavia.
2. Collectively: a Scandinavians. b Norwegians.
3. The Scandinavian branch of Germanic; specif., the language of Norway. See OLD NORSE.

Norse′-A·mer′i·can, adj. Norwegian and American; specif., of, pertaining to, or designating, Americans of Norwegian origin or descent. — Norse′-A·mer′i·can, n.

nor′sel (nôr′sĕl; -s′l), n. [AS. nosle, nostle, a fillet, band. Oxf. E. D.] Fishing. A short line to fasten nets or hooks.

nor′sel, v. t.; -SELED or -SELLED (-sĕld; -s′ld); -SEL·ING or -SEL·LING. To make into or to furnish with norsels. — v. i. To make norsels. — nor′sel·er, nor′sel·ler (-sĕl·ĕr), n.

Norse′land (nôrs′lănd), n. The land of the Norse; Scandinavia.

Norse′man (-măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). One of the ancient Scandinavians; a Northman.

north (nôrth; see note below), n. [AS.; akin to OS. north, D. noord, ON. norðr, OHG. nord, Umbrian nertru left, Gr. nerteros nether, infernal; basic idea: left (with eastern orientation). Cf. NORMAN, NORSE, NORWEGIAN.] 1. That one of the four cardinal points of the compass, at any place (except the poles), which lies in the plane of the true meridian, and on the left hand of a person facing due east; the direction opposite south.
2. Any country or region situated farther to the north than another; the northern section of a country.
3. [cap.] Specif.: a That part of the United States lying in general north of Mason and Dixon's line and the Ohio River. b That part of England or of Great Britain north of the Humber; the North Country.
4. a Poetic. The north wind. b A northerly wind.
☞ In compounds, as northeast, northwest, etc., the pron. nôr-, chiefly nautical, is an accepted colloquialism.

north, adj. 1. [cap.] Designating the northern division of a race or nation, the northern part of a country, or the more northern of two places of the same name; as, North Germany, Germans, Carolina.
2. Northern; specif.: a Situated at or toward the north. b Proceeding or facing north. c Blowing or coming from the north; as, a north wind.

north, adv. To or toward, or in, the north; northward.

north, v. i. To blow from, or turn or veer toward, the north. — v. t. To steer or go to the north of.

north about. Naut. By a northerly route, as, in Great Britain, round the north of Scotland.

North American, adj. Of or pert. to North America or its people. —, n. An inhabitant of North America.

North American Indian. An Indian of the North American continent, esp. an Indian of the tribes of the United States and Canada. See INDIAN, n., 5 & 6.

North Arabic, adj. & n. See SEMITIC LANGUAGES, Table.

North Aryan. An Indianized Iranian language, probably identical with Sacian, the language of the ancient Sacae. See MIDDLE IRANIAN; cf. SACAE.

North Atlantic Drift. Phys. Geog. A northeastward drift of water in the northern Atlantic Ocean, produced by the spreading out of the Gulf Stream proper.

north′bound′ (nôrth′bound′), adj. Going, or prepared to go, north.

North Britain. Scotland; — sometimes so called.

North Briton. A Scot.

north by east. Navig. & Surv. One point, or 11° 15′, east of due north; N. 11° 15′ E. See COMPASS CARD.

north by west. Navig. & Surv. One point, or 11° 15′, west of due north; N. 11° 15′ W. See COMPASS CARD.

North Car′o·li′na (kăr′ō·lī′nȧ), n. A State of the United States.

North Carolina bay or bay tree. A kind of bay tree (Magnolia fraseri) of the southern U. S. with large, prominently auricled leaves and fragrant white flowers.

North Carolina pine. a = SHORTLEAF PINE a; also, its wood. b The loblolly Pinus taeda; also, its wood. c The scrub pine Pinus virginiana.

North Car′o·lin′i·an (kăr′ō·lĭn′ĭ·ăn; 159), n. A native or inhabitant of North Carolina.

North Central States. The States of the north central part of the U. S. in the Mississippi Valley north of the Ohio River and the southern boundaries of Missouri and Kansas, divided by the U. S. Census Bureau into: East North Central States (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin) and West North Central States (Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas).

north country. The north of a country; [caps.] the North of England. See NORTH, n., 3. Hence: north′-coun′tri·ness, n. — north′-coun′tryman, n.

North Da·ko′ta (dȧ·kō′tăn), n. A native or inhabitant of the State of North Dakota.

north′east′ (nôrth′ēst′; see NORTH), n. 1. The point of the horizon or direction between the north and east at an equal distance from each; the northeast part or region.
2. The northeast wind. Chiefly Poetic.

north′east′ (nôrth′ēst′; see NORTH), adj. Of or pert. to the northeast; situated in or toward the northeast; proceeding northeast; blowing from northeast.

north′east′, adv. [AS. northēast.] Toward the northeast.

northeast bird. The northern phalarope. See PHALAROPE.

northeast by east. Navig. & Surv. One point, or 11° 15′, east of due northeast; N. 56° 15′ E. See COMPASS CARD.

northeast by north. Navig. & Surv. One point, or 11° 15′, north of due northeast; N. 33° 45′ E. See COMPASS CARD.

north′east′er (-ēs′tĕr; see NORTH), n. A storm, strong wind, or gale, coming from the northeast.

north′east′er·ly, adj. Pert. to, or situated toward, the northeast; of the wind, blowing from the northeast.

north′east′er·ly, adv. Toward or from the northeast.

north′east′ern (-tĕrn; see NORTH), adj. Of, pertaining to, or situated in, the northeast; northeasterly.

Northeast Passage. A passage by sea between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans along the north coast of Europe and Asia.

north′east′ward (-ēst′wĕrd; see NORTH, -WARD), adv. Toward the northeast; in a northeast direction. — adj. Situated in or toward the northeast. — n. The northeast.

north′east′ward·ly, adj. Situated or leading toward the northeast; from the northeast. — adv. Northeastward.

north′east′wards (nôrth′ēst′wĕrdz), adv. Northeastward.

North Equatorial Current. An ocean current moving westward near the equator, caused by the northeast trade winds.

north′er (nôr′thĕr), adj. & adv. [AS. northerra, adj., norðor, adv.] More northward; also, northern. Obs.

north′er, v. i.; -ERED (-thĕrd); -ER·ING. To turn, veer, or shift to the north; — said chiefly of the wind.

north′er, n. 1. A north wind; specif., a sudden, strong north wind over the Plains, or such a wind in Texas and on the Gulf of Mexico and western Caribbean Sea. Chiefly U.S.
2. A person from the north; a northerner.

north′er·ly, adj. Of or pert. to, or situated toward, the north; northern; of the wind, blowing from the north. — adv. Toward the north. — north′er·li·ness (-lĭ·nĕs; 119), n.

north′ern (-thĕrn), adj. [AS. northerne.] 1. Of, pert. to, or living or originating in, the north; being in the north.
2. [cap.] Of or pert. to the North, or Northern States. U. S.
3. Directed toward, or coming or blowing from, the north.
4. Peculiar to, occurring in, or produced in, the north. — north′ern·ness, n.

north′ern, n. a Obs. Northern men. b A native or inhabitant of the north. c Rare. A north wind.

north′ern, v. i. To become more northerly.

Northern Athens. = ATHENS OF THE NORTH.

northern barracuda. A small barracuda (Sphyraena borealis) of the Atlantic coast of the United States from Cape Fear to Cape Cod.

Northern Bear. Russia; — a nickname.

northern black currant. An erect unarmed shrub (Ribes hudsonianum) of northern North America; also, its edible black fruit, sometimes called quinsyberry.

Northern Buddhism. See BUDDHISM.

Northern Car. Astron. = DIPPER, 3 a.

northern catfish. The Great Lakes catfish.

Northern Cross. Astron. A cross formed by six stars in the constellation Cygnus.

Northern Crown. = CORONA BOREALIS.

northern eider. See EIDER, 1.

Northern English. 1. The form of English spoken in the North of England; specif., that spoken by educated persons born and bred in northern England.
2. The form of English spoken in the northern United States and most of Canada; specif., that spoken by educated natives in the greater part of the United States and Canada away from the Atlantic coast and the Southern States.

north′ern·er (nôr′thĕr·nĕr), n. A native or inhabitant of the north, esp. [cap.], U. S., of the Northern States.

Northern Fly. Astron. The minor constellation Musca Borealis, just north of Aries.

northern fox grape. See FOX GRAPE.

Northern Hemisphere. See HEMISPHERE, 2.

northern lights. See AURORA BOREALIS.

north′ern·ly (nôr′thĕrn·lĭ), adj. & adv. Northerly; also, of speech, as in the north. Obs.

northern mammoth. See MAMMOTH, n.

northern morn or morning. The aurora borealis. Poetic.

Northern Paiute. See PAVIOSTO.

northern parula warbler. See PARULA WARBLER.

northern phalarope. See PHALAROPE.

northern pine. a In Europe, the Scotch pine; also, its lumber. b In North America, the common white pine (Pinus strobus); also, its widely used lumber.

northern race. Ethnol. = NORDIC RACE.

northern raven. See 3d RAVEN, 1.

northern red oak. = RED OAK a. northern redtop. See GRASS, Table.

northern shrike. See SHRIKE.

northern signs. Astrol. The zodiacal signs from Aries to Virgo, inclusive, situated north of the equator. See SIGN.

Northern Spy. A popular American variety of fine yellowish-red winter apple.

Northern States. The North (sense 3 a). U. S.

northern sucker. A sucker (Catostomus catostomus) of northern N. A. It reaches a length of two and a half feet and from the Great Lakes northward is a valuable food fish.

Northern Tehuelche. = PUELCHE, n.

northern water thrush. See WATER THRUSH.

northern white pine. = NORTHERN PINE b.

northern whiting. See 1st WHITING c.

north′est (nôr′thĕst; -thĭst; 119), adj. Most northern. Rare.

north′field·ite (nôrth′fēld·īt), n. [From Northfield, Mass.] Petrog. A very leucocratic, acidic differentiation rock composed essentially of quartz, sodic orthoclase, a little muscovite, and accessories.

north′-fol′low·ing, adj. Astron. See FOLLOWING, adj., 3.

North German Confederation. See GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

North Germanic languages. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

north′ing (nôr′thĭng; -thĭng), n. 1. Surv. & Navig. Difference of latitude, expressed in nautical miles, to the north from the last preceding point of reckoning; — opposed to southing.
2. Astron. North declination.
3. a A going north. b [often cap.] The northland.

north′land (nôrth′lănd), n. [AS. northland.] Land in the north; the north of a country, etc. — north′land·er, n.

north′light′ (-līt′), n. 1. The aurora borealis; — usually in pl.
2. Light from the north, as in an artist's studio.

North′man (nôrth′măn), n.; pl. -MEN (-mĕn). [Cf. AS. northman. See NORTH; MAN. Cf. NORMAN.] One of the inhabitants of the north of Europe; esp., one of the ancient Scandinavians; a Norseman.

north mark. Astron. = MERIDIAN MARK.

north′most (nôrth′mōst; -mŭst), adj. [AS. northmest.] Northernmost.

north′ness (-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. a Rare. North-seeking quality of a magnetic needle. b Quality or state of being north.

north′-north′east′, adj. Lying or situated in, or leading to, a direction or point halfway between north and northeast; blowing or coming from that direction. — adv. Toward or from a point in that direction. — n. A direction or point halfway between north and northeast; two points, or 22° 30′, east of due north; N. 22° 30′ E. See COMPASS CARD.

north′-north′west′, adj. Lying or situated in, or leading to, a direction or point halfway between north and northwest; blowing or coming from that direction. — adv. Toward or from a point in that direction. — n. A direction or point halfway between north and northwest; two points, or 22° 30′, west of due north; N. 22° 30′ W. See COMPASS CARD.

North Oscan. Designating a group of Italic languages comprising Paelignian, Marrucinian, and Vestinian. See OSCAN; INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table.

North Pacific Drift. Phys. Geog. A northeastward drift of water in the northern Pacific Ocean, produced by the spreading out of the Japan Current.

northern pickerel. The pike (Esox estor). See PIKE. U. S.

north′-po′lar, adj. Of or pertaining to the north pole.

north′-polar distance. Astron. The angular distance of a celestial body, measured along its hour circle, from the north celestial pole.

North Pole. 1. The northernmost point of the earth; the northern extremity of the earth's axis. Its zenith is the north pole of the heavens (See POLES OF THE HEAVENS), which is slightly more than 1°, or less than 2 moon breadths, from Polaris. The distance from Polaris is diminishing. In 1930 it was 1° 4′; in 1935 it will be 1° 3′.
2. [not caps.] Of a magnet, that pole which lies toward the north when the magnet is free to move and comes to rest north′-pre·ced′ing, adj. Astron. See FOLLOWING, adj. 3.

North Sea. 1. a See the Gazetteer. b Obs. The Baltic Sea. c The seas or ocean of the Northern Hemisphere; — usually in pl. Cf. SOUTH SEA.
2. [not caps.] See GROUND SEA.

north′-seeking′, adj. Seeking the north.

north shore. A shore or coast extending northward from a given point, as [caps.] from a large city, as Chicago or Boston; as, a cottage on the North Shore.

north side. The side situated toward or on the north; specif., Eccl., of an altar, chancel, etc., the side (whether toward the true north or not) which is to the left of a person looking from the nave toward the altar; the Gospel or cantoris side. Cf. SOUTH SIDE; EAST, adj., 2.

north′-sid′er, n. A person from the north side, as of a city.

North Star. 1. Astron. The star of the Northern Hemisphere toward which the axis of the earth very nearly points, and which accordingly seems almost stationary in the sky; the polestar; — called also Cynosure. Polaris, the star Alpha (α) Ursae Minoris (Little Bear), is our present North Star, and will continue so for several centuries. In 1934 it was distant from the pole about 1° 3′, and the pole is slowly moving nearer to it. It is easily located by means of the Pointers (see URSA MAJOR).
2. = POLE STAR. See ORDER, n., 1.

North Temperate Zone. The zone between the tropic of Cancer and the Arctic Circle. Cf. ZONE.

North·um′ber (nôr·thŭm′bĕr), n. [AS. Norðhymbre, pl.] An inhabitant of ancient Northumbria; — usually pl. R.

North·um′bri·an (nôr·thŭm′brĭ·ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Northumberland in England, or the Anglian kingdom of Northumbria, which comprised eastern England and Scotland between the rivers Humber and Forth, and was the foremost of the Anglo-Saxon powers from about 550 to 670 A.D. — n. a A native of Northumberland or of Northumbria. b The Anglo-Saxon dialect spoken in Northumbria (see ANGLO-SAXON, n., 3); also, the modern English dialect of Northumberland.

nor′thup·ite (nôr′thŭp·īt), n. [After C. H. Northup, who first obtained it.] Mineral. A magnesium sodium carbonate, with sodium chloride, $MgCO_3.Na_2CO_3.NaCl$, occurring in colorless octahedral crystals.

north′ward (nôrth′wĕrd; naut., nôr′thĕrd), adv. [AS. northweard.] Toward the north, or toward a point nearer to the north than to the east or west point. — adj. Situated, directed, looking, or extending, northward. — n. The northward direction, point, or part.

north′ward·ly, adj. Having a northern direction or situation; also, blowing from the north. — adv. In a northern direction.

north′wards (-wĕrdz), adv. Northward.

north′west′ (-wĕst′; see NORTH), n. [AS. northwest.] The point of the horizon or direction between the north and west equidistant from each; the northwest part or region.

north′west′, adj. Of, pert. to, or situated in or toward, the northwest; being in the northwest; proceeding toward the northwest; of the wind, blowing from the northwest.

north′west′, adv. Toward, in, or from the northwest.

Northwest Boundary Dispute or Question. Amer. Hist. A boundary dispute between the United States (claiming under a cession in 1824 by Russia of all her claim to territory south of 54° 40′) and Great Britain (claiming by discovery and under a quitclaim in 1819 by Spain of her title to the region north of 42°), which was finally settled in 1846 by a treaty making the 49th parallel the boundary from the Lake of the Woods as far west as the middle of the channel between Vancouver Island and the mainland, this parallel having been accepted by both in 1818 as the boundary as far west as the Rocky Mountains.

northwest by north. Navig. & Surv. One point, or 11° 15′, north of due northwest; N. 33° 45′ W. See COMPASS CARD.

northwest by west. Navig. & Surv. One point, or 11° 15′, west of due northwest; N. 56° 15′ W. See COMPASS CARD.

north′west′er (nôrth′wĕs′tĕr; see NORTH), n. 1. A storm or gale from the northwest; a strong northwest wind.
2. = NOR′WESTER b. Rare.

north′west′er·ly, adj. That is toward the northwest; of wind, blowing from the northwest. — north′west′er·ly, adv.

north′west′ern (-tĕrn), adj. Of, pertaining to, or being in, the northwest; extending or going toward the northwest.

northwestern anthracnose. = APPLE ANTHRACNOSE.

Northwestern race. Ethnol. A tall subdolichocephalic race with chestnut hair, found chiefly in northwest Ireland, in Wales, and in east Belgium; — so called by Deniker.

Northwest Mounted Police. A police body, constituted 1873, to provide protection in the unsettled portions of northwestern Canada, reorganized in 1920 as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, with headquarters at Ottawa, to serve in any part of the Dominion. It numbers about 1000.

Northwest Passage. A passage by sea between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans along the north coast of America, long sought for by navigators.

Northwest Territory. U.S. Hist. A region northwest of the Ohio River, ceded to the Federal Government by the States owning, or claiming to own, it. A bill for its organization was passed by Congress in 1787, but its actual organization did not take place until 1799. See WESTERN RESERVE.

north′west′ward (-wĕst′wĕrd), adv. Toward the northwest; in a northwest direction. — adj. Situated in or toward, or moving toward, northwest. — n. The northwest.

Nor′ro·way (nôr′ō·wā); n. = 1st NORWAY. Scot.

Nor′roy (-oi), n. [Lit., north king, fr. F. nord north + roi king], or in full Norroy King-of-Arms. Her. See KING-OF-ARMS.

nor′ry, n. [OF. norri, past part. of norrir to nourish (F. nourrir).] A foster child; nursling; pupil; also, a fosterer. Obs.

norsh, v. t. [See NOURISH.] To nurse; to nourish. Obs. — norsh′er, n. Obs.

Norsk (nôrsk), adj. & n. [Sw., Dan., & Nor. norsk.] = NORSE. [Norske Ve′ri·tas (nôr′skē′ vā′rĭ·tăs). See VERITAS.

nort (nŏrt). Dial. var. of NOUGHT.

nor′tel·ry, n. [Cf. NURTURE.] Nurture; education. Obs.

North·amp′ton ta′ble (nôr·thămp′tŭn). See MORTALITY TABLE.

north′east′ern·most, adj. See -MOST.

north′en. † NORTHERN.

north′ern·ize, v. t. See -IZE.

north′ern·most (nôr′thĕrn·mōst), adj. See -MOST.

north′ly, adj. Northerly. Obs. — adv. Northward. Obs.

north′-north′east′ward, -wards, north′-north′west′ward, -wards. See -WARD, -WARDS.

Northumbrian, or North·um′ber·land (nôr·thŭm′bĕr·lănd), burr. See 1st BURR, 13 a.

---

north'west'ward-ly (nôrth'wĕst'wĕrd-lĭ; see NORTH), adj. Situated or leading toward, or blowing from, the northwest. — adv. Northwestward.

north'west'wards (-wĕrdz), adv. Northwestward.

Nor'um·be'ga (nôr'ŭm·bē'gȧ), n. A region along the northeast coast of North America, or its capital city, given on old maps. The extent of the country varied widely.

nor'ward (nôr'wĕrd), adj. Northward. Poetic. — n. The north.

nor'wards (-wĕrdz), adv. Northward. Rare.

Nor'way (nôr'wā), n. A country of northern Europe.

Nor'way, n. [Prob. orig. as pl. Norweis, fr. OF. Noreis, sing. & pl. (F. Norois), influenced by Norway, the country.] In pl., Norwegians. Obs.

Norway haddock. The rosefish.

Norway iron. A high grade of wrought iron produced in Sweden, but usually finished in, and exported from, Norway.

Norway lobster. A lobster (Nephrops norvegicus) of European seas, resembling the American lobster but much slenderer.

Norway maple. A handsome European maple (Acer platanoides) much planted for shade in the U. S. It has dark-green leaves. Several varieties have colored foliage.

Norway pine. The red pine Pinus resinosa; also, its wood.

Norway rat. The common brown rat (Rattus norvegicus, syn. Mus decumanus). See RAT.

Norway saltpeter. Calcium nitrate.

Norway spruce. A widely cultivated spruce (Picea abies), native to northern Europe. It is pyramidal, with spreading branches, dark foliage, and long pendulous cones.

Nor·we'gian (nôr·wē'jăn), adj. [ML. Norwegia, Norvegia, Norway, fr. ON. norvegr, fr. northr north + vegr way. See NORTH; WAY.] Of or pertaining to Norway, its inhabitants, or its language.

Nor·we'gian, n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Norway. The Norwegians are mostly typical Teutons, tall, blond, and dolichocephalic, though in the north there is a considerable Lapp population, and among those in the southwest brunet traits indicate intermixture with a dark race.
2. The language of the Norwegians, which belongs to the Scandinavian branch of the Teutonic languages. In its ordinary literary form it is practically the same as Danish. In its spoken form it possesses three main dialects, the eastern, resembling Swedish, the western, nearer Icelandic, and a coast dialect similar to Danish. See INDO-EUROPEAN LANGUAGES, Table; cf. LANDSMAAL, NORSE.

Norwegian duck or widgeon. The widgeon Mareca penelope. Local, U. S.

Norwegian elkhound. The elkhound.

Norwegian Lutheran Church. See LUTHERAN, n.

Norwegian saltpeter or nitrate. Calcium nitrate.

Norwegian stove. A felt-lined box in which a vessel, the contents of which are raised to the boiling point, is left until the food in it is cooked.

Norwegian whist. A variation of whist in which each player in turn offers to win or lose tricks, bidding grand or nullo, there being no trumps. The first bid settles it. The partners score for each odd trick 4 in grands and 2 in nullos, and game is 50 points.

nor''west'er (nôr'wĕs'tĕr), n. a A northwester. b Eng. Naut. Slang. A drink of strong liquor, as rum. c = SOU'WESTER, 2.

nos·ar'i·an (nŏz·ȧr'ĭ·ăn; 79), n. One who argues that there is no limit to the possible largeness of a nose. Sterne.

nose (nōz), n. [AS. nosu; akin to D. neus, AS. nasu, G. nase, OHG. nasa, ON. nŏs, Sw. näsa, Dan. næse, Lith. nosis, L. nasus, nares, Skr. nāsā. Cf. NASAL, NASTURTIUM, NESS, NOSTRIL, NOZZLE, NUZZLE.] 1. a In man, the prominent part of the face which bears the nostrils and covers the anterior part of the nasal fossae. b In animals, a corresponding part; the snout, muzzle, or muffle.
2. This part regarded as an organ, whether olfactory or as producing or affecting sound.
3. Sense, power, or faculty of smelling; hence, scent.
4. Something suggestive of, or associated with, the nose; as: a Obs. A socket on a candlestick, for the candle. b A buttress of rock, usually overhanging. c A projecting or open end, a beak or a prominent or projecting point, edge, etc., at the front of an object; snout; nozzle; spout; muzzle; as, the nose of a pipe, gun, bellows, retort, shovel, teakettle, shell, molding, spindle, chuck, etc. d Of a gooseberry, currant, apple, etc., the eye. e The bridge of spectacles or eyeglasses. f In a projectile, the end which is foremost during flight.
5. An informer; a spy, as of the police. Slang, Eng.
6. Odor, as of hay; perfume. Colloq. Eng.
7. Short for NOSEHOLE, 2; NOSE PIPE.
8. Aeronautics. The forward end of an aircraft; specif., the part of a fuselage or nacelle projecting in front.
9. Anat. & Zool. The olfactory organ of vertebrates, usually a pair of cavities or passages (the nasal fossae) in the head, which are lined with mucous membrane, part of which receives branches of the olfactory nerves and forms the essential organ of smell. In animals above fishes the nasal fossae open to the exterior by the nostrils or anterior nares (or by a single nostril in some cetaceans), and into the mouth or pharynx by the posterior nares, and serve also as respiratory passages. In most fishes the nasal cavities are represented by small sacs on the sides of the head in front of the eyes, having no function in respiration. In cyclostomes there is a single median nasal cavity, but it is supplied with paired olfactory nerves. The sensory epithelium of the nose develops from invaginated epiblast.
10. Golf. The end of the head of a club away from the shaft.
11. Mach. The projecting end of a tool or machine, usually the cutting or lifting part.
12. Naut. The stem; the piece protecting the stem.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

nose-belled	nose-grown	nose-leafed	nose-pulled nosebone	nose-high	nose-led	nose-shy

— a nose for. A propensity for surmising and detecting. — at, before, or under one's nose. Just or very close in front of one. — in spite of one's nose. In defiance or contempt of one. — nose to nose. Face to face at close quarters. — to bite or snap one's nose off. To speak to or answer one testily or snappishly. — to count, or tell, noses. To count the number of persons. — to cut, or bite, off one's nose. To injure oneself. — to keep, hold, put, or bring, one's nose to the grindstone. To grind down or oppress one; also, to keep oneself or another at hard, monotonous, or servile work. — to put one's nose out of joint. To humiliate one's pride, esp. by a supplanting in the affections of another; also, to thwart one's plans. Hence, to have one's nose out of joint, etc. — to thrust, poke, or put one's nose into. To pry into; to meddle officiously in.

nose (nōz), v.; NOSED (nōzd); NOS'ING (nōz'ĭng). Transitive: 1. To perceive or get the smell or odor of; to smell or scent; hence, to detect by or as by smell; to scent.
2. To confront; as: a Obs. exc. Dial. To reproach (with). b Now Rare. To oppose, or treat insolently or impudently. c To be closely face to face to; to meet.
3. To deprive by trickery or fraud; to cheat (of). Obs.
4. To utter in a nasal manner; to nasalize.
5. To blow the smoke of (tobacco) through the nose. Rare.
6. To remove the noses, or eyes, of. Obs. exc. Dial.
7. To touch or rub with the nose; to push or thrust the nose into or against, as for the purpose of examining.
8. To furnish with a nose; as, to nose a stair tread.
9. To make by advancing the nose or front end; as, the train nosed its way into the station.
10. To lead or drag by the nose.
11. To round off the nose of, as a log or gun barrel.
12. Racing Slang. To beat by (the length of) a nose.

—, Intransitive: 1. To use the nose in smelling or examining; to smell; to sniff; to scent.
2. To pry or search, esp. into what does not concern one.
3. To push or move with the nose or front forward.
4. To act as an informer; to inform. Thieves' Slang.
5. Geol. & Mining. To dip or run in a noselike form.

nose around. To smell around, as a hound for a scent; hence, of persons, to seek quietly and surreptitiously for news, information, etc.

nose down. Aviation. To tilt toward the earth.

nose in. Mil. To shape the nose end of (a projectile).

nose into. To penetrate by or as by poking with the nose.

nose out. a To find out about pryingly; to ferret out. b To defeat by a narrow margin.

nose over or up. To turn over by pivoting on the front of an airplane, as when making a faulty landing.

nose up to. To approach and touch affectionately with the nose; — chiefly of dogs.

no'se·an (nō'zē·ăn), n. Mineral. Noselite.

no'se·an·ite (-īt), n. [See NOSELITE.] Petrog. A nephelite-basalt rich in noselite (nosean).

nose ape. The proboscis monkey.

nose bag. a A bag for feeding grain, mash, etc., to an animal. It covers the nose and fastens on top of the head. b Slang, Australia. The large tucker bag carried by a swagman, usually containing several smaller bags.

nose'band' (nōz'bănd'), n. That part of the headstall which passes over a horse's nose. — nose'band'ed, adj.

nose bit. Carp. A bit similar to a gouge or pod bit, but having a cutting edge on one side of its boring end.

nose'bleed' (nōz'blēd'), n. 1. Epistaxis.
2. Any of several plants, as yarrow, trillium, painted cup.

nosed (nōzd), adj. Having a nose; keen of scent.

-nosed (-nōzd). A combining form of nosed, denoting having (such) a nose. Corresponding adverbs are formed in -ly, as sharp-nosedly; corresponding nouns are formed in -ness, as sharp-nosedness.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

aquiline-nosed	hook-nosed	shovel-nosed
big-nosed	knob-nosed	slender-nosed blunt-nosed	leaf-nosed	smooth-nosed bottle-nosed	long-nosed	snotty-nosed broad-nosed	narrow-nosed	snub-nosed broken-nosed	pug-nosed	soft-nosed crooked-nosed	purple-nosed	square-nosed crooknosed	red-nosed	star-nosed fine-nosed	Roman-nosed	straight-nosed flat-nosed	round-nosed	tender-nosed great-nosed	sharp-nosed	tube-nosed hawk-nosed	short-nosed	wide-nosed nose dive. A head-on dive in an airplane; hence, a sharp sudden drop or fall, as in business, security prices, etc. — nose'-dive', v. i.

no·see'-um (nō·sē'ŭm), n. [That is, you don't see 'em; English of Amer. Indians.] A punkie (fly). Colloq.

nose flute. A kind of flute played by blowing through the nostrils, used by the Sakai and other tribes.

nose'gay' (nōz'gā'), n. [nose + gay in the sense of a gay or showy thing.] 1. A bunch of flowers or herbs; posy.
2. A perfume or scent, esp. an artificial one; odor.

nosegay tree. The frangipani.

nose glasses. Pince-nez.

nose guard. a Armor. = NOSEPIECE a. b Am. Football. A nosepiece of heavy rubber, with straps running around the head, sometimes worn by players to protect the nose from injury during a game.

nose'-heav'y, adj. Aeronautics. Designating an aircraft in which, in any given condition of normal flight, the nose tends to drop if the longitudinal control is released.

nose hitch. A hitch of rope or wire about the lower jaw of a horse, mule, etc., by which it is directed.

nose'hole' (nōz'hōl'), n. 1. A nostril. Obs. exc. Dial. Eng.
2. Glass Mfg. A boccarella.

nose iron. An adjustable pivot assembly in a weighing scale, for changing the multiplication of a lever.

nose key. Carp. A fox wedge.

nose leaf. A leaflike expansion of skin on the nose of certain bats supposed to have a delicate tactile function.

no'se·lite (nō'zĕ·lĭt), n. [After K. W. Nose, Ger. geologist.] Mineral. A grayish, bluish, or brownish mineral allied to hauyne. It is an aluminum sodium silicate and sulphate.

No·se'ma (nō·sē'mȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nosēma a disease.] Zool. A genus of sporozoans (order Microsporidia), the members of which are parasitic in other protozoans and in arthropods. N. apis causes a dysentery in the adult honeybee, and N. bombycis causes pébrine in the silkworm. It is the type of a family, No'se·mat'i·dae (nō'sē·măt'ĭ·dē).

nose'-nip'pers, n. pl. Pince-nez.

nose peg. In some spinning mules, a pin or stud fixed in an arm fastened at the upper end of the quadrant to depress the chain so as to obtain terminal acceleration.

nose'piece' (nōz'pēs'), n. a A piece for the nose, like a nose, or forming a nose; as: a Armor. A piece, often hinged, to protect the nose. See HELMET, Illust. b A noseband. c The nozzle of a pipe, hose, bellows, etc. d (1) The end-piece of a microscopic body to which an objective is attached. (2) A revolving holder for two or more microscope objectives. See MICROSCOPE, Illust.

nose'pinch' (nōz'pĭnch'; 105), n. Pince-nez.

nose pipe. A projecting piece of pipe, as one forming a terminal to another pipe; specif., in a blast furnace, the nozzle of the blast pipe where it enters a tuyère.

nos'er (nōz'ĕr), n. 1. A blow or fall on the nose; also, a wind in one's face; a dead wind. Slang.
2. One who makes noses for machinery.

nose ring. A ring worn in the nose for ornament; also, one fixed in the nose of an animal.

nose'smart' (nōz'smärt'), n. A pungent cress, as water cress.

nose stiffener. Aeronautics. A bow stiffener.

nose'thirl (nōz'thûrl), n. A nostril. Now Dial.

nose'-thumb'ing, n. Act of thumbing one's nose.

nose'wise' (nōz'wīz'), adj. Conceited; also, keen-scented.

no'-side', n. Rugby Football. The end of the game; — from the phrase announcing expiration of the time.

no'sine (nō'zĭn), no'site (nō'zĭt), n. Mineral. Noselite.

nos'ing (nōz'ĭng), n. 1. That part of the tread of a stair which projects over the riser, or any like projection.
2. Civ. Engin. a The end of a bridge pier. b The cast or steel point that joins the two steel guardrails where they meet in the track on each side of a bridge. c The lateral motion of steam locomotives between the railheads due to the alternating thrusts in the cylinders.

nos'ism (nŏs'ĭz'm; nōs'-), n. [L. nos we + -ism.] 1. Self-exaltation or self-conceit on the part of a group of persons.
2. The practice of using "we" in giving one's opinions.

nos'o- (nŏs'ō-), nos-. Med. A combining form, Greek noso-, nos-, from nosos, meaning disease, as in no·se'ti·ol'o·gy. The meanings of words below can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

nosogenesis	nosohaemia	nosophyte
nosogenetic	nosohemia	nosopoetic
nosogenic	nosomycosis	nosopoietic
nosogeny	nosonomy	nosotaxy
nosogeography	nosophobia	nosotrophy nos'o·co'mi·um (-kō'mĭ·ŭm), n. [LL., fr. Gr. nosokomeion, fr. nosos disease + komein to attend to.] A hospital. — nos'o·co'mi·al (-ăl), adj.

no·sog'ra·phy (nō·sŏg'rȧ·fĭ), n. [noso- + -graphy.] A description or classification of diseases. — no·sog'ra·pher (-fĕr), n. — nos'o·graph'ic (nŏs'ō·grăf'ĭk), nos'o·graph'ic·al (-ĭ-kăl), adj. — nos'o·graph'i·cal·ly, adv.

no·sol'o·gy (nō·sŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [noso- + -logy; cf. F. nosologie.] Med. a A classification, or a list, of diseases. b That branch of medical science which treats of diseases, or of the classification of diseases. c Diagnostic character of a disease. d Used with a prefixed word element designating a special department, as in dermo*nosology,* zoo*nosology.* — nos'o·log'i·cal (nŏs'ō·lŏj'ĭ·kăl), adj. — nos'o·log'i·cal·ly, adv. — no·sol'o·gist (nō·sŏl'ō·jĭst), n.

nos'o·ma'ni·a (nŏs'ō·mā'nĭ·ȧ), n. [NL., fr. noso- + -mania.] Monomania in which one suffers from an imaginary disease.

nos·tal'gi·a (nŏs·tăl'jĭ·ȧ; -jȧ), n. [NL., fr. nost- + -algia.] a Orig., Med., a severe melancholia caused by protracted absence from home, as of military recruits. b Homesickness; esp., a brooding or poignant, enervating homesickness. — nos·tal'gic (-jĭk), adj.

nos'tic (nŏs'tĭk), adj. [Gr. nostos a return home.] Paragerontic.

nos'to- (nŏs'tō-), nost-. A combining form from Greek nostos, a return home, as in nos'to·ma'ni·a (-mā'nĭ·ȧ).

Nos'toc (nŏs'tŏk), n. [NL. Coined by Paracelsus; cf. F. nostoc.] Bot. a A widely distributed genus typifying the family Nostocaceae. The filaments are enveloped and united by a gelatinous substance into a generally spherical colony living on damp ground or in the water. These colonies have been called star jelly, witches'-butter, etc. b [not cap.] A dwarf plant of this genus.

Nos'to·ca'ce·ae (nŏs'tō·kā'sē·ē), n. pl. [NL.] Bot. A family of minute blue-green fresh-water algae (order Hormogoneales) having moniliform filaments and reproducing by hormogonia. Nostoc is the type genus. See ANABAENA. — nos'to·ca'ceous (-shŭs), adj.

nos·tol'o·gy (nŏs·tŏl'ō·jĭ), n. [nosto- + -logy.] Biol. The study of the senile stages of an organism or race of organisms. — nos'to·log'ic (nŏs'tō·lŏj'ĭk), adj.

Nos'tra·da'mus (nŏs'trȧ·dā'mŭs), n. One who professes to be a prophet; a seer; — from Nostradamus (see Biog.).

nos'tri·fi·cate (nŏs'trĭ·fĭ·kāt), v. t. [L. noster our + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See -FY.] To accept as, or as equal to, one's own; — of degrees of a foreign university. — nos'tri·fi·ca'tion (-kā'shŭn), n.

nos'tril (nŏs'trĭl), n. [ME. nostrill, nosethril, nosethirl, fr. AS. nosthyrl, fr. nos for nosu nose + thyrel opening, hole, fr. thyrel pierced, for thyrhel, fr. thurh through. See NOSE; THROUGH. Cf. THRILL.] 1. An external opening of the nose, serving also in air-breathing vertebrates as an air passage. See NOSE, n., 9; cf. NARES.
2. Figuratively, perception; insight; acuteness.

nos'trilled, nos'trilled (nŏs'trĭld), adj. Having nostrils.

nos·tril'i·ty (nŏs·trĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n. Prominence of nostril.

nos'trum (nŏs'trŭm), n.; pl. -TRUMS (-trŭmz). [Neut. sing. of L. noster our; akin to Gr. hēmeteros and to L. nos we. See us.] 1. A medicine recommended by its preparer; esp., a medicine the ingredients of which are kept secret; a patent or quack medicine.
2. A scheme, plan, or the like, proposed for the accomplishment of something; a favorite scheme or remedy.

No'su (nō'sōō), n. A Lolo.

-nosus. [NL.] Med. A combining form from Greek nosos, disease, denoting a disease of a (specified) part or origin, as in myo*nosus.*

nos'y (nōz'ĭ), adj. Colloq. 1. a Malodorous. b Fragrant.
2. Sensitive to foul odors; also, given to nosing; inquisitive.
3. Nasal; as, New England nosy talk.

nos'y (nōz'ĭ), n. 1. A person having a conspicuous nose; also, one who is nosy. Colloq.
2. [cap.] In Old Nosy, the Duke of Wellington; — a nickname from the prominence of his nose.

not (nŏt; 71), adv. [ME. not, noht, nought, the same word as E. NOUGHT.] An adverbial particle expressing negation; — corresponding to the attributive no. As used with verbs, when immediately after or before a simple tense or form of an ordinary verb it is now archaic and chiefly poetic; as, "that which satisfieth not"; "all that not harms distinctive womanhood." It is used commonly either with an auxiliary verb or with the substantive verb be, in both cases immediately following; as, "Thou shalt not steal." When used with an infinitive or verbal noun in -ing, it precedes. When preceding negative adjectives or adverbs, esp. those formed nor''west', nor''west'ward, etc. Contractions of NORTHWEST, etc.

Nor·wey'an, adj. Norwegian. Obs.

nos-. = NOSO-.

No·sai'ri (nō·sī'rĭ), n.; pl. -RIS (-rĭz). Also No·sai'ri·an (-ăn). = ANSARIE.

nos'ca·nonge (nŏs'kȧ·nŏng). Var. of MUSKELLUNGE.

‖no'sce te ip'sum (fem. ip'sam). [L.] Know thyself.

nose'burn', n. See BONACE TREE.

nose'gay·like', adj. & adv. See -LIKE.

nose'herb', n. An herb to smell.

nose'less, adj. See -LESS.—nose'less·ly, adv. — nose'less·ness, n.

nose'like', adj. See -LIKE.

nose'ling, nose'lings, adv. On the nose or face. Obs.

nose'thrill, n. A nostril. Obs.

nose'wards, adv. See -WARDS.

nose'wort', n. Hellebore; also, nasturtium. Obs.

nose'y, n. i., = NOSE, v. i., 2. Colloq.

nose'y. Var. of NOSY.

-nosis, -nosos. = -NOSUS.

nos'sel (nŏs'zĭl). Var. of NOSSEL.

nost (nŏst). Contr. of ne wost, knowest not. Obs.

‖nos·tal'gy (nŏs·tăl'jĭ), n. = NOSTAL'GIA (nŏs·tăl'jĭ·ȧ), 156), adj. = NOSTOCACEOUS.

nos'trild. Nostriled. Ref. Sp.

nos'tril·some, adj. See 1st -SOME.

‖nos'tro pe·ri'cu·lo (nŏs'trō pĕ·rĭk'ū·lō). [L.] At our own risk.

nos'trum·mon'ger, n. See -MONGER. — nos'trum·mon'ger·ship, n. — nos'trum·mon'ger·y, n.

no'-sur·ren'der, n., no-sys'tem, n. See NO-, adj., 1st Note b.

with un-, in-, im-, etc., it serves in expressing a degree of comparison less than the positive; as, not unnatural; not implausibly.

— not a little. To a considerable extent or degree. — not but. Only. Cf. NOBBUT. Obs. — not guilty. Law. The words of general issue, used to deny the whole declaration or indictment, in various actions. — not half. Not at all; — ironically. Colloq. British. — not half, or so, bad. Rather good. Colloq. — not out. See 2d CRICKET, n., 1. — not proved, or, now more commonly, not proven. Scots Law. The verdict brought in by a jury who find that the charges made are not proved. It operates as an acquittal.

no'- (nŏt-). The word not used as a prefix equiv. to non-, as in not'-e-phem'er-al, not'-liv'ing, not'-good', etc.

not (nŏt), n. 1. Nothingness; nought. Obs.
2. An instance of the adverb not; a negation.

not, nott (nŏt), adj. [AS. hnot.] 1. Shorn; shaven. Obs.
2. Dial. a Polled; hornless. b Smooth; well-tilled.
3. Beardless; awnless; — of grain. Obs.

not, nott, n. A hornless sheep, cow, or steer. Dial. Eng.

not, nott, v. t. To poll; shear. Obs.

not (nŏt). Contr. of ne wot, wot, or know, not. Obs not, nott. Scot. past tense & past part. of NEED.

not-. = NOTO- (which see), as in notalgia.

‖no'ta (nō'tȧ). [L., imper.] Note; take notice; observe.

no'ta, n., pl. of NOTUM.

no'ta-bil'i-a (nō'tȧ-bĭl'ĭ-ȧ), n.; pl. [Neut. pl. of L. notabilis notable.] Things worthy of note.

no'ta-bil'i-ty (nō'tȧ-bĭl'ĭ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. notabilité.] 1. One who or that which is notable; as: a Obs. A notable fact or circumstance. b A person of note.
2. Quality of being notable; specif.: a Now Rare. Capability; — used of women. b Prominence; distinction.

no'ta-ble (nō'tȧ-b'l), adj. [OF., fr. L. notabilis, fr. notare to mark. See NOTE, v.] 1. Worthy of note or notice; remarkable; memorable; also, formerly, notorious.
2. Easily or readily noticed or noted. Obs.
3. Capable of being noted; perceptible. Obs. exc. Chem.
4. (the older pron. nōt'ȧ-b'l for this sense is still usual among those who observe the distinction in meaning). Efficient; capable; — now used only of women and in reference to household management.
Syn. — Noteworthy, extraordinary, distinguished.
Ant. — Unremarkable, inconspicuous.
— no'ta-ble-ness, n. — no'ta-bly (-blĭ), adv.

no'ta-ble, n. 1. A notable, or remarkable, fact or thing. R.
2. A person of note or distinction; a notability.
3. [cap.] F. Hist. Under the ancien régime, one of a number of persons, chiefly of the higher orders, summoned by the king in emergencies as a deliberative body.

No'ta-can'thi-dae (nō'tȧ-kăn'thĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL. See NOTACANTHOUS.] Zool. A small family of deep-sea, eellike fishes (order Heteromi) having long dorsal and anal fins with both spines and soft rays. The typical genus is No'ta-can'thus (-thŭs). — no'ta-can'thid (-thĭd), n. — no'ta-can'thoid (-thoid), adj. & n.

no'ta-can'thous (nō'tȧ-kăn'thŭs), adj. [Gr. nōton the back + akantha thorn.] Zool. Having spines on the back.

no-tae'um (nō-tē'ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nōtaios pert. to the back.] Zool. The upper surface of a bird's body. — no-tae'al (-ăl), adj.

no'tal (nō'tȧl; -t'l), adj. [Gr. nōton the back.] a Of or pertaining to the back; dorsal. b Of or pertaining to a notum.

no-tal'gi-a (nō-tăl'jĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nōton the back + -algia.] Med. Pain in the back. — no-tal'gic (-jĭk), adj.

No-ta'li-a (nō-tā'lĭ-ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. notos the south + halē the sea.] Biogeog. The south temperate marine realm, bounded by the southern isocrymes of 68° and 44° F.

no'tan' (nō'tăn'), n. [Jap. nōtan.] Jap. Art. The combination of lights and darks; the design or pattern of a work of art as seen in dark and light values only.

no-tan'dum (nō-tăn'dŭm), n.; pl. -DA (-dȧ), -DUMS (-dŭmz). [L., fr. notare to observe.] A thing to be noted, or an entry of it; a note; memorandum; — chiefly in pl.

no'tar (nō'tȧr), n. A notary. Scot.

no-tar'i-al (nō-târ'ĭ-ăl; 79), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, a notary or notaries; done, executed, framed, taken, etc., by a notary. — no-tar'i-al-ly, adv.

notarial separation. Dutch Law. A separation of husband and wife by a contract entered into before a notary.

no-tar'i-ate (nō-târ'ĭ-ăt), n. The office of notary; also, the collective body of notaries.

no-tar'i-kon (nō-târ'ĭ-kŏn), n. [MGr., fr. L. notarius a shorthand writer.] Jewish Lit. In cabalistic phraseology, the art of using each letter of a word to make a new word.

no'ta-rize (nō'tȧ-rīz), v. t. To acknowledge or attest (a document) as a notary public.

no'ta-ry (nō'tȧ-rĭ), n.; pl. -RIES (-rĭz). [L. notarius notary (in sense 1), fr. notare to note. See NOTE, v.] 1. Literally, as among the Romans, a shorthand writer; hence, an official whose duty was to record transactions, to certify the authenticity of documents, etc., as the officials appointed by the Pope in medieval times.
2. Obs. a A noter; an observer. b A notebook.
3. Law. a A public officer who takes acknowledgment of, or otherwise attests or certifies, deeds and other writings, or copies of them, usually under his official seal, to make them authentic, and takes affidavits, depositions, and protests of negotiable paper. He is generally called a notary public (pl. NOTARIES PUBLIC). In England notaries are still nominated by the Archbishop of Canterbury through his Court of Faculties and are nominally ecclesiastical officials; in the United States they are appointed by the governors of the States. In France they are appointed by the president of the Republic, and cannot serve as advocates or engage in any other business. b Civil Law. An official who draws up and records documents and instruments of legal importance, certifies to copies of judgments and records, and protests of commercial paper. c In Quebec, one who draws up and records instruments, examines titles, and does noncontentious legal business.

no'ta-ry, adj. [ML. notarius.] Notable; notorious. Obs.

no'tate (nō'tăt), adj. [L. notatus marked. See NOTE, v.] Bot. & Zool. Marked with spots or lines.

no'tate (nō'tăt), v. t. To put into notation.

not'-at-home', adj. Away from home; — attributive.

no-ta'tion (nō-tā'shŭn), n. [L. notatio a marking, etymology, fr. notare to mark. See NOTE, v.] 1. Etymological explanation or denotation. Obs.
2. a Act of noting; observation; a taking note. b An annotation; a note.
3. A mark or indication. Rare. Fuller.
4. Act, process, or method of representing by a system or set of marks, signs, figures, or characters; any system of characters, symbols, or abbreviated expressions used in an art or science, to express technical facts, quantities, etc.
5. The system of figures, letters, and signs in arithmetic and algebra to express number, quantity, or operations. See Signs and Symbols, Mathematics, in APPENDIX.
6. Music. Act, process, or system of recording music or musical details by means of notes or symbols; also, musical notes and symbols collectively. Notation has been devised to indicate pitch, metrical length, rhythm, tempo, accent or force, harmonic combinations, style, and specific directions about performance. The oldest system known is the alphabetical notation of the Greeks, in which the tones of a melody were represented by letters, variously written, as upright, inverted, etc., to denote naturals, sharps, etc., and to which certain time and accent signs were added. Letters, as now, were used to denote fixed pitch in the later medieval tablatures. The next important step was in the early medieval neumes, denoting relative pitch. Addition of lines denoting fixed pitch to the neumes resulted in the modern staff system, in which a clef gives to lines and spaces their pitch, which may be chromatically altered by accidentals. The original musica mensurata with notes having solid (black) heads is known as black notation. Notation of time values was developed in the system of mensurable music with ligatures, which gave rise to time signatures, while metrical accent came to be marked throughout by the bar. Rhythm may be represented by special symbols (see RHYTHM); force, by such signs and abbreviations as Λ, <, f., p., etc.; and special directions as to manner of performance, by the staccato mark, slur, repeat, pedal sign, etc. Harmony has a kind of numerical shorthand in the system of thorough bass. See STAFF, CLEF, SHARP, FLAT, TIME SIGNATURE, NOTE, PITCH. See Signs and Symbols, Music, in APPENDIX.

no-ta'tion-al (nō-tā'shŭn-ăl; -'l), adj. Of or pertaining to notation.

no'ta-tive (nō'tȧ-tĭv), adj. Logic. Suggesting or indicating the characteristics or things denoted.

no-ta'tor (nō-tā'tĕr), n. [L. notare to note.] a Obs. An annotator. b Rare. A noter; recorder. c One versed in musical notation.

not'-be'ing, adj. Nonexistent. — n. A nonexistent thing.

notch (nŏch), n. [Prob. for otch (an otch giving a notch), fr. MF. oche, fr. OF. osche (F. hoche), fr. oschier to notch, nick, of obscure origin.] 1. A V-shaped indentation or hollow, as in a surface or edge; a nick, as one cut in a tally stick.
2. A narrow passage between two elevations, as mountains; a deep, close pass; a defile; a gap. U. S.
3. Figuratively, a degree; step; peg. Colloq.
4. Act of notching, or cutting notches.
5. Cricket. A run. Now Rare.
6. Logging. An undercut.
7. Weighing Scales. A modified V-shaped cut across the top edge of the beam, defining the position of the sliding weight.
Syn. — See DINT.

notch (nŏch), v.; NOTCHED (nŏcht); NOTCH'ING. Transitive:
1. To cut (the hair) unevenly or poorly. Obs.
2. To cut or make a notch or notches in; to indent; also, to score, mark, record, or tally by or as if by notches.
3. To fasten or insert by means of notches.
4. To cut or chop; as, to notch off hands.
5. To change the position of (a control device) step by step.
6. Archery. To fit (the arrow) to the string; to nock.
7. Forestry. To plant (a tree) in a notch in the soil.
—, Intransitive: 1. To make notches.
2. To become notched, or indented. Rare.

notch into. To fashion into by making notches.

notch up. Mach. To link up.

notch block. A snatch block.

notch'board' (nŏch'bōrd'; 181), n. Carp. The board which receives the ends of the steps in a staircase.

notch carving. Furniture. See NICKING, b. notched (nŏcht), adj. Having a notch or notches; indented; serrate; having the hair cut unevenly.

notched falcon. Any of several South American falcons (genus Harpagus) having the maxilla doubly toothed.

notched wrack. A common rockweed (Fucus serratus) of the northern Atlantic.

notch'el (nŏch'ĕl), n. Only in the phrase cry (a person) notch'el, to give notice as by advertisement, or refusal to be responsible for debts incurred by (the person). — v. t. To cry (a person) notchel. Both Dial. Eng.

notch'er (nŏch'ĕr), n. One who cuts notches; a scorer.

notch'ing, verbal n. of NOTCH. Specif.: 1. Act of making notches; act of cutting into small hollows.
2. The small hollow, or hollows, cut; a notch or notches.
3. Carp. A method of joining timbers, scantling, etc., by notching them, as at the ends, and overlapping or interlocking the notched portions; also, a joint so formed.
4. Engin. A method of excavating, as in a bank, by a series of cuttings side by side.

notch'weed' (nŏch'wēd'), n. Also notch'wort' (-wûrt'). The stinking goosefoot.

notch'wing' (-wĭng'), n. A European moth (Peronia caudana) of the family Tortricidae.

notch'y (nŏch'ĭ), adj. Having, or full of, notches.

not'-de-liv'er-y, n. Nondelivery.

note (nōt), n. [OF., fr. L. nota a mark, sign, for gnota; akin to Lith. ženklas, and to L. gnoscere to know. See KNOW.] 1. A mark or token by which a thing may be known; a sign; indication; character; distinctive mark or feature; characteristic quality; as, a note of the true church.
2. A musical sound; as: a A melody or strain; tune; song. b The song or musical call of a bird. c A tone of definite pitch, as of a musical instrument or the voice.
3. A cry, call, or sound; as, the raven's note; hence, a distinctive tone in style; as, that note of revolt in Goethe.
4. A sign or character, excluding letters, used in printing or writing, as ! or ?; as, the note of exclamation.
5. Reputation; distinction; eminence; as, a family of note.
6. a A brief writing intended to assist the memory or to serve as a basis for fuller statement; a memorandum; a minute. b Usually in pl., a record of impressions, incidents, etc.; as, Dickens's "American Notes." c pl. A writing intended to assist in public speaking; memoranda to assist a speaker; as, to preach from notes; also, a reporter's memoranda; the original report of a speech or of proceedings. Rarely in sing.
7. A brief remark by way of explanation or information; a comment or explanation, as in the margin of a page; a critical, explanatory, or illustrative observation.
8. Observation; notice; heed; as, take no note of it.
9. A written communication; specif.: a A short informal letter. b A list of items or charges, or of particulars; as, a note of box-office receipts. c A written or printed paper acknowledging a debt, and promising payment; a written promise to pay; as, a promissory note; a note of hand; a negotiable note; a bank note (note being often used alone for any of these phrases). d A formal diplomatic or official missive.
10. A joke; as, that's a note on you. Colloq., U. S.
11. Archaic. a Stigma; brand; reproach. b A mark or sign made to identify, distinguish, call attention, point out something to notice, or the like. c A remark or observation, esp. one worth notice. d Notification; information; intelligence. e An account or bill.
12. Art. An artist's rough sketch, esp. of a detail.
13. a Law. An abstract of certain particulars which was recorded in the conveyance by fine. b Scots Law. A short and concise statement used as a pleading in a case.
14. Music. a A character used to indicate relative duration by its shape, and definite pitch by its position on the staff. Notes now have from one to three parts: the head, the stem, and the hooks, or pennants, which may run together between two or more notes. These parts distinguish the following notes in the present general use: whole note, or semibreve, 𝅝; half note, or minim, 𝅗𝅥; quarter note, or crotchet, ♩; eighth note, or quaver, ♪; sixteenth note, or semiquaver, 𝅘𝅥𝅯; thirty-second note, or demisemiquaver, 𝅘𝅥𝅰; sixty-fourth note, or hemidemisemiquaver, 𝅘𝅥𝅱. Their time value may be modified by various marks, as the dot, tie, hold, and staccato. Their pitch value is taken from the staff degree — with its modifying sharp, flat, etc. — on which they are placed. In Gregorian music the older large, long, breve, and semibreve are still sometimes used. See NOTATION, 6. b Inaccurately, a key of a pianoforte or similar instrument; also, an actual tone.
15. Paper Mfg. A size of paper (8 x 10). See PAPER, Table.
Syn. — NOTE, DISPATCH, REPORT. Considered in its diplomatic sense, a NOTE is a formal communication sent by one government to another; a DISPATCH is a communication sent by a government to one of its own diplomatic officers; a REPORT is sent by a diplomat to his home government. See REMARK.

-note (-nōt). A combining form of the noun: note, as in foot*note,* key*note.*

note (nōt), v.; NOT'ED (nōt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119); NOT'ING (nōt'ĭng). [OF. noter, fr. L. notare, fr. nota. See NOTE, n.] Transitive: 1. To notice or observe with care; to observe; heed.

No more of that; I have noted it well. Shak.

2. To make a separate or special mention of from among various items or matters; as, he noted the man's optimism.
3. To record or set (down) in writing; to make a note of.
4. a Obs. To express or set down in or as in writing (as having a certain character). b Obs. To denote; signify. c Rare. To indicate, as by pointing; to point out; to show forth. d Now Rare. To set down in, or provide with, notes, esp., musical notes. e Obs. To distinguish by a note or mark, as of reference; to mark so as to distinguish, call attention to, or the like. f Rare. To annotate; also, to make notes in. g Obs. To charge or accuse, as with some fault or crime (usually with of, for, or with); to brand.
5. Com. To make a memorandum of nonpayment of (a negotiable bill) on presentation; — said of a notary public.
—, Intransitive: To make or produce musical notes. Rare.

note (nōt), n. [AS. notu use, profit. Cf. NEAT cattle.] 1. Obs. a Use; advantage; profit; good. b Occurrence; circumstance.
2. Employment; business; work. Now Dial.
3. A cow's period of giving milk. Dial.

note (nōt), v. t. & i. [AS. notian, fr. notu use, profit.] To use. Obs.

note. [AS. nāt, fr. ne not + wāt wot. See NO, adv.; WOT.] Obs. a Knows not. b Erron., could not.

note'-blind', adj. Unable to read musical notes and other similar characters. — note'-blind'ness, n.

note'book' (nōt'bŏŏk'), n. 1. A book in which notes or memoranda are recorded.
2. A book in which promissory notes are registered.

note broker. Finance. A broker who deals in promissory notes and, sometimes, bills of exchange.

note'case' (nōt'kās'), n. A pocketbook for banknotes. Brit.

not'ed (nōt'ĕd; -ĭd; 119), adj. 1. Specially marked or noticed; hence, well known by reputation; eminent; celebrated.
2. Provided with musical notes or score.
Syn. — Renowned, famed. Ant. — Obscure, unknown.
— not'ed-ly, adv. — not'ed-ness, n.

note'head' (nōt'hĕd'), n. A printed or engraved heading on sheets of paper used in writing notes.

note'hold'er (-hōl'dĕr), n. One who holds a note (sense 9 c).

Not'e-lae'a (nŏt'ē-lē'ȧ), n. [NL., fr. Gr. notos the south, southwest + elaia olive tree.] Bot. A small genus of chiefly Australian trees or shrubs of the olive family (Oleaceae). Most of the species have very hard wood, whence they are known as ironwoods.

note'less (nōt'lĕs; -lĭs; 119), adj. 1. Not noted or not noticed; unmarked; undistinguished.
2. Devoid of musical notes; unmusical; voiceless.
— note'less-ly, adv. — note'less-ness, n.

note of addition. A point of addition. See 1st POINT, 35 b.

note of admiration or exclamation. = EXCLAMATION POINT.

note of hand. A promissory note.

note of interrogation. = INTERROGATION POINT.

note paper. Paper for social notes. See PAPER, Table.

not'er (nōt'ĕr), n. One who notes; as: a Obs. One who provides with, or writes down, the musical notes or scores. b One who takes or makes notes. c Rare. An annotator. d Rare. One who notes a bill.

note shaver. One who discounts notes at an exorbitant rate. Cf. SHAVER, n., 2. Slang, U. S.

note'wor'thy (nōt'wûr'thĭ), adj. Worthy of observation or notice; remarkable; notable. — note'wor'thi-ly (-thĭ-lĭ), adv. — note'wor'thi-ness (-thĭ-nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n.

No-tharc'tus (nō-thärk'tŭs), n. [NL. See NOTHO-; ARCTIC.] Paleontol. A primitive lemurlike mammal with large orbits and 40 teeth, the incisors not procumbent, found in the North American Eocene. It typifies the family No-tharc'ti-dae (-tĭ-dē). — no-tharc'tid (-tĭd), n. & adj.

‖no'ta be'ne (nō'tȧ bē'nē). [L.] Note well or particularly; take notice; — abbr. N. B., n. b.

no'ta-bl. Notable. Ref. Sp.

‖no'tae Ti-ro'ni-a'nae. [L.] See TIRONIAN.

no'tan-en'ce-pha'li-a (nō'tăn-ĕn'sĕ-fā'lĭ-ȧ), n. See NOTO-.

no'ta-ri-ly, adv. Notoriously. Obs.

no'ta-ry-ship', n. See -SHIP.

notch † NAUTCH. [LEAVED.]

notched'-leaved', adj. See notch'ful, n. See -FUL.

notch'-lobed', adj. See -LOBED.

notcht. Notched. Ref. Sp.

note'kin, n. See -KIN.

note'let (nōt'lĕt; -lĭt; 119), n. A little or short note.

notemigge, notemugge, notemugge. † NUTMEG.

no'ten-ceph'a-lo-cele' (nō'tĕn-sĕf'ȧ-lō-sēl'), n., no'ten-ceph'a-lus (-lŭs), n. Teral. See NOTO-.

no-to'um. Var. of NOTAEUM.

note'wise', adv. See -WISE.

not'-go' gauge. See GAUGE, n., 10.

no'thal, adj. [L. nothus, fr. Gr. nothos spurious.] Spurious. Obs.

no'the-less, conj. Nevertheless. Obs.

noth'er (nŭth'ēr), pron. & adj. [an other, mistaken as a nother.] Other. Obs. exc. Dial.

noth'er (nŏth'ēr), conj. [See NEITHER, NOR.] Neither; nor. Obs. exc. Dial.

noth'ing (nŭth'ĭng), n. [From no, adj. + thing.] 1. Not any thing; no thing (in the widest sense of the word thing); nought; partitively (now rare with an adjective), no share, element, part; — opposed to anything and something.

Yet had his aspect nothing of severe. Dryden.

2. That which does not exist; a nonentity.
3. A thing that may be taken as nonexistent; a thing, event, or remark of no account, value, note, or the like; as, airy nothings; specif., a person of no importance; a nobody.

Wretched nothings, think ye not to flee. Shelley.

4. Nothingness; utter insignificance. Obs.
5. Arith. Absence of all magnitude or quantity; a zero.
6. Hegelianism. That which is characterized by utter absence of determination; perfect indistinguishableness.
— all to nothing. By all odds; to the fullest extent. Rare. — *for nothing. a Obs. By no means; in no wise. b To no purpose. c For no reason. d Without cost.

noth'ing, adv. In no degree; not at all; in no wise; as, nothing near so extensive; — now chiefly used with verbs; as, this differs nothing from that.

noth'ing, v. t. To reduce to nothing. Rare.

noth'ing-ar'i-an (-ârʹĭ-ăn; 79), n. One of no belief, creed, or particular sect. — noth'ing-ar'i-an-ism (-ĭz'm), n.

noth'ing-ar'i-an, adj. Do-nothing. Rare.

nothing else but. See under BUT, conj.

noth'ing-ism (nŭth'ĭng-ĭz'm), n. Rare. a A triviality. b = NIHILISM (esp. sense 3). — noth'ing-ist, n.

noth'ing-ize (-īz), v. t. To reduce to nothing. Rare.

noth'ing-less, adj. Unimportant; nonexistent. Rare.

nothing like. See anything like, under LIKE, adv.

noth'ing-ly, n. A cipher. — adj. Valueless; ineffectual.

noth'ing-ness, n. 1. Quality or state of being nothing; as: a Nonexistence. b Utter insignificance. c Unconsciousness.
2. A thing that is, or is as if, nonexistent or valueless.
3. Hegelianism. The state or quality of utter indistinguishableness; total absence of determination or particularity.

nothing off. Naut. An order to the steersman to keep the vessel close to the wind.

noth'o- (nŏth'ō-). Bot. & Zool. A combining form, Greek notho-, from nothos, meaning bastard, spurious.

Noth'o-fa'gus (-fāʹgŭs), n. [NL., fr. notho- + L. fagus beech.] Bot. An important genus of timber trees of the cooler parts of the Southern Hemisphere, differing from the genus Fagus in the chiefly evergreen, smaller leaves, and in the flowers of both sexes being solitary or in threes. They are called evergreen, antarctic, or mountain, beech, and in New Zealand native birch.

Noth'o-lae'na (nŏth'ō-lē'nā), n. [NL., fr. notho- + L. laena cloak.] Bot. A rather large genus of rock-inhabiting ferns (family Polypodiaceae), of very diverse habit; — often called cloak ferns. The fronds are pinnate, bipinnate, or tripinnate, and silky-hairy, tomentose, or farinose.

no'-thor'ough-fare', n. A way having no exit at one end.

Noth'o-sau'rus (nŏth'ō-sôʹrŭs), n. [NL., fr. notho- + -saurus.] Paleontol. A genus of extinct reptiles of the order Sauropterygia from the Triassic of central Europe, resembling the Plesiosauria, but having longer and more slender limbs less completely modified for swimming. It is the type of a family, Noth'o-sau'ri-dae (-rĭ-dē), and of a suborder, Noth'o-sau'ri (-rī), containing also the genus Lariosaurus and allied forms. — noth'o-saur (nŏth'ō-sôr), n. — noth'o-sau'ri-an (-sôʹrĭ-ăn), adj. & n.

no'thous (nōʹthŭs), adj. [L. nothus, fr. Gr. nothos.] Spurious; illegitimate.

no'tice (nōʹtĭs), n. [F., fr. L. notitia a being known, knowledge, fr. notus known, fr. noscere to know. See KNOW; cf. NOTORIOUS.] 1. Information; intimation or warning, esp. of a formal nature; announcement; as, dogs give notice of a stranger's approach.
2. Notification by one of the parties to an agreement or relation of intention of terminating it at a specified time, as by an employee to an employer.
3. Act of remarking or observing; observation; heed; cognizance; note; attention; as, brought to notice.
4. Polite or favorable attention; favor; respect; civility; as, the notice paid to a belle.
5. A written or printed sign, or the like, communicating information or warning; as, to put a notice on a door.
6. a An announcement or written mention, often accompanied by comments or remarks; as, theatrical notices. b A paragraph or article of the nature of a review.
7. Obs. a Knowledge. b An idea; a notion.
Syn. — Regard, remark; intelligence, advice, news.

no'tice (nōʹtĭs), v.; -TICED (nōʹtĭst); -TIC-ING (nōʹtĭs-ĭng). Trans.: 1. To notify; intimate. Obs., exc. in legal usage.
2. To show that one has observed; to make mention of; remark upon; also, to review briefly, as a book.
3. a To take notice or note of; to observe; perceive; mark; heed; pay attention to. b To pay polite or favorable attention to; to treat with attention and civility; to recognize.
4. To give a formal notice or notification to; to serve a notice on, as a tenant. See NOTICE, n., 2.
—, Intransitive: To take notice.
Syn. — Remark, see, note, mind, regard; mention.
Ant. — Ignore, disregard, overlook.

no'tice-a-ble (nōʹtĭs-ā-b'l), adj. Capable of being observed; worthy of notice; likely to attract attention; conspicuous. — no'tice-a-bil'i-ty (-ā-bĭlʹĭ-tĭ), n. — no'tice-a-bly, adv.

notice of dishonor. Com. A notice to the drawer or an endorser of a negotiable bill or note by a subsequent party that it has been dishonored. Failure to duly give such notice in general discharges the obligation of the prior parties.

no'tic-er (nōʹtĭ-sêr), n. One who notices or gives notice.

No-tid'a-ni (nō-tĭd'ā-nī), n. pl. [NL. See NOTIDANUS.] Zool. An order of sharks having diplospondylic vertebrae and six or seven pairs of gill slits, including the Hexanchidae and sometimes, esp. formerly, the Chlamydoselachidae. — no'ti-da'ni-an (nōʹtĭ-dāʹnĭ-ăn), adj. & n.

No-tid'a-nus (nō-tĭd'ā-nŭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nōtidanos having a pointed dorsal fin, fr. nōton the back + idanos comely.] See HEXANCHIDAE.

no'ti-fi'a-ble (nōʹtĭ-fīʹā-b'l), adj. That requires notice to be given; that must be reported; as, a notifiable disease.

no'ti-fi-ca'tion (nōʹtĭ-fĭ-kāʹshŭn), n. [OF. See NOTIFY.] 1. Act of notifying; an intimation or notice; esp., act of giving official notice or information.
2. A written or printed matter which gives notice.

no'ti-fied (nōʹtĭ-fīd), adj. Celebrated; notorious. Now Dial.

no'ti-fi'er (-fīʹêr), n. One who or that which notifies.

no'ti-fy (nōʹtĭ-fī), v.; NO'TI-FIED (-fīd); NO'TI-FY'ING (-fīʹĭng). [OF. notifier, fr. L. notificare, fr. notus known (past part. of noscere to know) + -ficare (in comp.) to make. See KNOW; -FY.] Transitive: 1. To give notice of; to make known; to declare; to publish; as, to notify a fact to a person.
2. To give notice to; to inform by notice; to apprise; as, the constable notified the citizens to meet at the city hall.
3. a Obs. To take notice of; to observe. b To denote; indicate; point out.
4. To annotate. Rare. Scott.
—, Intransitive: To give notice.

no'tion (nōʹshŭn), n. [L. notio, fr. noscere, notum, to know. See KNOW.] 1. A mental apprehension of whatever may be known or imagined; an idea; a conception; more properly, a general or universal conception, as distinguishable or definable by marks or notae.

Few agree in their notions about these words. Cheyne.

2. A view, theory, belief, or the like; an opinion.
3. An inclination or fancy; whim; as, a notion to do it.
4. A fondness (for one of the opposite sex). Scot. & Dial.
5. An ingenious device; any of various articles or wares, esp. small useful ones; a knickknack. Colloq.
6. Obs. a A form, character, or "sense," in which a thing exists or is taken. b Of a word, signification; denotation. c A term or phrase. d Mind; intellect; understanding; also, fancy; imagination; thought. e An invention.
7. Kantianism. A pure concept of reason. Cf. NOUMENON.
Syn. — See IDEA.

no'tion-a-ble (-ā-b'l), adj. Fanciful; whimsical.

no'tion-al (-ăl; -'l), adj. 1. Consisting of, or conveying, ideas; expressing abstract conceptions; as, notional sciences; also, formerly, given to speculation or holding speculative views.
2. Existing in idea only; visionary; imaginary; unreal.

Discourses of speculative and notional things. Evelyn.

3. Given to foolish or visionary fancies or moods; whimsical; as, a notional man; also, Dial., predicatively, of the opinion (that); as, he 's notional that he 'll win. U. S.
4. If, pertaining to, or of the nature of, a notion or idea.
5. Gram. a Carrying a full meaning of its own; having descriptive, as opposed to presenting an idea of a thing, quality, etc.; — distinguished from relational. Thus has is notional in "he has luck," relational, in "he has gone." b Of or representing what exists or occurs in the world of things, as related to the world of actuality; — distinguished from syntactic; as, sex is a notional, gender a syntactic, category. — no'tion-al'i-ty (nōʹshŭn-ăl'ĭ-tĭ), n. — no'tion-al-ly, adv. — no'tion-al-ness, n.

no'tion-al, n. [See NOTIONAL, adj.] An idea. Obs.

no'tion-al-ist (-lĭst), n. A theorist. — no'tion-al-ist, adj.

no'tion-ar'y (nōʹshŭn-ĕrʹĭ, esp. Brit., -ēr-I), adj. Notional.

no'tion-ate (-āt), adj. Fanciful; also, headstrong; stubborn. Scot., Ir., & U. S.

no'tioned (nōʹshŭnd), adj. Having a notion or notions.

-notioned. A combining form of notioned, as in:

lofty-notioned	prim-noticed	queer-noticed perverse-noticed	quaint-noticed	wild-noticed no'tion-ist, n. a Archaic. One whose religious opinions are extravagant notions. b Rare. One who is given to forming notions or opinions. — no'tion-ist, adj.

No'ti-o-so'rex (nōʹshĭ-ō-sōʹrĕks), n. [NL., fr. L. notius southern + sorex shrew.] Zool. A genus of shrews of the southern United States and Mexico, having only 28 teeth.

no-ti'ti-a (nō-tĭshʹĭ-ā), n.; pl. -TIAE (-ē). [L., knowledge.] A list or register, esp. of ecclesiastical sees or districts.

Not-ke'ri-an (nŏt-kēr'ĭ-ăn), adj. Of or pertaining to, or characteristic of, any of several Notkers, Benedictines of St. Gall, Switzerland; as: a Notker Balbulus (c. 840–912), composer and writer on music, who developed and popularized the sequence. b Notker Labeo (c. 952–1022), a teacher and translator into Old High German.

no'to- (nōʹtō-), not-. [See NATES.] A combining form, Greek nōto-, from nōton, meaning the back, the back part, as in notochord, notalgia.

no'to-cen'trum (-sĕn'trŭm), n. [NL., fr. noto- + centrum.] Zool. The centrum of a vertebra when formed by the dorsal arches, as in toads and frogs. — no'to-cen'trous (-trŭs), adj.

no'to-chord (nōʹtō-kôrd), n. [noto- + chord.] Anat. & Zool. A longitudinal elastic rod of cells which in the lowest vertebrates (as amphioxus and the lampreys), and in the embryos of the higher vertebrates, forms the supporting and stiffening axis of the body; — called also chorda dorsalis. It represents the backbone of the higher forms, and serves as a structural basis around which the bodies of the vertebrae are formed. The notochord develops typically from the hypoblast at a very early stage, as a median longitudinal dorsal outgrowth of the wall of the primitive alimentary tract. In the adult of the higher vertebrates it becomes almost obliterated as the bodies of the vertebrae develop. See SPINAL COLUMN. A well-developed notochord is present in the caudal region of larval ascidians, and a structure possibly homologous occurs in the Hemichorda. — no'to-chord'al (nōʹtō-kôrʹdăl; -d'l), adj.

One of the Notodontidae (Schizura concinna) which attacks the Apple Tree. a Larva; b Adult.

No'to-don'ti-dae (-dŏn'tĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. Notodonta, type genus (fr. noto- + -odonta) + -idae.] Zool. An extensive family of moths similar to the Noctuidae, from which they are distinguished chiefly by the venation of the fore wings. The larvae are usually naked and often of grotesque form, having humps, spines, or fleshy processes. Cf. PUSS MOTH, LOBSTER MOTH. — no'to-don'ti-an (-shĭ-ăn), adj. & n. — no'to-don'tid (-tĭd), n. & adj. — no'to-don'toid (-toid), adj. & n.

No'to-gae'a (-jē'ā), n. [NL., fr. Gr. notos the south + gaia the earth.] Biogeog. A realm, or primary terrestrial division including (according to those recognizing three such realms) the New Zealand, Australian, and Neotropical regions. Cf. ARCTOGAEA, and NEOGAEA. — no'to-gae'an, or -ge'an (-ăn), adj. — No'to-gae'al, or -ge'al (-ăl), adj. — No'to-gae'ic, or -ge'ic (-jēʹĭk), adj.

No'tom-mat'i-dae (nō'tŏ-mătʹĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL.] Zool. A large family of rotifers, order Ploima, including the most typical and commonest forms. They usually have a nearly cylindrical body with a slender posterior foot ending in two toes. — no-tom'ma-tid (nō-tŏmʹă-tĭd), n. & adj.

No'to-nec'ti-dae (nō'tō-nĕkʹtĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. noto- + Gr. nēktēs swimmer.] Zool. A family of aquatic carnivorous insects (order Hemiptera) having the back strongly convex and the hind legs long and oarlike. They habitually swim back downward, and are hence called backswimmers. The typical and largest genus is No'to-nec'ta (-tă). — no'to-nec'tal (-tăl), adj. — no'to-nec'tid (-tĭd), n. & adj.

no'to-po'di-um (nō'tō-pōʹdĭ-ŭm), n.; pl. -DIA (-ā). [NL., fr. noto- + -podium.] Zool. The dorsal lobe or branch of a parapodium. See PARAPODIUM a. — no'to-po'di-al (-ăl), adj.

No'top-ter'i-dae (nō'tŏp-tĕrʹĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL., fr. noto- + Gr. pteron wing.] Zool. A small family of fresh-water soft-finned fishes of West Africa and southeastern Asia having the dorsal fin, when present, short and high, the anal fin long and confluent with the caudal, and the air bladder complex. The type genus is No-top'ter-us (nō-tŏpʹtĕr-ŭs). — no-top'ter-id (-ĭd), n. & adj. — no-top'ter-oid (-oid), adj. & n.

no'to-rhi'zal (nō'tō-rīʹzăl; -z'l), adj. [noto- + Gr. rhiza a root.] Bot. Incumbent; — of the embryo in crucifers.

no'to-ri'e-ty (nōʹtō-rī'ĕ-tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [ML. notorietas; cf. F. notoriété. See NOTORIOUS.] 1. Quality or state of being notorious, or generally or publicly known.
2. A well-known, noted, or famous person.

no-to'ri-ous (nō-tōʹrĭ-ŭs; 181), adj. [ML. notorius, fr. notus known. See NOTICE.] 1. Generally known and talked of; widely or commonly known; forming a part of common knowledge; noted; universally recognized; — now usually unfavorable in sense; as, a notorious thief, vice, fact.
2. Evident; manifest; conspicuous. Obs.
Syn. — See FAMOUS.
— no-to'ri-ous-ly, adv. — no-to'ri-ous-ness, n.

No-tor'nis (nō-tôr'nĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. notos the south + -ornis.] Zool. A genus of flightless birds allied to the gallinules. N. mantelli of New Zealand was first known as a fossil bird, but later a few individuals believed to be the same species were found living on the South Island.

Notornis (N. hochstetteri).

No'to-ryc'tes (nō'tō-rĭkʹtēz), n. [NL., fr. Gr. notos the south + oryktēs digger.] Zool. The genus consisting of the marsupial mole.

No-tos'tra-ca (nō-tŏsʹtrā-kā), n. pl. [NL., fr. not(o-) + -ostraca.] Zool. An order of small fresh-water crustaceans (subclass Branchiopoda) having a shield-shaped carapace, sessile paired eyes, vestigial antennae, and 40–63 pairs of trunk appendages. See TRIOPS.

No'to-the'ri-um (nō'tō-thēʹrĭ-ŭm), n. [NL., fr. Gr. notos the south + -therium.] Paleontol. A genus of gigantic herbivorous diprotodont marsupials, of the Pleistocene of Australia.

No'to-tre'ma (-trēʹmă), n. [NL., fr. noto- + Gr. trēma a hole.] Zool. The genus consisting of the marsupial frogs.

no'to-tribe (nōʹtō-trīb), adj. [noto- + Gr. tribein to rub.] Bot. Touching the back; — of flowers in which the anthers and stigma are so placed as to touch the backs of insects and thus insure cross-pollination.

no'tour (nōʹtĕr), adj. [F. notoire, fr. ML. notorius. See NOTORIOUS.] Notorious; infamous. — no'tour-ly, adv. Both Obs. exc. Scot.

not'-out' (66), adj. Cricket. Designating a batsman who has not completed his innings; also, the score of such a batsman. — n. A not-out batsman. See 2d CRICKET, n.

No'tre Dame' (nōʹtrĕ dăm'; F. nô'tr' dăm'). [F.] Our Lady; the Virgin Mary; — used esp. in names of French churches; hence, a church dedicated to her; esp., the noted cathedral of Paris, built chiefly in the early 13th century.

Notre Dame, Paris.

No'tre-Dame' de Pa'ris' (nōʹtr' dăm' dĕ pă'rē'; com. nōʹtrĕ dăm'). [F.] The title of a novel by Victor Hugo (1831), of mediaeval Paris. Some English versions are entitled The Hunchback of Notre Dame. See ESMERALDA; QUASIMODO.

No'tro-pis (nōʹtrō-pĭs), n. [NL., fr. Gr. nōton the back + tropis keel.] Zool. A genus of North American fresh-water minnows. See SHINER.

no'-trump', adj. Without trumps; specif., Bridge, denoting a declaration to play, or a hand suitable to play, without any suit being trumps. — n. At bridge, play or a declaration to play, without any suit being trumps.

no'-trump'er, n. Bridge. A no-trump hand.

not'self' (nŏt'sĕlf'), n. Metaph. That which is other than, or objective to, the self; the nonego.

not'-soul', n. Psychol. That which is other than the soul; hence, material being.

Nott (nŏt), Natt (năt), n. Norse Myth. Night. See DAG.

nott (nŏt). Var. of 3d & 4th NOT.

Not'ting-ham catch'fly' (nŏtʹĭng-ăm). Nodding catchfly.

Nottingham ware. A fine brown-glazed stoneware, made at Nottingham, England, early in the 18th century.

Not'to-way (nŏtʹō-wā), n. One of an extinct tribe of Iroquoian Indians formerly of southeastern Virginia.

no'tum (nōʹtŭm), n.; pl. NOTA (-tă). [NL., fr. Gr. nōton. See NATES.] Zool. The back; specif., the dorsal surface of a thoracic segment of an insect.

No-tun'gu-la'ta (nō-tŭng'gū-lāʹtă), n. pl. [NL.] Paleontol. An order of extinct herbivorous mammals, including the Toxodontia. — no-tun'gu-late (nō-tŭng'gū-lăt), adj. & n.

No'tus (nōʹtŭs), n. [L., fr. Gr. Notos.] The south wind.

-notus. Zool. A combining form from Greek nōtos, meaning the back, as in Camponotus, Pycnonotus.

not'with-stand'ing (nŏt'wĭth-stănʹdĭng; -wĭth-), prep. [Orig. the participle of withstand, with not prefixed.] Without prevention or obstruction from or by; in spite of; as, he went, notwithstanding the prohibition. Notwithstanding was originally a participle absolute corresponding to the Latin non obstante, and is still so taken when it follows the noun or demonstrative pronoun with which it is construed; as in, he persisted, threats notwithstanding. Cf. CONCERNING, DURING.
Syn. — NOTWITHSTANDING, IN SPITE OF, DESPITE are often interchangeable. NOTWITHSTANDING, the least emphatic, implies the presence of an obstacle; IN SPITE OF suggests noth'ing-ol'o-gy, n. See -OLOGY.

---

No'ti-dan'i-dae (nōʹtĭ-dănʹĭ-dē), n. pl. [NL.] Syn. of HEXANCHIDAE. — no'ti-dan'id (-dănʹĭd), n. & adj. — no'ti-dan'i-dan (-ĭ-dăn), adj. & n. — no'ti-dan'old (-oid), adj. & n.

no'ti-fy-ee', n. See -EE.

no'tion-less, adj. See -LESS.

no'tist. Noticed. Ref. Sp.

not'ist (nōtʹĭst), n. An annotator. Obs.

no-ti'tion, n. [OF. noticion.] Knowledge; information. Obs.

no'to-cord. Notochord. Ref. Sp.

no-toire', adj. [F.] Notorious. Obs. — no-toir'ly, adv. Obs.

No'to-rhyn'chus (nō'tō-rĭng'kŭs), n. [NL., fr. noto- + -rhynchus.] See HEXANCHIDAE.

no'to-ri-ly, adv. Notoriously. Obs.

notorious conveyance. Law. See CONVEYANCE, n., 4.

no'to-ry, adj. Notorious. Obs.

No'to-ryn'chus. Var. of NOTORHYNCHUS. [NOT, to know not.]

nott. + NOT, adv.; NOT, to poll;

‖not-tur'no (nŏt-tôrʹnō), n.; pl. -NI (-nē). [It.] Music. = NOCTURNE, 1.

active opposition or strongly adverse considerations to be encountered; DESPITE is somewhat lighter in its emphasis; as, notwithstanding the rain, I shall go; I shall go in spite of the rain; despite his assurances, I doubted him.

not'with·stand'ing (nŏt'wĭth·stăn'dĭng; -wĭth-), adv. Nevertheless; however; yet.

I will surely rend the kingdom from thee.... Notwithstanding, in thy days I will not do it. 1 Kings xi. 11, 12.

not'with·stand'ing, conj. Although; as, I shall go, notwithstanding you forbid me.

notwithstanding that. Although.

nou'gat (nōō'gä; nōō'găt; Amer. usage, at least, seems to be now almost evenly divided between these two prons.), n. [F., fr. Pr. nogat, fr. noga nut, fr. L. nux. See NUCLEUS.] 1. A kind of candy, made usually with almonds, pistachio, or other nuts, stirred into a sugar paste. Also, an ice cream having similar ingredients.

2. A mixture of blanched almonds, pistachio nuts, filberts, and melted sugar, used to line a mold and form a shell; also, such a shell filled with whipped cream.

nou'ga·tine (nōō'gä·tĭn; -tēn), n. A chocolate with a nougat center.

nought (nôt), n. [ME. nought, naught, naht, nawiht, fr. AS. nāwiht, nāuht, nāht, nŏwiht, nŏht, fr. ne not + ā ever + wiht thing, whit; hence, not ever a whit. See NO, adv.; WHIT. Cf. AUGHT, NAUGHT, NOT.] 1. a Nothing; not a whit; naught. b A state or result that amounts to nothing; as, to bring or come to nought.

2. Nonexistence; nonentity; nothingness. Archaic.

3. Wickedness; wrong; hence, that which is wrong. Obs.

4. A worthless or valueless thing or person; a nothing.

5. = NAUGHT, 1.

— for nought. = for nothing b, c, & d, under NOTHING. — to be nought. To go away or be still; subside; — usually in mild imprecations equiv. to "be hanged to you." Obs. — to call, or speak, all to nought. To abuse vigorously. Obs.

nought (nôt), adj. 1. Of no account; worthless; bad; useless.

It is nought, it is nought, saith the buyer. Prov. xx. 14.

2. Obs. a Not valid. b Vile; base; naughty. c Hurtful; bad; unfit. d Ruined; wrecked; lost.

nought, adv. 1. Not at all; in no way. Archaic.

2. Obs. a Not. b Badly; wrongly.

nought, v. t. To account as nought; to annihilate. Obs.

noughts'-and-cross'es, n. Ticktacktoe, the game. Chiefly Brit. nought'y (nôt'ĭ), adj. [From NOUGHT.] Bad; worthless. Obs. exc. Scot. — nought'i·ly, nought'ly, adv. — nought'i·ness, n. All Obs.

‖nouille (nōō'y'), n.; pl. NOUILLES (nōō'y'). [F., fr. G. nudel.] Cookery. A noodle; — usually in pl.

nou'me·ite (nōō'mē·ĭt; nōō·mā'ĭt), n. Also nou·me'a·ite (nōō·mā'ä·ĭt). [From Nouméa, Numea, New Caledonia, its locality.] Garnierite, esp. a dark-green, unctuous variety.

nou'me·nal (nōō'mē·năl; nou'mē·năl; -nĭ), adj. Metaph. Of or pertaining to the noumenon or noumena; — opposed to phenomenal. — nou'me·nal'i·ty (-năl'ĭ·tĭ), n. — nou'me·nal·ly, adv.

nou'me·nal·ism (-lĭz'm), n. The doctrine of the existence of noumena, or things-in-themselves. — nou'me·nal·ist, n.

nou'me·nism (nōō'mē·nĭz'm; nou'-), n. A philosophy concerned with noumena.

nou·me·non (nōō'mē·nŏn; nou'-), n.; pl. -NA (-nä). [NL., fr. Gr. noeumenon thing perceived, passive pres. part. of noein to perceive.] Metaph. a An object of purely rational apprehension as opposed to perception. b Kantianism. An object which is conceived by reason but could not be given in sense experience. c An unknowable object whose existence is theoretically problematic, esp. God and the soul.

noun (noun), n. [OF. nun, non, nom (F. nom), fr. L. nomen name. See NAME.] Gram. A word that is the name of a subject of discourse, as a person, place, thing, quality, idea, action; functionally, any word (except a pronoun) used in a sentence as subject or object of a verb, object of a preposition, or, being a name, in certain absolute constructions or as the predicated element after a copula verb. The older grammarians included the adjective, making a distinction between noun substantive and noun adjective. Nouns are classed as proper and common, the latter including certain special classes called abstract and collective. Nouns may be recognized as such by characteristic inflections (man, man's, men, men's), sometimes also by special derivative suffixes; humanity; adaptation). Nouns characteristically take qualifiers (the wan moon), but in certain inflectional forms and in prepositional phrases they serve as qualifiers (the moon's light; the light of the moon). Words characteristically nouns appear in adjective and adverb uses (a diesel engine; he waited years), called respectively adherent noun and adverbial noun. Any word, when spoken of merely as that word, also the name of any letter, figure, or sign so spoken of, is called a quotation noun. Cf. VERBAL NOUN.

noun, adj. Gram. Nounal; as, a noun phrase or clause.

noun'al (-ăl; -l), adj. Of, pertaining to, or of the nature, function, or quality of, a noun. — noun'al·ly, adv.

noun clause. See CLAUSE, n., 2.

noun equivalent Gram. A word (not otherwise a noun) or a word group taking a construction which is ordinarily taken by a noun.

noun'ize (noun'īz), v. t. To change into a noun.

noun of action. An action noun.

noun of agent. An agent noun.

noun of multitude. See COLLECTIVE NOUN.

noup (nōōp), n. [ON. nūpr, gnūpr.] A high, steep promontory. Shet. & Orkneys.

nour'ish (nûr'ĭsh), v.; NOUR'ISHED (-ĭsht); NOUR'ISH·ING. [ME. norisen, norischen, fr. OF. nurir, nurrir, norir, norrir (F. nourrir), fr. L. nutrire; akin to L. nutrix nurse, Skr. snauti she drips, gives milk, Gr. naein to flow. See NATANT; cf. 2d -ISH, NAIAD, NEREID, NURSE, NUTRIMENT.] Transitive: 1. Obs. a To bring up; to rear; nurture; cherish; also, to nurse or suckle. b To grow; cultivate, as plants; let grow, as hair.

2. To furnish or sustain with nutriment, or, figuratively, with means of support and increase; to supply with whatever promotes growth, development, etc., or keeps in good health; to feed; foster; maintain; support; sustain; as, to nourish rebellion, the church, virtues.

3. Glovemaking. To feed.

—, Intransitive: 1. Obs. a To be nurtured or nursed. b To gain nourishment; to be fed.

2. To promote growth; to furnish nutriment.

Grains and roots nourish more than their leaves. Bacon.

Syn. — Feed, supply. See NURSE. Ant. — Starve, famish.

nour'ish·er (nûr'ĭsh·ĕr), n. One that nourishes.

nour'ish·ing, adj. Nutritious. — nour'ish·ing·ly, adv.

nour'ish·ment (-mĕnt), n. [OF. norrissement.] 1. Act of nourishing, or state of being nourished.

2. That which nourishes; nutriment; food; sustenance.

Learn to seek the nourishment of their souls. Hooker.

3. Nutritiousness; nutritiveness. Obs.

nour'i·ture (nûr'ĭ·tûr), n. [See NURTURE.] a Now Rare. Nourishment. b Obs. Nurture.

nous (nōōs; nous), n. [Gr. nous, noos, mind.] 1. Philos. Mind, esp. the mind as rational; the reason; the highest intellect; God regarded as the World Reason. Anaxagoras was the author of the doctrine of reason or Nous as world principle, though he conceived it as the principle of the order of nature. Plato was the first to free the conception from materiality, making it purely teleological, although it still possessed the objectivity attaching to the nature of ideas. In Aristotle (De Anim., III) the passive reason (nous pathētikos) includes sense perception, memory, imagination, and reflection; but the poetic, or creative, reason (nous poiētikos), the agent intellect of the Scholastics, is the pure reason whose activity is theoretic (i. e., beholding what is divine) (Metaph. XI, 7) of God always and of man sometimes (when thinking "first philosophy," or "theology"). The most important later conception of the Nous was that of the Neoplatonists who distinguished in the One, the divine being, a One above Reason or Mind, from the divine reason. This divine reason, the first emanation or first creation of the Supreme Being, was identified by some of the Gnostics with Christ, as the first-born of the unbegotten Father.

2. Mental quickness or cleverness; ready wit. Humorous.

nou'ther, now'ther (nô'thĕr), pron. Later also adv., conj., & adj. [ME., fr. AS. nōwther, nōhwæther, fr. nō, var. of nā never, not + hwæther whether, either. See NO, adv., WHETHER. Cf. NAUTHER.] Neither. Now Dial.

‖nou'veau' riche' (nōō'vō' rēsh'), masc., Rarely, ‖ nou'·velle' riche' (nōō'vĕl'), fem.; pl. masc. NOUVEAUX RICHES (nōō'vō' rēsh'), fem. NOUVELLES RICHES (nōō'vĕl'). [F.] A person newly become rich; parvenu.

‖nou'veau'té' (nōō'vō'tā'), n. [F.] Something new; — in commercial use, pl., novelties. U. S.

‖nou'velle' (nōō'vĕl'), n.; pl. NOUVELLES (-vĕl'). [F.] News; also, a short story; a novelette.

Nou'velle' Hé'lo'ïse', La (lä nōō'vĕl' ä'lō'ēz'). See JULIE.

no'va (nō'vä), n.; pl. NOVAE (-vē), NOVAS (-väz). [L., fem. sing. of novus new.] Astron. A temporary or "new" star; more properly, a star which suddenly increases its light and energy output tremendously, typically ten thousandfold within a few days. It then sinks, in a few months or years, to its former relative obscurity. Some thirty novae have been observed in our Galaxy in the past few hundred years. The most important are: — No'va Co·ro'nae Bo're·a'lis (kō·rō'nē bō'rē·ā'lĭs; -ăl'ĭs) [1866]; No'va Cyg'ni (sĭg'nī) [1876]; No'va An·dro'me·dae (ăn·drōm'ē·dē) [1885]; No'va Au·ri'gae (ô·rī'jē) [1891–92]; No'va Per'se·i (pûr'sē·ī) [1901]. There are two novae called Nova Persei. They are: a A small nova which appeared in 1887. b An extraordinary nova, first sighted on February 22, 1901, which for one night (February 23) was the brightest star in the sky. By July it had almost disappeared. Since 1914 a considerable number of faint novae have been discovered in the objects formerly called spiral nebulae. Except in brightness, these seem identical with those in our own Milky Way.

No'va Con'stel·la'ti·o (kŏn'stĕ·lā'shĭ·ō). [LL., new constellation.] One of a series of pattern coins, the dies of which were engraved in England in 1783 and 1785, for use in the United States. The device on the obverse was an eye in the center of radiating rays and stars.

no·vac'u·lite (nō·văk'ū·lĭt), n. [L. novacula a sharp knife, razor.] Petrog. A very hard, fine-grained siliceous rock used for whetstones. It is thought to be of sedimentary origin.

no·va'li·a (nō·vā'lĭ·ä), n. pl.; sing. NOVALE (-lē). [L., pl. of novale a field newly plowed.] Scots Law. Lands newly reclaimed; — specif. applied to certain lands not liable for teinds.

No·van'gli·an (nō·văng'glĭ·ăn), adj. [NL. Nova Anglia New England.] Pertaining to New England. — n. A New Englander.

No·van'gli·can (nō·văng'glĭ·kăn), adj. & n. Novanglian.

no'van·tique' (nō'văn·tēk'), adj. [L. novus new + E. antique.] New but yet old. Cudworth.

No'va Sco'tia greens (nō'vä skō'shä). The sea plantain Plantago decipiens. Maine.

No'va Sco'tian (nō'vä skō'shăn), adj. Of or pertaining to Nova Scotia. — n. A native or citizen of Nova Scotia.

no·vate' (nō·vāt'; nō'vāt), v. t. & i. [L. novatus, past part. of novare to make new.] To put something new in place of; specif., Law, esp. Civil Law, to grant or dispose of by novation; to make a novation; to make a novation of.

No·va'tian (nō·vā'shăn), n. Eccl. Hist. One of a sect founded by Novatian (L. Novatianus), a presbyter of Rome, who, representing the sterner portion of the congregation, was elected by them bishop when Cornelius was elected bishop in 251, thus starting a schism, which lasted until the 6th or 7th century. — No·va'tian, adj. — No·va'tian·ism (-ĭz'm), n. — No·va'tian·ist, n.

no·va'tion (-shŭn), n. [L. novatio.] 1. Innovation. Now R.

2. Obs. a Renewal. b Revolution.

3. Law. The substitution of a new obligation for an old one, by substituting either: (1) a new obligation between the same parties; or (2) a new debtor in place of the old one (then specifically called a delegation); or (3) a new creditor in place of the old one. The two latter forms are usually called an assignment in English law.

no·va'tive (nō·vā'tĭv), adj. Of the nature of a novation.

no·va'tor (-tĕr), n. [L., a renewer.] An innovator. Rare.

no'va·to'ry (nō'vä·tō'rĭ or, esp. Brit., -tĕr·ĭ), adj. Novative.

no·va'trix (nō·vā'trĭks), n. [L.] Female renewer.

nov'ciç (nŏĭ'chĭch), n. [Serbo-Croatian novčić, pl. -i, dim. of equiv. novac, pl. novci.] A minor coin of Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina, equal to ⅙₀ florin, superseded by the heller (see HELLER a). See COIN, Table.

nov'el (nŏv'ĕl; -l), adj. [OF. (F. nouvel, nouveau), fr. L. novellus, dim. of novus new. See NEW.] 1. Not old; of recent origin or introduction; newly made, acquired, etc. Obs.

2. New; not formerly known; of a new kind or character; hence, out of the ordinary course; unusual; strange.

Syn. — See NEW. Ant. — Familiar, usual, common.

nov'el, n. [OF. novele (F. nouvelle), fr. L. novella, coll. neut. pl. of novellus. See NOVEL, adj.] 1. Obs. a A novelty or innovation. b Dial. Newness.

2. pl. News; fresh tidings; sing., a piece of news. Obs.

3. [It. novella.] A novella; — usually in pl.

4. [From F. nouvelle a short story, or It. novella.] A fictitious prose tale of considerable length, in which characters and actions professing to represent those of real life are portrayed in a plot; also, now generically with the, the type of prose fiction constituted or exemplified by such tales. Novels usually deal with the passions, esp. love. Cf. ROMANCE.

5. pl. [cap.] Rom. Law. Certain statutes of Justinian subsequent to the Code, now forming the fourth part of the Corpus Juris Civilis. The authoritative text is the Latin Liber Authenticarum.

☞ COMBINATIONS and PHRASES are:

novelcraft	novelmongering	novel-sick
novel-crazed	novel-purchasing, adj.	novelwright novel maker	novel reader	novel writer
novel-making, adj.	novel-reading, adj.	novel-writing, adj.

Syn. — NOVEL, ROMANCE were in earlier usage rather sharply contrasted with reference to subject matter, style, and length; as, "The novel is a picture of real life and manners, and of the times in which it is written. The romance in lofty and elevated language, describes what never happened nor is likely to happen" (Clara Reeve). In more recent usage the distinction is somewhat effaced. Cf STORY, FICTION.

‖no·ve'la (nō·vā'lä), n. [Sp.] A short tale.

novel assignment. Pleading. A new assignment or specification of the cause of action set forth in a previous assignment, as where more certainty or particularity is required.

novel disseizin. Eng. Law. A real action (abolished by 3 & 4 Wm. IV, c. 27, 1833) granted by Henry II, probably in 1166, for the recovery of land from which the possessor had been recently disseized. It was brought by a writ bidding the sheriff to summon a jury of twelve men to declare whether the defendant had unjustly disseized the plaintiff.

nov'el·et (nŏv'ĕl·ĕt), n. 1. A new booklet or pamphlet. Rare.

2. A little novel; a novelette.

nov'el·ette' (nŏv'ĕl·ĕt'), n. [Dim. of novel, n.; cf. It. novelletta. See NOVEL.] 1. A short novel; a story of no great length having the construction of a novel.

2. Music. A kind of pianoforte piece of free form and typically of exuberant character, containing a considerable number of themes; as, Schumann's novelettes.

nov'el·et'ist (-ĕt'ĭst), n. Also nov'el·et'er (-ĕr). One who writes novelettes.

nov'el·ism (nŏv'ĕl·ĭz'm; nŏv'l·-), n. 1. Innovation. Obs.

2. Writing or production of novels.

nov'el·ist, n. [Cf. F. nouvelliste, It. novellista.] 1. Obs. a An innovator; an asserter or favorer of novelty. b A novice or beginner. c A bearer of news; newsmonger.

2. A writer of a novel or novels.

nov'el·is'tic (-ĭs'tĭk), adj. Of, pertaining to, or characteristic of, novels. — nov'el·is'ti·cal·ly (-tĭ·kăl·ĭ), adv.

nov'el·ize (nŏv'ĕl·īz; nŏv'l·-), v. t.; -IZED (-īzd); -IZ'ING (-īz'·ĭng). Orig., to make or render novel, or new; now, to put into the form of a novel; to portray by novels. — v. i. To innovate. Obs. — nov'el·i·za'tion (-ĭ·zā'shŭn), n.

‖no·vel'la (nō·vĕl'ä), n.; pl. -LE (-lā). [It.] A tale, narrative, or story, with a compact plot and a point. The stories of Boccaccio's Decameron are typical novelle.

no·vel'la (nō·vĕl'ä), n.; pl. -LAE (-ē). [LL.] Rom. Law. pl. [cap.] Short for ‖No·vel'lae Con'sti·tu'ti·o'nes (kŏn'stĭ·tū'shĭ·ō'nēz). = NOVEL, n., 5.

nov'el·ry (nŏv'ĕl·rĭ), n. [OF. novelerie.] 1. Novelty; pl. new things. Obs.

2. Fiction in the form of the novel.

nov'el·ty (nŏv'l·tĭ), n.; pl. -TIES (-tĭz). [OF. novelté (F. nouveauté), fr. L. novellitas.] 1. Quality or state of being novel; newness; freshness; recentness of origin or introduction. "Novelty is the great parent of pleasure." South.

2. Something novel; a new, strange, or unusual thing, event, or proceeding; an innovation.

3. Chiefly pl. In the trade, any of a group of small manufactured articles used largely in personal or household adornment and classed together because novel.

novelty siding. A drop siding.

novem-. A combining form from Latin novem, nine, as in no·vem'fid (nō·vĕm'fĭd), cleft into nine segments. The meanings of the following can be understood from the definitions of their elements.

novemarticulate	novemdigitate	novemnervate
novemcostate	novemlobate	novemperfoliate

No·vem'ber (nō·vĕm'bĕr), n. [L. November, or Novembris (sc. mensis), the ninth month of the old Roman year, fr. novem nine; cf. F. Novembre. See NINE.] The eleventh month of the year, having 30 days.

November fifth. See GUNPOWDER PLOT.

No·vem'ber·ish (nō·vĕm'bĕr·ĭsh), adj. Also No·vem'·ber·y (-ĭ), No·vem'bry (-brĭ). Like or characteristic of November; dismal.

November meteor. A Leonid.

no·ve'na (nō·vē'nä), n.; pl. -NAE (-nē). [ML., fr. L. novem nine. See NINE.] R.C.Ch. A nine days' devotion for any religious object.

nov'e·nar'y (nŏv'ē·nĕr'ĭ or, esp. Brit., -nĕr·ĭ; nō·vē'nä·rĭ), adj. [L. novenarius, fr. novem nine.] Of or pertaining to the number nine; consisting of nine.

nov'e·nar'y, n. a A set or sum of nine. b A novena.

no·ven'di·al (nō·vĕn'dĭ·ăl), adj. [L. novendialis, fr. novem nine + dies day.] Lasting nine days. — n. Rom. Antiq. A nine days' festival; also, offerings and feasts for the dead on the ninth day after the funeral.

no'vene (nō'vēn), adj. [L. novenus nine each.] Novenary.

no·vene' (nō·vēn'), n. A novena.

no·ven'ni·al (nō·vĕn'ĭ·ăl), adj. [LL. novennis of nine years.] Recurring or done every ninth year.

no·ver'cal (nō·vûr'kăl), adj. [L. novercalis, fr. noverca a stepmother.] Pert. to, or like or suitable to, a stepmother.

nouch, nouche. † OUCH, brooch.
‖no u'ĕ' (n ōō'ĕ'), adj. [F.] Knotted, nowed.
noued. Var. of NOWED. noul, noule. Var. of NOLL. Obs. exc. Dial.
nould. Contr. of se would, would.
noumbre. † NUMBER.
nou'me·na, n., pl. of NOUMENON. nou'me·nal·ize, v. t. See -IZE. noum'mos. Var. of NOMOS. noun'less, adj. See -LESS.
nouns, Corruption of wounds; — used in oaths. Obs. nou·ra'ghe. Var. of NURAGHE. nou'rice (nōō'rĭs), n. & v. [See NURSE.] Nurse. Now Scot. nour'ish, n. Nurse. Obs. nour'ish·a·ble, adj. See -ABLE. nour'isht. Nourished. Ref. Sp.
‖nous' s'vous' chan'gē' tout' ce·la' (nōō'-zä'vōōs' shăN'zhē' tōō' s'-lä'). [F.] We have changed all that. Molière, Le Médecin malgré lui (II. 6). nouale. † NOZZLE, NUZZLE.
‖nous' ver'rons' ce que nous' ver'rons (nōō' vĕr'rōN' s'kē nōō' vĕr'rōN'). [F.] We shall see what we shall see. [NOUGHT.] nout (nŏt; nōt). Dial. var. of NOWT. Scot. & Dial. Eng.
‖nou'veau' (nōō'vō'), adj. masc.; nou'velle' (-vĕl'), adj. fem. [F.] New; fresh; green.
nov-. = NOVO-.
nov'ar·sen'o·ben'zene, n. [nov- + arseno- + benzene.] = NEOARSPHENAMINE. nov'el·ant, n. [It. novellante, pres. part. of novellare to tell stories.] Newsmonger. Obs. [-DOM. nov'el·dom (nŏv'ĕl·dŭm), n. See nov'el·ese', n. See -ESE. nov'el·esque', adj. See -ESQUE. nov'el·et'tish, adj. See -ISH.
nov'el·et'ty, adj. See -Y. nov'el·ish, adj. See -ISH.
No·vel'l. Var. of NOVEL (sense 5). nov'el·ler, n. An innovator. Obs. nov'el·less, adj. See -LESS.
nov'el·like', adj. See -LIKE.
nov'el·ly, adv. of NOVEL.
nov'el·ness, n. See -NESS.
no'vem, n. = NOVUM.
no·vem'di·al (n ō·v ĕ m' d ĭ·ăl) Var. of NOVENDIAL. no'vem quin'que. See NOVUM. nov'er·int, n. [L., lit., let them know.] A writ; writmaking; a scrivener. Obs.
Nov'-Es'pe·ran'tō (n ō v' ĕs' p ĕ· răn' tō; -rän'tō), n. [See NOVO-.] See INTERNATIONAL AUXILIARY LANGUAGE.

No'vi·al' (nō'vē·ăl'), n. [nov- new + international auxiliary language.] An artificial language, proposed in 1928 by O. Jespersen of Copenhagen, international in vocabulary, simple in grammar and phonetic system. See INTERNATIONAL AUXILIARY LANGUAGE.

nov'ice (nŏv'ĭs), n. [OF., fr. L. novīcius, novitius, new, fr. novus new. See NEW.] 1. Eccl. One who has entered a religious house and is on probation; a postulant who has received the habit in a religious house and is under training. 2. One newly received into the church, or one newly converted to the Christian faith. 1 Tim. iii. 6. 3. One new in any business, profession, or calling; a beginner; tyro. "A novice in the trade." Dryden. 4. In competitions, a person or animal that has never won a prize in the class in which he or it is entered.

Syn. — Neophyte, learner, apprentice. — NOVICE, TYRO are often used without distinction. But NOVICE commonly suggests inexperience, esp. in something to be done; TYRO suggests rudimentary acquaintance, esp. with something to be learned; as, a novice in golf, the veriest tyro knows better; "You must from your years be a novice in affliction, whereas I have served a long apprenticeship to misery" (Fielding); "The management of tyros of eighteen is difficult" (Cowper). Cf. AMATEUR, CONVERT.

Ant. — Expert, master, adept.

novice point. Backgammon. The deuce point in a player's home table.

no'vi·lu'nar (nō'vĭ·lū'nĕr), adj. [L. novus new + luna the moon.] Pertaining to the new moon. Rare.

no·vi'tial (nō·vĭsh'ăl), adj. Of or pert. to a novice. Rare.

no·vi'ti·ate, no·vi'ci·ate (nō·vĭsh'ĭ·āt), n. [ML. novitiatus; cf. F. noviciat.] 1. Eccl. State or time of being a novice; apprenticeship; a place where novices are trained. 2. A novice (in sense 1 or 3).

no·vi'ti·a'tion (nō·vĭsh'ĭ·ā'shŭn), n. Admission of a novice.

nov'i·ty (nŏv'ĭ·tĭ), n. [OF. novité, fr. L. novitas.] Novelty; innovation.

no'vo- (nō'vō-), nov-. A combining form from Latin novus, new, as in Novo-Zelanian, Novanglian; specif., Med. & Pharm. denoting a new preparation, instrument, etc.

No'vo·cain' (nō'vō·kān'; 66), n. [novo- + cocaine.] Pharm. A trade-mark applied to the local anesthetic procaine; hence [sometimes not cap.], this substance.

no'vo·da'mus (nō'vō·dā'mŭs), n. [L. (de) novo damus we grant anew.] Scots Law. A clause sometimes added to a charter by progress granting anew certain rights; also, the charter.

no'–volt'age–re·lease' start'er. See STARTER, 6.

No'vo–Ze·la'nĭ·an (-zē·lā'nĭ·ăn), adj. Pert. to New Zealand.

no'vum (nō'vŭm), n. A game at dice, properly novem quinque (L. nine five), the two principal throws being nine and five. Obs.

No'vum Or'ga·num (ôr'gȧ·nŭm). [L. See ORGANON.] The title of the outline (1620) by Francis Bacon of his scientific and philosophical method, written in Latin.

now (nou), adv. [ME. nou, nu, fr. AS. nū; akin to D., OS., & OHG. nu, G. nu, nun, ON. nū, Dan., Sw., & Goth. nu, L. nunc, Gr. ny, nyn, Lith. nu, Skr. nu, nū. See NEW.] 1. At the present time; at this moment; at the time of speaking; as, he is busy now; also, in or under the present circumstances; as, what alternative now? 2. Hence: a In the time immediately to follow; forthwith; as, I shall write now. b At the time immediately before the present; very lately; a moment ago; as, he was here but now; — in modern use chiefly in the phrase just now. c At the time spoken of or referred to; — indicating the historical present; as, peace now ensued. 3. With the sense of present time weakened or lost, indicating a point in the thought to which there has been a sequence or simply marking transition of thought.

> Come now, and let us reason together. Is. i. 18.
> Then cried they all again, saying, Not this man, but Barabbas. Now, Barabbas was a robber. John xviii. 40.

☞ COMBINATIONS are:

now-accumulated	now-dead	now-known
now-being, n.	now-existing, adj.	now-lost now-big	now-fallen	now-neglected
now-borne	now-full	now-waning, adj.

now (nou), conj. Since, at, or by, this time; seeing that; — often with that; as, now that the snow was melting.

> Why should he live, now nature bankrupt is? Shak.

now, n. The present time or moment; the present; also, a present moment or point of time; as, from or ere now.

now, adj. Existing at, or pertaining to, the present time.

now, interj. An exclamation of admonition.

now. Dial. Eng. var. of NO.

now'a·days' (nou'ȧ·dāz'), adv. [now + a, prep. + day + -s. See AMIDST, -S, 3.] In these days; at the present time.

now'a·days', n. The present time.

now'a·days', adj. Of or pertaining to nowadays.

now and again, or anon, or, Obs., now. Now and then; from time to time; occasionally.

now and (Obs., or) then. At one time and another; from time to time; occasionally.

now . . . again, now, or then. Alternately; at one time . . . at another time. "Now high, now low." Pope.

now'a·nights' (nou'ȧ·nĭts'), adv. On nights of nowadays.

no'way (nō'wā), no'ways (-wāz), adv. [no. adj. + way. Cf. -s, 3.] Nowise. See -WAYS.

now'ed (nōō'ĕd; noud), adj. [F. noué, past part. of nouer to knot, fr. L. nodare. See NODATED; cf. NOWY.] Her. Knotted.

now'el (nō'ĕl; nou'-), n. [See NEWEL.] 1. = NEWEL, 1. Obs. 2. Founding. a The core, or the inner part, of a mold for casting a large hollow object. b The bottom part of a mold or of a flask, in distinction from the cope; the drag.

now·el' (nō·ĕl'; nō'ĕl), n. [See NOEL.] Noel. Archaic.

no'what' (nō'hwŏt'; 258), adv. Not at all. Rare.

no'when (-hwĕn), adv. At no time; never. Rare.

no'whence' (-hwĕns'), adv. From no place. Rare.

no'where (nō'hwâr; 258), adv. [AS. nāhwǣr. See NO, adv.; WHERE.] 1. Not anywhere; not in or at any place; to no place; as, the book is nowhere to be found. 2. Not in any part of a writing or writer's work. — to be nowhere. Slang. a To be badly beaten, or left behind. b Rare, U. S. To be utterly at a loss.

no'where, n. A place that does not exist.

nowhere near or, Archaic & Dial., nigh. Not nearly; not by a great deal.

no'wheres (nō'hwârz), adv. Nowhere. Dial., U. S.

no'whit' (nō'hwĭt'; 66), adv. Not at all; not in the least.

no'whith'er (nō'hwĭth'ĕr; 258), adv. [no, adv. + whither; AS. nāhwider.] To or toward no place; nowhere.

no'wise (-wīz), adv. [no, adj. + wise. See WISE, n.] In no manner or degree; not at all.

now'ness (nou'nĕs; -nĭs; 119), n. The state or quality of existing at, or belonging to, the present time.

Now'roze' (nou'rōz'), n. [Per. nau-roz, lit., new day.] The Persian New Year's Day, observed by the Parsis.

nows' and nans' (nōōz' ăn nănz'). Occasionally. Scot.

nowt (nout), n. sing. & pl. [ME., fr. ON. naut. See NEAT cattle; cf. NOLT.] Chiefly Scot. a pl. Neat cattle; oxen. b sing. An ox or bullock. c A blockhead; lout.

nowt (nōt; nŏth). Dial. var. of NOUGHT.

now'the (noo'thĕ), adv. [AS. nūtha, fr. nū now + thā then.] Now. Obs.

nowt'herd' (nōt'hûrd'), n. A neatherd. — nowt'herd'·ship, n. Both Scot. & N. of Eng.

now'y (nou'ĭ), adj. [F. noué knotted. See NOWED.] Her. Having a projection or curvature in or near the middle.

Nox (nŏks), n. [L.] Rom. Myth. Goddess of night.

nox'a (nŏk'sȧ), n.; pl. NOXAE (-sē). [L., injury.] Med. Anything exerting a harmful effect on the body.

nox'al (nŏk'săl; -s'l), adj. [L. noxalis, fr. noxa injury.] Injurious or harmful; causing, or pert. to, damage or an injury.

noxal action. An action brought against a person to recover damages or compel a noxal surrender.

noxal surrender. The surrender of a person or thing that has done damage to the damaged person, in satisfaction of his damage or injury; also, the right, as among the Romans and in medieval Europe, to make this surrender in full satisfaction of damages.

nox'ious (nŏk'shŭs), adj. [L. noxius, fr. noxa harm; akin to L. nocere to hurt, necare to kill, nex violent death, Gr. nekros dead body, OIr. ēc death, Skr. nāyati disappears, perishes. Cf. INNOCENT, INTERNECINE, NECROMANCY, NECTAR, NUISANCE, OBNOXIOUS, PERNICIOUS.] 1. Hurtful; harmful; baneful; pernicious; injurious; destructive; unwholesome; insalubrious; as, noxious air or food; pernicious; corrupting to morals; as, noxious examples. 2. Guilty; criminal. Obs.

Syn. and Ant. — See PERNICIOUS.

— nox'ious·ly, adv. — nox'ious·ness, n.

noy (noi), n. & v. [For ANNOY.] Annoy; harm. Obs. exc. Dial.

no·yade' (nwȧ·yȧd'; F. nwȧ'yȧd'), n. [F., fr. noyer to drown, fr. L. necare to kill.] Drowning; specif. [usually cap.], a drowning of many persons at once, as at Nantes during the Reign of Terror.

no·yade' (nwȧ·yȧd'), v. t.; NO·YAD'ED (-yȧd'ĕd; -ĭd); NO·YAD'ING (-yȧd'ĭng). To put to death by drowning.

no'yau' (nwȧ·yō'; nwȧ'yō'; F. nwȧ'yō'), n. [F., prop., the stone or nut of a fruit. See NEWEL.] A liqueur made from brandy and flavored with, or in imitation of, cherry or peach kernels. There are two varieties, white and pink.

noz'zle (nŏz'l), n. [Dim. of NOSE.] 1. The socket for the candle on a candlestick or sconce. Now Rare. 2. The projecting vent of anything; a small spout, projecting part with an opening, mouthpiece, terminal pipe, or the like; nose; as, the nozzle of a bellows. 3. Specif.: a A short tube, usually tapering, forming the vent of a hose or pipe. b A short outlet, or inlet, pipe at the end or side of a hollow vessel, as of a teapot or of a steam-engine cylinder. c A spray nozzle. 4. The nose; the snout. Slang as used of persons. 5. A projecting part; a small beak or nose.

Various Nozzles used with Fire Apparatus. 1 Plain Nozzle; 2 Chemical Engine Nozzle; 3 Shutoff Nozzle.

noz'zle (nŏz'l), v. t.; NOZ'ZLED (-'ld); NOZ'ZLING (-lĭng). To furnish with a nozzle; also, to press the nozzle or nose against. — v. i. To push the nozzle or beak about.

noz'zle. Var. of NUZZLE.

noz'zler (nŏz'lĕr), n. A blow on the nose. Slang.

NRA. See NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY ACT.

N radiation. Physics. X rays emitted when an electron becomes an N electron.

N series. Physics. See K SERIES.

N star. See SPECTRAL TYPE.

N station. Radio. A station constantly ready for service.

nth (ĕnth), adj. Denoting an ordinal corresponding to n. Hence, of any required size of figure; indefinitely large or little. See N, 5.

nth degree. Math. An indefinite power.

— to the nth degree. To an extreme.

n'–tu·ple (ĕn'tū·p'l), adj. Math. Multiple in the degree denoted by n; — formed after analogy of quintuple, etc. — n'–tu·ply (-plĭ), adv.

nu (nū; nū), n. [Gr. ny.] 1. The thirteenth letter (N, ν) of the Greek alphabet, equivalent to Eng. n. 2. a An instance of this letter written, printed, etc. b As a numeral, 50. Cf. GREEK NUMERAL. 3. Used variously, often in the form N, ν, for classifying, as [cap.] Astron., to designate some star, usually the thirteenth brightest, of a constellation.

Nu (nōō), n. Egypt. Myth. In Egyptian cosmogony, the primeval fluid or chaos out of which the world was created, personified as a god. Cf. CHAOS, 2; TIAMAT.

Nu'a·da, Nu'a·du (nōō'ȧ·thȧ; nōō'ȧ), n. Celt. Myth. The Irish counterpart of the Gaulish divinity whose name is found in Celtic-Latin inscriptions as Nodons, Nodens, and Nudens, probably the equivalent of the Brythonic Lludd. In Irish legend he was a king of the Tuatha De Danann.

nown, nowne. ✝ NOON, NOUN, OWN.

now'ness. Var. of NOUGHTNESS.

now'ra. Obs. aphetic form of ANNOYANCE.

noy'ant, adj. [OF. anoiant, pres. part. See ANNOY, v.] Injurious; mischievous. Obs. [NOYAU.]

no'yeau' (n w ȧ' y ō'). Var. of NOY'FUL, adj. Full of annoyance; also, injurious; harmful. Obs.

noyl. Var. of NOIL.

noy'ous, adj. [FOR ANNOYOUS.] Annoying; also, noxious. Obs. — noy'ous·ly, adv. Obs. — noy'ous·ness, n. Obs.

No'zi, n. = YANAN.

noz'l. Nozzle. Ref. Sp.

noz'le. Var. of NOZZLE.

Noz'ze di Fi'ga·ro, Le (lē nōt'sē dē fē'gȧ·rō). Scot. var. of NOOK.

nuance' (nū·ăns', nū'ăns; F. nü'ăns'; 277), n.; pl. NUANCES (nū·ăn'sĕz, -sĭz; F. nü'ăns'). [F.] 1. A shade of difference; a slight variation or difference, as in expression, feeling, color, or tone; a delicate gradation. 2. Music. In a performance, a subtle variation in tempo, dynamics, or timbre not indicated in the score.

nu·ance' (nū·ăns'), v. t.; NU·ANCED' (-ănst'); NU·ANC'ING (-ăn'sĭng). To express with nicety or fine precision; to sketch or outline in delicate shades, in gradations of colors, contours, etc.

nub (nŭb), n. [Cf. Dan. knub block, log, LG. knubbe knot, and E. KNUB, KNOB.] 1. = KNUB, 2. 2. A knob or knot; a protuberance; knub; lump. 3. The point or gist, as of a story. Colloq., U. S. 4. The neck; also, the gallows. Obs. Cant.

nub (nŭb), v. t. 1. To break or snub off at the nub. Colloq. 2. To hang. Obs. Cant.

nub, n. & v. t. [Var. of KNUB to nudge.] Nudge; knub. Dial.

Nu'ba (nōō'bȧ), n. sing. & pl. 1. A Nubian; also, one of a Negro tribe of South Kordofan related to the Nubians. 2. The Negro language of the Nuba, with many dialects, and with Nilotic affinities; — called also Berberi, Berberian.

nub'bin (nŭb'ĭn), n. [From NUB.] Chiefly U. S. a Any small or imperfect ear of Indian corn. b Any imperfect or undeveloped fruit. c A tree stump. d Any small projecting bit.

nubbin disease. Cucumber mosaic.

nub'ble (nŭb'l), n. [Dim. of NUB.] A small knob, lump, or excrescence; often, locally, a knoblike islet.

nub'bling (nŭb'lĭn), n. A small lump of coal. Dial. Eng.

nub'bly (nŭb'lĭ), adj. Having or like nubbles; knobby.

nu·bec'u·la (nū·bĕk'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., dim. of nubes cloud; akin to W. nudd mist.] 1. Med. A cloudy formation or speck. 2. Astron. a A nebula. b pl. [cap.] Specif., the two Magellanic Clouds (which see), called respectively nubecula major and nubecula minor.

nubi-. A combining form, Latin nubi-, from nubes, cloud, as in nu·bif'er·ous, nu'bi·form, nu·big'e·nous.

nu'bi·a (nū'bĭ·ȧ), n. [L. nubes cloud.] A light fleecy wrap worn over the head and neck by women; a cloud.

Nu'bi·an (-ăn), adj. Of or pert. to Nubia, in eastern Africa.

Nu'bi·an, n. 1. One of the people of Nubia; esp., a member of one of the group of Negroid tribes who were early Christianized and formed a powerful empire between Egypt and Abyssinia from the 6th to the 14th century, when they were conquered by the Arabs and converted to Mohammedanism. Their autonym is Barabra. Also, the Negro language of the Nubians; Nuba. 2. a Also Nubian horse. An Arabian horse from Nubia. b A breed of milch goats (Nubian goat) of northern Africa having a Roman nose. They are bright brown to black in color, and the does are relatively heavy milkers.

Nubian afterglow. A secondary twilight sometimes seen in the Nubian desert, caused by re-reflection of rays dispersed through the atmosphere in the primary twilight.

Nubian sandstone. Geol. A widespread North African sandstone which rests generally on ancient crystalline rocks and is overlain by Eocene formations. It is supposed to be, in part at least, Cretaceous.

nu'bi·late (nū'bĭ·lāt), v. t. [L. nubilatus, past part.] To cloud; obscure. — nu'bi·la'tion (-lā'shŭn), n.

nu'bile (nū'bĭl), adj. [F. or L.; F. nubile, fr. L. nubilis, fr. nubere to marry. See NUPTIAL.] Marriageable; — said of females, or of age. — nu·bil'i·ty (nū·bĭl'ĭ·tĭ), n.

nu'bi·lous (nū'bĭ·lŭs), adj. [L. nubilus, fr. nubes cloud.] Cloudy; foggy; misty; figuratively, obscure; vague.

nubilous star. A nebulous star. Rare.

Nu'bi·lum (nū'bĭ·lŭm), n. [L., cloud, cloudy sky, neut. of nubilus cloudy.] Astron. A coarse, extended cluster of stars in the constellation Cancer (in the head of the Crab); Praesepe.

nub yarn. A kind of yarn with recurring twists or knots, used in weaving chinchilla, ratiné, etc.

nu'cal (nū'kăl), adj. [LL. nucalis.] Of or pert. to a nut.

nu'ca·ment (nū'kȧ·mĕnt), n. [L. nucamenta for cones, fr. nux, nucis, a nut.] Bot. Ament. — nu'ca·men·ta'ceous (-mĕn·tā'shŭs), adj.

nu·cel'lar (nū·sĕl'ĕr), adj. Bot. Of or pert. to the nucellus.

nu·cel'lus (-lŭs), n.; pl. -LI (-ī). [NL., fr. L. nucella, dim. of nux, nucis, a nut. See NUCLEUS.] Bot. The mass of thin-walled parenchymatous cells composing the central and chief part of the body of an ovule. It contains the embryo sac, and is surrounded by the external coats of the ovule. See OVULE.

nu'cha (nū'kȧ), n.; pl. NUCHAE (-kē). [ML. (whence F. nuque), fr. Ar. nukhā' spinal marrow.] 1. Anat. a Obs. The spinal cord. b The nape of the neck. 2. Zool. In insects, the hind part of the thorax which bears the petiole of the abdomen.

nu'chal (nū'kăl), adj. [Cf. F. nucal. See NUCHA.] Anat. & Zool. Pertaining to, or in the region of, the back, or nape, of the neck; in insects, situated on the back of the prothorax just behind the head; also, pertaining to the nucha.

nu'chal (nū'kăl), nu·cha'le (nū·kā'lē), n. Zool. A nuchal element, as a scale or bone.

nu·chal'gi·a (nū·kăl'jĭ·ȧ), n. [NL. See NUCHA; -ALGIA.] Med. Pain in the back of the neck.

nuchal ligament. The ligamentum nuchae.

nuchal lines. See OCCIPITAL BONE.

nuci-. [See NUCLEUS.] A combining form, Latin nuci-, from nux, nucis, meaning nut, as in nu'ci·cul'ture, nu·cif'er·ous, nu'ci·form, nu·cif'o·rous. See CULTURE, etc.

nu'cle·al (nū'klē·ăl), adj. Nuclear.

nu'cle·ar (nū'klē·ĕr), adj. 1. Of, pertaining to, constituting, or like, a nucleus. 2. Chem. Designating atoms or groups attached directly to a nucleus or ring. Cf. SIDE CHAIN. See NUCLEUS.

nuclear atom. See ATOMIC MODEL.

nuclear complex. Psychoanalysis. The Oedipus complex, regarded as the nucleus of the neuroses.

nuclear membrane. Biol. See NUCLEUS, 7.

nuclear plate. Biol. a The equatorial plate. b The dividing wall of the nucleus in free cell formation. c The wall that divides the nucleus in some forms of amitosis.

nov'ice·hood, n. See -HOOD. nov'ice·like', adj. See -LIKE.
nov'ice·ry, n. [OF. noviceric.] Novitiate. Obs. nov'ice·ship, n. = NOVITIATE, 1. no·vi'ci·ate (nō·vĭsh'ĭ·ĭt), no·vi'ci·a'tion (-ā'shŭn), etc. Vars. of NOVITIATE, etc. novilant. ✝ NOVELANT. [Obs.] novist, n. Novice; innovator.
no·vi'ti·ate·ship', n. See -SHIP.
no·vi'tious (nō·vĭsh'ŭs), adj. [L. novitius, novicius.] Newly invented; recent; new. Obs. no'vus (L.) Literally, a new man; the first of a Roman family to obtain a curule office; hence, a man newly ennobled; an upstart.
now'a·day', adv. = NOWADAYS. now'der. Dial. var. of NOUTHER. nowe. ✝ NEW, NOW. now'ey. Var. of NOWY. no'where'ness, n. See -NESS. no'wise'. Nowise. Ref. Sp. nowl. Var. of NOLL. New Dial.
nu·ance' (nū·ăns', nū'ăns; F. nü'ăns'; 277), n.; pl. NUANCES (nū·ăn'sĕz, -sĭz; F. nü'ăns'). [F.] 1. A shade of difference; a slight variation or difference, as in expression, feeling, color, or tone; a delicate gradation. 2. Music. In a performance, a subtle variation in tempo, dynamics, or timbre not indicated in the score.
nu·ance' (nū·ăns'), v. t.; NU·ANCED' (-ănst'); NU·ANC'ING (-ăn'sĭng). To express with nicety or fine precision; to sketch or outline in delicate shades, in gradations of colors, contours, etc.
nub (nŭb), n. [Cf. Dan. knub block, log, LG. knubbe knot, and E. KNUB, KNOB.] 1. = KNUB, 2. 2. A knob or knot; a protuberance; knub; lump. 3. The point or gist, as of a story. Colloq., U. S. 4. The neck; also, the gallows. Obs. Cant.
nub (nŭb), v. t. 1. To break or snub off at the nub. Colloq. 2. To hang. Obs. Cant.
nub, n. & v. t. [Var. of KNUB to nudge.] Nudge; knub. Dial.
Nu'ba (nōō'bȧ), n. sing. & pl. 1. A Nubian; also, one of a Negro tribe of South Kordofan related to the Nubians. 2. The Negro language of the Nuba, with many dialects, and with Nilotic affinities; — called also Berberi, Berberian.
nub'bin (nŭb'ĭn), n. [From NUB.] Chiefly U. S. a Any small or imperfect ear of Indian corn. b Any imperfect or undeveloped fruit. c A tree stump. d Any small projecting bit.
nubbin disease. Cucumber mosaic.
nub'ble (nŭb'l), n. [Dim. of NUB.] A small knob, lump, or excrescence; often, locally, a knoblike islet.
nub'bling (nŭb'lĭn), n. A small lump of coal. Dial. Eng.
nub'bly (nŭb'lĭ), adj. Having or like nubbles; knobby.
nu·bec'u·la (nū·bĕk'ū·lȧ), n.; pl. -LAE (-lē). [L., dim. of nubes cloud; akin to W. nudd mist.] 1. Med. A cloudy formation or speck. 2. Astron. a A nebula. b pl. [cap.] Specif., the two Magellanic Clouds (which see), called respectively nubecula major and nubecula minor.
nubi-. A combining form, Latin nubi-, from nubes, cloud, as in nu·bif'er·ous, nu'bi·form, nu·big'e·nous.
nu'bi·a (nū'bĭ·ȧ), n. [L. nubes cloud.] A light fleecy wrap worn over the head and neck by women; a cloud.
Nu'bi·an (-ăn), adj. Of or pert. to Nubia, in eastern Africa.
Nu'bi·an, n. 1. One of the people of Nubia; esp., a member of one of the group of Negroid tribes who were early Christianized and formed a powerful empire between Egypt and Abyssinia from the 6th to the 14th century, when they were conquered by the Arabs and converted to Mohammedanism. Their autonym is Barabra. Also, the Negro language of the Nubians; Nuba. 2. a Also Nubian horse. An Arabian horse from Nubia. b A breed of milch goats (Nubian goat) of northern Africa having a Roman nose. They are bright brown to black in color, and the does are relatively heavy milkers.
